Namhsan, a peaceful highland with array of development

Namhsan, Kyaukme District, Shan State (North), is home to most of Palaung nationals. The majority of Palaung nationals in Namhsan live on tea farming as the region is surrounded by over 5000 feet high mountains.

According to the historical documents and statues, King Mani Si Thu was presented tea seeds by Malaysia in 468 Myanmar Era in Bagan Period, and during his inspection tour of Namhsan, he presented tea seeds to local Palaung nationals at the summit of Lwehsaing Mountain to set up tea farms to earn their living.

So, it can be said that Myanmar’s tea farming originated in Namhsan. (See page 7)

Space station astronauts use robot arm, go Twitter

CAPE CANAVERAL, 21 July—Astronauts inside the international space station on Tuesday used robotic arms to move a storage pallet holding equipment for three experiments from the belly of the docked space shuttle Endeavour to the outside of the orbiting outpost’s Japanese-made lab.

Uplift of national prestige and integrity through performing arts competitions

The first coordination meeting of the leading committee comprising patrons for organizing the 17th Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions was held at the meeting hall of the Ministry of Culture in Nay Pyi Taw on 20 July.

The 17th Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions will be held with the four objectives: (1) Uplift of national prestige and integrity and preservation and safeguarding of cultural heritage and national character, (2) Uplift of morale and morality of the entire nation, (3) Uplift of dynamism of genuine patriotic spirit based on national unity, and (4) Emergence of new generations who will preserve and safeguard national character.

The Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions have been held yearly since 1993, and it has now turned the 16th anniversary.

Culture is physical and spiritual development of the people and human skill development and practice. The essence of the culture covers politeness, understanding and creation of cultural arts and safeguarding of cultural heritage.

The development of science and technology has adverse effects on the traditional cultures in the world. If alien cultures penetrate Myanmar's culture, the characteristics of the people will be eroded and the nationalistic fervour will be tarnished by the influence of other cultures.

The Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions have been held successfully for 16 consecutive years in line with one of the social objectives—uplift of national prestige and integrity and preservation and safeguarding of cultural heritage and national character. And it can be largely attributed to the encouragement and concerted efforts of the entire national people.

Afghan blast kills four GIs in deadliest month for US

KABUL, 21 July — A roadside bomb killed four American troops in eastern Afghanistan on Monday, driving the July death toll for US forces to the highest monthly level of the war.

The latest deaths brought to at least 30 the number of American service members who have died in Afghanistan this month — two more than the figure for all of June 2008, which had been the deadliest month for the US since the 2001 US-led invasion drove the Taliban from power.

July’s death toll for the entire US-led coalition, which includes American, British, Canadian and other forces, stands at 55 — well over the previous record of 46 deaths suffered in June and July of 2008.

US commanders had predicted a bloody summer after President Barack Obama ordered 21,000 additional US troops to Afghanistan in a bid to turn the tide against a resurgent Taliban and shift the focus on the global war against Islamic extremism from Iraq.

NATO’s outgoing Secretary-General Jaap de Hoop Scheffer said Monday that terrorism would spread through the world if NATO forces fail in Afghanistan.

Drought costs US state of Texas $3.6 bln in agriculture losses

HOUSTON, 21 July — Texas, the second-largest agriculture state in the United States, has lost about 3.6 billion US dollars in agriculture due to prolonged drought, and without sufficient rain, the state’s agriculture losses could exceed 4.1 billion dollars by the end of this year, officials said on Monday.

“Extreme or exceptional drought conditions for the second year in a row and prolonged weather with over 100 degree temperatures” have devastated agricultural crops and livestock operations, especially in central and south Texas which covers about 40 percent of Texas, said Carl Anderson, an economist with the Texas AgriLife Extension.—Internet

Militants raid UN compounds, ban three relief agencies

MOGADISHU, 21 July — Militants with alleged links with al-Qaeda looted two United Nations compounds in southern Somalia on Monday, and announced they will ban three UN agencies from operating in areas the militants control.

The United Nations confirmed that al-Shabab militants had stolen emergency communication equipment from its compound in Baidoa city, and two cars and some furniture from its compound in the town of Wajid. No injuries were reported. The UN said it was suspending its operations in Baidoa and continuing them in Wajid, which serves as the world body’s hub for humanitarian aid in the region.

Al-Shabab is battling to overthrow Somalia’s government, and it controls large areas of Mogadishu, the capital, and southern Somalia. The US State Department says the group has links with al-Qaeda, but al-Shabab denies that.

