Mukherjee sworn in as Indian president

NEW DELHI, 25 July—Former finance minister Pranab Mukherjee called for action to tackle India’s dire poverty as he was sworn in as president on Wednesday during an elaborate display of pomp and circumstance. The presidency is a ceremonial role, but Mukherjee used his acceptance speech to appeal for India to prioritise the hundreds of millions of poor who have been left behind by recent economic growth.

Mukherjee, 76, arrived for the swearing-in ceremony in a regal cavalcade escorted by horse-mounted bodyguards and was greeted by a military guard of honour lining the route leading to the parliament building in New Delhi.

After receiving a 21-gun salute, Mukherjee addressed lawmakers and spoke of erasing poverty from the “dictionary of modern India” and striving for equality for all. “For our development to bereal, the poorest of our land must feel that they are part of the narrative of rising India,” he said. “There is no humiliation more abusive than hunger. Trickledown theories do not address the legitimate aspirations of the poor. We must lift those at the bottom.”

Mukherjee also touched on corruption, a thorny issue that has dogged the Congress party government that he served in as finance minister until last month. “Corruption is an evil that can depress a nation’s mood and sap its progress,” he said. “We cannot allow our progress to be hijacked by corruption.”

Mukherjee, the official Congress party candidate, was elected president on Sunday after winning 69 per cent of the votes cast by national and state lawmakers.

Romney promises firm US foreign policy

WASHINGTON, 25 July—On the eve of a trip abroad, Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney promised a robust foreign policy and accused President Barack Obama of weakness in the face of US adversaries.

“This is very simple: If you don’t want America to be the strongest nation on Earth, I am not your president,” Romney said a convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. “You have that president today.”

Romney was cutting in his criticism of how Obama has dealt with Israel, accusing the president of neglect and “shabby treatment” of a key ally.

Although US voters remain focused on the economy, the war in Afghanistan, conflict in Syria and the growing influence of China make for a critical backdrop in the campaign for the 6 November election.

Often criticized by Democrats as lacking experience abroad, Romney, the former Massachusetts governor, travels to Britain, Israel and Poland this week to try to boost his foreign policy credentials.

The Republican blamed the White House for national security leaks to the media and assured war veterans that a Romney administration would keep a tight lid on secret information.

“What kind of White House would reveal classified material for political gain?” Romney said. “I’ll tell you right now: Mine won’t.”

He blamed Obama over the leaks, including those about the raid that killed al-Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden and cyber-warfare that has reportedly been used against Iran.

The agreements came as Britain, Israel and Poland this week to try to boost his foreign policy credentials.

The first agreement represented the initial phase of a collaborative “demonstration program” for a Future Combat Air System, or FCAS, unmanned air system. The other agreement enables cooperation between the two nations on the Watchkeeper Tactical unmanned air system, which provides the British armed forces with surveillance and reconnaissance.

The neighbours already have a close defence relationship, and the latest agreements signal Hollande’s intention to maintain the defence and security cooperation treaty signed last year by his predecessor, Nicolas Sarkozy, and Prime Minister David Cameron.

UK, France agree on more military cooperation

LONDON, 25 July—Britain and France signed two agreements on Tuesday for further cooperation on the use of military drones, the British Ministry of Defence said. British Defence Minister Philip Hammond and his French counterpart, Jean-Yves Le Drian, pledged closer military ties and called the countries cooperation as “natural as it is necessary.”

“We will continue to draw on each other’s strengths and respective investments to get the best possible support for our Armed Forces,” Hammond said in a statement. The agreements came as Le Drian made his first visit to London since taking office in May, following the presidential victory of Francois Hollande.

Al-Qaeda says carries out Iraqi attacks

BAGHDAD, 25 July—Al-Qaeda’s affiliate in Iraq has claimed responsibility for a spate of attacks across the country targeting mostly Shi’ite Muslim targets this week that killed and wounded hundreds of people. The Islamic State of Iraq (ISI) said in a statement posted on radical Islamist websites on Tuesday that it was behind the recent attacks, which it called its “Destroying the Walls” campaign.

