BEIJING, 20 April—A powerful earthquake hit the southwestern Chinese province of Sichuan on Saturday, leaving more than 150 people dead and more than 2,500 injured, many of them seriously, local media reported.

The magnitude 7.0 earthquake, which struck Lushan county in the city of Ya’an at 8:02 a.m., ripped apart roads and destroyed houses, forcing thousands of people to move out of their homes.

US Secretary of State John Kerry, the official Xinhua News Agency said about 140,000 residents in Lushan will have to be relocated. Chinese President Xi Jinping on Saturday ordered rescuing troops in the quake-hit zone in southwest China’s Sichuan Province to make “every possible effort.”

The 7.0-magnitude quake has caused severe losses to the security of people’s lives and properties, Xi said in his instruction to the armed forces and armed police.

The troops must be quickly dispatched to the front line of the quake-relief work to rescue residents and treat the injured in every possible way, Xi said. They have also been instructed to take precautionary measures against secondary disasters and help local governments to relocate affected people, as well as safeguard social stability of the quake zone.

The troops should also take care of their own safety, Xi said.—Xinhua/Kyodo

Boston Marathon bombing suspect caught after day-long manhunt

WATERTOWN, (Massachusetts), 20 April — Police captured a 19-year-old man suspected of carrying out the Boston Marathon bombings with his older brother after a day-long manhunt on Friday that closed down the city and turned a working-class suburb into a virtual armed camp.

The break in the case sent waves of relief through the Boston suburb of Watertown where armoured vehicles roamed the streets and helicopters flew overhead through the day.

Residents and police officers cheered and clapped when the suspect, Dzhokhar Tsarnaev, was caught after an exchange of gunfire with police.

A Massachusetts State Police spokesman said Tsarnaev was bleeding and in serious condition in a hospital. He had been hiding in the stern of a boat parked in the backyard of a house in Watertown, police said. A resident called police after seeing blood on the boat. President Barack Obama told reporters at the White House after the suspect’s capture that questions remain from the bombings, including whether the two suspects received any help. The Boston Police Department said in a message on Twitter: “CAPTURED!!!”

“We are so grateful to bring justice and closure to this case.” Massachusetts State Police Chief Colonel Timothy Alben told a news conference. “We are exhausted, but we had a victory here tonight.”

ROME, 20 April – Italy’s centre-left backed former Prime Minister Romano Prodi as candidate for president on Friday, setting up a battle with the centre-right alliance of Silvio Berlusconi and increasing the likelihood of a snap election within weeks. The election of the next head of state to succeed President Giorgio Napolitano, whose term ends on 15 May, is crucial to ending a two-month stalemate since a parliamentary poll in February which left no party able to form a government.

After the defeat of his party in the election last Sunday, the choice of Prodi had re- forcing the party to look for the party expressed itself unanimously,” the party expressed itself unanimously,” the party’s leader said.

“The choice was immediately rejected by former premier Berlusconi’s camp, which said it was likely to prevent any government being formed and lead to early elections. “If the PD is answering us in this fashion, it’s not us choosing elections, it’s the PD that’s adopting a position of total opposition to us,” said Fabrizio Cicchito, a close ally of Berlusconi.

Marini fell far short of the two thirds majority required for election after dozens of centre-left elections cast blank ballots in the first round of voting, effectively sinking his candidacy and forcing the party to look for a new candidate.

The president is elected by a joint sitting of the two houses of parliament joined by 58 regional delegations in a complex process requiring several rounds of voting.

The first three rounds of voting require a two-thirds majority but in subsequent rounds only a simple majority is necessary, meaning that Prodi could pass with the support of centrists or the anti-establishment Five Star Movement.

Palestinian President to start talks over govt’ formation

RAMALLAH, 20 April — Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas said on Thursday that he will start discussions to form a new government soon.

Abbas’ announcement was made during a meeting of the Palestinian Liberation Organization’s Executive Committee in the West Bank city of Ramallah, a member of the committee told Xinhua. Abbas on Saturday accepted the resignation of Prime Minister Salam Fayyad, but asked him to stay on until a new government is formed.

Fayyad’s resignation allegedly resulted from differences with Abbas over power. Fayyad, a U.S.-educated economist, was not a member of the mainstream Fatah party headed by Abbas. Fatah members seeking more influence on the government have reportedly pushed for Fayyad’s resignation.

Maduro sworn in, Venezuela to review disputed vote

Venezuela’s President Nicolas Maduro gestures after being sworn into office in Caracas on 19 April, 2013.

CARACAS, 20 April — Nicolas Maduro was sworn in as Venezuela’s president on Friday at a ceremony attended by leaders from France to Brazil after a decision to widen an electronic audit of the vote took some of the heat out of a dispute over his election. Maduro, a bus driver-turned-foreign minister who became the late Hugo Chavez’s chosen successor, narrowly beat opposition challenger Henrique Capriles in the election last Sunday.

Capriles refused to accept the result, alleged widespread irregularities, demanded a full recount and called his supporters onto the streets in protest. The government says eight people were killed in post-election violence and Maduro blamed the deaths on Capriles, although the opposition says Maduro allies staged some incidents to distract attention from the dispute over ballot counting. Maduro took the oath of office alongside a large framed photo of the socialist Chavez, who led Venezuela for 14 years before losing a battle against cancer last month.

