Attitude change makes behavioral change

The 21st Century is said to be the age of change. We saw a lot of changes in the fields of politics, economy, social affairs, industry and technology in every regions of the world. Among them, the rapid changes are in industry and technology fields. The countries that could be highly adaptable to these changes become rich because of making political and economic doors open. Likewise, Myanmar is now on the right track to the political, economic and social development and marching toward the multiparty democratic country.

Polish scientist Marie Curie once said that one cannot hope to build a better world without individuals.

Every change needs reforms that are adaptable to the changes. Change and reform always go hand in hand. Physical change and mental change always go together as well. What the most important thing for human beings is attitude change. Only then would our behaviours change. So, every body needs mental and physical changes at a time when the country is marching towards a prosperous and developed country.

Yoetayoke-Kyauktaw railroad section, first-ever section opened in time of new government of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar

The 19.82-mile-long railroad section was completed within 11 months. On the railroad section, there are two above-180-ft bridges and 61 under-180-ft bridges. The 11.46-mile-long Kuntaung-Ponnagyun-Yoetayoke railroad section on Minbu-An-Sittway railroad which will become a significant route to Rakhine State has been opened.

It is a piece of 257-mile-long Minbu-An-Sittway railroad which will link Rakhine State with other regions or states. The project is being implemented in parts and completed railroad sections are opened separately.
Obama leads Romney in poll

WASHINGTON, 7 Feb—President Barack Obama is preferred by 52 percent of Americans compared with 43 percent who favour Mitt Romney, the front-runner for the Republican presidential nomination, a Washington Post-ABC News poll published Monday revealed. The telephone survey, carried out 1 to 4 Feb among 1,000 adults nationwide, has a margin of error of plus/minus four percentage points.

Obama’s advantage declines slightly among registered voters to 51 percent versus 45 percent for the former Massachusetts governor, who is still facing three challengers to lead the Republican Party into the November election. The Post noted that this is the first time in the surveys conducted since July that Obama has garnered more than 50 percent support when compared with Romney, and it is the first time that he has exceeded that threshold among registered voters.

“Boosted by improved public confidence in his economic stewardship, PresidentObama for the first time holds a clear edge nation-wide over Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney,” the Post wrote.

Last Saturday, Romney easily won the Nevada caucuses and after his earlier victories in Iowa and New Hampshire primaries he has consolidated his position at the head of the pack of politicians who are vying for the Republican candidacy.—Internet

Is Al-Qaeda preparing British women bombers?

LONDON, 7 Feb—Al-Qaeda is trying to recruit women for carrying out suicide bombings in Britain, parliament members have warned a report said. The terrorist group is using extremist websites to radicalise the “angels of death”, the Daily San quoted MPs as saying in their report.

As per the Commons home affairs committee, it has heard evidence that the terror group is “specifically launching and targeting women for violent acts”. The MPs’ panel report comes days after four extremists admitted plotting to bomb the London Stock Exchange.

The report highlighted about the big internet firms to do more to shut websites encouraging violent extremism. Home Secretary Theresa May has already launched a crackdown on recruiting websites used by extremists, as a purge on fanatics in mosques and colleges has resulted in the wide a report.

A Chicago taxi driver pleaded guilty Monday to charges linked to a scheme to funnel money to a Pakistani terror group with links to Al-Qaeda, the US Justice Department said.

Raja Lahrasib Khan pleaded guilty to one count of attempting to provide material support to a foreign terrorist organization, the department said in a statement. When Raja Lahrasib Khan, 58, was arrested in March 2010, officials said he never posed any imminent danger to the United States and had personally sent only a few hundred dollars to an alleged terrorist leader.

But authorities said his plea indicated he wanted to provide additional funds to the same individual after learning he was working with Al-Qaeda.

He faces a maximum of 15 years in prison but under his plea agreement the sentence will be between five and eight years in jail, and requires him to cooperate with the government. Sentencing is set for 30 May.

US announces limited sanctions against Myanmar

WASHINGTON, 7 Feb—The United States on Monday lifted some of its financial sanctions against Myanmar in recognition of recent positive movements and political reforms in the country, US Secretary of State Hillary Clinton signed a partial waiver of restrictions imposed on Myanmar, under the Trafficking Victims Protection Act, the State Department said in a statement.

The waiver will allow assessment missions and limited technical assistance by Myanmar by international financial institutions (IFIs) such as the World Bank, the Asian Development Bank, and the International Monetary Fund. The statement issued Monday noted Clinton had committed to supporting IF assessments during her visit to Myanmar in December “in response to encouraging reforms under way in that country.”

Those steps included measures to pave the way for Daw Aung San Suu Kyi and the National League for Democracy to participate in upcoming parliamentary by-elections, release of political prisoners, broader civil liberties, and preliminary cease fire talks with certain ethnic minority groups, the statement said. “The (Myanmar) government has also taken some steps to address deficiencies cited in the department’s June 2011 Trafficking in Persons Report,” it added.—MNA/APP/CPNA

Local Taleban leader captured in south Afghanistan

KANDAHAR, 7 Feb—A local Taleban leader was captured during a joint operation on Tuesday morning in southern Kandahar Province of Helmund, said a Press release issued here by NATO-led forces.

“In Nahr-e-Saraj District, Helmund Province, an Afghan and coalition security force captured a Taleban leader during an operation today,” the NATO-led International Security Assistance Force (ISAF) said.

Without identifying the captured leader, the release said: “The leader moved supplies for fighters and directed a militant cell specializing in bomb attacks throughout the Province.”

Another suspected militant was detained during the operation, it added.

The Afghan and ISAF forces also detained a Taleban facilitator during a separate operation in Arghandab District of neighbouring Kandahar Province Tuesday morning, according to the release. “The facilitator supplied militants with explosives for use in attacks throughout Arghan-

Man gets 24 years for Colombian journalist’s killing

Bogota, 7 Feb—A former militiaman was sentenced to 24 years in prison for his role in the murder of journalist Alvaro Alonso Escobar, who was gunned down last December 22 in a coastal town in northern Colombia, authorities said Monday.

