Towards a society for all ages

As the United Nations designated 1st October every year as the International Day of Older Persons, the commemorative ceremony has been observed yearly. The UN and the World Older Persons Care Group members are striving for providing more care to older persons and creating the opportunity for them to enjoy the social rights.

Due to improving biotechnology in the world today, the human beings enjoy longer life span. Moreover, emphasis is being placed on looking after the older persons who are increasing day by day.

In the traditions of Myanmar society, respect is paid to parents, grandpa, grandma and older persons. Myanmar households give due regards to the parents and older persons and provide best of care to them with loving-kindness. In response, the older persons give advice for family and economic affairs to help build the peaceful and tranquil society.

In Myanmar, homes for the aged have been established for older persons for over 90 years. The homes for the aged are voluntarily providing care to the older persons without offspring. At present, a total of 65 Homes for the Aged throughout the country are fulfilling health, accommodation and food requirements of the older persons.

Annual observing of the International Day of Older Persons is preserving the fine tradition of Myanmar society to be able to create peaceful days for the older persons and contributing to philanthropic work for helping them.

Caring the older persons is a noble philanthropic work. Older persons are being provided with basic social needs such as accommodation, clothes and food. Thus, social organizations and wellwishers joining hands with the government are to continuously make donations and provide care to the older persons with loving-kindness for creating better peaceful days for them.

Three security personnel killed by NATO helicopters in NW Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, 30 Sept—At least three security personnel were killed as NATO helicopters struck at a check post in northwest Pakistan’s tribal area on Thursday morning, reported local media Express.

Express quoted security sources as saying that NATO helicopters crossed into Kurram tribal region from Afghanistan and hit a Pakistani border post.

It is the third NATO airstrike in Pakistani tribal region in a week. On 26 and 27 Sept, NATO helicopters shelld Pakistani areas and claimed killing of some 50 insurgents. A NATO spokesman in Afghanistan said this week that the airstrikes into Pakistan were carried out after the militants attacked a small Afghan security outpost near the border.

The spokesman justified the rare NATO strikes based on “the right of self-defence.” Pakistan had strongly protested to ISAF/NATO on the two incidents of aerial engagements from Afghanistan.

Pakistan considers these incidents as clear violation and breach of the UN mandate under which ISAF operates, adding that its mandate “terminates/finishes” at the Afghan border. Pakistani Interior Minister Rehman Malik said that a high level meeting is scheduled to be held on Thursday to consider the NATO violations.

E-books may spur more kids to read

New York, 30 Sept— The amount of time children spend reading books for enjoyment decreases as they use cell phones and other mobile technology, but e-books might just bring them back to literature, according to a report released on Wednesday.

The study, which was conducted by educational and media company Scholastic and Harrison Group, a marketing and research consulting firm, also found parents are concerned that greater access to technology would limit time reading or with family. About 40 percent of parents believed that time spent online or on mobile devices would reduce time for books or engaging in physical activities. Thirty-three percent were concerned technology would lead to less time spent with family.

Greens see red over nuclear power extension

Berlin, 30 Sept— Going against massive public opposition, the German cabinet on Tuesday gave the green light to extend the nation’s use of nuclear power. Hailing the move earlier as a “revolution,” Chancellor Angela Merkel claimed that nuclear power will serve as a “bridge technology,” in order to give Germany more time to expand its production of renewable energy sources. But it could also give Merkel a headache, as the proposed extension sets the government on a collision course with political parties, environmental groups and the public.

If the proposal is approved by the German legislature, the operating life of Germany’s 17 nuclear reactors would be extended by an average of 12 years beyond its originally planned phase-out.

Seesmic for iPhone gets an iOS 4 makeover

United Kingdom, 30 Sept— Seesmic has released a new update for its iPhone app, bringing some much-needed iOS features and UI updates to the iPhone version of the social platform.

The updated version of Seesmic for iPhone adds a few new features to the mix. The biggest change is support for Retina Display in iOS 4. It brings tweets into sharper focus on iPhone 4 and the new iPod Touches. Seesmic also finally supports multitasking, which lets the app run in the background and quickly-launched from the multitasking menu. The app also makes some UI improvements. Loading new tweets used to require clicking the refresh button, but now Seesmic for iPhone supports the very popular “pull-down to refresh” interface that Twitter for iPhone (formerly Tweetie) popularized. A new threaded conversation view for @replies and direct messages has also been included in the updated app. The app adds Twitter List support as well, specifically the ability to add friends to lists.