“I swear, on the eternal legacy of our founding father, to the memory of our supreme command- er, that I will uphold this constitution,” Maduro said. In his first speech as president, which coincided with Venezuela’s celebration of its declaration of independence, Maduro offered a sentiment of respect to Chavez, the fiery and charismatic socialist whose death from cancer in March triggered Sunday’s vote.

SDF overseas rescue operations on land to be allowed

Cabinet of Prime Minister Shinzo Abe on Friday endorsed a bill to revise the Self-Defence Forces law to allow the SDF to transport Japanese and foreign nationals using land vehicles in emergency situations overseas.

The bill was compiled in response to the hostage crisis in Algeria in January that resulted in the deaths of at least 40 people, including 10 Japanese. Transportation in such situations is currently restricted to ships and airplanes.

The government and the ruling coalition of the Liberal Democratic Party and the New Komeito party aim to enact the bill during the current Diet session, but it remains unclear if it will win approval in the opposition-controlled House of Councillors. Chief Cabinet Secretary Yoshihide Suga stressed the need to allow the SDF to use land vehicles to protect Japanese nationals, while Defence Minister Itsunori Onodera said public expectations of SDF operations are growing.

The revised bill envisages enabling the SDF to transport Japanese nationals, foreigners, their relatives, government and business officials and medical staff in need of help in armored trucks and other vehicles.

While the current law says transportation shall be carried out only if safety is assured, the new bill says such operations can take place if transportation can be carried out safely after discussing the expected dangers and measures to avoid them.

China’s BYD mulls leaner, greener “re-birth” plan

SHENZHEN, 20 April—BYD Co, one of the better known Chinese brands thanks to a stake held by billionaire US investor Warren Buffett, may stop making conventional gasoline-fuelled cars within two years and focus on ‘new energy’ battery models as part of a “re-birth plan” to arrest a slump in sales.

Shares in BYD, which once harbored long-term ambitions to be as big as Toyota Motor Corp, have tumbled by almost three quarters since a late-2009 peak, as net profit crumbled to just 7,027 million yuan ($13.15 million) last year from 3.8 billion yuan four years ago.

Now, the 5.7 billion company is over in internal plans to radically adjust and possibly streamline its business—which sprawls across batteries, cellphone assembly, solar panels, LED light bulbs, and electric and gasoline-powered cars and buses.

At the heart of the ‘re-birth’ is a plan to ditch gas-fuelled cars, and maybe offload its solar panel business, and concentrate on new greener battery technologies, said two senior BYD executives, who asked not to be named as the plans have not been finalized.

The company is expected to unveil its Green Hybrid Technology at the Shanghai auto show on Saturday. “We’re trying to re-position ourselves around what we do best”—producing advanced but affordable iron-phosphate lithium-ion batteries, one of the executive said. BYD is a world leader in rechargeable batteries.

It’s a bold move, and not without risk. But the executives said BYD, based in the southern industrial city of Shenzhen, recognizes it needs to find an edge in its business, which has suffered as auto sales, which accounted for around half the company’s revenue, slumped. BYD last year sold 457,700 cars.

The executives said BYD would likely in future only design ‘green’ electric cars, phasing out selling gasoline cars over the next couple of years.

Nokia to launch Windows Phone-based phablet to rival Samsung’s Galaxy Note series

MUMBAI, 20 April—Following reports of Microsoft’s plans to update Windows Phone 8 to support full-HD displays, new rumours of Nokia working on a large screen smartphone or phablet that’s similar in size to Samsung’s Galaxy Note series have surfaced online.

According to a report by Financial Times, Nokia intends to launch a number of flagship devices later this year, including a supersized tablet phone. The publication cited people with knowledge of the company’s plans to report the development. They said that the phablet would be similar in size to the Galaxy Note but would have advanced specifications.

WHO data on bird flu raises new questions about human transmission

BEIJING, 20 April—More than 50 percent of patients infected with a new type of bird flu in China had no contact with poultry, the World Health Organization said on Friday, further raising questions about whether the virus was transmitted between humans.

The H7N9 virus has so far infected 87 people in China and killed 17, but it remains unclear how they contracted the disease. A Chinese official earlier this week said about 40 percent of patients had been in no contact with poultry.

The WHO’s China representative, Michael O’Leary, issued the new data, but said human-to-human transmission was rare.

“As the investigation gets deeper we’re finding that more than half have had no contact with poultry”, O’Leary told a briefing.

“It’s hard to definitively rule in or rule out chickens”, he said. “This is still an animal virus that occasionally infects humans. With rare exceptions, we know that people are not getting sick from other people”.

O’Leary said investigators had tested 80,000 birds for the flu, but only 40 tested positive and none of those was sick.

“This is unusual in that we haven’t been finding sick birds”, he said.

An international team of epidemiologists and other experts led by the WHO and Chinese government officials will visit live chicken markets and hospitals over the next several days in Beijing and Shanghai.

UK MPs say mortgage scheme may be costly or counterproductive

LONDON, 20 April—A British government scheme to help home-buyers risks being costly, counterproductive and a danger to the Bank of England’s political independence, a non-partisan committee of legislators said on Saturday.

Chancellor George Osborne pledged to guarantee up to 130 billion pounds of higher-risk mortgages and offer 3.5 billion pounds of shared-equity loans to home-buyers in his annual budget statement last month.

