All national races like a stem with one hundred fruits

World anthropologists have recognized that of the anthropoid primates excavated around the world, the primate discovered in the Union of Myanmar dates back to the period about 40 million years ago. The Union is home to all the national races, like a stem with one hundred fruits in it. Therefore, the long history of the Union of Myanmar is the same, that of the national races.

Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services
(from the message sent on the occasion of 63rd Anniversary Union Day)

Kayin State gaining development momentum in the time of State Peace and Development Council

Colourful Kayin State

Situated in the southeastern part of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Kayin State has an area of 11,730.85 square miles. Such national races as Kayin, Pu-O, Mon, Bamar, Rakhine, Shan and so on are living in Kayin State in unity and harmony. Kayin State is formed with plains, mountains and forests. From north to south, mountains stretch in the east of Kayin State and plains cover the west.

Thanlwin, Thaungrin, Ahtayan, and Gyaing rivers flow through Kayin State which has spectacular mountains, and plains and is rich in land and water resources. Kayin State lagged behind in development due to instability, but nevertheless, the Government managed to restore stability in the state and has built infrastructures one after another working day and night.

Without bridges across Thanlwin, Ahtayan and Gyaing rivers, Kayin State once experienced poor transportation. However, transportation has become smooth along with swift commodity flow thanks to emergence of bridges across those rivers. Kayin State previously had only over 1,000 miles of motor roads which has now been extended to over 3,000 miles. With regard to education, a college had been the sole place for local youths to pursue higher education, but at present a university, a University of Computer Studies and a Technological University have been founded in the region with a view to turning out intellectuals and intelligentsia in the region. Kayin State also has seen remarkable progress in healthcare service.

Magway Region poised to enjoy greater development

Smooth transport boosts trade, education, health care and social affairs. With this concept, the government has been building new roads, railroads and bridges across the Union including far-flung areas.

Edible oil crops, beans and pulses and crops are abundant in Magway Region that has many plains with fertile soil. Previously, its commodity flow was slow owing to poor transport.

Now, the region enjoys swift commodity flow, seeing a large number of bridges, large and small, including those spanning the river Ayeyawady, and Pathein-Monywa Road, along with railroad networks including, roads that pass through Yoma mountain ranges and inter-district roads.

Daungnay Creek Bridge, built by Public Works, was put into service on 5 February. The 1758 feet long facility on Yangon-Pyay-Magway-Mandalay Road is the 255th among the above-180-foot long bridges built by the Ministry of Construction in the nation and the 21st in Magway Region.

Before the bridge was constructed, vehicles had to wait till the water in the creek flowed away to cross the waterway whenever it rained. Thanks to the bridge, Magway in Magway Region has direct access to Bagan-NyaungU as well as Yangon, Mandalay and Nay Pyi Taw through Myingyan-Natogyi Road and Yangon-Mandalay Expressway.

In addition, local people will be able to travel with convenience to Rakhine State and other regions in all weather conditions through Magway-Minbu-An Road. With swift commodity flow, Magway Region is poised to enjoy greater development in the economic, education, health care and social affairs soon.

Dip in BA at MAMT

YANGON, 7 Feb—Myanmar Academy of Management Technology & Technology will open diploma course in business administration directly conferred by Central Institute of Technology (Central TAFE) of Australia in the last week of March.

Wildfires wreck 41 Australian homes

PERTH, 7 Feb—Wildfires in western Australia have destroyed at least 41 homes, officials said Monday, stressing that the number could rise with the flames roaring out of control.

Heat and high winds triggered by last week’s ferocious Cyclone Yasi fed two major blazes in the west coast city of Perth at the weekend, with strong gusts grounding water bombers and aircraft in creating fast and erratic flames. “Unfortunately it appears that we have lost 41 houses at this stage totally, and 19 partially damaged,” said fire chief Craig Hynes.

“That number could increase,” he added as damage assessment teams fanned out.

Hynes said there had been no serious injuries or fatalities at this stage but cautioned that authorities were yet to bring the fires under control.

Both were burning in heavily vegetated areas on the city outskirts in rugged terrain that was difficult to access except by air.—Internet

Four Roma children die in Italy fire

ROME, 7 Feb—Four children aged between three and 11 years old died Sunday in a fire at an illegal Roma camp on the outskirts of the Italian capital, officials said.

“The bodies were half burned,” a fire service spokesman said.

