Pakistan tells UN at least 400 civilians killed by drone strikes

ISLAMABAD, 19 Oct—Pakistan has confirmed that of some 2,200 people killed by drone strikes in the past decade, at least 400 were civilians and an additional 200 victims were deemed “probable non-combatants,” a UN human rights investigator said on Friday.

Ben Emmerson, UN special rapporteur on human rights and counter-terrorism, also urged the United States to release its own data on the number of civilian casualties caused by its drone strikes.

Emmerson said Pakistan’s Foreign Ministry told him it had recorded at least 330 drone strikes in the Federally Administered Tribal Areas, Pakistan’s largely lawless region bordering Afghanistan, since 2004.

“Clearing out militant border sanctuaries is seen by Washington as crucial to bringing stability to Afghanistan, particularly as the US-led combat mission ends in 2014. Most, but not all, attacks with unannounced aerial vehicles have been by the United States,” Britain and Israel have also used them.

In an interim report to the UN General Assembly released on Friday, Emmerson said Pakistani government records showed that drone strikes had killed at least 2,200 people and seriously wounded at least 600 since 2004.

He said Pakistan had confirmed that “at least 400 civilians had been killed as a result of remotely piloted aircraft strikes and a further 200 individuals were regarded as probable non-combatants.”

“Officials indicated that, owing to underreporting and obstacles to effective investigation, those figures were likely to be an underestimate” of civilian deaths, Emmerson said.

Emmerson, who visited Pakistan in March, noted that principal media monitoring organizations had recorded a “marked drop” in reported civilians casualties from drone strikes in the tribal areas during 2012 and the first half of 2013.

Rob Rogers, RFS deputy commissioner, said high temperatures and strong winds are set to return this weekend, making it harder for firefighters to put off the fires.

Thousands march for Mursi across Egypt; policeman killed in Sinai

CAIRO, 19 Oct—Thousands of supporters of deposed Egyptian President Mohamed Mursi protested across Egypt on Friday, shouting slogans against army chief General Abdel Fattah al-Sisi, who ousted him on 3 July.

One person was wounded by gunfire when taking part in a pro-Mursi march of a few thousand in Fayoum, south of Cairo, state news agency MENA reported. Four were injured in clashes between Mursi supporters and residents in the Nile Delta city of Zagarig, state TV reported.

Hundreds of pro-Mursi Islamists took to the streets in the coastal city of Alexandria and in Buhayra province, witnesses and security sources said.

Friday’s protests were mostly peaceful. On October 6, dozens of supporters of Mursi’s Muslim Brotherhood were killed in protests in one of the bloodiest days since the military deposed him. Interior Minister Mohammed Ibrahim, who survived an assassination attempt in September, ordered police to confront decisively any attempt to break the law, MENA reported.—Reuters

Maldives cancels presidential polls over political deadlock, lack of police support

MALE, 19 Oct—Embattled Maldives Elections Commissioner Faad Thaufeek called off his country’s presidential polls just an hour ahead of voting on Saturday, citing technical wrangles over the electoral list and lack of support from the police.

The issue over when the next round will be held will now go back to the Supreme Court for deliberations. However, since the Maldives Constitution demands a new president be sworn in by 11 November and the Elections Commissioner noted that instead of the customary two rounds, polling may be reduced to just one round due to the pressing time. A previous round of voting held on 7 September was annulled by the Supreme Court after two candidates alleged mass vote rigging through international monitors said polling was free and fair.

“We will not be able to hold the elections today because the police services blocked our work. There are a lot of police officers on the ground floor at this building and they won’t allow any of our staff to take out ballot papers or boxes. So we are not able to move out any of the items required for the voting,” Thaufeek said.

He insisted that his office had made preparations to have elections across 200 islands even with the delay caused by two presidential candidates.

Tycoon Gasim Ibrahim’s party and the Progressive Party of Maldives (PPM) who was wielding former President Gayoom’s half-brother MP Abdul Yamin both refused to sign the all-important electoral list on Friday, throwing the elections into doubt. PPM leader Hadi said he had a stay order at the Supreme Court just hours ahead of polling seeking a cancellation to the elections. Nonetheless, Thaufeek said he believes the vote could have gone ahead with the support of the Supreme Court.—Xinhua

Izu Oshima braces for more heavy rain as rescue work continues

TOKYO, 19 Oct—Izu Oshima Island braced itself for more heavy rain on Saturday after being battered earlier in the week by a powerful typhoon that left 25 dead and 22 missing. Local authorities are still searching for survivors after Typhoon Wipha, the 26th of the year, brought torrential rainfall to the island south of Tokyo on Wednesday, causing mudslides that destroyed houses and buried residents alive.

