Uplift health care services for people

The government is building infrastructures for development of economic, transport, communication, education and health sectors in both hilly areas and plain regions throughout the country.

A large number of people lost their lives and property in the cyclonic storm Nargis that hit Ayeyawady Delta over two years ago. Since then the government gave priority to gaining development momentum in the region.

A ceremony to inaugurate a 200-bed extended hospital, donated by the proprietor family of Dagon International Co, took place in Pyapon in Pyapon District on 27 September.

Thanks to construction of the hospital, the national people residing in Ayeyawady Region can enjoy better opportunity to receive medical treatments in their township and district. In addition, the hospital will be a drive for uplifting the health standard of the local people.

Likewise, the projects on construction of Bogale Township (100-bed) People’s Hospital and Mawlamyinegyun Township (100-bed) People’s Hospital are under implementation as part of efforts to uplift health care services to be given to the local people.

Nowadays, the government is working on all cylinders to substitute new structures in the places of old ones in Ayeyawady Region. Thanks to concerted efforts of the government, the people and the Tatmadaw, greater progress can be seen in the region in a short period.

US appeals court allows federal funding of embryonic stem cell research to continue

WASHINGTON, 29 Sept.—A federal appeals court ruled on Tuesday that federal funding of human embryonic stem cell research may continue, pending a full appeal of a federal court decision.

The ruling, made by the US Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, lifted the temporary injunction ordered on 23 Aug by Chief Judge Royce Lamberth of the US District Court for the District of Columbia. Lamberth has said all embryonic stem cell research involves destroying embryos, which violates the Dickey-Wicker Amendment included in federal spending bills. The Obama administration appealed Lamberth’s decision, and a three-judge panel of the appeals court on 9 Sept temporarily lifted the injunction pending further consideration.

“President (Barack) Obama made expansion of stem cell research and the pursuit of groundbreaking treatments and cures a top priority when he took office,” White House spokesman Robert Gibbs said in a statement after the ruling. “We’re heartened that the court will allow NIH (National Institutes of Health) and their grantees to continue moving forward while the appeal is resolved.”

Embryonic stem cells are cells contained in embryos that have the ability to transform themselves into virtually any other type of cell in the body.

Study shows how scientists can find missing species

SINGAPORE, 29 Sept.—More than a third of mammal species considered extinct or missing have been rediscovered, a study says, and a lot of effort is wasted in trying to find species that have no chance of being found again.

Species face an accelerated rate of extinction because of pollution, climate change, habitat loss and hunting and that this rate of loss is putting ecosystems and economies at ever greater risk, according to the United Nations.

Researchers at the University of Queensland in Australia said a greater understanding of patterns of extinction could channel more resources to finding and protecting species listed as missing before it’s too late.

“In the past people have been very happy to see individual species found again but they haven’t looked at the bigger picture and realized that it’s not random,” university research fellow Diana Fisher, lead author of the study, told Reuters.

Fisher and her colleague Simon Blomberg studied data on rediscovery rates of missing mammals to see if extinction from different causes is equally detectable. They also wanted to see which factors affected the probability of rediscovery.

They found that species affected by habitat loss were much more likely to be misclassified as extinct or to remain missing than those affected by introduced predators and diseases.

Nintendo 3DS launch to miss year-end shopping season

CHINA, 29 Sept.—Nintendo Co Ltd (7974.0S) said on Wednesday it would launch a 3D-capable version of its DS handheld game console in Japan on 26 February and in the United States in March, missing the crucial year-end shopping season.

Shares of Nintendo dropped on the announcement and ended trading down 3.7 percent at 23,030 yen. The new DS, which can be used to play 3D games and watch films in 3D without special glasses, will cost 25,000 yen ($298) in Japan, Nintendo President Satoru Iwata said at a launch event.

That compares with retail prices of about 12,000-16,000 yen for existing DS models in Japan.

Nintendo did not reveal the price or exact launch date for the US, by far the biggest market for the game machine maker. But it may lose customers to rivals Sony Corp (6758.T) and Microsoft (MSFT.O), whose motion-gaming peripherals will be on the market in time for the year-end.

The new 3DS created buzz when it was revealed at the E3 game show in the United States earlier this year, and Nintendo needs a new hit product as sales of its aging DS models and Wii home consoles sag.