US researchers find first potentially habitable exoplanet

Washington, 30 Sept— A team of planet hunters announced Wednesday the discovery of a planet orbiting a nearby star at a distance that places it squarely in the middle of the star’s “habitable zone.”

Steven Vogt, professor of astronomy and astrophysics at University of California Santa Cruz, and Paul Butler of the Carnegie Institution lead the research. The team’s new findings are reported in a paper to be published in the Astrophysical Journal.

The new planet designated Gliese 581g, located 20 light years away from Earth in the constellation Libra, has a mass three to four times that of Earth and orbits its star in just under 37 days. Its mass indicates that it is probably a rocky planet with a definite surface and enough gravity to hold on to an atmosphere. The planet is tidally locked to the star, meaning that one side is always facing the star and basking in perpetual daylight, while the side facing away from the star is in perpetual darkness. One effect of this is to stabilize the planet’s surface climates, one effect of this is to stabilize the planet’s surface climates.

Remote Hawaii atoll corals suffer some bleaching

Honolulu, 30 Sept— Corals at remote atolls northwest of the main Hawaiian islands suffered some bleaching this summer as ocean temperatures rose to higher-than-normal levels for a couple of weeks, but they were spared the large-scale mass bleaching observed this year in Indonesia and other parts of Southeast Asia, scientists said Wednesday.

Corals appear white or “bleached” when the ocean becomes too hot and they expel the algae they rely on to survive. Corals may recover if the algae returns, but they’re still significantly weaker and more vulnerable to disease.

Thirty percent of the Kure atoll reef and one-fifth of the Pearl and Hermes atoll reef bleached, according to scientists who spent the past month on a research cruise in the Papahanaumokuakea Marine National Monument. Corals at other atolls inside the monument were unaffected.

“There were certain areas where the bleaching was kind of severe, where it was just a white carpet essentially,” said Peter Vroom, chief scientist of the cruise, which returned to Oahu on Wednesday.

Google gives Gmail users more control over inboxes

San Francisco, 30 Sept— Google Inc. is addressing one of the biggest complaints about its free e-mail service by giving people more control over how their inboxes are organized.

The new option announced Wednesday will allow Gmail users to choose whether they prefer their incoming messages stacked in chronological order, instead of having them threaded together as part of the same electronic conversation.

Gmail has been automatically grouping messages by topic or senders since Google rolled out the service six years ago.

But this so-called “conversation view” confused or frustrated many Gmail users who had grown accustomed to seeing all their newest messages at the top of the inbox.

After all, that’s how most other e-mail programs work.

The complaints grew loud enough to persuade Google to revise the Gmail settings so users can turn off conversation view and unravel their messages.

“We really hoped everyone would learn to love conversation view, but we came to realize that it’s just not right for some people,” Google software engineer Doug Chen wrote in a Wednesday blog post.

The aversion to conversation view doesn’t seem to be widespread.
Philippines’ 3rd largest airline unveils expansion plan

MANILA, 30 Sept—Lucio Tan-led Air Philippines, ranking the third in the Philippines, plans to open more new air routes by expanding its aircraft fleet to compete in the country’s competitive aviation industry, the company said Thursday.

Air Philippines CEO Cesar Chiong said the company planned to increase its Airbus A320 aircraft from just three to 18 by 2012 and add more domestic and regional routes. The airline will fly to its first regional destination, Singapore, later this month, using its brand new 180-seater A320, which was delivered earlier this week. “We’re looking at destinations like the Republic of Korea, Bangkok and maybe Hong Kong,” Chiong said.

Domestic routes like Vigan and Domestic routes like Vigan and Marinduque are also in the company’s radar screen. By the end of the year, Chiong said, the company expects to have six new A320s. Another six will arrive next year while the rest will come in 2012. Air Philippines’ first two A320s were given to it by sister company Philippine Airlines (PAL).

China establishes new automaker for “Beijing” brand automobiles

BEIJING, 30 Sept—A new automaker, established Tuesday, plans to manufacture and sell automobiles under the brand name “Beijing”, company management said Wednesday.