The search has already passed 72 hours, cited by experts as the crucial post-disaster time frame for finding survivors. Some 1,200 people are involved in the search, including officers of the Metropolitan Police Department, rescue teams of the Tokyo Fire Department and members of the Self-Defense Forces. The municipal government of Oshima is set to issue recommendations for evacuation preparedness on rainfall expected later in the day, which could further worsen the situation on the disaster-hit island.

Fewer iPhone 5C sold than expected, but 5S scarce

New York, 19 Oct — Verizon Communications Chief Financial Officer Fran Shammo said Apple Inc’s iPhone 5C “under-sold expectations” in the third quarter, while its pricier iPhone 5S was in short supply. “The 5C is in plenty supply” and “if you generally talk to each of the carriers I think they’ll tell you the same thing,” Shammo told Reuters in an interview on Thursday after the company reported its third-quarter earnings.

Apple, which has its phones made by contract manufacturers overseas, is cutting production orders for the cheaper plasticbacked iPhone 5C just a month after its launch at the same time as the iPhone 5S, a source familiar with its supply chain told Reuters on Wednesday. The production cutback was seen by analysts as a rare misstep for Apple, which typically only launches one phone at a time and tends to see massive demand for its devices, particularly during the quarter of their launch.

Consumer reception to the iPhone 5S appeared to have been much stronger, at least at Verizon Wireless, the biggest US mobile operator. Verizon’s Shammo said scarcity of the iPhone 5S was a “significant issue” for Verizon Wireless, which missed Wall Street’s third-quarter expectations for net subscriber additions as a result. Shammo said iPhone 5S customers who were still waiting to receive their phones would be reflected in its numbers in the fourth quarter. But he declined to say how much of an overall effect the shortage of the iPhone 5S had on the company’s third-quarter figures. About 51 percent of Verizon’s smartphone activations in the quarter were for iPhone customers. “What we don’t know is how many customers would have come that the shortage of the iPhone 5S hadn’t because they knew there was a shortage,” he said.—Reuters

Washington, 19 Oct — A first-ever walking, talking “bionic man” built entirely out of synthetic body parts made his Washington debut on Thursday. The robot with a human face unveiled at the Smithsonian’s National Air and Space Museum was built by London’s Shadow Robot Co to showcase medical breakthroughs in bionic body parts and artificial organs. “This is not a gimmick. This is a real science development,” museum director John Dailey said.

The 6-foot-tall (1.83 meter), 170-pound (77-kg) robot is the subject of a one-hour Smithsonian Channel documentary, “The Incredible Bionic Man,” airing on Sunday. A “bionic” man was the material of science fiction in the 1970s when the television show “The Six Million Dollar Man” showed the adventures of a character named Steve Austin, a former astronaut whose body was rebuilt using synthetic parts after he nearly died.

The robot on display at the museum cost $1 million and was made from 28 artificial body parts on loan from biomedical innovators. They include a pancreas, lungs, spleen and circulatory system, with most of the parts early prototypes. “The whole idea of the project is to get together all of the spare parts that already exist for the human body today — one piece. If you did that, what would it look like?” said Bertolt Meyer, an engineer and social psychologist from the University of Zurich in Switzerland and host of the documentary.

The robot was modeled after Meyer, who was born without a hand and relies on an artificial limb. He showed off the bionic man by having it take a few clumsy steps and by running artificial blood through its see-through circulatory system. “It, kind of, looks lifelike. Kind of creepy,” said Paul Arcand, a tourist who was visiting from Boston with his wife. “The robot has a motionless face and virtually no skin. It was controlled remotely from a computer, and Bluetooth wireless connections were used to operate its limbs.—Reuters

SAGAING REGION

Sagaiing Region

Sagaiing

Sagaiing is above all a religious sanctuary with the town at the foot of the hills and hundreds of pagodas, monasteries and nunneries tucked into the surrounding valleys and hills. Some monasteries are magnificently built of brick in a combination of Western and Myanmar architectural designs while some are of teak.

Thanboddhay Pagoda

The Thanboddhay Pagoda complex at Monywa was built in about 1940 and reputedly has 582,357 Buddha images of all sizes. Tiny Buddha images are set in rows that ascend to the tip of high towers. Inside the main shrine are bigger images, all in seated or standing poses, while smaller ones line the walls up to the ceiling. The large ordination hall is covered with figures from the Jataka stories.

About 40 kilometres (25 miles) across the Chindwin are the adjoining cave pagoda complexes of Po Win Taung and Shwe Ba Taung. The images, altars and decorative motifs inside the caves were all carved out of living rock. There are beautiful 16th century wall paintings in many of the caves.
Brain cleans itself during sleep

WASHINGTON, 19 Oct — Scientists said on Thursday they have found what could be sleep’s basic purpose: it clears the brain of toxic metabolic byproducts. The findings, published in the US journal Science, reveal that the brain’s unique method of waste removal, dubbed the glymphatic system, is highly active during sleep, clearing away toxins responsible for Alzheimer’s disease and other neurological disorders.

