Lancet Series on Health in Southeast Asia, landmark in Myanmar history of medicine

NAY PYI TAW, 14 July—Lancet Series on Health in Southeast Asia is a landmark in the Myanmar history of medicine, as well as the first step in Southeast Asia, and it indicates present conditions in the health sector and related facts and creates opportunities to improve the health standard of the nation, said Union Minister for Health Dr Pe Thet Khin at the launching ceremony jointly organized by the Ministry of Health and China Medical Board at Thingaha Hotel here this morning.

The Ministry of Health is taking effective measures for eliminating newborn lockjaw and measles and prevention and control of communicable and incommunicable diseases, and is working hard to improve health care for the entire people throughout the country irrespective of wealth, he said. The report shows strengths and weaknesses of the projects and states proper methods in connection with development of human resources in the health sector and funds on health care.

Southeast Asian countries have their strong and weak points according to the social affairs, location, religious affairs and economic conditions, but they can cooperate with each other in the health sector, he said. The report states the whole health system from various points of view, and therefore it suggests that regional countries work more closely in the field of health. In particular, cross-border health problems, disease prevention and control, sharing health sources and cooperation, and that is the theme of the meeting, he said.

Also present on the occasion were Deputy Minister for Health Dr Daw Myat Myat Ohn Khin, heads of department, professors, specialists, Dr Piya Hanvoravongchai of Faculty of Tropical Medicine of Chulalongkon University and CMB Foundation Southeast Asia Programme, Professor Virasakd Chongsuvivatwong from Hat Yai Prince of Sangkla University in Thailand, and Professor Richard Coker of London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, CDPRG, and guests.
Fullmoon Day of Waso, significance of Buddhists

Today, the Fullmoon Day of Waso, 1373 Myanmar Era, was designated by Buddhists as Dhammaçaṅkāka Pavattana Day. The Fullmoon Day of Waso associates with the four great noble and significant events. On that holy day, the Buddha-to-be entered the womb of His mother Queen Maya; the Buddha-to-be was denounced the world; and the Gotama Buddha preached Dhammaçaṅkākapavattana Sutta to His five disciples.

In the sermon, the Lord Buddha expounded the Middle Way (Majjhima Kamma Sukkhamānayu) that avoids the two extreme-Metta and disperse Metta to all the living beings. Four Noble Truths are included in Dhammaçaṅkākapavattana Sutta which means self-mortification. Four Noble Truths are included in Dhammaçaṅkākapavattana Sutta administered at Migadawun Deer Park by the Lord Buddha to His five disciples on the Fullmoon Day of Waso.

Buddhist Myanmar people held Waso robe-offering ceremony and Waso flower-offering ceremony on the month of Waso traditionally.

The raid took place in the village of Toora Worai in an area known as Matoon, about four miles (seven kilometers) from the provincial capital of Khost City.

8 people wounded in bomb attacks in Iraq’s Diyala

BAQUBA, 14 July—Eight people were wounded in two roadside bomb attacks in Iraq’s eastern Province of Diyala on Thursday, a provincial police source told Xinhua.

A roadside bomb struck a police patrol in the town of Sadiyah, some 130 km northeast of Baghdad, damaging a police vehicle and wounding two policemen aboard and four passers-by, a source from Diyala’s operations command said on condition of anonymity.

The blast also damaged three nearby houses and several civilian cars, the source said.

In a separate incident, a roadside bomb went off at the gate of an orchard in the town of al-Abbarah, near the provincial capital city of Baquba, some 65 km northeast of Baghdad, wounding the orchard owner and his son, the source said. Diyala Province, which stretches from the eastern edges of Baghdad to the Iranian border in the east of the country, has long been a stronghold for al-Qaeda militants and other insurgent groups since the US-led invasion of Iraq in 2003.—Xinhua

Afghan civilian casualties rise 15%: UN report

KARUL, 14 July—Afghan civilian casualties rose 15 percent in the first half of this year, the United Nations said in mid-year report released here on Thursday.

“UNAMA (United Nations Assistance Mission in Afghanistan) documented 1,462 civilian deaths in the first six months of 2011, an increase of 15 percent over the same period of 2010,” the report said.

The report attributed 80 percent of the civilian deaths in the first six months of this year to the attack of Taleban militants and other armed groups opposing the Afghan government.

Another 14 percent of the deaths were attributed to Pro-Government Forces, down 9 percent from the same period of last year, and 6 percent were unattributed, said the report.

The main trends that led to rising civilian casualties, according to the report, were increased in widespread use of Improvised Explosive Devices (IEDs), suicide attacks and intensified campaign of targeted killings, increased ground fighting and a rise in civilian deaths from air strikes.

Latest blast in Nigeria wounds one soldier

MAIDUGARI, 14 July—A bomb targeting a military patrol has wounded a soldier in northeastern Nigeria, an official said on Wednesday, the latest in a spate of nearly daily attacks by suspected militants.

The blast on Tuesday night targeted the convoy in the Bulunkutu area of the City of Maiduguri, which has seen the brunt of the violence blamed on the sect, which has recently been deployed.

“There was an improvised explosive device targeted at a military convoy coming into the city,” said military task force spokesman Colonel Victor Ebiuwalere, adding that an armoured vehicle had driven over it.

