Build more factories for development of import-substitute industries

The opening ceremony of a 50-ton pulp factory and an 80-ton packing paper factory of Myanmar Paper and Chemical Industries under the Ministry of Industry-1 was held in Yedashe Township, Bago Division, on 26 May, and it was attended by Prime Minister General Thein Sein.

The factories were built near Yeni No-2 paper factory and they will be able to produce pulp for newsprint and packing paper with the effective use of natural resources, paving the way for development of the import-substitute industry. Building more factories like this will bring about regional development and create job opportunities for local people. The newly-opened factories will be able to produce 50 tons of pulp and 80 tons of packing paper per day. To keep a balanced ratio between expenditure and income, it is necessary to operate the machines to their full capacity, to train workers to become skilled in their respective work and to keep raw materials necessary for the factories always in stock.

With the increase in population, the demand for newspapers has become greater. For this, large amounts of pulp will have to be produced. In the same way, the increase in the number of cement plants will call for production of more packing paper. The factories were built not only to meet the domestic requirements but also to export the surplus.

To establish an industrial nation, the government is building more and more factories. This will contribute to import-substitute industries. Moreover, local workers will be able to operate modern machines and gain experience and knowledge about modern production techniques.

Canada forecasts deficit will top $50 billion

OTTAWA, 27 May—Canada will run its biggest-ever deficit this year of more than $50 billion because of the deep economic recession, Finance Minister Jim Flaherty said on Tuesday.

Flaherty raised his estimate from the $33.7 billion shortfall he forecast in January’s budget. The deficit will be the country’s first after more than a decade of budget surpluses.

“We are going through a deeper economic slowdown than anticipated,” Flaherty said. He blamed lower tax revenues and higher jobless benefits being paid out by Ottawa as “to be expected”, in the downturn.

But a bailout of General Motors and Chrysler will put even more pressure on the government’s books.

“We are also seeing the substantial auto payments that are going to be required. As a result of all of that, we will run a substantial short-term deficit this year which I would estimate at more than $50 billion,” he told reporters.

Cuba sounds summer energy alarm, plans blackouts

HAVANA, 27 May—Cubans are in for an especially hot summer under an energy saving plan that could shut off air conditioners at work and require Saturday-morning blackouts at home, according to an unpublished government directive obtained by The Associated Press.

The plan, signed by new Economics Minister Marino Murillo and circulating on Tuesday among government offices and state companies, also calls for large-scale vacations for government workers but doesn’t say if they will be paid.

The measures are necessary, it says, to conserve petroleum used to generate electricity during the Caribbean nation’s sweltering summer months.

Residential electrical use can often triple in the summer because of fans and air conditioners.

NZ zookeeper mauled to death by rare white tiger

WELLINGTON, 27 May—An animal keeper was mauled to death Wednesday by a rare white tiger at a wildlife park in New Zealand while visitors watched in horror, police said.

The tiger was killed because it wouldn’t release the keeper’s body.

The keeper was attacked after he and a colleague entered the cage at Zion Wildlife Park on New Zealand’s North Island to clean it, police spokeswoman Sarah Kennedy said.

“Despite the best efforts of the second keeper and a rapid response from other wildlife park staff, the tiger would not let the park worker go,” Kennedy said in a statement.

The tiger was killed to remove the body, police inspector Paul Dimmery told National Radio.

Financial crisis affects Russia in “moderately negative” way

MOSCOW, 27 May—The ongoing global financial crisis is developing in a “moderately negative” way in Russia, said Russian President Dmitry Medvedev on Tuesday.

“I believe everything is going quite well,” the Interfax news agency quoted Medvedev as saying during a meeting with business leaders.

“I should note that if they think so,” he said.

Russia’s gross domestic product (GDP) contracted by 9.5 percent year-on-year in the first quarter of 2009, according to official statistics.

Andrei Klepach, a deputy economic development minister, said in April that Russia’s GDP may tumble 8.7 percent to 10 percent in the second quarter of this year, while the whole year may see a 6 percent drop of the GDP.

The International Monetary Fund forecast in April that Russian economy will plunge 6 percent in 2009 but grow 0.5 percent in 2010.

Oil hovers above $62 on optimism about economy

PERTH, 27 May—Oil hovered little changed near a six-month high above $62 a barrel on Wednesday, as a jump in US consumer confidence and signs of modest recovery in Japanese exports buoyed hopes that oil demand would rebound as the global economy recovers.

Oil gained over 1 per cent on Tuesday, bolstered by the US data and comments from OPEC’s Ungarn Saudi Arabia that prices may continue to rise.

