Preserve and promote traditional cultural performing arts

Myanmar traditional cultural performing arts were recorded in writing on palm leaves in Pyu era. And the arts relayed from Pyu City States were portrayed in mural paintings in Bagan Period. Myanmar arts are profound and delicate. Songs of Bagan Period were written down in contemporary stone tablets. The five basic Myanmar traditional musical instruments: bronze percussion instrument, string instrument, leather instrument, wind instrument and bamboo clapper became popular in Bagan Period; and shield dance and martial songs, in Myinsaing Period and Pinya Period. Myanmar traditional cultural performing arts reached at their peak in Inwa Period. Literati had been composing poems of epic proportions, poems and verses, and dramatists and puppeteers created and preserved rhetorical poems, poems, verses, plays and dramas in successive periods. Myanmar traditional cultural performing arts have stood for hundreds of years. Characteristics, attributes, strong sense of nationalistic spirit, natural culture and traditions of the people are still embodied in traditional cultural performing arts.

As part of the drive for preserving and promoting its cultural heritage, national prestige and integrity, Myanmar has been holding traditional cultural performing arts competitions yearly. The 18th Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions will take place in Nay Pyi Taw soon. Artistes are under a responsibility to preserve and promote and relay traditional cultural arts to new generations, which is improving the arts, not retrograde steps. Artistes are therefore urged to show their artistic talents in the 18th Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions.

23 wounded in church attack in north Iraq

SULAIMANYAH, 2 Aug — A car bomb outside a Christian church wounded 23 people on Tuesday morning, police said, as security forces found and disabled vehicles packed with explosives outside two other parishes in northern Iraq.

The bombing and two averted attacks in the northern city of Kirkuk signal continued violence nearly 1 million of whom have fled since the war began in 2003.

The assault began at 6 am, when the car blew up outside the Syrian Catholic church, severely damaging the church and nearby houses, said police Col Taha Salaheddin.

Four dead in suicide blast at hotel

KABUL, 2 Aug—A suicide car bomber blew up his vehicle outside a small residential hotel frequented by foreigners just after dawn Tuesday, killing at least four guards in the latest of a rising number of attacks in northern Afghanistan.

 After the bomber detonated his cache of explosives, two other militants stormed inside the hotel in Kunduz City and engaged police in a two-hour gunbattle, said Mubobullah Sayedi, a provincial spokesman.

 "When the bomber blew himself up, the explosion shook everything," Sayedi said. "It broke glass everywhere." Four Afghan building guards were killed and 10 other people, including an Afghan policeman, were wounded, he said. Foreigners staying at the two-story hotel escaped through the rear of the building, he said.

Two killed, eight wounded in S Philippines motorcycle bomb blast

COTABATO CITY, 2 Aug—The death toll from the powerful motorcycle bomb blast Tuesday afternoon in the restive southern Philippines has risen to two, while eight others were wounded, officials said.

A homemade bomb fashioned from four 81-millimeter mortar shells exploded in front of a gun shop around 2:15 pm along Quezon Avenue in the southern Philippine city of Cotabato, leaving two people dead, said administrator Atty. Cynthia Gañan Sayadi.

The blast left one dead on the spot while another passed away in hospital. The wounded were eight other civilians.

It says the vehicle of a local governor was also hit.

The rebels have killed more than 20 Turkish soldiers in intensified attacks over the past two weeks. The clashes also left about 10 rebels dead.

Rebels affiliated with the Kurdistan Worker’s Party, or PKK, are waging a campaign for autonomy in the largely Kurdish southeast. The conflict has killed about 40,000 people since 1984.

Britons released from detention in Afghanistan

KANDAHAR, 2 Aug—Two British nationals, a man and a woman, who were detained by NATO forces in Afghanistan last month have been released, the Ministry of Defence in London said Tuesday. “We can confirm, in accordance with UK detention policy, that two individuals detained by ISAF (International Security Assistance Force) forces in mid-July were released from detention in Kandahar on 29 July,” a spokesman said. He declined to give any further details about the pair.

The Ministry of Defence announced their detention on 21 July, saying it had taken place the previous week, but gave no reason for it. It said it had been a joint operation by British and Afghan forces and the pair were being held in Kandahar in southern Afghanistan for questioning. Minor accident in Indian nuclear plant

NEW DELHI, 2 Aug—Four labourers were exposed to low levels of radiation at an Indian nuclear plant at the end of May after an error in the control room, a report said Tuesday.

The Times of India, quoting the director of the Kakrapur Atomic Power Station in eastern Gujarat State, said the labourers were working on a spent fuel duct when radioactive material was accidentally released into it.

“They were sent home as they were within our radiation limits,” said director KP Dutta, who added that the men had been examined at the plant’s hospital.

Their radiation exposure was 90 millisieverts, he said, which is only slightly higher than the 60 millisieverts sustained during a full-body medical scan. —Internet

Dawn spacecraft gets cozy with massive asteroid

In this image released by NASA/JPL on 28 July, 2011 shows an image of the dark side of Vesta asteroid captured by NASA’S Dawn spacecraft on 23 July, 2011, and taken from a distance of about 3,200 miles (5,200 kilometres) away from the giant asteroid. Internet

Los Angeles, 2 Aug—Scientists are busy poring over images of the massive asteroid Vesta, the first time it has been photographed up close. The Dawn spacecraft last month slipped into orbit around the 330-mile-wide rocky body with little fanfare and began beaming back incredible details of the pockmarked surface that resembles Earth’s moon.