“It exploded but did not cause any damage to the vehicle, however a soldier outside the armoured tank was injured.”

Dozens of deadly attacks and shootings in recent months have been blamed on the sect, which launched an uprising in 2009 put down by a brutal military assault.

Thousands of residents have fled Maiduguri in recent days fearing further violence linked to such attacks and the military’s response, with soldiers accused of targeting civilians in an operation last weekend.—Internet

‘Lost’ rainbow toad rediscovered after 87 years

Washington, 14 July— After months of scouring remote forests in Borneo, researchers spotted three rainbow toads up a tree, snapping the first-ever photographs of this elusive amphibian species that hadn’t been seen for 87 years, scientists announced 13 July).

Last seen in 1924, the Bornean rainbow toad (Ansonia latidiscis) had been listed as one of the world’s top 10 most wanted lost frogs, or those that hadn’t been seen in at least a decade. Conservation scientists thought the chances of spotting the spindly-legged toad existed, after collection by European explorers in the 1920s. Three individuals of the missing toad, including an adult female, adult male and a juvenile, were documented up three different trees in Penrissen, a region outside the protected area system of Sarawak, which is one of two Malaysian states on the island of Borneo. The toads ranged in size from 1.2 inches (30 millimetres) for the juvenile to 2.0 inches (51 mm) for the adult female. All three sported long, skinny limbs and bright skin pigments.

Initial searches by Indranil Das of Universiti Malaysia Sarawak and colleagues took place during evenings after dark along the high rugged ridges of the Gunung Penrissen range of Western Sarawak.

EPA proposes oxide pollution standards

Washington, 14 July— The US Environmental Protection Agency is proposing new secondary air quality standards to protect the environment from nitrogen oxides and sulfur oxides.

The proposal, issued after a careful review of the best available science, builds on EPA efforts already under way to reduce NOx and SOx emissions, the agency said in a release Wednesday.

Nitrogen oxides are emitted from an array of sources, including vehicles, power plants, off-road equipment, and agricultural sources, while sulfur oxides are emitted from fossil fuel combustion by power plants, large industries, mobile sources, and from some industrial processes, the agency said.

EPA is already taking a number of steps to reduce NOx and SOx emissions, including the recently announced Cross-State Air Pollution Rule.

T-Mobile exclusively launches name-based Caller ID for smartphones

New York, 14 July— Debuting on the Android-powered myTouch 4G Slide and Samsung Exhibit 4G, T-Mobile is partnering with Cequint to provide customers with Name ID for a fee of $3.99 a month. Customers can try out the service for free over a 10-day trial as well. When a call comes into the T-Mobile phone, the number is scanned within a database of phone numbers validated by operators. The service then displays the name, city and state of the caller as well as the phone number.

If the number is already stored in the contact list, it displays information related to that contact instead of the information supplied by Cequint. The service from Cequint saves all information from the call on the phone making it simple to add new contacts.

The company is hoping that adoption rates will be high for the service, but Android owners already have a free option for call screening with Google Voice. T-Mobile is the first of four major carriers that will be rolling out the Caller ID service from Cequint.

Cequint faces a barrier from Verizon Wireless to providing a complete service. The company refuses to supply subscriber information for the Cequint database. When a call comes in from a Verizon phone, the T-Mobile phone won’t be able to display any information beyond the number. In 2008, Verizon partnered with Cequint on the City ID service. For $1.99 a month, users can view the city and state of the caller, but not the name. The database features over 20,000 cities and is preloaded on many smartphones.

Cequint shares a split of the $3.99 monthly fee with T-Mobile, but did not specify the exact percentage. The Name ID service is already available on the Samsung Exhibit 4G and is heading onto the myTouch 4G Slide later this month. More Android smartphones will be added in the coming weeks, but no models have been specifically named by T-Mobile.

Hackers crack Vodafone’s network, can listen to all calls

London, 14 July— The Hacker’s Choice (THC), a group of computer security researchers, released surprising news about cellular carrier Vodafone UK. Using standard consumer hardware, THC was able to access Vodafone’s internal network and customer equipment. This unprecedented hack was made possible by Vodafone’s Sure Signal, a femtocell (think tiny cell tower) customers plug into their home internet connections for better cell reception.

THC began researching femtocells in 2009. The technology has become popular with cell phone companies like AT&T, which offers a 3G MicroCell, because the home access points mean better service for customers in areas with spotty coverage. THC purchased its femtocell from Vodafone UK and examined how the device communicated to Vodafone’s core network. They discovered that because of a flaw in how Vodafone implemented its system, it gave full access to the network to the femtocell, a device the hackers had full control of. Vodafone also used the same ‘newsys’ administrator password across all devices.

Vodafone says only a limited number of registered phones are allowed to access each customer’s femtocell. The hackers were able to uncop this and let any Vodafone customer phone automatically connect to their device.
Dirty socks ‘could help fight malaria’

DODOMA, 14 July—The odour of dirty socks can be used to lure mosquitoes into a deadly trap before they can spread malaria, a US and Canadian-funded researcher based in Africa said Wednesday.

Dr Fredros Okumu, of the Ilakara Health Institute in Tanzania, discovered through an experiment that mosquitoes were more attracted to the odor of filthy feet than to live humans sleeping in the same area.