The ages of the victims were three, five, seven and 11, said the spokesman, adding that the remains of what was feared to be a fifth child turned out to be those of a small animal.

The fire started at 8:30 pm (1930 GMT) in an illegal encampment along a route that runs southeast out of the city, said Italy’s ANSA news agency. The cause is under investigation.

The family, with seven members total, lived in one of five makeshift slums in a camp that authorities had torn down several times, only to see it rebuilt by the Roma.

“These damn illegal camps have been cleared out of Rome,” the city’s mayor Gianni Alemanno told reporters as he visited the site.

Campaigners say thousands of Roma live in and around the capital, most of them in illegal constructions, which city authorities last year pledged would be shut down.—Internet

Two injured in twin blasts in Karachi, Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, 7 Feb—Two women were injured when two low intensity blasts jolted two police stations in southern Pakistani city of Karachi on Monday, local sources said.

According to police, the militants targeted two police stations located in business hub of Lee Market and Malir in the southern and eastern part of the metropolis.

In the first blast at the Lee Market, a house nearby police station was partially damaged in which two women were injured.

The second blast took place near Shah Latif police station, Malir. Police, law enforcement agencies and rescue teams rushed to the sites and cordoned off the areas.

The blasts damaged the outer walls of both police stations, witnesses said.

Afghan forces kill one militant, wound two and detain four

KABUL, 7 Feb—Afghan forces killed one militant, wounded two and detained four others on Sunday, a Press release of the Defence Ministry released here Monday said.

“One militant was killed and two others sustained injuries as the Afghan soldiers came in contact with militants in Marja District of Helmand Province yesterday,” the Press release added. Two personnel of Afghan national army sustained injuries while the troops also captured four militants, the Press release said. Marja District a former bastion of Taleban militants was captured by Afghan and NATO-led troops in February 2010. However, the Taleban fighters’ tactic, occasionally target security forces in Marja District and run away.—Xinhua

Police seize Rio slums without resistance

RIO DE JANEIRO, 7 Feb—Hundreds of police and military troops early Sunday occupied nine slums in central Rio de Janeiro that had been in the hands of drug traffickers, in the first such operation since November.

The nearly 1,000 civilian, military and federal police backed by 17 armored vehicles, four amphibious vehicles and marine riflemen faced little opposition in the two-hour operation that kicked off at dawn, officials said.

“The situation is calm and we have completed the first part of the operation — controlling the territory,” military spokesman Colonel Lima Castro told CBN radio. The security forces were also launching a month-long search for weapons and drugs in the now occupied shantytowns home to some 26,000 inhabitants, part of a plan by authorities to regain control of Rio’s slums.

The city, known for both its beauty and its endemic violence, is the scheduled venue for both the 2014 World Cup and the 2016 Olympic Games. A first counternarcotics operation was launched in November in the Complexo de Alemao favelas, a bastion of drug traffickers in northern Rio vanquished by 2,600 police and military troops.—Internet

S Korea police confident over Somali pirates

Seok Hae-Kyun, 58, remains in hospital in South Korea in critical condition after the dramatic raid in the Arabian Sea on 21 January and flown to South Korea’s port city of Busan last week to face a police investigation and possible trial.

The case will now be handed over to state prosecutors, who are responsible for bringing formal charges. Attempted murder can be punishable by life imprisonment.

Seok, 58, was seized on 15 January. Kim Chung-Kyu, chief of the maritime police’s Busan office, said they have enough evidence to prove their charges, including testimony from the Somali and from crew members who were held hostage on the ship.—Internet

Pollutants may threaten Mexico’s Coast

Washington, 7 Feb—Pharmacaceuticals, pesticides, chemical run-off from highways and many other pollutants infiltrate the giant aquifer under Mexico’s “Rivera Maya,” a new study shows.

The report published in the journal Environmental Pollution argues that the waste contaminates a vast labyrinth of water-filled caves under the popular tourist destination on the Yucatan Peninsula.

The polluted water flows through the caves and into the Caribbean Sea. This pollution may have contributed to the loss since 1990 of up to 50 percent of corals on the reefs off the region’s coast, the report said. And, with a 10-fold increase in population through 2030 expected, the problems are likely to worsen, the study noted.

“These findings clearly underline the need for monitoring systems to pinpoint where these aquifer pollutants are coming from,” said Chris Metcalfe, senior research fellow of the United Nations University’s Canadian-based Institute for Water, Environment and Health.

