The bomb exploded in the small town of Jandol in the District of Lower Dir, 90 kilometres (56 miles) from the Capital Islamabad. Pakistani troops fought a major offensive to expunge the Taliban from the area nearly two years ago.

Two US soldiers killed in Iraq

BAGHDAD, 4 April—Two American soldiers died of wounds by militant attack in Iraq, the US military said Sunday.

"Two US service members died 2 April of wounds suffered when enemy forces attacked their unit with indirect fire," the military said without giving further details about the exact location of the incident.

"Indirect fire" usually refers to mortar or rocket attacks in the terminology of US military statements.

The names of the deceased are being withheld pending notification of next of kin, the statement added.

The latest deaths brought the death toll of US soldiers in Iraq since the war broke out in 2003 to 4,443, according to media count based on Pentagon figures.

In mid 2010, US troops in Iraq were reduced to below 50,000 soldiers. Washington said the remaining US troops in Iraq are conducting support and training missions.

US military forces are to pull out completely from Iraq by the end of 2011, according to the security pact named Status of Forces Agreement, or SOFA, signed late 2008 between Baghdad and Washington.

Three policemen were killed and 18 others were wounded late on Sunday night when a suicide car bomber struck a crowd of policemen gathered at the site of an earlier roadside bomb explosion in centre of Ramadi City, the capital of Anbar province, a provincial police source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity.

Militants frequently used a tactic of blowing up a bomb to attract security forces at the blast site and then carrying out a massive attack that would cause more casualty among them.

A roadside bomb Monday morning detonated outside the house of a senior official of the Iraqi industrial ministry in Baghdad’s southern District of Doura, killing one of his bodyguards and wounding three others, an Interior Ministry source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity.

In western Baghdad, a roadside bomb went off outside the house of an Awakening Council group member in Ameriyah district, killing him and causing damages to his house and nearby buildings, the source said.

Japan post-quake business confidence to drop

Tokyo, 4 April—Japanese business confidence is set to plunge in the months following the 11 March earthquake and tsunami and subsequent nuclear crisis, the Bank of Japan said in its Tankan survey on Monday.

The central bank released Friday’s quarterly survey on Monday to show the breakdown in the replies it received before and after the disasters.

Most of the responses from companies were received before 11 March, but it showed diverging views after the 9.0 magnitude earthquake inflicted plant damage, power shortages and major disruption to supply chains.

The BoJ’s report on Friday showed business sentiment among large manufacturers improving to “six” in March from “five” in December.

Monday’s survey showed that the sentiment index among major manufacturers was set to fall to “minus two” in the April-June period, according to firms polled after the quake.

The index measures the percentage of firms that say conditions are good minus those that say conditions are bad — meaning that any figure above zero indicates general, if cautious, optimism in the corporate sector.

Sentiment among medium-sized manufacturers in the April-June period was forecast to fall from “minus seven” before the quake to “minus 14” according to those polled afterwards, Monday’s report showed.—INTERNET

Disasters put stress on children in Japan

Karakuwa, 4 April—Zoom in for a snapshot of apparent normalcy: children sitting in a circle, clasping playing cards tightly in their hands. They laugh, chat and occasionally hop up to break into a goofy dance.

Zoom out and the picture changes: The children are kneeling on mattresses in a chilly classroom they now call home. An elderly woman cries nearby, wondering whether her mother was killed by Japan’s tsunami. Outside the school, a teacher fiddles with a radiation detector, checking to ensure the levels aren’t high enough to make them sick — or worse.

Behind the smiling faces of thousands of children in shelters across this wave-battered wasteland, experts say there is often serious anxiety as everything these youngsters once held as normal is suddenly anything but.

“That’s what is so wonderfully adaptive about children. They can move very easily into playing or laughing,” says psychologist Susie Burke, a disaster response specialist with the Australian Psychological Society. “But that’s not saying they’re not deeply distressed and upset about what’s going on.”—INTERNET

Indonesia’s strong quake causes no casualty or damage

Jakarta, 4 April—A shallow undersea quake with magnitude of 7.1 struck off Java island early Monday morning, with no immediate report of damage or casualty, officials said.

