Implement public welfare tasks as a national duty

A work coordination meeting of Development Affairs Committees under the Ministry of Progress of Border Areas and National Races and Development Affairs took place at Nay Pyi Taw City Hall on 3 July. According to the five rural development tasks, only when rural transport is smooth, can rural products reach the urban markets easily in a short period. Thus, the education and health of the rural people will improve, contributing towards their socio-economic life.

Development Affairs Committees are building not only inter-village roads and village-to-city roads but also inter-district roads for villages that have difficult access to main roads in order that there can be links between towns and between districts.

Up to 2008-2009 fiscal year, 184 miles of tarred roads, 139 miles of gravel roads and 783 wooden bridges have been constructed on Inter-district Road No (1). Likewise, 63 miles of tarred roads, 191 miles of gravel roads and 750 wooden bridges have been built on Inter-district Road No (2).

The 10-year rural pure water supply project started in 2000-2001 fiscal and up to 2008-2009, 8024 villages of three arid divisions have been supplied with pure drinking water. Rural water supply tasks have been implemented in 22,410 villages out of 23,325 nationwide.

Overall, service personnel are to participate in their respective roles as a national duty for the emergence of a new democratic nation. They are also to shoulder their duties out of goodwill to fulfil the socio-economic needs of the rural folks.

NAM summit to boost peace in Middle East

CAIRO, 12 July — Arab League (AL) Secretary General Amr Moussa expected that the 15th Non-Aligned Movement (NAM) summit, which is scheduled for 15-16 July at Egypt’s Red Sea resort of Sharm el-Sheikh, will support the Arab position of Sharm el-Sheikh, will support the Arab position and all the efforts to establish peace in the Middle East.

All Arab countries in the AL are members of the movement and the issues tackled by NAM include many Arab issues, said the AL chief in an exclusive interview with Xinhua recently.

“As for Palestine declaration, the NAM summit would support putting an end to the Arab-Israeli conflict provided that the establishment of a viable Palestinian state with its capital in East Jerusalem,” Moussa said.

A “Declaration on Palestine,” which is among the final documents of the movement’s previous summits, is expected to express its members’ common stance over the thorny issue in the Middle East.

“They will call for an end of settlements policy and support the future peace between the Arabs and Israelis within the framework of the Arab initiative,” Moussa said.

Iraq bombings kill eight in capital, northern village

BAGHDAD, 12 July — A car bomb exploded in an alley Saturday in a village in northern Iraq, killing at least four people, wounding others and destroying eight homes, police said. Another six people died in bombings in Baghdad.

Thirty-eight people were wounded and several shops and cars were also damaged in the 3 pm explosion in the northern village of Kugjel, according to a police officer in Ninevah Province, who spoke on condition of anonymity because he was not authorized to speak to journalists.

Most of the victims were inside their homes when the bomb exploded near the main street of the predominantly Shiite village, about five kilometers (three miles) east of the city of Mosul.—Internet

Foreign fighter may be among 16 killed in Somalia

MOGADISHU, 12 July — A foreign fighter and a top government security official are among 16 people killed in Saturday’s fighting between UN-backed government forces and Islamist militants in the north of the capital, a Somali official said.

An Associated Press reporter saw the body of the man, who appeared to be of non-African origin, displayed at the presidential palace on a stretcher.

There are believed to be hundreds of foreign jihadi fighters in Somalia supporting an Islamic insurgency. Government officials have claimed there are thousands of foreigners fighting against them but most analysts dismiss this as a ploy to wring cash and support for the international community, which is worried about the failed state becoming a haven for al-Qaeda-linked terrorists.

Saturday’s attack also claimed the life of Noor Daqi. He was head of security for the capital, Mogadishu, and the surrounding Benadir region.

Nepali population to reach 27.5 mln by July 2009

KATHMANDU, 12 July — The 20th World Population Day was celebrated in Nepal Saturday amidst the organization of various programmes.

The theme of the World Population Day this year is “Fight Poverty: Educate Girls — Investing in Women is Smart Choice”.

It was stated at a function organized by the Ministry of Health and Population that the population growth rate in Nepal is 2.5 percent at present.

The population of Nepal will reach approximately 27.5 million by the end of July 2009, it was shared at the function. Reproduction rate in Nepal in 1981 was 6 and it has dropped to 3 in 2006, demographers said.