“As well, prevention and mitigation measures are needed to ensure that expanding development does not damage the marine environment and human health and, in turn, the region’s tourism-based economy,” Metcalfe added.

Researchers publish lionfish cookbook

Key largo, 7 Feb—Marine researchers and the US government say they developed a new way to cope with the proliferation of the lionfish by eating them “out of existence.”

The non-native lionfish has no natural predators and the fish population is growing at an alarming rate, The Daily Telegraph reported.

Marine conservationists have published a glossy recipe book they hope will increase the demand for the lionfish’s soft, white, buttery flesh.

The lionfish is a non-native predator that is known for its appetite and its ability to destroy aquatic life on reefs in the Caribbean and along the Atlantic Coast.

“The danger that lionfish pose for the marine ecosystem can’t be overstated. They are a critical threat,” said Alecia Adamson, field operations and outreach coordinator for the Reef Environmental Education Foundation in Key Largo, Fla, which created the recipe book.

Low-orbit space plane may test in 2012

Boulder, 7 Feb—A Colorado company’s space plane could carry astronauts into low Earth orbit in a test next year, NASA says.

The space agency, Sierra Nevada Space Systems of Denver and the University of Colorado trumpeted their partnership in Boulder Saturday, The Denver Post reported.

Sierra Nevada received $20 million from NASA’s Commercial Crew Development Programme to develop the Dream Chaser, which will be able to carrying seven passengers into orbit.

Deputy NASA Administrator Lori Garver said the programme proved “that the government doesn’t need to fund everything itself and that we don’t have the answer to every question.”

Sierra Nevada said the project is ahead of schedule and it hopes to test the Dream Chaser in May 2012.

The company has been testing a scale model at the university, with students’ help.

“To have a chance to have hands-on experience while you’re still in school, that is indeed a dream come true,” said Luis Zea, who is helping design the cockpit.

Google CEO says wants to avoid long EU probe

London, 7 Feb—Google Inc wants to avoid a lengthy legal battle with European Union regulators investigating its market dominance, the Sunday Telegraph quoted its chief executive as saying.

“We certainly want to avoid that,” Eric Schmidt told the paper in an interview. “I think it is in our interests and I would hope in their interests to a do a quick analysis of concerns that have been raised by competitors, hopefully they are minor or they are not correct.”

“We’ll find out and make sure we are operating well within the law and the spirit of the law.”

Brussels launched a formal investigation into Google in November following complaints from European rivals that it was abusing its dominant position in the market for web search services.

A previous EU investigation into software giant Microsoft snowballed into a 10-year legal battle in which the company paid 1.68 billion euros ($2.3 billion) in fines.

China has 130,000 registered cyber cafes by 2010

Beijing, 7 Feb—China had around 130,000 registered Internet cafes by the end of last year, an official with the State Administration for Industry and Commerce said Sunday.

More than 100,000 unlicensed cyber cafes were shut down over the past five years during a crackdown on Internet pornography and violence, he said.

Local authorities had raised the entry threshold for Internet cafes and stepped up monitoring of entertainment venues, especially cyber cafes and video game halls, to protect children, the official said.

China’s population of Internet users jumped 19 percent to 457 million last year, according to the China Internet Network Information Centre.

Nokia likely to sack several executives

Frankfurt, 7 Feb—The world’s biggest cell phone maker Nokia is likely to sack several executive board members in a management shake-up, a German weekly reported.

As rival companies have been eating into Nokia’s market share, Chief Executive Officer Stephen Elop, who took over last September, is due to unveil a revamp of the company’s strategy, which could include organizational changes, on 11 February.

Citing company sources, German weekly Wirtschaftswoche reported on Saturday that Mary T McDowell, the executive in charge of Nokia’s mobile phones unit, may have to leave the company along with Niklas Savander, the manager of the markets unit.

Chief Development Officer Kai Oistamo may have to go, too, as may Tero Ojanne, the manager responsible for services and mobile solutions, the weekly reported.

Elop has ordered headhunters to look for top people with good software expertise, the report said.

A Nokia spokesman declined to comment.

Elop has been widely expected to make big changes to the top management team. So far, only one former leader, Anssi Vanjoki, has left the company.

Nokia has been left in the shade by high-end competitors such as Apple and Google and is now also suffering a drop in sales of its stronghold of traditional phones as Chinese manufacturers muscle in to take advantage of the growing market.