“The 3DS was very well received at E3, but we are not complacent about sales,” Iwata said. “One problem is that you can’t understand it without trying it out.”

The company has cut existing DS model prices to boost sales, sacrificing profits in the April-June quarter. Many analysts believe Nintendo will have trouble hitting its forecast profit of 320 billion yen for the year to March 2011, especially given the strength of the yen.

New satellites seen invigorating satnav industry

HELSINKI, 29 Sept.—A Russian satellite system is the frontrunner among several rivals that could expand the use of satnav beyond mapping and car navigation, replacing aging US satellites.

Russia has been developing Glonass, its answer to the US -led Global Positioning System (GPS), since 1976. Having spent $2 billion in the last 10 years, it is now in the final stages, and is expected to be fully operational late this year.

“From 2012, thanks to the launch of additional satellites in 2010 and 2011, it is likely that Glonass will provide a comparable service to GPS,” said Frederic Bruneau, managing director of Polemex Consulting Group.

He said Glonass will likely be the best performing version of the smartphone, which has wireless Internet capability, costs 4,999 yuan (744 dollars) with the 32-gigabyte selling for 5,999 yuan, Apple has said.—INTERNET

More HIV care for pregnant women in poor countries

WASHINGTON, 29 Sept—Just over half of HIV-infected pregnant women in poor countries received crucial AIDS drugs to protect their unborn children last year, the World Health Organization reported Tuesday — one of a list of improvements in the global fight against HIV.

Fifteen percent of infected pregnant women had access to that therapy five years ago, an important jump in the quest to eliminate mother-to-child HIV transmission by 2015.

Overall, Tuesday’s “Towards Universal Access” report shows steady increases in the number of people taking lifesaving antiretroviral treatment last year, to a record 5.2 million in poor and middle-income countries.

Still, only a third of people in need can get the drugs and most people living with HIV don’t know it, the report concludes and it warns that the economic crisis could imperil even these treatment gains if investments in the global fight from poor and rich countries alike falter.

“It’s an important moment. We need to sustain the momentum,” WHO’s AIDS director, Dr Gottfried Hirnschall, told The Associated Press.

The report comes ahead of a meeting next week about the budget of the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria, an international group that also has been an important financier.

Among the findings of the report, from WHO and the United Nations:

- Fifteen countries including particularly hard-hit South Africa, Botswana, Namibia and Swaziland provided most of their pregnant women medicines and services to prevent mother-to-child transmission last year.
- Fourteen countries, including Brazil, Namibia and Ukraine, provided HIV treatment to more than 80 percent of their HIV-positive children in need.

Health Tip: waking baby

Even if it seems to take hours to get baby to sleep, there are times when you actually need to wake your infant.

The American Academy of Pediatrics suggests how to gently rouse a sleeping baby:

- Speak or sing softly, pick up baby, or even lightly tackle the infant.
- Move baby’s arms and legs.
- Start undressing your baby. The additional stimulation or cold air often wakes newborns.
- Change baby’s diaper.
- Give baby a bath, but only if it’s essential to wake baby and other methods have failed.—Internet

Innovation, IP to be core element of China’s economic growth

CHICAGO, 29 Sept—Innovation and the resulting intellectual property (IP) will increasingly serve as a core element of China’s economic development, a law expert said here Tuesday.

“Innovation and IP will play a key role to reform China’s science and technology research and development,” Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Taipei Semiconductor Manufacturing Company, Ltd (TSMC) Richard L Thurston said.

“The focus of IP innovation is all about assets, and over time, that will enable China’s economic development,” Thurston said in a keynote speech delivered at John Marshall Law School in downtown Chicago.

TSMC is a leading semiconductor manufacturer worldwide and has its headquarters in Taipei, China.

He also noted that China is serious about its sustainable law reform, but not on the same basis nor for the same reasons as in the United States.

He believed that China will continue to reform its legal system and enforce its IP laws domestically, while modifying its IP system accordingly.

Meanwhile, he predicted that China’s companies will prioritize strategic IP portfolio development, seek to take the lead in the world in the years to come, and actively enforce their IP both at home and overseas.

Thurston also commented on China’s current priority. “China is focusing more and more on research and development. China is committed to protecting those assets with its evolving IP system,” he said.