It is said the reproduction rate has decreased due to the increased investment by the state in the women’s health and education as well as the increase in public awareness.

Egypt calls for establishing new world order to overcome crises

SHARM EL-SHEIK (Egypt), 12 July — Egyptian Assistant Foreign Minister Naela Gabr said here Saturday that the world society should make joint efforts to set up a new world order to deal with various crises.

Gabr made the appeal when addressing the senior officials’ meeting of the 15th Non-Aligned Movement (NAM) summit, which opened Saturday in Egyptian Red Sea resort of Sharm el-Sheik. The current world situation is quite different from 48 years ago when the NAM was founded, with increasing population, outbreaks of epidemic and deteriorating environment, she said.

The world society should reconsider the international financial system and be more democratic in decision-making so as to avoid the global financial crisis which has hampered the economic growth of developing countries, Gabr said.—Internet

EU, Turkey set to sign Nabucco pipeline deal

ANKARA, 12 July—European Union countries and Turkey are Monday to sign a key intergovernmental agreement on Europe’s flagship Nabucco gas pipeline, coming a step closer to realizing a project that still lacks key suppliers.

Turkish Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan is expected to host the signing ceremony in Ankara for themental agreement on European Union countries and Turkey are Monday to sign a key intergovernmental agreement on Europe’s flagship Nabucco gas pipeline, coming a step closer to realizing a project that still lacks key suppliers.

Turkish Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan is expected to host the signing ceremony in Ankara for the transit deal that would link Turkey, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Austria in a conduit that Europe hopes will reduce its dependence on Russian gas. The 3,500-kilometre (2,000-mile) pipeline is expected to pump as much as 31 billion cubic metres from the Caspian Sea to Austria via Turkey and the Balkans, bypassing Russia.

It is a rival to Russia’s South Stream project, developed by Russian gas giant Gazprom and Italy’s Eni, which will channel Russian gas through Bulgaria to Western Europe under the Black Sea.

Volvo to recall 409 sedans on faulty engine cooling fans in China

BEIJING, 12 July—Volvo Car Corp is recalling 409 units of S80 vehicles because of a problem with the engine cooling fan, said the State Administration of Quality Supervision and Inspection and Quarantine (AQSIQ) here Saturday.

The fan may stop working because of a software programming error in the fan controlling module. Depending on driving conditions, the customer may experience reduced air conditioning performance or a rapid increase in engine coolant temperature, said the quality supervisor. This condition might cause cooling system malfunction and engine failure, and thus increase the risk of accident, it said.

Dealers will replace the fan control module free of charge. The recall will start from 13 July.—Internet

British tourists have distant friends

LONDON, 12 July—European hoteliers rate British tourists as their worst guests, while those on other continents find them polite and generous, a travel Web site says.

Expedia released its annual survey of 4,500 hoteliers on Friday. They rated the Japanese as the top guests, valued for their politeness and cleanliness and described as quiet and unlikely to complain. Worldwide, the British were in the second spot, followed by Canadians, Germans and Swiss. The French placed at the bottom among 27 nationalities.

European hotel-owners, however, described the British as rude and messy whiners who leave meager tips. US travelers were in the No 8 position, with a reputation for generous tips but also loudness.

Generally, tourists from Mediterranean countries have a bad reputation. Turks and Greeks tied for the 24th spot, while Spain followed at No 26. Internet

More banks refuse California IOUs

SACRAMENTO, 12 July—Four major banks, including Bank of America Corp, say they stopped accepting IOUs Saturday from the cash-strapped state of California.

Bank of America, JPMorgan Chase & Co, Wells Fargo & Co, and Union Bank of California said they no longer would redeem the state IOUs for cash value, the Los Angeles Times reported.

The state expects to issue nearly $3 billion worth of interest-bearing IOUs this month as the Legislature struggles to close a $26 billion budget deficit. Citibank and Bank of the West, meanwhile, agreed on Friday to honor the IOUs. Bank of the West said it would accept the IOUs indefinitely and Citibank said it would accept them until 17 July, the Times reported.

“Do we not want to penalize our business and consumer customers for the impasse in Sacramento,” Rebecca Macieira-Kaufmann, president of Citibank California, said in a statement Friday.—Internet

Nomura tie-up with India’s largest life insurer

Tokyo, 12 July—Japanese top securities firm Nomura Holdings has agreed to an asset-management capital tie-up with Life Insurance Corp (LIC), India’s largest life insurer, a newspaper has reported.