Since entering orbit, Dawn has taken more than 500 images, while refining its path and inching ever closer to the surface to get a better view. The probe will officially start collecting science data next week once it is positioned 1,700 miles from the surface. Dawn so far has imaged the entire sunlit side of Vesta. Last week, it passed over a part of the surface hidden in the shadows and saw distinct grooves.

Analyzing the surface “enables us to determine what has happened to Vesta over the eons,” said the mission’s chief scientist, Christopher Russell of the University of California, Los Angeles. Currently some 117 million miles from Earth, Vesta is the second-most massive resident of the asteroid belt, a zone between Mars and Jupiter littered with hundreds of thousands of space rocks orbiting the sun. The belt formed some 4.5 billion years ago around the same time and under similar conditions as Earth and the inner planets.

It’s thought that larger chunks such as Vesta could have coalesced into planets had they not been foiled by Jupiter’s gravity. Despite being denied planethood, asteroids are of interest to researchers because they date back to the early solar system.—Internet

Internet archivist seeks one of every book written

RICHMOND, 2 Aug—Tucked away in a small warehouse on a dead-end street, an Internet pioneer is building a bunker to protect an endangered species: the printed word. Brewster Kahle, 50, founded the nonprofit Internet Archive in 1996 to save a copy of every Web page ever posted. Now the MIT-trained computer scientist and entrepreneur is expanding his effort to safeguard and share knowledge by trying to preserve a physical copy of every book ever published.

“There is always going to be a role for books,” said Kahle as he perched on the edge of a shipping container soon to be tricked out as a climate-controlled storage unit. Each container can hold about 40,000 volumes, the size of a branch library. “We want to see books live forever.” So far, Kahle has gathered about 500,000 books. He thinks the warehouse itself is large enough to hold about 1 million titles, each one given a barcode that identifies the cardboard box, pallet and shipping container in which it resides.

That’s far fewer than the roughly 130 million different books Google Inc engineers involved in that company’s book scanning project estimate to exist worldwide. But Kahle says the ease with which they’ve acquired the first half-million donated texts makes him optimistic about reaching what he sees as a realistic goal of 10 million. That would validate of a major university library.—INTERNET

Google rolls out experimental Hotel Finder

SAN FRANCISCO, 2 Aug—Perhaps one of Google’s most interesting (or annoying, depending on your perspective) qualities is a willingness to release half-baked products and make changes on the fly. Today Google released Hotel Finder and called it an “experimental search tool.” Like newly released Google Plus, there is a “Send Feedback” link prominently displayed: the company acknowledges it won’t be perfect.

The core functionality of the experiment doesn’t need much explaining: you use it to find hotels. But Google has nicely employed its mountains of map and address data to make the (often painful) experience easier to use.

Hotel Finder shines a “tourist spotlight” on hotspots of the city you’re visiting, giving you an idea of where people most frequent when the visit. Then you can draw a shape around the area where you want to stay and results for hotels will populate accordingly. On first use, the feature is pretty darn slick. Also, one of the annoying features of most searchable travel sites, whether it be for restaurants, flights or hotels, is having to open new tabs to save prospects as you review the search options. Hotel Finder simply allows you to add it to your “shortlist,” which populates and saves as you review. Once you’re ready to book, Hotel Finder provides a slick drop-down menu right from the hotel that allows you to book it through a partner site like Expedia, Travelocity or directly from the hotel itself.

Drug cuts brain lesions in MS patients

ZURICH, 2 Aug—Swiss biotech company Actelion Ltd said on Tuesday a mid-stage study showed one of its drugs under development helped reduce new inflammatory brain lesions in a targeted group of multiple sclerosis patients.

The study found Actelion’s Ponesimod drug, a selective S1P1 receptor agonist, achieved its primary trial goal of reducing the number of new active inflammatory lesions in the brain of patients with relapsing-remitting multiple sclerosis.

“This is the first report of a selective S1P1 receptor agonist reporting a statistically significant treatment effect in patients suffering from relapsing-multiple sclerosis,” said Martin Clozel, Actelion’s managing director and chief scientific officer.

The achievement of its primary endpoints in the trial will allow Ponesimod to proceed to the final stage of clinical development, the company said.—Reuters

Small spending cuts to have little economic impact

WASHINGTON, 2 Aug—The deal reached by Congress to raise the debt ceiling and cut more than $2 trillion in public spending will probably have only a minor impact on the economy for the next two years.

Almost all the cuts would be made in 2014 or beyond. The approach heeds a warning by Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke and many private economists: Cutting too much too soon could harm the weak economic recovery.

Yet the deal won’t do much to help the economy either, economists said, at least in the short term.