Somalia has not had a functioning government for 18 years since clan warlords overthrew a brutal dictator and then turned on each other, plunging the Horn of Africa nation into chaos and anarchy. Poverty is widespread, and the country’s civilians rely heavily on the food, drinking water and medical treatment that relief agencies provide.—Internet

Swine flu threatens British economy

LONDON, 21 July—The British economy could contract as much as 7.5 percent this year if the swine flu pandemic continues to escalate, a report published on Monday.

Recovery from the global economic downturn could be delayed as a result of the virus in Britain, the country worst hit by swine flu in Europe, according to the Ernst and Young ITEM Club group of economists.

ITEM said the economy would contract 4.5 percent this year, but if the A/H1N1 virus hit 50 percent of the population and 0.4 percent of those affected died, it could shrink three percentage points more.

The economy could also fall a further 1.2 percent in 2010, the report said.

England’s chief medical officer Liam Donaldson said last week that in a worst case scenario, around a third of the country’s population could be infected and 65,000 killed.—Internet

China requests WTO panel to probe US poultry import ban

GENEVA, 21 July — China Monday formally requested the World Trade Organization (WTO) to set up an expert panel to investigate and rule whether a US ban on Chinese poultry imports violates WTO regulations. The request was made at a meeting of the WTO’s Dispute Settlement Body, but it was rejected by the United States according to relevant procedures.

During the meeting, the Chinese delegation reiterated that the US measure is “discriminatory” and “has damaged the lawful rights and interests of China’s poultry industry.”

“While violating various WTO rules, the measure has severely undermined the stable development of Sino-US trade in poultry products,” the Chinese delegation said.

At the heart of the dispute is the US Omnibus Appropriations Act of 2009, which contains a section prohibiting any funds being used to facilitate imports of poultry products from China. The act was signed into US law in March, and China filed complaints to the WTO in on 17 April.—Internet

Halliburton’s second-quarter profit down by half

HOUSTON, 21 July— The world’s second largest oilfield-services provider Halliburton Co said Monday its second-quarter profits plunged by almost a half, a fall smaller than analysts had expected.

Excluding costs for job cuts, the company posted earnings per share of 30 cents, beating analysts’ average forecast of 26 cents, according to Reuters Estimates.

The company’s second-quarter revenue fell 22 percent to 3.49 billion dollars, while analysts had expected 3.41 billion dollars.

The company said its earnings were hurt by a “natural-gas prices that tumbled to less than half of year-ago levels, but profit in overseas markets such as the Middle East and Asia was helped by declining costs and stabilizing financial markets.”

Given the tough trading conditions, analysts said Halliburton’s second-quarter performance is actually a “pretty decent showing.”

Mexican official calls for collaboration to boost trade with China

MEXICO CITY, 21 July—Mexico’s trade with China could grow faster through appropriate cooperation between the two countries, a Mexican official said Monday.

“(Mexico’s) trade with China is dominated by US, Canadian and Japanese companies that buy in China to supply factories here that export to the United States,” Amapola Grijalva, executive vice-president of the Mexico-China Chamber of Commerce and Technology, told Xinhua in an interview. Grijalva, who also runs the trade consultancy WTC Group, said Mexican products that rely on such suppliers include toys, autos, shoes and leather goods. According to Grijalva, some companies buy as much as 90 percent of their supplies in China.

While trade in this area is supporting Mexico’s export industry, the lifting of quotas in particular is a key step to boost trade and investment between Mexico and China, she added.

“First comes trade, and then comes investment,” Grijalva said.

In July 2008, Mexico and China signed an investment protection agreement that came into effect last month. But Chinese firms are unlikely to profit from this agreement, as many Chinese goods still face triple-digit compensation quotas at the border, she noted.

Namhsan, a peaceful highland with array of development

(Article: Myint Maung Soe; Photos: Myo Min Thein (Mayangon)

In Myanmar, tea farming seems to have become gradually popular since then. Now, Namhsan is the largest tea producer in the nation as it stands at an altitude of 5332 feet.

Under the arrangements by Kyaukme District Peace and Development Council, we recently made a trip to Namhsan, a tea land, through Hsipaw. Namhsan is only more than 70 miles away from Kyaukme. However, the geographical barrier stopped our jeep from making headway for the hilly road is full of steep slopes and bends. We set out at 10 o’clock in the morning, but only at about 3 o’clock in the afternoon would we get to our destination. When we were about 10 miles to Namhsan on the way, we enjoyed a wonderful view of steep mountain ranges and tea farms on their slopes.

