Roadside bomb kills five Afghan civilians, wounds six others

KABUL, 4 Jan—Five Afghan civilians were killed and six others sustained injuries as a roadside bomb struck a vehicle in Nimroz Province west of Afghanistan, provincial governor Ghulam Dastgir Azad said on Saturday.

“The gruesome incident occurred in a far-flanged village along the border with Farah Province, when the innocent civilians were returning home from a local bazaar on Friday,” Azad told Xinhua.

Afghan forces kill 25 militants

KABUL, 4 Jan—Afghan and the NATO-led troops in a campaign against Taleban militants in the northern Kunduz Province have killed over two dozen fighters including their local commander, provincial governor Mohammad Omar said on Sunday.

The joint forces raided Taleban hideouts in Dasht-e-Archi District on Saturday and eliminated 25 rebels including their commander Mullah Abdullah, Omar told Xinhua. Three other militants were detained during the operation and some others sustained injuries, he said. Abdul Rahman Haqash, deputy to the provincial police chief, confirmed the conflict, adding that Mullah Abdullah was involved in carrying out series of “subversive attacks”.

Meanwhile, Zabihullah Mujahid, who claims to speak for the Taleban outfit, in talks with media via cellular phone from an undisclosed location, disputed the claim made by officials, saying that no Taleban fighters were killed in the clash.

The Press officer told the newspaper that 280 foreign soldiers were killed by improvised explosive device (IED) strikes, which is branded the most lethal kind of attack launched by the Taleban.

Loftin failed to disclose as which country suffered how many military casualties.

Dubai to open world’s highest tower to cater for more tourists

BEIJING, 4 Jan — Dubai is set to open the world’s tallest building to cater to growing numbers of tourists to the Gulf Arab emirate amid tight security, according to media reports on Monday.

The tower is being celebrated as a bold feat on the world stage, despite the city state’s shaky financial footing.

But the final height of the Burj Dubai — Arabic for Dubai Tower — remains a closely guarded secret.

It long ago vanished its nearest rival, the Taipei 101, and ranks as the world’s tallest structure, beating out a television mast in North Dakota, Dubai-based architects said.

Some 12,000 workers and 100 cranes have built the hotel, residential and shopping complex which will include over 1,000 luxury apartments. The tower alone would cost at least 1 billion US dollars to construct, excluding the complex malls, lakes and smaller tower blocs.

“The design has pushed the limits of what technology can achieve, no one has gone that high before. You have to invent new elevators that can sustain such heights,” Naaman Atallah, sales manager for its owner Emaar told. The Burj’s record-seeking developers didn’t stop there.

The building boasts the most stories and highest occupied floor of any building in the world. Its observation deck — on floor 160 — also sets a record.

Honouring the 62nd Anniversary Independence Day:
Preserve heritage handed down by our ancestors

Maung Maung Moe Aung

Myanmar’s Independence Day is in its 62nd anniversary on 4 January 2010. British colonialists annexed Myanmar through the First Anglo-Myanmar War (1824), the Second Anglo-Myanmar War (1852), and the Third Anglo-Myanmar War (1885). To regain Myanmar’s independence cost lives of a large number of its people.

The historic lessons remind that each and every citizen needs to have anti-colonialist sentiment, a strong sense of patriotism, and the fervour of cherishing own race. Only then will it be possible for them to realize the value of independence and to have a sense of safeguarding independence.

Only a tiny minority of human beings bears in mind the value of health while they are healthy. Only when they are sick with mental and physical sufferings will people have a longing for good health. Water is taken for granted because it can be obtained easily. We can know well the value of water fully only if taken for granted, independence may be lost in no time, but to regain independence may cost a countless number of lives of the people. Needles to say, independence cannot be regained with no sweat. I would like to present some points about the three aggressive wars the British waged on Myanmar.

On 5 March 1824, the British launched its first aggressive war on Myanmar, and it was over on 24 February 1826. According to Yantabo Treaty inked to put an end to the war, Myanmar had to give up Assam, Manipura, Rakhine and Taninthayi and pay a war indemnity of one million Starling pounds.

The British waged the second aggressive war on the nation in April 1852, which lasted seven months. After the war, Myanmar had to give up lower Myanmar from Myayte.