Overcooking broccoli hurts health benefit

URBANA, 7 Feb—A US researcher says overcooking broccoli may hinder its cancer-fighting effect but cooking broccoli powder with its sprouts can double its power.

“Broccoli, prepared correctly, is an extremely potent cancer-fighting agent—three to five servings a week are enough to have an effect,” Elizabeth Jeffery of the University of Illinois says in a statement.

“To get broccoli’s benefits, though, the enzyme myrosinase has to be present; if it’s not there, sulforaphane, broccoli’s cancer-preventive and anti-inflammatory component, doesn’t form.

“Steaming broccoli for 2 to 4 minutes is the perfect way to protect both the enzyme and the vegetable’s nutrients.”

Jeffery cautions overcooking destroys myrosinase. In addition, health-conscious consumers who cook with broccoli powder supplements may be missing out since the supplements may not contain the necessary enzyme.—Internet

WASHINGTON, 7 Feb—High school students who work more than 20 hours a week at part-time jobs during the school year may be more likely to have academic and behaviour problems, according to a new study.

US researchers analyzed data collected in the late 1980s from 1,800 middle-class teens in grades 10 and 11 in order to compare students who had jobs with those who didn’t work.

The study found that working more than 20 hours a week was associated with reduced school engagement, lower expectations for further education, and an increase in illegal activities including stealing, carrying a weapon, and using alcohol and illicit drugs.

These negative behaviours persisted even after such teens reduced their work hours or stopped working, the investigators found.

However, teens who worked fewer hours appeared to experience negligible academic, psychological or behavioural effects, according to the study published in the January 22 issue of the journal Child Development. “Although work-

Frequent pitching could harm kids’ shoulders, elbows

NEW YORK, 7 Feb—Young pitchers who played more than 100 innings a year were 3.5 times more likely to suffer serious elbow or shoulder injuries than those who pitched fewer innings, a 10-year study has found.

Based on the data, the researchers suggested limiting young pitchers to no more than 100 innings a year or less.

The study included 481 healthy male pitchers, aged 9 to 14, who were followed from 1999 to 2008. Each year, the participants were asked how many innings they pitched in the previous 12 months, what types of pitches they threw, and if they had suffered an elbow or shoulder injury that required surgery or forced them to stop playing baseball.

During the 10-year study period, 5 percent of the pitchers experienced a serious elbow or shoulder injury that resulted in surgery or retirement.—Internet

AOL to buy Huffington Post for $315 million

NEW YORK, 7 Feb—Internet company AOL Inc said it agreed to buy news website The Huffington Post for $315 million, creating a media group that will have a combined base of 117 million visitors a month in the United States.

AOL said it will pay about $300 million in cash, funded from cash on hand. The company did not specify how it would pay the balance.

Arianna Huffington, the co-founder of Huffington Post, will lead the newly formed The Huffington Post Media Group, AOL said.

Through the acquisition, AOL said it will accelerate its strategy to deliver an array of premium news, analysis, and entertainment.

The new media group will reach 270 million people globally, the company said.

AOL said the boards of each company and shareholders of The Huffington Post have approved the deal, which is expected to close in the late first, or early second quarter 2011.—Internet

OECD wants more Swiss help in tax cheat hunt

ZURICH, 7 Feb—The Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) wants Switzerland to make the international hunt for tax evaders easier, a Swiss newspaper reported on Sunday.

The OECD criticized current Swiss requirements for legal assistance in cases of tax evasion, saying they were too restrictive and an obstacle for an effective exchange of information, weekly SonntagsZeitung said, citing a government document.

Swiss Finance Minister Eveline Widmer-Schlumpf therefore made proposals to the government to provide so-called legal assistance more easily to other countries, the paper said.

Switzerland had to give in to international pressure in 2009 and softened bank secrecy, pledging to help other countries in the hunt for tax evaders to comply with OECD standards.

However, the country said it would only give legal assistance if the other country could provide the name of the suspect and his or her bank.

Swiss media reported the OECD had sent a so-called “high-level recital” to Switzerland, saying it was “insufficient” to ask for names from the tax evaders and hoping for more to be done now.

“I had indicated to the Swiss that they wish a change in our bilateral tax arrangement,” Widmer-Schlumpf said.

But the government also pointed out the US is bound to enforce the new language in the case of tax evasion, according to the newspaper.

The annual OECD recital was due to be released last week but was delayed because of the domestic row.

