Union Transport Minister inspects development of Yangon jetty

YANGON, 21 April—Union Transport Minister U Cho Than Maung visited Yangon Port yesterday evening.

Managing Director U Cho Than Maung of Yangon Port Authority reported to the Minister on arrivals of overseas ships, freight handlings and conceptual plan for upgrading of Yangon jetty.

The minister said that Yangon Jetty can hold 18 ships and plans are under way to build 14 more jetties that can double freight handlings.

He called for meeting international standard of freight handlings, balanced ratio of jetty extension and import/export volume, building of remaining seven jetties through joint venture and foreign aids.

He also said that Myanmar jetty would become a crucial one in the South East Asia after Dawei Deep Sea Port and Kyaukbyu Deep Sea Port come into operation. Yangon Jetty handles 85 percent of export and import of the whole country. Construction ratio of jetties between the State and private is 25:75.

After that, the Union minister inspected situation of watercourse along Yangon River, dredging work and water ways for ships.

Development tasks in Yangon City inspected

YANGON, 21 April—Yangon Region Development Affairs Minister U Hla Myint this morning inspected expansion of Inya Road and dredging of Tadar Pyu creek on Pyay Road in Kamayut Township, expansion of lower Mingaladon Road in Insein Township, laying of concrete on Waizayanta Road and dredging of Kwinkyaung Creek between Ahlon and Kyimyindaing Townships, sanitation works in South Phase of Ngamoeyeik water supply project in South Okkalapa and Thingangyun Townships, staff in power control room and power generation of 5.3 million KWH from four generators totaling 790 megawatt.

High time to make changes in service of private hire cars (taxis)

As it is likely to see flocks of tourists when Myanmar hosts SEA Games-2013 and ASEAN Summit-2014, downtown transport service should be upgraded to enhance the image of the nation, especially taxi service. Passengers call for changes in service of private hire cars (taxis).

Although taxi meters worth K 200,000 each were installed at every cab to help passengers to ensure that they are treated fairly by knowing an accurate fare for their taxi ride, it is not working up to date and culture of bargaining still prevails. Passengers want to be provided with comfortable, time-saving and hassle-free travel at a very reasonable cost while getting on a hire car. But passengers at bus terminals, airports, jetties and railway stations are experiencing the selfish behaviour of unscrupulous taxi drivers who are willing to carry passengers with different destinations at the same time, Yangon dwellers who returned from the countryside during Thingyan days said that the taxi drivers were taking advantage of Myanmar people’s feeling of embarrassment and tolerance.

They look for the passengers of the same path, but with different destinations and put them together in their cabs before the engine starts. If they did not find such kind of more passengers, the former passengers are forced to move to another taxi. That’s why, passengers are to have a feeling of anger or annoyance.

Taxi fares are used to be announced by authorities concerned, but there was no adherence to the announcement. Now, irresponsible hire cars and taxis are seen more and more. So it is high time to take punitive actions against profit-seeking taxi drivers at bus terminals, jetties, railway stations and airports.

Public transport sector, special buses and taxis are to be placed under close supervisions of authorities concerned whether they can be proved their special characteristics.

Chinese Premier visits epicentre after deadly quake

YÁ’AN, (Sichuan), 21 April—Chinese Premier Li Keqiang on Saturday afternoon visited the area torn by a 7.0-magnitude earthquake in China’s Sichuan Province, calling for wasting no time to save lives. In the epicentre, Lushan County of Ya’an City, Li visited temporary settlements, hospitals, tents and climbing on a heap of ruins where the disaster situation, expressed condolences to the victims and the survivors, and guided the rescue and relief work on site.

The earthquake hit Lushan County at 8:02 am Beijing time on Saturday. Authorities said at least 160 people have been killed and more than 6,700 injured as of 4:00 am Sunday Beijing Time. As the electricity supply had not yet been resumed, Li had to hold a meeting late Saturday night with flashlights in a tent in the epicentre Lushan County.

The current rescue and disaster relief work, saying that the priority work of Sichuan province under current situation is the rescue and disaster relief work, saying that with saving lives as the chief mission.

Li urged local officials to check every house and make the utmost effort to save lives as long as there is one glimmer of hope, deploy capable medical personnel to treat and cure the injured, and transfer seriously injured people outside in time so as to lower the mortality rate and disability rate.

Transportation must be unimpeded, said Li, adding that the railway and transportation departments should make every effort to facilitate the entry of tents, quilts, food and other materials into the quake-hit area. Vehicles in the area should give way to rescue units and medical teams so that they can reach the places that need them.

Li decided to allocate 20,000 more tents and 800 sets of mobile houses to the disaster area, and asked the railway and transportation departments to deliver them as soon as possible.

The leader of the anti-establishment 5-Star Movement Beppe Grillo called for early elections from his presidential palace, he said the coming weeks would be crucial for the country and called on all sides to “fulfill their duties.”

In almost two months, Napolitano now has the power to dissolve parliament, which he did not have in the final months of his current term. Most on the centre-left, which has been torn apart by internal divisions since the February vote, fear new elections and so may be more willing to come to terms with Berlusconi. The 76-year-old media magnate, who was forced from office at the height of a debt crisis in 2011 and was still being written off until shortly before the election, now leads in the polls.

