NAY PYI TAW, 10 June—Vice-President of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Thiha Thura U Tin Aung Myint Oo addressed the opening of the seminar on business cooperation between Myanmar and Vietnam held at Myanmar International Convention Centre here at 8 am today.

Present on the occasion were the visiting delegation members led by Deputy Prime Minister Mr Hoang Trung Hai, special envoy of the Prime Minister of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, Union ministers, deputy ministers, departmental heads, officials of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Federation of Chambers of Commerce and Industry, entrepreneurs from various economic areas from states and regions and guests.

In his opening speech, Vice-President Thiha Thura U Tin Aung Myint Oo said: This seminar with its huge participation from both Myanmar and Vietnam is noted to be the second of its series in Myanmar.

When the Prime Minister of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, Mr Nguyen Tan Dung paid an official visit to Myanmar in April last year, our two countries emphasized the enhancement of bilateral economic cooperation in various economic areas. There have been remarkable events during the State visit, such as the opening of the branch offices of the Bank for Investment and Development of Vietnam (BIDV), the holding of the Vietnam Trade Fair, the inauguration of the Yangon-Hanoi air route and business seminars. These events have promoted our bilateral economic cooperation.

As fruitful outcomes of the seminars, investment cooperation agreements were concluded between the businessmen from Myanmar and Vietnam and thus, there is increase in Vietnamese investments in Myanmar. Myanmar and Vietnam are members of ASEAN and have long friendly relations since many years back. Friendship and understanding have been enhancing between the two countries through the exchange of visits of the leaders. We firmly believe that the existing friendship and understanding will be more strengthened in future.

Having good and friendly relations between the two countries, we welcomes Vietnamese companies to come and invest in Myanmar. To have more confidence in making investment in Myanmar, the Promotion and Reciprocal Protection of Investment Agreement between the two Governments was signed in May 2000 and the Memorandum of Understanding on Investment Promotion between the two Governments was signed in April 2010. Promote rural education

The majority of the nation’s population live in rural areas and they are major productive force. Boosting rural productivity and improving socioeconomy play a tremendous role in national economic growth. With the socioeconomic improvement of basic class including farmers and workers, the nation’s image will improve as well. So, the government attaches great importance to boosting income of the rural people and poverty alleviation.

The effort calls for socioeconomic life of the rural people as well as education, health and human resource development of the rural areas. Thanks to construction of dams and reservoirs across the country, even some regions with enough rainwater have enjoyed more irrigation water and become advanced agricultural ones.

By shifting to cultivation of quality crop strains with high per-acre yield, marketable quality crops can be produced, thereby contributing to increased income. It is also necessary to provide a full amount of agricultural inputs like cultivation methods, fertilizers, pesticides, farm equipment and agricultural loans.

While all the requirements are being fulfilled for agricultural business, measures are also being taken for improvement of education and health standards of the rural areas. For example, many high schools, middle schools and primary schools have been opened in Pale Township, Sagaing Region. As a result, the youth of rural areas have enjoyed more education opportunities.

Together with the government, wellwishers and social organizations are donating cash and exercise books. With cash donations, tasks are being carried out for extension and construction of school buildings, greening of schools and their environs and opening of rural libraries. All in all, such endeavours and contributions will not only promote agricultural businesses but also improve rural education.

Suicide bomber kills four in northern Afghanistan

KABUL, 10 June—Officials say a suicide bomber has killed four police officers and wounded at least six others guarding a remembrance ceremony for a top Afghan police commander.

Authorities say guards stopped the bomber from entering a Kunduz City mosque in the northern Province of Kunduz where many gathered Friday to remember slain Gen Daoud Daud, a well known regional police commander in northern Afghanistan.

Provincial police chief Samiullah Qatra says the bomber then detonated his explosives outside the mosque after being confronted by the guards. The blast blew out windows of the mosque.

The bombing comes as the Taleban begins its spring offensive, with stepped up roadside bombings and suicide attacks, as well as militants assaults on mountain or rural outposts.

New submarines to join Iran’s Navy

TEHRAN, 10 June—Iran's Navy Deputy Commander Rear Admiral Seyyed Mahmoud Moussavi said that Iran plans to equip its navy with new types of home-made submarines as part of its naval units renovation plan, the semi-official Fars news agency reported on Thursday.