Global IT product processing base in E China exports more

NANJING, 7 Feb—East China’s Jiangsu Province, home to global IT (information technology) products manufacturing and processing base, exported 103.66 billion US dollars worth of IT products in 2010, a rise of 28.7 percent on 2009, according to the provincial commerce bureau.

The amount accounted for 38.3 percent of Jiangsu’s total exports.

The total IT exports included 39.73 billion US dollars worth of portable PCs (personal computers), up 46.1 percent year on year, 8.81 billion dollars worth of LCD (liquid crystal display) panels, up 16 percent, and 7.97 billion dollars worth of integrated circuit chips, up 21.9 percent.

The southern part of Jiangsu has developed into an important IT products manufacturing and processing base in the world. The leading 15 IT enterprises of Taipei have launched operations in Suzhou City, while Kunshan City now accounts for 50 percent of world’s total annual laptop PC production.—Xinhua

Furthermore, Yeboke Dam which can irrigate 3000 acres of farmland, bridges spanning over Winyaw River and Haungthayaw River, and Hatgyi Hydropower Project with capacity of 7325 megawatts are under construction for further prosperity of Kayin State.

Thanks to genuine goodwill of the Government, Kayin State today is enjoying fruits of development like any other states and regions in Myanmar. Kayin State has witnessed positive changes in the time of the State Peace and Development Council, compared to 1988.

HAILING THE 64th ANNIVERSARY UNION DAY:

Panglong Conference to regain independence; Union Spirit to build new developed democratic nation

Maung Nwe Sit

National brethren
United we stand

In general, a union is a nation of many national races. If a country is home to only one or two national races, it is formed as unitary state. Each of some countries has over 50 national races, but they are formed as unitary states in order that the sole government can undertake administrative machinery effectively. In the People’s Republic of China, for example, Han nationals make up the majority, and there are 55 other national races. But, it is a unitary state.

A country with many national races is established as a union. The countries whose names start with United, Union and Federal are federal or union states, for instance, the United States of America, the Union of Myanmar, the United Kingdom states, for instance, the United States of America, United, Union and Federal are federal or union states. The countries whose names start with nation make up the majority, and there are 55 nationals make up the majority, and there are 55

Padaung Than Kywe (Trs)

During the National Convention convened from 1993 to 2007, over 1000 representatives of national races adopted principles with one voice for a prosperous future of the nation. Indeed, National Convention can be said second Panglong Conference. Now, sessions of Region Hluttaw, State Hluttaw, Pyithu Hluttaw, Amyotha Hluttaw and Pyidaungsu Hluttaw are being held with the Hluttaw Representatives to build a peaceful, modern and developed discipline-flourishing country. These sessions are therefore to be viewed as Panglong conferences or Panglong conferences of 21st century.

the first-ever Socialist country in the world. Fourteen sovereign countries such as Belarus (Belorussia), Ukraine, Georgia, Azerbaijan, Uzbekistan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, Armenia, Kirgizia, Estonia and Latvia joined Russia to build the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (USSR) with Socialist system. USSR is different from other union states. It is confederation of 15 republics with separate presidents and separate high courts.

The United States of America was a confederation state. But in the pragmatic world, its people were in rivalry, so it was reconstituted as a union state. Sweden, Norway and UAR were formed as confederation states but they split into pieces. USSR managed to stand for about 70 years: from 1917 in which the confederation state was built with the leading role played by Lenin, to 1991 in which it split into 15 countries due to the mismanagement of Gorbachev (to the liking of the West Bloc). The long-lasting existence was due to the visionary Soviet Communist Party. All the 15 countries had separate presidents, governments, legislative body and high courts. All the communist parties under the Soviet Communist Party managed to rule the 15 countries. And owing to the leadership of the sole party, China, Vietnam, Cuba and North Korea have stood till today and are developing fast.

MPPE hold meeting on fuel distribution of private filling stations

NAY PYI TAW, 7 Feb—Myanma Petroleum Products Enterprise of the Ministry of Energy held a work coordination meeting on distribution of private filling station at the ministry here this afternoon.

Speaking at the meeting, Minister for Energy U Lun Thi said the ministry privatized 260 filling stations from states and regions through Privatization Commission under the directive of the State Peace and Development Council on 10 June 2010. It was found that the private stations distributed their fuel mainly to vehicles and motorcycles. But as the public needed fuel not only for transport sector but for other sectors such as industry, the ministry had instructed the filling stations to sell their fuel for other purposes. That was why the meeting was called for entrepreneurs, the minister added. He then, stressed the need for taking fire preventive measures at the stations.

