Vice-President Thiha Thura U Tin Aung Myint Oo and wife Daw Khin Saw Hnin offer alms to monks in Hkamti

NAY PYI TAW, 15 Jan—Vice-President of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Thiha Thura U Tin Aung Myint Oo and wife Daw Khin Saw Hnin attended a ceremony to offer alms to monks from Hkamti Township at Theravada Buddhist Missionary Centre in Hkamti on 13 January.

It was also attended by Union ministers, the Sagaing Region Chief Minister and wife, the North-West Command Commander, deputy ministers, departmental officials, social organization members, townselders and local national races.

First, Chairman of Hkamti Township Sangha Maha Nayaka Hsinthay monastery Sayadaw Bhaddanta Thuriya preached the five precepts.

The Vice-President and wife afterwards offered robes and alms to the Hsinthay monastery Sayadaw. The Union ministers and the region chief minister later offered alms to the monks.

The Vice-President supplicated on promotion and propagation of Sasana in the region and cash donation plan for construction of two-story monastery building, and donated cash to local missionary board.

Afterwards, the congregation shared merits gained.

After the ceremony, the Vice-President gave necessary instructions on construction of two-story monastery building and monastic education school.—MNA

Vice-President Thiha Thura U Tin Aung Myint Oo meets departmental officials, social organizations, townselders from Nanyun, Panhsaung of Naga Self-Administered Zone

NAY PYI TAW, 15 Jan—Vice-President of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Thiha Thura U Tin Aung Myint Oo, accompanied by Union Ministers, the Sagaing Region Chief Minister, the Commander of North-West Command, deputy ministers, Indian Ambassador Dr VS Seshadri and the chairman of Naga Self-Administered Zone Leading Body and responsible people, arrived at Hkamti Port and viewed the watercourse of Chindwin River on 13 January morning.

The region chief minister and officials reported on waterway maintenance tasks and formation of sandbank. The Vice-President gave an instruction on cooperation between local authorities and Directorate of Water Resources and Improvement of River Systems for ensuring effectiveness and speediness in measures for development of the waterway of the port.

The Vice-President and party visited the training school for development of the youths in border areas (Hkamti) where they were welcomed by the principal, teachers and students.

After cordially greeting those present, the Vice-President inspected the hostels.

Let’s try to be a good citizen

Major cities like Yangon and Mandalay should show off beautiful and neat and tidy images of city characteristics with development facilities. It is important that pavements, motor roads and vehicles must be arranged in proper places systematically to shape clean and pleasant metropolitans.

Pavements are roads for pedestrians only. Some persons sell goods on the pavements in the populous areas and near the large markets in urban areas. Some lay generators on the pavements. Some park their automobiles on the pavements. In consequence, most of the pedestrians walk along the motor roads.

Furthermore, it is important to abide by traffic rules in keeping the urban areas clean and pleasant. Vehicles, pedestrians, bicycles, motorbikes and slow-moving vehicles are road users. All types of vehicles should drive along the roads in line with the prescribed traffic rules. Likewise, all the pedestrians are to walk along the pavements as well as to cross the roads through zebra crossings.

Systematic driving of automobiles along the roads large and small polishes beauty of the urban areas. At present, old and outdate vehicles are substituted with new ones. Due to import permission, the number of vehicles is increasing day by day. However, long time stopping of vehicles at the places that are not car parking and lesser number of private car parking tarnish the image of urban. In many developed nations, high-rise buildings are facilitated with car parking at respective flats.

Nowadays, Myanmar is marching towards the modern and developed new nation. Only when new property such as buildings, roads and cars are systematically used and kept, will the beauty of urban areas be grander.

Installation of 2nd 37-megawatt generator from Kyeeohn

KNYAYA NYA, 15 Jan—Union Minister for Agriculture and Irrigation U Myint Hlaing inspected installation of a rotor in the turbine for the second-phase 37-megawatt generator at the hydropower plant of Kyeeohn Kyeeawa Multi-purpose Dam Project in Pwintbyu Township, Mibinu District, Magway Region yesterday morning.

The project includes installation of two 37-megawatt generators. The first generator has been in operation and the second one will go into operation in March to generate electricity to the accredited grid and then to Rakhine State. Next, the Union Minister viewed the vegetable patches of the staff and met with the faculty members and students of the Institute of Agriculture in Pwintbyu Township.

French Foreign and European Affairs Minister meets political parties

YANGON, 15 Jan—Minister of Foreign and European Affairs Mr Alain Juppe of France and party accompanied by French Ambassador to Myanmar Mr Thierry Mathieu visited French Culture Centre on Pyay Road, Sanyoung Township here this afternoon. They looked round the centre and encouraged Myanmar students learning French language.

At the centre, the French minister and party met responsible persons from National Democratic Force (NDF), Democratic Party (Myanmar) (DPM), Rakhine Nationalities Development Party (RNDP), All Mon Region Democracy Party (AMRDP), Chin Progressive Party (CPP), Chin National Party (CNP) and Kayin Peoples Party (KPP).

Friendly neighbours across Himalayas

BEIJING, 15 Jan—Chinese Premier Wen Jiabao on Saturday conducted an official visit to Nepal, the first by a Chinese premier to the neighbouring country over the past decade. During the visit, Wen met with Nepalese President Ram Baran Yadav, Prime Minister Baburam Bhattarai and other Nepalese government and political party leaders in seeking ways to boost bilateral cooperation in various fields.

The visit is certain to further promote the development of friendly ties between China and Nepal, two neighbouring countries with the world’s highest mountains the Himalayas embedding between them. However, the snowy and icy mountains of the Himalayas can’t block the development of time-honored friendship between the Chinese and Nepalese peoples even a little.

The two countries have enjoyed a long history of exchanges dating back to over a millennium ago. A Chinese monk Faxian of the Eastern Jin Dynasty (317-420) and another one Xuanzang of the Tang Dynasty (618-907) visited southern Nepal to acquire Buddhist scriptures, while an outstanding Nepalese artisan Araniko visited China during the Yuan Dynasty (1206-1368) and built the delicate and charming White Stupa in central Beijing, now still an attractive scenic spot in the Chinese capital. The two countries, which established diplomatic ties in 1955, have committed themselves to ramping up mutual political trust, trade, cultural exchanges, and tourism, among others.

Five die in unexplained explosion on South Korean ship

SEOUL, 15 Jan — A South Korean cargo ship was rocked by an explosion off the country’s west coast on Sunday, leaving five people dead and six others missing, officials said. The unexplained explosion tore apart the front of the ship and left the 4,198-tonne vessel half-submerged, according to the coast guard.

Two of the five bodies located later had serious external wounds, suggesting they were killed by the explosion, coast guard officer Kim Dong-jin said. Five crewmen were rescued and searchers were trying to locate the six missing, the coast guard said in a statement.