Indonesia’s Meteorology and Geophysics Agency reported that the quake took place at 03:06 am Jakarta Time (0600 GMT Sunday) with epicentre at 293 km southwest of Cilacap, Central Java and with the depth at 10 km. The intensity of the quake was felt at Cilacap of Central Java and Pangandaran of West Java, as well as Denpasar of Bali island and Bogor town near the Capital Jakarta, Jajat Jatnika, an official of the agency, told Xinhua by phone.

Head of the disaster management and mitigation agency in Cilacap, Wasi Ariadi, said that many residents fled their homes after the quake happened.

“But there are no houses or buildings damaged, nor are people injured here,” he told Xinhua by phone. The local authorities have prepared temporary shelters at higher ground for the evacuation in the event of tsunami.—Xinhua

Quake rocks Delhi, northern India, Nepal

New Delhi, 4 April—A moderate 5.7-magnitude earthquake shook the Nepal-India border region on Monday with tremors felt as far away as the Indian capital of New Delhi.

The epicentre of the quake was in the border region between Nepal and India, a seismologist at the Indian Meteorological Department said.

The quake struck at a depth of 10 kilometres (six miles), he said. “It was a moderate quake... with a shallow to moderate focal depth,” said the official, who asked not to be identified.

No damage or casualties were immediately reported. The tremor was also felt in two towns in far western Nepal, Dhangadi and Mahendranagar. Nepal’s private Avenues Television reported.

Japan says it may take months to end radiation leaks

Tokyo, 4 April—Japanese engineers put dye into radioactive water on Monday to check if they had managed to stop a leak from one reactor at the crippled Fukushima nuclear plant but one official warned it would be months before the crisis was under control.

In the face of Japan’s biggest crisis since World War Two, one newspaper poll said that nearly two-thirds of voters want the government to form a coalition with the major opposition party and work together to recover from the massive damage from the 11 March earthquake and tsunami. Underlining the concern over the impact on the world’s third largest economy, a central bank survey showed that big manufacturers expect business conditions to worsen significantly in the next three months, though they were not quite as pessimistic as some analysts had expected.—Reuters

Allowing organ donation by people with HIV could save lives, experts say

NEW YORK, 4 April—About 500 HIV-positive patients a year could get kidney or liver transplants within months instead of years if the US Congress reversed a law that forbids people with HIV from being organ donors after they die, researchers say.

“If this legal ban were lifted, we could potentially provide organ transplants to every single HIV-infected transplant candidate on the waiting list. Instead of discarding the otherwise healthy organs of HIV-infected people when they die, these organs could be available for HIV-positive candidates,” senior study author Dr Dorry L Segev, an associate professor of surgery at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, said in a Hopkins news release. Segev and colleagues analyzed data from the Nationwide Inpatient Study and the HIV Research Network to estimate the number of people in the United States who are good potential organ donors except for the fact that they have HIV.

The researchers found similar numbers in each of the data sources: an average of 534 patients a year between 2005 and 2008 in the Nationwide Inpatient Study, and an average of 494 a year between 2006 and 2008 in the HIV Research Network. The study was released online 28 March in advance of publication in an upcoming print issue of the American Journal of Transplantation.—INTERNET

Scientists spot four new Alzheimer’s genes

NEW YORK, 4 April—The identification of four new genes associated with Alzheimer’s disease is a major advance that will help improve understanding of what causes the condition, say scientists who pinpointed the genes. Each of the genes individually contributes to the risk of developing Alzheimer’s disease, according to the study in the 3 April issue of Nature Genetics.

The four genes — M54A, CD2AP, CD33 and EphA1 — were identified after the team of scientists from 44 universities and research institutions in the United States analyzed genetic data from more than 54,000 people. Until this discovery, only four genes had been confirmed to be associated with Alzheimer’s. “This is the culmination of years of work on Alzheimer’s disease by a large number of scientists, yet it is just the beginning in defining how genes influence memory and intellectual function as we age.” We are all tremendously excited by our progress so far, but much remains to be done, both in understanding the genetics and in defining how these genes influence the disease process,” study leader Gerard D Schellenberg, of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, said in a Penn Medicine news release.