Researchers from the University of Rochester, New York, also found that during sleep the brain’s cells reduce in size, allowing waste to be removed more effectively.

“This study shows that the brain has different functional states when asleep and when awake,” said Maiken Nedergaard of the University of Rochester, Medical Center, and senior author of the study. The purpose of sleep is a question that has captivated both philosophers and scientists since the time of the ancient Greeks. While recent findings have shown that sleep can help store and consolidate memories, these benefits do not appear to outweigh the accompanying vulnerability, leading scientists to speculate that there must be a more essential function to the sleep-wake cycle.

The new findings hinged on the discovery last year by Nedergaard and her colleagues of the glymphatic system, a previously unknown system of waste removal that is unique to the brain. The system acts like a plumbing system that carries piggybacks on the brain’s blood vessels and pumps cerebral spinal fluid (CSF) through the brain’s tissue, flushing waste products from a circulatory system where it eventually makes its way to the general blood circulation system and, ultimately, the liver, the researchers said. They speculated the glymphatic system may be more active during sleep because the amount of energy consumed by the brain does not decrease dramatically when people are asleep.

In order to prove their idea, Lulu Xie, the study’s first author, spent two years in training mice to relax and fall asleep. Once Xie was sure the mice were asleep, she injected a green dye into their CSF through a catheterlike device in their necks. After half an hour, she awakened them by touching their tails and injected a red dye that the two-photon microscope could easily distinguish from the green.—Reuters

Spanish treasury successfully places 2.54 bn euros at lower yields

MADRID, 19 Oct — The Spanish treasury successfully placed on Thursday treasury bonds valued at 2.54 billion euros (3.47 billion US dollars), paying lower interest rates and registering a high demand. A total of 900 million euros worth of bonds with a 3-year lifespan had an average interest rate of 2.06 percent, which was below the 2.22 percent of the previous issue held on 19 September. The remaining 1.64 billion euros worth of bonds fetched an average interest rate of 3.05 percent, also below the 3.12 percent of the previous issue. The relative calm in the IBEX-35 stock market in Madrid is positively affecting auctions held by the Spanish treasury.

The agreement reached with the EU did not avoid a debt default of the world’s biggest economy also boosted optimism in the Spanish market. After the auction, Spain’s 10-year bond interest rate stood at 4.29 percent while the risk premium stood at 239 points. According to the government, the financing agenda of the Spanish treasury is laced with cancer-causing substances and is being officially classified as carcinogenic to humans by the World Health Organization’s cancer agency said on Thursday.

The International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC) cited data indicating that in 2010, 225,000 deaths from lung cancer worldwide resulted from air pollution, and said there was also convincing evidence it increases the risk of bladder cancer.

Depending on the level of exposure in different parts of the world, the risk was found to be similar to levels of breathing tobacco smoke, Kurt Straif, head of the agency’s section that ranks carcinogens, told reporters in Geneva. “Our task was to evaluate the air everyone breathes rather than focus on specific air pollutants,” deputy head Dana Loomis said in an interview with AFP.

“The results from the reviewed studies point in the same direction: the risk of developing lung cancer is significantly increased in people exposed to air pollution.” Air pollution, mostly caused by transport, power generation, industrial or agricultural emissions and residential heating and cooking, is already known to raise risks for a wide range of illnesses including respiratory and heart diseases. Research suggests that exposure levels have risen significantly in some parts of the world, particularly countries with large populations going through rapid industrialization, such as China. IARC reviewed thousands of studies on air pollution tracking populations over decades and other research such as those in which mice exposed to polluted air experienced increased numbers of lung tumors.

In a statement released after reviewing the literature, the Lyon-based agency said both air pollution and “particulate matter”—a major component of it—would now be classified among its Group 1 human carcinogens. That ranks them alongside more than 100 other known cancer-causing substances in IARC’s Group 1, including asbestos, plutonium, silica dust, ultraviolet radiation and tobacco smoke.
Chinese premier urges Canada to approve investment treaty

WASHINGTON, 19 Oct — Most Americans found little to cheer in the congressional deal to reopen the government and avoid a national default, and Republicans suffered the biggest political damage in the crisis, according to a Reuters/Ipsos poll released on Friday.

Nearly one-third of Americans—32 percent—were dissatisfied with the agreement to end the fiscal impasse and 40 percent were neither satisfied nor dissatisfied with the outcome. Among those who were not satisfied or were neutral, 45 percent said it was because the deal failed to resolve the budget battles at the heart of the stalemate and only extended government funding and borrowing authority into early next year.

A further 23 percent expressed general frustration with the whole process, which closed the federal government for 16 days and pushed the country to the edge of default, rattling financial markets and threatening economic chaos.

The poll, conducted on Thursday and Friday after Congress approved the deal and it was signed by President Barack Obama, found congressional Republicans suffered the most for stoking the crisis by demanding changes to Obama’s healthcare law before they would support government funding.