1.5 million people affected by China quake

A total of 180 people have been confirmed dead in the 7.0-magnitude earthquake, which hit Sichuan on Saturday morning, according to the provincial government. More than 2,300 fires and explosions have been engaged in rescue work, according to the Ministry of Public Security.
Captive particles and Dr Who show physicists are human too

GENEVA, 21 April — Physicists are deadly serious about particle physics. Chad in long white coats, they spend their days smashing particles together in the hunt for exotic creatures like quarks and squarks, leptons and sleptons — and the Higgs Boson. At night their dreams are all about finding them. When discoveries show up amid the colourful displays on their monitor screens — as the Higgs Boson did last summer — they may share a glass or two of champagne, but then get down to writing learned papers for the heavy science journals. True? Well, not quite. They do have a sense of humor too. At the start of this month, a blog from the Great Temple of the particle hunting profession at CERN, near Geneva, offered a captive boson of the Higgs genus to each of the first 10 readers to e-mail in a request. Simultaneously, across the Atlantic the US Fermilab announced a months-long search for a new director was over with the appointment of “the obvious candidate,” the Time Lord. It was ASP Fools’ Day, and no one was misled, right? Wrong, they were, according to both august institutions.

At CERN, scientist-blogger Pauline Gagnon now eager responders entered her boson lottery. “Most of them wrote very enthusiastic notes, explaining why they wanted a Higgs,”—so far no more than a ripple on a graph she told Reuters. “Even some physics students fell for it...” One told me it would help to win his girlfriend’s heart as he was about to propose. Nearly half the entries came from Belarus or Russia. Gagnon suspects that a serious report on the “lottery” by a regional news agency may have had something to do with that response. Other applications for an original of the ephemeral Higgs came from Australia, China, Canada and Finland—which have strong physics communities. One came from Rwanda, which doesn’t. “Many applicants were not completely fooled but happily played along,” says Gagnon. Ten of them, finally selected at random, will get a cuddly toy boson in reward.

Over at Fermilab, which for years competed with CERN in the Higgs chase but lost its particle collider in a US government economy drive, spokesperson Andre Salles reported a “tremendous response” to their 1 April announcement.

SAP’s cloud computing push stalls in Asia

FRANKFURT, 21 April — SAP AG’s Asian business stumbled at the start of 2013 when top sales managers left the business software company, giving rivals an edge just as customers were switching from hardware to cloud computing. The German company vowed to get its Asia Pacific business back on track after the problems pushed its first-quarter earnings and revenue below analyst forecasts. Its shares fell 2.8 percent on Friday.

SAP and rivals such as IBM and Oracle are dashing to meet surging demand for cloud computing, which allows clients to reduce costs by ditching bulky and costly server hardware to cloud-based software and storage in remote data centres. With the cloud services market forecast to grow 18.5 percent this year to $31.3 billion worldwide, according to research firm Gartner, competition is fierce and software firms face a challenge to adapt. “We had some leadership changes in the region. That is why we saw some misses in the quarter,” said SAP’s co-Chief Executive Jim Hagemann Snabe.

He promised the Asia Pacific region would be back on track in the second quarter as the sales pipeline looked good and important sales positions were now taken care of. SAP shares were down 2.8 percent at $79.55 euros by 0932 GMT, while a broader index of European technology companies was down 0.7 percent. “It’s a bigger disappointment in SAP’s quarterly results was SAP’s performance in the Asia Pacific Japan region (APJ), said Stacy Pollard, an analyst at JP Morgan. Its software and cloud subscription revenue there declined 7 percent, lagging the Americas, where revenue jumped 49 percent, and Europe, the Middle East and Africa, where it grew 13 percent.

“While weakness from other software and IT services names over the last month had already pushed down expectations (and the SAP share price), we would still expect another 3 to 4 percent correction to shares today,” Pollard said.
Global finance officials endorse World Bank target to end poverty

WASHINGTON, 21 April—Global finance officials on Saturday endorsed a new World Bank goal to end extreme global poverty by 2030 and emphasized that its focus should be on ensuring that the poorest benefit from strong growth and rising prosperity in developing nations.

“For the first time in history, we have committed to setting a target to end poverty,” World Bank President Jim Yong Kim said on Saturday following a meeting of the World Bank’s Development Committee. “We are no longer dreaming of a world free of poverty; we have set an expiration date for extreme poverty,” he added.

The goal is aimed to reduce extreme poverty from 10 percent globally and targets the bottom 40 percent of people living in each country in the developing world. Developing economies are growing on average about 6 percent annually, lifting millions of people out of poverty and creating a new global middle class, which has also given rise to growing inequality.

“We recognize that sustained economic growth needs a reduction in inequality. Investments that create opportunities for all citizens and promote gender equality are an important end in their own right, as well as being integral to creating prosperity,” the Development Committee said. The new World Bank target aim to guide the work of the institution, and coincides with efforts by the United Nations to draw up a post-2015 poverty strategy to replace existing goals.

New figures released by the World Bank this week show that extreme poverty globally has plunged to 21 percent in 2010, from 43 percent in 1990, with most of the world’s poor now concentrated most heavily in sub-Saharan Africa and South Asia, as China has successfully slashed extreme poverty.