Interpublic Facebook stake valued at $200-$300 million

Hyundai Heavy sets up research centre in Shanghai

SEOUL, 4 April—Hyundai Heavy Industries has set up a research centre in Shanghai in a bid to develop strategic products in the long run, the South Korea’s top shipbuilder said Monday.

The new research centre will focus on developing global strategic products such as smart-grid, offshore wind turbines and robot systems in the long term as well as construction equipment and engines targeting the rapidly-growing Chinese market, the company said in a statement.

Hyundai Heavy selected Shanghai as its global R&D site because the Chinese government is offering various supports, including tax incentives, to foreign R&D centres and many global firms such as Microsoft and General Motors are operating research centres in Shanghai, according to the statement.

The shipbuilder said the research centre will recruit 30 researchers from Asia, North America and Europe at the beginning, and it will hire 120 engineers by 2012 and 200 by 2013.

BoBofA is shedding branch offices

CHARLOTTE, 4 April—Bank of America said it would close 68 more under-performing branch offices in the coming quarter, including one in its hometown of Charlotte, NC.

BoBofA told investors in March the bank, known as a firm that thrives on expansion, intends to close 10 percent of its branches in the next two years. In a regulatory filing, it said it closed 43 branches in the first quarter. Bank spokeswoman Tara Burke said the number was actually 55 and explained the discrepancy was due to a “lag” between the calendar and the filing process.

The 68 additional closings would likely occur within the next 90 days, as they were posted by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, which regulates Bank of America and requires 90 days of warning time for customers. Bank consultant Ken Thomas said the closings would likely hurt low-income areas. “What happens to the shopping centre for the neighbourhood?” when a branch office closes, he asked. Work efficiency and morality of service personnel...

In Kengtung and Tachilek regions, the Union Government side by side with the state government is carrying out rehabilitation work. It is also the task of cooperation with the same goal. It is believed that all the work will be accomplished quickly due to genuine goodwill and correct leadership. So, staff from related departments and local people on their part are to cooperate in the rehabilitation tasks. The new government is now trying its best to become a clean one with good governance ensuring checks and balances in the three legislative, executive and judicial powers. Service personnel from respective states and regions need to work with correct procedures and discipline.

The important point is that the elected representatives and the personnel from departments here are the ones who have the responsibility to serve the interests of the people. In his regard, it has been prescribed that what the people want to know in the public interests can be asked in accord with the law in hluttaws. Moreover, a committee has already been formed to see whether the government’s guarantees, pledges and undertakings could be implemented successfully. Therefore, the work efficiency and morality of service personnel who are representing the government is the deciding factor for emergence of a clean government with good governance. While the government is working hard to achieve its set goals and shoulder the duties conscientiously, the departmental staff and the people are to work cooperatively and unitedly.

Next, the Chief Minister explained formation of the state government. Then the director of Shan State (East) Development Affairs Committee accepted K 1 million donated by U Aung Khan of Ngar Hnakaung company, K 50 million by five wellwishers and K 200 million by Ever Winner Co., for supplying more water in Kengtung.

MIAMI, 4 April—Novak Djokovic has done it again, defeating world number one Rafael Nadal 6-3, 6-7 (7/4) to win the ATP Miami Masters crown and remain unbeaten in 2011. Djokovic has now won all 24 matches he has played this year, the best start to a season since Ivan Lendl began 1986 25-0. The Serbian, ranked second in the world, has captured four titles, including the Australian Open, Dubai and, now, back-to-back elite Masters titles at Indian Wells and Miami, both with victories over Nadal in the finals. "It’s the best four months in my life, but it’s only the start of the season," said Djokovic, who will remain at number two behind Nadal for the time being, even though the Spaniard hasn’t won since Tokyo in October. “It’s a bit early to talk about getting that top spot in the rankings,” Djokovic said. "Rafa is definitely the best player in the world now. "If I want to have the number one ranking, I need to play consistently well throughout the whole year. "As in the championship match at Indian Wells a fortnight earlier, Djokovic surrendered the first set to Nadal.—Internet