Under the debt deal, discretionary spending, which excludes Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid, would be cut $21 billion in 2012 and $42 billion in 2013, according to an analysis by the Congressional Budget Office. Combined, the cuts will amount to about two-tenths of 1 percent of the economy’s total output during the two years. The impact “should be relatively minor,” says Brian Gardner, senior vice president at Keefe, Bruyette and Wood, an investment bank.

The spending cuts would increase to $75 billion in 2015 and $156 billion in 2021, the CBO estimates.—Internet

Bank of Korea buys gold as dollar, euro lose clout

SEOUL, 2 Aug—South Korea spent more than a billion dollars in its first gold purchase in more than a decade, as uncertainty about global growth and sovereign debt push central banks around the world to diversify foreign reserves. A brittle global economic recovery and precarious debt conditions in the United States and Europe have boosted the safe-haven appeal of gold, lifting bullion to a record high on Friday.

The Bank of Korea said in a statement on Tuesday it bought 25 tonnes of gold over the past two months, raising its gold holding to 39.4 tonnes, news that helped lift spot gold by around $6 from late Monday. Reserve currencies, like the dollar and euro, “have been losing their clout since the recent global financial crisis partly due to abnormal monetary policy adopted in many countries and fiscal deficit problems,” said an official at the central bank who declined to be named because he was not authorized to speak to the media.—Reuters

Sun, heat a risk for cancer patients

BIRMINGHAM, 2 Aug—Because of their treatment, cancer patients are at higher risk from the sun so they should take precautions, US physicians advise. “Cancer patients may be more at risk for sun damage because of their treatment,” Dr Elizabeth Kvale, director of outpatient supportive care and survivorship at University of Alabama at Birmingham and associate scientist in the UAB Comprehensive Cancer Centre, says in a statement.

“Skin that has been treated with radiation therapy may lose some of its natural protective capacity because of the changes that occur with treatment. Radiation-exposed skin should be completely protected from sun exposure.” The American Society of Clinical Oncologists recommends skin cancer patients also should take special care to protect areas of skin being treated; dark, tightly woven fabrics are most effective.

Patients receiving chemotherapy are more sensitive to the sun’s rays and it is important to cover surgical scars because they may darken if exposed to the sun, Kvale says.

Toyota posts big first quarter loss hurt by quake, yen

TOKYO, 2 Aug—Toyota Motor Corp reported its first quarterly loss in two years on Tuesday as Japan’s biggest earthquake on record hammered production and the yen’s rise hit profitability on exports. The company raised its annual forecast.

The world’s biggest automaker made an operating loss of 108 billion yen ($1.4 billion) in the April-June quarter, compared to a 211.7 billion yen profit a year earlier. The result was better than the average loss estimate of 190 billion yen in a survey of six analysts by Thomson Reuters I/B/E/S.

The maker of the Prius and Camry sedans posted a net profit of 1.2 billion yen compared to a 190.5 billion yen net profit the previous year. Revenue fell 29.4 percent to 3.44 trillion yen.

For the full year to March 2012, Toyota raised its forecast for operating profit, which excludes earnings from China, to 450 billion yen. A poll of 20 analysts produced a forecast of 529.7 billion yen. Shares in Toyota are down 1.9 percent in the year-to-date, underperforming a 3.8 percent drop in the benchmark Nikkei average <.N225>, ($1 = 76.615 Japanese Yen).—Internet

Yet the deal won’t do much to help the economy either, economists said, at least in the short term.

Under the debt deal, discretionary spending, which excludes Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid, would be cut $21 billion in 2012 and $42 billion in 2013, according to an analysis by the Congressional Budget Office. Combined, the cuts will amount to about two-tenths of 1 percent of the economy’s total output during the two years. The impact “should be relatively minor,” says Brian Gardner, senior vice president at Keefe, Bruyette and Wood, an investment bank.

The spending cuts would increase to $75 billion in 2015 and $156 billion in 2021, the CBO estimates.—Internet

Small spending cuts to have little economic impact

WASHINGTON, 2 Aug—The deal reached by Congress to raise the debt ceiling and cut more than $2 trillion in public spending will probably have only a minor impact on the economy for the next two years.

Almost all the cuts would be made in 2014 or beyond. The approach heeds a warning by Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke and many private economists: Cutting too much too soon could harm the weak economic recovery.

New Zealand tourists injured in Vanuatu plane crash

WELLINGTON, 2 Aug—Authorities in Vanuatu are investigating whether a lack of airport runway lights may have contributed to a light plane crash Monday in Port Vila involving five New Zealand tourists.

The air taxi-Vanuatu Cesna 207 crash-landed on a golf course at the Warwick Le Lagon resort and spa hotel on Monday, Radio New Zealand International reported on Tuesday.

The New Zealand Ministry of Foreign Affairs (MFAT) said two New Zealanders were admitted to a hospital and were being treated for non-critical injuries.

Malaysia police hold two over ‘Facebook murder’

KUALA LUMPUR, 2 Aug—Malaysian police Tuesday said they have detained two people on suspicion of bludgeoning a man to death after he reportedly posted negative remarks about a girl he had “friended” on Facebook.

“The two men are in a police lock-up. They are being investigated for murder,” a senior police officer in the northern Kedah state familiar with the case told AFP on condition of anonymity.