The third aggressive war began on 14 November 1885, taking only a couple of weeks.

With a strong sense of unwavering spirit, and patriotism, the people tried their utmost to repulse the attacks by the colonialists. Due to the great gap of armed power and warfare, Myanmar had to temporarily succumb to the British attacks.

Undaunted by the enormity of the task, the entire national brethren took every minute throughout the colonial period to regain independence.

From 1886 to 1906, anti-colonialist movements were being operated constantly under the leadership of patriot revolutionaries such as Bo Cho of Bagan, U Aung Myat of Wuntho, Limpin Prince of Shan State, Saw La Phaw of Kayah State, Bo Sun Pet of Chin State, Bo Net Kyaw of Popa region, Bo Heik Yin Hmut of Shwebo, Bo Tha Kyan of Kyunse, Bo Ottama of Hsinbyugyun, Myinsai Prince of Zeebingyi, Bo Min Yaung of Natmauk in Taungdwingyi, Bo Po Hsin and Bo Po Win of Myanmyo, Bo Toe and Bo Zeya of Mandalay, Saw Yan Paing and Saw Yan Naing of Katha Moguang, Saw Phahtit of Taungdhat, Nwae Joepyhu Prince, Phonkan Duwah, Hsama Duwah and Hsaihsin Duwah of Kachin State, Saw Maha Naw Kham Oo of Wa Region, Bo Tha Hman, Bo Hlaing, Bo The and Bo Lugalay of Pyinmana, Bo Nyan of Kanma. In 1920, the people were categorically opposed to the education system designed to prolong the colonial rule. Then, there emerged national schools.

On 10 June 1940, Burma Letyon force, Thammani force, police force and Myoma volunteers force were combined into the National Defence League in Myoma School, Yangon.

On 10 March 1941, Myanmar youths dividing themselves into four groups left Myanmar for Kyushu Island in Japan, and underwent military training in Sowa, Hainan Island. On 31 December 1941, the Burma Independence Army (BIA) was formed in Bangkok. On 12 January 1942, together with Japanese troops, the five columns of BIA launched attacks, and in late May, they managed to reoccupy Myanmar. On 28 June 1942, Asian Youths Association was formed. In early August, AFPFL (Anti-Fascist People’s Freedom League) was established secretly under the leadership of Myanmar patriots. On 27 March 1945, BIA left the place (now Resistance Park) in Yangon, and along the way, the troops received rousing welcome from local people. On 27 March 1945, AFPFL together with the people launched Anti-Fascist Resistance. Fascists surrendered on 17 May 1945.

Following the retreat of the Fascist government, the British reentered the nation and took the office again. Therefore, the people had to fight back the British colonialists again. On 20 January 1946, the AFPFL held a national conference in the middle terrace of the Shwedagon Pagoda. On 29 September 1946, the mass of people along with the AFPFL unanimously opposed the white paper of the British colonialists. A Myanmar delegation went to London on 27 January 1947 and signed Aung San-Attlee agreement. On 12 February 1947, Panglong Conference was successfully held for national unity and Panglong agreement was inked.

The independent Union of Myanmar was declared on 4 January 1948. The above-mentioned points are only a brief account of struggles for regaining independence by sacrificing a great deal of lives, sweat and blood for many years. Preserving and safeguarding the independence that was achieved by risking lots of lives is indispensable. The younger generation who were born after regaining independence without the bitter experience of being under subjugation are mainly responsible for safeguarding independence for its perpetuity. They have to protect and maintain independence with anti-colonialism, the spirit of valuing independence and the spirit of cherishing their own nation and people. “Our Three Main National Causes” is instrumental in preserving and safeguarding independence. Three Main National Causes — (1) Non-disintegration of the Union, (2) Non-disintegration of national solidarity and (3) Perpetuation of sovereignty — are three main pillars of safeguarding independence for its perpetuity.

Only with peace and stability

Then only, will we be able to achieve the goal of peaceful, discipline flourishing democratic nation and safeguard the Independence, won’t we father?

For me, I’m opposed to riots.

Soe Min (Pabedan)

The three main pillars depend on each other. Out of them, if one collapses, all will break up. If national unity broke up, the Union would break up. If the Union split, sovereignty would be lost. If independence was lost, the nation would be under subjugation again. Our Three Main National Causes, therefore, is of utmost importance to safeguard already-achieved independence for its perpetuity.