BAIC Motor, jointly founded by Beijing Automotive Group (BAIC Group), the Beijing State-owned Assets Management Co and four other companies and organizations, has total assets of more than 10 billion yuan (about 1.5 billion US dollars), said Han Yonggu, deputy general manager of BAIC Group.

Records show BAIC Group holds 51 percent of the company’s share. The new company plans to build sedans, SUVs, new energy vehicles and electric vehicles branded “Beijing”, with an output of 700,000 autos in five years.

The first Beijing sedans and jeeps will be manufactured by the end of 2010 and brought to the market in 2011, said officials.

Study reignites controversy on breast cancer screening

BEIJING, 30 Sept—A new study on mammograms finds breast cancer screening can lower the risk of dying from the disease in women in their 40s. This once again provokes controversy over who should receive mammograms and when.

The study, conducted in Sweden and published online Wednesday, found that starting women on mammography at age 40 instead of age 50 was associated with a 26 percent reduction in risk of death from breast cancer. That means screening 1,250 women five times over a 10-year period would save one life, study author Hakon Jonsson said during a teleconference.

However, the new findings are unlikely to do much to quell a controversy that has long existed over the value of mammography screenings for women in their 40s.

A year ago, an influential panel of US science advisers recommended against routine screening before age 50. The scientists said the benefits were so small and potential problems from screening so great that the decision should be left to each woman and her doctor.

And just a week ago, another study in Norway found that screening mammography contributed only a 10 percent reduction in mortality, which is less than has been believed.

Dr Jennifer Obel, chair of the American Society of Clinical Oncology’s communications committee, said “The real message is that any time we order a diagnostic test, we need to discuss that test with our patients. It remains the best method we have available to detect breast cancer early in the general population.”

The translation of his presentation is as follows:-

Esteemed people

I am U Aung Than, Chairman of Democracy and Peace Party. I wish physical and mental well-being of the people.

Esteemed people,

I would like to present our party’s policy, stance and work programmes in five parts. They are:

1. Emergence of our Democracy and Peace Party
2. Concept, programme and task of our party
3. Attitude of our party on the election and participation in it
4. Rights of eligible voters
5. Request to cast votes for representatives of Democracy and Peace Party

The Democracy and Peace Party was reformed by those upholding the cardinal virtue and the programme and tasks based on the cardinal virtue, adopted by former Patron of League for Democracy and Peace U Nu (Thakin Nu) and Chairman Thirty Comrade Bohmu Aung, as the democratization process in the Union of Myanmar.

Esteemed people,

I would like to make a brief clarification on “Democratization process based on cardinal virtue” or “Cardinal virtue and democratic spirit” of the Democracy and Peace Party.

As the human beings created a favourite doctrine at first, the sympathy based on loving-kindness was the earliest choice in the world.

A human society needs the cardinal virtue most for perpetual existence of democracy, democratic system, democratic structure, democratic organization and democratic process.

I would like to further explain that some persons think cardinal virtue is a Buddhism concern, but it is not true.

Actually, cardinal virtue is a humanism regardless of religion, race and culture. It is the best policy in the social relations.

The Democracy and Peace Party totally believes that not only Myanmar people but also the global people should be steered by the loving-kindness or cardinal virtue.

Esteemed people,

The programmes adopted by our Democracy and Peace Party are as follows:-

- Democracy and Peace sector

The forthcoming government of the Union that will emerge after the election to systematically hold the Union Conference with the participation of all national races and political forces and building peace and political stability;

To introduce genuine democracy and system in the peaceful and stable political environment while patiently building democratic structures, creating democratic organizations and realizing democratic practices, enabling all the citizens to enjoy the rights of equal term under law and maintaining the concept that no one is above the law.

- Tatmadaw sector

We shall strive for ensuring emergence of modern and young Tatmadaw, the Tatmadaw which safeguards the State and the people, and the Tatmadaw to be one with the people.

- State personnel sector

We will try our best for enabling the State service personnel to enjoy suitable promotion from their first steps to the highest ones in the service organization;

The salary and ratios of the staff must be in conformity with the economic and financial situations of the current periods;

The retired personnel have to get pension salaries in accordance with the changes of economic and financial situations.

- Health sector

We shall place emphasis on fulfilling the hospitals and clinics of the government with modern medical equipment and medicines for giving reliable services to the people, and we shall give permits to the operating of private health care services systematically.

- Monetary affairs sector

We will promulgate necessary laws to be able to realize the monetary system in conformity with the market-oriented economic system and to be able to circulate the currency notes with full guarantee.

