Take an active part in the anti-drug campaign

The government of Myanmar has been raising the momentum of the campaign against narcotic drugs since 1999-2000 by laying down a 15-year narcotic drug eradication plan.

The menace of drugs is threatening all nations—developed, developing as well as least developed. It is the concern of the entire mankind and it wrecks the future of many youths, good sons and daughters of the soil.

The problem of drugs in Myanmar is an evil legacy left by the colonialists and border areas lagged behind other regions of the Union due to the cultivation of poppy.

Since the Tatmadaw government assumed responsibilities of the State in 1988, it has placed a special emphasis on the development of border areas and national races. And to be able to carry out eradication of narcotic drugs effectively, it enacted the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Law in 1993.

In January, 2007, the Central Committee for Drug Abuse Control was reconstituted and state/division-, district- and township-level narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances prevention groups were formed to raise the momentum of the anti-drug campaign.

And the government is working together with the neighbours of Myanmar, the countries in the region and the sub-region and international organizations for supply elimination, demand elimination and law enforcement.

We would like to call on all the national races of the Union to work hand in hand with the government in its drive to wipe out the danger of narcotic drugs from our soil once and for all.

Chrysler completes sales of assets to Fiat

CHICAGO, 11 June — Chrysler LLC, the third largest US automaker that filed for bankruptcy protection at the end of April, has completed its sales of assets to a new group headed by Italian auto giant Fiat, allowing for the formation of a new automaker — Chrysler Group LLC.

The new group will combine the good assets from the bankrupt Chrysler and technology from Fiat, the company announced on Wednesday. The move came one day after the US Supreme Court decided not to hear a court action from a group of pension funds in the US state of Indiana, which had temporarily halted the merger on Monday.

The deal has come five days ahead of a deadline imposed by Fiat to complete the merger and is expected to open the door for more government loans to the struggling Chrysler.

The deal gives Fiat, which manufactures Fiat, Alfa Romeo-, and Lancia-branded vehicles in Europe, 20 percent of the equity in Chrysler in exchange for sharing billions of dollars worth of technology and engineering assets with the US automaker. The company has an option to buy up to 35 percent of Chrysler down the road if certain milestones mandated by the agreement are achieved.

The two sides signed off on a partnership this morning that creates a new automaker to be known as Chrysler Group LLC. It begins operations immediately, under new chairman Robert Kidder and Chief Executive Officer Sergio Marchionne, who is also CEO of Fiat.

US Navy hands over 17 suspected Somali pirates to Kenya

MOMBASA, 11 June — US Navy handed over 17 suspected Somali pirates to Kenyan authorities on Wednesday against the backdrop of foreign warships stepping up naval patrols off the coast of Somalia.

With the handover of the suspects, who were aboard a US Navy ship Gettysburg, the total number of Somali pirates transferred to the Kenyan authorities increased to 24 since Monday.

Seven suspects, among them a 14-year-old boy, were flown to Mombasa on Monday from Djibouti by the Swedish Navy and charged in a Malindi court on Tuesday. The 17 will also be charged in Malindi.

All future suspects handed over to police will now face the charges in Malindi because courts in Mombasa — where there are nine such cases going on — are congested, chief provincial operation officer in charge of investigations Sebson Wandera said.

“Due to the high number of suspects under trial in Mombasa we will transfer the trials to Malindi and if need be to other towns including Voi,” Wandera said, adding that the 17 — the highest number handed over by the US navy — would be charged on Thursday.

The handover of the suspects brings the number of those being tried in the country to nearly 100, with 10 others serving a seven-year jail term after their appeal was struck off by the high court last month.

The suspects were arrested in the Gulf of Aden on May 13 as they tried to attack a commercial ship, MV Amira, which was sailing towards Alexandria, Egypt.

Cabinet, on Wednesday announced a plan to boost coastal regions of east China’s Jiangsu Province, where growth has long lagged behind some other parts of the booming province.

Jiangsu, led by cities of Lianyungang, Yancheng and Nantong, is an important part of the Yangtze River Delta, according to an executive meeting of the State Council, presided over by Premier Wen Jiabao. Wednesday’s plan is aiming to build the region into a traffic hub, a coastal industrial base, a good place to live as well as potential development zones as the area abounds in land reserves and mud flat.

The country would accelerate the development of the three leading cities, boost infrastructure such as power grid and transportation, raise the region’s fishing output, and strengthen exploration of the muddy coast, partly by reclaiming land from the sea in a scientific way, according to the plan.

Lianyungang City is also the start point of the Europe-Asia rail line that goes through west China before finally reaching Rotterdam of the Netherlands.