Media sector endeavouring utmost to enhance public knowledge
Efforts aimed at extending global coverage of Myanmar media

Hlaing Bwa (Parami)

Touching the Myanmar lish and green coastline was the Bay of Bengal stretching far towards the horizon. The Inland Water Transport-run double-decker I was riding was sailing in the waters lying between these two splendid sceneries. I chose this double-decker as I would not be able to enjoy the natural beauties all along the way if I traveled by Sittway-Taungup hovercraft service. For some, the double-decker was slow and boring. But for me, I was fully captivated by the beauty of nature while listening to FM radio. During my childhood, we could not listen to the radio programmes clearly in this coastal sea. But now it is different. Technology cannot be monopolised anymore. FM radio stands witness to the fact that not only the West but also the East is enjoying rapid technology development.

Apart from me, fishermen I saw from my boat were also listening to FM programmes, while doing their work. That was a view I had never seen before. They would be listening to Myanmar traditional songs and music as well as pop and rock. The occupation of these fishermen has become more lively thanks to the amazing advancement of the media of the new age. The radio will also save many lives as it will warn people of the coming natural disasters in a state of emergency.

While thinking about these media advantages, the accomplishments of the Ministry of Information after 1988 came into my mind.

The radio programme was first launched on 15 February 1946 with one 7.5kw short-wave transmitter and one 5kw medium-wave transmitter. In 1957, three RCA 50kw short-wave transmitters and one RCA 50kw medium-wave transmitter were added. In 1971, programmes were extended with the use of a new CMEC 50kw medium-wave transmitter. January 1988 saw the introduction of FM system along with three RIZ 50kw short-wave transmitters and two AEG 100kw medium-wave transmitters. In the past, FM programmes could be received only in Yangon and its surrounding areas. Hence, the Ministry of Information added three more 100kw medium-wave machines and one 50kw short-wave machine and extended the broadcasting time of the main programme and national races language programmes. During the time, 82.83% of the nation’s population could receive medium-wave programmes and 53.02% were within the reach of short-wave programme.

With the participation of private entrepreneurs in launching FM radio programmes, Padanyar FM in the north of Myanmar is transmitting radio programmes to the people residing in Kachin State and Sagaing Division. Shwe FM in the south of Myanmar to those in Mon State and Kayin State, Pyin Nwadwa FM in the west of Myanmar to those in Rakhine State and Ayeyawady Division, Cherry FM in the east of Myanmar to those in Shan State and Kayah State, Mandalay FM to those in the central Myanmar and Bagan FM to those in Chin State and Magway Division. If the FM stations in Popa, Thandwe, Kayangkon, Taunggo, Pyay, Minhla, Bilin, Kawthoung, Monywa, Myitkyina, Lashio, Kengtung, Taichilek, Loikaw and Mindu are completed, the people across the nation will be able to listen to Myanmar FM radio programmes.

Just like the radio programmes of FM, Nay Pyi Taw Myanma Athan is presenting regular and national races programmes clearly with sophisticated technologies. The people from Kachin, Shan and Kayin States and Taninthayi Division have already had access to the programmes of Nay Pyi Taw Myanma Athan. Now most of FM radio stations produce their programmes from 6 am to 10 pm. Soon, radio programmes will be presented to the public from 5 am to 11 pm. Plans have been under way to extend FM radio transmitters in Putao, Phakant, Laukkai, Tamu, Haka, Sittway in the first phase, Mogang, Mohmyin, Kunlon, Lashio, Kannaydi, Buthidaung in the second phase, An, Peinmetang, Taungup and Thandwe in the third phase.

On completion, the people across the nation will be able to enjoy listening Myanma Athan radio programmes. In addition, Myanma Athan radio programmes were posted on the Internet starting from January 2003 and therefore, the people can listen to the programmes while working.

