Cooperatives system is not commune system, but a system encouraging cooperation of all the people in socio-economic development of society

At the rural development and socioeconomic development ceremony in Magway, the President said that the loans will be granted to the people dwelling in villages and wards in Magway Region at the ceremony. The President revealed about 3 million migrant workers from Myanmar left for the neighbouring countries in pursuit of jobs due to the lack of job opportunities. He said about 70 percent of the entire population living in rural areas are under poverty line due to 20 years of economic sanctions.

He said his government is committed to the rural development and schemes for poverty alleviation were initiated through consultations with local and international scholars. Major livelihoods in rural areas are agriculture and livestock breeding, said the President. He said some cottage industries in the villages have to hire required tools so that their incomes were marginalized. The people in rural areas could not afford adequate education for their children and reliable healthcare for their family. He supported the idea of employing multiple cropping pattern to keep farm workers employed all the year round. He said the government is providing adequate water supply to the farmlands, quality strains, agricultural inputs and capitals.

The President said the Ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation is working in cooperation with the Ministry of Livestock and Fisheries and Rural Development and the Ministry of Cooperatives. The Cooperatives Ministry has granted K 3431.55 million loans to the rural people and invested K 117.58 million for installment schemes for urban population and K 884.94 million for similar schemes for rural population.

Obama seeks to build unity with Senate Democrats in election year

WASHINGTON, 16 Jan — President Barack Obama sought to build a united front with Democratic senators on Wednesday, inviting them to the White House to chat about “shared goals” heading into midterm elections in which Republicans will try to exploit Obama’s woes to pick up seats. Obama urged senators to hold off on a proposed Iran sanctions bill that many support — and which he has vowed to veto. The White House has said the legislation would derail an international deal to curb Iran’s nuclear programme. But the discussion on sanctions was a small part of a meeting with a deliberately upbeat tone, a Senate aide said, speaking on background. Obama, not known for his tendency to schmooze, sat on a stool with a microphone in the ornate East Room of the White House, giving brief remarks before taking questions from senators for about 90 minutes. “The group discussed their shared goals for 2014, and the president expressed his desire to continue to work together to advance a number of our priorities for the year to strengthen our economy, create jobs and build the middle class,” the White House said in a brief statement about the closed-door session.

The meeting comes as Obama’s favorability ratings have dropped after the botched launch of his signature Obamacare healthcare reforms last year. Criticism of the rollout has ebbed after the White House led frantic efforts to fix the website used to sign up for health insurance. But the fallout from that and continuing attacks by Republicans on the Affordable Care Act has made Democrats nervous about the midterm elections. A group of 16 Senate Democrats will be defending their seats in November, and Republicans are aiming to gain six seats to try to take control of the 100-seat chamber.

At a Republican briefing on Tuesday, officials told reporters they are intent on centering their campaign around Obama’s weak approval numbers and the problems with Obamacare — factors they are confident will help them gain seats. Conservative activists have backed a $2.5 million television ad campaign against three Democratic senators over Obamacare, including North Carolina Senator Kay Hagan. Republicans have also sought to highlight examples of divisions between Obama and Democratic lawmakers. For example, they publicized that Hagan chose to stay in Washington on Wednesday instead of traveling to her home state of North Carolina with Obama, who was there to talk about manufacturing.

China urges IMF to give more power to emerging markets

BEIJING, 16 Jan — China called on IMF member nations on Wednesday to give emerging markets more power at the global lender after US lawmakers set back historic reforms that would give developing countries a greater say. The remarks by Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Hong Lei were an indirect criticism of the United States, the biggest and most powerful IMF member, where lawmakers failed on Monday to agree on funding measures needed for the reforms to move forward, though Hong did not mention the United States by name.