“We had an experimental house with a human being sleeping inside and a second experimental house with a synthetic mixture,” he said.

“We realized that we were getting four times more mosquitoes going into the house with the synthetic mixture,” which, when doused with insecticide, killed the bugs.

Google margins and new social product in spotlight

SAN FRANCISCO, 14 July—Google Inc’s profit margins and its newly released social networking service will be in the investor spotlight when the Internet company reports its quarterly results after Thursday’s market close.

The world’s No 1 Internet search company has boosted spending and embarked on an acquisition spree in recent months as it battles rivals such as Facebook, Apple Inc, Microsoft Corp and Groupon.

Rising expenses ate into Google’s profit margin last quarter, sending the company’s shares down 8 percent after it reported results. “A declining margin scenario is never good for any stock, no matter how cheap it looks,” said Sameet Sinha, an analyst with B Riley & Co.

But he noted that the recent launch of Google’s new social networking service, dubbed Google+, may take some of the heat off the company for its spending and make Wall Street more comfortable with Google co-founder Larry Page, who took the CEO reins in April.

“Google plus is gaining some good buzz from what I see,” Sinha said. “It speaks to Google’s ability to continue to innovate despite its size.”

Since Google introduced Google+ in late June, the company’s shares have risen roughly 11 percent, closing at $538.26 on Wednesday.

Analysts polled by Thomson Reuters I/B/E/S are looking for net revenue, which excludes fees Google pays to partner websites, of $6.54 billion in the second quarter, up 28 percent year-on-year and flat from the first quarter. According to StarMine’s SmartEstimate, which places more weight on recent forecasts by top-rated analysts, Google should post adjusted earnings per share of $7.76, which is 10 cents beneath analysts’ average expectation for EPS of $7.86.—Reuters

Virtual reality’ may help in Parkinson’s therapy

NEW YORK, 14 July—People with Parkinson’s disease are unable to make quick movements, but virtual reality- and physical reality-based therapies may provide the stimulus needed to help them move faster, new research suggests.

In conducting the study, scheduled for publication in the August issue of the Archives of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, researchers assigned tasks to two groups of men and women — one group of Parkinson’s patients and another group of age-matched participants without the disease.

Each person was asked to reach for and grab a stationary ball as fast as possible. They were also told to catch balls that were visible for only about one second as they rolled down a ramp. These exercises were completed in normal physical reality and using virtual reality.

In both types of environments, the Parkinson’s group had longer movement time and lower peak velocity (speed) when reaching for the stationary ball than those without the disease. However, the researchers found that movement time was much shorter and peak velocity was higher in the faster curing conditions. The Parkinson’s group also showed more improvement than the control group in movement time and peak velocity when given moving targets.

As a result, the people with Parkinson’s were able to match the performance of those not suffering from the condition, the study found.

Citigroup may keep store credit card unit

LONDON, 14 July—Citigroup Inc is considering keeping its store credit card business after trying to dispose the $41 billion business, the Financial Times reported.

The US bank is considering moving the division out of Citi Holdings, where it keeps less important assets, to a place alongside its core credit card operations, the FT said, citing people familiar with the matter.

The change was prompted by improved credit conditions and uncertainty over the outlook for other consumer businesses such as retail banking and mortgages, the newspaper said.

The FT also said Citi plans to wait until it sells OneMain Financial, its consumer-lending business, and shed or run off other assets in Citi Holdings before deciding on the cards unit.

Citi has had trouble finding buyers for its store card business, which holds portfolios for retailers such as Zale, Home Depot Inc, Macy’s Inc and Sears Holdings Corp.

On 7 July, Reuters reported that Citi has faced hurdles in selling OneMain, the latest of which involved Moody’s Investors Service giving the business a lower preliminary credit rating than what the bank was expecting.

Central China province to renovate landmark canal amid drought

ZHENGZHOU, 14 July—Authorities in central China’s Henan Province will renovate and expand the Hongqi Canal, a key irrigation project and major engineering feat of the 1960s, in order to increase available supplies of drinking water during droughts. Local officials said the renovation is a response to the central government’s recent call for the increased expansion of the country’s water conservancy networks. The canal was built across the steep Tahan Mountain to bring water to the province’s parched Linxian County, which is now known as the City of Linzhou.

It took workers 10 years to build the 71-km-long canal. However, years of improper maintenance have caused the canal to become damaged, and its ability to transport and secure water during severe droughts has become compromised over time, according to Li Taisheng, head of the Linzhou Water Authority.——Xinhua

Ex-deputy charged in murder-for-hire case

NORFOLK, 14 July—A former Virginia Beach, Va., deputy has been charged in a murder-for-hire scheme directed against her ex-husband, a report says. Enid Albertha Collins, 47, allegedly hired a hit man to kill her ex-husband because she wanted to get out of paying child support payments for their twin daughters, The (Norfolk) Virginian Pilot reported.