US crude oil for July delivery edged down 6 cents to $62.39 a barrel by 0455 GMT (12:55 am EDT) on Wednesday, after having hit a fresh six-month high of $62.95 in early trade. The contract settled at $62.45 a barrel on Tuesday — its highest close since 5 November.

London Brent crude fell 4 cents to $61.20. “Oil is being supported by the US consumer confidence data,” said David Moore, a commodities analyst at the Commonwealth Bank of Australia.

The US and Japanese data boosted hopes the world is emerging from its worst financial crisis in decades, reigniting a rally in stocks and other riskier assets. Even though a recovery appears fragile, Asian shares rose on Wednesday to their highest level in more than seven months amid improving investor confidence.

IBM earns mark of $3 billion for Europe and Asia stimulus

IBM Global Financing had $3.86 billion tied up in projects as of end-2008, in the form of measures like project and commercial financing and asset leasing in the public and private sectors.

Its most recent push comes as other infrastructure providers such as telecommunications equipment suppliers Ericsson and ZTE are increasingly providing vendor financing for cash-strapped customers amid global recession.

IBM is now offering low interest rates, deferred payments and structured credit for projects such as the development of congestion-charging schemes in inner urban areas, or health-information technology, as well as for smaller ventures.

Oil and gas workers are likely to receive government funds under a “moderately negative” outlook for the Russian economy this year, Medvedev as saying during a meeting with business leaders.

UK budget to be moderately negative

LONDON, 27 May—UK budget will be moderately negative, according to official statistics.

Andrei Klepach, a deputy economic development minister, said in April that Russia’s GDP may tumble 8.7 percent to 10 percent in the second quarter of this year, while the whole year may see a 6 percent drop of the GDP.

The International Monetary Fund forecast in April that Russian economy will plunge 6 percent in 2009 but grow 0.5 percent in 2010.

The company held an inauguration ceremony for its eighth Chinese branch in Jinan of Shandong Province on Wednesday.

Cyclone Aila toll up to 191 in India, Bangladesh

CALCUTTA, 27 May— The death toll from Cyclone Aila in eastern India and Bangladesh rose to at least 191 on Wednesday, officials said, while heavy rains after the storm caused deadly mudslides and slowed rescue efforts.

The toll was expected to rise in both countries as rescue workers reached cut-off areas. The cyclone destroyed thousands of homes and stranded tens of thousands of people in flooded villages before it began to ease on Tuesday. But mudslides in India’s famed Darjeeling tea district killed at least 20 people overnight, said Prabhat Zimba, a local government official.

The official death toll in India stood at 68 by Wednesday, said Ashok Mohan Chakraborty, a senior official in worst-hit West Bengal state. Bangladesh’s Food and Disaster Management Ministry said the toll there was 100 after more bodies were found. Most victims drowned or were washed away when storm surges hit coastal areas.

Soldiers have been deployed to take food, water and medicine to tens of thousands of people stranded in flooded villages. Bangladeshi Minister Abdur Razzak told reporters on Wednesday. Chakraborty said at least 50 people had been rescued from rooftops in the Sundarbans, a tangle of mangrove forests that is home to one of the world’s largest tiger populations.—Internet

UNHCR says 67,000 Somalis displaced by deadly clashes

NAIROBI, 27 May—The UN refugee agency said on Tuesday the number of Somalis fleeing the latest escalation of fighting in and around Mogadishu has surpassed 67,000, adding that worsening security has also hampered aid delivery to the capital.

In a statement, the UN High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) said most of the aproted were heading to makeshift camps along the Afgooye corridor, southwest of Mogadishu. These sites are already hosting an estimated 400,000 internally displaced persons (IDPs).

Deadly clashes between the fledgling government and the opposition Al-Shabaab and Hisbul Islam (Islamic Party) groups erupted in several northwest areas of Mogadishu on 8 May. Those displaced who are unable to make the 30-kilometre journey have sought refuge in southwestern parts of Mogadishu that have not yet been overrun by fighting,” UNHCR said in the statement.

The UN agency added that the deteriorating security situation has sharply reduced deliveries of desperately needed humanitarian aid to the displaced in and around the capital.—MNA/Xinhua

Ivory coast rebels hand over power in North

BOUAKE (Ivory Coast), 27 May—Rebels controlling northern Ivory Coast since 2002 officially handed over to civilian administrators on Tuesday in a step aimed at restoring government authority across the world’s biggest cocoa producer.