The biggest political losers were Republicans in the House of Representatives and Senate, House Speaker John Boehner and conservative Tea Party Republicans. House Republicans were viewed less favorably by 47 percent, Republican senators and Boehner by 45 percent and Tea Party Republicans by 44 percent.

Libyan Army commander’s house attacked in Benghazi

Tripoli, 19 Oct — Unidentified assailants fired rocket-propelled grenades at home of the commander of the national security force “Libya Shield” in the Eastern Libyan city of Benghazi on late Friday.

Wissam Ben Hamid’s home was empty at the time. The assailants were reported to be clan members of the Libyan Army officer Ahmed Mustafa Al Barghati, who was killed by an armed group earlier in the day in front of his house, local sources told Xinhua.

Hamid is allegedly behind the killing of Al Barghati, according to a security source. Al Barghati served as majority leader but failed the national election in 1989 after taking office as the former US vice president.

Wissam Ben Hamid is allegedly being targeted for his role in promoting US understanding of the Order of the Rising Sun, a medal given to Foley by Japan’s government decorated him with the Order of the Rising Sun, declaring him a “friend” of the United States and created good conditions for practical cooperation between the two countries.

Americans find little to cheer in deal to end fiscal crisis

BEIJING, 19 Oct — Chineese Premier Li Keqiang met with visiting Canadian Governor General David Johnston here on Friday and urged Canada to approve a bilateral investment treaty (BIT) as early as possible.

"We welcome more Canadian enterprises to invest in China and hope that the Canadian side will accelerate the pace to approve the China-Canada BIT and create favorable environments for mutual investment to benefit the people of the two countries," said the Chinese premier. The two countries concluded their BIT negotiations last year. Li said the Chinese government appreciated the Canadian government’s pragmatic policy toward China in recent years.

China is ready to stick with the principle of equality and mutual respect in order to tap the potential for reciprocal cooperation in key areas, Li said.

Highlighting the significance of deepening mutual understanding and friendship for the China-Canada relationship, Li said people-to-people exchanges have helped to lay a solid social foundation for bilateral ties and created good conditions for practical cooperation between the two countries.

In 2012, more than 25,000 students were granted offers to study in Canada, which means China is Canada’s top source of overseas students.

Li said the Chinese government stands ready to maintain the momentum of high-level interactions and step up communication and coordination with Canada in international and regional affairs to promote peace and prosperity of the region as well as the world at large.

Johnston said the Canadian side cherishes its friendship with China and will work with the Chinese side to give full play to their mutually complementary advantages and expand cooperation in trade, investment, energy, resources, technology, education and culture in pursuit of common development and further improvement of bilateral relations.

Bangladesh PM proposes all-party election government

DHAKA, 19 Oct — In an apparent move to de-escalate tension between ruling and opposition parties, Bangladeshi Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina on Friday proposed an all-party government be set up to hold general elections in the South Asian country.

“We want next parliament elections with participation of all parties. My proposal to the main opposition party is that we can form an all-party election-time government,” she said in her address to the nation.

She invited the main opposition party to nominate its lawmakers to be included in the cabinet of the poll-time government.

The televised address came when tense political standoff over a non-party caretaker government system culminated with both the ruling and opposition parties calling rallies on 25 Oct in Dhaka to stage showdown.

Former Prime Minister Khaleda Zia’s Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP) has asked Hasina’s ruling Bangladesh Awami League (AL) to bring back the caretaker system, or else, it won’t participate in the next polls slated for early 2014 because it fears an election without the caretaker government will not be free and fair.

Some of the main opposition party leaders have already called for ‘armed resistance’ if the AL government tries to force a poll without restoring the caretaker system.

An opposition party spokesman was not immediately available for comment about the proposal of the prime minister.

Min Thu (Street View Journal)

Q: I have two questions. The first one is about bombing suspects and the last one is that the State’s investment is a strong reason.

DVB

Q: Blasts have been occurring since many years for several times. The recent blast was caused due to hand-made bomb. So, do you have responsibility for the explosion against further explosions? I’d like to know responsibility for the blasts.

Min Thu (Street View Journal)

Everybody may do it easily. So, MPF alone is unable to overcome these challenges. All the people are requested to join hands with the MPF to control the cases.

targets one organization. Daily Eleven pointed out that there is one country behind the incidents. The question should be based on the empirical evidences. Here, I would like to request all media not to report the uncertain things. It needs to get the confirmation from Myanmar Police Force (MPF). The coverage of groundless news and anticipations could harm national reconsolidation and international relations. The news agencies should get the confirmation from the government and the MPF. News coverage of sensitive matters may have negative impacts.

sector are to tightly control their works through sense of security.

