Welcome to Myanmar

Today, tourism industry has become a lucrative business in the world. The Ministry of Hotels and Tourism is now working in cooperation with the Hoteliers Association and foreign travels agencies in boosting the Myanmar tourism industry.

Myanmar tourism industry has made considerable progress as a result of better communication service and smooth transport.

Every service provided for tourists must be as good as possible for their comfort and convenience while they are on holiday in the nation. Now, a plan is getting underway to open international level hotel courses as five-star hotel service is a must for a sudden boom in the tourism industry.

Therefore, all those engaging in tourism industry should provide best services to lure greater number of tourists to Myanmar in the interests of the nation.

Gunmen briefly seize boat, eight Filipino crewmen

MANILA, 23 May—Police say masked gunmen seized a fishing boat and its eight crewmen in the southern Philippines but freed them hours later after a ransom was paid.

Regional police commander Felissimo Khu Jr says the four gunmen forced the boat’s skipper and his crew to return to Malangas Town in Zamboanga Sibugay Province after Saturday’s attack to raise the ransom for their freedom. Khu said Monday that the fishermen fled after receiving the money and were being hunted by police and navy personnel.

Many fishing boats have come under attack from outlaws and al-Qaeda-linked Abu Sayyaf militants in the Philippines’ volatile south.

Waziweyi is a seed salesman and part of a chain linking scientists and farmers that experts hope will help Mozambique and other African countries solve their chronic food crises.

Waziweyi has gone from aid worker to entrepreneur, producing high-yield, drought-resistant hybrid seeds and selling them through the company he and his wife founded last year, called “Nzara Vapera” — “an end to hunger.”—INTERNET

Militants storm Pakistan naval air base, 13 dead

KARACHI, 23 May—Taliban gunmen armed with rockets and explosives stormed a major naval air base in the heart of Pakistan’s biggest city, destroying two US-made surveillance aircraft and killing 13 personnel.

It was the worst assault on a military base since the army commanders was besieged in October 2009, piling further embarrassment on the armed forces three weeks after Osama bin Laden was found living under their noses.

Up to 20 militants crept into the base in the teeming port city of Karachi from three sides under the cover of night late Sunday, officials said, triggering gunbattles and a series of explosions.

More than 12 hours later, officials were unable to confirm that the attack on the PNS Mehran, a sprawling compound of the Pakistani navy’s air arm, was over. By mid-morning, fire crews had doused towering flames over the base.

Interior Minister Rehman Malik said the “terrorists” sneaked into the base from three points adjacent to residential areas in the city of 16 million people, whose port is a vital hub for NATO supplies bound for Afghanistan. “A (single-storey) building in the premises is still under their occupation from where they are exchanging fire with our soldiers,” Malik told reporters.—INTERNET

Sea levels set to rise by up to a metre

SYDNEY, 23 May—Sea levels are set to rise by up to a metre within a century due to global warming, a new Australian report said Monday as it warned this could make “once-a-century” coastal flooding much more common.

The government’s first Climate Commission report said the evidence that the Earth’s surface was warming rapidly was beyond doubt — with the last decade the hottest on record.

Drawn from the most up-to-date climate science from around the world, the report said greenhouse gas emissions created by human industry was the likely culprit behind rising temperatures, warming oceans, and rising sea levels.

Commissioner Professor Will Steffen said while the report had been reviewed by climate scientists from the Australian science body the CSIRO, the Bureau of Meteorology and academics, some judgments, including on sea levels,

“I expect the magnitude of global average sea-level rise in 2100 compared to 1990 to be in the range of 0.5 to 1.0 metre,” Steffen said in his preface to “The Critical Decade”.

He said while this assessment was higher than that of the Intergovernmental Panel for Climate Change in 2007, which was under 0.8m, it was not inconsistent with the UN body which had said higher values were possible.—INTERNET

Toyota cars to be driver’s “friend” in social network service

TOKYO, 23 May—Toyota Motor Corp and cloud computing company Salesforce.com Inc will build a social network service that will enable owners to become “friends” with their cars and get friendly, tweet-like reminders for maintenance checks and other notices.

The deal marks the second tie-up between the world’s biggest automaker and a software company in as many months. Toyota and Microsoft Corp last month announced plans to bring Internet-connected services to Toyota’s cars across the world. “Social networking services are transforming human interaction and modes of communication,” Toyota President Akio Toyoda told a joint news conference with Salesforce.com CEO Marc Benioff in Tokyo on Monday. “The automobile needs to evolve in step with that transformation,” Toyoda said.