With the success of transmitting radio programmes, Myanma Radio and Television had only 15 TV retransmission stations before 1988. Now, there are 25 retransmissions in Kachin State, 7 in Kayah State, 8 in Kayin State, 11 in Chin State; 24 in Sagaing Division, 17 in Taninthayi Division, 5 in Bago Division, 6 in Magway Division, 6 in Mandalay Division, 2 in Yangon Division, 5 in Ayeyawady Division, 6 in Mon State, 12 in Rakhine State, 82 in Shan State totalling 216 in the country. All these stations are presenting radio programmes to 91.72 percent population of the whole nation.

MRTV-4 has been broadcasting news, songs, movie and interview programmes from early morning to time to bed since its launch in May, 2004. Besides, other programmes such as 5 Cartoon, 5 Movies, 5 Series, ESPIN, STAR SPORTS, CNN, NGC WILD, 5 Movies MTV, CHANNEL-V, STAR MOVIES, STAR WORLD, NGC, ANIMAL PLANET, ADVENTURE ONE are on the MRTV-4.

The channel-4 has converted its telecast system to DVB-T system since February, 2005. Thanks to the Free-to-Air System, the telecast of MRTV-4 could be received without digital receiver in Yangon and its environs in December, 2006, and Mandalay (Sagaing) and its environs in April, 2009. Meanwhile, the duration of telecast has been extended up to 20 hours per day. Today, the channel-4 broadcasts its programmes through 26 retransmission stations. When the DVB-T system of the MRTV-4 is in full swing, the digital telecast will reach across the country.

Owing to the cooperative efforts of the Myanmar Radio and Television-MRTV and Information and Public Relations Department-IPRD, people in far-flung areas can enjoy the programmes of MRTV-4 through DTH (Direct To Home) Terminal Equipment (Set-top Box) system equipped at their villages. The combination of new re-transmission stations and use of DTH satellite dishes across the country has become the turning point in the change of media in the country.

Media sector endeavouring utmost to enhance public knowledge...

Moreover, as from August, 2001, MRTV-3 has broadcast its programmes in English to enable the people living abroad to know the traditional culture and customs of Myanmar. The programmes of MRTV-3 can be received in Europe from 3 pm to 11.30 pm (MST) and in North America from 11.30 pm to 7.30 am (MST). Besides, daily newspapers in Myanmar and English languages can be reached on the website of MRTV-3.

MRTV-3 also broadcasts two-hour programmes of MRTV-4 to Europe and North America daily. As part of its extensive coverage to reach global coverage in future, the channel-3 has used more satellites, advanced equipment, signed MoUs with international TV stations and exchanged news and programmes with them. The channel-3 has also planned to extend the telecast duration from 16 hours to around the-clock to reach the global coverage.

As part of efforts for development of the media sector, the Ministry of Information has also implemented the five tasks to enable every village gets a library each. Thanks to the cooperative efforts of local authorities, wellwishers, organizations and local people, the total number of libraries across the country has reached 55,755. Today, efforts are being made to turn the libraries in villages into the places which can help future leaders of villages, the places which can help broaden the knowledge of local people, the places for meetings, community centres and electronic libraries. Thanks to the ministry’s noble and ambitious efforts, libraries have mushroomed across the country, and the country would become the one which can establish library in every village of the country.

There was no library in villages till 1988. Today, libraries in villages help villagers broaden their horizons. Seventy per cent of the population of the country is living in rural areas. Efforts to enable the rural people to become the Life Long Learning Societies can overcome the challenges of the Knowledge Age have also brought the country on the road to development.

The number of students at basic education level has increased from 5 million in 1988 to over 8 million this year. As part of efforts for fulfilling the need of the students, the Printing and Publishing Enterprise has printed text books and exercise books so that the students can buy books at reasonable prices. In 1988, there were five State-owned printing presses only. Now there are seven State-owned printing presses due to Upper Myanmar Press House (Mandalay) set up in 2003. Nay Pyi Taw Press House (Tatkon) in 2006 for printing works of education sector and State’s printing works and in order to meet the demands of the regions concerned.

In carrying out the task of delivering dailies to each and every village, the News and Periodicals Enterprise is organizing people not only to emerge volunteers who deliver dailies to the furthest areas and donors but also to buy dailies by the villages with a sense of cooperation.

In line with the advancement of the media dailies are being printed at sub-printing houses in Mandalay, Taunggyi, Magway, Kengtung, Kalay, Myitkyina, Sittway, Lashio and Meiktila, not printing at one place. As sub-printing houses were set up in all parts of the nations, the entire people can read dailies in time.