The West African country was divided by a brief civil war in 2002-03 and is due to hold a long-delayed presidential election on 29 November, though many Ivorians suspect the vote could be postponed.

The rebel commanders of 10 northern zones handed over to local administrators appointed by President Laurent Gbagbo, who in 2007 reached a peace deal with the rebels that brought them into government in the former French colony.

“This completes the reunification of the territorial administration,” Sidiki Konate, spokesman of the New Forces rebels, told the handover ceremony in the central city of Bouake, the rebels’ stronghold.

Interior Minister Desire Tagro, who is close to Gbagbo, said the ceremony should not be seen as a victory or a defeat by any group in the country of over 21 million where ethnic divisions are deep.

“We are seeing the full return of political and administrative normality in Ivory Coast,” Tagro said.—MNA/Reuters

Help for poor countries at Paris climate talks

PARIS, 27 May—The world’s biggest polluters made progress on a global deal to finance efforts to fight global warming and help poor countries cope with it, the French hosts of climate talks said on Tuesday.

However, the environment ministers and top climate officials from 17 nations gathered in Paris appeared to make little headway toward agreement on how deeply to cut their emissions of gases that contribute to climate change.

The top US negotiator on climate change, Todd Stern, defended the Obama administration’s commitment to what he called a “seismic change” in the country’s carbon emissions and attitude toward fighting global warming. Earlier Tuesday, France and Germany had said the United States wasn’t going far enough in its emissions targets.

Despite such differences, French Environment Minister Jean-Louis Borloo said glimmers of progress emerged at the end of two days of closed-door talks.

The countries present moved forward “in an extremely significant way” in talks on how to pay for technology and new energy sources to help poor countries limit pollution and adapt to climate change, Borloo said. He said everyone came to the meeting with the ambition to reach a formula to calculate who pays and how much.

The US wants countries to limit emissions of gases that contribute to climate change, Borloo said details were still being worked out. Negotiators have estimated helping poor countries cope with rising sea levels, harsher storms and droughts and other global warming-related shifts would cost about $100 billion a year.

Int’l organizations urge more funding for yellow fever vaccine

GENEVA, 27 May—The global emergency stockpile of yellow fever vaccine for the world’s most vulnerable populations in Africa is under threat because of the lack of further funding, the World Health Organization (WHO) and several other humanitarian organizations warned on Tuesday.

“The current stockpile is scheduled to run out in 2010 and there is no funding to cover campaigns once the stockpile is depleted,” said a joint statement issued by the WHO, the United Nations Children’s Fund (UNICEF), Doctors without Borders and the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies.

Most children and adults in five of the 12 most vulnerable countries in Africa are now protected from contracting yellow fever thanks to recent vaccination campaigns, the organizations said. But without further funding millions of people will still be at risk of the disease, according to public health experts. The five African countries that have completed vaccination campaigns so far are Togo, Mali, Senegal, Burkina Faso and Cameroon, the statement said. But seven other countries still face a high risk of the disease, namely Benin, Sierra Leone, Nigeria, Liberia, Guinea, Ghana, and Ivory Coast.

“We have to finish the job we started or the good work that has been done will be lost,” said Dr. Edward Hockstra, a UNICEF senior health specialist, in the statement.

“If the stockpile of yellow fever vaccine is allowed to run out, countries that have not yet been reached by immunization campaigns will be unfairly burdened with the disease,” he said. According to Dr. William Perea, WHO coordinator for epidemic readiness and intervention, the yellow fever initiative is feeling the effects of the global financial crisis.

Diabetes can lower heart attack risk

CAMBRIDGE, 27 May—A meta-analysis found people who have diabetes but maintain low-blood sugar levels are at less risk for heart attacks, researchers in Britain say.

Dr. Kausik Ray of the University of Cambridge and colleagues said the meta-analysis pooled information from five large trials.

The study, published in The Lancet, determined there was a 17 percent reduction in heart attacks and a 15 percent reduction in coronary heart disease. The study also found a more modest trend toward reduction of strokes with intensive control of glucose levels compared with standard care.

The researchers, in contrast to smaller studies that suggested possible harm from better blood sugar control, found no adverse impact on the risk of death from any cause.