Information technology and telematics are expected to play a key role in adding value to future cars, and become a marketing tool as consumers look for connectivity not just from their laptops and phones but also with their cars. Toyota has already developed its own telematics service to connect it with drivers and dealers.

Under the new private social network, called “Toyota Friend,” owners will be able to “chat” with their Toyotas like they would with a friend on Twitter or Facebook.

The car would have its own “profile” and send a message to the driver’s phone, for instance, reminding him to recharge its depleted battery. The owner would be able to carry out a simple, two-way conversation with the car.—Reuters

Japan ‘plans solar panels for all new buildings’

TOKYO, 23 May—Japan is considering a plan that would make it compulsory for all new buildings and houses to come fitted with solar panels by 2030, a business daily said Sunday.

The plan, expected to be unveiled at the upcoming G8 Summit in France, aims to show Japan’s resolve to encourage technological innovation and promote the wider use of renewable energy, the Nikkei daily said.

Japan has reeled from the 11 March earthquake and tsunami and the nuclear crisis they triggered as it battles to stabilise the crippled Fukushima Daiichi atomic power plant.

On Thursday, the first day of the two-day summit in Deauville, France, Prime Minister Naoto Kan is expected to announce Japan’s intention to continue operating nuclear plants after confirming their safety, the Nikkei said without citing sources.—INTERNET

A Trip to the Moon’: 1902 film classic gets 21st century facelift

LOS ANGELES, 23 May—NASA’s Apollo astronauts may have first put boot prints on the moon in 1969, but moviegoers made the roundtrip long before that — in fact, way back in 1902.

Thanks to innovative French filmmaker, Georges Méliès, a pioneer of early cinema and special effects, audiences were transported across the intervening void to the moon. His 14-minute silent film, “A Trip to the Moon (Le Voyage Dans La Lune),” was arguably the “2001: Space Odyssey” of its time.

The film portrays members of the Astronomers’ Club, dispatched on an expedition to the moon. Their mode of propulsion — a huge cannon — borrowed from French novelist Jules Verne’s space adventure “From the Earth to the Moon,” which was published in 1865.

The film shows the intrepid travelers arriving on the moon safe and sound, only to encounter the Selenites.

They escape the clutches of the Selenite king and hustle back to Earth in their bullet-shaped vehicle.

Landing in the ocean, the explorers are fished out by a sailor. All this is followed by cheers, decorations and a victorious parade for the six conquers of the cosmos.
Mozambique seeks to reduce measles deaths by 98%

MARRACUENE, 23 May—Mozambique plans to vaccinate 3.6 million children against measles over the next five days in a bid to reduce deaths by 98 percent by the end of 2012, a UN Foundation official said Sunday.

This will bring the southern African country closer to a World Health Organisation (WHO) goal signed by 46 sub-Saharan countries to reduce measles deaths by 98 percent.

“This campaign has put Mozambique in a position to be the first sub-Saharan African country to reach the 2012 goal,” said Andrea Gay, executive director for children’s health at the UN Foundation.

Health officials across the country will vaccinate children under five years from Monday to Friday in a $4.5 million (three-million-euro) campaign.

Representatives of the WHO, the American Academy of Pediatrics, and former US senator Bob Bennett inspected preparations at the Marracuene district hospital outside the Mozambican capital Maputo before the start of the campaign.

Most would pay more for safer food

PHILADELPHIA, 23 May—Challenging conventional wisdom that most people want smaller government and less expensive food, a US survey indicates most would pay more for safer food.

The Pew Charitable Trusts commissioned a poll by Hart Research and American Viewpoint that indicates 66 percent support additional funding for the US Food and Drug Administration to carry out new responsibilities related to food safety. Seventy-four percent feel it is worth a 4 percent to 3 percent increase in the cost of food to pay for new safety measures in the FDA Food Safety Modernization Act, which was signed into law this year. In addition, 70 percent of those surveyed favour food companies paying an average annual fee of $1,000 to help cover the cost of new FDA food safety activities.

Twenty-five percent of US adults say they worry a great deal about food being contaminated with bacteria that makes it unsafe to eat, while 85 percent say the government should be responsible for ensuring that food is safe to eat and 71 percent of voters say the FDA plays a very important or essential role in protecting Americans’ health and safety.