Edgar Ariel Cordoba Trujillo was also ordered to pay a fine equivalent to $467,950.

The sentence and fine were handed down to Cordoba by a court in Santa Marta, the capital of Magdalena province, the Attorney General’s Office said Monday.

Two unidentified individuals gunned down journalist Escobar 23 Dec, 2001, in Fundacion, Magdalena, where he edited and published the weekly Regional.

Osama’s right-hand man in Europe ‘gets bail despite posing ‘grave threat to UK national security’

LONDON, 7 Feb—Abu Qatada, a radical Muslim cleric described as ‘Osama bin Laden’s right-hand man in Europe’ was released on bail within days, despite accusations that he poses a grave threat to Britain’s security.

Qatada was granted bail after the European Court of Human Rights ruled last month that he could not be deported to his native Jordan. His bail conditions mean he is likely to be confined to his home except for two one-hour periods each day, and will probably be allowed to take one of his five children to school, The Telegraph reports.

Restrictions on his movement are likely to be lifted if the Home Secretary fails to show within three months that progress is being made in negotiations with Jordan regarding his extradition.

According to the paper, the decision to release Qatada, a 51-year-old father of five, means he can return home and be able to claim up to 1,000 pounds a month in state benefits.

Imran Khan warns Afghanistan may slide into civil war

ISLAMABAD, 7 Feb—Pakistan’s Prime Minister Imran Khan has warned that Afghanistan could slide into civil war once NATO forces leave the country for good.

“My fear is that they are going to leave a bigger mess than was left by the Soviets when they left there because could be a civil war there now,” Sky News quoted him as saying.

“The army now is well armed and from the Northern Alliance. The Pathshins with the Taleban are not armed... they are with the majority. Once they (NATO) leave, there is going to be a civil war, a power struggle there exactly like what happened after the Russians left,” he said.

Overuse of computers to harm fingers

Do you spend hours in front of the computer and get numbness or pain on your palms or fingers? If yes, you are suffering from Carpal Tunnel Syndrome (CTS). In this condition wherein the median nerve gets compressed below the carpel tunnel at the wrist, City doctors warn that with the excessive use of computers and the booming IT industry, the number of youngsters suffering from this problem has increased.

Dr Harish Chandran, consultant, orthopaedic and sports medicine, said, “In a month we get at least 10 to 15 cases whereas two years back it was hardly four to five cases a month. Most of them come to us at a much later stage in acute conditions as the symptoms are taken casually in the beginning,” he said. “Most of the cases are in the age group of 25 to 35 years.”

Soy supplements may not protect against breast cancer

WASHINGTON, Feb—Soy isoflavone supplements have failed to decrease breast cancer cell proliferation in a randomized clinical trial, according to a study.

Solid ‘finger food’ may help babies avoid obesity

Infants outgrowing a liquid diet who give themselves finger food rather than being spoon-fed puree are likely to eat healthily and avoid getting fat during weaning, reports a study released on Tuesday.

Researchers found that the technique, known as “baby-led weaning,” led to a child expressing a clear preference for pasta, rice, and other carbohydrates over sweets, thus helping to cement a foundation for eating the right foods.

Experts and parents alike have long debated over when and how to help an infant make the transition from mother’s milk or the bottle to a solid-food regimen. Many studies have already concluded that self-feeding with finger food is fine for most infants. But what impact this approach might have on longer-term taste preferences and a child’s overall health has until now been less clear.

Sixty percent of the kids had been allowed to feed themselves finger foods such as strips of toast and pieces of fruit, while the remaining 40 percent had been spoon-fed pureed foods throughout the weaning process. The research, published in the British Medical Journal (BMJ), was based on a questionnaire answered by parents in the region.

MGM secures $500 million loan to expand film, TV slate

LOS ANGELES, Feb—Metro-Goldwyn Mayer said its lenders agreed to loan the studio $500 million to retire debt it took on when it emerged from bankruptcy about a year ago and to expand its film and TV production. The revolving credit facility replaces a term loan and smaller revolving facility the studio received as part of a pre-packed bankruptcy in which its lenders exchanged $4 billion in outstanding debt for equity valued at about $2 billion.

The studio also hired Gary Barber and Roger Birnbaum, who ran the production company, Spyglass Entertainment, to operate the company. The company’s net profit in the three months to December dived to Tw$1.6 billion from Tw$18.6 billion in the previous quarter.

Evidence suggests ancient Mars ocean

PARIS, 7 Feb—The European Space Agency says its Mars Express orbiter has discovered strong evidence for a large ocean once covering part of the Red Planet. Using radar, it has detected sediments suggestive of an ocean floor within the boundaries of previously identified ancient shorelines on Mars, an ESA release said on Monday.

“We interpret these as sedimentary deposits, maybe ice-rich,” Jeremie Mouginot, of the Institut de Planétologie et d’Astrophysique de Grenoble said. “It is a strong new indication that there was once an ocean here.”

Scientists have theorized oceans could have formed at two points in the planet’s history: 4 billion years ago, when warmer conditions prevailed, or 1 billion years ago when subsurface ice melted following a large impact. This later ocean would have been temporary, researchers said, since in a million years or less the water would have either frozen back in place and gone underground or turned into vapor and lifted gradually into the atmosphere.

“I don’t think it could have stayed an ocean long enough for life to form,” Mouginot said.—INTERNET

Nokia Lumia 800 to come in white

EETOP, 7 Feb—Europeans, the Lumia 800 will be available in white starting later this month, according to Nokia. If you don’t know much about the Lumia 800, that’s understandable because you can’t really buy it in the US. Nokia claims it will release an unlocked model intended for US carriers soon, the only way you can get it is through Nokia’s web site or other online means.

The Lumia 800 was first unveiled back in October. Along with the Lumia 710, it marks Nokia’s first foray into Windows Phone. The company is putting its weight behind Microsoft’s smartphone operating system, shunning Google’s Android, which is the preferred multiplexor OS for most smartphone manufacturers like Samsung, Motorola, and HTC.