Stacy Lewis wins 1st LPGA title at Kraft Nabisco

RANCHO Mirage, Calif, 4 April—Stacy Lewis spent her teen years in a back brace with scoliosis, becoming a star golfer after major corrective surgery. She lost a final-round lead at the US Women’s Open in her first pro tournament, but bounced back to become a solid — albeit winless — pro. Lewis’s grandfather died the day before the Kraft Nabisco Championship began this week, but she stayed to honor the golf-loving 84-year-old who passed the game down to her. So when Lewis went head-to-head with the world’s top-ranked player on Sunday at the back nine at Mission Hills, she quieted her rolling nerves and outplayed Yani Tseng to win the LPGA Tour’s first major by three strokes. No problem for a woman with a spine of steel.Lewis shot a 3-under 69 to finish at 13-under 273, rallying from an early two-stroke deficit while staring down Tseng, who blinked when Lewis showed a grit borne from years of hard work and struggle.—Internet

City boss Mancini targets top two finish

MILAN, 4 April—Manchester City manager Roberto Mancini has set his sights on a top-two finish in the Premier League after claiming his refreshed players can get even better in the last seven games of the season. A crushing 5-0 victory over Sunderland at Eastlands on Sunday saw Mancini’s ex-pensively-assembled side climb above Chelsea into third place in the table. Although Mancini said his side had left themselves too much to do to catch Manchester United as they lie 10 points behind the leaders, the Italian believes that second place is not beyond his team.

El-Halabi was awaiting a bout with Irma Balijagic Adler of Bosnia for the vacant IBF lightweight title on Friday night when her 44-year-old stepfather entered her dressing room and shot her. He also shot two security guards before he was arrested, Berlin police said. The three victims were taken to a hospital for surgery. Sunday’s edition of the Bild newspaper identified the gunman as Roy El-Halabi and reported that 800 spectators were evacuated from the arena.—Internet

Woods gets in 18 holes of practice

AUGUSTA, 4 April—Tiger Woods made a quiet return to Augusta National on Sunday to complete a weekend of practice for the Masters, minus the media crush trying to document his every move. It was far different from last year. Woods had been away from golf for nearly five months while coping with the crisis in his personal life. His arrival at Augusta on the Sunday before tournament week was the first time the media had seen him on the golf course since Australia the previous November. This time, he was one of several players taking a warm, peaceful afternoon with no fans and no media allowed on the golf course except in the area near the first and 10th tees, and ninth and 18th greens. He played with Masters rookie Jeff Overton, and Rory Sabbatini joined them.—Internet

Rooney outburst could spark FA probe

LONDON, 4 April—Manchester United striker Wayne Rooney could face a Football Association (FA) probe after unleashing a foul-mouthed outburst into a television camera during Saturday’s 4-2 win over West Ham at Upton Park. As Rooney celebrated with United team-mates after completing his hat-trick from the penalty spot, the England star was caught uttering a series of audible expletives towards the camera. Rooney’s swearing was beamed around the world by Sky Sports and prompted an on-air apology from the broadcaster. While the England player said the emotion of giving his side the lead after they trailed 2-0 at half-time had prompted his outburst, England’s FA might take a different view.—Internet

Bobby Charlton pays tribute to Sir Bobby

LONDON, 4 April—Sir Bobby Charlton has been hailed as a legend of British football by his former international team-mate Roy Keane. The England legend, who won the World Cup with Bobby Moore’s Three Lions in 1966, was speaking on Monday in the aftermath of the former Manchester United and England captain’s death from cancer at the age of 85. Charlton said the former United hero’s “passionate” commitment to the game had served as an inspiration to a generation of young players. “He will always be remembered as a true legend of the game and a gentleman and I feel privileged to have known him,” Charlton said.—Internet

HUMBLE, 4 April—Phil Mickelson feels pretty confident about his game heading into the Masters. And it comes with a notable distinction. The win moved Mickelson’s world ranking to No. 3, while Tiger Woods dropped to No. 7.