At least 116 people were killed and around 300 wounded in bomb and gun attacks on Monday, by far the bloodiest day of violence since US troops withdrew in December. A day earlier, six people were killed in bombings as part of a coordinated surge of violence. The ISI often hits Shi’ite targets to try to stir up the type of sectarian violence that drove Iraq to the edge of civil war and killed tens of thousands of people in 2006-07.

Colorado judge bans cameras in hearing when shooting suspect charged

AURORA, 25 July—The judge in the case of the man accused of Friday’s shooting rampage at a Colorado movie theater on Tuesday ruled that no cameras or electronic recording equipment will be allowed at next week’s hearing when formal charges will be filed.

Arapahoe County District Judge William Sylvester issued the written ruling in response to a request by Denver-area media for expanded media coverage of the July 30 hearing when the 21-year-old suspect, James Eagan Holmes, is due to make his initial appearance in the case.

Holmes, who faces charges including murder and attempted murder, was backed up by an organized group who helped him plan and carry out the attack, Boiko Borisov, the Bulgarian prime minister, said on Tuesday.

“From what we see, they arrived nearly a month beforehand, changed rental cars, and travelled to different cities ... and not more than one of the people we are looking for was captured on either security camera,” Borisov said. “He declined to give more details on the plotters.

Borisov said that the bomber’s DNA and finger prints had not matched anything held on file by Bulgaria or by partner spy agencies and that police were still working to identify him.

But he suggested that the attacker, whose bomb was concealed in his backpack, may have entered Bulgaria on a plane from the European Union’s “Schengen” passport-free travel zone. He did not elaborate.

Suicide bomber behind Bulgaria bus attack had help

SOFIA, 25 July—A suicide bomber who killed five Israeli tourists when he blew up a bus in Bulgaria last week was backed up by an organized group who helped him plan and carry out the attack, Boiko Borisov, the Bulgarian prime minister, said on Tuesday.

Borisov said police had not yet identified the bomber whose attack also wounded more than 30 people at Burgas airport last Wednesday, but said the man had not acted alone.

“These are extremely experienced people who have followed strict conspiracy rules,” Borisov told reporters after meeting John Brennan, a counter-terrorism adviser to US President Barack Obama.

“From what we see, they arrived nearly a month beforehand, changed rental cars, and travelled to different cities ... and not more than one of the people we are looking for was captured on either security camera,” Borisov said.

Russia’s Progress M-15M freighter fails to re-dock with ISS

MOSCOW, 25 July — Russia’s Progress M-15M resupply freighter failed to re-dock with the International Space Station (ISS) due to certain emergency situations in the station’s new Kurs-NA rendezvous system, Russia’s Mission Control Centre (MCC) said on Tuesday. The unmanned Progress M-15M, which arrived at the ISS in April, undocked from the station early Monday morning to conduct a series of tests of the upgraded Kurs-NA rendezvous system.

According to a spokesman of the MCC, the Kurs-NA system warned of a possible emergency situation and called off the re-docking when the Progress M-15M was approaching at a distance of 15 km to the ISS. The MCC didn’t provide more details about the operation, only confirming that the Progress M-15M was now at a safe distance to the ISS. The MCC also revealed the Progress freighter would be maneuvered to a distance of 500 km to the ISS later Tuesday and the next re-docking, “We are considering to carry out the re-docking again on 29 July, after Japan’s cargo spacecraft HTV docking with the ISS,” the spokesman said. The cause of the failed re-docking has been investigated, he said, stressing that the Progress freighter was still controllable and has not posed any threat to the ISS and its six crew members. The US space agency NASA said in a statement the re-docking of the Progress freighter to the ISS has been postponed “due to an apparent failure in the new Kurs-NA rendezvous system.”

“Progress 47 (classified as Progress M-15M) in Russia flew approximately 1.8 miles below the station to a safe distance away from the orbiting outpost, where it will remain until another attempt is made to re-dock with the space station,” NASA said. Progress freighters have been the backbone of the Russian space cargo fleet for decades. Russia lost a Progress cargo ship in 2011 for the first time in 30 years. Besides, after the retirement of the US shuttle fleet, Russia’s Soyuz spacecraft have become the only way for astronauts to reach the ISS at least until the middle of the decade.— Xinhua.

