Vice-President Thiha Thura U Tin Aung Myint Oo

Potential of growth of trade turnover between our countries can reach over the next few years is fifty times as high

Belarusian Prime Minister Dr. Mikhail V. Myasnikovich

After diplomatic relations were established between the Republic of the Union of Myanmar and the Republic of Belarus in September 1999, Your Excellency’s visit is the first visit of the Head of Government of the Republic of Belarus.

Although Myanmar and Belarus are geographically far away, I sincerely believe that bilateral cooperation will further develop between the two countries at the end of your visit. I also consider that today’s forum, which is aimed at promoting bilateral economic cooperation, will bring about constructive results as well as friendship and understanding between businessmen and entrepreneurs from both countries.

During your visit, the Agreement between the Government of the Republic of the Belarus and the Government of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar on Trade and Economic Cooperation and Agreement between Ministry of Agriculture and Production of the Republic of Belarus and the Ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation of the Government of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar on cooperation in agriculture field were signed.

Furthermore, as regards the private sector, I am pleased to note that the Agreement on cooperation between the Belarusian Chambers of Commerce and Industry and the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Federation of Chambers of Commerce and Industry has also been signed. I am of the view that these agreements will contribute to promote future cooperation between the two countries.

According to the available data on bilateral trade, there remain many opportunities to further promote bilateral trade.

At present, Myanmar is undergoing administrative and economic transformations to develop the nation. Although the economy of the country is based on agriculture, strenuous efforts are being made to develop into an industrialized State.

As trade and investment are the driving force for national development, rules and regulations are being amended to keep pace with the changing times, with a view to promoting trade and investment.

OPENING OF NEW PAGE IN EDUCATION SECTOR

The greater the challenge, the more the concerted efforts are needed. Currently, Myanmar needs a large number of educated human resources. As investments from abroad will flow into the nation in line with the market-oriented economic system, the nation needs mainly educated youths in doing business to keep abreast of other nations. Thus, a new change in education sector should be welcomed for fulfilling the requirement of the educated.

Intellectuals and intelligentsia play an important role in building a democratic new nation. Likewise, education is a main pillar for development of human resources. In fact, every country puts largest investment in education sector. Parents, teachers and students are to join hands in improving education sector.

A remarkable change has been made in today’s education sector. The Private School Registration Law has already been issued. Though there were tuitions called private schools in the past, these institutions were suspended for various reasons. At that time, the youths were well-versed. It is needed to resume the routine of education system. However, there should not be a greater gap in education. It should not represent the education system for the elite. Education fee must be appropriate for all students. Educational institutions must give better service but they should not represent functions of tuition.

All the people are to provide assistance for monastic education and free schools. Government-owned schools are to catch up with private schools to be able to uplift education sector. All are to be aware of the activities of some self-seekers in educational service. All the people are to uphold fair vocations.

It should be delighted with emergence of outstanding teachers. They should turn out the students who abide by prescribed disciplines and public ethics with high physical and mental capabilities. So, we welcome emergence of private education institutions in perpetuity for producing larger number of outstanding human resources.

2.6 million Afghans at risk of hunger from drought

Mazar-e-Sharif (Afghanistan), 3 Dec—Zara, an Afghan mother of seven, doesn’t know what to tell her children when they ask about dinner.

“I simply tell them that we must wait until their father gets home to see if he’s going to bring anything,” she said, speaking from under a dusty blue burqa covering her from head to toe.

Zara, who uses just one name, is one of an estimated 2.6 million Afghans facing food shortages after one of the worst droughts to strike northern Afghanistan in a decade, according to Afghan officials and aid agencies. Already living in poverty in a country at war, many have been left destitute by the drought, which has affected 14 of Afghanistan’s 34 provinces — all in the north. Wells have dried up. Hundreds of children have been treated for malnutrition. Families are selling their animals at below-market prices.

People are moving to cities to try to find food, water, work and, in some cases, a refuge from the fighting.

At least 36 killed, 13 injured in road accident in Brazil

São Paulo, 3 Dec—At least 36 people were killed and 13 others were injured in a collision between two trucks and a bus driving along a road in the northeastern Brazilian state of Bahia on Saturday, officials were quoted by local media as saying.

Authorities are still investigating the cause of the accident in road BR116, in the municipality of Milagres, about 250 km from state capital of Salvador.

Nine killed in Iraq attacks

Baghdad, 3 Dec—Bomb and gun attacks in Iraq killed nine people, including four anti-Qaeda militia members, and wounded 30 others, security officials said on Friday.

“Four people were killed and seven wounded in two attacks by roadside bombs in the Taji area,” just north of Baghdad, an interior ministry official said.

The first attack targeted the home of Nadhem Karim Mohammed, a leader of anti-Qaeda Sahwa militia forces in Taji, killing him and his mother, the official said.