Emerging economies deserve bigger role at global forums

LOS ANGELES, 23 May—Emerging economies deserve a greater role at key global forums such as the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank, as they are projected to account for 70-80 percent of the world’s economic growth in the next decade or so, said a US expert.

However, a heavy reliance on energy imports could be a threat to the fast growth of some emerging economies, said Bernard Baumohl, chief global economist of the Economic Outlook Group, in a recent interview with Xinhua.

While some emerging economies are energy self-sufficient, others have to import lot of fuels, and those highly dependent on specific commodities will see more inflation, he cautioned.

The expert also argued that a stronger US economy is in everyone’s interest, including the emerging economies.

On the possibility that US firms could pull manufacturing bases back from their homeland from the emerging economies, Baumohl said generally speaking, US companies do not make decisions on where to place their factories and plants for “national realistic reasons.”

“They won’t do it for altruistic reasons either. They will do it if they can achieve higher level of productivity to make a better and cheaper product,” he said.

“That is the fact that could draw manufacturers to the US,” said the expert. Xinhua

Sony expects annual net loss of $3.2bn

TOKYO, 23 May—Japan’s Sony on Monday said it expected to swing to a $3.2 billion net loss for the fiscal year ended March, after delaying its corporate results to gauge damage from the 11 March earthquake and tsunami. The latest setback for the technology and entertainment giant comes as it tries to recover from the impact of the disasters and a massive online hacking attack that compromised millions of users of its network services.

In a preliminary earnings statement, Sony revised February’s forecast for a $70 billion yen net profit and now expects a net annual loss of 260 billion yen ($3.2 billion), citing a charge for deferred tax assets.

The firm is due to report its full earnings on Thursday. The technology and entertainment giant said consolidated sales and operating revenue are expected to be in line with February’s forecasts despite the impact of the earthquake and tsunami on production.

Iceland ash could reach Scotland by Tuesday

BEIJING, 23 May—Ash from an erupting Icelandic volcano could reach northern Scotland by Tuesday and parts of Britain, France and even Spain by the end of the work week, if the eruption continues at the same intensity.

The warning is based on the latest 5-day weather forecasts. Iceland’s airports were closed on Sunday. With winds currently blowing the ash northwards, authorities say there’s little risk of any further disruption to European or transatlantic airspace over the next 24 hours. But low-pressure weather systems are moving into Europe and Scandinavia.

New Zealanders back borrowing to rebuild quake-hit Christchurch

WELLINGTON, 23 May—Almost three in every five New Zealanders support their government to borrow money to help rebuild the earthquake-devastated city of Christchurch, according to a new poll released Monday.

A nationwide survey of 1,154 people by polling firm HorizonPoll the day after the government laid out its economic plan in the Budget Thursday found 59.4 percent of people supported government borrowing for quake recovery, while 23.4 percent did not.

The government said the earthquakes — the first in September last year, and the second, which killed 181 people, on 22 Feb— will cost 5.5 billion NZ dollars (4.35 billion US dollars) in years. The government announced in the Budget that it would be issuing earthquake bonds with funds going to an earthquake recovery fund.

The poll found 1.5 percent of respondents would definitely invest in the bonds, and 11.3 percent would probably invest, representing a total 412,000 people among New Zealand’s adult population of 3.2 million.

Raising the 5.5 billion NZ dollars from that number of people would require an average investment of 12,607 NZ dollars each. The poll also found 43.7 percent of New Zealanders thought the government should set aside funds and insure to cover the costs of future disasters and avoid the need to borrow.

Last of 16 bodies found in Vietnam boat sinking

HANOI, 23 May—Vietnamese divers have recovered the body of the final victim who drowned along with 15 other people when a double-decker party boat sank in a river during a boy’s birthday celebration. The boat captain has been detained for questioning.

Trieu Van Gian, chief of Binh Duong provincial waterway police, says the body of a 9-year-old boy was pulled early Monday from the boat, which was still submerged in the Saigon River.

An investigation is under way to determine what caused the restaurant-style boat to capsize Friday evening during high winds and heavy rains. Monday’s state-run Thanh Nien newspaper quoted police as saying the boat’s safety check expired three months ago and that the captain, who did not have a proper operating license, had been detained for questioning.—Internet

LA police arrest suspect in beating of Giants fan

LOS ANGELES, 23 May—Police in Los Angeles arrested one suspect and detained several other people for questioning on Sunday in connection with the brutal beating of a San Francisco Giants fan at Dodger Stadium.