The cargo ship, which usually carried refined petroleum products and chemicals, was carrying 80 tonnes of Bunker-C oil and 40 tonnes of diesel oil as its fuel when it exploded, the coast guard statement said. Oil leakage from the ship hit a reef and tore apart the front of the ship and left the 4,198-tonne vessel half-submerged, according to the coast guard.

The crewmen were rescued and searchers were trying to locate the six missing, the coast guard said in a statement.

Suicide bombing hits in Iraq, 53 killed

BAGHDAD, 15 Jan—Up to 53 people were killed and some 137 others wounded in a suicide bomb attack targeting Shiite pilgrims in Iraq’s southern city of Basra on Saturday as hundreds of thousands of Shites converge on the holy city of Karbala.

The attack occurred at about 9:00 am local time (0600 GMT) when a suicide bomber blew himself up near a police checkpoint among a crowd of Shiite pilgrims marching to a shrine in the town of al-Zubair, southwest of the oil hub city of Basra, some 550 km south of Baghdad, a local police source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity.

Iraqi security forces sealed off the scene as ambulances and civilian cars evacuated the victims to nearby hospitals and medical centers, the source added. Earlier, the source said 50 pilgrims were killed and some 100 others, including women and children, were wounded by the blast.

Ali al-Malki, the head of the security committee in Basra’s provincial council, told local media that the suicide bomber was wearing an explosive vest under his black coat and started to give food to the pilgrims to attract them close to his place before blowing himself up.

Grapes may help prevent blindness in aged

New York, 15 Jan—Eating grapes over a lifetime may slow or help prevent age-related macular degeneration, a major cause of blindness in the elderly, US researchers say. Principal investigator Silvia Finnemann of Fordham University in New York said the results from her study suggest age-related vision loss is a result of cumulative, oxidative damage over time.

“A lifelong diet enriched in natural anthocyanins, found in grapes, appears to be directly beneficial for retinal pigment epithelium cells and retinal health and function,” Finnemann said in a statement.

Age-related macular degeneration is a progressive eye condition, leading to the deterioration of the center of the retina—the macula—and it is the leading cause of blindness in the elderly.

Mice prone to developing retinal damage in old age can be treated in the same way as humans do received a grape-enriched diet, a diet with added lutein, or a normal diet. The study, published in Free Radical Biology and Medicine, found the grape-enriched diet protected against oxidative damage of the retina and prevented blindness in those mice consuming grapes. The lutein was also effective, but grapes were found to offer significantly more protection, Finnemann said.

Lutein—found in dark green leafy vegetables and egg yolks—is a carotenoid, believed to act as a dietary supplement to help prevent macular degeneration or to help support healthy eyesight. The study was funded by the California Table Grape Commission.

Most feel guilty after fast-food

RED BANK, 15 Jan—Fifty-four percent admit feeling “a bit guilty” after eating fast-food at least once a week, said a survey by Tableau Software. A survey of 1,563 members of the AllRecipes online community found females were more likely to admit feeling guilty after eating fast-food than males.

“I am feeling guilty today because I ate at a fast-food restaurant,” said a woman told AFP, requesting anonymity after breast reduction surgery at a clinic in the Indian capital. “I am feeling guilty today because I ate at a fast-food restaurant.”

It’s earnings versus Europe for stocks

NEW YORK, 15 Jan—Stock investors will return to a tug of war between signs of domestic strength and overseas concerns next week as a batch of critical earnings reports look to add credence to the idea the economy is improving, while credit rating downgrades in Europe will keep that region’s difficulties in view.

Bank stocks will probably once again be a primary focus, as not only will European issues call the group’s profit outlook into question, but analysts have been highlighting the key names report results.

Equities have recently undergone a decoupling with respect to Europe’s sovereign debt crisis as signs of progress in the euro zone, along with improving US data, have pushed Wall Street higher on improved growth prospects. Financials have been a beneficiary of that rising tide, with Bank of America up 22 percent since the start of the year.

So far this month, the S&P 500 <.SPX> is up 2.5 percent, while the Dow-.DJI- is up 1.7 percent and the Nasdaq is up 4.1 percent.

“We’re going to see more volatility in the weeks ahead with tension between earnings and Europe,” said Christopher Sheldon, the Boston-based director of investment strategy at BNY Mellon Wealth Management, which oversees $171 billion globally. “We want to see Europe resolve some of its problems, but there will continue to be ups and downs, and while earnings will continue to be relatively good, we do expect slowing compared with 2011.”

However, the uncertainty about Europe returned in a big way on Friday after Standard & Poor’s downgraded the ratings of several euro-zone countries, including Italy, after the market closed. Talk of the downgrades spurred a selloff that eroded most of the gains made in the past week, and the S&P fell for four straight sessions.

Foreigners in India for ‘mommy makeover’ surgery

NEW DELHI, 15 Jan—When a group of women from Uganda embarked on a trip of a lifetime to India, little did many of their friends and families at home know that a secret surgical ‘mommy makeover’ was on their itinerary. The trio fly into the eastern African nation meticulously planned their month-long tour around surgical procedures in New Delhi that they hoped would enable them to return to their homes looking trimmer and healthier.

They admit that vanity is a key motive behind their choice to go under the surgeon’s knife in a faraway country, saying they want their tummies tucked and breasts firmed up so they can again wear swimsuits with confidence. “There are certain activities you can’t do if your top is very heavy,” one of the women told AFP, requesting anonymity after breast reduction surgery at a clinic in the Indian capital. “I am feeling so light I can go for a jog or a swim without

CHINA’S Wen presses Saudi Arabia for oil access

BEIJING, 15 Jan—Chinese Premier Wen Jiabao pressed Saudi Arabia to open its huge oil and gas resources to expanded Chinese investment, media reports said on Sunday. In a backdrop of growing tension over Iran and worries over its crude exports to the Asian power, the Saudi kingdom is China’s biggest source of imported oil, and securing energy security was high on Wen’s agenda in Riyadh, in part reflecting concerns about how nuclear tensions and sanctions could unsettle ties with Iran. “China and Saudi Arabia are both in important stages of development, and there are broad prospects for enhancing cooperation,” Wen said on Saturday told Prince Nayef, who is a senior member of the Saudi government, according to Xinhua.

“Both sides must strive together to expand trade and cooperation, upstream and downstream, in crude oil and natural gas,” said Wen, referring to access to extracting oil and gas and then processing tokyo, 15 Jan—Honda Motor Co will completely overhauls its flood-hit factory in Thailand that passed $2 billion (265 billion yen), the Nikkei business daily reported on Sunday. Thailand’s worst floods in half a century last year hit Honda the hardest among Japanese automakers, with its 240,000-cars-a-year plant in the Ayutthaya province in central Thailand submerged under water.

Honda may spend $650 million to restore Thai plant

Honda, Japan’s No3 car producer, has already started replacing equipment with the aim of resuming output in April, the Nikkei said.