While we were approaching Namhsan, we saw Palaung nationals who were on their return from tea farms. Of them, Palaung men were wearing trousers and jungle boots, with their calves wrapped up with cloths, while Palaung women were wearing htami (sarongs) and jungle boots, with their calves wrapped up with cloths in order to defend themselves from mosquito bites. Almost everyone on return from work was carrying a bag and a sling bamboo basket of tea each. They sell their raw tea to the black tea factory, dry tea factory and wet tea factory in urban area. Some farmers make sun-baked tea and wet tea at home. During our tour of the highland, we every day saw donkeys with bags of wet tea and dry tea from surrounding villages of Namsang to tea sale centres. Everyday at sunup, local people of Palaung villages on mountains and mountain ranges around Namhsan go to tea farms with lunch boxes and sling bamboo baskets. On average, a worker can pluck tea leaves at the rate of five to eight viss a day. A viss of tea is priced 400 to 500 kyats.

Other crops do not grow well in Namhsan because it stands at an altitude of over 5000 feet. So, local people grow tea on a commercial scale. Long ago, armed insurgency reigned supreme around Namhsan, so local people were always in a state of panic. In contrast, they can now lead a peaceful life, as a result of peace-making process the government conducted with armed insurgents. With peace and stability restored across the region, local people have been in a position to work with all their might for regional development. So, Namhsan is now a peaceful highland with an array of development.

A person is the sole master of his fate

Chit Naing (Psychology)

Every person who is not satisfied with objective conditions and tries to incite riots, mass protests and terrorist acts with the intention of provoking utter devastation is burnt by the flame of their anger.

The earth is home to a very large variety of creatures. Everyone should turn to wholesome deeds to be able to lead a useful life. Now, the world population has reached more than 6500 million, and is estimated to touch as many as 8000 million by 2020. Many are in doubt that it is extremely difficult to be a human being. However, all those with suspicion in this regard will realize if they compare the number of human beings with the absolutely unlimited number of the remaining creatures on the earth and in the hell.

Once Daw Win Ngwe of Namsar-ung Ward in Mohnyin Township, Kachin State, told me, “In my first-hand experience, I try to cultivate a growing sense of merit, and I come to get along with others more than ever in life.” Here a noteworthy point is that a person with a growing sense of demential daily will never get along with others in his society. If a person is dissatisfied with the Earth for the fact that it rotates askew by 23 ½ degree on its axis, the outcome he will face is nothing more than distress. Likewise, every person who is not satisfied with objective conditions and tries to incite riots, mass protests and terrorist acts with the intention of provoking utter devastation is burnt by the flame of their anger. No one can go against ultimate truth that anger brings about negative results.

Surely, a person who is inciting mass demonstrations comes under his outrage. No one can save such a selfish person, because one is the sole master of his fate. Attachment is something that is greatly destructive. It derives from a Pali word “Upadana”, which means excessive concept or strong obsession. Attachment is of four types, namely kamupadan, ditthigata sampayutta, attavadupadan and attaupadan. Of them, kamupadan is mental concomitant based on greed, and the rest are mental concomitant based on wrong view.

No one but the Lord Buddha can get rid of the obsession of a person with mental concomitant based on wrong view replete with ditthigata sampayutta called attavadupadan. So, it is a completely awful concept. Kamupadan is an extreme unhealthy interest in something, which stops a person from thinking about anything else. A person under the influence of kamupadan indulges himself in six kinds of sensual pleasures such as good eating, wearing, good house,(eating, wearing, good house, good car, good home, good children), good sleep, good enjoyment, good friends, etc. Kamupadan is an extreme unhealthy interest in something, which stops a person from thinking about anything else.

For instance, a snake swallowing a frog, and a cat gripping a mouse firmly with its teeth. Excessive obsession of honour, title, position, power, status, fame and luxury is due to kamupadan. It is based on greed. When it is combined with wrong view, a person sticks to his concept even in the face of death.

Long ago, Sikhs and Punjabis had a belief that if a person is hit in his chest to death by a sword, spear or bullet of his enemy, he would reach heaven in the hereafter. If hit in his back, he will reach the hell. Therefore, they never withdrew but kept on marching to death in a battle. British army officers flattered Punjabis by saying that they are people with a strong fighting spirit. In reality, they never withdrew on the ground of their wrong concept.