Apple releases OS X Mountain Lion system upgrade

NEW YORK, 25 July — Apple has announced the latest version of its Mac operating system will be released on Wednesday. OS X Mountain Lion makes it easier to share material to social networks and also introduces a notification panel similar to that on many smartphones. The news was revealed in the company’s third quarter earnings release. Mac sales were 2% up on the year, but the results fell short of many analysts’ forecasts. The firm’s shares dropped about 5% in after-market trading.

Apple announced the latest update to its operating system in February. The update continues a trend to introduce features to its desktop and laptop families that have already been implemented on its iPad and iPhone mobile devices. These include the ability to upload and synchronise material with its iCloud internet storage service; the introduction of the Messages service allowing text message-like chats between the firm’s computers and handsets; the ability to easily share material to Twitter; and an application to compare and count the user’s video game scores against those of their friends.

The firm has also taken steps to aid its expansion in China including the adoption of Baidu as a search service built into its web browser’s address and button to make it easy to share and discuss content. The agreement is a complex story,” said Nasa’s Tom Wagner.

Scientists said they believed that much of Greenland’s ice was already freezing again. Until now, the most extensive melting seen by satellites in the past three decades was about 55% of the area. Ice last melted at Summit station in 1889, ice core records indicate.

The news comes just days after Nasa satellite imagery revealed that a massive iceberg, twice the size of Manhattan, had broken off a glacier in Greenland. This event, combined with other natural but uncommon phenomena, such as the large calving event last week on Petermann Glacier, are part of a complex story, said Nasa’s Tom Wagner.

ISPs split over UK open Internet code of practice

LONDON, 25 July — Several leading UK Internet service providers have refused to sign a code of conduct designed to guarantee “full and open access” to the net. Ten ISPs including BT, O2 and TalkTalk backed the agreement promising not to restrict or block content unless there was a reason to.

Satellites reveal sudden Greenland ice melt

WASHINGTON, 25 July — Greenland’s massive ice sheet has melted this month over an usually large area, NASA has said. Scientists said the “unprecedented” melting took place over a larger area that ever detected in three decades of satellite observation. Melting even occurred at Greenland’s coldest and highest place, Summit station. The thawed ice area jumped from 40% of the ice sheet to 97% in just four days from 8 July. Although about half of Greenland’s ice sheet normally melts over the summer months, the speed and scale of this year’s melting surprised scientists, who described the phenomenon as “extraordinary.”

NASA said that nearly the entire ice cover of Greenland, from its thin, low-lying coastal edges to its centre, which is 3km (two miles) thick, experienced some degree of melting at its surface. “When we see melt in places that we haven’t seen before, even in a long period of time, it makes you sit up and ask what’s happening?” NASA chief scientist Waleed Abdalati said.

“It’s a big signal, the meaning of which we’re going to sort out for years to come,” he said that because this Greenland-wide melting has happened before they are not yet able to determine whether this is a natural but rare event, or if it has been sparked by man-made global warming. The businesses which declined said they all supported the idea of an open internet, but had qualms about the code itself. Virgin Media suggested the circumstances under which traffic management practices could be deployed needed to be defined more strictly. “These principles remain open to misinterpretation and potential exploitation so, while we welcome the formation of a broad consensus to address future potential issues, we will be seeking greater clarity before we consider signing,” said a spokesman. Vodafone said it objected to the agreement because of the restrictions it would impose on the way it marketed some of its subscription packages up the plan, while Microsoft and the BBC were among those to praise its creation.

Health Tip: When lugging luggage
Before you pack your bags for your next trip, make sure you read up on how to prevent back pain from lugging luggage.
The American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons offers these suggestions:
- Buy luggage with wheels and a handle that’s sturdy and lightweight.
- Don’t overpack, and use several small bags instead of stuffing everything into one heavy suitcase.
- Lift with your legs instead of your back, bending at the knees and holding the luggage close to your body.
- If possible, use both hands to carry luggage.
- If carrying a shoulder bag, make sure you switch sides often.