A complaint filed in Norfolk District Court alleges Collins solicited the help of a close friend to help her find a hit man to kill Andre Tyrone Davis. The friend reported the plot to police in April. The court record shows the FBI and Virginia Beach Police had recorded telephone conversations between Collins and the friend talking about the conspiracy in which Collins said she wanted her ex-husband as dead as a doornail.——Internet

Three Mumbai bombings minutes apart kill 21, wound 141

MUMBAI, 14 July—Three coordinated bombings tore through the heart of India’s busy financial capital during rush hour Wednesday, killing 21 people and wounding 141 in the worst terrorist attack in the country since the 2008 Mumbai siege.

Bloody bodies were strewn in the dirt of Mumbai’s crowded neighbourhoods and markets. Doors were ripped off storefronts, motorcycles were charred and a bus stop was shredded. After the blasts in three separate neighbourhoods, police set up checkpoints and were put on high alert. The bombings came just months after peace talks resumed between India and Pakistan, which New Delhi has blamed for past attacks. Arup Patnaik, a top police officer, said the attackers used improvised explosive devices in the attack, hidden in an umbrella in the Jhaverei Bazaar jewelry market and kept in a car in the business district of Opera House. The third blast in Dadar area was caused by an explosive device concealed in an electric meter at a bus stop, the Press Trust of India news agency said.——Internet

No warnings, clues in deadly triple Mumbai blasts

MUMBAI, 14 July—Indian intelligence agencies received no warnings before the three bomb blasts that killed 21 people in Mumbai, the biggest attack since Pakistani-based militants rampaged through the financial hub in 2008, a top official said on Thursday.

“There was no intelligence regarding a militant attack in Mumbai,” Home Minister Palaniappan Chidambaram told a news conference in Mumbai. “(Maybe those) who perpetrated the attacks worked in a very clandestine manner, maybe a very small group that has not communicated with each other.” He said it was too early to point the figure at any particular group, but said the coordinated attacks could be in retaliation to a number of plots stopped by police or the arrests of militants, including members of the Indian Mujahideen, a home-grown group said to have support from militants in Pakistan. Chidambaram said 18 people had died in the triple attacks, lowering an earlier figure of 21. He said 23 out of the 141 injured and admitted to hospitals were in a critical state.——Reuters

Robbers use a ruse in million-dollar heist

LOS ANGELES, 14 July—The robbers in a $1 million heist in the Los Angeles area used an elaborate ruse to get into an armoured car firm’s vault, law enforcement officials say.

The three robbers who broke through the roof of the Commonwealth International building in South El Monte Thursday allegedly jumped the manager of the armoured car business, blindfolded him, and made him coax two employees into the vault, claiming there had been a false alarm, a law enforcement official told the Los Angeles Times. The official also said the robbers claimed to have shown up because of the false alarm and told the manager police would be arriving shortly. It was unclear as to whether or not they were posing as police officers. The robbers began the heist at 7:30 pm, and once in the vault, they took about 20 minutes to drag the cash to a car outside, said Los Angeles County Sheriff’s Lt Ken Wegener.

Wegener also said the company, which handles cash for hundreds of automated teller machines throughout Los Angeles, had security cameras; however, the robbers may have accessed them, removing any footage with them on it.——Internet

Full moon of Waso, Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta Day

The Full Moon of Waso, the Dhammacakkapavattana Day falls on 15th July 2011. The Full Moon Day of Waso associates with the four great noble and significant events related to the precious life of the Omniscient Gotama Buddha. On that holy day, the Buddha-to-be (the Gotama Buddha) took pregnancy in the womb of Queen Maya, wife of His Majesty King Siddhattha of Kapilavatthu Kingdom, and also on that holiday at the age of 29, the Buddha-to-be renounced the world, and after having full attainment of the Buddhahood, the Gotama Buddha preached His first great sermon, Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta to His five disciples, in which He explained the Four Noble Truths and the Noble Eightfold Path, on the Full Moon Day of Waso.

All five disciples received ordination and formed the first nucleus of the holy brotherhood of disciples known as the Sangha.

And also, on the Full Moon Day of Waso, the Omniscient Buddha performed the great miracle called the Twin Miracle. The reason for this was to dispel the wrong views of heretics, and to prove that He possessed the attributes of a Buddha. It is the miracle of water and fire.

The Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta

Over 2550 years ago, the unrivalled Omniscient Buddha preached His first great Sermon, the Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta to His five disciples, (Kusala and other four) in the Deer park, now known as Saranath, India, on the Full Moon Day of Waso. In commemoration of this significant and holy event associated with the precious life of the Buddha, the Buddhist peoples across the Buddhist world celebrate the Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta Day on this Full Moon Day of Waso by observing precepts delivered by members of the Sangha and respectfully listening to the Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta recited by members of the Sangha.

And also, the generous Buddhist peoples perform meritorious deeds such as offering Waso robes, alms and other offerings to the members of Sangha on the Full Moon Day of Waso, the Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta Day.

Rains retreat period, Vassavasa

Observing the rains retreat period; confining oneself to a specific monastic dwelling for the three-month rainy period.

During the three months of monsoon rains, Bhikkhus go into retreat at a monastery designated before hand at the start of the rainy season. This practice was introduced during the life time of the Buddha. Before the Buddha decreed the rains retreat period, Bhikkhus walked across fields under cultivation.