“The new submarines, built by the committed Iranian experts, will join the naval combat fleet,” after being tested during upcoming military exercises, Moussavi was quoted as saying on Wednesday.

The drills will test the capabilities and efficiencies of the new submarines, he said without specifying the time of drill. The country’s naval force seeks to diversify the maneuvers in order to enhance its defence potential, he said, adding that to achieve this aim, Iran’s navy is ready to hold joint drills with neighbouring countries.

Iranian commanders have previously called for the joint drills with the Persian Gulf littoral states.

On Tuesday, the local English language satellite Press TV reported that Iran’s Navy submarines have been deployed in the Gulf of Aden and the Red Sea to conduct maritime surveillance operations and also identify warships of other countries.

On Thursday, Iran’s Majlis (Parliament) Speaker Ali Larijani said that Iran does not hide its military achievements, said the semi-official Mehr news agency.

“We have designed missile systems to defend ourselves,” Larijani was quoted as saying.

Colombia bid to rescue kidnapped Chinese oil workers

BOGOTA, 10 June—The Colombian military has launched a major operation to rescue four Chinese nationals kidnapped by Marxist rebels.

The four men were working for the British oil company Emerald Energy, a subsidiary of China’s Sinochem. They were intercepted in the southern province of Caqueta by Farc, the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia.

This is the second mass kidnapping of oil workers by the guerrillas this year and is an embarrassment to the government.

The rebels have long used kidnapping as a source of income, although in the last 10 years the number of cases has fallen from eight abductions a day to under one.

However this is not the first time the Farc have targeted oil companies this year.
Multinational crew arrives at space station

CAPE CANAVERAL, 10 June—A Russian Soyuz capsule with a three-man multinational crew arrived at the International Space Station on Thursday to begin a six-month mission that will include hosting NASA’s final space shuttle crew. After a two-day journey, the Soyuz slipped into a docking port on the Russian side of the orbital outpost at 3:18 pm EDT (2118 GMT) as the spacecraft sailed 218 miles above Rio de Janeiro. The arrival of cosmonaut Sergei Volkov, NASA astronaut Mike Fossum and Japan’s Satoshi Furukawa brings the resident station crew back up to its full staff of six.

They will join station commander Andrey Borisenko, cosmonaut Alexander Samokutyaev and NASA’s Ron Garan, who have been aboard the station since 6 April.

The previous crew, which included Italy’s Paolo Nespoli, completed a six-month stint while shuttle Endeavour was visiting the station last month to deliver the $2 Alpha Magnetic Spectrometer particle detector and spare parts.

The station is being prepared for a final shuttle mission in July. Shuttle Atlantis is due to arrive July 10 for an eight-day stay. The 135th and final space mission will be devoted to delivering a year’s worth of supplies to the outpost.

“It’s going to be an extremely busy four weeks (for the station crew) until the launch of Atlantis,” NASA mission commentator Rob Navias said. The US space agency intends to turn over cargo runs to the station to commercial firms, but the extra supplies will tide over the station in case of delays.

During Atlantis’ stay, Fossum, a veteran of two previous shuttle flights, will partner with Garan for a spacewalk to pack up a broken coolant pump for return to Earth.— Reuters

Climate change ‘will cut water for farmers’

ROME, 10 June—The UN food agency on Thursday warned climate change will restrict the availability of water for farming in decades to come, including in the Mediterranean region, and urged governments to take action.

A report by the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) said climate change will reduce river runoff and aquifer recharges, adding that the loss of glaciers “will eventually impact the amount of surface water available.”

The report said that in Asia “large areas of irrigated land that rely on snow melt and mountain glaciers for water will also be affected.”

“Heavily populated river deltas are at risk from a combination of reduced water flows, increased salinity and rising sea levels,” it added. FAO also found that while increased temperatures will lengthen the growing season in northern temperate zones they will reduce it almost everywhere else, leading the yield potential and water productivity of crops to decline.

It said governments should improve the ability of countries to measure their water resources, as well as encourage farmers to change their cropping patterns to allow earlier or later planting and reduce their water use.

“Farm size and access to capital set the limits for the scope and extent of adaptation and change at farm level,” the report said.