Refinishing the flood-hit factory will almost be the equivalent of building a plant from scratch. The Nikkei quoted to unidentified sources this week saying. Honda may receive payment from insurers, which are still assessing the damage, but that $2 billion in claims is more than $600 million, the Nikkei said.

Scientists find fat is the sixth human taste

WASHINGTON, 15 Jan—For generations, scientists thought the human tongue could detect only four basic tastes: sweet, sour, salt and bitter.

Then a fifth was discovered, “umami” or savoury. Now, researchers have identified a previously-unsigned “sixth taste.” A team in the United States has located a chemical receptor in the taste buds on the tongue that recognises fat molecules, and found that its sensitivity varies between individuals.

The finding may help to explain why some people consume more fatty foods, as they are less aware of the taste as they eat. The researchers hope their discovery can be exploited to combat obesity by increasing people’s sensitivity to fat in their food.

Science’s ‘most beautiful theories’

NEW YORK, 15 Jan—From Darwinian evolution to the idea that personality is largely shaped by chance, the favorite theories of the world’s most eminent thinkers are as eclectic as science itself. Every January,焦急的博学者 and literary luminary who presides over the online salon Edge.org asks this circle of scientists, digerati and humanities scholars to tackle one question.

In previous years, they have included “how is the Internet changing the way you think?” and “what is the most important invention in the last 2,000 years?” This year, he posed the open-ended question “what is your favorite deep, elegant or beautiful explanation?”

The responses, released at midnight on Sunday, provide a crash course in science both well known and far-out-of-the-box, as admired by the likes of Astronomer Royal Martin Rees, physicist Freeman Dyson and evolutionary biologist Richard Dawkins. Several of the nearly 200 scholars nominated what are arguably the two most powerful scientific theories ever developed. “Darwin’s natural selection wins hands down,” argues Dawkins, emeritus professor at Oxford University. “Never in the field of human comprehension were so many facts explained by assuming so few,” he says of the theory that encompasses everything about life, based on the idea of natural selection operating on random genetic mutations.

Einstein’s theory of relativity, which explains gravity as the curvature of space, also gets a few nods. As theoretical physicist Steve Tiddings of UC Berkeley explains, “This central idea has shaped our ideas of modern cosmology” (and given us the image of the expanding universe). Reuters

Test could help diagnose mad cow disease

LONDON, 15 Jan—British scientists are developing a test that will identify the human form of mad cow disease.

Until now, the only way to confirm a diagnosis of Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, a human variation of Bovine Spongiform Encephalopathy, or mad cow disease, was through tonsil biopsies or taking brain samples after the patient has died, The Daily Telegraph reported.

“In principle, [the new blood test] may allow us to find how many people in the population are infected so we can target risk management strategies and ensure the safety of our blood supply,” said Professor Neil Brown, who is leading the Medical Research Council team developing the test.

If successful, the test could enable us to make an earlier diagnosis and as treatments becomes available it is going to be desperately important to get patients early before there is extensive damage to the brain.”

CES gadgets bringing the “Matrix” to life

NEW YORK, 15 Jan—The annual Consumer Electronics Show ended Friday, leaving gadget lovers with visions of a future in which everything is connected.

Makers of everything from cars and refrigerators to televisions, smartphones and software pitched innovations heralding the arrival of connected lifestyles made possible by “smart” devices.

“You can’t underestimate what the market will look like when Intel jumps into smartphones,” Bajarin said. “The architecture core should allow them to make their chips very fast.”

Faster chips translate into richer video viewing, smoother music listening, and slicker “apps” for anything from games to work.

Intel was also at the core of an onslaught of slim, lightweight laptop computers known as “ultrabooks.”

“From a user perspective there is no better time to buy a laptop,” said Thomas Kunsman, an analyst with market research firm iSuppli. “With Intel’s Sandy Bridge chips, buyers can now choose from a wide range of products that offer high performance at an affordable price.”

Analysts and designers were predicting that the “ultrabook” will evolve into a new category of computer that is not just a laptop, but also a phone and Internet tablet.

Hacker says he released full Norton Antivirus code on Tuesday

NEW DELHI, 15 Jan—A hacker who goes by the name of ‘Yama Tough’ threatened Saturday to release next week the full source code for Symantec Corp’s flagship Norton Antivirus software.

“This coming Tuesday behold the full Norton Antivirus 1.7Gbc src, the rest will follow,” Yama Tough posted via Twitter. In the past year Yama Tough has released fragments of source code from Symantec products along with a cache of emails. The hacker says all the data was taken from Indian government servers.—Reuters

Wireless teaching tool shown at CES

LAS VEGAS, 15 Jan—A technology meant to make large college lecture classes feel smaller and more interactive is being displayed at the Consumer Electronics Show in Las Vegas.

LectureTools, developed by the University of Michigan, is a Web-based student response, note-taking and inquiry system that turns potentially distracting cellphones or cellphones last semester, the university said.

More than 4,000 UM undergraduate students in almost 20 classes used LectureTools on laptops or cellphones last semester, the university said.

The technology lets students rate their comprehension of a lecture presentation slide by slide and the instructor can see the feedback in real time. Questions can be asked that teaching assistants can answer while the lecture continues, and the questions and answers become anonymously visible to the entire class. Students can type notes in the system alongside the instructor’s slides and can bookmark slides for later review, the UM release said.—Internet

Iran sends rare letter to US over killed scientist

SIBERIAN TIGERS — Iran sent a rare letter to the US over the death of a scientist who had been working on the conservation of Siberian tigers in northeast China, state media reported.

The letter, written by Iran’s Foreign Ministry, expressed condolences to the US over the death of the scientist, named Melissa Pettigrew. The letter also noted that the scientist had been working on the conservation of Siberian tigers in China.

Siberian tigers are an endangered species and are believed to be living in the wild in China’s northeast. Iran has a long history of working with China on conservation efforts, and this letter is the latest in a series of diplomatic efforts to protect endangered species.

Volunteers clear traps for endangered Siberian tigers in NE China

BRIDGFORD, Dec 14 — Dozens of volunteers braved freezing temperatures and knee-high snow to clear traps for endangered wild Siberian tigers in northeast China this week.

In six groups, volunteers searched six forest farms in the northeastern province of Heilongjiang in a four-day trap-clearing campaign.

The volunteers included members such as doctors, computer engineers, public servants and college students, and among them there was an Australian named Melissa Pettigrew.

Winter is a tough season for the rare tigers as their prey becomes scarce, and the animals sometimes die from not having enough to eat or by coming into contact with a trap.

Deaf ‘signers’ quick to interpret body language

NEW YORK, Dec 15 — People who use sign language recognize and interpret body language quicker than hearing people who don't use sign language, researchers have found.