When police arrived at the scene, another bomb went off, killing two police and wounding seven others.

Three roadside bombs exploded in the disputed northern city of Kirkuk, killing a woman and wounding 15 other people, said Major General Turhan Abdul Rahman, deputy director general of Kirkuk police.

A roadside bomb killed a policeman and wounded six people, including three police, about 75 kilometres (45 miles) south of Kirkuk, police Lieutenant Colonel Khaled al-Bayati said.

Unknown gunmen attacked a Sahwa checkpoint in the Al-Sharqat area, 120 kilometres (75 miles) northeast of Tikrit, killing three Sahwa members and wounding two others, a police major said.

A security source also said that police had freed Ibrahim Zaki Khalaf al-Ajili, the teenage son of a prominent contractor in Tikrit, who was kidnapped on Thursday.—Internet

Seychelles invites China to set up anti-piracy presence

Victoria, 3 Dec—The Seychelles on Friday invited Beijing to set up a military presence on the archipelago to beef up the fight against piracy there, Foreign Affairs Minister Jean-Paul Adam said.

The declaration came as Liang Guanglie is making the first-ever visit by a Chinese defence minister to the Indian Ocean island state.

“We have invited the Chinese government to set up a military presence on Mahé to fight the pirate attacks that the Seychelles face on a regular basis,” Adam said.

“For the time being China is studying this possibility because she has economic interests in the region and Beijing is also involved in the fight against piracy,” he explained.

General Liang, who arrived in Victoria on Thursday with a 40-strong delegation, had been invited in October by Seychelles President James Michel, when he was on a visit to China.

“Together, we need to increase our surveillance capacity in the Indian Ocean... as Seychelles has a strategic position between Asia and Africa,” Michel said in a statement, adding that China had given its army two light aircraft.

The two countries signed a military cooperation agreement in 2004 that has enabled some 50 Seychelles soldiers to be trained in China. They renewed their agreement Friday, with China to provide further training and equipment.

If the Chinese military presence goes ahead, “it won’t be the first foreign military presence here because the Americans already have a small drone station here that they use in the fight against piracy,” Adam said.

After warships started deploying in the Gulf of Aden in 2008 to thwart attacks on vessels, Somali pirates enlarged their field of operations into the Indian Ocean, including towards the Seychelles.
Dollar rises on upbeat jobs data

NEW YORK, 3 Dec—The US dollar rose against major currencies in late New York trading on Friday as US unemployment rate dropped sharply in November. The US Labour Department said 120,000 new jobs were added to the economy in November and US unemployment rate dropped to 8.6 percent from 9 percent. The upbeat data helped to convince investors that the US jobs market was improving.

The dollar index rose 0.36 percent to 78.61 on Friday, German Chancellor Angela Merkel on Friday said that the summit of European leaders next week would focus on quick treaty changes aimed at tightening fiscal ties across the 17-nation euro zone. Also, it is reported that Germany and France promised to push for a closer fiscal union in the euro zone. However, the news failed to boost the euro as the shared currency dipped 0.45 percent against the dollar on Friday.

In late Friday trading, the dollar bought 87.49 Japanese yen, compared with 87.76 from late Thursday. The euro fell to 1.3406 dollars from 1.3460. The British pound also fell to 1.5998 dollars from 1.5609. The dollar rose from 0.9164 Swiss francs to 0.9208, and rose to 1.0178 Canadian dollars from 1.0150.—Xinhua

Pressure to be perfect parent can discourage new moms, dads

COLUMBUS, 3 Dec—First-time mothers and fathers have a tougher time adapting to their new roles if they believe society expects them to be perfect parents, a new study finds.

Researchers looked at 182 couples who became parents between 2008 and 2010, and found that mothers had less confidence in their parenting abilities and fathers felt more stress when they were more worried about what others thought of their parenting skills.

But, the study found, self-imposed pressure to be perfect was somewhat better for parents, especially fathers. This may be because the fathers in the study were highly involved in parenting and were motivated by high self-imposed standards. Or it may be because fathers still don’t carry the same burden for child care as mothers, the researchers said.

“Trying to be the perfect parent is a mixed bag,” study author Meghan Lee, a graduate student in human development and family science at Ohio State University, said in a university news release.

“If you think you have to be perfect because of outside pressure, it really hurts adjustment. If you put these demands on yourself, it may have some benefits early on, but it is not universally good,” she added.

The study appears online and will be published in a future print issue of the journal Personality and Individual Differences.

The parents in the study were assessed three months after their child was born, so it’s possible that the role of perfectionism may change over time, Lee noted.