Sprint to debut two Motorola smartphones

NEW YORK, 10 June—Sprint Nextel, the No 3 US mobile service provider, plans to launch two Motorola Mobility smartphones this summer, opening up a new market for Motorola, which has been absent from Sprint’s high-end phone lineup up until now.

Sprint is looking to the advanced phones to fend off rivals while Motorola is pushing for new operator customers since its biggest client Verizon Wireless started selling the Apple Inc iPhone in February.

Motorola also hopes to compete more directly with BlackBerry maker RIM Research In Motion for business customers through Sprint.

Both of the new phones announced on Thursday are based on Google Inc’s Android software, which has surpassed iPhone in popularity and helped Motorola revamp itself in the last year and a half.

The Motorola Photon 4G, the most advanced of the devices, will run on Sprint’s highest-speed data service and come with advanced security features aimed at attracting business users who often favour BlackBerrys, Sprint and Motorola said.

Motorola did not give details. It sees the Photon as one of its most important devices for the year and plans to launch it with a “substantial marketing campaign,” David Owens a Sprint product development executive told Reuters in an interview.

More vaccines for poor could save 6.4 million lives for Development Institute, found that poor nations are hard-pressed to pay for vaccine programmes without help from outside donors.

Vaccines are considered by many to be one of the best buys for public health in developing nations because they can protect productive lives and cut the costs of health care and treatment.

According to the World Health Organization, eradicating smallpox at a one-time cost of about $100 million has saved the world some $1.35 billion a year since it was achieved in 1979.

Will eating more broccoli help you live longer?

To the likely delight of nagging parents, a new study shows that people who eat more fruit and veggies tend to live longer.

Plants from the mustard family including broccoli, cabbage, and cauliflower — seem particularly beneficial, although the study can’t prove that eating more vegetables automatically increases longevity. It’s possible, for instance, that those who consume lots of produce also have a healthier lifestyle in general.

Still, the findings provide strong support for the current recommendation to increase vegetable consumption to promote cardio-vascular health and overall longevity.” — study researcher Dr Xianglan Zhang, of Vanderbilt University School of Medicine in Nashville, Tennessee, told Reuters Health. Mustard-family vegetables are high in vitamin C and fiber and also contain other nutrients that may have health benefits.

The study, published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, is based on a survey of nearly 135,000 adults from Shanghai, China.

Scientists discover why smokers are thinner

WASHINGTON, 10 June—US scientists have figured out exactly how nicotine acts as an appetite suppressant in the brain, a finding that could one day help in the fight against obesity, researchers said Thursday.

Smokers tend to be thinner than people who don’t smoke, and the study led by Yale University and published in the journal Science describes how nicotine activates certain neurons in a part of the brain called the hypothalamus.

Those neurons tell the body when it’s had enough to eat, according to senior author Marina Picciotto, a professor of neurobiology and pharmacology at Yale. “Many people say they won’t quit smoking because they’ll gain weight. Ultimately, we would like to help people maintain their body weight when they kick the habit and perhaps help non-smokers who are struggling with obesity.” Researchers made the discovery by studying mice, but are hopeful that similar receptors can be isolated in humans, too.

US trade gap narrows in wake of Japan disaster

WASHINGTON, 10 June—The US trade deficit shrank sharply in April as exports hit a record high and imports fell, reflecting the impact of Japan’s earthquake-tsunami disaster, official data showed Thursday.

The Commerce Department reported the trade deficit in goods and services fell to a seasonally adjusted $43.7 billion from $46.8 billion in March. That was the smallest gap in the year to date.

But the politically sensitive shortfall with China widened to $21.6 billion, almost 20 percent more than the March level.

The overall deficit, which had been bigger than expected in March, surprised analysts whose consensus estimate was $48.7 billion.

“It was nice to see the trade gap narrow but most of that came from problems with Japan’s supply chain, so don’t expect the improvement to continue,” said Joel Naroff at Naroff Economic Advisers.

US exports rose 1.3 percent in April to a record $175.6 billion, led by exports of industrial supplies and materials, capital goods, consumer goods and travel services, the department said. The strength of exports suggests that global demand is holding up well in the face of the rising cost of food and energy, said Aaron Smith at Moody’s Analytics. China’s trade surplus widens to $13.05 billion in May

BEIJING, 10 June—China’s politically sensitive trade surplus expanded to $13.05 billion in May from the previous month as the value of exports hit a new record high, government data showed Friday.