Breastfeeding lowers risk of MS relapse
WASHINGTON, 11 June— Breastfeeding may protect women with multiple sclerosis against relapses of their disease, possibly by delaying a return to normal monthly cycles, US researchers reported on Monday. They found that MS patients who nursed their babies exclusively — meaning no bottled formula — for at least two months appeared less likely to have a relapse within a year of the child’s birth than women who did not breastfeed.

“It is well-known that women with MS have fewer relapses during pregnancy and a high risk of relapse in the postpartum period,” the researchers wrote in the Archives of Neurology. Women also are advised not to take MS drugs during pregnancy or while breastfeeding, so patients must choose between nurs- ing their babies and resuming treatment. The Ameri- can Academy of Pediatrics recommends breastfeeding exclusively for the first six months of a baby’s life and continued nursing for at least a year.—Internet

Chairman of Tachilek District Peace and Development Council U Kyaw Swa Tun.

During our visit, we saw straight and wide Kengtung-Tachilek Road and beautiful and colourful flowers of cherry, gold mohur and Indian laburnum plants on both sides of the road.

The highway bus that left Kengtung at 9 am arrived in Tachilek at 2.30 pm after driving along 102 miles long hilly road.

Tachilek is sharing border with Monghayt and Mongyawng townships in the north, Laos in the east, Thailand in the south and Laos in the west.

On arrival at Tachilek, we, the news crew of the Kyemon Daily met Chairman of Tachilek Development Council U Kyaw Swa Tun.

In an interview, District PDC Chairman U Kyaw Swa Tun explained, “Tachilek District is formed with three townships namely Tachilek, Tablay and Kenglat. Altogether 99,510 people of Shan, Akha, Wa, Lahu, Lisaw, Palaung, Kachin, Kayah, Chin, Bamar, Mon, Rakhine and other national races are residing in 334 villages of 26 village-tracts. Indeed, Tachilek is a strategic town in the economic sector.”

We learned that over 70,000 acres of lands had been reclaimed to the cultivable areas in Tachilek Township. Due to cultivation of over 40,000 acres of monsoon paddy and over 2600 acres of summer paddy, the township achieved 183.43 per cent of paddy sufficiency. Moreover, groundnut, sesame, sunflower, maize, green gram, sugarcane and sugar plantations are driving in the township. Tea and coffee could be grown overfulfilling the target. In addition, national entrepreneurs achieved success in growing rubber and undertaking the integrated farms.

In the education sector, Tachilek District opened with four Basic Education High Schools, three Basic Education Middle Schools and 36 Basic Education Primary Schools and a total of 17,179 students were admitted to pursue education at the schools in 2008-2009 academic year. Therefore, the district secured cent per cent school enrolment rate.

Regarding the health sector, the district has one District People’s Hospital, two Township People’s Hospitals, one station hospital and one rural dispensary. In the area of the district, it is facilitated with two inter-township roads such as the 50-mile road to Monghayt and the 67-mile road to Monghsat, one over-180-foot-long bridge and 82 under-180-foot-long bridges for ensuring better transport.

After visiting the district office, we entered the office of Township Development Affairs Committee. At the entrance, we saw a signboard “Towns and Villages must be modernized and developed as soon as possible”.

Tachilek has two-way Bogyoke Aung San Street stretching three miles and six furlongs from No. 1 Friendship Bridge to the junction of Kengtung-Tachilek Road. We saw running of various automobiles and motorbikes on the road.

While gazing into the views of departmental buildings and stores, we toured the town. After paying homage to Shwedagon replica pagoda, we took photos of the scenic beauty of the town from the hill. We witnessed the traffic island areas of the entrance road to the airport decorated with beautiful landscapes. After that, we went to Pontaung Ward and paid homage to Ngwe Pagoda. From the hillock, we had an opportunity to enjoy the beautiful scene on bird eye’s view of the town.

In the urban area, we visited one development affairs market and three other markets of the national races. In visiting the markets one after another, we conversed with the local people and learned that development of the region contributes much to promotion of trade.

After touring the town, we re-entered the office of Township Development Affairs Department. At the office, Staff Officer U Tin Win Maung said, “The department is supplying water from Lwedawkham Village, three miles from the town, to 462 water taps in the urban area.”

In the past, the region had dirt roads only. At present, self-reliant roads have been constructed with the contributions of the government, the townswelders and local people. As a result, the local people have an easy access to all the areas of the district without any hindrance.

Taking the opportunity to visit Tachilek of Shan State (East), we, the news crew of the Kyemon Daily, is pleased to write this article with the belief that the equitable development can be seen in both rural areas and border regions while the whole nation is gaining development momentum day by day.