Australia must cut Programmes to pay for rebuilding

Canberra, 7 Feb— Australia will have to cut spending on some government programmes to pay for rebuilding after Tropical Cyclone Yasi hit Queensland State last week, said Treasurer Wayne Swan, echoing comments from other top leaders.

“Certainly it’s going to be a lot of money, it’s not just the damage to the towns,” Swan told Australian Broadcasting Corp radio today, without saying where spending would be reduced.

“It is the damage to the critical infrastructure, and of course it is the damage to some of those critical primary industries as well.”

Prime Minister Julia Gillard and Finance Minister Penny Wong have also said the government is reassessing the budget after Yasi tore through sugar estates as well.

The cyclone adds to that from flooding that left 35 people dead and disrupted coal mining over the past two months.

Gillard’s government on 27 Jan announced a A$1.8 billion ($1.8 billion) levy on middle- and high-income earners as well as A$2.8 billion in budget cuts and A$1 billion in delayed infrastructure projects to pay for rebuilding after the floods.—Internet

At least one killed, 11 wounded in Ohio shooting

Washington, 7 Feb— At least one student was killed and 11 people were wounded on Sunday in a shooting incident near a college campus in the US State of Ohio, said local police.

Police said the shooting happened in a fraternity house near the Youngstown State University (YSU) campus. The university said that the one killed and the six injured are students from the university.

The shooting happened during a party early Sunday and no arrests have been made, according to local police.

The local police authorities identified the dead as 25-year-old Jamail E Johnson, a senior of the YSU, after suffering gunshot wounds to the head and legs.

The 11 injured were taken to a nearby hospital, and eight of them have been treated and released by early afternoon, while the other injuries were not life-threatening, according to local authorities.

Cynthia Anderson, president of the university located in northeast Ohio, met students and their families at the hospital and called it “a sad day” for victims’ families.

21 people injured in bus, crane collision in western Japan

Osaka, 7 Feb— Twenty one people were injured Monday morning when a school bus carrying 51 students collided with a truck-mounted crane and then crashed into a nearby office building in western Japan’s Okayama Prefecture, local media reported.

The injured includes twenty elementary school pupils and a man who was working in the building when the collision took place at around 7:45 am local time, the report said, adding that the injured were taken to hospital for minor injuries.

The crane truck was moving onto a public road when its crane arm made contact with the bus, causing the bus to knock over a utility pole before crashing into the office of an automobile sales and repair company, the report said. The police are questioning drivers of the crane truck and the bus on suspicion that their negligence may have caused the accident.—Xinhua

S Korean shipbuilding industry under massive restructuring

Seoul, 7 Feb— South Korea’s shipbuilding industry has been under massive restructuring since 2006 as global shipbuilders are undergoing one of the biggest structural changes in their history.

Currently in the global shipbuilding sector, the biggest restructuring has fallen on small shipbuilders that focus on small ships while mega-sized builders such as Hyundai Heavy Industries, the world’s largest shipbuilder, have avoided streamlining.

Small shipyards have been undergoing restructuring for the past five years due to the limited number of yards that have received new orders and a stronger outlook for small ships stemming from huge replacement demand.

A new mega-trend — fuel efficiency and lower carbon dioxide (CO2) emissions — has already caught on in the global shipbuilding sector, set to bring about an upheaval across all the shipyards.

Top-tier shipbuilders have been on the move far ahead of CO2 regulations by the International Maritime Organization (IMO) while leading shipping companies have been buying fuel-efficient ships on concerns over higher oil prices and weaker freight rates.

Father escapes jaws of death by punching 8ft crocodile on snout

SYDNEY, 7 Feb — A father survived a crocodile attack by repeatedly punching the reptile on the nose. The man (37) was recovering in hospital Sunday after the 8ft crocodile grabbed his arm and hand in a waterhole where he was swimming with his two teenage daughters.

He fended off the reptile by hitting it several times on the snout before dragging himself to dry land. Doctors treated two large bites to his back and 10 puncture wounds to his wrist.

Although the injuries were not life-threatening, the attack at Weipa, in the far north of Queensland state, Australia, is likely to raise questions about the need to cull the growing crocodile population.