The five trials involved more than 33,000 individuals, including 1,497 heart attack cases, 2,318 cases of coronary heart disease and 1,227 strokes.—Internet

Health officials says most cases of A/H1N1 flu unreported in US

HOUSTON, 27 May—The number of confirmed cases of A/H1N1 flu in the state of North Carolina is likely much greater than the 14 that have been reported in the state, according to Dr Jeffrey Engel, the state’s public health director on Tuesday. “They will definitely go unreported,” Dr Jeffrey Engel said. “We feel that our current (testing) method probably catches about one in 10 to one in 20 that are really happening here.” Nationwide, there are 6,764 cases of A/H1N1 flu have been confirmed in 48 states, with 10 deaths in six states, according to figures released by the CDC on Monday. At least 42 countries have confirmed cases of the disease, which has sickened 11,168 people and caused 86 deaths, the World Health Organization reports.

Dr Engel said not all suspected cases of A/H1N1 flu are tested because the volume would overwhelm the state lab. The state is testing according to guidelines issued by the CDC, he added. “We do it by sampling. We don’t do it by testing everybody,” he explained.

Kidney stones being seen in children

ANN ARBOR, 27 May—A US urologist reports seeing an increase in young children with kidney stones — something more often seen in middle-aged men.

Dr Gary Faerber of the University of Michigan Health System in Ann Arbor says modern diet and lifestyle are probably at fault. “I am seeing more and more children who have kidney stones,” Faerber says in a statement. “It’s a real phenomenon.”

Family history of kidney stones is a significant risk factor, but Faerber says consuming sugar-filled drinks and fast-food high in sodium may play a role. Sodium is a known risk factor in the formation of kidney stones, he says.

Mirza rules injury woes after French Open exit

PARIS, 27 May—India’s Sania Mirza blamed a lack of match practice after being eliminated in the first round of the French Open here on Tuesday.

The world number 95 is trying to regain form after an injury-plagued 2008, but looked short of sharpness in a rain-hit 6-4, 7-6 (7/5) defeat to Kazakhstani’s Galina Voskoboeva.

“It was tough conditions to play in, going on the court and then going off, and it was windy,” said Mirza.

“I haven’t had too much practice as well because I injured my wrist again after (the) Madrid (Open) and had to head back home and get that treated. And it’s not one of my favourite surfaces to play on!”

“But I take nothing away from her. She played really, really well, she served really well and I think that was the difference.”

Mirza held to love in an emphatic opening service round of the French Open here on Tuesday. The 53-year-old Dutchman had guided Bundesliga side Hamburg to fifth place and to semi-finals in both the German and UEFA Cups – and in the championship and was under contract to them till June 2010.

However, the former Spurs manager is to sign a three-and-a-half-year contract with the four-time European champions, whose previous coach Marco van Basten resigned at the beginning of the month after a disappointing campaign which saw them finish third and fail to gain a Champions League place for next season.

Moyes was named their ironman Muster

THE HAGUE, 27 May—Rising Austrian football star Marko Arnautovic’s proposed move to English Premiership giants Chelsea was in doubt on Tuesday because of a foot injury according to press reports.

The 20-year-old international — scorer of 14 goals for Twente this season — underwent a medical in Vienna on Tuesday and according to the reports failed to satisfy the Chelsea doctor over seeing it.

The medical revealed that four-times capped Arnautovic has such a serious foot injury it could see him sidelined for between four to six months.

On Monday Dutch press reports had announced that according to sources close to the player he had agreed to sign a contract with Chelsea, beating off competition from Italian champions Inter Milan.

Southgate is the man to take ‘Boro back up, says chairman

MIDDLESBROUGH, 27 May—Gareth Southgate will remain as manager of Middlesbrough and try and guide them to an immediate return to the Premier League the club chairman Steve Gibson told the BBC on Tuesday.

The 38-year-old former England international has been in charge since June 2006 but having taken them to 13th in his first campaign he failed to keep them up this term as they joined fellow North east club Newcastle in being relegated.

However, Gibson, who has bankrolled the club for well over a decade insisted that Southgate — cpped 57 times by England but who will probably be best remembered for failing to convert a penalty in the Euro ’96 semi-final defeat to Germany — was the right man for the onerous task of lifting them out of the Championship.

“Gareth has convinced me he knows what it takes to get us back up,” Gibson told BBC Radio after meeting with Southgate. —INTERNET

Djokovic looks to mimic ironman Muster

PARIS, 27 May—Novak Djokovic may have mothballed his party trick of impersonating fellow professionals, but he’d love to mimic the success of ex-French Open winner Thomas Muster, the one-time ironman of tennis.

The fourth seeded Serbian recently hired Gebhard Phil-Gritsch, who helped Austria’s Muster capture the 1995 Roland Garros title — a victory based on an iron will and tip-top physical power.