Job creation as important as growth rate

WASHINGTON, 29 Sept—Job creation is as important as economic growth rate, while the economic recovery pace in different regions of the world was uneven, the International Monetary Fund (IMF)’s Managing Director Dominique Strauss-Kahn said here on Tuesday.

The IMF chief made the remarks at a media roundtable prior to the upcoming IMF and World Bank annual meetings.

He believed that it was not only the economic growth rate that counted, “but we should also stress creating more jobs.”

In response to a Xinhua question about the current global economic recovery scenario, he said in many parts of the world, “the light is shining,” adding that in China and other emerging markets, the rebalancing of economies that relied more on domestic demand was underway starting a couple of years ago.

He told a group of reporters “I don’t see global problems,” and that China, other Asian as well as Latin American economies were doing well. One of the main concerns is that some European economies did not bounce back quick enough. —Xinhua

United Nations Reform

Mr. President,

It is no doubt that the United Nations is the best forum in practicing multilateralism in addressing the challenges facing the world today. The near universal participation of the world’s nations in this global body is a living testimony. At the heart of its Charter lies the maintenance of international peace and security as the main noble purpose of the United Nations, which all Member States are committed to strive for.

While the United Nations has been devoting the larger fraction of its attention to maintaining international peace and security, the new form of global challenges such as climate change, poverty, hunger, water and energy insecurity have emerged demanding the international community’s urgent and careful actions. At the same time, our mankind’s common dream of making the world a prosperous, peaceful, just and secure place remains elusive. The world today is still full of inequalities, injustice, conflicts, instance of use of force, interference in internal affairs and attempts to impose domination on developing nations.

Against this backdrop, the pre-eminent role of the United Nations in advancing peace, security and development must be asserted and enhanced in order to effectively address these daunting challenges. We therefore wish to stress the pressing need for strengthening the United Nations with speedy reform measures adapting to the present day realities to make it more democratic and effective to meet the growing challenges.

In this regards, Myanmar firmly believes that any reform effort must be aimed at strengthening the central role of the United Nations in global governance. We share the common view that the United Nations must be reformed to reflect the increasing membership of the United Nations and to push for an internal reform measure, including the revitalization of the General Assembly and reform of the Security Council. We share the view that the reform of the Security Council must be designed to make it more transparent, more efficient and more accountable. We also support the idea of expanding both categories of the membership of the Security Council.

Millennium Development Goals

Mr. President,

With only five years away from the target deadline, the international community must step up its efforts to realize the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) by 2015. We therefore welcome the successful convening of the High-Level Plenary Meeting on MDGs and its sideline activities last week here in New York. While important improvements had been made globally, progress towards achieving our targeted MDGs is not sufficient as yet. The progress remains uneven and varies from region to region. While national governments have the primary responsibility to ensure progress international community must help by creating an environment that would enable developing countries to make firmer stride in their road to development. The international assistance plays an important catalytic role in the developing countries’ efforts in attaining their development goals.

We, therefore, wish to emphasize here that indiscriminate fulfillment by developed countries to their official development assistance (ODA) commitments, increased investment flows, market access and resolution of debt problems are essential to enable the developing countries to realize the MDGs targets. It is about time that the unjust economic coercive measures and trade embargo that are hampering the attainment of MDGs and development of the developing countries hurting the people be removed. We are pleased to inform that despite challenges, Myanmar has made certain progress in achieving most of the eight MDGs in varying degrees, especially in such as poverty alleviation, food security and promotion of education and health.

Disarmament

Mr. President,

As a party to the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty (NPT) and to the Treaty on Southeast Asia Nuclear Weapons Free Zone (SEANWFZ), Myanmar has all along recognized the legitimate right of every state to the use of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes. However, we firmly oppose the proliferation or production of nuclear weapons and strongly support any efforts leading towards the realization of the vision of a nuclear weapons free world.

We, therefore, heartily welcome the signing of the new START treaty by the leaders of the United States and the Russian Federation with a view to reducing their respective nuclear arsenals. It gave us hope and expectation for the elimination of nuclear weapons and further reduction and limitation of strategic offensive arms. We also join others in calling for early entry into force and full implementation of the START treaty.