In 21st century, the world sees a countless number of suicide bomb attacks. Some terrorists hijacked two passenger airplanes and steered them into the twin towers in the US. Today, suicide bomb attacks are mushrooming in Iraq, Afghanistan and Pakistan. Suicide bombers are indoctrinated with a wrong concept that if they die following their suicide bomb attacks, their society will break up as well. And their society will break up as well. Let’s prevent their mistaken acts in politics trying to incite unrest and violence in order to break up the nation. Let’s prevent their mistaken acts in order that the people will not suffer. It is difficult to embrace constructive acts. It takes time.

Destructive acts are easy to be embraced. Everything can be incinerated only with a match. The State has worked for years to ensure national progress and peace and security of the people. It does not matter who is who. Anyone taking part in building a peaceful, developed society is doing good deeds with loving-kindness. They will surely enjoy benefits in turn. I mean no particular person.

Anyone wanting to incite unrest and violence out of jealousy as well as his accomplices will meet a tragic end. And their society will break up as well.

Ultimate reality chooses no particular person. One’s own fate shall be decided depending on one’s own deeds, good or bad. Therefore, we will have to participate in doing good deeds, urge others to do so and praise those doing such deeds. We all must be of the same mind. The mighty beget the mighty. The world will be peaceful and become beautiful.

Destructive elements are only a handful. Because of their greed and ill deeds, they will meet a tragic end one day. A person is the sole master of his fate.

Nissan to produce electric fuel cells in Sunderland

LONDON, 21 July—Nissan is to invest 200 million pounds to build electric car batteries in Sunderland, in a move that was hailed on Tuesday as a bold step towards turning Britain into a global leader in green auto making.

The move will create 350 jobs in Sunderland, and makes it a contender to build the Japanese car giant’s new generation of electric vehicles.

“This product shows that Britain will lead the way in the new, low-carbon jobs of the future,” Prime Minister Gordon Brown said, visiting the plant where the new jobs were announced on Monday.

Dave Osborne of the Unite labour union said: “Not only is it a vote of confidence in the skills and talents of the workforce at the Nissan plant in Sunderland, it is good news on jobs for a part of the country which has been hit so savagely by this recession,” he said.—INTERNET

Singaporeans invest less after financial meltdown

SINGAPORE, 21 July—More than half of high-income earners in Singapore are saving more and investing less after the financial crisis struck, local media reported on Tuesday.

According to TV broadcaster Channel NewsAsia, a poll by Nielson Company showed that before the crisis, close to 39 percent from the high-income group saved most of their money.

However, 52 percent put their funds into savings after the financial meltdown. They are not putting their money into investments, which saw a drop of 7 percent, or insurance, down 6 percent.

The survey was conducted in March 2009 to find out how high-income earners in Singapore apportion their disposable cash before and after the global economic crisis.

The survey polled 921 Singaporeans aged 18 years and above and earning above 7,000 Singapore dollars (4,895 U.S. dollars) a month.

Nevertheless, compared to other income groups, high-income earners are still placing the most emphasis on investment, with over 36 percent continuing to invest during this current volatile climate.

Stocks and equities are the top choice (48 percent), followed by mutual funds (27 percent) and real estate (14 percent).—INTERNET

Fire breaks out in Rwandan gorilla park

KIGALI, 21 July—A fire raging in Rwanda’s Volcanoes National Park since the weekend does not currently pose a threat to the world’s last surviving mountain gorillas, officials told Radio Rwanda on Tuesday.

“The fire is continuing but everyone has been mobilised,” said Rosette Chantal Rugambwa, director of the Rwandan Office of Tourism and National Parks.

She said the blaze, which has destroyed “between 100 and 200 hectares (247 to 494 acres)”, has not affected tourism in the region because the gorillas are a long way from the area threatened by the fire.

According to Radio Rwanda, army helicopters have been helping to contain the fire.

The government-run station said the blaze, which broke out at the foot of the Muhurahura volcano, was the fault of a farmer who did not properly extinguish a fire he had lit while collecting honey from a hive.—INTERNET

Jumping rope the hottest way to fitness

ITHACA, 21 July — Jumping rope is not only a super form of exercise, it has become a competitive US national sport, a US freestyle jump roper says.