Facebook to hire thousands, sees fast growth

NEW YORK, 3 Dec—Facebook, the social networking giant that is preparing to go public, said it plans to hire thousands of employees over the next year to keep up with what it expects to be rapid growth. “We are growing very quickly and have been through the economy,” Facebook Chief Operating Officer Sheryl Sandberg said at a Press conference. When asked if she asked that continue, she said: “That’s what we are betting on.”

Facebook does not publicly release its earnings, but a source with knowledge of its results told Reuters in September that the company posted nearly $500 million in net income in the first half of the year as revenue doubled from a year earlier to $1.6 billion.

Sandberg visited New York City on Friday to announce that her firm would start hiring engineers in the city, where it has a small Madison Avenue office with about 100 employees. The vast majority of its 3,000 workers are at its headquarters in Palo Alto, California, and a satellite campus in Seattle.

She did not say how many engineers Facebook would employ in New York or disclose exactly how many workers the firm will add in the coming year. It is expected to sell shares to the public in 2012.

“We are trying to grow at a clip that will allow us to get the very best people and integrate them,” she said at a Press conference where she was joined by New York Mayor Michael Bloom-berg and Senator Charles Schumer. “We will be adding thousands of employees in the next year.” Facebook currently leases 40,000 square feet of space for its advertising and marketing division on a single floor at 335 Madison Ave, also known as Bank of America Plaza. It is nearing a deal to close on another 40,000 square feet there, according to a source familiar with the transaction. Officials with Facebook did not immediately respond to a request for comment on that deal.

Health Tip: Watch your weight this holiday season

The holidays may represent excess, but you don’t have to let that translate to excess weight.

The Cleveland Clinic suggests how to ward off those holiday pounds:

* Despite the busy season, don’t skip exercise.
* Eat seven servings of fruits and veggies per day, both for nutrients and to help you stay full without all of the calories.
* Keep candy, cookies and other treats out of sight.
* Indulge in just one small treat per day.
* Make wise choices at the holiday party buffet. Politely decline if hosts keep pushing more food.
* Make holiday gatherings more about conversation and socializing than food.

China launches 10th satellite for independent navigation system

A Long March-3A carrier rocket lifts off at the Xichang Satellite Launch Centre in southwest China’s Sichuan Province, on 2 Dec, 2011. China successfully launched into space the tenth orbiter for its independent satellite navigation and positioning network known as Beidou, or Compass system, the launch centre said.

The satellite, launched from the Xichang Satellite Launch Centre in the southwestern Sichuan Province, was boosted by a Long March-3A carrier rocket into a geosynchronous orbit. It was also the 153rd launch of the Long March carrier rockets.

The basic structure of the Beidou system has now been established, and engineers are now conducting comprehensive system test and evaluation.

The system will provide test-run services of positioning, navigation and communication for China and the neighbouring areas before the end of this year, according to the authorities.

More satellites will be launched before the end of 2012 for the Beidou network, and its coverage area will be expanded with upgraded services.

The global satellite positioning and navigation system will be completed in 2020 with 30 satellites orbiting the earth.

Started in 2000, the Beidou satellite navigation system is designed to break China’s dependence on the US Global Positioning System (GPS). Xinhua

CO2 drop drove Antarctic ice birth

WEST LAFAYETTE, 3 Dec—A drop in carbon dioxide was the driving force behind the Antarctic ice sheet’s formation, one of the biggest climate events in Earth’s history, scientists say.

Researchers at Purdue and Yale universities said the role of the greenhouse gas in the Antarctic shows carbon dioxide’s importance in past climate change and points to CO2 as a significant force in present and future climate.

The team identified a threshold for low levels of carbon dioxide below which an ice sheet forms in the South Pole, but how much the greenhouse gas must increase before the ice sheet melts is still a mystery, they said in a release Thursday.

“The evidence falls in line with what we would expect if carbon dioxide is the main dial that governs global climate; if we crank it up or down there are dramatic changes,” Matthew Huber, a Purdue professor of earth and atmospheric sciences, said. “We went from a warm world without ice to a cooler world with an ice sheet overnight, in geologic terms, because of fluctuations in carbon dioxide levels.”

During a span of 100,000 years at the end of the Eocene epoch, temperatures fell dramatically, many species of animals became extinct, ice covered Antarctica and sea levels fell, researchers said.

“The onset of Antarctic ice is the mother of all climate ‘tipping points,’” Yale geochronist Mark Pagani said. “Recognizing the primary role carbon dioxide change played in altering global climate is a fundamentally important observation.”

YouTube remake spotlights TV-style channels

WASHINGTON, 3 Dec—YouTube on Thursday unveiled a major redesign that showcases television-style channels and promises slicker integration with other Google online properties.