But in a report on Osborne’s budget, a parliamentary committee said the plans were vague and left the government exposed to large potential losses as well as failing to effectively tackle a shortage of housing.

Committee chairman Andrew Tyrie — a member of Osborne’s Conservative party — said the loan guarantees “may have a number of unintended consequences”. “It is by no means clear that a scheme, whose primary outcome may be to support house prices, will ultimately be in the interests of first-time buyers,” the report concluded.

The government has not yet published details of the fees it will charge banks to cover the expected costs of defaults under the scheme, and the committee said this would be hard to calculate accurately. It was also not convinced by Osborne’s claims that it would tackle a shortage of homes to buy. On Friday, Osborne defended his new plans to reporters at a briefing in Washington, where he was attending an International Monetary Fund meeting.

“We are in a period of real weakness in the housing market, so I think the risks of a housing bubble are really non-existent,” he said.

The absolutely key thing is that this scheme is time-limited and we have given the keys to its continued operation to the Bank of England’s Financial Policy Committee (FPC) which can turn this scheme off in the next parliament,” he added.

Penguin offers to scrap Apple e-book deals to end EU antitrust case

BRUSSELS, 20 April—Media group Pearson’s Penguin unit has offered to scrap e-book deals with Apple that imposed price restrictions on Amazon and other retailers, EU antitrust regulators said on Friday.

The concessions, if accepted by the European Commission, would make Penguin the fifth book publisher to settle with regulators, ending a 16-month long investigation without any finding of wrongdoing or fine.

Regulators were concerned such pricing deals could hold back development of the e-book market, with higher prices for consumers. Amazon has the biggest share of that market.

Apple and publishers Simon & Schuster, News Corp unit HarperCollins, Lagardere SCA’s Hachette Livre and Verlagsgruppe Georg von Holtzbrinck, the owner of Germany’s Macmillan, reached a settlement with the Commission in December. Penguin’s concessions include ending “most-favoured nation” contracts for five years. Such clauses bar rival retailers from selling e-books more cheaply than Apple.

Retailers will also be allowed to set prices or discounts for a period of two years. The concessions are similar to those offered by the other publishers last year.

Interested parties have a month to comment on Penguin’s proposals before the Commission makes a final decision.

The Pearson unit is merging with German media group Bertelsmann’s publishing unit Random House.

It recorded total revenue of 615.3 million pounds in 2012.

13 Afghan policemen killed in Taleban attack

GHAZNI, (Afghanistan), 20 April — Thirteen Afghan Local Police (ALP) personnel were killed early Friday morning when Taleban launched attack on a checkpoint in Andar District in the country’s eastern province of Ghazni, an official said.

“Taleban raided an ALP checkpoint in Gan dei area in Andar District early Friday morning, killing 13 ALP cops,” the district administrative chief, Mohammad Qasim Destiwal, told Xinhua.

Details about the incident were not immediately clear, however, the official said an investigation into the incident was underway. The ALP or community police was established in August 2010 to protect villages and districts around the war-torn country where Afghan army and police have limited presence.

The Taleban, which has been waging an insurgency for more than a decade, has recently intensified attacks as the spring and summer season known as fighting season is drawing near.

On Thursday evening, Usman Jan, a senior district official with the Afghan intelligence agency, was killed in a drive-by shooting in Ismail Khal district of eastern Kholt Province, the district administrative chief Mohammad Younus told Xinhua.

Japan Diet OKs bill to allow online election campaign

KYODO NEWS

Tokyo, 20 April — The Diet enacted a bill on Friday to allow the use of Facebook, Twitter and other social networking websites in election campaigning, starting with this summer’s upper house election. The House of Councillors unanimously voted for lifting the ban on such online campaigning by revising the Public Office Election Law. The revision will also enable political parties and candidates to use e-mail to call for votes and liberalize the use of banner advertisement by parties to attract people to their websites.

The move is the latest effort by Japanese lawmakers to address people’s apathy toward elections or poli tics, especially youth voters, which has been demonstrated by low voter turnouts. This could lead to the creation of a political environment in which young voters and many others enhance their interest in politics, Chief Cabinet Secretary Yoshihide Suga told reporters. The bill was passed by the powerful House of Representatives earlier this month.

To prevent the abuse of online tools in campaign ing, the revised law stipu lates those who use false identities face imprisonment for up to two years or a fine of up to 300,000 yen (about $3,000). It can also suspend the civil rights of perpetrators. Internet ser vice providers will be au thorized to delete libelous comments within two days at the earliest, after agreeing with those who post them.— Kyodo News

Tokyo, 20 April — The Nuclear Regulation Authority on Friday started a process to check whether Japan’s two operating nuclear reactors are enough to be allowed to remain online beyond July when new safety requirements will take effect.

The NRA, which is intended to conduct the safety as sessment before July on the No 3 and 4 reactors at the Oi plant in Fukui Prefecture to facilitate the introduction of the new regulations, has decided to conduct its assessment before July on the two reactors operated by Kansai Electric Power Co have no serious safety problems, they will be allowed to continue operating through September, when they will have to undergo mandatory routine checkups.

A panel joined by regulators and Kansai Electric officials held its first meeting on Friday to discuss the issue. The panel plans to compile its assessment in the latter half of June and report the outcome to a gathering of all five NRA commissioners.