Today’s dailies play a prominent role in fulfilling the public demand for news as form and content of dailies are being changed. We can read dailies printed with colours soon as the News and Periodicals Enterprise has bought modern colour printing presses, and they have been installed.

Besides, the Myanmar Motion Picture Enterprise is striving for forging of nationalism and patriotic spirit among the people. Development in movie industry lagged behind in terms of modern technology as machines used in movie industry were old and expired ones manufactured 30 years ago. After 1988, movie industry has seen progress to a certain degree thanks to contribution of the government in purchasing new machines and changing and installation of parts with the aim of keeping abreast of the international movie industry. In accord with the guidance of the Head of State, the Ministry of Information is fulfilling the needs for promotion of Myanmar movie industry. In 2007, machines such as stereo converter, color separation machine and film developing machine had been bought and modern HD Professional camera and accessories in 2009. In addition, Myanmar movie industry has been able to open a new era as Digital Cinema has been opened in Nay Pyi Taw. Plans are underway to cooperate with international movie industries. Thus, Myanmar will soon be able to produce films with better stories, play scripts and acting, sharper pictures and better sound quality.

As the ship was closing to Taungup, passengers on board were packing up. Along the trip, I was thinking about the media and visualizing the retransmission station on Thandi Thukha Hill by Taungup-Thanhwe Road. As the advanced transmission machines have been installed, the retransmission station will enable to transmit the programmes covering the beautiful scenes of the country and news to Taungup. Hence, the region will bear the testimony to the development of Myanmar media sector.

Study focused on cellphone health risks

RALEIGH, 4 Jan — A US scientist says researchers are taking another run at determining whether cellphone use can actually cause cancer.

John Bucher, associate director of the national toxicology programme at North Carolina’s Research Triangle Park, says while cellphone safety has been the focus of dozens of studies worldwide, the ongoing five-year, $25 million study involves a comprehensive focus that could yield new answers. The (Raleigh, N.C.) News & Observer reported on Saturday.

“We have the world’s experts working on this project,” Bucher said. “If the question can be answered using animal experiments, this study is as good a shot as we have to answer that question.”

For the study, researchers will expose nearly 1,000 rats to electromagnetic radiation. Radiation levels in the study will be similar in intensity to levels given off by cellphones.

“I anticipate either no correlation or, if anything is seen at all, it won’t be a strong signal,” Bucher said of his expectations of the study’s outcome. “There’s no biological basis explaining why anyone would expect to see adverse effects from cellphone radiation.”—Internet

GHAZNI, 4 Jan — Two Afghan border policemen were killed as the vehicle they were riding on ran over a roadside bomb in southern Zabul Province of Afghanistan, deputy provincial police chief Gulham Jalili Khan said on Monday.

“The blast occurred Sunday evening in Shamulzayi district, when a police unit was on routine patrol,” Jalili Khan told Xinhua. “As a result two policemen were killed and their car was damaged.”

Lava tube could house moon colony

TOYKO, 4 Jan — A deep lava tube discovered on the moon could shield human colonists from harsh temperatures and meteorites, Japanese scientists said.

The tube, in the Marius Hills on the moon’s near side, is believed to be 213-feet wide and more than 260-feet deep, said Junichi Haruyama, a researcher with the Japanese space agency JAXA. The tube was discovered through images taken by the Japanese moon orbiter SELENE.

“Lunar lava tubes are a potentially important location for a future lunar base, whether for local exploration and development, or as an outpost to serve exploration beyond the Moon,” Haruyama and his team wrote in a recent issue of the American Geophysical Union.

Vietnam orders gold-trading floors shut by end-March

HANOI, 4 Jan — Vietnam, where many people see gold as a safe haven against economic uncertainty, has ordered public gold-trading floors shut by 31 March because they rest on a “fragile foundation”.

The order affects about 20 gold-trading houses operated by banks and other firms, which have been running for more than two years, the state-run Vietnam News reported. Retailing of gold jewellery will still be allowed, it said.