- Legal sector

We will try hard to enact the laws for enabling all the citizens to enjoy the human rights included in the UN Charter.

- Education sector

We will implement the plans to practise the education system for all citizens of their choice, to adopt a long-term education policy that can turn out well-versed intellects and intelligent, and;

We will strive for emergence of a National Level Education Council formed with scholars and experts.

- Economic sector

During the period when the market-oriented economic system will be realized, persons with large capitals will set up companies and joint ventures. But, our party will form the social economic capitals will set up companies and joint ventures.

We will implement the plans to practise the education system for all citizens of their choice, to adopt a long-term education policy that can turn out well-versed intellects and intelligent, and;

We will strive for emergence of a National Level Education Council formed with scholars and experts.

- Agriculture sector

It is necessary to establish association for promotion of socio-economic status of farmers with the shares and capital of farmers at the first in villages.

It is required to set up rural banks. We shall try to promulgate laws necessary to transform the association into village-owned bank.

- Production

We will strive to set up association for promotion of socio-economic status of workers. We shall try to encourage the association to play an important role in the market in which commodity price is controlled by the market.

We shall make efforts for the vendors to form such association and formation of such association from grassroots to central level.

- national races affairs

As all national races are Myanmar people, we shall try to give top priority to national unity on the basis that every Myanmar citizen has a right to enjoy equal rights.

Esteemed people

Our Democracy and Peace Party believes political worldly values such as nothing can be done without public support and election, and people are to choose their representatives in accord with proper ways and means through election.

We simply view 2008 Constitution as a requirement of Myanmar political history. We see that there is no way but to accept the real condition of Myanmar political affairs.

Thus, we simply believe that the 11/2010 election to be held in line with the constitution is a political mile post that all nationals of the Union unavoidably must pass or that it is a threshold of democratization process although it would not be the final destination of democracy of the Myanmar human society. Based on this belief, the Democracy and Peace Party will stand for eight seats in Pyithu Hluttaw and one seat in Amyotha Hluttaw totaling nine seats in upcoming 11/2010 election.

Esteemed people,

All in all, may our Democracy and Peace Party request the people to cast a vote of loving-kindness and compassion in our favour.

As cardinal virtue of the democratization process of the Democracy and Peace Party is the most suitable way for democratic transition in Myanmar, the party’s strong work programmes to be implemented through democratization process can achieve success, political outlook, organizational capability, education, experiences and loyalty to democracy of each of the party’s candidates, on behalf of the Democracy and Peace Party, I would like to deeply request the people to recognize their qualification, experiences, loyalty and sacrifice and to pour out your hidden desires.

The upcoming elections, an occasion where people will have to express their sentiment, is the lifefood for freedom and democracy. Only with strong desires and decisions of the entire people, will democracy flourish.

Only when the entire people are in union, will democracy for all flourish. So, all voters are to enjoy their rights to vote. With regard to other constituencies including nine constituencies of our party, I would like to request the people to cast vote for the candidates of other democratic parties who are free from prejudice, personality cult and racism and have ability, like us, to realize democratization process, to build peace, to develop national economy and to consolidate the Union.

Thank you!

I wish the entire people physical and mental well beings!
First and foremost, I wish the entire national brethren auspiciousness, physical and mental well-being and no harm. I am Chairman U Sai Aik Paung of Shan Nationalities Democratic Party.

Esteemed national brethren,

I will give a brief account of our party’s policy, stance and work programmes. I think the entire national brethren will get the theme of my presentation.

Shan Nationalities Democratic Party strongly believes that only when all national brethren have equal rights will it be possible to achieve the goal of building a modern, developed nation.

Ours is a multicultural country. So, different peoples have different languages, literatures, cultures and customs. To build unity among various national races calls for generosity, consideration, mutual understanding, loving-kindness and loyalty. But, armed conflicts, oppression, killing, destruction and bullying can lead to disintegration of the Union. So, we have to remain united to keep the Union free from such evil sufferings. And that is the major hindrance to our goal of democracy. Our party’s conviction is that only with free, independent and genuine democracy, the nation will be free from pernicious systems characterized by exploitation of man by man. And the Union of Myanmar will be able to stand tall with flourishing cardinal virtues, harmony, equality, development and cohesion of various national races in the world.