There haven’t been any actual announcements, but we hope that the Lumia 900 will come in white as well. The phone is basically a larger Lumia 800, but it will be launched on AT&T in March. We played around with the Lumia 900 at CES and liked what we saw.—INTERNET

Apple iPad users ‘more satisfied’ than Kindle Fire owners

LONDON, 7 Feb—People who own Amazon Kindle Fire are less satisfied than those who own an Apple iPad, a survey has revealed. The survey conducted by US research firm, ChangeWave revealed that out of 200 tablet-owning Americans 74 percent who own an iPad said that there were “very satisfied” with the device. While just 54 percent people who own Amazon tablet felt ‘satisfied’ with the device, The Telegraph reports.

Kindle Fire owners were most pleased about the cost of the device, its colour screen and ease of use. But they were not happy about the fact that the tablet does not have a volume adjustor button, no camera and a smaller screen size than the iPad, the report said.

People were also very unhappy about the device’s battery life being too short and the number of apps, which are available through the Amazon app store.
Romney wins Nevada with 50% of vote

Republican Mitt Romney won the Nevada presidential caucus with 30 percent of the vote, more than twice his nearest rival. Newt Gingrich, and followed by Paul with 21.1 percent, full results showed on Monday.

The Nevada Republican Party congratulates Governor Mitt Romney on his victory as well as the entire field for their participation in the caucuses,” said the state’s acting party chairman James Smack. “Republican’s in Nevada are moving in the right direction, we continue to register more voters than the Democrat Party, and we are enthusiastic to move forward after our caucuses to beat Barack Obama and build on our GOP victories in 2010, he added in a statement on the state party’s Twitter feed.

The win — with slightly less than the 51.1 percent he earned in 2008 — was widely expected due to a combination of his well-oiled campaign machine in the western battleground state, and the large Mormon community sharing his faith.

Four years ago, Paul won 13.7 percent in the state, while John McCain — who went on to become the Republican presidential nominee, but lost to Barack Obama — came in with 12.7 percent. The four remaining candidates have been campaigning for the last few days ahead of Tuesday’s polls in Colorado, Minnesota and Missouri. — Internet

Suspects kill officer, steals police car before he is fatally shot

New York, 7 Feb—An Alabama robbery suspect fatally stabbed a police officer in jail, escaped in a stolen patrol car and wounded another officer before he was killed, authorities said Friday.

The chain of events, which left Mobile, Alabama, mourning the loss of an officer, started early on Friday when Lawrence Wallace Jr was in a store. Wallace, who was carrying a lighter and lighter fluid, stormed the front counter of the store and demanded money, said Ashley Rain, a spokeswoman for the Mobile police.

As the cashier frantically tried to open the register, Wallace jumped on top of her and began spraying lighter fluid on the floor, triggering a blaze. An off-duty police officer happened to be shopping at the store and tackled Wallace, Rain said.

He was taken to Mobile’s metro jail, where he was somehow able to stab and kill Officer Steven Green and escape in a patrol car, police said. At some point during the manhunt for Wallace, he abandoned the police car and hid under a home. The suspect was among officers in the area as police tried to apprehend him. That officer was treated and released from a hospital, police said. After a standoff, Wallace, 24, was shot and killed, police said. — Internet

Overflowing dam floods Bulgarian village

Sozna, 7 Feb—The village of Biser in southeast Bulgaria, near the border with Greece and Turkey, was flooded on Monday morning after the wall of a nearby dam was broken, officials said. The village was hit by two waves with a height of three and five metres respectively, witnesses told reporters.

In some places, the water depth is over 2.5 meters, but the tidal wave in the village end, Commissioner Nikolay Nikolov, head of the General Directorate “Fire Safety and Protection of Population Service,” told the Bulgarian National Radio. The first teams of rescue workers and firefighters were already working in the most affected parts of the village, he added. Head of the village Zlatka Valkova told the Bulgarian National Television that almost the whole village was flooded and some houses were torn down, but no casualties were reported so far. — Xinhua

Radioactive Iodine-131 detected in Austria, no source

Vienna, 7 Feb—Higher than normal levels of radiation Iodine-131 was measured in the air in Austria but without danger to the public health, said the Austrian Agency for Health and Food Safety (AGES) on Monday, ruling out a source in Austria. Traces of isotope were detected by the air-collecting station in Vienna from 30 Jan to 2 Feb. The Iodine-131 concentration was at an extremely low level of six microbecquerel per cubic meter of air, which could be detected only using highly sensitive analytical methods.

According to media reports, in the past two weeks, comparable size of radioactive Iodine-131 was also detected in other atmosphere in European countries, including Sweden, Finland, Germany and Poland.

The AGES believed that the results of the measurements and dispersion calculation would indicate that the source may locate in Eastern Europe because there had been a similar incident happened in November, 2011. A defect in the filtration system of a Hungarian radioisotope institute has caused the release of radioactive iodine-131 into the air. — Xinhua

Chinese workers kidnapped in Sudan ‘to be released’

New York, 7 Feb—A group of Chinese construction workers abducted in Sudan were expected to be released within 48 hours, almost two weeks after they were taken hostage in a remote area of Sudan’s volatile South Kordofan state, Sudanese media reported on Tuesday.

Khartoum’s Al-Ahdath daily said the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) has successfully mediated for the release of the workers who were kidnapped in a raid on a site run by China’s Power Construction Corp on 28 January.

The Sudanese military said the Sudan People’s Liberation Movement-North, rebel force in the border region with neighbouring South Sudan, was responsible for the attack and kidnapping.

The mediation led by the ICRC between Khartoum and Sudan People’s Liberation Movement (SPLM) leaders has made important progress and expected to bear fruit within 48 hours, Sudanese media was quoted as saying by China’s state-run Xinhua news agency.