Large study finds no vaccine link to nerve disorder

NEW YORK, 21 April—In a review of data covering 13 years and millions of patients, researchers found no evidence of a link between being vaccinated against tetanus, hepatitis, pneumonia or flu, and developing the nerve-degenerating disorder Guillain-Barré. The take home message is vaccines are not causing Guillain-Barré Syndrome at a rate, if at all, that would possibly make the benefits of vaccination not worthwhile,” wrote Dr Daniel Salmon, of the Institute for Vaccine Safety at Johns Hopkins University, who was not part of the study, in an email to Reuters Health.

Guillain-Barré syndrome (GBS) is a rare condition that affects one person out of every 100,000 and can be permanent. It is usually temporary.

GBS is considered an autoimmune response, in which a person’s own immune cells attack the protective coating on nerve fibers. Most cases follow a bacterial or viral infection, and develop over the course of days or weeks. In 1976, a vaccine created to protect against an epidemic of swine flu that never materialized was linked to an increased risk of GBS in people who got the shot.

Ever since, researchers have been looking at whether flu vaccines or any other vaccines might be associated with heightened risk.

“There’s definitely a connection in people’s minds that vaccines cause this syndrome. But if you look at the (medical) literature, that doesn’t bear out,” said Dr Roger Baxter, the new co-author of the Vaccine Study Centre at Kaiser Permanente in Oakland, California.

Mexico bank reform eases legal hurdles to boost credit

MEXICO CITY, 21 April—Mexico’s government aims to boost lending by making it easier for banks to collect on guarantees for bad loans and by giving new powers to regulators to punish firms that do not lend enough, according to a draft of a new banking reform.

The proposal, a copy of which was seen by Reuters, is due to be presented next week, and is part of a raft of measures aimed at ramping up growth in Latin America’s second biggest economy.

Threshed out within a pact made between President Enrique Pena Nieto and the leaders of the main opposition parties, the banking reform targets Mexico’s conservative banks, which boast high capital levels but lend much less than their foreign peers.

“Granting more loans, under more favourable conditions in terms of interest rates, duration and amounts, is a crucial element to efficiently allocating financial resources to boost national economic growth,” the draft says.

Astellas, GSK vie to make “high altitude” anemia pill

Their experimental pills — both given at altitude you produce a high altitude pill, dubbed GSK 1278863, which launched final-stage Phase III tests in December of their drug, known as FG-4592 or 3 — are competing to develop a new kind of medicine that boosts production of red blood cells by making the body think it is at high altitude.

SAUDI king removes deputy defence minister in royal reshuffle

RIYADH, 21 April — Saudi Arabia’s King Abdullah has removed veteran deputy defence minister Prince Khaled bin Sultan from his post, state media reported on Saturday, the latest move in a reshuffle among princes holding government jobs in the US-allied kingdom. Switches of important posts between princes are closely watched because they indicate possible changes in the line of succession in the monarchy, the dominant power among Gulf Arab states and the world’s biggest oil exporter.

Prince Khaled was head of the Saudi armed forces during the 1991 Gulf War but was passed over for the job of Defence Minister in 2011 after the death of his father, Crown Prince Sultan, who had held the position for five decades. He has been replaced as deputy defence minister by Prince Fahd bin Abdullah bin Mohammed bin Abdulrahman, Saudi Press Agency (SPA) reported, citing a royal decree. Prince Fahd is a former head of the Saudi navy. SPA did not give a reason for the switch.

The Defence Minister is Crown Prince Salman, King Abdullah’s named successor. He oversees multi-billion-dollar arms purchases that cement Saudi Arabia’s alliances with Western nations. Unlike in European monarchies, the Saudi ruling family succession does not move from father to eldest son but along a line of brothers born to the kingdom’s founder, and is based on seniority, experience, temperament and position in the family.

Texas fertilizer company didn’t heed disclosure rules before blast

NEW YORK, 21 April — The fertilizer plant that exploded on Wednesday, obliterating part of a small Texas town and killing at least 14 people, had last year been storing 1,350 times the amount of ammonium nitrate that would have required oversight by the US Department of Homeland Security (DHS). Yet a person familiar with DHS operations said the company that owns the plant, West Fertilizer, did not tell the agency about the potentially explosive fertilizer as it is required to do, leaving one of the principal regulators of ammonium nitrate — which can also be used in bomb making — unaware of any danger there.

Fertilizer plants and depots must report to the DHS when they hold 400 lb (180 kg) or more of the substance. Filings this year with the Texas Department of State Health Services, which weren’t shared with DHS, showed the plant had 270 tons of it on hand last year. A US congressman and several safety experts called into question on Friday whether incomplete disclosure or regulatory gridlock may have contributed to the disaster.

“It seems this manufacturer was willfully off the grid,” Rep. Bennie Thompson, (D-MS), ranking member of the House Committee on Homeland Security, said in a statement. “This facility was known to have chemicals well above the threshold amount to be regulated under the Chemical Facility Anti-Terrorism Standards Act (CFATS), yet we understand that DHS did not even know the plant existed until it blew up.”

Company officials did not return repeated calls seeking comment on its handling of chemicals and anger over the incident.