Twenty-year-old Mohamad Amran Romli died in hospital Friday shortly after sustaining severe head injuries in an attack by two men believed to be brothers of the girl, the Malay language daily Berita Harian said.

The two men beat Amran with motorcycle crash helmets during the attack in an alley behind a supermarket in the town in Kedah state, it said.

Singapore again refutes human trafficking report released by US

SINGAPORE, 2 Aug—An inter-agency taskforce of Singapore on trafficking in persons has released a detailed response of five pages to a recent US report on human trafficking, local daily Straits Times reported on Tuesday.

The response was sent to the United States on Monday, weeks after the government reiterated and pointed out “inaccuracies and misrepresentations” in the latest annual report released by the US State Department released in June, the newspaper said.

The US report upgraded the ranking of Singapore to Tier Two, which means that it is among a group of countries making efforts to meet the US standard of human trafficking but does not yet meet the standards Singapore has earlier said it noted the change to Singapore’s ranking but is dismayed to find the report riddled with inaccuracies.

The report claimed that forced labor on fishing vessels has been found to have originated from Singapore, and that no trafficking victims were offered medical and other services at shelters in the past year.

Head-on bus collision kills at least 11 in Bangladesh

DHAKA, 2 Aug—A head-on collision between two passenger buses in Bangladesh’s Narasingdi district, some 51 km east of capital Dhaka, Tuesday morning left at least 11 people dead and more than 20 injured, local police said.

Md Fakhruddin, officer-in-Charge of Shipur Police Station in the district, told Xinhua over mobile phone, “At least 11 passengers were killed on the spot and over 20 sustained injuries in the head-on collision between the buses.”

The road accident which occurred at around 10:20 am local time also left some passengers of both the buses critically injured, he said.

All the injured in the crash were rushed to local hospitals and clinics, he said adding reason for the accident is not immediately available.

The South Asian nation has one of the highest fatality rates for road accidents in the world due mainly to shoddy highways, poorly maintained vehicles, violation of traffic rules by inept drivers and lack of monitoring of the traffic department.

In a disastrous road accident last month, at least 44 school students were killed when a truck carrying them overturned and plunged into a roadside ditch in Bangladesh’s Mirsharai sub-district of Chittagong divisional city, 242 km southeast of capital Dhaka.—Xinhua

Two AU troops die during suicide bomb raid

MOGADISHU, 2 Aug—A military official says two African Union soldiers were killed after troops shot two suicide bombers in Mogadishu, who then detonated their explosives.

Lt Col Paddy Ankunda, the spokesman for the African Union military opera- tion in Somalia, said two suicide bombers disguised as Somali soldiers entered an African Union base on Monday. AU soldiers shot and killed them, but two AU troops also were killed during the incident. The attack came at a base on the east side of Mogadishu’s largest market, Bakara, an area that AU troops seized during offensive action last week.

The African Union troops and Somali government control a little more than 60 percent of Mogadishu. al-Qaeda-linked mili-tants control the rest.

Panama police make massive heroin seizure

PANAMA CITY, 2 Aug—Panamanian police seized more than half a ton of heroin on the Caribbean coast, the largest seizure of the drug in the country’s history, an official said Monday.

Anti-drug prosecutor Javier Caraballo said police found the heroin inside an abandoned truck parked along a road in the remote coastal town of Gobea on Sunday. The drug was in 639 packages each package apparently weighing about one kilogramme.

The shipment originated in South America and was heading to North America, Caraballo said without giving any more details.

Drug gangs are active in most of Central America and are increasingly using the region to ship drugs and launder money.

Caraballo said authorities are still investigating whether the large heroin shipment is an isolated case or if drug traffickers are changing their way of trafficking drug, which in the region is usually done by people taping small packages to their bodies.—Internet

Indonesia landslide at Freeport gold mine kills one

JAKARTA, 2 Aug—Police say a landslide has killed an Australian engineer working at Freeport’s gold and copper mine in eastern Indonesia. Police spokesman Col Wachyono says the man was driving near the Grasberg mine in easternmost Papua Province early Tuesday when a wall of mud pushed his car into a 450-foot (150-metre) deep ravine. Rescuers have reached the scene but have been unable so far to retrieve the body.

Freeport, which boasts some of the world’s largest gold and copper reserves, could not immediately be reached for comment. Wachyono, who like many Indonesians uses one name, says the victim was an engineer for Redpath, a Canadian company that works for the Grasberg mine.—Internet

Toll from two Philippine storms rises to 70

MANILA, 2 Aug—The combined death toll from Tropical Storm Nock-ten and Typhoon Muifa in the Philippines has risen to 70, with threats of yet another storm in the rain-battered country, the government said Tuesday.

The toll, previously at 54, rose as two children were reported killed by a landslide at a quarry on the central island of Bohol on Sunday and another 14 victims were logged from Nock-ten, which hit last month. A total of 178 passengers and crew were rescued from a listing ship off the central port of Iloilo on Sunday, the National Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Council said.

The Philippines has been hit by two major storms in the past month with one of them, Typhoon Muifa, already seen heavy rainfall, the US National Weather Service said.