Under the accord, Nomura will take a 35 percent stake in LIC Mutual Fund Asset Management Co, a LIC subsidiary, for about six billion yen (65 million dollars), the Nikkei business daily reported.

Nomura is expected to send executives and staff to LIC Mutual Fund Asset Management, which currently has 600 billion yen in assets under management, the newspaper said. Abbas says to accept any Egyptian proposal for reconciliation

GAZA, 12 July—Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas said on Saturday that he will accept any Egyptian proposal to achieve a national Palestinian reconciliation to end the current internal rift, said a source with the presidential office.

Abbas told the Cairo-based Egyptian Magazine “October” in an interview which will be published on Sunday that “We will accept any Egyptian proposal that ends the internal rift and lifts the siege imposed on the Palestinian people.”

Egypt is sponsoring the inter-Palestinian dialogue which aims at ending rivalry between Abbas’ Fatah party and Islamic Hamas movement which routed his security forces and seized control of Gaza in June 2007.

A seventh round of dialogue between the two rival groups is scheduled to be held in Cairo on 25 July. Previous six rounds of dialogue held in Cairo since March had failed to reach a reconciliation agreement between the two groups.

Abbas revealed to an Egyptian magazine that he had given instructions to the Fatah delegation “to accept any Egyptian proposal that doesn’t lead to a continuation of the siege,” according to the source who insisted anonymity.

NASA delays launch of shuttle Endeavour to Sunday

WASHINGTON, 12 July —NASA has decided to postpone the scheduled Saturday launch of space shuttle Endeavour until Sunday due to lightning strikes, the US space agency said.

The next launch attempt will be at 7:13 pm (2313 GMT) Sunday, according to NASA.

Endeavour should have blasted off to the international space station in mid-June, but was postponed by potentially dangerous leaks of hydrogen gas. Endeavour’s 16-day mission will feature five spacewalks and complete construction of the Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency’s Kibo laboratory. Astronauts will attach a platform to the outboard of the Japanese module that will allow experiments to be exposed to space.—Xinhua

Italian ICRC worker released in Philippines, ending six-month ordeal

MANILA, 12 July —An Italian Red Cross worker was freed by his militant captors early Sunday, after spending almost six months in captive in southern Philippine jungles, officials said.

Eugenio Vagni, 62, was released by the Al Qaeda-linked Abu Sayyaf militants and picked up by the authorities at around 12:30 am local time (1630 GMT Saturday) at a remote village in the town of Maimbung on Jolo island, Sulu Province.

Navy spokesman Lt Col Edgard Arevalo said the Italian, who has reportedly developed hernia in the humid jungles, appeared in good shape, according to the footage of a local television channel showing Vagni, in a mud-stained white T-shirt, walking with security officials after the release.

“I am now free,” the smiling Italian told television reporters.

Vagni and two of his colleagues of the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) in the Philippines — Andreas Notter of Switzerland and Filipina Mary Jean Lacaba — were kidnapped on 15 Jan. this year after they finished a humanitarian mission in Jolo. Lacaba was freed on 2 April and Vagni escaped from his captors weeks later.

Arevalo said skilful negotiations and “incessant pressure” by the security forces won the release of Vagni. Philippine officials insisted that no ransom was paid for Vagni’s freedom despite speculations of the opposite.—Xinhua

Iran successfully clones its first calf

THEHRAN, 12 July—Iranian researchers have successfully cloned a calf, which is the first in Iran as well as in the Middle East. Iran’s English-language satellite channel Press TV reported Saturday.

The cloned calf named “Bonyana,” which means foundation and principle, was successfully born through a cesarean section at Royan Institute in central Iranian city of Isfahan after 270 days of pregnancy, Press TV reported.

Iran’s ISNA news agency said the cloned calf was born on Saturday afternoon and the Royan Institute was hopeful to announce the birth of the second cloned calf in a few days. According to Press TV, the cloned calf, which is the result of a considerable number of in-vitro fertilizations (1VF) in more than 100 recipient cows, is in good health.