During the Friday’s meeting, Kansai Electric explained that it plans to finish necessary preparations by the end of June to make its two reactors meet the new requirements, such as an emergency command centre for each plant to deal with severe accidents. Kansai Electric said it will use a meeting room next to the No 3 and 4 reactor control room and other places for that purpose until a seismic-isolated building is completed in 2015.

NRA Commissioner Toyoshi Fuketa asked for more explanations on the matter, noting that using the meeting room may be difficult when the No 3 and 4 reactors are facing a tough situation.

A separate team appointed by the NRA is looking into whether any active fault runs under the Oi plant, but experts have been divided on the issue. Kansai Electric maintained its view on Friday that it has not confirmed the presence of faults that have any potential to move in the future.— Kyodo News

17 killed in Afghan violence

KABUL, 20 April — At least 17 people were killed in Taleban-led attacks in Afghanistan on Friday, authorities said. In the latest string of violence, a Taleban suicide bomber stroked security forces in the country’s southern Province of Helmand, injuring seven people.

“A militant detonated an explosive-laden car along a road in Sangin District when Afghan police and foreign soldiers were patrolling the area. The blast killed the attacker and injured seven others,” the district administrative chief, Dad Noorozai, told Xinhua.

The injured included five Afghan policemen and two civilians, the official said adding, “Their wounds were not life-threatening.” Notorious for growing poppy and militancy, Hel mand has been known as Taliban hotbed.

Early Friday morning, Taleban launched attack on an Afghan Local Police (ALP) checkpoint, killing two ALP personnel in eastern Ghazni Province.

The ALP or community police was established in August 2010 to protect villages and districts around the Afghanistan where army and police have limited presence.

“Taleban raided an ALP checkpoint in Gan dai area in Andar district early Friday morning, killing 13 ALP cops,” the district administrative chief, Mohammad Qasim Deeswal, told Xinhua.

Details about the incident were not clear, however, the official said that majority of the victims were sleeping when the attack took place and that an investigation into the incident was underway.

The Taleban, which has been waging an insurgency for more than a decade, has recently intensified attacks as the spring and summer season known as fighting season is drawing near.

A militia group has warned civilians to stay away from official gatherings, military convoys and others regarded as the targets. In northern Badakhshan province, one Afghan border policeman and two militants were killed when police checkpoints in Wardq district on early Friday morning.

Indian analyst suggests India, China expand border trade

NEW DELHI, 20 April — An Indian analyst suggested on Friday that India and China open more border crossings for trade to strengthen economic ties between the two countries.

Senior Indian journalist, columnist and author Sunanda K Datta-Ray made the appeal in an article published by the Asian Age daily on his latest trip to the Indian state of Sikkim bordering China’s Tibet Autonomous Region.

“It must be nearly 40 years since I made my way to Nathu la, the pass at 14,400 feet (4,389 metres) that is supposed to be one of the three Himalayan trade routes between India and China,” she said. “It was a different world. Sikkim was a mon archy then and India and China bitterlycritical of each other.”

Ray described how traditionally trade between Sikkim and China’s Tibet Autonomous Region was conducted along 13 routes. But these were all closed after the 1962 border war between India and China.

He said things began to look up in 1991 when two new markets were set up at Sheraftang in Sikkim and Rangjung in China under the 1991 Sino-Indian memorandum of understanding.

The number of both the import and export list from Sikkim were increased resulting from trade between Sikkim and China.

Ray said that even though two other passes along the India-China border, Gunji in Uttarakhand and Shpik in Himachal Pradesh, were opened, the total trade on the border area is an infinitesimal fraction of the 66 billion US dollar bilateral trade.

In 2012, the council offered scholarships to 4,407 Chinese students to study in European Union (EU) member states, and 1,858 students from EU countries to study in China, CSC Secretary General Liu Jinghui said.

18 arrests, 2.5 million fake invoices seized

BEIJING, 20 April — Chinese police have arrested 18 people suspected of forging and selling false invoices, and confiscated more than 2.5 million such fakes, the Ministry of Public Security has said.

Police in southeast China’s Fujian Province began investigating a criminal gang suspected of making fake invoices and transferring them to the provinces of Zhejiang, Hunan, Guizhou and Sichuan after receiving a tip-off earlier this year, said a statement released on 20 April from the ministry.

Under a unified deployment by the ministry, police from five provinces seized all the suspects engaged in the invoice fraud on 9 April, according to the statement. Police across the country have uncovered 29,000 cases of fake invoice-related crimes and confiscated 1.3 billion fake invoices since 2008, said the ministry, adding that the amount of confiscated fake invoices has dropped sharply. The ministry has vowed to continue cracking down on such crimes, while reminding people to report to police once fake invoices are found. — Xinhua

Radioactive water problems at Fukushima nuke plant force rethink

Tokyo, 20 April — The government and Tokyo Electric Power Co will present broad new thinking in May on ways to prevent radioactive water from increasing at the crippled Fukushima Daiichi nuclear power plant, industry minister Toshimitsu Motegi said on 20 April. The government has announced plans to restart the plants.