Tropical Storm Emily eyes Puerto Rico, Hispaniola

ROUSEAU, 2 Aug—Tropical Storm Emily was expected to bring heavy rain Tuesday to Puerto Rico after crossing the northeast Caribbean sea on a track that would take it near Haiti within 24 hours.

The storm was expected to bring up to 4 inches (10 centimetres) of rain to the Leeward and Windward islands and 6 inches (15 centimetres) to Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic, enough to cause flash floods and mud slides in areas that have already seen heavy rainfall, the US National Hurricane Centre said.

As the storm passed near Dominica, a weather official urged people to hunker down for the night. “We are just advising everyone to stay put, stay alert,” Senior Acting Meteorological Officer Cheryl Internet

Investigation of Alaska midair collision continues

ANCHORAGE, 2 Aug—A deadly midair collision between two small planes in Alaska over the weekend was marked by the same factor involved in another recent midair collision in the state — aircraft that were difficult to spot amid mountainous terrains, federal accident investigator said Monday. The two crashes about 200 miles apart already are prompting plans to hold safety meetings with pilots on ways to see other aircraft and to be seen, said National Transportation Safety Board investigator Larry Lewis.

He said depending on the weather, clouds can further camouflage planes. “It is really difficult to spot another airplane that’s airborne,” particularly if it is flying at the same altitude, he said. “When you’re looking at the same altitude, you’re actually looking at very smallest cross section of an airplane you can actually see.”

One death, 76 illnesses linked to ground turkey

WASHINGTON, 2 Aug—Federal officials say one person has died from salmonella poisoning that appears to be linked to eating ground turkey, but the government so far has declined to say who produced the meat or initiate a recall.

Seventy-six people in 26 states have been made sick from the same strain of the disease, which the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says is resistant to many commonly prescribed antibiotics. The CDC did not say where the person who died became sick and released no details about the death.

The illnesses date back to March, and the CDC said Monday that cultures of ground turkey from four retail locations between 7 March and 27 June showed salmonella contamination. The agency said preliminary information showed that three of the samples have been linked to the same production establishment but did not name the retailers or the manufacturers.—Internet

Blood pressure drop during dialysis may raise clot risk

Low blood pressure while undergoing dialysis puts patients at increased risk for clots where their blood vessels are connected to the dialysis machine, a new study says. Previous research had found that a sudden drop in blood pressure during dialysis can lead to short-term gastrointestinal, muscular and neurologic symptoms, and long-term problems such as stroke, seizure, heart damage and death.

This new study, led by researchers at Stanford University School of Medicine, examined data collected between 1995 and 2000 from 1,426 dialysis patients who took part in a clinical trial sponsored by the US National Institutes of Health.

Dialysis is a treatment for kidney-failure patients that uses a machine to cleanse their blood. Many patients are attached to the dialysis machine through a fistula, a surgically created vascular access point in the body that’s connected to the tubes that take and return blood to the dialysis machine. The analysis revealed that patients who experienced low blood pressure most often while undergoing dialysis were two times more likely to have a clotted fistula than those who had the fewest episodes of low blood pressure. “Our analysis shows another adverse consequence associated with a fallin blood pressure during dialysis for patients,” lead author and nephrologist Dr. Tara Chang said in a Stanford news release. “Vascular access is their lifeline. It’s required for dialysis and without dialysis, they’ll die.”—Internet
US to propose ammonium nitrate regulations

WASHINGTON, 2 Aug—More than 15 years after a fertilizer bomb was used to blow up a government building in Oklahoma City, killing 168 people, the federal government is proposing to regulate the sale and transfer of the chemical ammonium nitrate.

The proposal comes nearly four years after Congress gave the Homeland Security Department the authority to develop a programme to regulate the compound. Ammonium nitrate is one of the most common farm fertilizers in the world, and instructions for turning it into a bomb are available on the Internet. Its deadly potential was once again realized on 22 July, when a Norwegian man allegedly blew up a government building in his country, killing eight people with a bomb that investigators believe was made with ammonium nitrate. On Tuesday, the Homeland Security Department’s proposal is expected to be posted on the Federal Register website and the public will have 120 days to comment.—Internet

Heavy flooding swamps Manila, govt suspends work

MANILA, 2 Aug—Waist-deep floods have swamped the streets in the Philippine Capital after a night of monsoon rains closed down schools and government offices. Massive traffic jams are slowing down movement in many sections of the capital. No casualties have been immediately reported.

The northern Philippines has been battered by combined death toll from Tropical Storm Nock-ten and Typhoon Muifa in the Philippines has risen to 70, with threats of yet another storm in the rain-battered country, the government said Tuesday. Indoor air cleaners could help ease asthma symptoms in kids living with smokers

WASHINGTON, 2 Aug—Researchers have suggested that air cleaners could play an important role in easing asthma symptoms in children who live with smokers.