Japan’s exports slide in June hurt by global slowdown
“Exports remain sluggish and you can’t expect much from external demand to drive the Japanese economy in the latter half of this fiscal year,” said Yuasuo Yamamoto, a senior economist with Mizuho Research Institute. Mr. Yamamoto added that if the debt crisis in eurozone worsened and the US and Chinese economies slowed down further, the impact on Japan’s exports and economy may be even more pronounced. “I don’t think the Japanese economy is sliding back into recession, but that possibility cannot be totally ruled out.”

Hope for more effective TB treatment
Today, 25 July — Hopes of a new, more effective therapy for tuberculosis have been raised following the results of early trials. The study showed three drugs given in combination killed more than 99% of TB bacteria after two weeks of treatment. The therapy appeared to be equally effective on the drug-resistant form of the disease in the trials of 858 patients, a team from Melbourne University in South Africa reported. Larger studies are now taking place to further test the technique.

AT&T smartphone sales fall in 2Q, boosting net
New York, 25 July — AT&T Inc on Tuesday posted the best profitability ever in its wireless arm, paradoxically because it sold fewer smartphones. The largest telecommunications company in the US said its subscribers are now holding on to their phones longer. The rate of upgrades to new phones was at a record low in the second quarter. That’s good news for the company because it subsidizes each smartphone by hundreds of dollars to be able to sell it to customers for $99 or $199. iPhones, in particular, are expensive to sell, because Apple charges AT&T an average of around $650 for each one.

In March last year, AT&T started telling subscribers that they had to stay on contract for 20 months before they would be eligible for a new phone at the fully subsidized price. Before that, some high-paying customers had been eligible to upgrade their phones after just 12 months. “It appears our policy is working,” John Stephenson, AT&T’s chief financial officer, told analysts on a conference call. He said another big contributor to the low upgrade rate was that many people upgraded late last year, when the latest iPhone debuted. AT&T activated 5.1 million smartphones in its latest quarter, down from 5.5 million in the same period a year ago. That helped boost wireless operating income by 18 percent in the quarter, to $4.9 billion.

Analysts still expect AT&T’s profits to take a dive this fall, when the new iPhone comes out. In what’s become an annual ritual, buyers flood AT&T and Apple stores, and AT&T pays dearly for the privilege of having the nation’s most popular network for iPhones. The tighter upgrade policies don’t seem to be scaring off AT&T subscribers. They were more loyal than ever in the quarter, helping AT&T outdo analyst expectations by adding a net 320,000 subscribers on contract-based plans in the quarter.

Sunbed tanning kills 800 in Europe every year
Paris, 25 July — Sunbathers run a 20 percent higher risk than non-users of developing skin cancer, according to a report that blamed some 800 melanoma deaths in Europe every year on indoor tanning. About 3.8 million people every year use sunbeds. Of cutaneous melanoma diagnosed in 18 European countries, 23% are related to sunbed use — more than five percent, said a statement from the BMS medical journal. The risk doubled if tanners started before the age of 35. The findings were based on an analysis by researchers of 27 studies on skin cancer and sunbed use conducted between 1981 and 2012 in Britain, France, Germany and other countries. They found a “1.8 percent increase in risk for each additional sunbed session per year,” said the statement. “The authors believe that earlier studies have tended to underestimate the risk of indoor tanning because the use of these devices is relatively new.” The study authors from the International Prevention Research Institute in France and the European Institute of Oncology in Italy urged tougher regulation and restricting children’s access to tanning salons.
Discussions in Hluttaw should not include characteristics and behaviors of a person

Discussions about a proposal must be related with proposals under debate at the Hluttaw

Pyithu Hluttaw Speaker urges some representatives to strictly abide by Hluttaw laws and rules in making discussion

NAV Pyi Taw, 25 July—The 14th regular session of the Pyithu Hluttaw continued at Pyithu Hluttaw Hall of Hluttaw Complex, here, at 10 am today, attended by Speaker of Pyithu Hluttaw Thura U Shwe Mann and 406 Pyithu Hluttaw representatives.