A police spokesman said the suspect and others were detained during the execution of two search warrants stemming from the assault that left Bryan Stow, 42, in a coma after the Opening Day game on 31 March.

No further details on the case were immediately available.

Stow, a paramedic and father of two from Santa Cruz, California, had driven more than 300 miles to Los Angeles to see his beloved Giants play their arch rivals, the Dodgers, on the first day of the season.

Dressed in Giants apparel, he was attacked and beaten in the parking lot of Dodgers Stadium by two men wearing Dodgers gear after the game, police said.

Last week, Los Angeles Police Chief Charlie Beck revealed that a woman driving the getaway car was wearing a Dodgers jersey bearing Andre Ethier’s number 16.

Stow was transferred last week from a Los Angeles-area hospital where he had been treated since the attack to San Francisco General Hospital, closer to his home.

Family members have said he is showing signs of recovery, no longer suffering seizures, but has yet to regain consciousness.

Police and other officials planned to hold a news conference later on Sunday at Dodgers Stadium to discuss further details of the investigation.

Prior to the beating, Dodgers owner Frank McCourt and city officials had been roundly criticized in the local media and by talk-radio hosts for lax security at the stadium, where pundits say an atmosphere of intimidation and thuggish behavior had gone unchecked for several years.

Thailand police arrest suspect tiger trafficker

BANGKOK, 23 May—Police have arrested a man suspected of being a key player in one of Thailand’s largest tiger trafficking rings, police and a wildlife conservation group said Sunday.

Authorities had been searching for the 49-year-old Thai man since last year, when they issued a warrant for his arrest after seizing a Bengal tiger cub during a separate operation, police said in a statement.

Police believe the network is buying tigers and selling them to purchasers mainly in China via land routes in neighbouring Laos and Vietnam, said Chanadda Thanikulap of the FREELAND Foundation, an anti-trafficking group based in Thailand.

The suspect was arrested Saturday in northeastern Thailand and is being held in Bangkok, police said.

The tiger captured last year — now about 1 1/2 years old and weighing 220 pounds (100 kilograms) — was put on display for reporters during a police news conference announcing the arrest.

Chanadda said the animal was being held by the national park service and appeared to have been habituated to human contact, leading authorities to believe it had been bred in captivity.

Mexico mass graves of 219 signal major cartel rift

DURANGO, 23 May—The vacant car repair lot hardly looks out of place in a vibrant but gritty part of the northern colonial city of Durango, famous as the set for John Wayne westerns.

Only a closer look reveals the secrets hidden at “Servicios Multiples Carita Medina,” clues to exactly what kind of “multiple services” were rendered. The freshly turned soil is sprinkled with lime to kill the smell and littered with discarded Latex gloves and an empty cardboard box: “Adult Cadaver Bag: 600 gauge, Long Zipper, For Cadavers of up to 75 inches. 15 pieces.”

In the most gruesome find in Mexico’s four-year attack on organized crime, police dug up 89 bodies in the repair lot, buried over time in plain sight of homes, schools and stores.

Then, like the killers, authorities left one of Mexico’s most puzzling crime scenes completely open and unprotected. It was the largest of seven graves found in bustling urban areas of the city of almost 600,000, where a total of 219 bodies have been uncovered since 11 April.—Internet

See-Sipee horse, goats guide blind horse in Montana

SALMON, 23 May—Michelle Feldstein was prepared to provide special accommodations for the blind horse she recently added to the lightless ducks, clawless cats and homeless llamas inhabiting her animal shelter in Montana.

But nothing could prepare her for the 40-legged, see-sipee entourage that accompanied “Sissy,” a sightless, 15-year-old quarter horse.

“They round her up at feeding time and then move aside to make sure she gets to the hay,” Feldstein said. “They show her where the water is, and angle the horse into her stall amid blowing snows or driving rains.

S Korea plans to put troubled savings banks on sale

SEUL, 23 May—South Korea plans to put the country’s troubled savings banks on public sale, the state deposit insurer said Monday.

The public sale notice will be announced through a sale advisory firm on Tuesday, with bidding open to all industrial players with stable financial conditions and abilities to absorb soured assets, the Korea Deposit Insurance Corp (KDIC) said in statement.