Transnational Crimes/ Pandemic Diseases

Mr. President,

In our noble fight against the growing transnational crimes and terrorism, no single country can act alone. It would require a global solution and concerted actions of the world’s nations. Myanmar unequivocally condemns all forms and manifestation of terrorism. We are working closely with the international community in strengthening our efforts and cooperation under the regional and multilateral framework to prevent and combat terrorism and transnational crimes, such as illicit drug trafficking, trafficking in persons and cyber crime. We are also working together with our fellow ASEAN Member States to step up efforts in dealing with prevention, control, preparedness and response to pandemic diseases in our region.

Climate Change

Mr. President,

The issue of Climate Change has become a pressing global challenge threatening the human kind. The environmental problem knows no national boundaries. No country can be insulated from the consequences of climate change. Unprecedented frequency and severity of recent natural disasters such as earthquake in Haiti, floods in China and Pakistan and heat waves around the world are clearly testifying to the consequences of global climate change. Myanmar was also a victim of climate change when it was hit in May 2008 by the devastating Cyclone Nargis, the strongest ever in the course of our history. After over two years, we are pleased to say that we have already passed the emergency relief stage and successfully built back better in the affected areas through our massive reconstruction efforts together with the United Nations, ASEAN and international community. I wish to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to the international community for all the humanitarian assistance rendered to Myanmar in responding to this natural disaster.

In addressing the pressing global issue of climate change, we need to redouble our efforts not only in reducing harmful emissions but also in providing financial resources and transfer of technology to developing countries in order to take effective mitigating and adaptation measures. Though industrialized countries are mainly responsible for the climate change, the developing countries are the ones most severely affected by its consequences. Myanmar therefore believes that any approach to addressing the climate change must be based on the principle of common but differentiated responsibilities and respective capabilities.

We, therefore, look forward to the United Nations Climate Change Conference in Cancun, Mexico later this year. We hope that the forthcoming negotiations in Cancun Conference will result in fruitful outcomes that will translate into concrete action of the commitments made by the developed countries to reduce substantive emissions and towards assisting developing countries in their mitigating and adaptation efforts.

National Electoral Process

Mr. President,

Takin this opportunity, may I apprise briefly this august Assembly of ongoing political developments in my own country, Myanmar.

Today, Myanmar is at the critical phase of its political transformation process. The multi-party democracy general elections are all set to be held in Myanmar on 7th November 2010, as the fifth step of our charted political roadmap.

A total of 37 political parties including those representing various ethnic nationalities groups will be taking part in the elections. Over 3000 candidates will be contesting for a total of 1171 seats at the People’s Parliament, National Parliament and State/Region Parliaments. Such a large participation made it crystal clear that the elections become virtually inclusive. Political parties have already started their campaign activities. The people will exercise their democratic right to elect the representatives of their own choice who can serve their interest better.

With its ample experiences and lessons learnt in holding multiparty general elections in the past history, Myanmar is confident in its ability to conduct the elections in an orderly manner. Whatever the challenges facing us, we are committed to do our best for the successful holding of the free and fair general elections for the best interest of the country and its people.

As our new State Constitution subscribes to the present foreign policy, we believe that the new Government to be emerged after the elections will also continue to embrace the policy of maintaining and strengthening friendly relations with all nations and to work more closely with the United Nations. Myanmar looks forward to strengthening closer engagements with the international community in the post-election era.

Mumbai attacker Kasab appeals to higher court against death sentence

NEW DELHI, 29 Sept—Mohammed Ajmal Amir Kasab, the only militant caught alive in Mumbai terror attacks, has appealed to a higher court against his death penalty for his role in the 2008 attacks which claimed the lives of over 170 people, his lawyer has said.

“We have filed an appeal in Mumbai High Court,” Kasab’s lawyer Amin Solkar was quoted by the local media as saying on Wednesday.

The 22-year-old Kasab has claimed that the death penalty was a harsh punishment imposed on him and pleaded that there were lapses in evidence produced by the police in the special court.

“The appeal also challenged trial court's ruling which upheld Kasab’s confession as true and voluntary,” Kasab’s lawyer said. Kasab was sentenced to death by a special Indian court on all 86 charges against him, including waging war against the state in May this year.—Xinhua

Panamanian conjoined twin girls separated

PANAMA CITY, 29 Sept—A team of Panamanian and Argentinian doctors Tuesday successfully separated one-year-old conjoined twin girls, the first medical operation of this kind in Panama.