A Johns Hopkins Children’s Centre study of Baltimore City children who have asthma and live with smokers shows that indoor air cleaners can greatly reduce household air pollution and lower the rates of daytime asthma symptoms to those achieved with certain anti-inflammatory asthma drugs. The researchers have warned that although air cleaners improved the overall air quality in homes, they did not reduce air nicotine levels and did not counter all ill effects of second-hand smoke.—Internet

Japan police raid cult behind 1995 subway attack

TOKYO, 2 Aug—Japanese authorities on Monday raided buildings used by the doomsday cult behind the 1995 deadly sarin nerve gas attack on the Tokyo subway, news reports said.

Some 300 officers of the Public Security Intelligence Agency were mobilised for the inspection of 27 offices and practice halls of the Aum Supreme Truth cult across the nation, according to Kyodo News. The cult, founded by Shoko Asahara, has been divided into two groups, with its mainstream renamed Aleph and a splinter group being called Circle of Rainbow Light. Asahara lost a final appeal against his death sentence for ordering his cult to release sarin on rush-hour trains on 20 March, 1995, killing 12 people and injuring thousands.—Internet

Barclays profits slide 38%, flags job cuts

LONDON, 2 Aug—Banking group Barclays said Tuesday that interim net profit slid 38 percent and warned it could axe some 3,000 jobs this year as it slashes costs in a “lacklustre” global economic environment.

Earnings after tax dived to £1.50 billion ($2.44 billion, 1.72 billion euros) in the six months to June, compared with £2.43 billion in the same part of the previous year, the bank said in a results statement.

Profits sank sharply as investment division revenues fell and after the group set aside £1.0 billion to compensate clients who were misled over credit insurance.

Market expectations had been for net profit of £1.31 billion, according to analysts polled by Dow Jones Newswires. Barclays added in the statement that it had axed 1,400 jobs during the first half of the year.

Chief Executive Bob Diamond, talking to reporters on a conference call, indicated that this trend was likely to continue in the second half. That would give approximately 3,000 job losses over the entire year.

“You should assume this trend to continue and increase somewhat,” Diamond said.

Pre-tax profit meanwhile sank 33 percent to £2.64 billion, compared with £3.95 billion last time around.

However, stripping out the £1.0-billion provision, Barclays said its interim pre-tax profit rose 24 percent to £3.68 billion, boosted by lower bad debt charges.—Internet

Emissions scheme due for rough landing

BEIJING, 2 Aug—Air transport associations and 21 airlines from home and abroad expressed strong opposition at a seminar on Monday against an EU plan to force countries into its Emissions Trading Scheme (ETS). Starting 1 Jan, all airlines flying to Europe will be required by the EU to be included in the ETS, a system that compels polluters to buy permits for each ton of carbon dioxide they emit above a certain cap. Those who do not join the system will face fines and flight suspensions.

Airlines said that they are required to buy permits for emissions released over the whole flight, only a small percentage of which may actually be in EU airspace.
Crop circle creation theory: physics, not aliens

Salem (Oregon), 2 Aug—Those otherworldly crop circles may not have been caused by aliens after all. Instead, think physics: A study in Physics World points to the possibility that the patterns could be caused by Earth-bound microwaves, lasers and GPS. Maybe.

Formations in fields have been documented more than 10,000 times in the late 20th century. They have been credited to everything from paranormal activity to human hijinks to the weather—and in some cases, even wallabies (more on that later).

Further fueling the mystery is that the farmland designs are done in secret, usually in the dark—and often by jokers who want to make it seem like Martians at work. It wasn’t until 1991 that the first pranksters admitted to have created at least some of the crop circles as a UFO hoax. What’s become of these crop circles is now being studied by the University of Oregon to rule out at least some traditional explanations of the tools involved in creating the circles. Taylor contends that in the modern age, planks and ropes (to flatten plants) and even bar stools to jump from one area to another undetected, are just too cumbersome to produce results in the comparatively brief period of their creative incubation. Instead, he argued that latter-day crop-circle auteurs use high-tech gadgets such as GPS monitors to place the shapes and magnetrons (tubes that use electricity and magnetism to generate intense heat) to cause the crop stalks to fall over at high speed.—Internet

Mexico, Colombia to step up anti-crime co-op

Mexico City, 2 Aug—Mexican President Felipe Calderon and his visiting Colombian counterpart Juan Manuel Santos inked several agreements here Monday to enhance cooperation against the organized crime.

The two presidents lauded existing bilateral cooperation in that area, which, they said, made the two countries “more united than ever.”

“We are closing the criminal organizations’ space,” Calderon told reporters, adding that the transnational organized crime poses “one of the greatest challenges our countries have.”

For his part, Santos said the signed agreements would also benefit Central American and Caribbean countries. He urged continued efforts to combat crimes so that drug cartels in his country could be eliminated in several years. “Don’t stop the fight, it is an expensive one. But if you want to succeed, you have to persist.”

Santos arrived here Saturday for an official visit which runs through Thursday.—Xinhua

Indian aviation regulator orders checking of Boeing-777 engines

New Delhi, 2 Aug—India’s civil aviation regulator has ordered a thorough examination of engines on all Boeing-777 aircraft flying with the country’s carriers, local media reported Tuesday.

The move follows a probe into a recent burnout of an engine that happened when an Air India B-777 was winging its way from the Indian capital to New York and then had to come back to IGI airport here, The Times of India newspaper reported.