He said, “We are now growing trees, regenerating natural forests with hardwood trees and reproducing trees in the deforested areas for conservation of natural forests in northern Shan State.”

Regarding the establishment of plantations, he said, “In 2008-2009 financial year, we grew 800 acres of economic plantations (teak, gum-kino and pine) and 1,200 acres of watershed plantations, totaling 2,000 acres. The survival rate of the trees we have grown is more than 85 per cent.”

“We added 250 acres of teak to the natural forests in 2008-2009, and we have a target to grow 600 more acres of teak in the forests in 2009-2010. We reproduced trees in

Village-owned eucalyptus plantations are set up under the arrangements of the Forest Department in Hsipaw Township, Shan State (North).

In 2008-2009, 400,000 saplings of various species were distributed to local people in the townships in northern Shan State. Altogether 400,000 saplings are nurtured for 2009-2010. Now, the rainy season has set in, so the saplings are being distributed to local people to grow.

Furthermore, village-owned eucalyptus plantations are being established for rural housing estates for 42 villages in the townships of Shan State (North). Due to the programme under which households in the townships in northern Shan State had to grow teak saplings at the rate of three units a household in 2008-2009, 23,779 households have grown 74,050 teak saplings. In 2009-2010, 15,900 households will grow 47,700 teak saplings.

Like Shan State (North), other states and divisions are growing trees to make forests in the rainy season. So, the whole nation will be green with forests and trees soon.

In 2008-2009, 2,000 acres in 2008-2009, and we will do the same for 2,000 more acres in 2009-2010,” he said.

He added that as a trial plot, they grew fast-growing species of plonia in six acres of land in Hsipaw Township and 30 acres of land in Mabein Township in 2008-2009 and the programme showed successful. So, they will grow 500 more acres of plonia in 2009-2010.

Philippine exports fall by 35.2% in April

MANILA, 11 June—The Philippine exports receipts in April fell by 35.2 percent on year to 2.803 billion US dollars as electronic shipments continued to slide amid weak demand, the National Statistics Office said on Wednesday.

The export of electronic products—accounting for some 60 percent of the country’s total export revenue—brought in 1.684 billion dollars, down 33.2 percent from that in April 2008. The statistics office attributed the sharp decline to a decrease in shipment of semiconductors.

This is the seventh consecutive month that Philippine exports posted negative growth. Export revenues declined 3.6 percent from the level posted in March 2009.

Shipments to the Philippines major markets—the United States, Japan and China—declined as demand remained weak in the month.

Other top export earners such as apparel, petroleum and cathodes also posted sharply lower earnings.

Revenues from clothing accessories, accounting for 3.6 percent share of total exports, fell 34.6 percent to 100.43 million dollars.

Receipts from shipment of petroleum products fell 44 percent to 52.66 million dollars, while sales of cathodes also declined by 37.2 percent to 63.42 million dollars.—MNA/Xinhua

“The fire was caused by the overheating of an air conditioner due to continuous and prolonged use,” Medina Mora told reporters. After melted aluminum from the air conditioner ignited paper on the floor of the warehouse, where the state government stored license plates and documents, heat and fire spread into the rafters of the industrial building and across to the day-care centre, he said.—MNA/Reuters

PNA, Hamas welcome US remarks on Palestinian statehood

GAZA/RAMALLAH, 11 June — Both the Palestinian National Authority (PNA) and Islamic Hamas movement welcomed on Wednesday the United States’ attempts to help the Palestinians establish their statehood on the Palestinian territories occupied by Israel.

US peace envoy George Mitchell was sent to the region earlier this week. He held talks with Israeli and Palestinian leaders on Tuesday and Wednesday as part of Washington’s effort to resume the stalled peace negotiations between the two sides.

Veteran Palestinian peace negotiator Saeb Erekat told reporters that President Mahmoud Abbas and Mitchell held “positive, in depth and constructive talks,” adding that President Abbas listened to a detailed report on Mitchell’s previous meetings with Israeli officials.

Mitchell told reporters in Ramallah that “America won’t turn its back to the Palestinian people’s aspiration to live in dignity and establish their independent state,” adding “the only solution for the conflict is to achieve each other’s aspirations in having two states.”

However, he added that the two sides “have responsibilities in implementing the Road Map, in which I believe it is not only responsibilities, but also a joint interest for each of them to serve peace in the region.” President Abbas reiterated the Palestinian (National Authority)’s commitment to the Road Map plan and the principle of the two-state solution that ends the Israeli occupation of the Palestinian territories that began in June 1967,” said Erekat. — Internet

Hong Kong to close primary schools over swine flu

HONG KONG, 11 June — Hong Kong authorities have ordered all primary schools in the city to be closed for two weeks after the first cluster of local swine flu cases was found.