The new YouTube home page features channels created by anyone from self-styled video lovers to professional television or movie studios. A side panel provides YouTube users easy tools to find channels tailored to interests and then “pin” favorites to stay tuned into new offerings. YouTube provides recommendations based on videos people watch or like. “The layout is a lot easier on the eyes and the feed is pretty awesome,” said DeStorm Power, a singer and songwriter who has risen to stardom on YouTube, where his channel has more than 1.16 million subscribers.

New YouTube pages makes it easy to sync channel updates to subscribers’ Twitter, Facebook or Google+ social network accounts, he noted. YouTube even changed its well-known logo to be more modern and closer in style to those used at other Google services. The redesign is being rolled out with an eye toward making YouTube look and work better on all Internet-linked devices from smartphones and tablets to television sets. “This is really the largest redesign and largest launch in YouTube’s history,” said group product manager Noam Lovinsky.

“As we carry the redesign across the site and all kinds of devices it really changes the game for content providers,” Lovinsky said. “Everyone is going to be vying for that precious spot on the home page.” The home page lets people switch channels television-style instead of hunting for video clip after clip.

In addition, arrangements are being made to enact new laws and regulations. Monetary matters relating to trade and investments are also under review to bring more benefits to businesses.

Potential investors are being invited to invest in various sectors. In the energy sector, the Ministry of Energy of Myanmar has opened opportunities for foreign investors in Upstream and Downstream sectors in oil and gas industry.

We note that minerals are included among the main exports of Belarus. Since Myanmar is endowed with rich mineral resources, we are willing to enter discussion on technical cooperation matters for exploration of rare minerals.

In this connection, I would also like to stress that cooperative opportunities exist for the application of new technologies to carry out scientific research in the agricultural sector and agriculture and food production.

Currently, 454 companies from 31 countries have made investments in Myanmar amounting to US$ 36.07 billion and investments are expected to increase further.

I would like to state that neighbouring countries and Asian countries are the main trading partners of Myanmar. Therefore, efforts are being made to increase trade with European countries and Myanmar would also like to increase exports to Belarus. Furthermore, we would like to invite businessmen and entrepreneurs from Belarus to come and invest in Myanmar.

After that, the Belarusian Prime Minister delivered an address. He said:

We of two nations have introduced ourselves. This year, the volume of foreign trade between Belarus and Myanmar grew ten times. That is good for both our countries.

Indian skies safe despite ‘fake’ pilots, says regulator

NEW DELHI, 3 Dec—It began with a dangerous landing and has resulted in 16 pilots being sacked. India’s fake flying licence scam proved a severe challenge for the country’s airline safety regulator.

But in an interview with AFP, the head of the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) said a crackdown on pilots that involved surprise and random checks had successfully identified the fraudsters.

“We now are doing thorough checks of all the licences that are being issued. We have left the scandal behind us,” said EK Bharat Bhushan. “We will do whatever it takes to clean up the entire system.”

He also said Indian skies were safe despite the evidence of qualification fraud — a problem found in other sensitive sectors in corruption-plagued India, including medicine.

“It is certainly not unsafe to fly with an Indian carrier,” he said. “If you look at our records, it’s not bad. There haven’t been a lot of accidents.”

“We maintain close surveillance over both airplanes and airports.”

But questions remain over whether the under-resourced DGCA is capable of probing deep enough into a problem that has caused profound anxiety for travellers in India. The fake licence scam came to light after a pilot with the private airline IndiGo landed her Airbus aircraft on the nose wheel instead of the rear wheels in March this year.

219-pound boy shows growing problem of extreme obesity

CLEVELAND, 3 Dec—The case of a 219-pound 8-year-old boy taken from his mother for health reasons spotlights a problem that has almost tripled in the US in the last 30 years — cases of extreme child obesity.

“Not only do we have a higher percentage of kids who are obese but a higher percentage of children who are severely obese,” said Dr Garry Sigman, director of adolescent medicine and associate professor of pediatrics at Loyola University Medical Centre near Chicago, in an interview with Reuters. According to the Centres for Disease Control and Prevention, approximately 17 percent or 12.5 million of children and adolescents aged 2 to 19 years are obese, as opposed to merely overweight. Obesity in children is defined by the CDC as having a body mass index (BMI) at or above the 95th percentile for children of the same age and sex. “Overweight” is defined as a BMI at or above the 85th percentile.

About 2 million US children have a BMI at or beyond the 90th percentile, according to a July article on childhood obesity in the Journal of the American Medical Association, co-authored by Harvard University child obesity expert Dr David S Ludwig.

Hong Kong police seek two over deadly market blaze

HONG KONG, 3 Dec—Hong Kong police said Friday they are seeking two men seen at a popular tourist market shortly before a blaze broke out that left nine people dead and highlighted the city’s deepening housing crisis.

Firefighters said the blaze erupted simultaneously at both ends of the market, a popular place for locals and tourists to look for cheap deals on everything from curtains to clothes and mobile phone accessories.