The rebels abducted 29 of the total 47 Chinese workers in the camp, while the other 18 workers fled to neighbouring areas. The Sudanese army found 17 Chinese workers later and transported them to a safe place, but one worker in still missing.

South Sudan became the world’s newest nation last year after decades of conflict with the north. Nevertheless, violence in South Kordofan and the nearby Blue Nile states has forced hundreds of thousands of people to flee their homes. While the region is in Sudanese territory, it straddles Sudan and South Sudan’s ethnic and political lines.

China is Sudan’s largest trading partner, while Sudan is China’s third-largest trading partner in Africa. According to the Chinese foreign ministry, trade between the two countries reached $8.63 billion in 2010, an increase of 25.1% compared with the previous year. — Internet

Japanese govt. intervenes 5 times in foreign exchange market in Q4

Tokyo, 7 Feb—The Japanese government carried out five rounds of interventions into the foreign exchange market in the last three months of 2011, spending about 90.9 trillion yen (about 118.7 billion US dollars), the data from Finance Ministry revealed on Tuesday.

The moves were aimed to keep in check the sharp appreciation of the Japanese currency against the US dollar which had been eroding the profits of the exporters in the country. The US dollar bought 75.32 yen on 31 Oct last year, marking a postwar peak.

The Japanese government stepped into the market with a record 8.07 trillion yen intervention on that day.

The step was followed by a total of 1.02 trillion yen interventions in early November by unannounced operations.

However, the effect of these attempts had been questioned as the yen tended to gradually resume its strength after the movements.

Eisuke Sakakibara, known as “Mr Yen,” as a recent conference in Tokyo’s foreign correspondents’ club, the intervention would not be effective if the government did not recredit the yen from the US government. — Xinhua

At present, eleven kinds of academy awards are presented to outstanding film artistes. Up to now, a total of 328 academy awards have been given to the winners,

In looking back the Myanmar motion picture history, those of motion picture world are actively taking part in their respective sectors for serving interests of the motion picture world, the State and the people during the pre-World War period, the era of pre-independence struggles, the period of independence struggles in fighting against colonialists and Fascists, during the period of safeguarding the independence and today’s nation-building period, he said. Therefore, he said that outstanding artistes and film technicians from the motion picture world have been awarded in consecutive eras. On the 64th Anniversary Independence Day 2012, he added that the President has conferred Sithu titles on many artistes who dutifully took out the nation-building tasks with their film performances focusing on the interests of the State, the people and the national cause. Moreover, he said that this year’s academy awarding ceremony is decorated with newest designs and styles applying the information technology.

In his address he expressed thanks and pleasure for attendance of dignitaries of the State and those from the film world.

He continued to say that the Union government elected by the people is emphasizing the reforms in ensuring stability and prevalence of law and order of the State that the people aspire, national reconciliation, flourishing of democracy, emergence of good governance and clean government, enjoying fundamental rights of the citizens in accord with the provisions from the constitution, enhancement of education and health standards, economic reforms, development of future social-economic life of the State and the people, environmental conservation and international relations as much as possible. He noted that unprecedented progress can be seen in all aspects including political, economic, democracy and social sectors during the 10-month governance period of the new government.

In raising the process of reforms, legislative, executive and judicial pillars are being operated separately in line with the democracy, and check-and-balance system is being realized among them, he said. Likewise, he said that the media sector defined as the fourth estate to steer the above-mentioned three pillars is being built up through freedom and accountability, freedom and rationality, and at the same time, efforts are being made for equipping the fourth estate with its characteristics.

With regard to the motion picture and video industry that is undertaking to educate, inform and entertain the people who are involved in the fourth estate, the government has cased four of ten points in motion picture and video censor disciplines that were practised in the past to be able to create

He explained five objectives that Myanmar Motion Picture Enterprise and those from film circle have to realize whenever opportunity and mentioned them on the occasion again—

1. To focus on development and unity of Myanmar motion picture and video industry for improvement in socio-economic life of artists,
2. To strive for technical development of Myanmar motion picture and video production,
3. To endeavour for improvement in standard and quality of Myanmar films and videos,
4. To make efforts to penetrate international film and video market,
5. To accomplish the national duties of the State in tandem with the government.

He then again mentioned the five points that artists should prioritize under the aegis of the Myanmar Motion Picture Enterprise for development of film industry—

1. To build modern studios either alone or in group in accordance with State’s policy,
2. To widely cooperate with foreign countries in film shooting, editing and domestic and foreign showing,
3. To try to make a shift from analogue to digital filming,
4. To upgrade audio and video systems of private-owned and government-lent cinemas,
5. To take simultaneous actions to build international standard cinema complexes and digital cinemas.

He then said that it was distinct that those points were aimed for the interests of Myanmar motion picture sphere and artists urged them to gear up the current efforts with every possible mean by taking those points as top priorities.

He then again called the Myanmar Motion Picture Enterprise to play a leading role in realizing 12-point film industry development plan, urging all those engaged in film industry to make commitment to achieve that goal. But, there may be loads of difficulties and conflicts in joint-stride towards the destination, said the Union Minister who added that there was no reason to fail if only collaborative efforts are made out of the shared aim for the development film and...

(movie industry, balanced consideration of self and others interests, persistence, diligence, industry and effort, unity, cooperation, patience and forgiveness. He added that his ministry was assisting as much as it could and would do so in the future.

He continued to say that the government was encouraging, monitoring, and setting fair objectives and adopting plans for the development of Myanmar motion picture industry and at the same time it would take steps to reform the executive board of the Myanmar Motion Picture Organization which he attributes rely with trustworthy personalities in line with the aspirations of those engaged in film industry. He also aimed to improve the future academy award presentation through coordination. He said that the Ministry of Information would also arrange for representatives of film and movie sphere to be able to join the organizations formed by the ministry for the interests of those engaged in film industry in line with rules and regulations.

These days, world’s film production techniques have changed and the global film standard has improved further and further due to the advent of modern equipment. Moreover, the advancement in video presentation system compatible with production standard has made it possible for enjoyment of excellent visual and audio experiences. Taking a look at the Myanmar Movie World, there still exist the weakness and the needs in almost all layers such as plots, acting, costume, stage, show, cinema service, foreign markets penetration, technology and producers. It is heartening to see efforts for penetration into foreign markets.