There are “lots of anecdotes about deaf people being better able to pick up on body language, but this is the first evidence of that,” David Corina, a professor of linguistics and Center for Mind and Brain at the University of California, Davis, said in a university news release.

Corina and a colleague compared the response times of deaf and hearing people to video clips of people using American Sign Language or making other “non-language” physical gestures, such as clapping their chin. “We expected that deaf people would recognize sign language faster than hearing people, as the deaf people know and use sign language daily, but the real surprise was that deaf people also were about 100 milliseconds faster at recognizing non-language gestures than were hearing people,” Corina said in the news release.

The findings are important because they indicate that the human ability for communication is adaptable and not limited to speech.

School officials says missing Montana math teacher is dead

SIOUX CITY, Dec 15 — A Montana high school math teacher who vanished last weekend while on her morning jog is dead, and a man has been taken into custody in connection with her disappearance, authorities said on Friday. Sherry Arnold, 43, was last seen setting off for a run on Saturday in her hometown of Sidney, a fast-growing agricultural community in northeastern Montana. Her husband, Gary Arnold, later reported her missing, police said.

Sidney Public Schools Superintendent Dan Farr said law enforcement authorities had informed family members and district officials of Arnold’s death, but declined to elaborate. Sidney Police Chief Frank DiFonzo said in a prepared statement that authorities had taken one man into custody and were seeking information from another in connection with Arnold’s disappearance. A 47-year-old man has been jailed in neighboring Williston, North Dakota, and a 22-year-old man is being held for questioning in Rapid City, South Dakota.

Suez Canal’s revenue up 9.6 pct in 2011

CAIRO, Dec 15 — Egypt’s Suez Canal garnered 5.22 billion US dollars of revenue in 2011, up 9.6 percent compared with 2010, Egypt’s official news agency MENA reported on Saturday.

A total of 17,799 vessels passed the canal in 2011, down 1.1 percent, while the cargo volume increased by 9.7 percent, MENA said.

The Suez Canal Authority will raise the tolls by three percent for all vessels passing through the waterway from March 2012. The canal’s tariffs had not been changed for the previous three years and the change was made based on studies of the global economy and trade, the authority said in December 2011.

Suez Canal is an artificial sea-level waterway connecting the Mediterranean Sea with the Red Sea. Its revenue is one of Egypt’s major sources of foreign currency.
Couple rescued from submerged ship
Costa Concordia

Two passengers have been found alive on the submerged cruise ship Costa Concordia, more than 24 hours after it ran aground off the Italian coast. The South Korean couple, who were on their honeymoon, were found in a cabin, but 40 miles from the 4,000 on board are still believed to be missing.

The captain of the Costa Concordia has been detained for questioning, as police investigate why the accident happened in calm conditions. Three people are so far confirmed dead. Two French passengers and a Peruvian crew member died, and another 30 people were injured, two seriously. The South Korean couple was located after rescuers heard voices from a cabin two decks down on the half-submerged ship late on Saturday, and they were reached a few hours later.

The man and woman, about 29 years old, were both said to be in good condition when they were brought ashore. Meanwhile, divers are continuing to comb submerged parts of the ship, which is lying on its side close to a coastal island. The vessel, which is operated by Costa Crociere, has sailed from Civitavecchia near Rome on Friday on a regular weekly Mediterranean cruise when it ran aground. Italian, German, French and British nationals were among the 3,200 passengers on board. There were also 1,000 crew. Those who died include two French passengers and a Peruvian crewman. Coastguard captain Cosimo Nicastro told Italian TV that divers had carried out an extensive search of the waters near the vessel and found no further bodies.

Some passengers were rescued by lifeboats and helicopters to a school and private homes in the passengers and crew. On Saturday the ship was taken by ferries to Porto Santo Stefano on the mainland, about 25 km (15 miles) away.

The South Korean man was brought ashore on a rescue boat, after being found with his wife.

5.0 magnitude earthquake hits New Zealand’s Christchurch

WELLINGTON, 15 Jan — A 5.0 magnitude earthquake rattled New Zealand’s South Island city of Christchurch on Sunday, followed by more aftershocks. The quake occurred at 2.47 am Sunday (13:47 GMT Saturday).

It was centred 10 km east of Christchurch and 10 km northeast of Lyttelton, at a depth of 9 km. New Zealand government geological agency GNS Sciences reported.

The quake was followed by magnitude 3.0 and 3.7 aftershocks at 4.14 am and 5.10 am and magnitude 3.3 and 3.5 at 7.05 am and 7.48 am.

The ambulance service says there are no reports of damage or injury. GNS Sciences said early this month that aftershocks might continue in Canterbury for the next 30 years.

Cambodia finds first case of H5N1 infection in human in 2012

PHNOM PENH, 15 Jan — A 2-year-old boy from northwestern Cambodian province of Banteay Meanchey was infected with avian influenza H5N1 virus, Cambodia’s Ministry of Health and the World Health Organization announced on Friday. The patient is currently in “critical condition” in Angkor Hospital for Children in Siem Reap Province.

The boy became sick on 3 Jan with fever, cough, runny nose and vomiting, the statement said, adding that he was initially treated by local private practitioners, but his conditions worsened and he was admitted to Angkor Hospital for Children on 9 January. The diagnosis of the clinical samples on 12 January found that the boy had contact with sick or dead poultry prior to becoming sick, it said. The boy is the nineteenth person in Cambodia to become infected with the fatal H5N1 virus, and the first such victim this year, said the statement. Of all the nineteen cases, 16 died.

Avian influenza is still a threat to the health of Cambodians. This is the first case of H5N1 infection in human this year, and children appear to be most vulnerable,” the Minister of Health Mam Bunheng said in the statement.

US uses secret channel to warn Iran’s supreme leader against closure of Strait

WASHINGTON, 15 Jan — The Obama administration has used a secret channel of communication to warn Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, Iran’s supreme leader, not to make good on the country’s threat to close the Strait of Hormuz, the New York Times reported on Friday. Government officials were quoted as saying that closing the strait is a “red line” that would provoke an American response.

But they declined to describe the unusual contact between the two governments, and whether there had been an Iranian reply.

The secret channel was used to underscore privately to Iran “the depth of American concern” about rising tensions over the strait, a strategically crucial waterway connecting the Persian Gulf to the Gulf of Oman, where 16 million barrels of oil — about a fifth of the world’s daily oil trade — flow through every day, the report said. Iran’s threat to close the strait came in late December in response to the planned expanded sanctions by the West to target its oil exports over its controversial nuclear programme.

Senior Obama administration officials have said publicly that Iran would cross a “red line” if it does so. However, American naval officials said their biggest fear is that an overzealous naval captain of Iran’s elite Islamic Revolutionary Guard could do something provocative on his own, setting off a larger crisis. Some officials and analysts described Iran’s threat as bluster and an attempt to drive up oil prices.