The Northern Territory alone is believed to have close on 100,000 saltwater crocodiles, prompting calls for culling or legalised hunting.

Avalanche kills Canadian snowmobiler

SMITHERS, 7 Feb — A weekend avalanche claimed the life of a snowmobiler near Smithers, British Columbia, authorities said. The name of the victim, described as a local man, had not been released, The (Vancouver) Province reported on Sunday. The man was snowmobiling with friends several miles south of Smithers Saturday afternoon when he was overtaken by the snow slide, the Canadian Broadcasting Corp reported.

Barry Finnegan with Bulkley Valley Search and Rescue said it appeared the man, who was in his 20s, was using a camera when another snowmobiler triggered the avalanche.

“The slope released and caught the individual, who was filming or taking pictures down below, and he was buried by the slide,” Finnegan said. — Internet

Age related macular degeneration clue discovered

LONDON, 7 Feb — Age-related macular degeneration affects 500,000 people in the UK and is incurable. The study in the journal Nature found an enzyme known as DICER1 that stops functioning, resulting in the illness. UK experts said it had the potential to be an important breakthrough.

The macula is a part of the eye which sits in the centre of the retina and is responsible for the fine detail at the centre of the field of vision.

As the disease progresses that central vision declines, making reading, driving and recognising people difficult. It affects one in 50 people over 50 and one in five people over 85. The exact cause is unknown, but risk factors include smoking, high blood pressure and having relatives with the condition. — Internet
Sri Lanka bans laundry near WCup venue

Sri Lanka has banned people from hanging their washing out to dry near a cricket ground in Colombo where World Cup games will be played, a news report said Sunday. Residents and shop owners around the Premadasa Stadium, which will host seven matches, were issued the orders by Colombo City authorities this week, the island’s Sunday Times newspaper said. “These include abstaining from hanging out clothes for drying in public view, putting out garbage on the roadsides and engaging in street games such as hopscotch and cricket matches,” the paper said. The 35,000-seater Premadasa stadium, which will be the venue for three Sri Lanka games and one semi-final, is surrounded by low-income housing schemes. Sri Lanka has spent $8 million renovating the ground and has also built two new stadiums in the south and centre of the island for the World Cup. The World Cup, hosted by India, Sri Lanka and Bangladesh, starts on 19 February and ends on 2 April.

‘Roommate’ earns top box-office bunk with $15.6M

LOS ANGELES, 7 Feb—The college thriller “The Roommate” has moved into the top spot at the box office with a $15.6 million debut during a typically slow Super Bowl weekend in which the NFL championship game preoccupies movie fans.

The Sony Pictures release Leighton Meester as a psycho freshman who becomes obsessed with her new roommate (Minka Kelly). The 3-D underwater cave adventure “Sanctum,” whose producers include “Avatars” creator James Cameron, drew modest crowds and came in second with $9.2 million, according to studio estimates Sunday.

‘Dragon’ dominates Annie Awards; Disney stays home

LOS ANGELES, 7 Feb—“How to Train Your Dragon” has swept the animation prizes at the Annie Awards, with the DreamWorks production winning 10 trophies including best picture at a ceremony boycotted by rival Disney.

Presented by the International Animated Film Society, the Annies often are a forecast for the animated-feature category at the Academy Awards. But “Toy Story 3,” from Disney’s Pixar Animation, remains the favourite for the 27 Feb Oscars.

“Toy Story 3” was nominated for best-animated feature at the Annies, along with Disney’s “Tangled.” But the studio decided not to make any awards push for the Annies in a dispute over voting procedures, which Disney claims is stacked in favour of DreamWorks Animation movies.

Prizes for DreamWorks’ “Dragon” at Saturday night’s ceremony also included the voice-acting Annie for Jay Baruchel. —Internet

Boston woman delivers big baby

A Boston woman delivered a 13-pound, 2-ounce baby boy — the largest her doctor said she has delivered naturally.

Amanda Byron, 21, gave birth Thursday to Jonathan Patrick Rozzi after 4 hours of labor and 10 minutes of pushing, the Boston Herald reported.

“When they told me his weight I didn’t realize how big a deal this was until everyone started taking pictures,” said Byron. “The nurses were all so surprised at his size. I was told the last big baby was 12 pounds but that was a C-section. Everyone’s asking me ‘How did you do it?’ It wasn’t as much pain as I thought it would be. So I just smile and shrug,” said Byron.