Royan Institute researchers hoped to clone certain species at high risk of extinction in the near future. Press TV said. In April, Iran’s first cloned goat, named Hanna and also known as R-CAP-C1, was born at the Isfahan campus of the Royan Institute. The cloned goat was developed in a surrogate uterus of a black Bakhtiar goat for 147 days and was born through a cesarean section.—Xinhua

NOAA: El Nino developing in Pacific

WASHINGTON, 12 July — Rising sea surface temperatures in the equatorial region of the eastern Pacific Ocean is an El Nino is developing, US weather forecasters say. The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said on Thursday the El Nino is expected to last through the coming winter.

El Nino, Spanish for “little boy,” was named after the Christ child because the phenomenon was associated with Christmas. The El Nino effect is a combination of air and ocean currents and oscillations that can have a major effect on global weather.

“Advanced climate science allows us to alert industries, governments and emergency managers about the weather conditions El Nino may bring so these can be factored into decision-making and ultimately protect life, property and the economy,” said Jane Lubchenco, undersecretary of commerce for oceans and atmosphere and NOAA administrator.

El Nino’s negative effects can include stormier weather in the southern United States, less-productive fisheries in the Pacific and heavy rains and mudslides in Central America. Positive effects include less-violent Atlantic hurricanes, milder winters in the northern United States and more rain in the southwest.—Internet

Rising obesity changes perceptions

BOSTON, 12 July — Researchers say that as the US population becomes heavier perception of what is a normal weight has also increased. A group led by Mary Burke, an economist at the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, compared the results of surveys done between 1988 and 1994 and then between 1999 and 2004 by the US Centers for Disease Control, CNN reported.

The researchers said women questioned for the later survey actually tended to have a more realistic perception of their own weight than those in the earlier one. Women with a normal Body Mass Index were more likely to describe themselves as overweight between 1988 and 1994.

Dr Melina Jampolis, who was not involved in the research, said some of the change in perception could come from campaigns aimed at discouraging women from seeking fashion-model thinness. But she said the general increase in overweight is more likely to make normal weight seem even more normal.—Internet

Customers decide barbershop price

A barber shop in China has taken customer service to a new level by letting clients determine the price of their haircuts.

The facility in Xian, capital of the northwest Shaanxi Province, initiated the marketing strategy in December and the response has been quite good, local media reports quoted by China Daily said. Under the strategy, customers are asked to rate the service on scale of one to 10.

“If the customer gives us 10 marks, he has to make the full payment, if he says eight, he gets a 20 percent discount,” said the shop’s manager.

Whatever a customer pays then becomes his barber’s wage.

Clients aren’t complaining. One of them was quoted as saying it is “a brilliant way to improve customer service.”

Stolen wallet found years later in tree

A New York woman said a wallet stolen nearly 27 years ago in Central Park was found inside a hollow tree.

Ruth Bendik, 60, said she was greeting runners at the end of the New York marathon on 24 Oct, 1982, and “when I got out of the crush of people, I realized my purse was much lighter,” CNN reported.

Josh Galiley, tree-care supervisor for the Central Park Conservancy, said he was chopping down a 65-year-old hazardous black cherry tree in the park last week when he found the blue leather wallet in the hollow trunk.

“I started poking in the soft stuff and this wallet turned up. Having been that low in the tree ... the location indicated it had been there for quite some time,” Galiley said.

He said finding a wallet inside of a tree was a first for him.

Then, we visited Moepya Village in Moepya Village-tract that grows banana more than any other part in the township, and conducted an interview with U Thein Tun.

He said, “I farm a land of 50 acres to grow banana, and I grow Pheegyan. Last year, I grew 4000 plants of Pheegyan and got about 4000 bunches. I have a plan to grow 10,000 plants, and I think I will get a bumper harvest of banana this year. For the time being, I harvest the bunches once 15 days, and I get about 200 bunches a time.”

“After cutting down the main plant, I leave only one of the outgrowths. I can collect banana bunches when the outgrowths are mature in coming month of Pyatho.

I send up my products by motorized boat to Bargayar Port in Yangon. Last year, banana was priced at 2000 kyats a bunch, so I got about eight million kyats,” he said, conducting us round the farm.

It was very heartening to see heaps of banana bunches, which were without underdeveloped fruits among them. Now, local farmers are growing species of Khunwa, Israeli fragrant banana, and other marketable species on an extensive scale.

The village-tracts that grow mainly banana in Kyaunggon Township are Ywathagon, Kwingyi, Minmanaing and Zayatkwin. Bananas from Kyaunggon are in demand because they are big with thin skins and sweet flavour. So, the township sends up its bananas by two 10-wheel trucks and by boat daily.