U Ye Hlut:

A: With regard to availability of gunpowder, our country has been facing armed conflicts for about 60 years. Gunpowder and old grenades are still available at the conflicted areas. The problem not only our country but riot combating squads of other countries faces is easy to buy the electronics to be used in explosion. Electronic equipment can be unfitted and fitted easily. In the past, the bombing making process was very difficult. Now, such process can be available through Google or YouTube easily.

In last 20 years, exploder must install devices for bomb attacks. Nowadays, he himself does not need to install devices for bomb thanks to modern electronic equipment. It is easy to switch on the devices after association of wires.

Q: Bombs have been occurred since many years for several times. The recent blast was caused due to hand-made bomb. So, do you have responsibility for the explosion against further explosions? I’d like to know how to scrutinize the confession of the suspect. In addition, I would like to know that information that a person who came back from Malaysia was related to the case of finding bombs in Mandalay.

Q: May I know security measures for the SEA Games and ASEAN Summit with the present strength and capacity of MPF.

MPF Chief Police Maj-Gen Zaw Win

A: We can grant security for SEA Games at full capacity. Now, MPF has built bilateral understanding with the people.

Ko Hsin Moe Tun (Myanmar Post Journal)

Q: I would like to know whether the MPF Chief allows the replies of the police station commanders or the commanders of Township police force for the questions when an event happens.

U Ye Hlut

A: I’d like to answer it. Not only MPF but also all other departments have to face complaints severely. The spokespersons have been allowed to reply to the queries at their respective levels. According to the situation, MPF can not reply to queries while conducting investigation. Reports must show off their correct IDs. Visiting card is not adequate. At the international level like Myanmar Foreign Correspondents Club, the reporters must have IDs of respective press councils to cover the news. If it is true, the spokesperson will not delay to reply. On that day, the reporters with full documents had got the opportunities to raise questions and describe the news in their publications.

MMTV and some TV channels broadcast the release at 7 am the other day. There is no limitation to release the information. The spokespersons have been authorized to reply to the questions. In fact, the media persons must have firm documents of journalists.

TEPCO finds surge in radiation level of groundwater near tank leak

Tokyo, 19 Oct—The operator of the crippled Fukushima Daiichi nuclear power plant said on Friday that it has detected a surge in the radiation level of groundwater collected near a tank that leaked highly toxic water in August.

The water, extracted from an observation well on Thursday, showed a record high 400,000 becquerels per liter of beta radiation, emitted from radioactive materials such as strontium-90. The level was 61 becquerels the previous day, according to plant operator Tokyo Electric Power Co.

TEPCO spokesman Masayuki Ono told a Press conference that the rise in groundwater contamination is related to contaminated soil around where 300 tons of highly radioactive water leaked from a storage tank. Workers had removed soil around the tank after the leak occurred, but Ono noted some soil near the well had not yet been removed because of the existence of pipes.

“We suspect that radioactive substances in the soil that had not been taken away was moved by the rain” that fell during Wednesday’s powerful typhoon, Ono said.

The observation well is located about 20 meters from the tank that leaked. Radioactive tritium had already been detected at a high level in the same well. But the reading further increased in a water sample collected on Thursday, hitting a record high of 790,000 becquerels per liter.

To prevent the contamination from spreading further, the utility plans to remove the toxic soil around the well and by pumping out groundwater, Ono said.

Radioactive water is increasing daily at the Fukushima plant, hit by a huge earthquake and tsunami in March 2011, because groundwater is seeping into reactor buildings and mixing with water used to cool three crippled reactors.

Indonesian police kill, arrest terrorists in latest crackdown

Jakarta, 19 Oct—Indonesian police’s anti-terror squad Detachment 88 killed 88 people on Friday in three shootouts that lasted more than 12 hours. The operation was the culmination of a year-long hunt for terrorist suspects on the run.

A police spokesperson said here on Friday that those killed and arrested a day earlier were the perpetrators of gunfight with the police in Maluku Province’s capital of Ambon in 2005 and bomb making case in Enrekang, South Sulawesi Province.

A public relation of national police headquarters Ronny Franky Sompie said that further research in the case of those terrorist suspects was underway.

“After the shootout with the terrorist suspects, police confiscated a pistol and a modified rifle and nine live bullets,” he said.

He added that police also seized an MPV car used by the terrorists to escape from the police’s crackdown, two kilograms of fertilizer and a machete.

One of the terrorist suspects, Suardi, was shot dead as he tried to retaliate against the police.

The two others, Jody alias Umar and Ahmad Iowan were brought to police station in South Sulawesi province’s capital of Makassar for further questioning.

They were suspected members of a terror group operating in Makassar, Ambon and Poso.

Poso is located in Central Sulawesi province and has been a hotbed of sectarian conflict between Muslims and Christians.

Even though the conflict had officially been set in 2002, violence conducted by Muslim militant groups still occasionally occurred around the Central Sulawesi Province.

The militants attacked police stations, kidnapped and killed police who were on duty in Central Sulawesi Province last year.