The standard of movie production becomes high. At the same time, the cinema’s standards need to be high. Then, harmonious development would be seen. So, suggestions have been given to movie show entrepreneurs across the country for promoting standards of cinemas. In addition, encouragements have been given for construction of international-standard cinemas. So, there are three modern cinemas, including one with 3D system in Nay Pyi Taw. Plans are under way to open international-standard cinemas including cinemas with 3D system in Yangon and Mandalay in the coming months. World’s films production and shows system have transformed to digital system. So, efforts are to be made for transformation of films production and show to digital system.

He said that since 2007, Ministry of Information had been making step-by-step coordination with the People’s Republic of China for joint-production of a TV series based on World War II. Now, it has reached preliminary agreement to sign and will be done step by step. Likewise, Ministry of Information would extend a helping hand to privates and organizations for films production and shows.

Seminars and workshops with ASEAN countries, partner countries making coop- eration with ASEAN countries are being held in order that artists and technicians can get knowledge and make cooperation. And plans are underway to continue holding these seminars and workshops.

He said that nowadays, the world’s countries did their acts based only on their national interests. Likewise, political parties, politicians and people have different opinions and political creeds in Myanmar’s multiparty democracy system. All Myanmar people are to make coordination based on same things regardless of different ones. By doing so, it can serve the country and public interest through democracy system. It is importance of all media which is fourth estate, to try to be good media men capable of serving the national interest, he urged. He said, in doing so, media men were urged to obey the following factors:

- to ensure fourth estate for genuine democracy;
- to do anything based on national interest to try to have Unity in Democracy in the film and video world;
- to obey discipline and law to practise freedom and accountability along with freedom and rationality and;
- to avoid acts that can jeopardize people’s interest.

He said that outstanding awards for 2010 were going to be presented soon. Every steps of Myanmar Motion Picture Outstanding Award Scrutiny Board comprising almost half of artists and technicians from movie, music and literary field has chosen outstanding awards based on seven basic principles that include in movie law. Only those who deserve outstanding awards from 15 movies in 2010 were chosen. He urged those who won awards this year and the rest to continue to try to get awards in the years to come.

He noted that artists and technicians from film world actively played a part in struggle for independence, safeguarding and defending of independence, stability and development activities in a harmonious way throughout the history of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar. Today, they are also committed to development of the country. He urged that upholding the Union spirit and duties and responsibilities prescribed in the Constitution, all from the film world as fourth pillar are to give their efforts to building a new democratic nation in the interest of the people.

In conclusion, he urged them to uphold five objectives and 12 basic principles looking forward to development of film crew; make concerted efforts to have required machines and studios, joint-venture movie shooting and production and to possess advanced display system and international standard cinemas so as to produce quality Myanmar films; preserve cultural heritage and national characteristics using film technology; and join hands with the government and the people for emergence of a peaceful, developed and democratic nation.

and fish prices in market and at shops are high. Reviewing the root cause, it is due to high transport charges and other unnecessary transaction costs.

So, Pyidaungsu Hluttaw needs to urge organizations concerned to adopt new projects to help reduce high commodity prices and other transaction costs, the Speaker noted.

In adopting national plans and projects, it is necessary to gather and calculate correct data like in Gross Domestic Product-GDP. Only then will correct and appropriate national plans and projects emerge.

Out of the bills submitted to Pyidaungsu Hluttaw, the ones of some departments are found to have a big difference in terms of Myanmar's population. So, taking of census must be carried out projects on an early basis.

Some businesses should not only pay attention to make profit and they should also carry out Environment Impact Assessment (EIA), Social Impact Assessment (SIA) and Health Impact Assessment (HIA). It is in the duty of the Pyidaungsu Hluttaw representatives to decide investments as the investments include money of the people and decision should be made after the short-term and long-term advantages were accessed.

In conclusion, he called on the Speaker and representatives of Pyidaungsu Hluttaw for making decisions to increase the pay and salaries of workers and employees at the start of the upcoming fiscal year so that they can enjoy high living standards and the clean government and good governance can be formed, to allow laws which can help projects that can benefit the country and people and to reject, suspend and limit the projects which cannot benefit the country and the people, to urge the body concerned to invest in the national development project or human resource development project as the project can benefit the country and the people in short and long term, to understand and cooperate with those who work within the law, to oppose anyone and group at home and abroad who put hindrances to bringing benefits to the country and the people and to urge every citizen to obey the existing rules and laws.

U Saw Hla Tun, a representative from Changyi-U Township, seconded a proposal urging Pyidaungsu Hluttaw to use the above discussion as guidelines in drawing the national development plan by the government.

The proposal was approved by Pyidaungsu Hluttaw.

U Aung Than of Pathein Hluttaw, U Thein Yi of Htanbin Constituency, U Thein Tun of Kyaukpyu Constituency, U Mann Maung Maung Nyan of Pantanaw Constituency, U Myint Shwe of Waw Constituency and Dr Mya Oo of Ngazun Constituency discussed matters related to the national planning bills.

As an important proposal, Daw Nann Saw Oo of Hpakan Constituency submitted a proposal urging Pyidaungsu Hluttaw to carry the discussion of Speaker of Pyithu Hluttaw Thura U Shwe Mann about the matters related to the national planning bills live on television and the proposal was seconded by Daw Zar Talam of Thantlang Constituency.

Pyidaungsu Hluttaw approved the proposal.

Dr Mya Oo of Bagay Region Constituency No. 1, Dr Aung Lin of Setkakaw Township Constituency, U Phone Myint Aung of Yangon Region Constituency No. 3, Dr Khin Maung Swiec of Kayin Hluttaw, Daw U Aung Than of Shwebo Constituency and U Nyan Win of Hlinethaya Constituency took part in discussions.