The trade surplus — a major bugbear for China’s key trade partners, the United States and Europe — was bigger than the $11.4 billion recorded in April but sharply lower than a Dow Jones Newswires forecast for $18.6 billion. Exports growth slowed last month, rising 19.4 percent year-on-year to $157.16 billion — but still a record high for a single month based on previous data — customs authorities said in a statement.

Imports gathered pace, soaring 28.4 percent from a year earlier to $144.11 billion.

In April, exports rose 29.9 percent to $155.7 billion while imports increased 21.8 percent to $144.3 billion. The stronger than expected increase in imports could help ease concerns that the world’s second largest economy is slowing down. Beijing has been pulling on a variety of levers to cool the economy, which grew 9.7 percent in the first quarter, as stability-obsessed leaders fret that high inflation and soaring house prices could trigger social unrest.

There are growing signs the measures are bearing fruit — China’s manufacturing activity expanded at the slowest pace in 10 months in May and year-on-year auto sales fell in May for the second straight month. Analysts have played down concerns about a potential hard landing for the Asian powerhouse due to persistent government efforts to stem a flood of credit into the economy and tame inflation, which is hovering above five percent.—INTERNET

The investment proposals made by Vietnam will be permitted for the mutual benefit of the two countries in accordance with our domestic laws and regulations. With regard to the trade sector, Myanmar and Vietnam signed the trade agreement in May 1994 and the Memorandum of Understanding for the Establishment of the Joint Trade Committee was signed in May 2002. The joint Trade Committee meetings are being held alternately in order to promote the trade volume between the two countries.

Moreover, Myanmar and Vietnam trade fairs are being held in order to promote the cooperation between the business entrepreneurs of the two countries and also to be more familiar with the commodities of both sides.

By conducting business meetings between the two countries, friendship between the businessmen will become stronger, which will lead to good prospects for trade promotion between the two countries.

Our two countries have been endeavouring to promote bilateral trade in various sectors since 2009. In order to promote trade, both countries have to put more efforts to create new opportunities. The administration and the economic structure of our country is changing now. Efforts are being made to promote the agriculture sector and at the same time, we are striving for industrialization. As trade and investment are the driving force for the further development of the economy, we will be amending related rules and regulations. We are also reviewing the financial matters that are related to trade and investment in order to be more beneficial for businesses. In this respect, I firmly believe that there will be more investment opportunities in Myanmar in the future.

During this Vietnamese visit headed by the Deputy Prime Minister, the two delegations met yesterday and discussed the need to enhance bilateral relations and also bilateral cooperation. The two countries have concluded MoUs as well. It is to be recorded that I am very much delighted that today’s business cooperation seminar is being held with the participation of both government and business sectors between the two countries.

It is my sincere belief that the activities that we have started last year will be more progressive because of today’s business cooperation seminar and economic cooperation between the two counties will be more enhanced in various sectors.

In conclusion, I wish that the government responsible personnel attending this seminar from both sides will cooperate to further promote business between the two countries and the business people from both sides will also cooperate to achieve better outcomes for the mutual benefits of the two countries.

For his part, Deputy Prime Minister of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam Mr. Hoang Trung Hai said: The signing of documents and agreements in economic cooperation between the government agencies and businessmen of the two nations, especially the launching of the direct flight route of Vietnam Airline and the establishment of representative offices of several large groups of Vietnam, has marked a positive move to pave the way for the promotion of tourism, trading and investment ties between the two nations. Myanmar offers potential investment opportunities to foreign investors, especially in agriculture, forestry, aquaculture, tourism, mineral mining, infrastructural construction, and such key services as finance, banking, transportation, aviation, telecommunication, etc. which are the fields of attraction and strengths of Vietnam’s businesses in terms of capital, management experience with global markets and international development strategy.

The above-mentioned achievements have enabled the two countries to intensify the trading, investment and economic cooperation, fully tap the potentials and strengths of both sides.

I highly appreciate the two nations’ ministries, branches, local authorities and businesses for their close coordination.

He continued to say that Myanmar has potential and Vietnam has strengths in telecommunication, aviation, natural resource mining and processing, tourism and trade, finance, banking, agricultural production, forestry, etc.