Police also suspected that operatives of terror group from Poso were the perpetrators of the rampant shooting against the police in the Indonesian capital of Jakarta in the last few months.

A number of police on duty were shot dead in the capital city by motorists who believed to be terror group members.

Indonesia with dominant Muslim population has been facing challenge of extremism in the last decade.

Indonesian police’s anti-terror squad had successfully arrested terror group members who committed attacks in several parts of the country. Some of those arrested terrorists were sentenced to death.

Piracy off Somalia coast falls drastically

NAIROBI, 19 Oct — Attacks in seas around Somalia continue but with a dramatic drop, with just 10 incidents attributed to Somali pirates this year, down from 70 in the same period of 2012, the world’s maritime watchdog said on Thursday. In its latest report, the International Chamber of Commerce’s (ICCO) International Maritime Bureau (IMB) however warned of the threat of continuing violent attacks off the east and west coasts of Africa. “The vital role of the navies off the coast of Somalia should not be underestimated,” it said.

Their presence ensures that pirates do not operate with the impunity they did before,” IMB director Pottergill Mukundan said.

He said the drop is due to increased and active military action on suspected skiffs, military land based anti-piracy operations, preventative measures and increased armed guards on board ships. According to the IMB, usual ways of the Somali pirates is to attack ships in the northern, eastern and southern coast of Somalia. IMB also attributed the improvement to the actions of naval forces engaged in anti-piracy operations, security teams on board vessels, ships complying with the industry’s best management practices, and the stabilizing influence of the central government of Somalia.

“Continued vigilance and hardening is encouraged not only for the merchant fleets but more so for the fishing and dhow fleets which remain softer targets,” the report shows.

Foreign naval forces continue to play a key role in the region against piracy in this area from the collection of intelligence to the identification and dismantling of suspected pirate vessels before they pose a threat to ships. Somali pirates tend to be well armed with automatic weapons and rocket propelled grenades and sometimes use skiffs launched from mother vessels, which may be hijacked fishing vessels or dhows, to conduct attacks far from the Somali coast.

Since Somali piracy is largely a hijack-for-ransom business, it relies heavily on onshore support for infrastucture that provides food, water and fuel to the pirates who guard the hijacked ships throughout the ransom negotiation process.

According to IMB, piracy on the world’s seas is at its lowest third-quarter level since 2006. The report shows 188 piracy incidents and 348 hostages in 2013, down from 233 for the same period last year.

Severe bushfires continue across Australian New South Wales

SYDNEY, 19 Oct — Dozens of bushfires are still burning out of control across Australia’s state of New South Wales (NSW) on Friday, with thousands of local residents spending last night in evacuation centers.

It’s reported that nearly 100 fires are burning across the state in the morning, with 30 of them uncontained, and 1500 firefighters are still battling the fires.

PM Rudd said, as many as 200 homes and over 20,000 hectares of land are feared to be destroyed as the bushfires broke out across the state from Thursday and strong winds worsened the conditions.

“It is a very cruel time for our communities, and we’re all very worried about the safety and the lives of our community members,” Rudd said.

New York, 19 Oct — A man sought in the Texas murder of his ex-girlfriend and her boyfriend on Thursday was found dead after his car went off a cliff in a remote area known as “Devil’s Backbone,” police said.

Daniel Stillwell’s vehicle was found about 15 miles away from the double murder scene in San Marcos, Texas, by an Austin Homeland Security aircraft scouring the scenic Hill Country along Highway 32, authorities said. Federal, state and local authorities were hunting for Stillwell, 23, accused of shooting Texas State University student Haley Nicholls, 22, and her boyfriend Jesse Rohl, 27, in the head in her apartment building.

San Marcos Police Chief Howard Williams said in a statement. She was a recent girlfriend of Stillwell, a police affidavit said.

Stillwell, who lived in the same complex as Nicholls, called his roommate Thursday morning, after the shootings, and said “that he did not want to live in a cage and was going to kill himself by driving off a cliff,” a police affidavit said.—Reuters

‘Transformers 4’ director Michael Bay attacked on set in Hong Kong

HONG KONG, 19 Oct—American director and producer Michael Bay was attacked in Hong Kong on Thursday during filming for the latest installment of his “Transformers” action movies, but he said he brushed off the incident and continued filming.

Two brothers sur-named Mak, aged 27 and 28, approached Bay on the set during filming for the American science fiction film and the younger brother demanded payment of HK$100,000 (7,980 pounds), a police spokeswoman told Reuters.

Bay said in a post on his website that the man was a vendor who was in-convenienced by the shoot and wanted more money than the “fair price” vendors were paid.

“I personally told this man and his friends to forget it we were not going to let him extort us,” Bay wrote, adding that the men returned about an hour later, one wielding a “long air conditioner unit.”

As a discussion ensued in a busy area of Hong Kong island, the elder Mak walked up and assaulted the director, the police spokeswoman said. The elder brother then attacked three police officers who tried to intervene, she added.