During our trip, we saw bananas being loaded onto many trucks on Kyaunggon-Yangon Road and onto motorized boats in the port and stockpiles of bananas. So, it is fair to say that Kyaunggon Township makes a huge contribution to the agricultural sector of Ayeyawady Division.

He continued to report that in the past, sea lane was the usual means of transport for trade with foreign countries; that now export and import tasks are expedited with one stop services through Muse 105th Mile Border Trade Zone; that regular trade by land has proved successful; that the turnover of the trade with the People’s Republic of China makes up over 70 percent of the total volume of regular trade with the neighboring countries through land routes; and that so the trade zone is a thriving regular trade camp.

In response to the report, Vice-Senior General Maung Aye said that previously Yangon port was the major source of transport for trade with foreign countries. Only in the time of the Tatmadaw government, could border trade with immediate neighboring countries be launched through land routes.

Now, Myawady and Tamu border checkpoints and Muse 105th Mile Border Trade Zone have launched regular trade through land routes. Now, regular trade for mutual interest has been put into bilateral trade with regular trade system through the trade zone and transforming the trade into the major land trade centre like Yangon port, the turnover of the trade with the People’s Republic of China makes up over 70 percent of the total volume of regular trade with the neighboring countries through land routes; and that so the trade zone is a thriving regular trade camp.

He called for systematically improving trade services through other land trade routes. He called for permission for regular trade between the two countries, so black market should have been no more. He called on local authorities and service personnel of the border trade zone to educate and organize merchants to turn to legal border trade and pay taxes. He called for developing the trade zone.

Next, Vice-Senior General Maung Aye inspected functions and development of Muse 105th Mile Border Trade Zone. Muse 105th Mile Border Trade Zone is seven miles from Muse. It has an area of 370.83 acres in the first phase. It is constituted with brokerage houses, warehouses, cold storages, vehicle stand, vehicle checkpoint, and hostels. Bilateral regular trade has been boosted year by year since 2006.

Information Minister attends 63rd Anniversary of Myanmar Radio and Television

NAY PYI TAW, 12 July

—A ceremony to mark the 63rd Anniversary of Myanma Radio and Television of the Ministry of Information took place this morning. Minister for Information Brig-Gen Kyaw Hsan attended the ceremony and awarded the outstanding staff.

It was also attended by departmental heads of the departments and enterprises under the ministry, technicians, staff members, chairmen and executives of Myanmar Motion Picture Asiayon and Myanmar Music Asiayon and guests.

Speaking on the occasion, Minister Brig-Gen Kyaw Hsan said the anniversaries of the departments and enterprises of the ministry were marked with two aims. The first aim was that departments concerned were to review their strong points and weak points in implementing their tasks in the previous year and then to try to make more progress this year.

The minister said the second aim was to award those who deserve so. And this can facilitate the progress of the departments concerned. Departments and enterprises would make more progress only when they were to perform their duties by adopting systematic aims and objectives, added the minister.

The main duty of the staff of the ministry was to organize the people through the media to actively participate in national development drives realizing prevailing peace and stability of the State and prevailing conditions of the nation.

The ministry has adopted and is realizing 12 objectives for the year 2009-2010.

Myanma Radio and Television is to realize the following 11 objectives:

1. to actively cooperate in successful implementation of the seven-step Road Map of the State through media
2. to work hard in order to earn more domestic income and foreign exchange and ensure balanced budget in respective departments
3. to practise thrift
4. to try to make the radio media coverage across the country
5. to try to make the television media coverage across the country
6. to try to transform analog system into digital system and use DVB-T system for networking the whole country
7. to try for the Myanmar media to cover not only the country but also the whole world
8. To extensively undertake agricultural and livestock breeding tasks in Central Myanmar, Yangon and other places
9. To try to become an active, quality media that is good in both form and essence.
10. to nurture and train media persons into reliable professionals, and
11. to accelerate agricultural and livestock farming for staff welfare.

Now, the nation has got prosperity for rapid development, he said, spotlighting the importance of inspiring the people to take lessons from the past untold miseries and to assess the objective conditions for long-term maintenance of stability, peace and development momentum. He urged all service personnel to try to become reliable, competent media professionals.