The separation of the twin girls, who were joined at the liver, had been postponed since August as they had caught the flu. Ileana Ceballos, a pediatrician who had participated in the surgery, said that although this type of surgery is considered to be one of the most complex ones, the result was positive.

“There was no bleeding,” she said, adding all that was left to do was to “close the skin” over their wounds.

“I am calmed, and I have faith in God. I am willing to see them; it is the first thing I want to do and then hug them,” the mother of the twins, Sarita Gil, said. The girls are now at the Intensive Care Unit (ICU). The next one to two days are crucial to their recovery.—Xinhua
Chile mine rescue makes rapid advance

LONDON, 29 Sept—

Thirty-three miners trapped underground in Chile for nearly two months could be out sooner than thought.

Rescuers digging to reach the men say one of their drills has cut through 50m (16ft) of rock in 24 hours.

At that rate they could be ready to bring the men to the surface by the mid-month of October.

But they have warned that they could yet run into problems, and the government still says it could take until early November to get them out.

One of the three drills digging rescue shafts - the T-130 - has now penetrated 300m (984ft) of the 630m (2,066ft) of rock separating the miners from the surface.

‘Al-Qaeda’ terror plot targeting Europe uncovered

LONDON, 29 Sept—

Western intelligence agencies are tracking a significant al-Qaeda plot to carry out commando-style raids on cities in Britain, France and Germany.

It is thought teams of jihadists plan to seize Western hostages and murder them - in a manner similar to the siege of two Indian hotels in Mumbai.

The plot is believed to be in its early stages.

No imminent arrests in the UK are expected, and the national threat level remains at its current level of severe.

Intelligence agencies on both sides of the Atlantic are tracking one of the most serious al-Qaeda attack plans in recent years.

Mich teen kills 448-pound black bear with arrow

A 17-year-old Michigan girl began her big game hunting career with a bang or rather a whoosh by killing a 448-pound black bear with a bow and arrow from 16 yards away.

High school senior Jessica Olmstead of Battle Creek shot the bear during a hunting trip last month in Oba, Ontario.

She told the Battle Creek Enquirer for a story published Tuesday that the bear was the first animal she killed with the new bow.

“As soon as my dad got it for me I was immediately comfortable and I was ready to use it the next day,” Jessica said.

“When I go out hunting, it’s really exciting,” she said. “Whenever I see a bear I just want to go at it. When you’re hunting, your heart is racing, your blood is pumping, and you feel that adrenaline rush. I really love to hunt.”

Other previous nominees include the Gipsy Kings; Tom Waits; Chuck Willis; Chic and Joe Tex.

Inductees will be revealed in December, and the ceremony will be in March in New York City.

Chen Kun sings theme song of his latest film

BEIJING, 29 Sept.—Chinese mainland actor Chen Kun’s recording of the theme song from his latest film, “My Ex-wife’s Wedding,” has been released, along with a music video, Mtime com reports.

The song, entitled “Encountering you” (“Yu Jian Ni” in Chinese) is a sad ballad from Chen’s new album “Mystery ME.” The singer has prepared more than 10 of his own songs for the film, but finally selected this one.

Chen said the lyrics tell a story similar to the one in the film and describe the upset feelings of two lovers who impulsively separate. He said the song makes people think about their past happiness.

Three jailed for tourist scams

Three people have been jailed for carrying out a scam to steal from more than 100 Japanese tourists in central London, police said on Tuesday.

The gang targeted tourists at attractions such as the British Museum and the Oxford Street shopping area.

One, a woman, would pose as a tourist and ask a genuine visitor for directions or to take a photo for her. Other gang members would then approach and pretend to be police officers and demand details of the tourists’ identity and credit cards.

Arsenal beat Partizan in Champions League

BELGRADE, 29 Sept — Arsenal beat 10-man Partizan Belgrade 3-1 in the Champions League on Tuesday despite missing a penalty, in a match where Gunners goalkeeper Lukasz Fabianski restored some of his tarnished reputation.

The English side wasted several chances after Andrey Arshavin gave them a 15th minute lead and then saw Partizan draw level through Brazilian-born striker Cleo.

Then, after Marko Jovanovic was sent off early in the second half, Arshavin saw his resulting penalty well saved by goalkeeper Vladimir Stojkovic, before striker Marouane Chamakh restored the Arsenal club’s lead 19 minutes from time.