The engine’s low pressure turbine and its tail cone were later found to be severely damaged.

“All engines on B-777s that have completed 1,000 cycles will be given boroscopic checks within the next three weeks,” the Directorate General of Civil Aviation chief Bharat Bhushan was quoted as saying.—Xinhua

S Korea receives first surveillance aircraft

Seoul, 2 Aug—South Korea on Monday received its first 737 airborne early warning and control (AEW&C) aircraft from Boeing.

The Defence Acquisition Programme Administration (DAPA) said in a press release that the aircraft, named “Peace Eye”, landed at the Air Force base in Gimhae, about 450 km southeast of Seoul.

Under a 1.6 billion US dollars contract signed in November 2006, Boeing is to deliver four 737 AEW&C aircraft to South Korea by 2012.

The surveillance aircraft, based on Boeing’s 737-700, is equipped with a multi role electronically scanned radar antenna and can detect and monitor up to 1,000 airborne or surface targets simultaneously within a 370-km radius.

The first aircraft will be deployed with the South Korean Air Force by September after undergoing test flights and acceptance trials, the DAPA said.

The Expo Shanghai Group, which is currently in charge of managing the Expo Park, opened a bid on Monday for the Baosteel Stage, which hosted two million visitors and over 900 shows during the expo, according to statistics released by the expo’s organizing committee.

Potential bidders should include their plans for the functional orientation of the venue, as well as renovation designs, income and expense budgets and operational details, said Chen Zhu, director of the Expo Shanghai Group’s department of culture.

Bidders should submit their proposals within one month, and the future naming would be subject to terms of the successful bid, she said.

The Expo Shanghai Group plans to choose a feasible plan in October and open the stage to the public next summer, Chen said.

Drought-hit bears head to town in Texas

Texas and the drought making it difficult to find water and food, the feared animals have been making their way increasingly into towns and cities.

“They’re going to where they need to,” said Louis Harveson, professor of wildlife management at Sul Ross State University. “They’re scavengers — they’re basically an oversized raccoon.”

When West Texas resident Penny Ferguson recently returned from an early morning workout, her beagle began barking wildly, and Ferguson ran outside to keep it from waking the neighbours.

“A full-grown black bear on all fours, so big its shoulders reached her hips, was on her front lawn near the bird feeder. The bear ran out from under Ferguson’s front window and casually lounged across the street.

Klinsmann introduced as new US soccer coach
Jürgen Klinsmann, of Germany
NEW YORK, 2 Aug — Jürgen Klinsmann sometimes sounds more like a youth development director for US soccer than the new men’s national team coach. The former German player and coach was introduced Monday, and he spent much of the time talking about how to mold future American stars, not managing current ones. “It all starts down to develop the next Landon Donovan,” Klinsmann said of the United States one day contending for World Cup titles. And “one day” is the key phrase; he believes “we still are a quite long way away from that.” “You need maybe 10 Landon Donovans at different positions with different characteristics in order to one day be there,” Klinsmann said in an interview. Perhaps it’s partly a way to temper expectations as he takes over from Bob Bradley, whose firing was announced on Thursday.—Internet

Ramos warns of Inter threat in Champions League
MADRID, 2 Aug — Inter Milan represent a major obstacle to Real Madrid’s desperate quest to win the Champions League under boss Jose Mourinho, defender Sergio Ramos said on Monday. And Ramos admitted the Spanish giants will need to gel quickly if they are to succeed in the world’s biggest club competition. “This is quite a new team and we need to adjust to each other,” said the Spanish international, speaking in the sweltering southern Chinese city of Guangzhou ahead of a pre-season friendly against a local side. It’s too early to make predictions about who will win the Champions League, the defender claimed.—Internet

Juventus sign Montenegro forward Vucinic
ROME, 2 Aug — Former AC Milan striker Mirko Vucinic from AS Roma on Monday. The 27-year-old has signed a four-year deal and cost Juventus 15 million euros, to be payable over three years. He is the fifth major signing made by Juve this close season following the arrival of midfielders Andrea Pirlo from AC Milan and Arturo Vidal from Bayer Leverkusen as well as full-backs Stephan Lichtsteiner (Lazio) and Reto Ziegler (Sampdoria). Former AC Milan forward and current Montenegro Football Federation president Dejan Savicevic said Juve had done well to procure Vucinic’s services.—Internet

Wilshere tells Wenger to sign new players
LONDON, 2 Aug — Arsenal midfielder Jack Wilshere admits Arsene Wenger must sign several new players before the Gunners can be regarded as serious challengers for the Premier League title. Wilshere, 19, was one of the few success stories from another frustrating season at the Emirates Stadium last term, but the England international believes Arsenal would go from pretenders to contenders if Wenger splashes the cash.