The pandas, which were both born in 2003 and have been living in Sichuan Province, will fly to Edinburgh on a Boeing 777 freighter courtesy of FedEx.

They will spend a couple of weeks settling in before being put on public display, and the zoo has already reported a huge spike in ticket sales.

Edinburgh Zoo is paying about $1 million (750,000 euros) a year, choosing from 25 different varieties, most of them imported from the Netherlands. As of 16 December, visitors to the zoo will be able to look in on the outdoor enclosure, while “panda-cams” placed at strategic locations will allow Internet users to view the movements of Yang Guang during daylight hours.

EDINBURGH, 3 Dec—Two giant pandas are set to arrive at Edinburgh Zoo in Scotland on Sunday in an eagerly anticipated ten-year loan from China, agreed after years of high-level political and diplomatic negotiations.

Mass electrocution kills 140 flamingos in India

NEW DELHI, 3 Dec—Nearly 140 greater flamingos were killed in a wildlife sanctuary in western India when they were startled and flew into a string of high tension power lines, a forest official said Friday.

Tens of thousands of flamingos turn the flat, warm marshes of the Khadir Region of Gujarat State into a sea of pink every year when they fly in from Siberia to breed.

This year, their numbers were unusually high, with around 500,000 birds making the migratory flight from Siberia, district chief conservator of forests DK Sharma told AFP.

Sharma said the mass electrocution took place some 12 days ago, when a large flock of flamingos was startled at night by the noise of a vehicle.

“The entire flock took off. Many of them flew straight into the electric wires and 139 were killed instantly,” he said.

Honda announces global recall for air bag problems

TOKYO, 3 Dec—Honda Motor Co is recalling 304,000 vehicles globally for air bags that may inflate with too much pressure in a crash, send metal and plastic pieces flying and cause injuries or deaths.

Honda said there have been 20 accidents so far related to the problem, including two deaths in the US in 2009.

The Japanese automaker announced the recall Friday, which affects the Accord, Civic, Odyssey, Pilot, CR-V and other models manufactured in 2001 and 2002. The recall spans 273,000 vehicles in the US, some 27,000 in Canada, nearly 2,000 vehicles in Japan and another 2,000 in other countries. It affects 359 vehicles in Europe — 200 in Germany, 158 in Israel and one in Britain, according to Honda.

The latest recall is an expansion of recalls for the same problem in 2008, and again carried out in 2009, as well as last year.

GM to recall 993 vehicles in China

BEIJING, 3 Dec—US automaker General Motors Co and its Chinese joint venture Shanghai GM will recall 993 vehicles in China, the country’s consumer quality watchdog said Friday. The vehicles being recalled include 124 Opel Antara SUVs and 869 Chevrolet Captiva SUVs, which were all manufactured between 26Aug and 15 Sept, the General Administration of Quality Supervision, Inspection and Quaran-tine (AQSIQ) said in an online statement.

In reports submitted to the AQSIQ, the automakers said a faulty joint in the vehicles’ fuel tank filler tubes may cause the tubes to become disconnected, with oil leaks possible in extreme situations. The automakers said they will notify customers about the recall and replace affected cars with new oil tanks.

Danmark to greatly enhance export to emerging markets

COPENHAGEN, 3 Dec—Denmark will ramp-up economic relations with emerging markets as trade with developed economies stagnates, Danish Minister for Trade and Investment Pia Olsen Dyhr said Friday.

“We need a long-term view when it comes to exports. We cannot just rely on our near markets, especially not at the moment where we can see our near markets decreasing,” she told a news briefing at the International Press Centre.

Some 70 percent of Danish exports currently go to ‘near markets’ in Europe, such as Sweden, Germany and Britain, while 7 percent go to the US, the next biggest export destination outside the EU. In comparison, exports to BRIC countries, namely Brazil, Russia, India and China, contributed only 5 percent of Denmark’s overall exports, according to 2009 data from Denmark’s Foreign Ministry.

But as demand in the EU and the US declines as a result of low economic growth and sovereign debt problems, emerging markets look increasingly attractive.

The Confederation of Danish Industry says Denmark’s total exports to emerging economies could rise 14 percent by 2030, with exports to China comprising nine percent of the total. “It is not only to Brazil, Russia, India and China, but also the next eleven growth economies. We have to expand exports to these markets to ensure Danish GDP growth in the long term,” Dyhr said.

Vietnam attracts $12.7 billion from FDI so far this year

HANOI, 3 Dec—Vietnam attracted nearly 12.7 billion US dollars from foreign direct investment (FDI) as of 20 November, a decrease of 16.2 percent year-on-year, according to the General Statistics Office on Friday.