In order to achieve this goal, members of Shan Nationalities Democratic Party share common belief, hope and goal. We have formed our party representing all Shan nationals and all people in Shan State to help bring glory to the Union of Myanmar.

Esteemed national brethren,

Our party’s policy is to stand as a force in equipping the Union of Myanmar with justice, democracy, cardinal virtues, friendship of various national races and development lack pernicious systems characterized by exploitation of man by man.

Indeed, national brethren have been living in the Union sharing joys and sorrows since time immemorial. They joined hands in struggles to gain independence.

Only with national solidarity, will the Union enjoy development. And only when all national races enjoy equal development, will the Union earn good reputation. Conflicts, quarrels and attacks among national races can tarnish the image of the Union. So, there are no other ways but mutual respect and friendship among national races to build unity in the Union. So, our party will lay down work programmes with genuine goodwill, ardent and noble aims to ensure equal development between one national race and another in a bid to enable the Union of Myanmar to hold its head high.

Esteemed national brethren,

Our economic policy is to fulfill the basic needs of all national races and exercise the market economy to enable the nation keep abreast of other global partners. The market economy we are going to practise is to be in conformity with the world trade system. We will join hands with regional countries in exercising the market economy in the interest of the people.

Myanmar is an agro-based nation. So, only when the agricultural sector makes progress, will it be possible for other sectors to improve. Seventy percent of the nation’s population gets involved in agricultural farming. So, to improve the living standard of farmers is at the centre stage of the drive for national development. We will provide short- and long-term loans. We will distribute paddy seeds of high-yield strains, and advanced agricultural methods. We will improve the socio-economic status of farmers.

As to the education sector, we will strive for launching free, compulsory primary education. We will take all possible measures for our nation’s education to be on a par with that of other countries. We will ensure universities will be equipped with qualified teachers and pedagogical aids. We will encourage improvement of literature of each national race. We will set up an education system in which school education can guarantee a bright future of students.

As to health care, we will make sure that government hospitals have all characteristics of a hospital with sufficient medicine. We will also improve rural health care in order to narrow health gap between rural and urban areas. In border areas and highlands, local people will have easy access to better health care in order to avoid premature death.

Regarding the labour sector, we will guarantee workers’ rights. Workers can enjoy their rights in the framework of the law. We will fight malpractices in appointing people and promotion. We will ensure that only deserving staff get promotion. Service personnel can have duties, rights and compensations in line with the law. Retired service personnel can lead a peaceful life. We will adjust the gap of old pension rates and new ones. We will enforce carrot and stick approach in service personnel affairs and we will combat bribery, corruption and frauds.

We will try to integrate far-flung areas with urban areas in terms of transport, information and communication.

Esteemed national brethren,

We will uphold loving-kindness and justice in implementing our work programmes because internal peace is essential for dealing with stabilization and unrest, and confrontation, arguments and clashes cannot bring any fruitful results to the nation or the people.

All constituents should distinguish between opportunists and pro-democracy activists in the forthcoming multiparty democracy general elections. There is no need to fear in casting votes. Every eligible voter can decide on their fate by casting votes. So, I would like to urge constituents to make use of the voting right in building the nation and serving the interest of their home regions.

Therefore, I would like to urge the people to vote for white tiger party or Shan Nationalities Democratic Party.

Strong earthquake hits 2970 miles outside Myanmar

NAY PYI TAW, 30 Sept — The Department of Meteorology and Hydrology issued an announcement today that a strong earthquake of magnitude 6.6 Richter Scale with its epicenter outside Myanmar (near the south coast of Papua, Indonesia) about 2970 miles southeast of Kaba-Aye seismological observatory was recorded at 23 hrs, 50 min 20 sec MST on 29 September 2010.

MNA
Human beings should develop together with the passing of times. The older the man the wiser he should be. As the International Day of the Older Persons is drawing nearer, a wish came into my mind to write about the senior persons. Because, I was thinking about the homes for the aged. It is important to ensure a stable and peaceful life for grandmas and grandpas.

The signboard saying, “You too will become an oldie one day” found at every home for the aged reminds us of the fact that oldness is followed by feebleness and then death a phenomenon no one can escape from. So, what will do when you become an oldie?