The US Congress must sign off on the IMF funding to complete 2010 reforms that would make China the IMF’s third-largest member and revamp the IMF board to reduce the dominance of Western Europe. The changes would also give greater say to nations such as Brazil and India to reflect their growing economic heft. “The IMF quotas reform is an important decision made by the organization,” Hong said at a daily news briefing. “The relevant organization’s members should earnestly implement the decision, and honor and enhance the voice and representation of developing countries within the IMF.”

Speaking at the National Press Club in Washington, IMF Managing Director Christine Lagarde said it was “disconcerting” the IMF funding was not included in a spending bill approved by the US Congress on Monday. “I very much hope it’s a question of timing and not a decision to exclude the IMF,” Lagarde said. “I hope that sensible and common sense judgment will prevail,” she said, adding that she believed the “States was still committed to supporting the Fund.”

The reform of the voting shares, known as quotas, cannot proceed without the United States, which holds the only controlling share in the IMF. After putting off the request in 2012 because of the US presidential election, the US Treasury has sought to inject IMF into several bills since March. The administration’s requests, however, have been met with scepticism from some Republicans, who see them as tantamount to approving fresh funding in a tight budget environment.

Thai protesters target revenue offices, PM awaits grueling

BANGKOK, 16 Jan — Protesters in Thailand trying to paralyze ministries to force the government to drop plans on Thursday to target revenue offices on Tuesday, but their numbers appeared to be dwindling. Opposition movement could be running out of steam. A state anti-corruption panel is due to give a ruling on Thursday on irregularities in a rice-buying scheme, that the government introduced to support farmers, that could give ammunition to opponents of Prime Minister Yingluck Shinawatra.

The unrest, which flared in November and escalated this week when demonstrators led by former opposition politician Suruep Thaugsung caused main intersections of the capital, Bangkok, is the worst chapter in an eight-year conflict. The political fault line pits the Bangkok-based middle class and royalists against the mostly poorer, rural supporters of Yingluck and her brother, Thaksin Shinawatra, ousted by the army in 2006 who is seen as the power behind her government.

Many ministries and state agencies have been closed to avoid confrontations with demonstrators, but the government says operations and services are being maintained by civil servants working at home or from back-up offices. In a speech at the blocked Asoke intersection late on Wednesday, Suruep told protesters to target revenue offices, which come under the Finance Ministry, on Thursday.

S Korea rebuts N Korea’s call to cancel joint exercises with US

SEOUL, 16 Jan — South Korea on Thursday dismissed North Korea’s call for joint military exercises with the United States to be called off. “The Key Resolve and Foal Eagle exercises will be held as scheduled,” Defence Ministry spokesman Kim Min Seok said in a press briefing, adding the exercises are “annual and defensive in nature.”

Kim’s remarks were in response to a North Korean statement, issued on Wednesday, in which the North demanded that South Korea and the United States cancel their joint military drills.

“Before criticizing the annual and defensive exercises, North Korea should take sincere actions toward its denuclearization,” Kim said.

Kim also warned of “a prompt and stern retaliation” against North Korea in case the North makes military provocations. He joined command post exercise Key Resolve and joint field training exercise Foal Eagle usually take place between late February and April to enhance joint combat readiness and deter threats from North Korea.

North Korea, in the statement issued by the Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland, a North Korean propaganda organ, said the planned exercises were tantamount to a declaration of “full-scale nuclear war,” according to a report by South Korea’s Yonhap News Agency, which monitors North Korean media.

16 Asia-Pacific nations hold 3rd round of free trade talks

TOKYO, 16 Jan — Sixteen Asia-Pacific nations including China and Japan will hold their third round of free trade talks from next Tuesday in Kuala Lumpur, Japan’s trade ministry said on Thursday.

The member countries in the envisioned pact, which is known as the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership and includes the 10 members of the ASEM, are expected to discuss trade in goods and services as well as investment during their four-day working-level talks, according to the Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry. The first round of negotiations took place in May last year in Brunei, followed by a ministerial meeting in August also in Brunei. The second round of talks was held in Australia in September.