South Korea’s financial watchdog suspended a total of eight savings banks in January and February due to their liquidity shortages.

The KDIC added it will stop its forced sale process if they succeed in completing the sales process by mid-July, before selecting preferred bidders by mid-August.

German scientists beat data transfer record

BERLIN, 23 May—Computer users who despair over slow Internet connections should take heart—German scientists have broken a speed record, sending data contained on 700 DVDs over a single laser beam, in one second.

The scientists at the Karlsruhe Institute of Technology (KIT) Monday said they had broken the world record by sending data at a speed of 26 terabits per second. The data, sent over 50 kilometers (31 miles) on a single laser beam, was coded thanks to a system known as orthogonal frequency-division multiplexing (OFDM) in which the laser beam is divided into separate colour streams.

“With 26 terabits per second, you can simultaneously transmit up to 400 million telephone calls per second,” said Professor Juerg Leuthold of the institute in a statement.

Italian toddler dies after being left in car for hours

ROME, 23 May—An Italian toddler has died after being left in a hot car for five hours by her father who had forgotten to drop her off at day care. Doctors in the city of Ancona declared the 22-month-old Elena dead—three days after the incident.

Father Lucio Petrizzi, a professor of veterinary medicine, said that he had inexplicably thought he had left her at a nursery on the way to work. Prosecutors are due to decide whether to charge him with manslaughter. Mother’s appeal Mr Petrizzi said he had left his daughter in the car on Wednesday. He said he had returned from work only to find her barely breathing in his car.

Appeal to trace tiger toy owner after police alert

SANTA CLARITA, 23 May—Police are trying to trace the owner of a life-sized tiger toy which sparked a major police alert in Hampshire over fears a real animal was on the loose. Officers were deployed and a helicopter was scrambled with specialist thermal imaging cameras over the field, near Hedge End, on Saturday afternoon.

The scare stopped play at the Rose Bowl cricket ground for 20 minutes. Hampshire police said the toy was being treated as lost property but they were investigating whether it was a hoax. They said they did not know how it got there but was similar to one which would be won at a fair. The alarm was raised by a member of the public who spotted what they thought was an escaped white tiger hiding in a field, through a camera’s zoom lens. Officers said they had responded as if it was a real incident, close to junction seven of the M27. Animal specialists at nearby Marswell Zoo were enlisted by police to offer advice and were prepared to send a team with tranquilizer darts to overcome the tiger.

Stunt leaves man in critical condition

SANTA CLARITA, 23 May—A dangerous skateboarding stunt left one man in the hospital and one man in jail in Santa Clarita, Calif, authorities say. He sustained a serious head injuries, the Los Angeles Times reported. He was in critical condition at Henry Mayo Newhall Medical Centre Sunday after the fall.

The car’s driver, Ryan Howell, 33, was arrested for suspicion of driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol, police said.

Limbless French swimmer set to cross five continents

A Frenchman who gained fame for swimming the English Channel with no arms or legs has set himself a new challenge: to cross five continents in waters marked by sharks, poisonous jellyfish, icy currents and cargo ships.

Philippe Croizon, 43, who lost both his arms and legs in an electrical accident 17 years ago, has begun preparing one year ahead to swim hundreds of kilometres in waters connecting five continents from May to August.

“My crossing of the Channel was a message of hope and of life to all my fellow companions in misfortune,” Croizon said, who will be accompanied by long-distance swimming champion Arnaud Chassery, 34. “With this new challenge, we intend to accomplish an act of peace, of solidarity, of sharing with all able-bodied and handicapped men, of all skin colours, cultures and backgrounds combined,” said the father of two.

Doctors were forced to amputate his limbs after he was hit by a 20,000-volt charge in 1994 as he tried to dismantle a television antenna from a house roof.

As he recovered in hospital he saw a television documentary about a Channel swimmer and an ambition was born. He used special prostheses with flippers to make the crossing.

Tambourine man still playing songs: Dylan turns 70

LOS ANGELES, 23 May—Music icon Bob Dylan turns 70 this week with stars lining up to pay tribute to the 1960s folksinger turned enigmatic rock legend, still touring after half a century.