Sebastien Squillaci headed in substitute Samir Nasri’s corner to make it 3-1 in the 82nd minute.

Real Madrid made to wait for victory at Aixerre

AIXERRE, 29 Sept — A late strike from substitute Angel di Maria earned Jose Mourinho’s Real Madrid a narrow 1-0 win over Aixerre in the Champions League group phase match on Tuesday.

The visitors dominated the game in terms of possession and territory but looked destined for their third goalless draw of the season until di Maria struck with nine minutes to play.

The Argentine winger, a second-half replacement for Lassana Diarra, stole open the scoring with a superb goal on 18 minutes before Schweinsteiger netted a second-half penalty followed by an 89th-minute tap in.

The Germany star said Bayern are suffering without injured playmakers Arjen Robben and Franck Ribery, but are still managing to carve out results.

“We don’t get the results the way we want them, because we aren’t scoring many goals,” admitted Schweinsteiger. — Internet

Chelsea sink Marseille to get back on Champions League track

LONDON, 29 Sept — Chelsea returned to form in convincing fashion with a 2-0 victory over French champions Marseille in the Champions League on Tuesday.

Carlo Ancelotti’s side had suffered their first Premier League defeat of the season at Manchester City on Saturday, just days after crashing out of the League Cup against Newcastle.

But there was no prolonged hangover from those setbacks as the English champions brushed aside Marseille at Stamford Bridge thanks to an early goal from John Terry and Nicolas Anelka’s first-half penalty.

The win left Chelsea top of Group F, ahead of Spartak Moscow on goal difference, after two games of their latest bid to win Europe’s elite club competition for the first time. — Internet

Roma off the mark with Cluj revenge

ROME, 29 Sept — AS Roma took revenge on CFR Cluj and got their Champions League challenge off the mark with a 2-1 victory at the Stadio Olimpico on Tuesday.

Goals from French centre-back Philippe Mexes and Italy striker Marco Borriello secured the Romans their first Group E points despite Ionut Rada’s late consolation. Following their 2-0 defeat at Bayern Munich two weeks ago, Claudio Ranieri’s men got back into the group on three points — level with Cluj — ahead of a double-header against FC Basel.

“We missed a few chances trying to close out the game but I’m very happy because the determination was there from first to last,” said Ranieri. “When you play a team that doesn’t have a big name it doesn’t mean it’s easy; there are no teams in the world that are easy. Cluj are on the way up and have already won here.”

Hamil says everything’s fine with Harvick

CONCORD, 29 Sept — Denny Hamlin said on Tuesday he’s made peace with Kevin Harvick and the drivers have agreed their focus should be only on determining four-time defending NASCAR champion Jimmie Johnson.

The two tangled on the track immediately as practice began Saturday at Dover. Harvick was caught in the bumping and banging, presumably as retaliation for Hamlin’s outspokenness about Harvick teammate Clint Bowyer’s illegal car.

“Regardless of what happens on the race track, our friendship goes further than that,” Hamlin said during an appearance at Charlotte Motor Speedway.— Internet

England set to pull out of 2022 World Cup race

LONDON, 29 Sept — England will withdraw its candidature to host the 2022 World Cup if, as expected, the United States drops its bid for the 2018 event, a top official said on Tuesday.

England, Russia, and the United States, plus joint bids from Spain/Portugal and Belgium/Netherlands are all still in the running for both 2018 and 2022 tournaments.

Australia, Japan, South Korea and Qatar have already declared their intention to concentrate only on 2022. If the United States pulled out from the 2018 race, they would face no European opposition for the next World Cup as no one continent can stage successive finals.

As our new State Constitution subscribes to the present foreign policy, we believe that the new Government to be emerged after the elections will also continue to embrace the policy of maintaining and strengthening friendly relations with all nations and to work more closely with the United Nations

Mr. President,
May I begin by extending to Your Excellency, on behalf of Myanmar delegation and on my own behalf, our warm congratulations on your well-deserved election to the presidency of the sixty-fifth session of the United Nations General Assembly. We are confident that under your wise and able leadership our deliberations will produce fruitful results. Allow me also to take this opportunity to express my delegation’s appreciation to your predecessor, His Excellency Mr. Ali Abdussalam Treki of Libyan Arab Jamahiriya.