“Blocking the route for the vast majority of Iran’s petroleum exports — and for its food and consumer imports — would amount to economic suicide,” the New York Times report said.

Over 70 percent of Europeans aware of ageing

BRUSSELS, 15 Jan — Over 70 percent of Europeans are aware that Europe’s population is getting old, although only 42 percent are concerned about the issue, according to a Eurobarometer survey released here on Friday. Over 60 percent of respondents believe that Europeans should be allowed to continue working after retirement age, and about 53 percent reject the idea of a compulsory retirement age.

Europeans also have various opinions towards the definition of being “young” and “old.” In Malta, Portugal and Sweden, people under 37 years are considered “young,” whereas in Cyprus and Greece people are considered young up to the age of 42. In Malta, Portugal and Sweden, people under 37 years are considered “young,” whereas in Cyprus and Greece people are considered young up to the age of 42. According to the survey, on average, Europeans believe that people start being regarded as old just before they are 64 and are no longer considered young from the age of 42 years, the survey says.

Malaysia signs deal to continue oil operations in Sudan

KUALA LUMPUR, 15 Jan — Malaysia’s state oil and gas company, Petronas and its partners signed a Transition Agreement with the Southern Sudanese government to continue operations in the country’s oil sector.

Petronas said on Saturday that the agreement grants Petronas and its partners rights to conduct petroleum exploration in Blocks 1, 2 and 4, Blocks 3 and 7 and Block 5A that were previously granted by the Sudanese government before South Sudan’s independence in July last year.

The Transition Agreement was signed in Juba, South Sudan in the presence of South Sudan’s petroleum and mining minister, Stephen Dhieu Dau. “Petronas’ investments in these two countries form an important international asset portfolio for the Malaysian national oil corporation,” Petronas said in a statement. “Apart from protecting the rights and investments of Petronas and its partners... the Transition Agreement also paves the way for enhanced, mutually-beneficial relationship between Petronas and its partners with the government of South Sudan,” it added.
Vice-President Thiha Thura U Tin Aung Myint Oo …

At the assembly hall, Vice-President Thiha Thura U Tin Aung Myint Oo welcomed the attendees and invited them to join the meeting. He then delivered a speech, saying that the government is committed to regional development requirements and the needs for the region.

He mentioned that over 5000 acres of farmland and 10000 acres of crop land have been utilized in the region, and that the region is sparsely populated. He added that fundamental requirements have been fulfilled to the region for its educational and health development, urging personnel concerned to stimulate development of the region with goodwill.

China says shots fired at cargo boat on Mekong

BEIJING, 15 Jan—Unidentified attackers fired on a Chinese cargo boat on the Mekong River in Laos on Saturday evening, China’s police said, less than two months after Beijing began joint patrols to protect shipping. Shots were fired at the Chinese ship Sheng Tai 11 on Saturday evening, but none of the crew was wounded, China’s Ministry of Public Security said in a statement on its website on Sunday.

The boat, which had five crew members, was carrying wood, Chinese state television reported. China last month deployed more than 300 armed police to patrol the Mekong in boats in collaboration with Myanmar, Thailand and Laos after a deadly attack killed 13 Chinese sailors in October last year. In the latest incident, the Chinese ship was returning to China from Thailand, the statement said.

After the attack occurred, patrol ships from both Laos and China responded and Laos was still pursuing those suspected of carrying out the shooting. The Mekong flows through China’s southwestern province of Yunnan into Southeast Asia, serving as a major trade route through several countries.

China reacted angrily to the October attack, sending patrol boats down the Mekong to retrieve 164 stranded Chinese sailors and 28 cargo ships and calling on diplomats to speed up investigations.

Suining, 14 Jan—All 21 Indian crew members held hostage by Somali pirates on a chemical oil tanker since August have been released safely, officials in Mumbai said.

The release of the crew on the MV Faizan Bogey comes after 17 Indian sailors were among hostages freed from a hijacked Italian vessel late last month after more than 10 months in captivity.

“All the 21 sailors are safe and the ship is now on its way to a safe port,” Director General of Shipping SB Agnihotri told reporters in Mumbai late Saturday. He declined to comment on reports that a ransom had been paid, but added that 22 Indian sailors remained held by Somali pirates on various other ships in the Indian Ocean. The Marshall Islands-flagged Faizan Bogey, run by Anglo-Eastern Isleman, was hijacked when it was moored less than a half mile from the town’s iced-in harbour Saturday evening, starting final preparations for delivering the diesel fuel and gasoline, the Coast Guard said.—INTERNET

Tanker moored off Nome, gearing up fuel delivery

ANCHORAGE, 15 Jan—A Russian tanker with a cargo of much-needed fuel for Nome was moored less than a half mile from the Alaska town’s iced-in harbour Sunday morning, holding for disturbed ice to reform before crews can finish work to deliver the fuel, the Coast Guard said.

The US Coast Guard Cutter Healy, which cleared a path through hundreds of miles of Bering Sea ice for the tanker, was nearby. “We were able to successfully navigate that last bit of ice,” Coast Guard spokesman Kip Wadlow said. “We got to it pretty much right on the money, in this image provided by the US Coast Guard.

Heavy rain to sweep south China, disrupt road traffic

BEIJING, 15 Jan—Heavy rains will continue to sweep across most parts in south China for the coming 24 hours and will disrupt road traffic in the regions, the National Meteorological Centre (NMC) warned on Sunday.

The eastern parts of Guangxi and some regions in Guangdong, Jiangxi and Fujian Provinces will see heavy rains over the next 24 hours, with some areas receiving downpours of 50 to 60 millimeters, the NMC said in a statement.

Transportation in parts of major highways in the south, including Changsha-Shenzhen, Lanzhou-Haikou and Guangzhou-Kunming expressways, could be affected by unfavorable road conditions, the NMC said. Meanwhile, snow round of cold front will hit northwestern Xinjiang Uygur Autonomous Region from Tuesday, bringing strong winds and temperatures drops along the way, the NMC said.—INTERNET

Four women held in Mexican child-trafficking case

MEXICO CITY, 15 Jan—Investigators say four women are being held in the western Mexican city of Guadalajara in connection with an apparent child-trafficking ring that aimed to supply babies to childless Irish couples.

The Jalisco state prosecutor’s office says a 21-year-old woman has been arrested after a relative reported that she was “renting out” one of her children.

The woman said she had been paid to give the child to a group of three women who needed baby pictures for legitimate advertising purposes.

Investigators found the other three women were taking the child and several others to a hotel where Irish couples believed they were going to adopt them. Officials are investigating whether the Irish couples and Mexican mothers were tricked.
Int’l Consumer Electronics Show held in Apple’s shadow

LAS VEGAS, 15 Jan—

Showing more than 20,000 products from a record number of over 3,200 exhibitors in an exhibition space of 0.17 million square meters, the 2012 International Consumer Electronics Show (CES) turned out to be one of the largest in the event’s 44-year-old history. Though Apple was absent, its dominating influence was felt everywhere throughout the world’s largest consumer technology show, which ended here on Friday, while other top-notch brands are touting their versions of Ultrabook, Smartphone, Smart TV and Tablets, everywhere throughout the year-old history.