He invited Myanmar’s businesses to conduct investment business in Vietnam along with paying special attention to supporting and offering the most favourable conditions for Vietnam’s businesses to invest in Myanmar.

Afterwards, the ceremony to open the Seminar on Business Cooperation between Myanmar and Vietnam ended. —MNA

Explosions on Air New Zealand flight forces emergency landing

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, 10 June—An Air New Zealand flight was forced to make an emergency landing after a series of explosions in the aircraft’s engine, which were followed by flames, drew scares among passengers, local media reported Thursday.

A Boeing 767-300ER aircraft carrying 206 passengers and operated by Air New Zealand on Thursday afternoon made an emergency landing at Auckland Airport after three explosions on one of the aircraft’s wings frightened passengers and reportedly caused flames and smoke, the New Zealand Herald reported.

Flight NZ175 took off at 2:25 pm local time from Auckland, New Zealand and was heading out to Perth, but only 30 minutes after takeoff, it was back on the ground.

According to several passengers who described the incident as ‘terrifying,’ three loud explosions were heard, followed by flashes of light, flames, and smoke.

In latest attack, hackers steal Citibank card data

New York, 10 June—About 200,000 Citibank credit card customers in North America have had their names, account numbers and email addresses stolen by hackers who broke into Citi’s online account site.

Citigroup Inc said it discovered that account information for about 1 percent of its credit card customers had been viewed by hackers. Citi has more than 21 million credit card customers in North America, according to its 2010 annual report. The New York-based bank, which discovered the problem during routine monitoring, didn’t say exactly how many accounts were breached. Citi said it was contacting those customers.

The bank said hackers weren’t able to gain access to social security numbers, birth dates, card expiration dates or card security codes. That kind of information often leads to identity theft, where cyber criminals empty out bank accounts and apply for multiple credit cards. That can debilitate the finances and credit of victims. Citi customers could still be vulnerable other problems. Details about their bank accounts and financial information linked to them could be acquired using the email information and account numbers hackers stole.

Federal regulators have taken notice and are asking banks to improve security. —Internet

Death toll from E coli rises to 30

Berlin, 10 June — A 57-year-old man died of E coli infection in Germany’s Frankfurt Thursday, pushing the death toll from the bacteria to 30.

The man had travelled with his wife to the city of Hamburg, an epicentre of the outbreak, Frankfurt authority said.

Another two deaths were reported in the state of Lower Saxony, including a 68-year-old man and a 20-year-old woman, while more than 2,800 people in 14 countries have been infected since the deadly E coli outbreak.

German researchers detected again the deadly strain O104 of E coli on the scraps of cucumbers in a dustbin in the eastern city of Magdeburg in the state Saxony-Anhalt on Wednesday. German health minister Daniel Bahr expressed his cautious hope for the disease on Wednesday as the number of new infection is clearly going down.

But he also admitted there will be new cases and more deaths have to be expected, as Germany’s national disease control centre, the Robert Koch Institute reported more than 300 infections in Germany on the same day.

The Robert Koch Institute also noticed the declining trend in new cases but it was not clear whether this was caused by people staying away from vegetables or the outbreak was truly waning.

Sydney, 10 June—An earthquake measuring 5.2 on the Richter scale jolted eastern New Guinea Region, Papua New Guinea at 00:11 GMT on Friday, the US Geological Survey said.

The epicentre, with a depth of 38.60 km, was initially determined to be at 6.67 degrees south latitude and 147.91 degrees east longitude.

Heat steams northeast, while storms hit Midwest

Chicago, 10 June—Extreme heat steamed the eastern United States on Thursday, while in the Midwest, temperatures dropped by as much as 40 degrees and thunderstorms delayed flights at Chicago airports.

Boston, Philadelphia and the Washington DC and Baltimore area could see 100-degree temperatures Thursday. While the temperature will not climb quite that high in New York City and northeastern New Jersey, the humidity will make it feel like it, with a heat index of up to 102 degrees, according to the National Weather Service.