“He walked right up to me and tried to smash my face, but I ducked threw the air unit on the floor and pushed him away,” Bay said on his website. “That’s when the security jumped on him.”

The younger brother was arrested on suspicion of blackmail and assault, while the elder Mak was also arrested on suspicion of assault, the spokeswoman said. Bay sustained injuries to the right side of his face, although he declined to seek treatment, she said, adding she did not believe his injuries were serious.

Paramount Pictures, the film’s distributor, said Bay was unhurt and that no one in the cast or crew was injured.

“Transformers: Age of Extinction” is scheduled to be released in June 2014 and stars Mark Wahlberg and Nicola Peltz. It was not known whether the film’s stars were on set during the attack.

“The director ducked and wrestled the air conditioner from his attacker, preventing what could have been a serious accident,” Paramount said in a statement. “The company’s security team quickly stepped in and subdued the assailant.”

Singer Miley Cyrus twerks her way to No 1 on Billboard 200

LOS ANGELES, 19 Oct—Pop singer Miley Cyrus twerked her way to the top spot of the weekly Billboard 200 chart album on Wednesday, notching her fourth chart-topping record.

“Bangerz,” which features Cyrus experimenting with hip hop, dance and R&B influences, sold 270,000 copies in its first week, according to figures from Nielsen SoundScan.

Former Disney star Cyrus, 20, has captured headlines with a series of scantily clad, raunchy performances that began with the MTV Video Music Awards last month, where she showed off some provocative dance moves, known as “twerking.”

In the video for her latest song “Wrecking Ball,” the second single from “Bangerz,” Cyrus is seen naked and swinging from a giant wrecking ball and provocatively licking a sledgehammer.

“Bangerz” leads seven new debuts in the top 10 of this week’s Billboard 200 chart. Alt-pop group Panic! At the Disco landed at No 2 with its latest album “Too Weird to Live, Too Rare to Die!” selling 84,000 copies. Rapper Pusha T entered the chart at No 4 with his latest set “My Name Is My Name.”

The latest compilation of songs from Fox musical TV series “Glee” came in at No 7 this week, featuring tracks sung by the cast for last week’s memorial episode “The Quarterback,” dedicated to deceased cast member Cory Monteith and his character Finn Hudson. The episode pulled in 7.4 million viewers according to Fox, the highest ratings for the show in over a year.

Other new debuts in the top 10 include metal rock band Korn at No 8 with “The Paradigm Shift.”

Simpson sizzles with a 63 to take charge in Vegas

DUBLIN, (Ohio), 19 Oct—Former US Open champion Webb Simpson wielded a hot putter as he piled up nine birdies to charge into a four-shot lead in Friday’s second round of the Shriner Hospitals for Children Open in Las Vegas.

American Simpson, who teed off at the par-four 10th hole, had only one bogey on his way to an eight-under-par 63 at the TPC Summerlin in the second event of the PGA Tour’s 2013-14 season.

The North Carolina native, who won last year’s U.S. Open at Olympic Club in San Francisco, birdied five of his last nine holes to post a 15-under total of 127.

Fellow Americans Jeff Overton (64), J.J. Henry (71) and Chesson Hadley (66) plus Australian John Senden (66) shared second place four off the lead at 11-under. Bohn matched Simpson’s nine birdies but carded a double bogey five on the penultimate hole to drop back.

“The ball was really going far,” Simpson, 28, told Golf Channel after hitting 15 of 18 greens in regulation and needing only 24 putts.

“I was wondering why scores were so low yesterday but the course played a little shorter than I thought it would,” he said.

“I just putted well and kept it going. I think guys are going to keep making birdies so I’ve got to keep the hammer down.”

The TPC Summerlin regularly yields low scores in the high Nevada desert where fine weather, thin air and smooth greens usually lead to birdies galore.

American Ryan Moore won last year’s title with a 24-under total and also shot a 63 on Friday to move into a tie for seventh at 10-under.

“I think the one synonymous thing is patience, because the US Open you obviously have to remain patient because you’re not going to make many birdies,” Simpson said.

“But here it’s not like every hole is a birdie hole so you have to remain patient because birdie runs come. You have to stay patient because you’ll get on those runs too.”

Simpson finished on a high note with a birdie on his final hole, the par-five ninth, despite a poor drive that forced him to lay up, before he struck a nice approach shot to nine feet.

Earlier, he rolled in a 25-footer at the par-four sixth, after hitting it inside 10 feet at the previous hole.

While the world number 24 has not won since his Tour Championship. Simpson also played on the U.S. team that won the Presidents Cup earlier this month.

Benitez optimistic about Napoli’s chance against Roma

ROME, 19 Oct—Napoli head coach Rafael Benitez said on Thursday he was optimistic about his side’s chance against Roma despite their inconsistent form.