Of the figure, new registered capital was 9.9 billion US dollars from 9,919 newly-licensed projects, and nearly 2.8 billion US dollars from 354 expanded projects. Manufacturing accounted the most, with 6.2 billion US dollars, followed by the electricity, gas and water sector with nearly 2.5 billion US dollars, and construction with 1.1 billion US dollars.

In the first 11 months, 48 cities and provinces attracted new FDI projects, of which Hai Duong Province took the lead with 2.5 billion US dollars (25.2 percent of the total), followed by southern Ho Chi Minh City with 1.9 billion US dollars (19.4 percent), and Ba Ria-Vung Tau Province with 880.8 million US dollars.

China’s Hong Kong took the lead among foreign investors in Vietnam during the period, with 44 new projects and newly-registered capital of 2.9 billion US dollars, followed by Japan with 172 projects and 1.6 billion US dollars, and Singapore with 86 projects and 1.43 billion US dollars.

Massive spending cut expected in Spanish autonomous community

MADRID, 3 Dec—The Spanish autonomous community of Castilla-La Mancha will face massive spending cut, Dolores de Cospedal, the president of Castilla-La Mancha said on Friday. The austerity measures include pay cuts of an average of 3 percent for Castilla-La Mancha’s 70,000 public employees, coupled with an increase in the working week from 35 to 37.5 hours, said Dolores de Cospedal.

Speaking at a Press conference from the Presidential office in Castilla-La Mancha, Dolores de Cospedal said that the measures would save around 350 million euros (472.5 million US dollars).

Castilla-La Mancha will also say goodbye to free school textbooks and some free transport services for pensioners on low incomes, while international cooperation aid is also being cut. “Sweat today will help avoid tears tomorrow,” said Dolores de Cospedal, who held that the measures were needed to avoid the “total collapse” of social services and that the entry of private management into the public health service would not affect services to patients.

Dolores de Cospedal is also the General Secretary of the PP, which was elected to power in Spain with 186 of the 350 seats in Congress last month.

Woman admits trying to poison daughters

Brisbane, 3 Dec — A 42-year-old woman who tried to drug her two daughters has been given a suspended sentence by a Brisbane judge. The woman, who cannot be named, pleaded guilty in the Supreme Court to two counts of administering a poison with intent to harm and one of common assault.

Prosecutor Todd Fuller told the court the woman made a concoction of painkillers and soft drink at her Mount Ommaney home in January 2009. She then gave it to her daughters then aged seven and 11, telling them they would “sleep for a very long time.”

Her lawyer Simon Lewis said the woman had been under significant stress due to an acrimonious divorce, but her life was now stable and she enjoyed a good relationship with her daughters. Acting Justice Julie Dick sentenced her to 18 months in jail, but wholly suspended the term.

China Eastern Airlines has promised to co-operate with the investigation

China Eastern Airlines to improve pilots’ English

Shanghai, 3 Dec — China Eastern Airlines has vowed to improve its pilots’ English amid claims a plane took off without clearance from air traffic controllers in Japan.

On Monday the Shangai-bound plane took to the skies after apparently being told to stay on the runway and then to abort take-off at Osaka airport.

The plane landed safely in Shanghai later. The airline says it is co-operating with Japan’s investigation. It says it will also “regulate our flight crews’ English communications.”

Flight MU516, with 245 people on board, was due to fly from Osaka’s Kansai International Airport to Shanghai. As air traffic controllers were talking to an approaching helicopter they told the plane to halt on the runway, Kyodo news agency reports. But the Airbus A330 began to take off instead and disobeyed further instructions to abort, Kyodo reported. Japan’s Transport Ministry says that although the plane had enough room between itself and other aircraft nearby, the pilot might have broken the country’s aviation laws.

Chicken liver food poisoning link

London, 3 Dec — Over 90% of cases of a common form of food poisoning seen this year were due to people eating undercooked chicken liver, often at weddings, infection experts have said. The Health Protection Agency (HPA) has re-equipped caterers to cook poultry livers to prevent infection.

Campylobacter is the most common cause of bacterial food poisoning in Britain — there were estimated to have been more than 600,000 cases in 2010 in England and Wales.

Symptoms include diarrhoea, stomach pains and cramps, fever, and generally feeling unwell. Most people are only ill for a few days. In 2008 there were just three outbreaks linked to undercooked chicken liver pate, but that rose to nine in 2009 and 14 in 2010.

Poultry livers carry a particularly high risk of Campylobacter as the bacterium can be present throughout the liver, not just the surface as is the case for other poultry meat, and may remain a source of infection if they are not cooked sufficiently.

Angry farmers dump deadly cobras on tax office floor

Lucknow, 3 Dec — Two farmers, including a snake charmer, were so angry at tax officials in northern India that they dumped dozens of snakes, including four deadly cobras, on the tax office, The Guardian reports. The snake charmer says the farmers on Tuesday were protesting alleged demands for bribes by officials in exchange for tax records in Basti, 185 miles southeast of Lucknow, the British newspaper says.