In the section of holding proposal discussion, U Kha Mai Mon Kwm (a) U Kha Mai Tan of Samprubam Constituency, Daw Khin Saw Wai of Yathadaung Constituency, Daw Aung San Suu Kyi of Kawhmu Constituency, U Ohn Kyaw of Mahaaungmye Constituency, U Kyaw Thida of PyinOoLwin Constituency, U Min Thu of Ottathiri Township Constituency and U Shwe Maung (a) U Abdul Razak of Buthidaung Constituency discussed the proposal on promulgation of national races rights protection law submitted by U T Khun Myat of Kutkai Constituency.

In his discussion, U Kha Mai Mon Kwm (a) U Kha Mai Tan of Samprubam Constituency said that the State is responsible for safeguarding the rights of national races and ethnic and national cause. It is necessary to enact the law safeguarding nationalities’ rights. It is a good timing to enact the law safeguarding national races and allow the national races to enjoy the fundamental rights to make sure that they are not lagged behind in term of their social life and development while other sectors of the society are in movement.

In his discussion, Daw Khin Saw Wai of Yathadaung Constituency said that while implementing other sectors with added momentum, it is necessary to empower to the national races to enjoy fundamental rights to make sure that they are not lagged behind in term of their social life of the national races and development sector.

Daw Aung San Suu Kyi of Kawhmu Constituency discussed that the present constitution does not specifically define the word national races. The their discussions focus on rights of national races classified by the states they live. In Myanmar, states are suffering from much poverty. Generally, it is obvious that development of states is not satisfactory. Such a situation cannot be seen.

In his discussion, U Ohn Kyaw of Mahaaungmye Constituency participated in discussions. He said that the people stick to terrorism and it is original characteristic of the national races. While struggling in the colonial era during about 180 years, Bogyoke Aung San had come out as the national leader. Bogyoke Aung San had the capability to rally the entire nation, and people of the whole nation firmly believe that he was a great leader. Unfortunately, he fell during the period when the independence of the nation was almost regained. At the same time, the vacancy of leader emerged in the history longing for Bogyoke Aung San. After over 40 years, a leader who can be substituted in the place of Bogyoke Aung San came out. The person is Daw Aung San Suu Kyi from the Hluttaw. The entire people look Daw Aung San Suu Kyi as a clone of the national leader and representative of the national leader. It should utilize the icon of leader in peace process and development of the nation. At this opportune time, the President and Daw Aung San Suu Kyi, their hands in harmoniously establishing the new era for emergence of a genuine and developed democratic nation, he suggested.

In his discussion, U Kyaw Thida of PyinOoLwin Constituency expressed his thanks for concerned efforts of the Speaker of the Hluttaw and all Hluttaw representatives to enact the laws with the free participation of all national races in the discussions at the Hluttaw. If the national races sign the peace deal and the law is promulgated by implementing the proposal before 2015, he expressed his firm belief that the peace and modern developed nation will come out. U Min Thu of Ottathiri Township Constituency said that the discussions at the Hluttaw in which all the national races can participate should be held with provisions to grant and protect the rights of the national races so as to emerge a Union assembly in the future. The national race representatives in the Hluttaw cannot hold open discussions on rules and regulations as much as they can. He said that with regard to the rights of national races, it is necessary to enact a law on politically-demanded recognition such as self-administration and autonomy rights in addition to literature, culture and customs of national races in conformity with the Our Three Main National Causes which are three principles of the State. U Shwe Maung (a) U Abdul Razak of Buthidaung Constituency discussed that the present time is the time which the country is marching towards modern, developed, democratic nation in line with Constitution 2008. Such measures as such must be enacted to make sure that the Hluttaw is legislation and the second responsibility was to monitor responsible organizations and people to make sure their adherence to legislations and existing laws promulgated by the Hluttaw with check and balance system. Regarding the legislation of the Hluttaw, Hluttaw representatives had to discuss the bills submitted by Union level agencies and legitimatize them. In so doing, bills were published in newspapers to collect the opinions of the people, if a bill was to be submitted. Only then, would the participative process be wider. The nearest example is that members of Pyithu Hluttaw committees, Pyithu Hluttaw representatives including the Pyithu Hluttaw Speaker and officials of respective Nay Pyi Taw, 25 July—Pyidaungsu Hluttaw regular session continued for sixth day at Pyidaungsu Hluttaw Hall in Hluttaw Complex here at 10.05 am today, attended by Pyidaungsu Hluttaw Speaker U Khin Aung Myint, Pyithu Hluttaw Speaker Thura U Shwe Mann and 612 Pyidaungsu Hluttaw representatives.