In the first quarter, Air Arabia also took delivery of two new Airbus A320 aircraft.

Egypt’s Mursi plans cabinet reshuffle

CAIRO, 21 April—Egyptian President Mohamed Mursi said on Saturday he planned to reshuffle his cabinet in a move that could help build political consensus around a $4.8 billion loan Cairo is seeking from the International Monetary Fund.

Mursi’s opponents have been demanding the formation of a new government to oversee parliamentary elections expected to begin later this year. The United States, a major donor to Cairo, has grown more critical of Mursi of late, listing a lack of political inclusivity as one of its concerns. The IMF has stressed the need for broad support for a loan agreement seen as vital to easing Egypt’s economic crisis but which is also likely to bring with it politically-sensitive austerity measures such as tax increases and subsidy cuts.

An IMF technical mission held 12 days of talks on the loan agreement but left earlier this week without an agreement. While in Cairo, the mission met an array of Egyptian opposition parties in an effort to broaden support for any deal. In an interview with al-Jazeera television aired late on Saturday, Mursi said: “We are keen on the IMF, the World Bank, international institutions, and on dealing with them ... but what will serve the interests of the Egyptian citizen?” That is what we will do.”

“The programmes that serve (this) interest are not in accordance with what the IMF wants. I do not yield to conditions, internal or external. The only condition is realizing the interests of the Egyptian citizen.” Asked why had Egypt had “failed” so far to secure the loan, Mursi said: “This is not failure. The IMF has its way, its tools, its means, its programs, and in Egypt we have our tools, our means and our programmes”-

Peacemaker shot dead in Sudan’s Darfur region

KHARTOUM, 21 April—An international peacekeeper was shot dead by unknown gunmen in an eastern part of Sudan’s Darfur region, the joint African Union-United Nations peacekeeping mission (UNAMID) said. The killing brings the total number of peacekeepers killed in Darfur since 2007 to 44, a UNAMID spokesman said.

War broke out in Darfur in 2003 when rebels took up arms against the central government, accusing Khartoum of neglecting the remote region and marginalizing its ethnic minorities. Despite the presence of the world’s largest peacekeeping mission, fighting between Sudan’s army and rebels has continued since then, alongside banditry and tribal clashes.

UNAMID said one of its peacekeepers was shot dead in the early morning on Friday near Muhajeria in East Darfur state. Two other peacekeepers were wounded, it said in a statement. It did not give the nationalities of the victims. UNAMID said it was investigating the incident in coordination with the Sudanese government. In December, an international peacekeeper killed three other peacekeepers before killing himself in Darfur.

PSM and PSB for the sake of all national races

The Republic of the Union of Myanmar is a multi-ethnic country. The Section 22 of Chapter 1 Basic Principles of the Union of the Constitution states that the Union shall assist: (a) to develop language, literature, fine arts and culture of the national races; (b) to promote solidarity, mutual amity and respect and mutual assistance among the national races; (c) to promote socio-economic development including education, health, economy, transport and communication, so forth, of less-developed national races.

In accord with the Constitution, the government is making strenuous efforts for socio-economic development of all national races, development of their language, literature and culture and national unity in all aspects. A news appeared in recent day newspapers that the State-owned Kyemon daily and Myanmar Alinn dailies and respect and into Public Service Media (PSM) and Myamna Radio and Television, into Public Service Broadcasting (PSB), PSM and PSB will be giving mean priority to national races affairs. PSM/PSB means that it includes a wide variety of programmes as well as programme for the minority audience including the vulnerable groups and culture and education programme. It is a non-profit-making service, just only for general public’s cultural promotion and knowledge dissemination.

PSM draft law is being drawn so as to offer media service to the people in line with the democracy system. Its objective is to serve political, economic and social interests of the general public and to encourage the emergence of free and independent PSM.

Some fundamental principles of PSM are as follows: (a) shall practice the freedom of reporting; (b) shall present infotainment programme taking into consideration different races, culture and religions; (c) shall present some programme that private media cannot cover, full the needs and interests of the people and highlight and represent people’s different views. Among the tasks regarding the national races, it includes broadcasting programme for all national races and ethnic minorities in their own languages that highlight national characters and cultural pluralism of all national races.

Since 2011, the Ministry of Information has been formulating the public service media draft law with the aim of ensuring the emergence of public service media that could pave the way for higher cultural standard and widening the scope of knowledge of the people, thereby contributing towards good governance and the Rule of Law being implemented by the government as its one of reforms. Promoting culture and imparting knowledge to the public is not a profitable one like businesses that make money within a short period of time, but it can accumulate a great amount of intangible social benefit in the long-term.

When the draft law emerges, regional newspapers mainly coverage of regional news will appear. Moreover, Broadcast law which is being formulated with the assistance of UNESCO and international organizations like International Media Support (IMS), Friedrich Ebert Stiftung (FES) will include establishment of community radio stations that have been given a license by authorities concerned for national races. It is also under discussion.

Apart from airing national race program in 14 national race languages for 6 to 12 noon and from 2 pm to 10 pm on Myanmar Athan, MRTV will launch a new TV channel, Pyidaungsu channel, starting from September to continue to provide the public with media service. The new program will be broadcast in eight major languages—Kachin, Kayah, Kayin, two Chin languages, Mon, Rakhine, Shan and national race.