The Arsenal boss, whose side finished fourth last season, has been slow to spend once again, with only Lille striker Gervinho his only major purchase in pre-season. Wenger has been linked with moves for Valencia winger Juan Mata, Everton defender Phil Jagielka and Blackburn centre-back Christopher Samba, but has so far failed to land any of them with the new campaign just two weeks away.—Internet

Bayern see off minnows Braunschweig in Cup
MUNICH, 2 Aug — German giants Bayern Munich booked their place in the second round of the German Cup on Monday night as they laboured to a 3-0 win over second division Eintracht Braunschweig. Germany forward Thomas Mueller played a big role in the victory as he earned two first-half penalties before he hooked in a shot in the 83rd minute to claim a goal of his own. The spot-kicks Mueller earned with darting runs before being hauled down had earlier been converted by fellow German stars Mario Gomez, after nine minutes, and Bastian Schweinsteiger, on 39 minutes.

While Bayern were rarely tested, it was far from convincing display from Jupp Heynckes-coached Munich who opened their Bundesliga campaign on Sunday at the Allianz Arena against Borussia Moenchengladbach. Bayern, who were without both star wingers Dutchman Arjen Robben and France’s Franck Ribery, avoided becoming a fifth Bundesliga casualty after Bayer Leverkusen, VfL Wolfsburg, Freiburg and Werder Bremen all suffered first-round shocks over the weekend.—Internet

Rangers, Kiev battle for Euro survival
GLASGOW, 2 Aug — Under-pressure Glasgow Rangers and Dynamo Kiev both need to clinch away victories to avoid exiting the Champions League at the qualifying round stage this week. Scottish champions Rangers lost 1-0 at Ibrox last week to Malmo and head to Sweden knowing that in 55 years the club has never come back from losing a home leg to win a European tie. But manager Ally McCoist, who took over from Walter Smith in the summer, believes Saturday’s 2-0 league win over St Johnstone could prove the key to overturning the deficit on Wednesday. “I firmly believe that on chances created in the second-half against Malmo that we can turn it around,” said McCoist. “Even against St Johnstone we created a fantastic number of goal-scoring opportunities and I believe we will do that over in Malmo. I really believe that if we take them we will win the game.” Dynamo’s hopes of making the play-off round — the next step in the tournament before the lucrative group stage kicks in — depend on overturning a 2-0 home loss to Russia’s Rubin Kazan.—Internet

Williams was sidelined for almost a year until June with foot injuries and blood clots on her lungs, and slid to 175th in the rankings when she failed to defend her Wimbledon title — her lowest spot in 14 years. The 29-year-old American can take a week off before playing in Toronto to prepare for the US Open, beginning 29 August. The top 10 in the rankings remained unchanged with Caroline Wozniacki at No 1.—Internet

Brazil return to form at Austrians expense

BRAZIL, 2 Aug— Brazil have claimed top spot on goal difference in Group E at Colombia 2011 following a comfortable 3-0 win over Austria in Barranquilla.

After an inconsistent display in drawing 1-1 in their opener against Egypt, Brazil returned to form in scoring the opener before the interval, while two further goals ensured the contest was over just past the hour mark.

Brazil took the initiative from the outset in warm conditions, and looked especially dangerous with free-kicks and crosses. Ney Franco’s side dominated the contest but at times were guilty of not being able to provide the final pass.

Henrique headed over for the South Americans just five minutes into the match, while at the other end Austria had a good chance of their own but Andreas Weimann was quickly closed down by goalkeeper Gabriel.

Henrique, arguably the most dangerous player on the field, was at it again soon after with his left foot strike saved by Samuel Radlinger.

Midway through the opening half Casemiro missed an incredible chance from close range. Receiving the ball from the left the Brazilian somehow contrived to miss an open goal, as he pushed his effort wide.

The South Americans finally broke the deadlock eight minutes before the break with a sumptuous team goal. Oscar exchanged passes with Coutinho, with the pair setting up Henrique, who only needed to push the ball home for Brazil’s 200th goal in the history of the competition.

The one-way traffic continued after the goal and Henrique twice almost scored just before half-time. He firstly fired wide from close range, before then striking the post with only the goalkeeper to beat.

Austria to their credit returned from the sheds with renewed determination and Weimann, after receiving a great pass from captain Michael Shimpelsberger, was denied only by an excellent Gabriel save.

However the Europeans were soon deflated as Brazil doubled their advantage. Dani洛 was brought down as he attempted to round the goalkeeper and Philippe Coutinho converted from the penalty spot.

The momentum was very much with the Brazilians now and Willian tried a spectacular volley in the penalty area only for the ball to fly over the crossbar. Henrique then narrowly failed to get on the end of a Coutinho cross.

The third and clinching goal finally arrived on 63 minutes with Willian converting after some superb lead-up work involving Oscar, Coutinho and Casemiro.

Plant evolved a bat beckoning beacon

LONDON, 30 July — A rainforest vine has evolved dish-shaped leaves to attract the bats that pollinate it, scientists have found. Tests revealed that the leaves were supremely efficient at bouncing back the sound pulses the flying mammals used to navigate. When the leaves were present the bats located the plant twice as quickly as when these echoing leaves were removed. A team of scientists in the UK and Germany reported its findings in the journal Science.

The study is the first to find a plant with “specialised acoustic features” to help bat pollinators find them using sound. Most bats send out pulses of sound to find their way around; the way they sense objects in their environment by sensing how these pulses bounce off them is known as echolocation.