The framework involves the Association of Southeast Asian Nations and their six regional partners — Australia, China, India, Japan, New Zealand and South Korea. The RCEP, if realized, would create one of the world’s largest free trade zones, encompassing around a third of global gross domestic product and around half of the world’s population.

Venezuela shuffles economic team, keeps forex rate

CARACAS, 16 Jan — Venezuela’s President Nicolas Maduro named an army general as the new finance minister in a reshuffle of his economic team on Wednesday and said there would be no currency devaluation this year despite a soaring black market for dollars. The cabinet changes do not suggest a major shift in the country’s state-dominated economy, as the new economic team retains many of the same policy-makers that helped the late Hugo Chavez advance the OPEC nation’s drive toward socialism.

Venezuela in 2013 saw slowing economic growth and soaring inflation that Maduro blames on an opposition-backed “economic war” but that critics call the result of decaying price controls and currency controls now widely linked to corruption. Maduro tasked new finance minister Rodolfo Marco with “building a new financial model that can allow for all these investments we need, that will allow the expansion of a financial system at the service of the country.”

Marco, who participated in the failed 1992 coup that thrust Chavez to fame and did jail time with him afterwards, previously held the post of Public Banks Minister, which will now be merged with the finance ministry. He rose quickly through the ranks of government officials after Chavez personally called on him to bring order to a state-run bank following a corruption scandal, said one source who knows the incoming finance minister.

Pleased with his work, Chavez later put him at the helm of Banco de Venezuela after it was purchased from Spain’s Banco Santander, and later created a ministerial post for state run-banks that grew in number amid a wave of nationalizations.”

He’s held major posts for a long time and has not been tainted (by corruption),” said source, who asked not to be identified.

“He’s also good at negotiating and has good relations in the bank sector.” He is considered a pragmatic man of action who tends to avoid public spats with opposition figures or hostile confrontations with reporters.

US airstrike kills eight Afghan civilians

KABUL, 16 Jan — Eight Afghan civilians, including seven children, were killed following a US force’s airstrike in eastern province of Parwan on Tuesday night, said a statement issued by the country’s Presidential Palace late on Wednesday.

“Afghan President Hamid Karzai condemned in strongest terms a bombardment conducted by the US forces in Siya Gard District of Parwan Province, which led to the deaths of one woman and seven children,” the statement said.

One civilian was also wounded in the attack which took place in Sah Darah-e-Wazghar area of the district in the province, it noted. “The Afghan government for many years, had demanded a complete end to the military operations in Afghan villages and towns,” the statement said, adding against all bilateral agreements and the recent guarantee in a letter by the US President Barack Obama, the American forces once again carried out the airstrike against residential area and caused civilian casualties.

The deaths of Afghan civilians by NATO-led troops during operations against Taliban have long been a contentious issue between the Afghan government and US and NATO forces in the insurgency-hit country. Afghan officials had stressed in the past that such deaths would further undermine the war against Taliban and terrorist groups and inflate an anti-freedom sentiment in the country.

The Afghan leader, under strain from Afghan public, has long been criticizing the NATO and US forces over their erroneous killing of civilians since the war against terror began in late 2001. The statement also said that an investigation team has been sent to Siya Gard district and they must bring back the result of the probe within three days to the president of Afghanistan. — Xinhua

Benghazi attack at US consulate preventable

WASHINGTON, 16 Jan — The attack at the US Consulate in Benghazi could have been prevented, according to a report released by the Senate Intelligence Committee on Wednesday.

The report says there was a “significant strategic warning” about the possibility of an attack in the months leading up to it, which killed four Americans including US Ambassador to Libya Christopher Stevens on 11 Sept, 2012.

Despite the clearly deteriorating security situation in Benghazi and requests for additional security resources, four significant improvements were made by the State Department to the security posture of the Temporary Mission Facility,” notes the report.

There were no military assets positioned in a place where they could have saved the Americans killed in the attack, the report finds, adding that the military attempted to move some assets, but only an unmanned drone was able to make it in time.