The gold-trading floors have offered heavily-leveraged trading in which investors pay a security deposit of only seven percent of the net asset value of their trades while banks back the rest, the report said.—Internet

Arsenal down West Ham at FA Cup

London, 4 Jan—Arsenal came from behind to beat West Ham 2-1 in a thrilling London derby at Upton Park for the third round of FA Cup here on Sunday. With just 12 minutes to go, the Gunners were behind to their Premier League rivals after Alessandro Diamanti had put the struggling Hammers ahead on the stroke of half-time.

But in the 78th minute, Aaron Ramsey equalised with a fierce shot from close range after the 19-year-old Wales midfielder had been neatly played in by Carlos Vela. Five minutes later Arsenal had the lead when Eduardo rose high to power in a header for the ten-minute FA Cup winners.—Xinhua

Barca coach Guardiola warns his players there is still work to do

Madrid, 4 Jan—Barcelona coach Pep Guardiola had a message for his players after watching them draw 1-1 at home to Villarreal on Saturday night. Real Madrid wastes chance to go top in Spanish soccer league

Madrid, 4 Jan—Real Madrid could only draw 0-0 away to Osasuna this Sunday night to help FC Barcelona maintain its two-point lead at the top of the Spanish Primera Liga. Barcelona’s 1-1 draw at home to Villarreal on Saturday night meant that a win for Manuel Pellegrini’s side in Pamplona would have lifted them to the top of the table.

However, Osasuna’s El Sadar Stadium was not a difficult ground for Real Madrid to visit and Sunday proved to be no exception. Atletico Madrid seals loan deal for Juventus defender Molinaro

Madrid, 4 Jan—Atletico Madrid reached an agreement this Sunday with Italian side Juventus to take left back Cristian Molinaro on loan until the end of the current season.

The Spanish Primera Liga club has been looking to add to its leaky defense and Molinaro’s arrival will provide competition for current left backs Antonio Lopez and Mariano Perina, who has only just returned to the first team after suffering a car crash this summer.

Molinaro has struggled to hold down a regular place in the Juventus starting line this season, making just four first team appearances in Italian Serie A since the start of the campaign.

“It is a loan deal that gives us an option to make the move permanent in June, depending on his performances, we will decide whether to keep him or not,” Atletico President Enrique Cerezo told the online version of sports paper Diario Marca. Madrid, 4 Jan—Atletico Madrid reached an agreement this Sunday with Italian side Juventus to take left back Cristian Molinaro on loan until the end of the current season.

The Spanish Primera Liga club has been looking to add to its leaky defense and Molinaro’s arrival will provide competition for current left backs Antonio Lopez and Mariano Perina, who has only just returned to the first team after suffering a car crash this summer.

Molinaro has struggled to hold down a regular place in the Juventus starting line this season, making just four first team appearances in Italian Serie A since the start of the campaign.

“It is a loan deal that gives us an option to make the move permanent in June, depending on his performances, we will decide whether to keep him or not,” Atletico President Enrique Cerezo told the online version of sports paper Diario Marca. Ironically the signing comes less than 24 hours after Antonio Lopez gave his team a 2-1 win against Sevilla by scoring a 93rd minute header on Saturday night.—Xinhua
Man arrested after stealing ambulance

KANSAS, 4 Jan—According to the Associated Press, Kansas police have arrested a 21-year-old man in the college town of Lawrence after he stole an ambulance while he was driving under the influence.

Police Sgt. Susan Hadl told the AP that the ambulance crew parked the vehicle early Sunday morning while responding to a medical call at a nearby bar. Hadl then said that, after the man led police on a brief, low-speed chase and was subsequently arrested, he explained that he was intoxicated and believed this was the only method of him getting home.

The man was charged with theft of the ambulance as well as driving under the influence.

The wannabe ambulance driver should’ve teamed up with Justin Parker. Parker was charged with two counts of stealing a motor vehicle and two counts of driving while intoxicated when he managed to steal an ambulance from a Kansas City hospital back in July. Parker was at the hospital for blood work when he decided to hop in the ambulance and lead cops on an hour chase while he swerved all over the road. The chase ended when Parker crashed the ambulance and tried to get away. He was bitten by a police dog.

Thomas Glisson, also of Kansas City (what’s the deal with KC and stolen ambulances?) was accused earlier this year of also stealing an ambulance outside a hospital.