The Nuclear Regulation Authority released an estimate the same day that the leaks could lead to the density of radioactive strontium in groundwater exceeding the legal limit in about 10 years in the coastal area of the plant. The leaked water will eventually reach the Pacific Ocean by mixing with groundwater, but the concentration level of radioactive substances will drop when diluted in the sea. The estimate looked into how the density of strontium and tritium will change at a location about 880 meters toward the sea from the No 2 underground tank that is believed to have leaked up to 120 tons of radioactive water, the largest amount among the seven underground tanks at the site. The leaks, which took place more than two years ago after the nuclear crisis occurred, has highlighted the importance of finding a more fundamental solution to dealing with the massive amount of polluted water accumulating at the site. — Kyodo News

Texas firefighter’s kiss to son before deadly blast was last goodbye

WEST, (Texas), 20 April — When the call came on Wednesday evening about a blaze at the local fertilizer plant, volunteer firefighter Morris Bridges picked up his 2-year-old son, Jaimeson, said “Daddy loves you,” and kissed him goodbye. Bridges, 41, a father of three, has not been seen since. His family have not definitively been told that he is dead but they believe he has died.

He is among five local volunteer firefighters presumed dead in the explosion ignited by the fire at the plant in West, Texas. The dedication he showed to his community that night was typical of him, the family said. “As soon as a call would go out, Morris would be the first one there,” said his wife, Carmen Bridges, who met Morris in middle school and married him about four years ago after reconnecting as they planned their 20th high school reunion. Carmen Bridges, wearing a pink T-shirt and her red harlequin paw on top of her head, was holding and cuddling Jaimeson as she softly spoke about her husband.

On Friday, the firefighter’s family remembered him as a devoted father and uncle who proudly stood on street corners holding a boot to collect donations for the town’s volunteer fire department of about 30 members. — Reuters

The Seventh Meeting of the Sixth State Central Working Committee of the Sangha of All Orders of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar

The State Central Working Committee of the Sangha of All Orders of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar comprising 300 members of the Sangha represented over five hundred thousand members of the Sangha residing in the Republic of the Union of Myanmar. According to the fundamental principles which were passed and adopted by the very first Successful Congregation of the Sangha of All Orders of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar in 1980, the State Central Working Committee of the Sangha of All Orders shall hold its annual meeting at least once a year.

We all Buddhists throughout the country know that altogether six Congregations of the Sangha of All Orders leading and contributing to the Buddha Sasana in perpetuation, propagation and promotion of the Buddha Sasana were successfully held by arrangements and supports of Buddhist people and the previous Governments in 1980, 1985, 1990, 1995, 2000 and 2005 respectively. In accordance with the objectives and duties laid down by these successful congregations of the Sangha of All Orders, the very first unity of the members of Sangha could be formed in Myanmar within one hundred years.

We all Buddhists all over the world know that altogether six great Buddha Councils (Synods) leading and contributing to the purification, perpetuation, propagation and promotion of the Buddha Sasana were convened after the noble demise of the Omniscient Gotama Buddha over 2556 years ago.

The Fifth Great Buddha Council was held in Myanmar in the year 2415 of the Buddhist Era (1878 CE) and attended by 2400 Mahatheras, and the Sixth Great Buddha Council was also held in Myanmar in the year 2498 of the Buddhist Era (1960 CE) and attended by 2500 Mahatheras from the Five Theravada Buddhist nations, Thailand, Cambodia, Laos, Sri Lanka and Myanmar. The Buddhist peoples from those Theravada Buddhist nations were greatly pleased and honoured for successfully holding the Sixth Great Buddha Sasana.

According to the history of Buddhism, it is learnt that schisms and split of schools and sects usually occurred among the Monastic Orders whenever some members of the Sangha of Orders were in trouble through disputes and mutual misunderstanding.

To rebuild the unity and mutual understanding between different schools and sects of the Sangha of All Orders so long as the Buddha Sasana exists.

All the Buddhists firmly believe that without the unity of the Sangha, it is impossible to execute purification, propagation, and promotion of the Buddha Sasana. In reality, all members of the Sangha and devotees want the unifying unity of the Sangha of All Orders. They firmly believe that it only can be possible to purify, perpetuate, propagate and promote the Sasana by the unity of the Sangha. The Buddha, Himself urged the members of the Sangha to unite in order to carry out His Teachings.

In fact, the main objectives of holding the First Great Buddha Council (Synod) through the Sixth Great Buddha Council (Synod) were to purify, perpetuate, propagate, and promote the Buddha Sasana. Although altogether six Buddha Councils (Synods) were held, it was found that different schools and sects still appeared. They were not united and they parted from each other. Because of different schools and sects, many unlawful views (Adhammaavadas) which were contrary to and incompatible with the Pitakas of the Theravada Buddha Sasana appeared. In reality, these unlawful views endangered true Buddhism.

Therefore, all the Buddhists felt worried about the situation of true Buddhism. They really want to purify, perpetuate, propagate and promote the Buddha Sasana.

The Seventh Meeting of the Sixth State Central Working Committee of the Sangha of All Orders of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar successfully have rebuilt the unity of Sangha of All Orders with the support of Buddhists and Government since 1980. A single Sangha Organization could be formed in the country for the first time in one hundred years.

In accordance with the prescribed terms of the Sangha Organizations, the Seventh Meeting of the Sixth State Central Working Committee of the Sangha of All Orders are fixed to be held at the Mahapasana Cave (great Cave) on Sire Mangala Kaba Aye Hillock, Yangon, from 19 to 21 March 2013. The meeting will be attended by 300 members of the State Central Working Committee of the Sangha of All Orders and 111 members of the State Sangha Oacacariya (Patrons) representing 14 Sangha Organizations throughout the country.