The minister presented gifts to five staff who won Medal for Excellent Performance in Social Field (Third Class), three staff who won Good Public Service Medal, Chairman of the Scrutiny Board for Classical Songs writer-cum-film director Bogale Tint Aung, Chairman of the Scrutiny Board for Modern Songs U Maung Maung Latt, and service personnel for their brilliant performances in airing programmes.

MRTV Director-General U Khin Maung Htay, IPRD Director-General U Ye Htut, NPE Managing Director U Soe Win, MMPE Managing Director U Aung Myo Myint, and PPE General Manager U Ye Tint presented gifts to outstanding staff and schoolchildren.

Next, MRTV staff members presented song programme and a role play.
Small island nations demand more emissions cuts

UNITED NATIONS, 12 July—This week’s pledges by G-8 leaders to cap increases in the world’s temperature are insufficient, a group of small island countries that face potential catastrophe from climate change said on Friday. The Alliance of Small Island States, a United Nations-based group of 42 island nations, called on the world’s richest countries and major economies to take more concrete and ambitious steps to fight global warming.

The G-8 countries and another 17-country group, the Major Economies Forum, agreed in L’Aquila, Italy, that global average temperatures should not be allowed to rise more than two degrees Celsius (3.6 Fahrenheit) by 2050. “Two degrees of temperature rise is unacceptable,” AOSIS Chair Dessima Williams told reporters at the United Nations.

If global temperatures increased that much, many island countries—already vulnerable to hurricanes, cyclones and other adverse weather—could get wiped off the map by rising sea levels, Williams said. “The world has an obligation to ensure that no island is left behind,” said Williams, who is also Grenada’s Ambassador to the United Nations. The group counts Barbados, Seychelles and Trinidad and Tobago among its members. —MNA/Reuters

A/H1N1 flu virus may get chance to mutate

SINGAPORE, 12 July—Singapore’s Health Minister Khaw Boon Wan warned here on Saturday that there is still a chance the A/H1N1 flu virus may mutate and get deadlier, according to Channel NewsAsia reports on Saturday night.

Studies have shown that the virus seems to be getting weaker as time goes by, but there is still a chance the A/H1N1 flu virus, the minister highlighted the priorities his ministry is now focusing on, besides high risk groups.

“We are taking a pause and reflecting on what we have learnt in the last three months, what are the lessons. So we are doing a post mortem on how we have reacted to this first wave, to learn from it, where can we do better is to prepare for the next wave. Cheney told CIA to withhold information

WASHINGTON, 12 July—The CIA withheld information about a secret counter-terrorism programme from Congress for eight years on orders from former US Vice President Dick Cheney, the New York Times said on Saturday.

Citing two unidentified sources, the newspaper said Central Intelligence Agency Director Leon Panetta disclosed Cheney’s involvement in closed briefings to congressional intelligence committees late last month. Panetta, who was named to head the agency earlier this year by President Barack Obama, ended the programme, which remains secret, when he first learned of its existence from subordinates on June 23, the Times said.

Intelligence and congressional officials told the newspaper the agency began the programme after the September 11 attacks and said it never became operational and did not involve CIA interrogation programmes or domestic intelligence activities. The newspaper said its efforts to reach Cheney through relatives and associates were unsuccessful.

Asked about the Times report, CIA spokesman Paul Gimigliano said it was not the agency’s practice to discuss classified briefings. “When a CIA unit brought this matter to Director Panetta’s attention, it was with the recommendation that it be shared appropriately with Congress. That was also his view, and he took swift, decisive action to put it into effect,” Gimigliano said, declining to comment further. —MNA/Reuters

G-8 nations vow to curb ENR technology, surprise India

NEW DELHI, 12 July—The group of eight developed countries have vowed to curb transfer of enrichment and reprocessing (ENR) technology and equipment, surprising India as it goes against the spirit of Nuclear Suppliers Group’s “clean” waiver to it.

In a joint statement on non-proliferation, the G-8 nations also pushed other members of the 45-nation NSG to reach a consensus within this year to disallow transfer of ENR to countries which are not signatories to NPT.

The statement was issued after the Summit that was attended by India’s Prime Minister Mammonohan Singh in L’Aquila in Italy.

The move, which would have had an impact on India, comes even though the NSG had last September given New Delhi “clean” and “full” waiver for civil nuclear cooperation with the world despite it being a non-signatory to NPT.