The Senate Intelligence Committee worked on a bipartisan basis to investigate the various allegations that have come out since the attack and to get to the truth about the attack, Senator Diane Feinstein, chairwoman of the committee, said in a statement. “I hope this report will put to rest many of the conspiracy theories and political accusations about what happened in Benghazi,” she added. Feinstein told reporters Wednesday that the report proves that the State Department needs to do a better job in assessing risks.

A number of the recommendations in the report are consistent with the work the State Department has taken to improve diplomatic security, White House spokesman Jay Carney said at a regular Press briefing on Wednesday. The Obama administration is also focused on bringing to justice those responsible for the deaths of four Americans, Carney said. US agencies should more closely monitor the social media streams of extremist groups, suggests the report. It also recommends that no facility in a dangerous area should be allowed to operate unless full security measures have been taken. —Xinhua

Japanese diplomat in Jordan took home classified files

TOYKO, 16 Jan — A diplomat at the Japanese Embassy in Jordan repeatedly took home classified documents, potentially placing national interests at risk, a source close to the matter said on Thursday.

The 30-year-old second secretary at the embassy was found to have taken home classified documents dozens of pages long on several occasions at least as far back as October 2012, the source said.

The documents contained accommodation and appointment details connected with overseas visits by Prime Minister Shinzo Abe, senior government officials’ expenses and information about foreign leaders’ future visits to Japan.

The handling of classified information has weighed heavily in the Japanese public conscience since a law penalizing the handling of classified information has marked as such and guiding lines stipulated they were for internal use only, the source said.—Kyodo News

Reform or lose us as member, Britain’s finance minister tells EU

London, 16 Jan — Britain told its European Union partners on Wednesday the EU’s treaties were “not fit for purpose” and there must be reform or it would quit the bloc. In the latest blast of euroscepticism from Conservatives in Britain’s coalition government, finance minister George Osborne said EU treaties had to be changed to protect member states like his own that don’t use the euro. The comments, made at a conference in London on reform of the 28-nation EU, are unlikely to be embraced by integrationists in Brussels, who want Britain to remain in the bloc but have become irritated by its demands for change. Jose Manuel Barroso, the president of the European Commission, accused countries like Britain that have questioned the bloc’s freedom of movement rules of having a “narrow, chauvinistic idea of the protection” of their interests – an indication of how tough London may find it to win allies. Osborne, a close ally of Prime Minister David Cameron, said the treaties that governed how the EU was run were “not fit for purpose” and had to be overhauled. “Proper legal protection for the rights of non-euro members is … absolutely necessary to preserve the single market and make it possible for Britain to remain in the EU,” he said. “If we don’t protect the collective interests of non-euro zone member states then they will have to choose between joining the euro, which the UK will not do, or leaving the EU.”

A drive for closer integration among the 18 countries that use the single currency was straining the EU’s institutional architecture, he said, a situation he said risked “going beyond what was legally possible or politically sustainable”. Britain’s Conservatives have long been skeptical about European integration. But their rhetoric is becoming stronger as they face a challenge in May’s European Parliament elections and beyond from the UK Independence Party, a primarily right-wing group that wants Britain to leave the EU. — Reuters

House approves $1.1 trillion measure to fund government through 30 September

Washington, 16 Jan — The US House of Representatives overwhelmingly approved a $1.1 trillion spending bill on Wednesday that pushes the threat of a government shutdown through September 30 and offers lawmakers a chance to end four years of chaotic, crisis-driven budgeting. The 359-67 vote, reflecting strong bipartisan support in the Republican-controlled chamber, sends the measure to the Democratic-controlled US Senate for approval by Saturday. The Senate gave itself three more days to consider the measure by approving an extension of current funding that was due to expire at midnight on Wednesday. The massive “omnibus” spending bill, which funds programs from missile systems to Amtrak rail services, passed with strong minorities of both House Republicans and Democrats. It boosts fiscal 2014 spending on military and domestic discretionary programs by $45 billion over levels that had been scheduled under automatic, “sequester” spending cuts. The measure fleshes out a budget deal passed in December that also set spending levels for fiscal 2015, eliminating a key source of congressional gridlock for the year ahead. Many lawmakers say this will allow them to pass normal spending bills for the first time since 2009, President Barack Obama’s first year in office. “This is a critical step in the direction of regular order,” Democratic Representative Marcy Kaptur of Ohio said of the spending bill. — Reuters