Jackson confirms ‘The Hobbit’ start for March

WELLINGTON, 7 Feb—Filming on the troubled big-budget production of “The Hobbit” will finally start in March, director Peter Jackson confirmed on Monday, after months of wrangling and delays.

The cameras will start rolling on the $500-million-dollar production on 21 March, in the New Zealand autumn, after taking into account filming schedule requirements, actor availability and the seasonal weather.

“Despite some delays we are fully back on track and very excited to get started,” Oscar-winning director Jackson said in a statement.

The two-part prequel to “The Lord of the Rings” has been dogged by problems, including a union threat to boycott the movie.

Prison gives pizzerias a record order

Two Pizza Huts in Kansas are working up a Super Bowl order of 941 pizzas and almost 10,000 chicken wings — for a prison.

The Hutchinson Correctional Facility is holding the huge meal as a fundraiser for its Spiritual Life Centre, selling slices to inmates, KWCH-TV, Wichita, reported. About 800 of the 2,000 prisoners ordered pizza or wings.

Hutchinson’s Pizza Huts are used to orders up to 500 for Super Bowl Sunday but had to bring in corporate managers from Colorado for this one.

Liverpool spoil Torres Chelsea debut with 1-0 win

LONDON, 7 Feb — Steven Gerrard is likely to miss England's friendly against Denmark on Wednesday after suffering a groin injury in Liverpool’s 1-0 win over Chelsea on Sunday.

Gerrard will join up with Fabio Capello’s squad at their Watford training base ahead of the trip to Copenhagen, but Liverpool boss Kenny Dalglish doesn’t expect his captain to feature in the match.

“Gerrard has a groin problem. We’ve spoken to the England team, he’s got to go to let them have a look at him but he won’t be playing,” Dalglish told reporters after Sunday’s match.

Celtic, Rangers braced for seventh clash

GLASGOW, 7 Feb—Celtic and Rangers insisted on Monday that their rivalry remains as intense as ever despite the two Old Firm rivals having to face each other seven times this season.

Sunday’s Scottish Cup fifth round 2-2 draw at Ibrox guaranteed another clash between the Glasgow giants with a Scottish Premier League fixture at Parkhead on 20 February to come before the Cup replay on 2 March and the League Cup final three weeks later.

Buffon back in Italy squad for Germany friendly

ROME, 7 Feb—Juventus goalkeeper Gianluigi Buffon has been recalled to the Italy squad for Wednesday’s friendly against Germany in Dortmund, less than a month after making his injury comeback.

Buffon has not played for his country since a herniated disc in his back forced him out of Italy’s first match at the World Cup last June.

But having made his injury return in January for Juve, he has earned an immediate call-up to coach Cesare Prandelli’s squad.

The major surprise was a first selection for Inter Milan’s Brazilian-born midfielder Thiago Motta who has long been a naturalised Italian.

He is one of three Inter players in the squad alongside transfer window signings Giampaolo Pazzini and Andrea Ranocchia.

Ronaldo double as Real keep on Barcelona trail

MADRID, 7 Feb—Real Madrid responded in style to Barcelona’s record breaking, 16th consecutive league victory with Cristiano Ronaldo leading the way in a 4-1 win over Real Sociedad on Sunday.

Ronaldo was charged up for the game after being criticised for not scoring in four matches and having seen Lionel Messi hit a hat-trick in Barcelona’s 3-0 win over Athletic Madrid on Saturday.

That victory saw Pep Guardiola’s side surpass the run of 15 victories set by A lfredo Di Stefano’s Real Madrid team of 1960-1961 and put them ten points clear at the top.

“I have already said that even if Ronaldo’s season ended now it would still have been fantastic,” he added.

Inter, Napoli close gap as Milan held in Genoa

ROME, 7 Feb—Inter Milan thumped 10-man Roma 5-3 and Napoli beat Cesena 2-0 as both sides closed in on Serie A leaders AC Milan, who were held to a 1-1 draw at Milan’s San Siro.

Milan’s forward Samuel Eto’o took his tally this season to 27 goals with a brace while Wesley Sneijder, on his first start since December, Thiago Motta and Esteban Cambiaso added the other strikes for the champions.

Brazilian midfielder Simplicio, Montenegro striker Mirko Vucinic and substitute centre-back Simone Loria replied for Roma.

Inter coach Leonardo said the title fight would go all the way.