Liz Butterfield, the best female single-rope freestyle jump roper in America, says since the formation of USA Jump Rope in 1995, the sport has been on the rise, both as a competitive activity and as a way to increase strength, balance and cardiorespiratory endurance. Butterfield, a student at Ithaca College, Ithaca, NY, went before judges and a national audience in Galveston, Texas, to win her title. Butterfield did 75 seconds of dance steps and gymnastic moves synchronized to the rhythm of her spinning rope. She was among 995 jumper ropers from across the country competing in 12 events that included Pairs Single Rope Free-style — two people, each with their own ropes. “There are tons of different styles of freestyle jumping,” Butterfield says in a statement. “Some jumpers jump fast and incorporate a lot of rope manipulation. Others focus on the creativity and choreography aspects, while others tend to integrate more strength and gymnastic elements such as handstands and somersaults that will wow the crowd.”

The best thing about freestyle is that each jumper has his or her own style and brings new things to the competition, Butterfield says.

Fish may help reduce risk of dementia

LONDON, 21 July — A study involving 14,960 participants age 65 and older found increased fish consumption is associated with lower dementia risk, a British researcher says. The survey of older people was carried out at 11 sites — one urban and one rural in Peru, Mexico, China, and India and in urban sites only in Cuba, the Dominican Republic and Venezuela. More affluent areas of the countries were avoided.

Dietary habits were assessed by using standard, culturally appropriate face-to-face interviews and dementia was diagnosed by using validated culturally and educationally fair criteria.

In each of the study countries, except India, there was an inverse association between fish consumption and dementia prevalence. These data extend to low- and middle-income countries previous conclusions from industrialized countries, that increased fish consumption is associated with lower dementia prevalence in later life, says first author Emiliano Albanese of King’s College London.

The findings are published in the August issue of the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition.

ESA: Man will return to Moon by 2020 or 2025

PARIS, 21 July — Man will go back to the Moon by 2020 or 2025, Director-general of the European Space Agency (ESA) Jean-Jacques Dordain said on Monday, adding that Europe will play a role in the international mission.

In his statement published on the website of the ESA, Dordain talked about the significance of the 40th anniversary of Apollo 11’s landing on the Moon and of the continuing lunar exploration.

Dordain said the Moon could be seen as a part of the human environment, which would be used “to make scientific progress, to establish a warning system against asteroids or anything else threatening Earth, or to be a source of resources to take back to Earth.”

“I am sure humans will return to the Moon, but they will go to the Moon together and not in the context of two competing countries,” he restated.

“I think Europe will play a part in the international exploration of the Moon,” Dordain said.

Dordain believed that the lunar exploration mainly depends on the current US plan, which is expected to land a crew on the Moon by 2020.

“I am absolutely convinced that mankind will go back to the Moon by 20 years’ time, or maybe 20 years, but that is not the most important point. We’re not talking about a race. If it’s not in 2020, it will be in 2025 — it doesn’t really matter,” Dordain said.

Spanish experts to study solar eclipse in China

MADRID, 21 July — A group of more than 20 Spanish scientists are now in China to study this century’s longest solar eclipse, official sources said Monday.

The Spanish experts are expected to observe and tape record the rare phenomenon that will occur Wednesday in China, said the sources with the regional government in Extremadura, west of Spain.

The group, led by astronomer Miquel Serra-Ricart, a member of the International Astronomical Union, is composed of experts on astronomy, communications and informatics. Along with the experts, some young Spanish students also got the chance to visit China and its scientific facilities, the sources said.

Previous exercise helps stroke recovery

JACKSONVILLE, 21 July — A person who has exercised regularly prior to the onset of a stroke appears to recover more quickly, US researchers said.

Dr James Meschia of the Mayo Clinic in Jacksonville, Fla, said stroke patients who had previously exercised regularly before a stroke occurred were significantly more likely to have milder impairments and, thus, were better able to care for themselves, compared to patients who rarely exercised.

“It appears that exercise is very beneficial to people at risk of developing a stroke,” Meschia said in a statement.

“Many studies have shown that exercise can reduce the risk of developing a stroke in the first place, and this study suggests that if an active person does have a stroke, outcomes can be improved.”

However, Meschia cautions that a larger study is needed to validate his findings, because the study depended on recall from 673 people who had a stroke.

We’re not just in Asia to cash in, say Liverpool

BANGKOK, 21 July— Liverpool insist they are not just in Asia to cash in on the lucrative commercial opportunities the region offers, but to give their fanatical fans a chance to see them in the flesh.

The Reds arrived here Monday, minus Steven Gerrard who is embroiled in a court case back home, to play Thailand on Wednesday before jetting to Singapore for the second leg of their Southeast Asian visit.