People started to criticize them as some people believed that plants and even drops of water were living beings. Why is it that the disciples of the Buddha go on travels all the year round and trample young plants and insects into oblivion while even members of other sects do not go on journeys during the rains? Even birds and animals have the good sense to stay in their nets or dens during the rains, people complained. To put an end to this controversy, the Buddha decreed that the rains-retreat period be observed. Rains retreat period may be observed by taking up the designated residence during one of the two periods:

1) Earlier rains retreat period (purimavassavasa), commencing from the day after the Full Moon of Waso (roughly corresponding to July) and ending on the Full Moon day of Thadingyut (roughly corresponding to October);

2) Later rains retreat period (punamavassavasa), commencing from the day after the Full Moon of Wagaung (roughly corresponding to August) and ending on the Full Moon day of Tazaungmon (roughly corresponding to November).

Advice to drink 8 glasses of water a day

‘thoroughly debunked nonsense’

London, 14 July—A medical practitioner has argued that the recommendation to drink six to eight glasses of water a day to prevent dehydration “is not only nonsense, but is thoroughly debunk nonsense.”

There is currently no clear evidence of the benefit from drinking increased amounts of water, yet the “we-don’t-drink-enough-water” myth has endless advocates including the NHS, claimed GP Margaret McCartney.

The NHS Choices website states: “Try to drink about six to eight glasses of water (or other fluids) a day to prevent dehydration.”

While many schools also feel it appropriate to insist that pupils are accompanied to school by a water bottle, other organizations, often with vested interests, reinforce this message, she said. For example, Hydration for Health (created by French food giant Danone) — makers of bottled waters including Volvic and Evian) recommends 1.5 to 2 litres of water daily as “the simplest and healthiest hydration advice you can give.”

It also claims that, “even mild dehydration plays a role in the development of various diseases.”

But McCartney disagreed that that there is no high quality published evidence to support these claims.

the 48th Myanmar Gems Emporium. Competitive bidding system brought higher prices for pearl lots than the expected. Mr. Iaveri Parful Shantichand of Paras Pearl Co of Japan was awarded in buying the largest amount of pearl lots. Merchants from Japan bought pieces of quality Myanmar pearl at higher prices.

A total of 38 gem lots—19 lots each through tender and competitive bidding system—were sold on 4 July. Previous emporiums sold 31 lots of gem through tender and 30 lots through competitive bidding system. Sale of gem lots was attended by 21 gem merchants from Thailand, seven from China and 12 at home, totaling 40. U Maung Maung Naing of Ruby Dragon Co won the top gem buyers award. Ms Zhang Bao-ling of Guangdong Province of China stood second in buying jewellery. The number of gem lots were larger than the prices, higher than the reserve prices. A total of 38 gem lots fetched the higher prices, accounting for 89.64 per cent. At the sales, Mogok Gems Land put jewellery on display than Mongshu one. Gem merchants purchased 31 lots of Mogok gems and seven of Mongshu gems.

As a significant point, gem merchants from China attended the special sales more than that of the past. A small number of Chinese gem merchants attended the emporiums and bought quartz only but many gem merchants from China purchased more than the past. U Maung Maung Naing of Ruby Dragon Co bought about 50 lots of jade at the special sales. As such, the special sales sold 17449 lots of jade, compared with 13608 lots at the 48th emporium. Sales of 78.18 per cent of the displayed jade lots fetched 543.60 per cent of prices than the reserve prices. Some lots of jade were sold at the higher prices than the floor prices. Gem merchant Mr. Cui Xiaowen won the top jade buyer award.

With regard to competitive buying of jade lots, gem merchant U Soe Moe Win said, “I bought 24 lots of jade at this special sale, compared with 16 lots only at the 48th emporium. In the rainy season, jade mines suspended their works. So, many gem merchants attended the sales and purchased the jade lots in competitiveness with foreign merchants. I plan to make jade stones as bracelets and figurines in Mandalay.”

While attending the special sales to buy jade and gems, foreign gem merchants visited Nay Pyi Taw and its surrounding areas. A gem merchant from Hong Kong Special Autonomous Region said that he arrived in Myanmar for the third trip. He visited Water Fountain Park, Safari Park, National Landmarks Gardens, Capital Hyper Market and Junction Centre in Nay Pyi Taw. Nay Pyi Taw being a neat and tidy capital has clean environment. The special sales proved that Myanmar is rich in natural resources. He said that he bought about 50 lots of jade at the sales.

Likewise, a gem merchant from Guangdong Province of China explained that it was his first trip to Myanmar. Myanmar jade is famous in the world market due to harder standard. The finished goods of jade can fetch higher price. He bought about 40 lots of jade at the sales and he has planned to attend next emporiums.

I have learnt that gem merchants purchased larger items of jewellery at private jewellery and souvenir shops around Mani Yadana Jade Hall. Under the arrangement of Myanmar Gems Merchants Association, about 50 jewellery shops put products on sales. Daw Nyunt Nyunt Khaing of Special (Mra & Khaing) said, “Our shop sells ornaments, figurines and beads made of jade, gems, pearl, ruby and sapphire, and products of finished jade. Chinese merchants bought lockets and rings made of jade. Our shop fetched larger amount of money due to longer period of special sales.” A responsible person of other ornament shop explained that merchants purchased pieces of pearls at higher prices at the special sales as well as the pearl shop.