The main objectives of the Seventh Meeting of the Sixth State Central Working Committee of the Sangha of All Orders are to strengthen more efforts for purification, perpetuation, propagation and promotion of Theravada Buddha Sasana throughout the country.

It is further learnt that all necessary arrangements and requirements for holding the Seventh Meeting of the Sixth State Central Working Committee of the Sangha of All Orders of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar have already been made by the Ministry of Religious Affairs and authorities concerned.

We all Buddhists are heartily pleased and honoured in order to be able to pay profound respect to the members of the Sangha present at the Seventh Meeting of the Sixth State Central Working Committee of the Sangha of All Orders, ***

Care about our Mother Earth

Without placing plenty of attention on environmental sustainability, we will have a little hope of achieving our goals of breaking the cycle of poverty, ensuring food sufficiency and improving health standard. Only when an environmental awareness has developed among global citizens to protect flora and fauna and to clean up the earth on which we live, will our one and only planet be free from all forms of challenges which are threatening the existence of the earth.

Today’s people are making great strides in pursuance of development and prosperity, using the earth’s resources faster than it can be exploited. Their behavior represents a sign of giving invitation to the termination of their own existence. Now, our Mother Earth is facing environmental challenges—global warming, ozone depletion, deforestation, soil erosion, sea-level rising, droughts and floods, severe storms and harsh climate patterns. It is not entirely exaggerated that the consequences will be very grave if nothing is done. So, the protection and conservation of the environment is essential to the survival of human beings and plants and animals that are like-us living things.

Intelligent solutions are required to face the growing problems of environmental degradation brought about by humans. We must focus more on green energy for green development. Energy generation and consumption should be more efficient.

The rapid growth of population calling for meeting their basis needs, but excessive extraction of raw materials can lead us to a situation in which development will be a risk. With the constant increase in raw materials and energy consumption triggered by rapid population growth, greenhouse gas emissions and destruction of carbon sinks will be more than doubled or tripled. If so, we would need two earths or more, but we only have one. With increasing environmental problems and deterioration in environment, with the result that a lot of negative effects have emerged and we have to address numerous environmental issues. Where do we start to save our planet? The only answer is to set in motion within ourselves. The onus is on each and every person to take care of their environment and to do their part. Only if we give the respect and care to our Mother Earth she deserves can we save our one and only planet from destruction.

The main objectives of the Seventh Meeting of the Sixth State Central Working Committee of the Sangha of All Orders of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar are to strengthen more efforts for purification, perpetuation, propagation and promotion of Theravada Buddha Sasana throughout the country.

It is further learnt that all necessary arrangements and requirements for holding the Seventh Meeting of the Sixth State Central Working Committee of the Sangha of All Orders are to strengthen more efforts for purification, perpetuation, propagation and promotion of Theravada Buddha Sasana throughout the country.

Farmer arrested over shooting of migrant workers in Greece

Athens, 20 April—Police on Friday arrested three foreigners at a Greek strawberry farm on suspicion that they shot and wounded more than 20 migrant farmers who were protesting over unpaid wages. The incident on Wednesday was the latest attack on foreign workers in crisis-hit Greece and has prompted a public outcry.

The three men face charges of attempted murder for opening fire at a crowd of about 200 mostly Bangladeshi immigrants in the southwestern town of Manolada. None of the victims was Greek and has prompted a public outcry.

The suspects, all Greeks aged 21, 27 and 31, had been on the run since the incident on Wednesday, a police official said. The farm owner was arrested on Thursday.

They will appear before a public prosecutor later on Friday. One of them has already been charged for murder by opening fire to force an immigrant in the past and his trial is pending, the official said. The shooting caused an outcry in Greece, which has seen repeated attacks on immigrants lately as the fiercely anti-immigrant, ultra-nationalist “Golden Dawn” party rises in prominence. Political parties expressed outrage at the incident. The Public Order Ministry in Greece has said it would open a probe.

Nikos Dendias rushed to Manolada on Friday to de- nounce the attack. “What happened here is not just illegal but also inhuman,” he said.

Anti-immigrant sentiment has been rising in Greece, where more than one in four workers is out of a job after five years of recession and austerity.

Greece is a gateway for mostly Asian and African migrants trying to enter the European Union through its sea and land borders. The Manolada immigrants said they were ill-treated and owed months of wages. Their salary was 22 euros ($28.70) a day. Most of the immigrants who find work in Greece are employed illegally. Education key to preventing food safety scandals

Beijing, 20 April — The Chinese government on Tuesday vowed to overhaul food safety standards and crack down on illegal food additives in its latest move to improve food safety.

In a circular that sets major tasks for food safety in 2013, the State Council also pledged to improve supervision and crack down on the use of food additives and pesticide residue, as well as target other food-related violations.

Overlapping food safety standards and loose supervision have been blamed for China’s multiple food scandals.

Some Chinese believe food safety standards in China are less strict than those in the United States, Japan and Europe. Many also believe that government supervision has been circumvented by bureaucracy and corruption.

From food production to consumption, at least five Chinese government departments and agencies are involved in supervision. The overlapping of power makes supervision efforts less centralized and allows authorities to pass the buck.

Although progress has been made through repeated government campaigns launched to eradicate food safety violations, the issue still remains problematic for many Chinese.