Clubs in the past, notably Real Madrid, have been criticised for planning worldwide tours purely for the financial reward.

But Liverpool commercial director Ian Ayre insists his team wants to leave behind a legacy.

“We have a duty to contribute to these football markets and to our supporters over here,” he said on the club website.

“We have in place a strong legacy programme, encompassing many different initiatives and which can be broken down into different areas. “For example, we have a knowledge transfer programme at which Rafa will meet coaches from Thailand and Singapore, I will be meeting representatives from the local businesses and the medical team will also be having sessions.”—Internet

Fergie suggests a Ronaldo United return

KUALA LUMPUR, 21 July— Manchester United boss Alex Ferguson believes Cristiano Ronaldo could play for the club again one day, as he praised the Portuguese star’s commitment during his six-year spell at Old Trafford. “He may come back, you never know,” Ferguson told Britain’s Press Association in Kuala Lumpur where the team are on a pre-season Asian tour.

“Sometimes it happens that way. He loved United. If you look back at the six years he had with us, he never missed training.”

Ronaldo became the world’s most expensive player when he moved to Real Madrid on a six-year deal worth around 94 million euros (131 million dollars) and he made a low-key debut against Shamrock Rovers in Ireland on Monday. Still just 24, Ferguson was quoted as saying Ronaldo’s best was yet to come, describing him as the top player in the world by a long shot.

“He’s best is yet to come. He’s only 24. He came to the right club at the right part of his career,” he said.

Owen on target as Man Utd win in Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, 21 July— Michael Owen hit the target again Monday as Manchester United made it two wins out of two on their pre-season tour, beating a plucky Malaysian XI 2-0.

Michael Owen of Manchester United controls a passing near the Malaysia XI goal post during a match at the National Stadium in Kuala Lumpur. Manchester won 2-0 with one goal by Owen.

Owen struck after 13 minutes from close range for his second goal in as many games, soon after teenage striker Federico Macheda put the team in front.

But despite countless other chances they failed to stretch their lead in the energy-sapping conditions.—Internet

Querrey leads US hopes at Indy tennis

INDIANAPOLIS, 21 July— US third seed Sam Querrey fired 11 aces in a first-round victory over Frenchman Arnaud Clement, proving a competent fill-in for Andy Roddick at the ATP Indianapolis Championships.

A 6-3, 6-4 victory in 73 minutes put Querrey alongside seventh-seeded Marc Gicquel of France and number eight Uzbek Denis Istomin reaching the second round at the $450,000-dollar hardcourt tournament.

Gicquel drove another shot into the heart of a loving crowd for once-promising Ernesto Gulbis, hammering the Latvian 6-2, 6-3, while Istomin staged a comeback to eliminate American Kevin Kim 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Gulbis, a childhood Munich tennis academy friend of world number four Novak Djokovic, has gone badly off the boil this season, losing for the eighth time this year in a first round.—Internet

Wigan set to secure Under-21 Irish star McCarthy

LONDON, 21 July— Highly-rated Ireland Under-21 international midfielder James McCarthy snubbed newly-promoted English Premier League side Wolves on Monday when he agreed terms for a 1.2million pounds move to rivals Wigan Athletic.

The 18-year-old Scotland-born player - whose fee could rise to 3million pounds dependent on appearances - is the second major loss to Scottish Premier League side Hamilton Academical after Scottish Under-21 international Brian Easton moved to Premier League newboys Burnley last week.

“James is a superb prospect and I know Roberto Martinez and Wigan will look after him,” Hamilton chairman Ronnie MacDonald told BBC Scotland.

Wigan expect the deal concluded for the Ireland Under-21 international within 24 hours. Tottenham Hotspur made a late expression of interest, while Celtic manager Tony Mowbray admitted that his club were being priced out of the race after they and Burnley had bids rejected earlier this summer.—Internet

Technological University (Pathein) projects the image of Ayeyawady Division

Driving along Pathein-Yangon Road, the motorcar bound for Pathein approached Kangydaunt Township in Pathein District. When we arrived at Apin Hnahse Village in Kangydaunt Township, we were greeted by a massive building with a stone plaque in front of it, saying “Technological University (Pathein)”. We drove along the straight, wide concrete road into the campus of the educational facility, and stopped at the entrance to the main building. We saw university students walking here and there with smiles and pleasures on the campus. The peaceful scene made me feel thrilled to recall my memories of school days at university.

(See page 10)

Local youths of Ayeyawady Division can pursue technological subjects at Technological University (Pathein).