The State had commenced gems emporiums since 1964. Private-owned jade lots had been sold since 1992. Private companies and entrepreneurs were allowed to conduct mining works of jewellery, and necessary assistance was provided for raising production and sales of jewellery. The entrepreneurs engaged in jewellery mining works through manpower in the past. Now, they use modern heavy machinery in exploring gems. Gem emporiums and special sales have been organized one after another so as to sell the gems at special prices. Almost all the jade lots at the special sales were owned by private entrepreneurs. Therefore, the Central Committee for Organizing the Myanmar Gems Emporium arranged the emporiums for smooth trade of gems between buyers and sellers. Buyers have the opportunity to purchase jade, gems and pearl lots as they like after checking the products. Likewise, buyers can fetch higher prices in sales. As such, the already-concluded Jade, Gems and Special Sales was covered with smiles of buyers and sellers.

North China offshore oilfield resumes operation after spill

Beijing, 14 July — An oilfield located off the coast of north China resumed production on Wednesday after it was discovered to be leaking oil Tuesday morning, the China National Offshore Oil Corporation (CNOOC) said.

An oil slick in the Suizhong 36-1 oilfield, located in north China’s Bohai Bay, has been cleaned up and an emergency alert for the region has been lifted, according to the CNOOC, China’s largest offshore oil producer.

The oil spill occurred at about 1:30 am Tuesday, when the centralized control system used to operate the oilfield’s central platform broke down.

The oil giant has had to deal with three accidents over the last week, including two other oil spills in Bohai Bay and a fire in one of its refineries in south China’s Guangdong Province. —Xinhua

China to be Latin America’s 2nd largest trade partner in 2015

Santiago, 14 July — China will become Latin America’s second largest trade partner as early as in 2015, the UN Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC) said Wednesday. Oswaldo Kacef, director of ECLAC’s Economic Development Division, said the current China-Latin America trade volume has already reached that of Europe.

“Given the uncertainty of the economic situation in Europe, China is in the process of … becoming the second largest trade partner of Latin America,” he said.

ECLAC Executive Secretary Alicia Barcena said the world’s emerging markets are gradually reducing their dependence on industrialized countries and seeking new relations with China.

Osvaldo Rosales, director of ECLAC’s International Trade and Integration Division, said Latin American countries should adopt active trade and investment policies to better do business with China. “Investments in natural resources and industrial sectors to Latin America increased last year,” Rosales said. —Xinhua

Death toll in S Philippines flash floods reaches 43

Cotabato, 14 July — The death toll in flash-floods due to heavy rains in the southern Philipp-ines reached 43, officials said Wednesday.

Dr Marlowe Ninal, health administrator in the southern City of Cotabato, said at least 13 people displaced by flooding died at the evacuation camp due to severe diseases. He said two of the fatalities were children, of which one died of severe cold.

Ninal said medicine supplies were sufficient but the problem lies in the evacuees them-selves.

Lawyer and city administrator of Cotabato Cynthia Sayadi said by phone over 2,000 fam-ilies in the evacua-tion centre here are still at risk if they return to their flooded homes.

“We are thankful there was no outbreak of the disease. Even before they evacuated follow-ing the floods, some of them already have diarrhea,” Sayadi said.

“We met non government organizations as well local government agencies. We discussed what possible rehabilitation plans are for the evacuees. Are they safe if they return home? We agreed and started sanitizing their villages,” Sayadi added.

Flash floods also killed 13 people in the southern City of Cotabato, which is in the province of Maguindanao. The death toll in flash floods due to heavy rains in the southern Philipp-ines reached 43, officials said Wednesday.

Two women from New York’s Queens borough are suing a New Jersey cemetery for burying their mother in the wrong grave plot 20 years ago, their lawyer says.

Evelyn and Hortense Edwards found out about the mix-up last summer when they complained the grave site where they thought their mother, Beatrice Williams, had been buried since her death in 1990 had fallen into disrepair, the New York Daily News reported Tuesday.

An employee at Rosehill Cemetery in Linden, NJ, told the sisters the grave plot No 103 they had been visiting actually held the remains of a man and that their mother was buried about 90 feet away in plot No 132.

The $25 million lawsuit filed in US District Court in New York alleges the sisters bought a plot at Rosehill Cemetery in January 1990, and intended on being buried with their mother in Grave No 103, Row 20, Section 52, when they eventually passed.

Tribal council passes gag pot resolution

The chairwoman of the Snoqualmie tribe in Washington state says a resolution the tribe’s council passed legalizing marijuana for a day was just a joke.

The resolution, signed by Snoqualmie tribal Chairwoman Shelley Burch declared marijuana would be legal on 30 July when Willie Nelson, who has been known to use pot, would be performing at the Snoqualmie Casino, The Seattle Times reported. “It was just tongue in cheek at a council meeting; we know marijuana is illegal,” Burch said. “It was a joke. We don’t allow it and we don’t back it. We passed it, but it was supposed to be just for him.” The resolution passed 4-2 Thursday, and when news got out to the tribe, the council received e-mails with subject lines such as “Are they crazy?” and “Is this for real?”

Mo town outlaws saggy pants

The mayor of a Missouri town said he does not approve of a new ordinance banning residents from sagging their pants below the waistline.