“My new fitness coach is analysing all the small things, which are really important in the fitness work of the tennis player,” said 22-year-old Djokovic.

“He’s been in tennis for a long time. He’s worked with Muster. So it’s quite important to have somebody who is familiar with the way it works in tennis, and I’m happy.”—INTERNET

Serena struggles, Djokovic eases through in Paris tennis

PARIS, 27 May—World number two Serena Williams endured an almighty struggle to win her first claycourt match in 12 months on Tuesday as Roland Garros’s brief flirtation with summer came to a chilly end.

Williams, the second seed and 2002 champion, spurned eight match points en route to a 6-3, 6-7(57), 6-4 victory over Czech Klara Zakopalova. It was the American’s first claycourt win since the second round here last year and avenged her shock defeat to the Czech girl in the first round in Marbella in April. But what looked like a routine win, when she was a set and 5-4 up, turned into a battle of attrition before Williams, the holder of 10 Grand Slam titles, rescued the situation.—INTERNET

Ministry of Foreign Affairs releases Press Statement in response to Press Statement on Myanmar issued by UNSC

The Press Statement released by the MOFA is as follows—:

The Government of the Union of Myanmar, in order to ensure stability of the State and in the interest of the people, has to issue restriction order and place Daw Aung San Suu Kyi at her house under restriction in accordance with the Law to Safeguard the State against the Dangers of Those Desiring to Cause Subversive Acts.

Whilst the restriction order was in effect, an intruder Mr. John William Yettaw, who is a United States citizen, entered the house of Daw Aung San Suu Kyi in May, 2009, and was permitted to stay in the house for two days, communicated, given food and provided shelter by her. Therefore, legal action in accordance with law has been taken unavoidably.

Such action will not have any political impact and, thus, the action in accordance with law will be considered and carried out as the task relating to the rule of law.

The Government, in accordance with the aspirations of the people, has been implementing the Seven-Step Road Map towards a peaceful, modern and developed democratic Nation. The National Convention, first step of the Road Map, was successfully convened five times between 2004 and 2007, and it adopted basic principles and detailed basic principles for the State Constitution. More than 1,000 representatives from all strata of life, political parties, national groups and the organizations which have returned to the legal fold attended the National Convention. Thus, the genuine dialogue with the participation of all national groups had already taken place in the National Convention.

The State Constitution Drafting Commission carried out the drafting of the Constitution, third step of the Seven-Step Road Map, enshrining the basic principles and detailed basic principles adopted by the National Convention. The referendum, fourth step of the Road Map, was held in May 2008 whereby a new Constitution was overwhelmingly approved by 92.48 per cent of the voters.

In order to enable them to take part in the building of a new democratic State, 9,002 prisoners were released when the Government granted amnesty for the eighth time on 23 September 2008 in accordance with Article 401 (1) of the Penal Code, and 6,313 prisoners for the ninth time on 20 February 2009.

Myanmar firmly accepts the affirmation by the members of the Security Council of the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Myanmar and that the future of Myanmar lies in the hands of all of her people. The Government will, therefore, hold multiparty general elections, fifth step of the Road Map, in 2010, and the Government is determined to continue hand-in-hand with the people to implementing the Seven-Step Road Map in accordance with the aspirations of the people.

Yuzana Integrated Farm Project geared up for earning foreign exchange through cultivation of tapioca

Since my first trip to Yuzana all-round agriculture camp, I had been eager to write an article about it.

One month later, I had an opportunity to observe the project area of the camp from the helicopter.

On the first trip, I was much pleased with the sight of tapioca plantations from the moving car. On the second visit, I had the wonderful bird’s eye view of the plantations.

My second trip was coincided with the cornerstone laying ceremony of the tapioca starch factory at its place of the Yuzana Integrated Farming Project, and I could foresee the brighter future of the project.

In accord with the guidance of the Head of State, Yuzana Co Ltd is implementing the Yuzana Integrated Farming Project on 235,400 vacant lands and 14,600 acres of forest land, totalling 250,000 acres near Bangauk Village sharing borders with Phakant and Tanai Townships on Myitkyina-Tanai Road in Kachin State.

On the plots of the project, tapioca as the main crop is being grown together with sugarcane, maize, soya bean, paddy and other crops.

In this regard, priority is being given to cultivation of industrial crops that are suitable for the region with a view to ensuring sufficiency of fuel, edible oil and sugar in the region and increasing the income of foreign exchange.

In the livestock breeding sector, fish, cows and pigs are being bred for ensuring local food sufficiency and for earning foreign exchange.