The move came after 12 pupils at a city secondary school were found to have contracted the A(H1N1) virus, chief executive Donald Tsang told reporters.

Tsang said authorities were unable to identify the source of the infection, making it the first “cluster” of human swine flu cases in the city without a known link to those travelling overseas.

All primary schools, kindergartens, child care centres and special schools would be shut for 14 days from Friday in an effort to control the spread of the virus, Tsang said.

“Given the global situation, (for) Hong Kong to have its own local cases is simply inevitable,” Tsang said. “I believe the fellow citizens and the government have done all we can in postponing the arrival of the first indigenous case.” — Internet

Smallest microwave is just a prototype

LONDON, 11 June — What is being billed as the world’s smallest microwave promises new convenience for consumers but so far it’s just a prototype, British industry analysts said.

The portable microwave can be powered through a link to a USB port on a laptop computer, The Daily Mail of Britain reported Monday. It was developed in partnership with US Heinz Co to give workers, students and travelers a way to heat up beverages or snacks including hamburgers, soup or tea — the newspaper said.

For now, it isn’t available in the marketplace, but experts at the Microwave Association say the technology is there to get the gadget into the hands of consumers.

Gordon Andrews — managing director of GAMA Microwave Technology — worked with Stephen Frazer, an authority on industrial design and managing director of Frazer Designers, to develop what’s being called the mini-micro. It uses a combination of mobile phone radio frequencies to generate heat for cooking.

Andrews said the device could be powered with lithium ion batteries, which would make it “completely portable, which would be a help to fishermen, campers or sportmen.” — Internet

Russia builds baltic oil route to bypass Belarus

UNESDA (Russia), 11 June—Russia started building a four-billion-US-dollar oil pipeline on Wednesday to cut Belarus out of its key supply route to Europe, an extension of the Baltic Pipeline System to be completed by the end of 2012.

The new pipeline, which will skirt Belarus on its one-thousand-kilometre route to the Baltic, was first mooted after a transit dispute in 2006 and will widen Kremlin control over energy supply routes, adding it to the list of efforts to divert flows from Ukraine.

“Russia considers it a very significant loss for Belarus, not only in economic terms but politically, as the country is losing its reputation as a reliable transit nation,” Yaroslav Romanchuk, head of the Mizes think tank in Belarus, said.

Russia, the world's No.2 oil exporter, is keen to bypass the countries that stand between its abundant oil and gas reserves and customers in Europe after going with both Ukraine and Belarus over transit conditions in recent years. The Baltic Pipeline System extension will carry 30 million tons a year, or 6 percent of Russia's output over the next five years.

Construction begins only weeks after Russia shelved a four-billion-US-dollar oil pipeline on Wednesday to bypass Belarus through the financial slowdown, saying it was unhappy with the Belarusian government's backing of its own plans for an alternative.

Recent years have seen rising tension between Minsk and the European Union.

Prime Minister General Thein Sein felicitates Russian counterpart

NAY PYI TAW, 12 June—General Thein Sein, Prime Minister of the Union of Myanmar, has sent a message of felicitations to His Excellency Mr. Vladimir V Putin, Prime Minister of the Russian Federation, on the occasion of the National Day of the Russian Federation, which falls on 12 June 2009.—MNA

The whole country must be green with woodlands

At the ceremony to mark the World Environment Day (2009) held in Nay Pyi Taw on 5 June, Prime Minister General Thein Sein in his speech said that Myanmar was growing about 70,000 more acres of trees of hardwood species such as teak, ironwood and gum-kino trees annually; that in 2009, 55,200 acres of plantations would be established to hit the target; and that more than 17 million saplings of various species would be

The colours of plants have fascinated mankind for thousands of years. The colour of a plant not only tells what kind of plant it is, colours are also linked to emotions and memories. Plant colour can therefore be thought of in a biological, a cultural and an esthetical perspective.

Unique study
Colour is a foundation of horticulture, and is probably the strongest determinant of how a flowerbed or a garden is perceived. Yet, few scientific studies have focused on the colour composition of flowerbeds - until now.

First in the world
Nina Nilsson, Faculty Subjects Coordinator for Conservation, Gardening and Garden Design, the Department of Conservation/Dacapo at the University of Gothenburg, Sweden, is probably the first person in the world to conduct scientific research on colour composition of flowerbeds. She bases her research on two standard works: UK gardening pioneer Gertrude Jekyll’s book ‘Colour Schemes for the Flower Garden’, which remains a best-seller almost 100 years after first being published, and Swiss Johannes Itten’s ‘Kunst der Farbe’, which established Itten’s colour theory.—Internet