Collinsville Mayor John Miller said he does not agree with the ordinance, which passed on a 3-2 City Council vote Monday, with Miller and Councilwoman Nancy Moss casting their votes in opposition, the St Louis (Mo) Post-Dispatch reported Tuesday.

“It’s obstructing the nature of what this country was founded upon,” Miller said. “I’m sorry this passed.”

The ordinance carries a $100 fine and community service for first-time offenders and a $300 fine with community service for repeat offenders.

Councilwoman Liz Dalton, who introduced the measure, said she received many complaints about sagging pants.

“Residents are getting tired of seeing people’s underpants as they walk down the street,” she said. “When I start hearing repeat requests as an elected official, I have to listen.”

Texas artist’s work hurtling through space with Atlantis

HOUSTON, 14 July—It’s a rare person who can say that her artwork is hurtling through space. But Rachel Hobson, a self-proclaimed space geek and crafts blogger, can certainly claim those bragging rights. As millions watched the launch of the final US shuttle mission, Atlantis, Hobson had the added thrill of knowing that a photo of her needlework moonscape was on board. Hobson, a Houston mother, crafter and space enthusiast, won a contest last fall sponsored by NASA and Etsy, an online crafters’ marketplace, with her depiction of the moon’s surface. The 4 by 6-inch embroidery and crochet project of silk and cotton threads, ribbons and beads was photographed and turned into a lighter weight print for the trip into space.
Should parents lose custody of super obese kids?

CHICAGO, 14 July—Should parents of extremely obese children lose custody for not controlling their kids’ weight? A provocative commentary in one of the nation’s most distinguished medical journals argues yes, and its authors are joining a quiet chorus of advocates who say the government should be allowed to intervene in extreme cases.

It has happened a few times in the US, and the opinion piece in Wednesday’s Journal of the American Medical Association says putting children temporarily in foster care is in some cases more ethical than obesity surgery.

Dr David Ludwig, an obesity specialist at Harvard-affiliated Children’s Hospital Boston, said the point isn’t to blame parents, but rather to act in children’s best interest and get them help that for whatever reason their parents can’t provide.

State intervention “ideally will support not just the child but the whole family, with the goal of reuniting child and family as soon as possible. That may require instruction on parenting,” said Ludwig, who wrote the article with Lindsay Murtagh, a lawyer and a researcher at Harvard’s School of Public Health.

“Despite the discomfort posed by state intervention, it may sometimes be necessary to protect a child,” Murtagh said.

Montana questions Exxon’s estimate of oil spilled

BILLINGS, 14 July—State environmental regulators have asked Exxon Mobil to justify its estimate for how much oil spilled into the Yellowstone River, citing the company’s changing timeline on how long it took to stop a leaking pipeline.

The Texas-based company has said between 31,500 and 42,000 gallons of crude flowed into the Yellowstone following the leak near Laurel on 1 July. That oil has fouled shoreline and contaminated backwaters along dozens of miles of the scenic river.

Exxon Mobil Pipeline president Gary Pruessing initially said it took six minutes to shut down the pumps on the Silvertip pipeline.

But information submitted by the company to federal pipeline safety regulators later revealed it took almost an hour to fully stop the flow.

In a letter to Exxon executives, Montana Department of Environmental Quality Director Richard Opper asked for an explanation of why the spill volume was not changed given the longer timeline.

The accident occurred in a scenic area near the Yellowstone National Park. It was initially blamed for the accident, could begin to move his new legs in three weeks and support his own weight with them in three months, he said.

Transplant patient’s joy on seeing new legs

VALENCIA, 14 July—A young man who had a world-first double leg transplant in Spain cried with joy on seeing his new limbs and might walk in six or seven months, the head surgeon said on Tuesday.

A Spanish medical team led by renowned surgeon Pedro Cavadas carried out the delicate transplant in a 10-hour overnight operation ending Monday morning at a hospital in the eastern city of Valencia.

“The patient has been awake since yesterday afternoon and is as happy as can be, he started to cry when he saw his legs,” Cavadas told a news con-

fere nce at La Fe hospital.

“I imagine he will be able to walk with crutches. I imagine that in the long term he will even be able to leave the crutches but that depends on how his rehabilitation goes,” the doctor said.

“If everything goes as we hope we could realistically think that in six or seven months he could be walking.”

The patient, a man in his 20s who had both legs amputated above the knee after a traffic accident, could begin to move his new legs in three weeks and support his own weight with them in three months, he said.

Transplant patient’s joy on seeing new legs

VALENCIA, 14 July—A young man who had a world-first double leg transplant in Spain cried with joy on seeing his new limbs and might walk in six or seven months, the head surgeon said on Tuesday.

A Spanish medical team led by renowned surgeon Pedro Cavadas carried out the delicate transplant in a 10-hour overnight operation ending Monday morning at a hospital in the eastern city of Valencia.

“The patient has been awake since yesterday afternoon and is as happy as can be, he started to cry when he saw his legs,” Cavadas told a news con-

fere nce at La Fe hospital.

Strong wind may cause havoc at British Open

SANDWICH, 14 July—With strong wind set to cause havoc at the British Open, organizers said Wednesday that some tees may have to be brought forward to Royal St George’s to make the course playable.