“Snakes started climbing up the tables and chairs,” said a local official, Ramashish Sharma, according to the newspaper.

Leicester research uncovers stroke symptoms

Leicester, 3 Dec — Researchers in Leicester say they have uncovered two more symptoms that might indicate someone is having a stroke. A project by the University Hospitals of Leicester NHS Trust found leg weakness and loss of vision were strong indicators to look out for. A recent NHS campaign advised people to check if a patient’s face had fallen to one side, if they could raise both arms or had slurred speech. Professor Ross Naylor said people should look out for five signs.

“The [NHS] Fast campaign was very successful, but it’s important that people know leg weakness and loss of vision are also signs to look out for,” he said.

“It’s my fear that many people may not be aware that anyone experiencing one or both of these additional signs, on their own or with one of the already recognised symp-
US professor is dumpster-diving urban Robin Hood

Jeff Ferrell, a professor of sociology at Texas Christian University, is pictured in his shop where he has organized thousands of useful but discarded items he has collected from dumpsters in Fort Worth, Texas on 30 Nov, 2011.

University professor Jeff Ferrell is something of a US urban Robin Hood, although what he gives away is not stolen but the result of dumpster diving.

The Texas Christian University (TCU) professor of sociology sifts through dumpsters and gives the vast majority of what he finds to the needy or to friends.

He has also managed to furnish his living room with what is left, filled a tool shed with a collection of everything from screws to power tools and never pays for a bar of soap or office supplies.

Ferrell, 57, has been given to giving scavenged food to friends, in the form of prepackaged, never-opened cocktail nuts. And because he gathers the goods on a bicycle, most of his finds are from dumpsters near his home.

More than $100,000 dropped by courier van

Police in Pennsylvania said the back doors of a bank courier van came open in transit, scattering more than $100,000 cash to the winds.

Upper St Clair Police Lt James Englert said the driver of the van, owned by Fidelity Courier Services of Sharon, Pa, was flagged down by a motorist Wednesday near the intersection of Route 19 and Boyce Road. Police said motorists had pulled over to collect the flying bills, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette reported. Englert said officers were able to recover about $400, but cash totaling “well into six figures” remained missing Wednesday night.

Police said people who collected the cash and failed to return it could face theft charges.

“This is not a free-for-all situation,” Englert said. “Obviously, this money is … bank property.”

Marilyn Monroe’s unseen 3D photos set to rake in 57 pound at auction

LONDON, 3 Dec—Marilyn Monroe’s unseen photographs showing the legendary screen icon living the high life at an exclusive celeb party are to go under the hammer.

The images, which are valued at a staggering 57,000 pounds were clicked by amateur photographer Lani Carlson in San Diego in 1952.

Carlson was working as a sound engineer at legendary crooner Ray Anthony’s “launch party” for the hit song ‘Marilyn’, which was written by Ervin Drake and Jimmy Shirl. As the show stopping Marilyn descended in a helicopter, the amateur snapper quickly used his new state-of-the-art camera to take these amazing images.—Internet

Mayans never predicted world to end in 2012

If you are worried the world will end next year based on the Mayan calendar, relax: the end of time is still far off. So say Mayan experts who want to dispel any belief that the ancient Mayans predicted a world apocalypse next year.

The Mayan calendar marks the end of a 5,126 year old cycle around 12 December, 2012 which should bring the return of Bolon Yokte, a Mayan god associated with war and destruction.

Author Joseph Arguelles called the date “the ending of all knowledge.” It was in 1987 book known it“ in a 1987 book that spawned an army of Mayan theorists, whose speculations on a cataclysmic end abound online. But specialists meeting at this ancient Mayan city in southern Mexico say it merely marks the termination of one period of creation and the beginning of another.

I don’t need Spice Girls reunion

LONDON, 3 Dec—Former Spice Girls singer Mel C says she doesn’t “need” a reunion of the band.

The 37-year-old released her fifth solo album, “The Sea”, earlier this year and says that she will rather concentrate on that than going back to the girl group, who are rumoured to be getting back together to perform at the London 2012 summer Olympics. “I don’t need that (reunion). Sure, it was great being on stage again with Victoria (Beckham), Emma (Bunton), Mel (B) and Geri (Halliwell) in 2007. But at the moment we don’t have any further plans. I’d rather focus on my solo career. Then I don’t need to compromise,” contact-music.com quoted the 37-year-old as saying.—Internet

Andre Villas-Boas says Chelsea's form against the top teams has not been good enough

LONDON, 3 Dec—Chelsea's under-fire manager Andre Villas-Boas has conceded that the form his side has exhibited against the big teams "has not been good enough." The Blues have lost to Arsenal, Manchester United and Liverpool this season, with their second defeat to the latter coming in the League Cup on Tuesday. Villas-Boas has been criticised recently for Chelsea's slump in form and the team's next few games could prove vital in its chances of winning a trophy come the end of this season.