New Mexico school shooting “premeditated”: investigators

Houston, 16 Jan — Investigators said Wednesday a 12-year-old boy planned the shooting rampage that injured two students at a middle school in the US state of New Mexico, local media reported. News details about the shooting were revealed on Wednesday as investigators garnered more evidence about the suspect one day after the tragedy alarmed the whole country. Investigators determined the shooting was premeditated and the two injured were chosen randomly as targets, local media KOB reported. Though authorities have not officially released the suspect’s name, local media identified him as Mason Campbell. Campbell opened fire Tuesday morning at Berrendo Middle School in New Mexico’s southeastern county of Roswell, leaving two fellow classmates injured.Police confirmed on Wednesday the gun Campbell used was a .20 gauge pump shotgun that belonged to his parents and he had three rounds of ammunition, all expended in the shooting. He had reportedly warned some classmates to stay away moments before the gunfire rang out. Campbell’s family issued a statement on Wednesday saying they were heartbroken and that their remorse could not be put into words.

70 killed, 147 wounded in attacks in Iraq

Baghdad, 16 Jan — At least 70 people were killed and 147 others wounded in violent attacks across Iraq on Wednesday, most of them in the capital city of Baghdad and eastern province of Diyala, police said. In Baghdad, at least eight car bombs and two roadside bombs ripped through busy areas in the capital during the day, killing a total of 39 people and wounding 109 others, a police source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity. At least 14 people were killed and 25 others wounded when three bombs exploded Wednesday morning at a funeral in the village of Shahtib near Diyala’s provincial capital of Baquba, a local police source said. Unidentified gunmen kidnapped seven truck drivers Wednesday evening near the town of Muqdadiyah, 40 km northeast of Baquba, and then shot them dead, the police source said, adding that their trucks were also burned. At least six army soldiers were killed in a bombing attack at a bridge near the northern city of Mosul on Wednesday, police said. — Xinhua

Nuclear power unpredictable, Fukushima engineer warns in Taiwan

Taipei, 16 Jan — A Japanese engineer who helped build part of the Fukushima Daiichi No 4 reactor said in Taiwan on Wednesday that the safety of nuclear power plants is unpredictable, urging Taiwan to ditch atomic energy for renewable resources. Mitsuhiko Tanaka, who arrived in Taiwan on Tuesday with a delegation of Japanese parliamentarians for a six-day visit, told a press conference in Taipei that the Chernobyl nuclear meltdown in 1986 changed his views on nuclear power. “Nuclear accidents are bound to happen someday, only that we don’t know when they will happen,” he said. Tanaka, who helped build part of No 4 reactor of the Fukushima Daiichi plant while working at Hitachi Ltd in 1974, quit the company in 1977 and became a writer. He chronicled a manufacturing defect in the steel vessel installed at No 4 reactor and the subsequent cover-up in a book he published in 1990. He also went to the Japan’s Ministry of International Trade and Industry in 1988 to report the cover-up, but the government refused to investigate and Hitachi denied his accusations. Little did he know that the manufacturing defect would result in a disaster later: a powerful earthquake hit the plant on 11 March, 2011, triggering a tsunami that disabled its cooling systems and caused Japan’s worst-ever nuclear accident. Reactor 4 was shut for maintenance during the crisis but was hit by explosions and a fire that spread from adjacent units. At the press conference, House of Representatives member Taro Kono also voiced his strong opposition to the nuclear industry. Urging Taiwan’s government to make information open to the public, Kono expressed regret over the refusal of Taiwan Power Co, the operator of the island’s three nuclear power plants, to let the delegation from Japan visit one of them. Kono campaigned in 2009 to become president of Japan’s Liberal Democratic Party, a position once held by his father Yohei Kono, but he lost the bid. He said his colleagues urged him during the campaign to re-frame from opposing nuclear energy. — Kyodo News
Rotavirus vaccines linked to small risk of intussusception: studies