Schools across New Jersey closed after lunch Wednesday and Thursday due to the heat, sending parents scrambling to make last minute child care arrangements. A few districts, such as Montclair in Essex County, opted to stay open to accommodate working parents. Heavy thunderstorms are expected to move east Thursday afternoon, with a threat in the Philadelphia and New York area from late afternoon though tonight, said Eliot Abrams, a meteorologist with AccuWeather.com.—Reuters

Petrobras announces major oil discoveries in Gulf of Mexico

Rio de Janeiro, 10 June—Brazil’s state-owned oil and gas giant Petrobras said Thursday it discovered two major oil deposits and a gas deposit in the Gulf of Mexico, together with Exxon Mobil.

The discoveries, with estimated total reserves exceeding 700 million barrels of oil equivalent, were made in a concession zone of the Hadrian area in the US portion of the Gulf, about 400 kilometres southwest of New Orleans, at a water depth of 2,100 metres. They were among the largest discoveries in the Gulf in the last decade.

The company said that deeper targets have yet to be drilled and there were oil findings during previous drilling in some blocks in the Hadrian area. Among the new discoveries, high-quality oil and associated gas was found in northern Hadrian area, with a 167 metre oil pay and a minor amount of gas. E coli found in Presov man probably different from lethal strain

Presov, 10 June—The strain of E Coli bacteria found in a 25-year-old man admitted to hospital in this western Slovak city appeared to be different to that which has killed more than 20 people in Germany, a hospital spokesman said on Thursday.

“The microbiological laboratory in Presov found the E coli strain which, based on examinations that have been made so far concerning sensitivity to antibiotics, is probably not the strain that brought about deaths in Germany,” Renata Koziaikova, the JA Reimann Faculty Hospital spokesperson, said.

The young man from Presov, who is currently in serious condition in Kosice’s Louis Pasteur Teaching Hospital, claims not to have been abroad in the past few months.

He was first admitted to the medical facility in Presov on Monday with headaches, diarrhoea and fever, irregularities in blood tests and in the early stages of an acute renal failure. “The patient was in need of intensive care and, given the lack of beds in the intensive care unit (in Presov), he was transferred to Kosice hospital,” Koziaikova said.

Wellington, 10 June—Scientists have uncovered an almost complete picture of the remains of a geological formation that was one of the great wonders of the 19th Century world before it was covered in ash and water during a volcanic eruption.

Scientists from New Zealand and the United States said on Friday they had discovered the White Terraces, half of the famous Pink and White Terraces in the central North Island’s Lake Rotomahana. The same group of scientists found the remnants of the pink half of the former world-famous tourist attraction on the lake floor in January. Malaysia police bust China Internet scam

Kuala Lumpur, 10 June—Malaysian police have arrested 37 Chinese and Taipei nationals accused of running an Internet scam that tricked people into paying fake traffic fines, reports said Friday.

The 27 Chinese and 10 Taipei nationals were rounded up in a raid Thursday on an apartment in Kota Kinabalu, the capital of Sabah state on Borneo island, the official news agency Bernama and New Straits Times daily reported.

The group is accused of calling individuals in China and telling them they had been issued a traffic summons, asking them to pay money into an online account to settle the fine or face court action. Police, who acted on tip-offs from authorities in China and Taipei, said they believed thousands of people were taken in by the scam.

“By operating round the clock, their modus operandi was to contact the victim in China using several prepared scripts,” crime investigation chief Syed Ismail Syed Azizan said according to Bernama.—MNA/AFPCNA

Pigs cause traffic jam in Siberian city

Eight pigs have caused a huge traffic jam on a bridge in the West Siberian City of Novokuznetsk after they overturned a trailer in which they were being carried, a police official said.

“The pigs might have been under stress during the ride and started rocking the trailer,” a spokesman for the traffic police department said Wednesday. The pigs escaped.

The driver of the vehicle, traffic police and sympathizers joined the search for the pigs, he said.

Other drivers wishing to cross the bridge faster helped haul the trailer away.

Disabled in car crash, Russian travels 11,000 km

A physically challenged man in Russia has covered a distance of 11,000 km in two months from Russia’s Far East to Moscow, RIA Novosti reported. Alexander Kashin was crippled in a traffic accident 12 years ago involving then-US Consul General in the Russian Far East Douglas Kent.