Chelsea travels to Newcastle on Saturday to face Alan Pardew's side, which castle on Saturday to face this season.

"Our form against the top teams has not been good enough. Valencia [is] life and death for both clubs," the Portuguese manager told reporters. "I don’t think confidence is at crisis point, we just have to pull ourselves together. We can only work hard and believe we can revert the situation. "It’s only a crisis at the end of the season when you look at how many trophies you have won."

Chelsea routs Newcastle 3-0 in Premier League

LONDON, 3 Dec—Didier Drogba's first-half header and late strikes by forwards Samson Kalou and Daniel Sturridge earned Chelsea a 3-0 win over Newcastle in the Premier League on Saturday, lifting the team into the top four and maintaining its title challenge.

Drogba capped a dominant first-half showing by the visitors by meeting Juan Mata’s cross with a powerful finish in the 38th minute, before Kalou and Sturridge wrapped up victory in the final few minutes.

Chelsea midfielder Frank Lampard had a penalty saved in the 13th but Newcastle will still count themselves unlucky after hitting the woodwork three times.

Spain on course for Davis Cup win after singles wins

MADRID, 3 Dec—Spain are just one win away from winning tennis' Davis Cup for the fifth time after Rafael Nadal and David Ferrer won the first two singles rubbers of the final on Friday.

Victory for Feliciano Lopez and Juan Carlos Verdasco in Saturday's doubles will assure Spain defeat Argentina and render Sunday's last two singles games unnecessary. Rafael Nadal got the Spanish off to a flying start as he swept to a straight sets win of 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 against Juan Monaco.

Cheered on by a partisan crowd of over 27,000, Nadal looked to have totally recovered from the poor form which affected him in the Davis Cup as he dominated from start to finish. David Ferrer also had a positive start in the second singles rubber of the day, taking the first set 6-4 against Juan Martin del Potro. As expected the Spanish looked perfectly at home on the very slow beaten clay surface that had been prepared in the Estadio de la Cartuja.

Del Bosque warns of Italian threat in Euro 2012

MADRID, 3 Dec—Spain coach Vicente del Bosque was cautious about his side's chances of success in the 2012 European Championship after the draw was held in Kiev on Friday. Spain travel to the country on Monday which will be held in Poland and the Ukraine as defending Europe and world champions and with a 100 percent record from qualifying, but will have to face Italy, the Republic of Ireland and Croatia in a complicated Group stage.

Reflecting on the lack of draws for the website of sports paper, diario Marca afterwards, Del Bosque warned that Spain would have to work hard to reach the knockout stages. "It is going to be difficult, there are 16 strong rivals in the competition and each of them has the same level of difficulty," said Del Bosque, who admitted he was pleased Spain had been drawn against the powerful German side.

Ronaldo, Portugal land in Euro 'Group of Death'

LONDON, 3 Dec—if Cristiano Ronaldo is finally going to end his wait for a major international trophy, he will have to do it the hard way. Ronaldo, widely considered to be the best player in Europe and second best in the world behind Lionel Messi, saw his Portuguese side land in the dreaded "Group of Death" when the Euro 2012 draw was made on Friday Portugal, which also drew into the toughest group at last year’s World Cup, is paired with Germany, Denmark and the Netherlands, and faces an uphill task just to qualify for the tournament’s knockout stage in Poland and Ukraine next summer.

While every tournament has its own "Group of Death," a term coined two decades ago to describe the most difficult pool at every major soccer event, Group B this time around could be the toughest ever seen. The Netherlands was a top seed going into the draw after reaching the 2010 World Cup final, but received little reward for that status.

Leverkusen down Hoffenheim 2-0 at German Bundesliga

Berlin, 3 Dec—Leverkusen sealed three points in a one sided affair as harmless Hoffenheim was absolutely unable to threat “Werkself” defence at the 15th game day opener on Friday at BayArena.

Both sides staged an evenly balanced start but as the match progressed Leverkusen took over to smooth the way for the victory at the 10th minute as striker Eren Derdiyok headed home a follow up shot from very close distance to stun the guests. From now on the “Werkself” dominated the match but they failed to extend their lead against inoffensive Hoffenheim.

It had to come the 79th minute in where Leverkusen midfielder Sidney Sam over lobbed Hoffenheim goalkeeper Tom Starke to wrap the seventh win of the season. Leverkusen stays on 6th position with 25 points while Hoffenheim slips from 9th to 10th position with 18 points.