While airing in Chin language, the programme will be broadcast in Chin (Falam) and Chin (Mindat). The programme with extensive coverage of songs of above-mentioned national races, their traditions and customs, regional news, news reports of the government and news aired on MRTV will be broadcast from 6 am to 10 pm.

In preparation for the launch of the Pyidaungsu TV channel, a coordination meeting with State governments concerned was held at the Ministry of Information in March this year.

Furthermore, media censorship was totally lifted in August 2012 and more journals were allowed to publish in accord with the democratic system the country is practicing. Permission is being given through online in a few minutes. So two journals published in Mon language, one journal in Mon – Myanmar languages, one journal in Shan – Myanmar language and religious periodicals in Po Kayin-Myanmar, Sakaw Kayin-Myanmar and Tiddim-Chin-Myanmar have been in circulation so far. Now, dailies in national race languages are allowed to publish. So there will be national race dailies soon. Two state-owned newspapers are being translated into PSM, presenting more and more races.

When PSM comes into full operation, the two newspapers will present a broader coverage of the songs of national races, their views and opinions, feelings, traditions and customs, languages and regional knowledge and national races cuisines. I would like to encourage writers and publishers to do more than before.

Since the assumption of responsibility by the new government, talks on media reforms are underway in order to present national race programmes more and more, placing a plenty of attention on national races affairs in accord with the Constitution. Because of these efforts, Public Service Media draft law will emerge soon for the sake of all national races. Trs: MT+YM

Residents return for look at Texas homes after blast

West, (Texas), 21 April—Officials began allowing some residents to return to their homes on Saturday for their first look at the damage three days after a deadly blast at a Texas fertilizer plant flattened sections of a small town. JoAnn Nors, 70, worried about her cat, Princess, who had gone unfed since her owners and her husband, 77-year-old Ernest, fled after the explosion on Wednesday night in West, about 80 miles south of Dallas. “I left a pot of stew on the stove,” she said as she waited in a line of cars for 1-1/2 hours to get inside the evacuated area. “I’m sure it smells bad now.” Authorities set a 7 pm CDT curfew for anyone who chose to stay overnight. They warned of broken nails and glass as potential hazards and a limited access to water and electricity.

The announcement came on a day when officials released new details about the explosion that left a devastated landscape in West, known locally for its Czech heritage and kolache pastries. Authorities said the death toll remained at 14 in a community of some 2,700 people, with 200 people injured. We do not know where the fire started (or) how the fire started, (and) we’re looking at time lines to see when the fire started, said Assistant State Fire Marshal Kelly Kistner.

A blaze and ensuing explosion at West Fertilizer Co, a privately owned retail facility, gutted a 50-unit apartment complex, demolished about 50 houses and battered a nursing home and several schools. Dozens more homes were reported to have been damaged.

Most of the confirmed dead were emergency personnel who responded to the fire and likely were killed by the blast, which was so powerful it registered as a magnitude 2.1 earthquake. Officials cautioned it would take time to restore normality. “This is going to be a marathon, not a sprint,” said West Mayor Tommy Muska told several hundred people gathered for a town hall meeting.

Security, black ribbons for Boston at London Marathon

London, 21 April—Runners wearing black ribbons held a 30-second silence to honour the victims of the Boston bombings before setting off on the London Marathon on Sunday, under the watchful eyes of hundreds of extra police.

Around 36,000 runners were taking part in the London race, the first in the World Marathon Majors series since two explosions near the end of the Boston Marathon on Monday killed three people and wounded 176.

London’s Metropolitan Police Service almost doubled the number of officers sent out to secure the event, saying this was to reassure the public and not a response to a specific threat.

The packed ranks of competitors bowed their heads and stood silently at the starting line, then clapped and cheered when a whistle marked the end of the tributes. Seconds later, the world’s elite runners led off the race. Behind them came thousands of competitors chasing personal goals or raising money for charity, many running in fancy dress including challenging two-person camel and horse costumes.

"Wishing all involved in London Marathon a great day out, good luck if you’re raising money and Boston Marathon our thoughts are with you today," said Boris Johnson, the mayor of London, on Twitter. After an unusually long and harsh winter, the weather came through for the marathon which began under bright sunshine and a cloudless sky, a bonus for the competitors and for the hundreds of thousands of spectators expected to cheer them on.

The 26-mile course starts in leafy Greenwich, crosses Tower Bridge, snakes through the Canary Wharf business district before going through the heart of London, past Big Ben to Buckingham Palace.

Police with sniffer dogs were out in force and bins had been removed from the length of the course as part of enhanced security.

"The enhancement to policing, which will see several hundred additional officers on the streets, is intended to provide visible reassurance to the particiapants and spectators alike," the Metropolitan Police said on its website.
All 11 TPP countries agree to Japan joining free trade talks

The United States, for its part, needs to give a 90-day notice to Congress in order to start TPP negotiations with Japan. “Japan’s entry (to TPP talks) was effectively approved,” said Japanese Economy, Trade and Industry Minister Toshimitsu Motegi after attending a ministerial meeting of TPP members, held on the sidelines of a weekend meeting of the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation forum.