Kashin embarked on the trip from Vladivostok to Moscow on his electric wheelchair on 16 April. Kashin, who was 23 at the time of the accident, received spinal injuries that left him paralysed below the shoulders. “I covered about 11,000 km (6,800 miles), including over 2,000 km (1,200 miles) in a wheelchair,” Kashin said, adding that he had hitchhiked most of the distance. During the trip, Kashin experienced several health problems when he caught cold in the Chita Region and suffered from fever for two weeks. Then in Russia’s western Siberian Novosibirsk Region, Kashin received injuries when his wheelchair was blown into a ditch by passing vehicles.

In the central Russian city of Kazan he was hospitalized because of problems with his internal organs. In Moscow, Kashin injured his leg in a hotel. Kashin said he had made many friends and received “a bunch of impressions” despite all the challenges.

Crocodiles in bedroom shock police team

A team of policemen on a routine visit to a suburban home in south London had the shock of their life when they found four crocodiles in a bedroom. The officers had visited the semi-detached house on an unrelated matter but made the bizarre discovery of the reptiles in a bedroom, Daily Mail reported. The West African dwarf crocodiles were crammed into makeshift tanks in the spare bedroom of the house in Waddon, Croydon, South London.

The largest of the reptiles, measuring over four feet, was in such a bad condition that it died soon after being transferred. The other three smaller female crocodiles were found in cramped and dirty pond liners. The police called council licensing officers, who came to seize the crocodiles. Rob Quest, manager of the London Animal Health Service, said he was shocked to discover it was rescuing crocodiles.

Rapper Ja Rule sentenced to two years in prison

NEW YORK, 10 June—Hip-hop artist Ja Rule was sentenced to two years in prison on Wednesday, six months after he pleaded guilty to attempted criminal possession of a weapon.

The 35-year-old rapper and actor, whose real name is Jeffrey Atkins, did not speak during the sentencing held at New York State Supreme Court. He was set to report to prison later Wednesday. The charge stemmed from a July 2007 incident, when police pulled Atkins over after a New York concert and found a semi-automatic handgun hidden in his car, according to authorities.

Ninety minutes before his sentencing, Atkins sent a final message to his 50,000 Twitter followers:

“Out on my patio having my last free moment I love all my fans Pan is love!”

Lindsay Lohan wins restraining order against man

Los Angeles, 10 June—Actress Lindsay Lohan on Wednesday won a two-year restraining order against a man she says sent her delusional phone text messages and left chocolates at her door.

The order by Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Joseph Biderman came after Lohan had obtained a temporary restraining order against David Coccodran. Lohan did not attend the court hearing on Wednesday because she was serving a home detention sentence for jewelry theft. She is expected to be released around the end of June. The 24-year-old star of the films “Mean Girls” and “Freaky Friday” said in court papers last month that Coccodran believed he was in a romantic relationship with her. Lohan also accused him of contacting her with more than 100 unwanted phone calls and sexually explicit text messages since 2009.—Reuters

Flying bear kills two Canadians in freak accident

Two Canadians died instantly in a freak accident when a car hit a 440-pound (200-kg) black bear and sent the animal flying straight through the windshield of an oncoming vehicle, local media said Wednesday. The bear’s body hit the 25-year-old driver and a 40-year-old man sitting behind her and then shot out of the back window. The bear also died. The accident happened Monday night in a rural area about 25 miles north of the federal capital Ottawa.

“We don’t see (this) often, even if we live in the country. Lots of deer, but collisions with a bear and two people died? That’s really rare,” local police spokesman Martin Fournel told the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

Collisions between vehicles and animals are common in Canada, which has a healthy population of large wild animals such as moose and deer.
MEXICO OVERWELMS CUBA 5-0 DESPITE SUSPENSIONS

Charlotte, 10 June — Javier Hernandez and Giovani dos Santos scored two goals apiece and Mexico overcame the distraction of a potential doping scandal to beat Cuba 5-0 on Thursday night and remain unbeaten in the CONCACAF Gold Cup.

Hours after the Mexican soccer federation suspended five players — including defender Francisco Rodriguez and goalkeeper Guillermo Ochoa — for testing positive for a banned substance, Mexico (2-0-0) got off to a sluggish start and put the game away with a three-goal burst in a 5-minute span midway through the second half.

Dos Santos scored twice during the flurry that overwhelmed Cuba (0-2), which has been outscored 10-0 in two games. Aldo De Nigris also scored before Hernandez’s second goal helped Mexico move atop Group A.