As there is no one to discuss important Commodity and Service Bill sent by the President with remarks, the bill was then approved.

U Min Swe of DaikU Constituency and U Soe Tha of Twantay Constituency discussed report on supplementary budget submitted by Public Accounts Committee on 23 July. They discussed that the period between 1 October and 30 October should be designated as the open season and supplementary budget could be requested in May. It would help prepare budget request for the next fiscal year. The farmers will get higher prices for their crops as they are in no rush to repay agricultural loans.

The report is decided to be reviewed by the committee, together with Hluttaw representatives, respective government representatives.

U Aung Thein Lin of South Okkalapa Constituency, U Myint Thein of Magway Constituency, U Khaiang Maung Yi of Ahlon Constituency, U Min Thu of Ottarathiri Constituency, U Min Swe of DaikU Constituency, U Khain Maung Nyo of Pauk Constituency, U Hla Swe of Magway Region Constituency (12), U Tin Mya of Sagaing Region Constituency (7), Daw Khin Waing Kyi of Yangon Region Constituency (1), U Sein Win of Maubin Constituency, U Kyaw Myint of Myanmaung Constituency and U Sai Thika Kyaw of Mongayi Constituency seconded the proposal submitted by U Tin Htet of Zalun Constituency on “doing justice in confiscation of farmlands not to harm farmers”.

They discussed that the government should acquire the approval of the people through sympathy towards the farmers who constitute majority of the population as there are unfair confiscations of farmlands with no appropriate compensations granted, excessive confiscations and transfers.

The issue should be handled fairly to ease socio-economic difficulties and improve hard earned lives of farmers.

The approval of the Hluttaw will be sought on 26 July to form investigation commission to ease sufferings of farmers by farmland acquisition.

The seventh day session will be held on 26 July.

The Hluttaw session concluded at noon today and will continue for 15th day on 26 July.—MNA organizations heard concerns of people regarding the foreign investment law which had been first discussed at Amyotha Hluttaw that it could undermine the interests of the country at MCT Hall in Yangon. The bill is being discussed at the Pyithu Hluttaw as it requested to return the bill from the Amyotha Hluttaw. It is discussed again at the Hluttaw because the desire of the people is the interests of the country and citizens. New Hluttaw representatives and all Hluttaw representatives are informed that legislation is being carried out by Pyithu Hluttaw representatives and Pyidaungsu Hluttaw representatives, considering public sentiments. Further clarification needs to be made as regards legislation by national race representatives, instead of the Hluttaw. Representatives from 330 townships and Defence Services Personnel form the Pyithu Hluttaw. Pyithu Hluttaw representatives represent the people of each region and across the whole country. The Hluttaw representatives must be accountable to the people of each region to accomplish duties of the Hluttaw. A considerable amount of time may need to carry out legislation and some laws need to be amended. The Hluttaw representatives must strive to perform legislative duties with the mindset to revamp the existing laws. The newly sworn-in Pyithu Hluttaw representatives are urged to work in cooperation with the experienced lawmakers.

U Win Myint of Pathine Constituency submitted a proposal to declare movable and immovable assets and interests of persons assigned to Union government members, Region or State government members for emergency of Good Governance and Clean Government. U Pe Than of Myebon Constituency seconded the proposal.

The Hluttaw representatives who are willing to discuss the proposal are to submit their name list not later than 1 am on 26 July as the Hluttaw agreed to discuss the bill.