“From this moment, we are taking a new step” in the negotiations, said Motegi, adding Japan is starting talks on which its national interest depends.

In addition to the Southeast Asian countries, Japan will also consider expanding the issuance of multiple-entry visas for Chinese nationals that had been limited to those staying in Iwate, Miyagi, Fukushima and Okinawa prefectures, to visitors staying elsewhere in Japan in a bid to attract more visitors from the country, they said. The number of visitors from China has declined due to sour relations between Beijing and Tokyo due to a territorial dispute.

According to the tourism agency, Japan had 260,000 visitors from Thailand, 130,000 from Malaysia, 90,000 from the Philippines and 60,000 from Vietnam. As there are concerns that relaxing visa requirements could result in an increase in the number of foreigners working illegally in Japan, related government offices such as the Japan Tourism Agency, the Justice Ministry and the Foreign Ministry will discuss the matter until around the time they said.

Three feared dead in fresh West Java landslide

JAKARTA, 21 April — Three women working in a state-run plantation were feared dead after being buried alive in a landslide in Garut regency, West Java on Saturday, according to Indonesia’s National Disaster Mitigation Agency (BNPB).

The landslide occurred at 7:30 am local time, and rescuers were hardly able to retrieve bodies of those women who were trapped under 7 to 10 metres of rubble and dirt, BNPB spokesman Sutopo Purwo Nugroho said.

“As of now rescuers that consisted of troops, police, volunteers and regional BNPB officials have not yet retrieved bodies of the victims.”

Tokyo, 21 April — The Japanese government will consider relaxing visa requirements to encourage more visitors from emerging nations in Southeast Asia, government sources said on Saturday. The move comes as the government has determined it is necessary to lure more tourists from fast-growing economies to attain its goal of increasing the annual number of foreign visitors to 25 million by 2020, according to the sources.

The government is expected to consider waiving visas for visitors from Thailand — Malaysia as well as offer multiple-entry visas to those from the Philippines and Vietnam, the sources said. In 2012, Japan had 260,000 visitors from Thailand, 130,000 from Malaysia, 90,000 from the Philippines and 60,000 from Vietnam.

Four killed, five injured in blast in NW Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, 21 April — At least five people were killed and four others injured on Saturday afternoon when a female suicide bomber blew herself up outside a hospital in Pakistan’s southwestern tribal region of Bajaur Agency, local media reported. According to the reports, the incident took place at 2:30 pm (local time) when a female suicide bomber exploded her explosive-laden jacket at the main entrance of the District Hospital in Kharar area, a main town of the Bajaur Agency region bordering Afghanistan.

Earlier, reports said that the blast took place in the Khyber Agency but later on officials said it took place in the Bajaur Agency. The blast killed five people on the spot and injured four others besides damaging many vehicles and spreading panic among the locals. Eyewitnesses told media that the woman wearing a veil tried to enter the hospital but security personnel asked for her checking and she blew herself up at the main gate.

The security forces and rescue teams rushed to the site and shifted the bodies and the injured to the emergency department of the hospital. Security officials said that the female attacker wanted to reach inside the hospital for attack but failed due to tight checking at the entrance.”

We had secret information about the presence of a suicide bomber in the area so we had already taken measures by beefing up security at all the government institutions,” the official told media. Security forces cordoned off the area and launched a search operation in the adjacent areas. No militant group or organization claimed responsibility for the attack yet. — Xinhua

Iran security head visits Syria, “friends of Syria” meet in Turkey

DAMASCUS, 21 April — Iranian national security head visited Syria on Saturday as the country’s opposition called for a no-fly zone over Syria and “surgical” bombing against Syrian army’s ballistic missile launchers. Alaeddin Boroujerdi, head of Iran’s National Security and Foreign Policy Commission, is expected to meet President Bashar al-Assad and Foreign Minister Walid al-Moallem, among others, during his three-day visit, local officials said.

Iran has emerged as a major regional ally of the Syrian government, whose officials have repeatedly stressed support for a political solution to the Syrian crisis. Meanwhile, in the “Friends of Syria” meeting in Turkey’s Istanbul on Saturday, the oppositional National Coalition said they want a no-fly zone over Syria to protect the northern and southern borders to secure the safe return of Syrian refugees.

They also wanted the UN Security Council to condemn the use of rockets by the government troops “against civilians” and adopt measures to stop the Syrian from using such weapons. The group also demanded “capable countries” undertake immediate measures to disable the government troops’ ability to use “chemical weapons and ballistic rockets” through carrying out “surgical airstrikes” by drones.

Leonardo DiCaprio blames career for failed relationships

LOS ANGELES, 21 April—Leonardo DiCaprio believes his career is the reason he has been unlucky in love. The 38-year-old actor—who has dated a string of top models including Gisele Bundchen, Bar Refaeli and Erin Heatherton—admits shooting movies all over the world has made it difficult for him to hold down a relationship. The Great Gatsby star told the May issue of Esquire magazine: “Six months of being on location or being off in Morocco or someplace like that is not the best thing for a relationship.”