In recent scandals, farmers have fed pigs with clenbuterol to produce leaner pork, liquor makers have used plasticizer to thicken their spirits and dairy manufacturers have used expired powder and changed their production dates.

To deter food safety violations, the top legislature passed an amendment to the Criminal Law so that those held responsible for serious food crimes can be subject to the death penalty.

New efforts are being made to merge multiple food and drug safety agencies into one regulatory body in order to improve efficiency.

The government is also trying to encourage participation by local officials, who are motivated to cover up scandals in order to prevent disgrace resulting from social unrest.

Selena Gomez hid under a table after meeting Brad Pitt

LOS ANGELES, 20 April—Selena Gomez hid under a table after she met Brad Pitt.

The Come and Get It singer recently became flustered while meeting the World War Z star’s ex-wife Jennifer Aniston, and she found herself in another awkward predicament when she met the hunky actor backstage at the MTV Movie Awards on Sunday (14.04.13).

The singer performed her latest single at the awards bash, but later lost her cool when Brad — who has six children, Maddox, 12, Pax, nine, Zahara, eight, Shiloh, six, and four-year-old twins Vivienne and Knox, with Angelina Jolie — tried to get a picture with her because his children are big fans of her Disney show The Wizards of Waverly Place.

Speaking on talk show Ellen, she said: “I was in my dressing room and I had just finished performing. They knocked on my door and they said Brad Pitt would like to come in and I was like, ‘He can come in.’ I was trying to play cool and be really nice. As soon as he walked out I ran and hid under the craft service table for like two minutes because I couldn’t believe it was happening.”

“He was like, ‘Can I have a picture with you?’ I was like, ‘Can I have a picture with you?!’ I was so nervous. Like that stresses me out, but it was fine. I actually had fun and I got to meet Brad Pitt, so…”

The 20-year-old actress-and-singer recently revealed running away from Jennifer, 44, and blamed her strange behaviour on being a huge fan of her iconic Friends character Rachel Green.

New Delhi, 20 April—Iron Man 3 stars Robert Downey Jr and Gwyneth Paltrow in the lead.

48-year-old actor Robert Downey Jr has thus far refused to confirm if he will make another movie in the successful franchise but director Shane Black is confident Robert will return for at least one more outing as Tony Stark/Iron Man.

Speaking at the Iron Man 3 UK premiere at Odeon Leicester Square in London on Thursday (18.04.13), Shane told BANG Showbiz: “I think he’ll be back for another one. I’m sure of it.”

Co-star Sir Ben Kingsley heaped praise on Robert for his portrayal of the billionaire businessman turned superhero.

He said: “I think what the film examines, thanks to Robert Downey Jr’s wonderful sense of performance is, you have the iron suit and the man inside it. Which is which? Which is the more powerful? Is it the guy inside the suit, or is it the suit itself?”

Meanwhile, Rebecca Hall, who plays Maya Hansen, couldn’t hide her delight at joining the cast.

She said: “I’m really excited to be here. I’m really excited to be part of it. It’s definitely a unique experience to join a franchise when you know so much of it already and you’re already acquainted with who the characters are and you’ve seen them in the cinema. It’s an exciting thing to get on board that. It’s very thrilling.”

Robert also attended the premiere along with Don Cheadle while stars including Demet O’Leary, Oritse Williams and JB Gill from JLS, Labrinth and Kimberly Wyatt walked the red carpet.

Nadal subdues inhibitors Dimitrov to set up Tsonga clash

MANAMA, 20 April—McLaren questioned Lewis Hamilton's version of events after a thrilling performance which no-one from a rival team should see.

After winning three titles including the Indian Wells Masters following seven months out with injury, “I had a fantastic first set and that’s important. That means my level is here,” Nadal told a news conference.

“I am losing a bit of intensity at some moments. That’s normal after a long time out of competition,” added the Spaniard.

Tsonga had opened the chilly grey day, with the sun hidden by the clouds and a cool breeze refreshing the sparse crowd, by winning a fierce battle against Wawrinka.

Both players started brightly, with a solid Wawrinka looking on course to repeat the superb third-round performance which knocked out world number two Andy Murray.

However, Tsonga’s aggression paid off with the Swiss-based Frenchman making the most of his break chance overcooked in his occasional training partner.

Tsonga, who had not reached the last four in a Masters series event since his 2011 home triumph at the Paris Open, saw himself as the underdog ahead of the semi-final with Nadal.

“It’s a incredible challenge. If I win, I’ll be a hero. If I lose, I’ll just go back home like everybody else,” he said. Italian Fognini, who lives just across the border and said he felt “at home” in Monaco, produced a fine performance with his dropshots and deep spinning forehands troubling France’s Gasquet.

Puyol and Mascherano out of semi-final first leg at Bayern

BARCELONA, 20 April—Injured Barcelona centre backs Carles Puyol and Javier Mascherano will miss Tuesday’s Champions League semi-final first leg at Bayern Munich, assistant coach Jordi Roura said on Friday.

Club captain Puyol had arthroscopic surgery on the cartilage in his right knee in March and Mascherano damaged ligaments in the same joint in Barça’s 2-2 quarter-final first leg draw at Paris St Germain on 2 April.

“Puyol won’t be available for the game in Munich and we don’t know yet about the return leg (on 1 May), it will depend on how he recovers and the doctor’s decision,” Roura, standing in for coach Tito Vilanova while he recovers from cancer treatment, told a news conference.