Last year’s CES, it was all about Tablets. This year, the super thin Ultrabooks are in the show’s spotlight. The “Ultrabook” laptops are making computers as attractive as Tablets while retaining standard performance. More than 30 types of Ultrabooks were presented by PC makers such as Hewlett-Packard, Lenovo, Acer, Samsung and others. The concept of “Ultrabook” was created by computer processor giant Intel in 2011 in response to Apple’s Macbook Air.

CNET, the official streaming media partner of CES, said in a review that “The Ultrabook format has been described as a MacBook Air running the Windows OS.”

In the competition for the best Smartphone of CES 2012, Nokia’s Lumia 900 came out on top, staging a comeback for the mobile phone leader Nokia after it joined hands with software giant Microsoft. Other ambitious contenders include Lenovo K800, the world’s first Smartphone containing Intel’s powerful chip.

Los Angeles, 15 Jan—

Leading independent motion picture producer and distributor Lionsgate has acquired vampire and werewolves epic series “Twilight” producer Summit Entertainment for 412.5 million US dollars, the company announced on Friday. The announcement helped settle the dust on the acquisition which had circled around for a couple of months, as Lionsgate beat out other bidders headed by Colony Capital to complete the high-publicity deal.

“This transaction continues Lionsgate’s long-term growth strategy of building a diversified worldwide media company through a combination of disciplined, accretive strategic acquisitions and organic growth while maintaining a solid balance sheet,” said Lionsgate Co-Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Jon Feltheimer and Vice Chairman Michael Burns.

“Rob Friedman and Patrick Wachsberger have built a remarkable organization, and we’re pleased to welcome Summit’s talented team to the Lionsgate family,” they added, referring to the co-chairs of Summit Entertainment. Lionsgate will foot the majority of the bill with cash, which includes 55 million dollars of existing cash, 45 million of cash received from a newly issued series of Lionsgate convertible notes, as well as 50 million dollars of its common stock and an additional 20 million dollars of cash or stock to be issued at its option within 60 days, the Santa Monica, Calif based firm said.

The deal, which had been on and off since late 2008, will boost Lionsgate’s library of 13,000 titles, and helps pave the way for its overseas development with the addition of an international distribution network from the Summit Entertainment which it lacks. Summit Entertainment, also based in Santa Monica, will retain its label, according to the announcement.

JAKARTA, 15 Jan—

Tourism sector in Indonesia’s Bali remained strong in 2011 with foreign tourist arrivals slightly above the government’s target of 2.5 million people, the Jakarta Post reported here on Friday. Surprisingly, despite the ongoing economic woes that have riddled the US, visitors from that country rose by nearly 25 percent.

Based on data by the provincial Tourism Agency, total foreign tourist arrivals to Bali reached 2,756,579 people last year, an increase of 10.57 percent from 2,493,058 people in 2010.

The number of tourists from the US visiting Bali last year was 90,154 people, or an increase 24.96 percent from the previous year. The US contributed 3.27 percent to the total foreign tourist arrivals to the island.

Three other nationalities showing a two-digit increase were Australia (22.09 percent), China (20.32 percent) and Singapore (17.29 percent). The number of tourists from the United States showed a significant increase, although the country is still facing a financial crisis. The country ranks 10th in tourist arrivals to Bali, said agency head Ida Bagus Kade Subhiksa.

“And so in these economic times, we need to be looking forward to what America needs, and I think Miss America needs to represent all.” Miss Oklahoma Betty Thompson came in second, while Miss New York Kaityl Mont placed third.

Kaepernick wins a $50,000 scholarship and gets the title for one year. Her platform during the competition was supporting and mentoring children of incarcerated parents — a topic close to her heart.

Kaepernick’s father, Jeff Kaepernick, told The Associated Press he served 18 months in federal prison for mail fraud. He said when his daughter approached the family about making a platform, “We’ve seen this come full circle,” he said.

Costs of removing faulty breast implants to be covered in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, 15 Jan—

The Brazilian government said Friday it will help pay the costs of removing or repairing faulty PIP and Rofil breast implants.

Health Minister Alexandre Padilha told reporters that there is no need for all patients who received PIP and Rofil breast implants to undergo the replacement surgery. Only those with ruptured implants will need to follow up evaluations, via public or private healthcare systems.

He added, referring to the co-chairs of Summit Entertainment which it lacks. Summit Entertainment, also based in Santa Monica, will retain its label, according to the announcement.

Mothers on SSRIs risk newborns with high blood pressure in lungs

STOCKHOLM, 15 Jan— Mothers who take selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors (SSRIs) anti-depressants during pregnancy are facing greater risk of giving birth to children with high blood pressure in the lungs, a research showed on Friday. According to a study lead by Swedish medical university Karolinska Institutet, anti-depressants taken in mothers’ late pregnancy are more likely to cause high blood pressure of babies, so called persistent pulmonary hypertension, than in early pregnancy and the risk is doubled compared to non-exposed cases. Persistent pulmonary hypertension, a rare but severe disease, leads to difficulties in breathing and has strong links to heart failure, explained Karolinska Institutet in a statement. The study was carried out between 1996 and 2007 by researchers from Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway and Sweden at the institute on 1.6 million births in total in these countries, said the statement. It added that the study found that out of 11,014 mothers who used anti-depressants in late pregnancy, 33 babies (0.2 percent) were born with persistent pulmonary hypertension and out of 17,653 mothers who used anti-depressants drugs in early pregnancy, just 32 babies (less than 0.2 percent) were diagnosed with persistent pulmonary hypertension. A total of 114 babies whose mothers had previously been diagnosed with a mental illness were found to be suffering from the disease. The new research is published on the British Medical Journal.

3 Koreans find new beauty obsession in small faces

SEOUL, 15 Jan— Double-eyelid surgery is so 1990’s. So is a nose job. For beauty-conscious South Koreans, whose endless pursuit of a more Westernized look has led to a thriving plastic surgery industry, operations that make their face smaller are the new “it” thing. There is now a rapidly growing demand here for double-eyelid surgery, which involves reconfiguring and aligning the upper and lower jaws and takes months for post-surgical recovery. Though the surgery is originally developed to correct underneath and crosbite, among other orthodontic problems, more and more in a country where double-eyelid surgery to get larger eyes is a common high school graduation gift from parents, the latest craze might not come as a big surprise. “It could be easily assumed that 99 percent of South Korean celebrities got stuff done on their faces,” said Dr Park Sang- boon, head of Seoul’s 1H Hospital, which specializes in double-jaw surgery. The popularity of double-jaw surgery, which Dr Park calls a “post-2000 phenomenon”, also has a lot to do with a succession of South Korean celebrities who recently had their jaw bone cut and emerged looking like “totally different people” as countless Internet users enthused. Comparing face sizes of celebrities is a common topic of discussion for netizens, who hardly hesitate to judge those with smaller faces are “winners”.