Not every undesired old person goes to the home for the aged. Sometimes everything in life is fated. One day, one of my sons met a feeble and poor old woman whose hair had turned grey at Shwedagon Pagoda. “Grandma, I feel so sorry to see you like this. I would like to help you stay at a home for the aged,” the old woman replied.

There are elder persons who leave the home as they do not wish to say prayers, share pious merits gained and live according to discipline. Only the oldies who are happy with the Dhamma practices can stay at the homes. As for them, the homes are the real refuges. Those who reduce the Dhamma they believe in will be free from hardships and sufferings. The Dhamma gives peace and happiness for any person who follows it.

It is a pleasure for every visitor to a home to witness grandpas and grandmas practising Vipassana and sharing the merits gained. It is so blissful to hear them wishing every being health and happiness.

In my view, a home is a place where intelligent oldies gather. One day, wellwishers collectively donated 500 books on religious subjects to a home. I also contributed K100,000 for the library of the home. People of high qualification, virtues and morals are worthy for every one. We should support people who are disciplined and ethical.

We will be able to value the heritage our forefathers handed down to us only if we love them. Likewise, we will be able to value the age-old heritage of our country only if we cherish her.

Every country has its own oldie population, heritage and values. In some countries, homes for the aged charge accommodation fees. Thanks to the wellwishers, oldies of our country can stay at the homes in peace.

Moreover, we have the tradition of caring and staying together with senior relatives including parents at our own houses. It’s our culture. Children share joys and sorrows and even loving kindness with their aged parents and relatives. As we believe in the law of Kamma, we are not easily moved by any secular affairs whether they are good or bad for us. We show respect for the elders and kindness for the young. That’s our tradition. So, the condition of the senior citizens of our country is much better than some other countries.

The UN is praise-worthy for observing the International Day of the Older Persons to promote the work of caring aged persons with loving-kindness. Our forefathers laid down a goal of peace and progress. Even individuals have their own goal. Deviation from own goals and work programmes may lead us to a never-ending mess.

Although our country faced a lot of sufferings during the early post-independence period, she is now on the track towards peace, stability and prosperity. When they were young our grandmas and grandpas had to make struggles to feed their family. Now they can enjoy practising the Dhamma, for their children and grandchildren are taking care of them. We believe that the new generation will provide care to the oldies.

Time and situation makes a country developed and mature. A country gains development when she has peace and stability and is free from disturbances and chaos.

Disturbances and chaos are opposite of progress, stability and peace. Sometimes, a young nation may face turmoil and chaos. For example, there may be boycotts, strikes and commotion, and resistance movements to drive out colonial rulers. But such movements are not necessary for an independent nation. She needs stability. There are developed nations which in reality are the seething cauldrons of hate, anger and animosity. We should not emulate such development. Our intellectual development will lead us to physical development.

History of a nation is the history of its people. The nation became mature together with the progress in public maturity. Peace is the pride of oldies. America came into existence only at the time of King U Aungzeya the founder of Konbong dynasty. Myanmar has a longer civilized history than America. The nation became mature together with the progress in public maturity. Peace is the pride of oldies.

There are immature older persons as well as big nations that ignore the norms of the civilized world. Some nations even fall apart after existing for a long time. I wish every oldie enjoy better life and happiness. I would like to urge all to render assistance and care for the oldies. An old man knows most about the oldness. A person will know about his nation well only if he loves her. A person will realize the evilness of the dark only when he sees light.

WTO warns against US possible trade protectionism measures

GENEVA, 30 Sept—The World Trade Organization (WTO) reviewed the trade policy of the United States on Wednesday in Geneva, warning against its possible protectionism measures against its trade partners.

A report was issued by the WTO secretariat with the review. While ranking the US trade and investment regimes as “among the most open in the world,” the report also listed possible protectionism measures applied by the United States against its trading partners.

“The United States had 246 antidumping duty (AD) orders in effect in December 2009, 22 more than in December 2007,” the report said.

Trading issues between the United States and its major trading partner China are also repeatedly mentioned in the report, including the additional imports of trading issues between the United States and its major trading partner China are also repeated in the report, including the additional imports of duties apply on tyre imports from China and the decision by the United States in 2007 to abolish its long-standing policy of not applying CVD on China.

Tropical Storm “Nicole” kills nine in Jamaica

MIAMI, 30 Sept—Short-lived Tropical Storm Nicole triggered flash flooding that killed at least nine people in Jamaica and dumped heavy rain on Florida, Cuba, the Cayman Islands and the Bahamas on Wednesday.