Apple’s reports lower-than-expected rise in Q3 profits

New York, 25 July — Apple made a net profit of $8.8bn in the three months ending in June, up 21% from a year earlier, but lower than forecasts. The consumer gadget and computer maker reported $53bn in sales, up from $52.8bn in 2011. But sales of its iPod digital music player fell 10% while Mac computer sales flattened, up just 2%. It will pay shareholder a dividend of $2.50 per share on 16 August.

Apple — the world’s most valuable company — sold 26m iPhones. That is a rise of 28% but lower growth than many analysts expected. The forecast for Q4, contrast, sales of Apple’s tablet computer, the iPad, rose 64% from the same period last year. “We’re thrilled with record sales of 17 million iPads in the June quarter,” said Apple’s chief executive Tim Cook.

But, David Rolfe of Woodadad Partners said: “What is key is the mixture between iPhone and iPad, the iPhone has higher margins. iPhone sales were lower than expected — meaningfully lower — and that translated into a big hit on the bottom line.” Analysts had forecast third quarter revenue of $37.2bn, according to a Thomson Reuters poll. Apple’s forecast for sales in the fourth quarter — the three months ending in September — was still lower at $34bn, which disappointed investors. Apple shares fell nearly 5% in after hours trading. Like many US companies, the strength of the US dollar against the euro and other currencies makes US-made goods more expensive overseas. Added to that is the impact of higher shipping costs.

The combination of Samsung’s big roll-outs and suddenly weakening European consumer demand in June created some issues,” said Tero Kuitunen of Alekstra. Apple is to be launching the iPhone 5 later this year. The US-led US-led Climate and Clean Air initiative, bringing the total of members to about 20 since the plan was launched in February. “We’ve also just updated the entire MacBook line, will release Mountain Lion [its new operating system, on Wednesday] and will be launching iOS 6 this fall. We are also looking forward to the amazing new products we’ve got in the pipeline,” said Mr Cook.

Cut air pollution, buy time to slow climate change

Oso, 25 July — Cutting soot and other air pollutants could be "buying time" in the fight against climate change, a senior US official said on Tuesday as seven nations joined a Washington-led plan. Air pollution, from sources ranging from wood-fuel cooking stoves in Africa to cars in Europe, may be responsible for up to six million deaths a year worldwide and is also contributing to global warming, the UN Environment Programme (UNEP) said.

Seven countries — Britain, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Italy and Japan — formally joined the US-led Climate and Clean Air Initiative, bringing the total of members to about 20 since the plan was launched in February. "If we are able to do this, we could really buy time in the context of the global problem to combat climate change," Jonathan Pershing, US deputy special envoy for climate change, told a telephonic news briefing from Paris.

Pershing said that time was not only needed to slow global warming. Unlike other developed nations, the United States has not passed laws to cut greenhouse gas emissions despite proposed cuts by President Barack Obama. Pershing said that Washington was in talks for fighting climate change. Knitters to cover airplane weathervane Knitters in Canada say they are banding together to cover a DC-3 aircraft converted to use as a weather vane with knitted yarn next month. Jessica Velenga, one of the organizers of the “yarn-bombing” project in Whitehorse, Yukon, said knitters across North America have made donations toward the cause of covering the Erik Nielsen Whitehorse International Airport weather vane, the Canadian Broadcasting Corp reported on 23 July.

“A lot of local knitters have participated,” she said. “We’ve had donations from Ottawa, Toronto, Huntsville, Texas, Ohio, lots of different places.”

“We had a great donation from a young lady who’s 11 years old and she wanted to donate a little bit to the yarn bomb. She decided to help us meet our world record and we also had a lovely box of goods come from the National Arts Center,” Velenga said.

She said the attempt to create the world’s largest airplane cozy is scheduled for 11 August.

A New Jersey lifeguard said the engagement ring his wife lost on the beach was brought to him while he was on duty about two weeks later.

Mike Booth, a lifeguard at a beach in Margate, said his wife lost her wedding and engagement rings at the beach July 6 and was unable to find them despite a volunteer search party, the Press of Atlantic City, NJ, reported on 23 July.

However, Don Spivack, 74, said he was at the beach on 24 July when he saw the engagement ring glinting in the sand.