Space station moves up and out of way of debris

WASHINGTON, 15 Jan— The International Space Station (ISS) has moved up and out of the way of a softball-sized piece of space junk. NASA officials said debris from an old US private communication satellite would have come within three miles (5 kilometres) of the orbiting outpost on Friday had the station not changed its orbit. Space junk moves so fast that it can puncture the station, so engineers try to give debris a wide berth whenever something comes close. Astronauts fired the station’s engines for 54 seconds Friday to move the outpost about 1,000 feet (305 meters) higher. NASA said it needed to boost the station’s orbit anyway to get ready for a cargo delivery. This is the 13th time the space station has dodged space junk since 1998.

Three ETA suspects arrested in France

MADRID, 15 Jan— French authorities on Saturday announced the detention of three suspected members of Basque separatist group ETA. The suspects, one of whom has been identified as Jon Etxeberria Oyarbide, were arrested after getting off a train in the town of Joigny in the Yonne region of France. The other two detainees have not been identified, but French police have confirmed that they are both Spanish and sources confirmed to Spanish TV station TVE that they were also armed. The arrests represent the first detention of ETA members since the Spanish general elections, which brought the Mariano Rajoy’s Popular Party to power and saw the radical Basque separatist party, Amaint, win a total of seven seats in the Basque Country and the Community of Navarra.

Survey finds science misconduct “alive and well”

LONDON, 15 Jan— More than one in 10 British-based scientists or doctors have witnessed colleagues intentionally altering or fabricating data during their research, according to a survey by the British Medical Journal (BMJ) on Thursday. The survey, which collated more than 2,700 responses, also found that 6 percent of scientists said they were aware of possible research misconduct at their institution that had not been properly investigated. The results suggest “research misconduct is alive and well in the UK,” the BMJ said in a statement, and highlights the need for better systems to deter, detect, and investigate it. According to BMJ editor-in-chief Fiona Godlee, who wrote a commentary about the findings, high profile cases of misconduct have led many other countries, including the United States, Canada, Sweden, Norway and Poland, to create formal mechanisms for overseeing research integrity. “Why does the United Kingdom have no plans to do the same?” she wrote. The survey, which was conducted via email and is ongoing, has so far received responses to 31 percent, or 2,782 of the 9,036 emails delivered to researchers. The doctors were asked whether they had “witnessed or have first-hand knowledge of UK-based scientists or doctors inappropriately adjusting, excluding, altering or fabricating data during their research for the purposes of publication,” to which 13 percent said yes. Godlee, whose journal has long been campaigning for greater scrutiny of scientific research and greater transparency in clinical trials, said the results exposed as myth the idea that research misconduct was very rare in Britain.

Woman finds love letter from 1862

A Swedish woman who discovered pages covered in handwriting while walking in the countryside said she was shocked to read they were from 1862.

However, she took a closer look and discovered the date on the letter, which was written by a woman named Lina to her “beloved” named Otto, and found it was actually dated July 24, 1862. "The fields were frosty so the pages were completely dry. It must have come in with the storm, ‘Emil,’ the day before,” Bollo said. “The letter was only a few meters from a water-filled ditch. It would have only taken a breath of wind to take it off into the water where it would have been destroyed.”

Banned Bulgarian soccer referee uses false identity

A banned Bulgarian soccer referee took charge of this week’s friendly between Werder Bremen and AZ Alkmaar under a false identity, state television BNT reported on Friday.

BNT said Lachezar Yonov used the name of fellow countryman and eligible referee Raicho Raichev for Wednesday’s game played in the Turkish resort of Belek. “This story convinces us the decision we took last year was right,” Bulgarian Football Union (BFU) refereeing commission chairman Kostadin Kostadinov told state television. Yonov and his assistants Petar Taralov and Emil Mitov were among the referees who were suspended in 2011 for officiating at international matches in South America without informing the BFU.

“I will take all necessary measures to clear my name,” Raichev told the Bulgarian football referees association’s website. “What they did is so sneaky.” Bundesliga club Werder came back from a goal down to beat their Dutch opponents 2-1.

Lopez, Anthony were working this week to judge contestants on a new music series they are doing together. “Q’Viva! The Chosen” premieres on Univision on 28 January.

The two stars, along with Jamie King, travel throughout north and south America to search for artists who will come to the United States and participate in a live show of Latin music and entertainment. It airs in 12 weekly episodes in the US and on Spanish-language stations in Latin America. An English-language version is planned later for Fox.

Anthony and Lopez were working this week to judge some of the contestants, Univision said. “It was like any time that we work together,” said Lopez, who wore a tight blue dress. “We have a great time working together.”

“Anthony said that there’s been a misconception that “Q’Viva! The Chosen” is just a talent show. “We’re not judges,” he said. “We’re show producers. We’re putting together a live show and we’re documenting the process.”
Keflezighi, Flanagan win Olympic marathon trials

HOUSTON, 15 Jan—Meb Keflezighi remembered to wear his nasal strip this time, first goal since ending his short-lived retirement to help Manchester United to a 3-0 Premier League win over Bolton on Saturday. Real Madrid hit back to go eight points clear

PALMA DE MALLORCA, 15 Jan—Jose Callejon grabbed a late winner for Real Madrid as Jose Mourinho’s men fought back from a goal down to defeat Malaga 2-1 and go eight points clear of bitter rivals Barcelona at the top of La Liga on Saturday. The win piled the pressure on champions Barcelona who tackle Real Betis at home on Sunday.

Israeli international Tomer Hemed put Mallorca in front in the first-half and it looked like a surprise result was on the cards before substitute Gonzalo Higuain gave Madrid hope with a 71st minute equaliser. Callejon then struck what could prove to be a crucial winner in the 82nd minute of a game where Real were second best in the first half.

"They defended well with no errors and knew how we would attack them, they played really well, especially in the first-half," said Mourinho. "We had to take risks in the second half to win. I took Marcelo off because I wanted to go with three at the back. I put Fabio Coentrao with Pepe and Sergio Ramos, because they are quick enough to play in a three-man defence.”

Callejon added: “The most key thing is the teamwork that keeps us at the top, the three points are much more important than my goal.”

Ali still the Greatest as he celebrates 70th

PHOENIX, 15 Jan—“Rumble, young man, rumble,” used to be his battlecry. But Muhammad Ali is no old man now, ravaged by his years in the ring and his decades of braving Parkinson’s disease.