The broad and ragged storm formed on Wednesday morning and dissipated Wednesday afternoon. US and Cuban meteorologists disagreed on whether it ever actually became a tropical storm at all.

Forecasters at the US National Hurricane Center in Miami pegged its peak sustained winds at 40 miles (63 kilometres) per hour, just over the 39 mph (63 kph) threshold to become a named storm.

Cuban forecasters put the top winds at 37 mph (59 kph) and disagreed that it was a tropical storm when it crossed the island. “No tropical storm exists,” Cuba’s top meteorologist, Jorge Rubiera, said on national television.

US forecasters said Nicole had a poorly defined center of circulation and had been “a marginal system.”

“Their interpretation is that they don’t think it’s a storm … They’re on one side of the margin and we’re on the other,” Richard Pasch, a senior hurricane specialist in Miami, said before the storm was downgraded.

Cuban meteorologists disagreed on whether it ever actually became a tropical storm at all.

Pregnant women added to flu jab list

London, 30 Sept — The government is urging pregnant women for the first time to have an NHS seasonal flu jab this winter in case there is a resurgence in swine flu. Mothers-to-be have been added to the list of vulnerable groups who are recommended to get vaccinated, just like over-65s and younger people with chronic conditions such as asthma and diabetes. This year’s injection will protect against three strains of flu, including the H1N1 virus.

Professor David Salisbury, the Department of Health’s director of immunisation, admitted that some expectant mothers would be reluctant. But he warned that women who caught the H1N1 virus were at much greater health risk of medical complications. People who refused a seasonal flu jab because it contained swine flu vaccine “are quite frankly foolhardy”, the swine flu vaccine “are quite frankly foolhardy”, he said.

Environmentally sound termite control method takes hold in E China

Nanning, 30 Sept — An environmentally friendly way to control termites has become popular in east China’s Jiangxi Province and replaced an insecticide that poses a threat to human health. The new technology uses an environmentally sound termite control method that takes hold in E China.

The new technology uses a termite bait system that is non-toxic and environmentally friendly. The bait stops termites to take the bait. The bait stops termites from growing and reduces the reproductive capabilities of the termite queen, according to Yu Hongxia, director of the Jiangxi Provincial Environmental Protection Bureau.

“The new termite control system is non-toxic and completely environmentally friendly,” she added.

"Star Wars" movies start 3D rollout in 2012

LOS ANGELES, 30 Sept—George Lucas is set to re-release the six "Star Wars" films in 3D, beginning in 2012 with one film annually led by "The Phantom Menace."

Though the 3D versions have been rumoured for some time, Lucas was evidently waiting until there were enough 3D screens available to make the release a sizable enough event. Fox, which released all six of the original "Star Wars" films, would also release the 3D versions.

"The Phantom Menace," originally released in 1999, would be first out of star-dock in the early months of 2012. After that, each of the films would be released in order at the same time each consecutive year, depending on how well the first re-release does. That means the original "Star Wars" and its sequels won't start rolling out until 2015.

Each conversion takes at least a year to complete, with Lucas personally overseeing the process. He has said that "Avatar" convinced him that "Star Wars" was ready for the state-of-the-art 3D treatment.

Also pushing the timetable is a potential breakthrough in 3D television technology. With Samsung penetrating the market with 50,000-plus 3D-equipped televisions and Sony sending its version to market in recent months, the home-viewing experience could be primed for 3D DVD versions of the classic films by the time the new 3D series runs its course. —Internet

Brazilian gov’t allocates 120 mln dollars to aid farmers

BRASILIA, 30 Sept—Brazilian President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva Wednesday signed an interim measure providing 210 million reais (120 million US dollars) to farmers with crops losses due to drought or rain in the Northeast Region. According to the government, farmers are responsible for 70 percent of food production and for 10 percent of the gross domestic product (GDP) in the country.

A Brazilian law enacted in 2002 prescribes the concession of resources to compensate damage of crops due to bad weather conditions and ensure the survival of small producers. Agriculture has been a top priority of Lula’s government. Since 2003, 1.3 million farmer families have had access to the credit of the National Programe to Strengthen Family Agriculture (PRONAF). For the 2008/2009 harvest, the government allocated 13 billion reais (7.43 billion dollars) to the program—Xinhua