“To reduce the proliferation risks associated with the spread of enrichment and reprocessing facilities, equipment and technology, we welcome the progress that continues to be made by the NSG on mechanisms to strengthen controls on transfers of such enrichment and reprocessing items and technology,” said the statement issued Friday.—MNA/PTI
Haitian ferry capsizes; at least five people dead

PORT-AU-PRINCE, 12 July—A ferry cap- sized off Haiti’s southern coast Saturday morning, killing at least five people. Authorities said it wasn’t clear how many people were on board, but as many as two dozen could be missing.

Officials had ini- tially said six people were known dead, but later lowered the figure.

Civil protection of- ficial Jean-Michel Sabbat said the search was suspended late Satur- day afternoon and will resume on Sunday.

He said the boat over- turned en route from Anse a Pitre, near the border with the Dominican Republic, to the southern peninsula city of Jacmel.

Twenty-two survivors were rescued. Sabbat said rough estimates indicated that perhaps as many as 60 people were aboard the ves- sel. Officials could not im- mediately say what kind of boat it was or what caused it to overturn. Internet

Space companies eye HI as potential new frontier

HONOLULU, 12 July—Tourists coming to Hawaii for high-end getaways could some- day be launched from the sand to the stars, tak- ing island-hopping to new heights. Hawaii could even be the first state where space travelers use rocket planes to get from one place to an- other. Rather than launching and landing in the same spot, planners envision the planes taking off in one place, traveling through space, then coming down in another, going from the Big Island to Oahu. Within a decade, space travelers could island hop from Ha- waii to Japan in 45 minutes.

And promoters promise a unique perspective dur- ing the Hawaii flight.

“Flying down the Ha- waii island chain, it’s a completely different view of the planet than you’ll see when you launch from landlocked states,” said Chuck Lauer, vice presi- dent of business develop- ment for Oklahoma City- based Rocketplane Global.

Nigeria rebels, government agree amnesty

LAGOS, 12 July—Nigerian rebel leader Henry Okah has agreed to the terms of a government amnesty pro- gramme and his lawyers said they would meet Presi- dent Umaru Yar’A rituals on Sunday to discuss a timetable for his release.

The release of Okah, suspected leader of Nigeria’s most prominent militant group, would raise hopes some rebels would lay down their arms and halt an offensive in the Niger Delta, heartland of Africa’s biggest oil and gas sector.

“Terms of the amnesty have been settled. The agree- ment we are going to discuss (with the president) is the timeline for his release,” one of Okah’s lawyers, Wilson Ajuwa, told Reuters by telephone.

He said Okah, who has been facing charges of gun- running and treason, could be freed as early as Sunday after more than a year in detention.

London’s Royal Ballet to make Cuba debut

Havana, 12 July—The Royal Ballet of Lon- don said it will perform in Havana on Tuesday for the first time in its 78-year-old history, fea- turing an appearance of its star Cuban dancer Carlos Acosta.

The storied classical ballet company and its 96 dancers arrived late Fri- day in Cuba accompa- nied by 50 technicians for five performances, in- cluding a tribute to Cuban ballet legend Alicia Alonso, said Royal Bal- let artistic director Dame Monica Mason.

Despite suffering from partial blindness, Alonso, 88, continues to head the National Ballet of Cuba, which she helped found 60 years ago.

Mason told reporters she was honored to be in Cuba, where, she said, dance is at the heart of the people and the culture.

In a quid pro quo, Cuba’s National Ballet is scheduled to perform in the United Kingdom next year, accompanied by Acosta, the Royal Bal- let’s principal guest dancer.

Tropical fish enduring off Sydney coast

SYDNEY, 12 July—More tropical fish species are thriving off the Australian coast near Sydney because ocean temperatures have warmed, an ecologist says.

Marine ecologist David Booth of Sydney's University of Technology said when combined with the increasing strength of warming current has also allowed the New South Wales black sea urchin to survive in Tasmanian waters.

Booth said the growth of tropical fish species off Sydney's coast and the increasing temperatures are indicative of global climate change.

Peter Doherty, Australian Institute of Marine Science director, said the warming current has also allowed the New South Wales black sea urchin to survive in Tasmanian waters.

Doherty told the Morning Herald the undersea creatures wreak havoc on the sea floor by destroying kelp beds.

Knee surgery may not cut careers short

KEYSTONE, 12 July—Knee surgery doesn’t necessarily cut short a professional football career, a researcher reported at an orthopedic conference in Keystone, Colo., on Saturday.