Napoli will play at Roma on Friday, and Benitez said his team are not in their 100 per cent best.

“I’ve always said that we are working to improve. We are still only at 75 per cent,” he said. “We won at Milan even if with a little difficulty. Then we drew at home against the second-placed team. If we win in Rome then we will return to Naples and prepare for the Marseille game,” he said. “If we collect three points at Roma then we won’t definitely win the Scudetto. If we don’t win then we will just continue trying to get better.”

The Spaniard said he will not assign a player to man-mark Francesco Totti who has inspired Roma to seven wins from as many Serie A games this time.

“Totti is a great player. We have to be defensively aware because he can make the difference. But we won’t put a man on him,” he said. “Roma are a fantastic pressing side and their organization leaves little space for their opponents. It is no coincidence that they concede few goals. They counter well, but so do we,” he said.

“I don’t think Roma will change anything to the way they play. They defend as a team and don’t man mark. They are good at the defensive phase and we just need to find the right space,” he added.—Xinhua

A man arrested, charged with trying to join al-Qaeda

NEW YORK, 19 Oct—US officials on Friday arrested a 25-year-old man in a New York suburb and charged him with trying to travel to Yemen to join al-Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula, one of the most active wings of the militant network.

The man, Marcos Alonso Zea, pleaded not guilty to the charges contained in court papers unsealed on Friday containing, he sought to join and provide aid to the group, which the United States regards as one of the most active wings of the militant network.

Appearing in US District Court in Central Islip, New York, not far from his Brentwood home, where he was arrested earlier in the day, Zea answered “yes” when Magistrate Judge Lindsay asked if he understood the charges contained in the five-count indictment.

No bail offer was made and Lindsay noted that “the evidence strongly suggests the defendant poses a danger to the community and given his previous actions, a risk of flight.”

Prosecutors charged that Zea planned to join al-Qaeda outside the United States that would result in murder.

The United States also charged Zea, who appeared in court wearing a brown shirt and brown pants, his hair pulled back in a ponytail, with attempting to give money to al-Qaeda affiliates.

Zea tried to destroy his computers when he learned he was under investigation, prosecutors said. But investigators were able to retrieve documents including issues of al-Qaeda’s “Inspire” magazine from his hard drives. They also recovered a semi-automatic rifle that Zea had given to an acquaintance before his planned trip to Yemen, prosecutors said.

Al-Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula has claimed responsibility for the 19 Oct blast that occurred in the Mlaiha suburb, which is a pro-govern ment suburb inhabited by the Mlaiha sub-tribe, which has emerged as a key rebel area.

The blast targeted the suburb of Jaramana from the adjacent Mlaiha suburb, where three mortar shells landed on Jaramana after the blast and caused material losses.

The report also said that intense clashes are currently ongoing between the rebels and the government troops near the boundary of Jaramana, which is a pro-government suburb inhabited by Druze and Christians, and the Mlaiha suburb, which has emerged as a key rebel stronghold.

Germany Bundesliga

LEVERKUSEN, 19 Oct—Bayer Leverkusen grabbed the lead in the Bundesliga for now owing to their dramatic 2-1 victory over Hoffenheim at the opener of the 9th round on Friday.

Sidney Sam and Stefan Kiebling ensured Leverkusen’s seventh win in the Bundesliga for now by scoring the opening goal of the 9th round.

The hosts remained evenly balanced match until the visitors broke the deadlock out of the blue when Sidney Sam exploited a build up play by Gonzalo Castro, to slot the ball near post bottom corner from outside of the box at the 26th minute. It was the seventh goal of the season for Sam, who leads the goal scorer standing.

The hosts remained unimpressed and threatened Leverkusen’s defence through Andre Beck’s shot on target, which was deflected by his own teammate. However, Hoffenheim’s Kevin Volland regular goal was then ruled offside minutes later.

Hoffenheim tried to cut a better figure at the second half but all their attacks remained unanswered. Thus, Leverkusen were able to double the lead against the run of the game under extraordinary circumstances.

Stefan Kiebling’s header onto the target missed the goal but found a hole inside the Schalke defense making to its way into the goal at the 70th minute.

As the match progressed and the players recovered from the bizarre situation, Hoffenheim nearly gained a foothold into the match as Roberto Firmino was fouled inside the box to ensure a penalty. Firmino stepped up but had to witness the save by Leverkusen goakeeper Bernd Leno at the 83rd minute.

Still, Hoffenheim were able to reduce the arrears five minutes later as Sven Schipplock headed headed a failed clearance attempt at the far post to mark the final 2-1 score in a dramatic encounter. The following fixtures are scheduled for Saturday: runner up Dortmunder host Hannover, Bayern encounter Mainz, Bremen see Freiburg, newly promoted Heidenheim face Schalke, Frankfurt encounter Nuremberg and Berlin meet Stuttgart.—Xinhua