The meeting ended at 3:10 pm and it will continue tomorrow.—MNA

Toledo hot dog chain made famous on ‘M*A*S*H’ sold

A troubled Ohio hot dog restaurant chain made famous in the TV series ‘M*A*S*H’ has been sold after months of legal wrangling, allowing descendants of the eponymous Tony Packo to keep running his favorite frankfurter place.

Ohio-based TP Foods LLC assumed control of Tony Packo’s on Saturday when a bank restored previously agreed financing terms that it had rescinded. TP Foods President Bob Bennett said.

Tony Packo Jr and Tony Packo III have joined TP Foods and will run the restaurants for Bennett.

Bennett met with employees of the five-restaurant chain on Monday morning and said he was encouraged about the chain’s future.

“I’m really pleased,” Bennett said. “The employees are happy. We’re going to go ahead and run the restaurant the way we have in the past.”

Tony Packo’s, in its 80th year, rose to fame on the hit TV show in the 1970s when Toledo native Jamie Farr played Korean War soldier Cpl Klinger, a character also from Toledo who frequently talked about home and his favorite hot dog.

Packo’s has been under duress since August 2010, when the company’s owner, Robin Horvath, alleged misappropriation of corporate funds in a lawsuit against his cousin, Tony Packo III, Packo’s executive vice president. Packo’s then defaulted on a Fifth Third Bank loan and Horvath sued to gain control of the company from co-owner Tony Packo Jr, Tony III’s father.

On 19 December, Lucas County Common Pleas Court Judge Gene Zmuda approved the sale of Packo’s to TP Foods for $5.5 million. The deal fell apart in January when Fifth Third changed the terms of a loan, but was resurrected after Fifth Third agreed to return to the original terms, Bennett said.

Ohio’s Sixth District Court of Appeals could still rule in Horvath’s favor, but Bennett said he’s not concerned.

Tom Matuszak, Horvath’s attorney, could not be reached for comment.

New scented jeans smell like raspberries when scratched

If you don’t mind shelling out $50 for pair of raspberry-scented jeans, you can at least save some of that hard-earned cash by skipping regular trips to the laundry mat.

The Mirror reports that Naked and Famous Denim is now selling a line of “scratch-n-sniff” men’s jeans that can mask the odor of repeated wearings. As the company’s website states: “Yes, these jeans actually smell like raspberry candy when scratched. The effect is created by coating the denim fabric with a special coating that contains mini microcapsules.”

Still, how many guys are going to pick raspberry as their go-to scent? To that end, Naked and Famous says they will be offering additional scented jeans in additional fragrances, including apple, blackberry, eucalyptus, grapefruit and mint.

Back in December, the Side show wrote about a Chinese company that is developing a line of self-cleaning t-shirts. It would seem we’re only a piece or two of clothing away from a truly no hassle wardrobe.

SALT LAKE CITY, 7 Feb—Troubled actress Demi Moore is a patient at the Cirque Lodge addiction treatment center in Sundance, Utah, a source told E! News. The insider said Moore, 49, checked into the facility after she was hospitalized 23 Jan for seizure-like symptoms she suffered during a party at her home in the Benedict Canyon area of Los Angeles. Some media reports alleged she fell after getting high off of nitrous-oxide inhalers called whip-its. The start of “Margin Call,” “Ghost,” “About Last Night” and “St Elmo’s Fire” is the mother of three grown daughters with her ex-husband Bruce Willis. Her marriage to actor Ashton Kutcher recently ended.

Randy Travis arrested for public drunkenness

DALLAS, 7 Feb—Country music star Randy Travis was arrested for public intoxication outside a Dallas church on Monday morning, police said.

The Sanger Police Department told TMZ Travis, 52, was arrested after police responding to a complaint found him allegedly inebriated near a Baptist church, with an open bottle of wine.

Malinna shapes up to play Jatt sprinter

NEW DELHI, 7 Feb—There’s something about Malinna. The only Bollywood actor to get honorary citizenship from the Los Angeles City Council in 2009, she was also recently awarded a special citation in her name. But her first public event was a former Japanese Prime Minister, who was so wowed by Jackie Chan’s co-star in The Myth (2005) that he, along with the rest of his delegation, took her to the media room for a photo op, inviting her to their country for a special visit.

She revealed that she would love to visit Japan, but for now, her focus is on India, rather, her home state of Haryana. In one of her forthcoming movies, Lucky Unlucky, Malinna plays a Jatt sprinter and admits that she has already started shaping up for the role. “I have a trainer in L.A., working out with me. I’ve always been fit and fine and a vegan with a healthy lifestyle, but for this movie, that’s not enough. I need to get myself an athletic body that would look good in a sprinter’s suit,” she points out.—Internet

Eli Manning books ‘Late Show’ visit

NEW YORK, 7 Feb—New York Giants quarterback Eli Manning has been booked to appear on “Late Show with David Letterman” a day after his team won the Super Bowl, CBS said.

Manning was declared Super Bowl XLVI MVP after the New York Giants beat the New England Patriots Sunday night. He is to appear on Monday’s edition of “Late Show” in New York.

This will be the eighth consecutive film that the 12-time Pro Bowl winning quarterback has appeared on the show after clinching the championship, CBS said Monday.—Internet

Television actor Tony Danza is to star in a Broadway musical based on the 1992 film “Honeymoon in Vegas” in spring 2013, the show’s producers said on Monday.

Robber had shorts on his head

Police in Florida said a man accused of attempted bank robbery wore a pair of shorts on his head during the crime, but they didn’t cover his face.

The Monroe County Sheriff’s Office said Eli Escalera, 43, was wearing the shorts like a hat on Friday when he walked into the First State Bank on Stock Island near Key West at 12:30 pm and handed a note to a teller reading, “Give me what are 20s and 50s,” KeysNet.com reported on Monday.

The confused teller asked Escalera what jeans actually smell like raspberries when scratched. The effect is created by coating the denim fabric with a special coating that contains mini microcapsules.”