Dubbed the “voice of a generation” for anthems like “The Times They Are A-Changin’” and the poet laureate of folk for “Hey Mr Tambourine Man” and others, Dylan shows no signs of slowing down as he enters his eighth decade. “He’s an inspiration, really, to us all, beyond even the songwriting, because he’s always trying to go somewhere new. I love the man,” said Rolling Stones guitarist Keith Richards, no spring chicken himself.

U2 frontman Bono said the young Dylan was way ahead of his time. “The tumble of words, images, ire and spleen shifts easily into music forms or 20 years away, just like punk, grunge or hip-hop,” he wrote in Rolling Stone magazine.

It is not clear how Dylan will celebrate his birthday Tuesday, but at least he’s not actually on the road — his informally dubbed “Never Ending Tour” release of excerpts on her in-game “GagaVille” farm last week. Her “little monsters” are the legions of fan who worship the star, whose hit singles from her first album, 2008’s “The Fame,” included “Bad Romance,” “Paparazzi” and “Poker Face.”
Fergie selection dilemma ahead of Champions League

MANCHESTER, 23 May — Sir Alex Ferguson admitted that his Manchester United players had presented him with a selection dilemma ahead of next week’s Champions League final.

Ferguson watched his title-winning United side bring the curtain down on their successful domestic campaign with a 4-2 victory over Blackpool which relegated their opponents at Old Trafford on Sunday.

The result ensured United finished nine points clear of second-placed Chelsea — their biggest winning margin since they finished 10 points clear of Arsenal in 2000-01 season. Ferguson made nine changes to the side that drew at Blackburn eight days earlier to secure a record 19th title. And he admitted he had a selection headache as his side look to complete a Premier League-Champions League double by defeating Barcelona at Wembley next Saturday.

Kitajima wins men’s 200 breaststroke gold at Japan Open

OSAKA, 23 May — Two-time Olympic champion Kosuke Kitajima had a difficult win in men’s 200m breaststroke on the last day of the Japan Open 2011 Swimming Championships at Namihaya-Dome in Kadoma of Osaka.

However, it was still the first time for him to clinch the gold medal in the three-day event after he lost to Ryo Tateishi in the men’s 100m breaststroke on the first day.

Tateishi became his major rival again and led for the first 150 metres before Kitajima caught up and took the lead in the last 50 metres, clocking in the winning time of 2:11.43, which was almost 4 seconds away from his Japanese record. Junior university student Kanako Watanabe displayed an impressive swim in front of the arena.

Porto’s coach establishes a mark better than Mourinho

LISBON, 23 May — Porto coach Andre Villas-Boas created a new legend in Portuguese soccer after his team beat Victoria 6-2 to win the Portuguese Cup title. At the age of 33, Villas-Boas won more titles in one season than Jose Mourinho. In his first season in Porto, Villas-Boas won the Portuguese Supercup, the Portuguese Championship, UEFA’s Europa League and the Portuguese Cup whilst Villas-Boas was making his fifth Champions League final.

The result ensured Porto finished 10 points clear of Chelsea — their biggest winning margin since they finished 10 points clear of Arsenal in 2000-01 season. Mourinho made nine changes to the side that drew at Blackburn eight days earlier to secure a record 19th title. And he admitted he had a selection headache as his side look to complete a Premier League-Champions League double by defeating Barcelona at Wembley next Saturday.

Udinese reject $49 million bid for Sanchez

ROME, 23 May—Udinese have rejected a 35 million euro bid for star Chile winger Alexis Sanchez, club president Gino Pozzo revealed.

Udinese face a fight to hold onto Sanchez despite having secured a place in next season’s Champions League play-off round following Sunday’s 0-0 draw against AC Milan.

A lot of the club’s success this season has been put down to attacking pair Sanchez and top-scorer Antonio Di Natale.

And while at 33 club captain Di Natale is unlikely to go anywhere — he turned down a move to Juventus last summer — Sanchez is another objective one,” said Pozzo.

“It’s hard to find other players of that level, you only find two or three like him in every generation. “We’ve received a 35 million euro bid which we’ve refused because I believe he’s worth more than that.”

As well as Sanchez, Pozzo is trying to fend off interest in his Swiss midfielder Gokhan Inler. “Napoli are looking closely now.”

Meanwhile, Napoli president Aurelio De Laurentiis denied reports the club are interested in signing Sanchez. “It’s not true, but this is football.”

Sanchez has scored 16 goals in the current Serie A campaign and has nine assists.