Heremembered his wife and two daughters told him about how they helped search for the missing rings so he brought the item to the lifeguard post, where Booth was on duty.

“I couldn’t believe it,” Booth said. “The wedding band is still missing but certainly if I had to find one, I’m glad we found the engagement ring.”

He said the ring cost him the equivalent of several paychecks. He said he used his phone to send a picture of the found ring to his wife.

“She’s going to wake up to a happy picture,” he said. “I thought it was gone for good and I’m just happy and thankful that someone’s honest with that.”

Russell Crowe to direct feature film

He will direct a biopic on late comedy legend Bill Hicks.

The 48-year-old was originally in talks to play the lead role in the project, but will now step behind the camera to work together on a “yarn-bombing” project.

“Bill Hicks’ life is tragically short, but spectacularly interesting. The screenplay has gone through a number of drafts and we’ll go into production early next year,” said Staufer. “It is a huge role for someone, made all the more special, or downright scary, by the fact the director is an Oscar-winning actor like Russell,” he said.

Hicks lost his battle with pancreatic cancer in 1994. He was 32.

The project won’t be Crowe’s first directorial challenge. He has previously shot short films and his singer wife Danielle Spencer’s music videos. — Internet

The iRobot doc will see you now: Roomba maker enters the ER

SANTA BARBARA, 24 July — Some of us complain their doctors are too stiff, lack warmth and are robotic. But calling such doctors “robots” may be a disservice to RP-Vita — the latest telepresence, healthcare bot from InTouch Health and iRobot. RP-VITA (Remote Presence Virtual — Independent Telemedicine Assistant), unveiled this week at the Clinical Innovations Forum in Santa Barbara, is a remote-controlled telepresence robot that combines InTouch’s “telemedicine” technology and the autonomous navigation innovations introduced in iRobots’ AVA robot at CES in 2011.

iRobot, which also makes the popular Roomba robot home vacuum, made a $6 million investment in InTouch in January of this year. It may be controlled via joystick, but RP-Vita does have some awareness of its environment. It employs a dazzling array of sensors that include PrimeSense Sensors (the same ones you find in the Kinect for Xbox 360), two cameras that together approximate human normal vision, sonar and a laser range finder. It also creates a map of the hospital and knows the location, for example, of its roll-into charging base.

When the caregiver logs off, RP-Vita, which gets about five hours of activity on a charge, automatically returns to the base. It also features a large screen where the attending doctor’s face will appear. That doctor could be anywhere she has access to the Internet (and a Webcam).

The information collected and sent through InTouch’s telemedicine system is encrypted and then shared with the attending doctor (who is controlling the robot from her remote location). For as smart as RP-Vita is right now, it’s likely to get even more so by the end of the year. It already has built-in autonomous navigation, but won’t be able to use it in a hospital environment until the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) give its approval, perhaps as early as the end of this year.—Internet

Olympic and Paralympic Games will be hosted in same city until 2020

LONDON, 25 July — An agreement has been signed to ensure that the Paralympic Games will be held in the same city as the Olympic Games through until 2020. The agreement was reached at the 124th International Olympic Committee (IOC) session held in London, just three days before the Olympics begin and 36 days before the Paralympics.

Jacques Rogge, the president of the IOC, and Phillip Craven, the current president of the International Paralympic Committee (IPC) extended the current co-operation agreement that was signed in 2006 and ran through to the 2016 Games. "I’m delighted to extend our close co-operation with the IPC through to 2020. They have a fundamentally important role in the Olympic movement and we are pleased to continue to support this partnership,” said Rogge. This is excellent news for the Paralympic Movement, especially coming so close to the start of the biggest ever Paralympic Games in London,” said Craven.

“The agreements secure the continued growth of the Movement and our members. Since 1988 we have benefited from using the same venues, infrastructure and levels of detailed planning as the Olympic Games and through this agreement it will continue through to at least 2020. We are grateful to the IOC for their continued and growing support. Without them the Paralympic Games would not have grown to the superb sporting spectacle it is today. By working together over the coming years we can continue to deliver a 60 day global celebration of sport.” —Xinhua