The voice that used to bellow that he was “The Greatest” is largely muted now, save for those times in the mornings when he is able to whisper his thoughts. The face, though, is still that of the most recognizable man on earth. Maybe not as finely chiseled as it was in his prime, but close enough.

“It’s not like he doesn’t look like himself,” said his eldest daughter, Maryum “May-May” Ali. “It’s the same face, the Parkinson’s hasn’t affected that.”

His days at home with wife, Lonnie, in a gated community near Phoenix, generally follow the same routine: He gets out of bed and takes a shower before easing into his favorite chair for long hours at a time. Former Brazil star Rivaldo joins Angolan club

RIO DE JANEIRO, 15 Jan—Former Brazil star and World Footballer of the Year the Year of the Year Rivaldo has signed a one-year contract with Angola premier league club Kabuscorp Sport Club de Palanca. Club officials confirmed on Saturday a deal that will bring Rivaldo, who turns 40 in April, to a Luanda team who finished second behind Recreativo Libolo in the national championship last year. The 1999 World Footballer of the Year midfielder Rivaldo of the Year will inject much needed interest into a league that suffers, like most others in Africa, from an exodus of its best footballers to Europe.

Rivaldo left Brazilian outfit Sao Paulo a month ago after another chapter in a globe-trotting career that had taken him to Spain, Italy, Greece and Uzbekistan before returning home last year. Attacking midfielder Rivaldo, who said the fact that Brazil and Angola are Portuguese-speaking countries played a big part in his decision, was part of the Brazil 2002 World Cup-winning team and played for Barcelona and AC Milan.—INTERNET

Vonn wins Cortina super-G

CORTINA, 15 Jan—Lindsey Vonn of the United States on Sunday bagged her 47th World Cup race success in winning the super-G at Cortina d’Ampezzo.

Vonn scored her sixth win of the campaign - and sixth in all at the venue - in timing 1min 26.16sec to see off Germany’s Maria Hoefl-Riesch and Slovenia’s Tina Maze by 0.61sec and 0.86sec respectively.

Vonn placed second in the Saturday downhill and has bounced back from a disappointing showing last week at Bad Kleinkirchheim in Austria, where she missed the podium after coming in fourth in the downhill and then trailing in 16th in the super-G for her worst result in four seasons. Discipline world champion Elisabeth Goergl came in fourth on Sunday 0.97sec adrift of Vonn while fellow Austrian Anna Fenninger, having managed three straight podium placings, this time failed to finish.

Vonn increased her lead in the overall standings where she leads Maze by 291 points. - Internet

Golden Globe nominees warm up with rooftop party

WEST HOLLYWOOD, 15 Jan—The glittery, Champagne-soaked vibe of the Golden Globes spreads through Hollywood days before the ceremony, and the Dom Perignon was definitely flowing at W magazine’s pre-Globes party.

On a patio overlooking the Sunset Strip at the storied Chateau Marmont, Golden Globe nominees Charlize Theron and Tilda Swinton and stars Emma Stone, Jessica Biel and Patrick Stewart mixed it up Friday night with fellow actors, filmmakers and fashionistas. The soirée honored W magazine’s February movie issue. Swinton, nominated for best actress in a drama for “We Need to Talk About Kevin,” lit up the party in a white pantsuit, short platinum hair and bright smile. Theron, who’s up for best actress in a comedy or musical for “Young Adult,” looked every inch the star in a slickly black dress, her hair in old-Hollywood waves. She talked beauty and fashion with Biel, who dazzled in a white beaded gown.

Orlando Bloom and Miranda Kerr charmed partygoers together, while model Agyness Deyn posed for iPhone photos with a friend. Also enjoying the view from the patio: Actress Rose McGowan, “Modern Family” star Eric Stonestreet, director Sofia Coppola and Rodarte design duo Kate and Laura Mulleavy. The pre-Globe festivities continue Saturday with various gift suites and galas. The 69th annual Golden Globes will be presented Sunday at the Beverly Hilton Hotel and broadcast live on NBC. - Internet

Leon Best curls in the winner after cutting inside

LONDON, 15 Jan—Rangers twice hit the woodwork in the first half, through a fierce Shaun Wright-Phillips strike and Jay Bothroyd’s fabulous, curling effort.

But Newcastle recovered from a shaky start and Best stroked home a cool winner after some fine footwork.

Bothroyd wasted two good chances after the interval but the Magpies held on. The result was more than a little harsh on QPR, who gave a competitive performance belying their new boss.

Best’s immaculate winner was the only shot on goal the hosts managed but the statistics betray their contribution to a frenetic and entertaining match.

QPR slipped into the relegation zone following Blackburn’s win over Fulham on Saturday, but would have climbed back out with a point.

And a blistering beginning augured well for their chances of doing just that.

Wright-Phillips skinned the top of the bar with a fierce 18-yard strike as Newcastle struggled to gain or retain possession in the opening ten minutes.

Heidar Helguson had a decent strike saved within the first 60 seconds and the Londoners were first to every ball and kept the Magpies pegged back in their own half.

But in between the two efforts that hit the bar and post, Newcastle got on top, despite Yohan Cabaye having to come off with an ankle injury after a late lunge from Shaun Derry. - Internet

Newcastle 1 - 0 QPR

Leon Best’s brilliant first-half strike took Newcastle up to sixth in the Premier League table and spoiled Mark Hughes’s first game as QPR manager.

Nay Pyi Taw, 15 Jan—Vice-President of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Thiha Thura U Tin Aung Myint Oo delivered an address at the ceremony to present cash to the funds of regional development tasks, at the Hkamti District General Administration Department on 13 January. Also present on the occasion were Union ministers, the Chief Minister of the region, the commander of North-West Command, deputy ministers, departmental officials, members of social organizations, townsenders and wellwishers.

Speaking on the occasion, the Vice-President said that he met with townsenders and local authorities to set up the funds for development tasks of Hkamti region and to give necessary instructions on systematic use of the funds and effective provisions to the tasks to benefit the region. Due to not only the observations along the trip but also reports of officials and townsenders, he saw requirements of assistance for religious affairs, education, health, social sectors and rural development tasks, he said.

He explained the purpose of two tasks for assistance. With regard to the first type, he said that the first type is to render assistance to religious and social tasks such as the assistance for donations to monastic education schools, setting up of medical trust-funds at hospitals, convenient accommodation for teachers and provisions for Border Region National Race Youth Training School that are nurturing the local youths.

He noted that the second type is to set up the capital fund for implementing the long-term plans on education, health and rural development and poverty alleviation. It is aimed at providing assistance for needy families of the region so that their children can attend the schools and learn continuous education and enabling the outstanding students to pursue higher education, he said. Likewise, he noted one more purpose for assisting health care service and regional development tasks.

Moreover, he said that assistance will be provided for agriculture task of rural business contributing to rural development and poverty alleviation being undertaken by the State. He said that Union Solidarity