Leonardo, who has most recently been linked to former Miss Universe Kosovo Aferdita Dreshaj and his ‘Wolf of Wall Street’ co-star Margot Robbie, also revealed that he always felt like an “underdog” in Hollywood despite being nominated for three Oscars and struggling to cope with fame until recently. He said: “I didn’t have nice enough clothes or maybe my hair didn’t look good. And so you have to understand—getting your foot in the door is like winning the lottery. It’s literally like winning the lottery if you get to have a career. And I’ve always felt, Okay, now I’ve gotten this shot, and I’m lucky to have gotten this shot, and if I don’t do this to the best of my ability—If I don’t work my ass off and make a life of it—I’ve squandered this incredibly golden opportunity. And that’s always been what has propelled me. “I really didn’t understand what fame was and I didn’t understand what being in a giant hit was and I didn’t understand what a giant hit ‘Titanic’ was compared to other giant hits.”

Jennifer Lawrence is a “little jealous” of Bradley Cooper’s new girlfriend

NEW DELHI, 21 April—22-year-old Oscar-winning actress Jennifer Lawrence—who is currently filming her third movie alongside the 38-year-old actor Bradley Cooper—is not happy he is spending all his free time with his new love interest Suki Waterhouse and seems to be a little jealous.

A source told gossip website RadarOnline.com: “When Bradley and Jennifer made Silver Linings Playbook and Serena together they were inseparable.”

“But now, Bradley has been spending his free time with Suki, and she feels like she’s lost her partner in crime.”

“They haven’t been hanging around each other as often as they used to. Bradley flew Suki over from London to Boston and he took her on a tour of the city. Then, he flew to Paris to see her the moment he had a break in filming.”

“Because he’s spending all his free time with Suki, Jennifer’s only really seen Bradley on set and she’s grown a little jealous about it.”

Bradley and Jennifer were forced to deny rumours they were dating earlier this year.

Late war reporter Marie Colvin listed for top UK writing prize

LONDON, 21 April—Veteran American war correspondent Marie Colvin who was killed in Syria last year was nominated on Thursday for the Orwell Prize, a British literary award for political writing.

Colvin, a US reporter for Britain’s Sunday Times newspaper, was killed alongside French photographer Remi Ochlik as Syrian government forces attacked the town of Homs in February last year and rockets hit the house where they were staying.

“When the Front Line: The Collected Journalism of Marie Colvin” was published in April last year. The book ends with her final written dispatch from Homs.

Colvin’s book was one of seven shortlisted from 210 nominations for the Orwell book prize that was set up 10 years ago to award work “that comes closest to George Orwell’s ambition to make political writing into an art”.

Prize director Jean Seaton said the judges started from Orwell’s injunction: “My starting point is always a feeling of partisanship, a sense of injustice”. “That is what the judges hunted for and found, writing that was measured and calm but not simply angry,” Seaton said in a statement.—Reuters

Gwyneth Paltrow thinks she has better abs than Madonna

NEW DELHI, 21 April—Actress Gwyneth Paltrow says that she has better abs than singer Madonna. But the Iron Man star joked she would never call her former best pal up to gloat because she doesn’t feel the need to rub it in.

Asked if she would call Madonna up to boast that her washboard stomach is “far superior”, the 40-year-old blonde actress laughed and told ITN.co.uk: “No, I don’t think I would. Why rub it in? Let’s face it. ‘I’ll Polaroid my abs and text them to her.’ The mother-of-two, who released her new cookbook last week called ‘It’s All Good’, also insisted she isn’t as healthy as people think she is and loves to indulge in naughty treats.

She said: “I think people think I have a healthier image than I actually have. I’m very about balance in both things. Always do a little of the bad stuff while you’re trying to be good.”

Gwyneth previously hinted that she and the Girl Gone Wild singer, 54, had fallen out in 2010 when she posted a message on her lifestyle website Goop.com asking fans for help on what to do “when you don’t like a friend any more”.

Gwyneth Paltrow will next be seen in Iron Man 3 opposite Robert Downey Jr.
Nadal, Djokovic seal third final in Monte Carlo

MONTE CARLO, 21 April—Eight-times champion Rafael Nadal will lock horns with world number one Novak Djokovic for third time in the Monte Carlo Masters final after both sailed through their semi-finals with relative ease on Saturday. Nadal was given a fight by Frenchman Jo-Wilfried Tsonga before the Spaniard won 6-3, 7-6 but Djokovic was dominant in a routine Monte Carlo finals against Nadal. He was beaten 6-3, 6-1 in the final last year and in three sets in 2009. “I will have to be at the top of my game. I’m ready for it. I know what I need to do,” said Djokovic, who was pleased to have spent only 52 minutes on the court.

“I had enough tests already this week so I’m happy I can be fresh,” said the Serb who was pushed to three sets in his first two matches.

Italy on verge of Fed Cup final as Czechs falter

LONDON, 21 April—The Czech Republic’s hopes of a third consecutive Fed Cup title were reeling fast on Saturday as Italy surged 2-0 ahead in their semi-final in Palermo. World number seven Sara Errani got the Italians off to a great start with a 6-4, 6-2 defeat of Lucie Safarova before Roberta Vinci was a surprisingly easy 6-4, 6-1 winner against former Wimbledon champion Petra Kvitova.