PENG DEFEATS WATSON AT BIRMINGHAM TENNIS

Birmingham, 10 June — China’s Peng Shuai ended British hopes at the Birmingham WTA grasscourt tournament on Thursday with a 7-6 (7/1), 6-1 win over teenager Heather Watson. It was an impressive finish from third seed Peng, who had been pushed to the brink by another Briton, Naomi Broady, on Wednesday.

“I played a really bad tie-break after my confidence went down,” said Watson, who made her Top 100 debut on the rankings this week at No. 93. “I tried to forget about it and just started fresh in the second set but my returns let me down. I feel like I am getting stronger mentally, though, and I am excited for next week (Watson has a Wimbledon wildcard).”

Second seed and former world number 1 Ana Ivanovic stepped up her quest for the title as she brushed aside Canada’s world number 45 Rebecca Marino 6-3, 6-2 in 59 minutes. Next up for Ivanovic is Mirjana Lucic, whose 6-2, 7-6 (7/4) win over Andrea Hlavackova ensured her second-quarter-final appearance in two months, having previously failed to reach the last eight since 1999.

Rome, 10 June — Former France international striker David Trezeguet has a “50 per cent” chance of playing for Napoli in the 2011-12 season, his agent, Antonio Caliendo, revealed on Thursday. “I can say that there’s a 50 per cent chance Trezeguet will play for Napoli next season,” Caliendo told Naples-based radio station Kiss-Kiss. “We’ve taken a few steps forward, but you have to ask (Napoli sporting director Riccardo) Bigon.

Charlotte, 10 June — Randall Brenes’ right-footed shot in the closing seconds of stoppage time lifted Costa Rica to a 1-1 tie with El Salvador on Thursday night in the CONCACAF Gold Cup. Brenes took a header off a building attack and sent a low shot from inside the penalty box that beat Miguel Montes to the far post and left Costa Rica (1-0-1) unbeaten in Group A play.

Rodolfo Zelaya scored off a free kick from 25 yards out in the 45th minute for El Salvador (0-2-0), which had withstood Costa Rica’s second-half surge until the final seconds after losing 5-0 to Mexico in its tournament opener. Costa Rica, coming off a 5-0 win over Cuba, ended a two-match losing streak to El Salvador in competitive matches after wasting numerous earlier chances to tie.

What makes McIlroy tick?

Look to his roots

HOLLYWOOD, 10 June —“Catch your own fish!”

That’s the melodious phrase people in Rory McIlroy’s hometown of Northern Ireland direct at those they suspect have let their egos get the better of them. It means “Get real!” or “Come back to Earth!” That phrase, and the peer pressure it describes of not getting too big for one’s boots, offers a vital clue to how McIlroy has managed to juggle the expectations of possibly being golf’s Next Big Thing without taking on the suriness of Tiger Woods at his worst. The prodigious talent has big ambitions, big hair but, so far, no big head.

MINDY KIM SHOTS 64 TO TAKE 1ST ROUND LEAD AT LPGA

Springfield, 10 June — Mindy Kim shot a course-record 64 to take a two-stroke lead after the first round lead of the LPGA State Farm Classic on Thursday.

Wildcard Ward stuns Querrey, Murray in semi

London, 10 May—British wildcard James Ward continued flooring the seeds at Queen’s Club on Friday when he kicked off defending champion Sam Querrey to reach the quarter-finals of the Wimbledon warm-up event.

London cabbie’s son Ward, ranked 216 in the world and trained by an Argentine cage fighter, returned to court level at one set all against the 13th seeded American after bad light stopped play on Thursday and showed real steel, breaking serve in the seventh game of the decider to win 3-6 6-3 6-4.

With rain clouds still threatening to disrupt the programme the 24-year-old Ward, who knocked out fourth seed Stanislas Wawrinka in the second round, is due back on court later to face Frenchman Adrian Mannarino. There was further good news for British players, if not the fans who had bought tickets, when second seed Andy Murray was given a walkover into the semifinals after Croatian opponent Marin Cilic withdrew because of an ankle injury. World number one Rafael Nadal will aim for a semifinal spot later when he plays French fifth seed Jo-Wilfried Tsonga while Britain’s James Ward returns the ball during his Davis Cup tennis match with Lithuania’s Ricardas Berankis in Vilnius 7 March, 2010.