Still, how many guys are going to pick raspberry as their go-to scent? To that end, Naked and Famous says they will be offering additional scented jeans in additional fragrances, including apple, blackberry, eucalyptus, grapefruit and mint.

London, 7 Feb — The Barclays Premier League Trophy Tour will visit Thailand for the first time since 2008, giving fans the chance to get up close and personal with the world’s most popular football league. The Trophy Tour is a four-week tour of famous venues around the world, with Central World in Bangkok the latest stop on 11 to 12 February. Fans are now able to book their priority place for this unique event at the BarclaysPremierLeagueTrophyTour website.

The free interactive event gives fans that may never get the opportunity to visit a Barclays Premier League match the chance to discover more about the league, the players and the clubs through various behind-the-scenes experiences. Fans will be able to sense what it feels like to sit in a Barclays Premier League ground, view the Premier League Trophy and learn about its history, as well as the chance to get a picture of themselves lifting the famous trophy with the help of green screen technology.

There are also numerous interactive exhibits in the 20 club pods, including giving supporters the chance to find out if they can run faster than Theo Walcott, punch a corner flag like Tim Cahill and hear the noise of the loudest fans in the League. Premier League Chief Executive Richard Scudamore said: “We’re excited about joining Barclays in bringing the Trophy Tour to Thailand for the first time.

“With the Trophy Tour we want to show football fans in Thailand even more of what is at the heart of our competition: the Trophy itself, as that is what every player and manager compete to get their hands on; the fantastic football as played by our 20 clubs, because that is what excites hundreds of millions of week-in-week-out; and the history and tradition of English football, as that is what creates the huge interest in the competition.”

Sharapova sets sights on London Olympics

Paris, 7 Feb — Maria Sharapova is making the London Olympics one of her top priorities this year after missing the Beijing Games with an injury. The third-ranked Russian has won three Grand Slam titles but has never competed at the Olympics.

“Representing my country there will be a huge honor for me,” Sharapova said. “I’m really looking forward to the grass season.

Wimbledon is a big goal every single year. And obviously, two weeks later coming into the Olympics, which I’ve never been a part of in my career—something that I’ve always wanted to do and be a part of since I was a young kid. In Russia, I wouldn’t say that it was the biggest dream, the biggest goal.” Sharapova missed the 2008 Beijing Olympics because of a shoulder injury. Despite losing 3-6, 3-6 to Victoria Azarenka last month in a Dubai quarterfinal, Sharapova hopes her Australian Open campaign will still be a springboard for winning another major title this year. “I didn’t play competitively for a few months, and coming in with an injury in the ankle, to have that result in Australia was personally quite big,” Sharapova said. Sharapova hurt her left ankle in September at the Pan Pacific Championships in Tokyo. The injury forced her to withdraw from the China Open and later the WTA Championships in Istanbul after two losses.

“Getting to the final is a step forward toward where I want to get,” Sharapova said. “Obviously, you want to be the one holding the trophy, but it doesn’t always work out that way.” A little time and eventually belief, and it happens. It doesn’t come at once, it takes a lot of time and development. As far as this year, I still have many opportunities to hopefully achieve that.” Sharapova is competing in the Open GDF Suez for the first time this week.

Sir Alex Ferguson critiques assistant ref after Man Utd draw

London, 7 Feb — Manchester United manager Sir Alex Ferguson criticized assistant referee Darren Cann after the 3-3 draw with Chelsea. Ferguson claimed Cammisa was fouled by Chelsea debutant Gary Cahill on Danny Welbeck and is happy to award penalties against United but not for them. “They should have had a man sent off in the first half,” said Ferguson. “That linesman [gave] a penalty against us from 40 yards away last year against Liverpool—and he can’t see that?” Ferguson accepted that Cahill’s challenge on Welbeck in the 10th minute was outside the penalty area, but thought the Blues centre-back should have been denied for his striker a goalscoring opportunity. He said: “I don’t blame [referee] Howard Webb. He needed help in that situation and he didn’t get it. “That assistant referee, who’s all too happy to flag at Old Trafford for penalty kicks, didn’t give them.” United fought back from 3-0 down with 35 minutes left to pick up a point at Stamford Bridge. Striker Wayne Rooney twice scored from the spot before Javier Hernandez’s headed equaliser, although Ferguson felt his side were unlucky not to have two more penalties. “We had two penalties in the second half which were justified,” insisted the Scot. “But I think we could have had four. “We’d clear our through and he was brought down. OK, it’s outside the box but there was nothing, no decision.”

Tour Report: Chopra bags two aces in Pebble practice

Pebble Beach, 7 Feb — Daniel Chopra made not one but starting a programme of practice around Pebble Beach for the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am.

Chopra first aced the par-3 seventh hole, which played to 103 yards Monday. Chopra holed out with a Ping Tour-S Rustique 50-degree wedge. Ten holes later, at the 17th, Chopra made a nine from 176 yards out with a Ping S56 7-iron. The ace were Chopra’s 4th and 10th in his career. The Swede has made seven previous starts at the AT&T with a high finish of T5 in 2006.

Rendall Munroe overcomes Jose Saiz in 170 seconds

Leicester, 7 Feb — Leicester’s Rendall Munroe took just one round to beat Argentina’s Jose Saiz in a non-title super bantamweight fight on Saturday.

The 32-year-old former European champion claimed victory in 17 seconds at the Bolton’s Reebok Stadium. Munroe told BBC Radio Leicester: “The opponent was a good opponent and I’ve proved my calibre again.

“I wanted to go out and make a statement and show everybody that I’m still hungry.” He continued: “My last couple of fights I’ve shown I can box as well as fight and now I’ve switched it around andI’m showing I can fight and I’m a hard puncher.” Last year, Munroe decided to drop down a division to bantamweight but remained at super-bantamweight for his fight with Saiz after failing to secure an opponent at his level. He added: “I’m hoping to get a world title eliminator to give me the chance to fight for a world title again. The talks are in the pipeline and hopefully that will happen soon.”