“Mascherano is coming along well but we still don’t know whether he can play in the return leg,” he added.

Barca, chasing a third European crown in five years, have several options to choose from to partner Gerard Pique in central defence, including full back Adriano, youth-team product Marc Bartra and midfielders Alex Song and Sergio Busquets. Eric Abidal, who returned to action this month after a liver transplant, is another possibility although he may need more time before he is back to full fitness.

“We have to take it step by step,” Roura said of the Frenchman.

PANAMA CITY, 20 April—United States Soccer Federation (USSF) president Sunil Gulati was elected to FIFA’s executive committee by CONCACAF on Friday, defeating Mexico’s Justino Compean by one vote.

Monte Carlo, 20 April—Eight-times champion Rafael Nadal was taken to the brink by improving Bulgarian prospect Grigor Dimitrov before completing a 6-2, 6-4 victory on Friday to reach the Monte Carlo Masters semi-finals.

Nadal, who made an unusual number of errors and looked uncomfortable throughout against his 21-year-old opponent, slowly ground him down and fired an ace to clinch his 45th successive victory at the first big claycourt event of the season.

The Spaniard now has a 47-1 win-loss record at the glamourous venue and will next face Frenchman Jo-Wilfried Tsonga, who beat Swiss Stanislas Wawrinka 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 on the picturesque Centre Court to reach the last four for the first time.

World number one Novak Djokovic was not bothered by his sprained ankle as he moved past Finland’s Jarkko Nieminen 6-4, 6-3 to clinch a meeting with Fabio Fognini.

The 32nd-ranked Italian made his first significant breakthrough in a Masters Series event by stunning seventh seed Richard Gasquet 7-6(4), 6-2. The straight-laced crowd, for once reluctant to support Nadal with Dimitrov threatening to pull off a shock win, stood up to cheer the 33rd-ranked Bulgarian as he left the court after a thrilling performance.

Nadal had his share of applause after keeping his bid for a ninth consecutive Masters event victory. He has reached the last four for the first time.

Rome, 20 April—AC Milan striker Mario Balotelli will miss Sunday’s top of the table clash with Juventus despite having his three-match suspension cut to two games.

The Federal Court of Justice has partially upheld an appeal by Milan and reduces the matches Mario Balotelli is banned for by three to two games, adding a fine of 20,000 euros (17,163 pounds) in exchange for the third match,” the Italian Football Federation (FIGC) said on its website (www.figc.it) on Friday.

The Italian international was suspended after picking up his fourth booking of the season for aiming an insult at referee Paolo Tagliavento in the 2-2 draw at Fiorentina two weeks ago.

McLaren question Hamilton’s version of events

MANAMA, 20 April—McLaren questioned Lewis Hamilton’s version of events after the 2008 Formula One champion told an interviewer he had been “warmly welcomed” in the Mercedes driver’s paddock hospitality after returning this month from a month-long back injury.

“Rather, he gently guided him out since our car was being worked on by our mechanics at the time, with a number of its dismantled components clearly visible, which no-one from a rival team should see.”

“Lewi’s knew he shouldn’t have been in our garage in the first place, just as team personnel know they shouldn’t enter rivals’ garages.”

Bishop pointed out Hamilton had also spent time in their paddock hospitality “at a number of grands prix” so far this season and had always been “warmly welcomed”. Blatter hints strongly may stay on for another term

PANAMA CITY, 20 April — Sepp Blatter gave his strongest hint yet that he may stay on for another four-year term as FIFA president beyond 2015, saying the scale of reform facing soccer’s global governing body needed time.

Blatter, 77, has indicated in the past he would not stand for a fifth consecutive term in two year’s time but he told Reuters on Friday that he would not “abandon this boat” before he was sure FIFA was in the right shape.

“We are not over with our reform because we have a first part, we have all the dangers that are in football like match-fixing and so on but we also have to have a look at the political organisation of FIFA,” he said after attending CONCACAF’s congress.

CONCACAF is soccer’s governing body in North and Central America, and the Caribbean region.

Blatter has increased considerably talked of the need to strengthen the ‘global’ character of FIFA and he said there was a need to address the issue of representation of the different confederations on the administration’s executive committee.

“It means (asking) if the re-partition of the members in the Executive Committee is still according to nowadays (current) football,” he said.

“As—also—and this is the demand of all the confederations—they would have a better access to the World Cup because—Europe and South America they have two-thirds of the seats,” he said referring to the make-up of the executive.

Asked directly if he wanted to be sure of global balances being in place before he would move on, Blatter said: “Absolutely, but it will take more time than just to go to congress and say ‘applaud’.”

Four killed in Indonesia’s West Java landslide

JAKARTA, 20 April — Four people from a family were killed on Friday afternoon when a landslide swept out their house located in Senpur village, Bogor, West Java province, a senior official at Indonesia’s National Disaster Mitigation Agency said.

“The landslide took place at 16.00 pm western Indonesian time following heavy downpour and strong wind that occurred around the landslide location.

The four victims, who live in the house swept by the landslide were found lifeless,” Sutopo Purwo Nugroho of the agency told Xinhua over the phone.

He said the bodies of the victims, including a five-year-old child, were already evacuated to Salak hospital in Bogor.

Sutopo said that the village hit by the landslide was prone to such disaster as the increasing population in the area has forced people to build their houses in slopes above the Ciliwung River.