Kvitova, who had won 13 of her last 14 singles rubbers in the competition, was no match for Vinci with her superior power unable to make any impact on the slow Palermo clay. In the other semi-final looking for Moscov, Dominika Cibulkova came from a set down to give Slovakia a good start by beating Anastasia Pavlyuchenkova 5-7, 6-1, 6-4 in the opening singles.

The world number 15 secured a key break in the seventh game of the deciding set for a 4-3 lead before sealing victory after two-and-a-half hours when Pavlyuchenkova hit wide. “It was a very, very tough match especially playing in a foreign country,” Cibulkova told reporters.

“Tired was very nervous at the beginning, was making a lot of errors, double faults, but gradually I got back into the match. I was telling myself not to give up, to keep fighting. This inner strength has helped me win this match.” Maria Kirilenko will try to haul Russia level when she takes on Daniela Hantuchova in the second singles at the Kyatyskoaye Arena later.

O’Sullivan eases past Campbell in World Championship opener

LONDON, 21 April—Four-time champion Ronnie O’Sullivan breezed past Marcus Campbell 10-4 in the opening match of the World Championship in Sheffield on Saturday. It was his first televised match since beating Ali Carter in last year’s final. He then took a one-year sabatical from snooker citing “personal reasons.”

O’Sullivan, who has dropped to the 28th in world rankings but still seeded first, built a 7-2 lead in the first session with top breaks of 92, 62, 71, 85 and 38. He extended the lead to 9-2 in the night session with breaks of 102 and 90. Campbell fought back and took the next two frames to make it 9-4 but O’Sullivan got the better of frame 14 to seal the win.

O’Sullivan will take on Ali Carter or Ben Woolaston in the second round to be held next Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

“It was nice to be back,” said O’Sullivan. “The journey has been exciting ever since I announced that I was coming back and playing. It gave me something to do. I have spent the last five weeks preparing so the journey has been enjoyable. “In general my play was not as slick and sharp as what I would have liked. That is all to have been expected when you have not played for a year. You lose that tightness, you need to get in there and compete. I need to get through matches but ultimately it is just a bit of fun for me.”

Campbell said: “I thought I was a little bit unlucky. Ronnie scores very heavily and I did not make too many mistakes earlier on in the day. I thought the early score was unjustified really, but I was happy with how I had been playing and the way I conducted myself.—Xinhua

Lakers guard Nash optimistic about playoff return

LOS ANGELES, 21 April—Steve Nash gave the Los Angeles Lakers a welcome boost on Friday when he said he was “very optimistic” he would play in Saturday’s Game One of their first-round playoff series against the Spurs in San Antonio.

The 39-year-old point guard missed the last eight games of the regular season because of back and hip problems but pronounced himself happy after going through a series of five-on-five sessions in team practice on Friday.

“Mentally, I’m chomping at the bit and physically, I’m getting there,” Nash told reporters. “I’m very optimistic that I’ll play on Sunday. I just don’t want to over-promise and get ahead of myself.” Nash, who has not played for the Lakers in almost three weeks, had an epidural injection three days ago. Though not yet pain-free, he said he felt less hindered in his movement. “I was able to play halfcourt today, and there were a couple of situations where it was pretty close to a sprint so it’s coming,” he said. “In some ways, I want to give myself as much time as possible but at the same time you can’t wait forever. I’m just hoping to be able to play, get out there and contribute. ‘That’s the bottom line. I’m just really hopeful and working hard — pretty much twice a day the last few weeks — to get back. Hopefully the time has come.”— Reuters

Memorable truce in NY-Boston rivalry before Game One

NEW YORK, 21 April—The bitter New York-Boston sports rivalry, dating back nearly 100 years, observed a memorable truce before the start of Saturday’s NBA playoffs opener between the New York Knicks and the visiting Boston Celtics.

The teams came together in solidarity over the Boston Marathon bombing attacks and their aftermath as players addressed the Madison Square Garden crowd before tip-off. “On behalf of the New York Knicks organization, we just want to let Boston know that we send our prayers to them throughout this unfortunate tragedy,” the Knicks’ Cavello Anthony said. “We, as New Yorkers, understand what you guys are going through...”

Some fans of the second seed Knicks were still moved to jeer the sight of the seventh-seeded Celtics on the Broadway hardcourt, before thousands of fans shushed them into silence. Wearing a T-shirt that read “Boston stands as one”, the Celtics’ Pierce expressed gratitude for the show of support and vowed, “Boston will rise and run again.”— Reuters

American Hoffman surges two ahead at Harbour Town

NEW YORK, 21 April — American Charley Hoffman, wearing a red-hot putter, moved a step closer to his third PGA Tour victory as he forged two shots clear in Saturday’s third round of the RBC Heritage at Hilton Head Island, South Carolina.

Wearing sunglasses, the long-haired Californian totaled 21 putts as he posted an 11-under total of 202, ending the round two ahead of compatriot and US Open champion Webb Simpson, who fired a best-of-the-day 65.

Another American, Kevin Streelman, carded a 69 to sit alone in third at eight under, a stroke better than Zimbabwe’s Brendon de Jonge (67) and Northern Irishman Graeme McDowell (68).