Frumpong ruled out for season

London, 7 Feb — Osakan Wolves midfielder Emanuell Frumpong has been ruled out for the rest of the season after being told that he ruptured the anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee against QPR on Saturday. The 20-year-old cam off in the 24th minute of the 2-1 victory at Loftus Road and was informed of the diagnosis on Monday after a scan. Frumpong, who was due to be on loan at Wolves until the end of the season, will now return to parent club Arsenal to continue his treatment.

“Having had a similar injury to his left knee in 2010, Emmanuell will see specialists in London over the next few days before having surgery and rehabilitation,” read an Arsenal statement. “We would like to thank Osakan for their cooperation with this matter and we will continue to work with their medical team to ensure Emanuell makes a full recovery.”

Frumpong made 14 appearances for Arsenal this campaign before being loaned to Wolves at the end of December. He impressed in his five-month spell at Molineux and was set to have been a key part of the club’s attempts to stave off relegation from the Barclays Premier League. On this official Twitter account, Frumpong said: “I want to thank Osakan and Wolves fans for their support since I’ve been here and really hope Wolves stay up this season.”

Djokovic, Barcelona win at 2012 Laureus awards

London, 7 Feb — Novak Djokovic won the top individual honour at the 2012 Laureus Sports Awards on Monday, and Barcellona win at 2012 Laureus awards. The top-ranked Djokovic won sportsman of the year at the ceremony in London, one week after the Serbian triumphed at the Australian Open to become the fifth man in the Open era to win three Grand Slam titles in a row.

Barcelona was recognized as the best team after a stellar 2011 in which Pep Guardiola’s players won the Spanish league and Champions League.

Kenyan distance runner Vivian Cheruiyot, winner of the 5,000- and 10,000-meter titles at the world championships last year, took the sportswoman’s award. Darren Clarke was honored with the comeback of the year award. The 43-year-old Northern Irishman won his first golf major by capturing the British Open at Royal St George’s last year. Compatriot Rotary McIlroy won the breakthrough of the year award for the 22-year-old’s eight-shot win at the US Open at Congressional, becoming the second-youngest player to win a major since 1934.

Jakarta, 7 Feb—Conservation group WWF said it spotted 18 critically endangered Irrawaddy dolphins in Indonesian waters off Borneo island Tuesday and called for greater protection of the species’ habitat.

There is little data on the Irrawaddy dolphin which resembles the common bottlenose dolphin but has no beak and a snub dorsal fin—and no comprehensive survey has been conducted to measure its global population. “In the past, locals and fishermen reported seeing the dolphins, but we have never recorded them until now,” WWF conservation biologist Alberto Tito told AFP. Over five days a research team surveyed 260 kilometres (161 miles) along the coast of West Kalimantan, on Indonesia’s half of Borneo island, and spotted the species travelling in small groups.

The sightings show that the dolphins’ habitat is still intact, despite degradation by hundreds of pulp and charcoal plantations by the coastal, Tjia said. The team also encountered three Indo-Pacific humpback dolphins that live in the same type of ecosystem.

The two dolphin species live in biodiverse mangroves—estuaries of demestropical trees or shrubs that grow along coastal sediments resembling muddy swampland. Mangroves have a distinct vegetation that, like peatlands, can take thousands of years to fully form.

“We call on all businesses operating in the area to act sustainably to conserve the mangroves,” Internet
Sixth day session of Pyidaungsu Hluttaw continues

Pyithu Hluttaw Speaker Thura U Shwe Mann of Zeyathiri Constituency holds discussion.—MNA

NAY PYI TAW, 7 Feb—The sixth day session of Pyidaungsu Hluttaw continued today at Pyidaungsu Hluttaw Hall of Hluttaw Building, attended by Pyidaungsu Hluttaw Speaker U Khin Aung Myint, Pyithu Hluttaw Speaker Thura U Shwe Mann and 563 Pyidaungsu Hluttaw representatives.

At the session, Secretary of Joint Bill Committee Pyithu Hluttaw Representative of Sagaing Region ChaungU Township Constituency U Saw Hla Tun read out the observations and remarks regarding the national planning bills.

Union Minister for National Planning and Economic Development U Tin Naing Thein tabled a motion to discuss the national planning bills in Pyidaungsu Hluttaw and it was seconded by a Pyidaungsu Hluttaw representative. Then, Pyidaungsu Hluttaw approved the proposal.

Pyithu Hluttaw Speaker Thura U Shwe Mann of Zeyathiri Constituency said that the task of approving the bills submitted by the Union Government is to be decided by Pyidaungsu Hluttaw comprising public representatives. The paper submitted by a government representative still needs to includes national development plans that serve the best interests of the nation. At the same time, a human resource development project that is the best and the most reliable should be implemented with adequate investment.

To ensure high morale, good discipline and improved education, the motto ‘Moral, Discipline, and Education’ of the education ministry is to be taught in basic education schools, institutes, colleges and universities across the country. In this context, it is necessary to open agricultural and livestock breeding high schools, technical high schools and institutes and other vocational high schools and institutes in a harmonious manner. Courses on training for trainers, vocational training, job training and occupational training in respective subjects need to be conducted at respective schools for capacity enhancement of students who have graduated, said the Speaker.

Awarding pay, salaries and allowance to personnel at different levels, conducting training and educative programs and adopting carrot and stick approach that can lead to promoting morale and discipline have the potential to ensure clean government and good governance as underscored by the President.

It is also necessary to award enough salaries and allowance for teachers, police forces, military servicemen, departmental personnel and low-level administrative bodies. For those performing defence duties, especially Tatmadawmen who are serving by risking their lives, ration money, uniforms and other expenses should be provided at least as the same amount of those provided in 1959-1960.

The Speaker continued that there are unavoidable high commodity prices and low prices of paddy and other crops that today’s farmers and livestock breeders have to experience. The losses that producers are facing can have a great impact on farmers, workers and service personnel. However, prices of paddy in fields and prices of fish in breeding ponds are far lower than production costs whilst paddy (See page 11)