Robert H Brophy, an assistant professor in the Department of Orthopedic Surgery at the Washington University School of Medicine and assistant team physician for the St Louis Rams, delivered a paper on his study of two new surgeons at the American Orthopaedic Society for Sports Medicine’s annual meeting.

He found football players who had anterior cruciate ligament reconstruction have a longer playing career than those who have a simple meniscus repair. The ACL is the ligament that restricts forward motion of the shin. An injury to the ACL makes the knee less stable and more prone to arthritis and cartilage tears.

The meniscus is a disc that cushions the knee. The meniscus surgery has a briefer recovery time than ACL reconstruction, but apparently leads to a shorter career, Brophy said. Players who have had ACL reconstruction have careers of similar length to those of players without ACL injuries.

Did dinos burrow to survive harsh climate?

ATLANTA, 12 July—Dinosaurs of different species in different hemispheres — millions of years apart — burrowed, perhaps to survive, an Emory University paleontologist says.

Anthony Martin, the paleontologist, and other researchers had discovered 95-million-year-old skeletal remains of dinosaurs in a fossilized burrow in southwestern Montana in 2006. The researchers said the find suggested burrowing may have allowed some dinosaurs to survive extreme environments, in contrast to some theories about how they became extinct.

Now, Martin has found evidence of more dinosaur burrows, on the other side of the world, in Victoria, Australia, findings to be published this month in Cretaceous Research.

“This research helps us to better understand long-term geologic change and how organisms may have adapted as the Earth has undergone periods of global cooling and warming,” said Martin, a senior lecturer in environmental studies at Emory and an honorary research associate at Monash University in Melbourne.

The Victoria fossils are about 110-million-years-old, dating to one of the last times Earth experienced global warming.

Thailand’s death toll from A/H1N1 flu rises to 17

BANGKOK, 12 July—Thailand has one more death related to A/H1N1 influenza virus infection, bringing the country’s death toll to 17, local media reported on Sunday.

The latest victim is a woman from Rachaburi Province, some 80 km southwest to the capital of Bangkok, the Thai-language news agency, INN quoted public health ministry sources as saying.

The woman is an Internet bar staff with a weight of some 150 kg, the INN said. The government has advised internet bars to close temporarily from 13 July to 28 July to avoid the risk of infection among net surfers.

As of Sunday morning, Thailand has confirmed 247 infection cases, bringing the country’s cumulative total to 3,475.

Thailand had its first two confirmed patients on 12 May.

Indian Air Force to place order for 10 “C-17” transport aircraft

NEW DELHI, 12 July—Indian Air Force (IAF) has shortlisted US Boeing’s C-17 Globemaster III to replace its heavy lift Russian IL-76 transport aircraft, said Defence Ministry sources on Saturday.

“The C-17s have been shortlisted after Indian Air Force carried out a thorough study on its capability to take-off and land on short runways with heavy loads,” said Defence Ministry sources on Saturday.

The C-17 transport aircraft is an aging fleet and the government realized this after taking the assessment of the military, they said.

They also revealed that IAF would place an initial order for 10 of the C-17s through the US Government’s Foreign Military Sales (FMS) route, and may later go in for a follow-on order.

There are about 100 medium-lift AN-32 aircraft and around 20 heavy lift IL-76 aircraft in the IAF fleet at present.

Kyaunggon Township, a region of banana

Article: Maung Maung Myint Swe; Photos: Kyaw Myint Than (Lanmadaw)

Kyaunggon Township is 40 miles away from Pathein in Ayeyawady Division. It was raining heavily when we arrived in Kyaunggon Township, which has a good reputation as a region of quality banana.

Soon after our arrival in Kyaunggon Township, we interviewed the chairman of the Township Peace and Development Council.

In response to our question about the progress in the agricultural farming of the region, he told Kyemon Daily, “We grow not only vegetables and kitchen crops but also areca nut, corn, ponlon (creeper), sugarcane and banana on a commercial scale."

In Kyaunggon Township, the areca nut sown acreage is about half of the total sown acreage of other crops. It sends up areca nut surplus to Pathein and Yangon. “Here, the yield of banana reaches at its peak in June and July. The total sown acreage of banana is 526 acres. Commonly, we grow Khunwa, Pheegyan (plantain) and Shwehngetpyaw. We send up the banana surplus by car mainly to Yangon.” (See page 7)