Gusts of up to 30 mph are forecast for the first two rounds on Thursday and Friday. Depending on wind direction, it will make some fairways unreachable off the tee for many players. Royal and Ancient chief executive Peter Dawson picked out the par-5 No. 7 and the short No. 11, which is 243 yards from tee to green, as two of several holes that could be modified.

“We do have some wind issues out there,” Dawson said. “We made the players aware at the start of the week that some tees may be moved up and they were invited to practice off forward tees if they wished. I think players should be able to reach the fairway and reach the par 3s, frankly.”

Santos’ midfielder Ganso in scope of Russia’s Makhakhala

RIO DE JANEIRO, 14 July—Paulo Henrique Ganso, the midfielder of Santos and the Brazilian national soccer team, was targeted by Russia’s Anzhi Makhakhala on Wednesday.

According to Santos, the offer to rent in Ganso was estimated at 40 million euros. The player is expected to make nearly 7 million euros per season.

The figure beats those already proposed to teammate and star striker Neymar, having already received offers of 5 million euros per season by clubs such as Real Madrid. Santos has already announced that they will not accept the offer, but fear that the Russians will meet the already established fee of 50 million euros in order to terminate Ganso’s contract with team.

Yet that is the situation facing both eight-times champions Brazil and Paraguay as both bid to land a place in the last eight while the Venezuelans can largely afford to relax ahead of their final group game. Although now the baseball-loving nation will hope to go the whole hog and win the group.

Brazil pull entertaining Ecuador win at Copa

FRANKFURT, 14 July—Federico Macheda scored twice and Michael Carrick had a pair of assists to give Manchester United a 4-1 victory over the New England Revolution in the opener of its US exhibition tour.

After a scoreless first half, the Red Devils scored three times in 10 minutes to gain control of the match. Michael Owen and Park Ji-Sung also scored for the Premier League champions. Kenny Mansally scored for New England to make it 2-1 in the 56th minute, but Machedo made it 3-1 on a behind-the-back pass from Carrick that sent him in all alone on Revolution goalkeeper Bobby Shuttleworth.

United started only four players from the lineup that began the Champions League final against Barcelona, with liberal substitutions that took Wayne Rooney out at halftime. Ashley Young made his United debut after joining the Red Devils from Aston Villa last month for a reported $27 million. He came out in the 67th minute with United leading 3-1.

Meanwhile Canada, who lost all four previous meetings against the Aussies, including the 2003 World Group semi-finals, when Hewitt sealed the win with a comeback from two sets down against Federer and Australia went on to take the title that year. Meanwhile Canada, who made a comeback against Ecuador in their Zone Group I tie to reach the play-offs for the first time since 2005, will travel to Israel.

Liverpool’s Suarez completes January move

SANDWICH, 14 July—By now, he should have won a few of these, maybe more. When Sergio Garcia first teed it up in the British Open as a teenager there seemed no way his name wouldn’t someday be inscribed on the claret jug. It might still happen, though by now it seems more hope than destiny. Too many Opens have passed, and too many scars remain for Garcia to fully realize the promise of a time gone by.

Building fire near King tomb extinguished

ATLANTA, 14 July—Firefighters in Atlanta worked to save a building that caught fire inside the Martin Luther King Jr National Historic Site, authorities said.

The blaze was reported about 6 am Wednesday at a building about a half-block from King’s burial site, The Atlanta Journal-Constitution reported.

The building, owned by the National Park Service, is leased to Leslie’s Barber Shop, which sustained some fire and water damage.

Crews from Atlanta Fire Station 4, located just down the street, were on scene in less than a minute, Battalion Chief Todd Edwards said.

Several apartments in an adjacent building were evacuated, he said.

One apartment-dweller said a homeless man who frequents the area first spotted the fire.

“He was really kind, rang the doorbell, woke us up and told us there was a fire,” Dave Bruckner said. “We called and eight fire trucks showed up. It was pretty awesome.”—Internet

Smiles of buyers and sellers blossoming at Jade, Gems and Special Sales

The Jade, Gems and Pearl Special Sales 2011 successfully came to a close in the evening of on 13 July. After concluding the special sales, rain fell heavily. It can be said that smooth and successful completion of the special sales was blessed with celestial beings.

The Central Committee for Organizing the Myanma Gems Emporium and subcommittees successfully held the longer special sales than the previous sales. The longer emporium sold larger lots of jade, gems and pearl. As a result, the prices of the very recent sales were higher than that of previous emporiums.

At Mani Yadana Jade Hall, a total of 355 lots of pearl, 284 lots of gems and 22,317 lots of jade were put on sales from 1 to 13 July. Such amount of lots was larger than that of previous emporiums. Likewise, a total of 9366 gem merchants—4744 from China, Hong Kong, India, Japan, Thailand, Singapore and Russia and 4622 at home attended the special sales. Such number of attendees was larger than that of previous emporiums.

Pearl lots were sold on 2 and 3 July at the special sales which was the third time in Nay Pyi Taw. A total of 251 lots of pearl of 313 were sold. Pearl merchants bought 37 lots of 42 through competitive bidding system. As such, 288 lots of pearls were sold at higher prices at the special sales, compared with 253 lots at