WASHINGTON, 16 Jan — The second generation vaccines against rotavirus, the most common cause of severe childhood diarrhea worldwide, are associated with a small increased risk of a rare intestinal disorder called intussusception that may require surgery, two US studies suggested on Tuesday.

However, the benefits of the vaccines, Merck’s RotaTeq (RV5) and GlaxoSmithKline’s Rotarix (RV1), outweigh this possible small risk, according to the two papers published online by the New England Journal of Medicine. Rotavirus infection causes an estimated 527,000 deaths in children less than five years of age each year, according to the World Health Organization (WHO). The first licensed rotavirus vaccine known as RotaShield, however, was forced to withdraw in 1999, only one year after licensure in the US, because of increased risk of intussusception.

RotaTeq and Rotarix were subsequently licensed, one in 2006, the other in 2008. They are recommended by the WHO for immunization of children worldwide. Both vaccines have shown tremendous health benefits. For example, before they were available in the US in 2006, rotavirus was responsible for more than 200,000 emergency room visits and 55,000 to 70,000 hospitalizations of young children each year. Also, 20 to 60 children died each year. But since 2006, hospitalizations and emergency room visits have decreased by more than 80 percent among immunized children.

USA: In a seven-year study of RotaTeq, researchers from Harvard Medical School and Harvard Pilgrim Health Care Institute looked at data from 507,874 first doses and 1,277,556 total doses and found an excess risk of 1.5 cases per 100,000 recipients after the first dose, which was roughly one tenth the risk associated with the first-generation vaccine. However, no significant increase in risk was seen after the second or third dose.

In a five-year of Rotarix, researchers from the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) looked at 207,955 doses, including 115,908 first doses and 92,047 second doses, and identified 5.3 extra cases of intussusception within seven days after the administration of either dose. Only 0.72 cases would be expected per 100,000 unvaccinated young children. In an accompanying editorial, Roger Glass of the National Institutes of Health and Umesh Parashar of the CDC wrote that the results of the studies should be interpreted with caution.

“What, then, is the message for the physician or nurse who administers rotavirus vaccines, and what is the implication for vaccine policy in developed countries?” the two asked.

Huawei profit jumps on smartphones, US asks Hua-who?

BEIJING, 16 Jan — China’s Huawei Technologies Co Ltd, known more for its telecom networking prowess than its razor-thin Chinese smartphones, is starting to see success in its consumer electronics business, to the lead to more orders for telecom equipment. Huawei’s smartphone ventures, like its domestic rivals ZTE Corp and Lenovo Group Ltd, have so far focused on selling low- and mid-priced handsets in emerging markets.

The companies have yet to gain a foothold in the high-end segment of developed markets — such as the United States — that offer wider margins.

Huawei’s name is virtually unknown — and unpronounceable — in the US, the second-biggest smartphone market, where lawmakers have flagged Chinese telecommunications equipment as a potential security risks. “Huawei in an ideal world would love to be in the US but it’s probably better for them to be seen as eying up the market than be seen as begging,” said Duncan Clark, chairman of Beijing-based tech advisory BDA.

Deutsche Bank suspends FX traders in New York

LONDON, 16 Jan — Deutsche Bank (DBKGn.DE), Germany’s biggest bank, has suspended several currency traders in New York in an internal probe that forms part of an international investigation into alleged manipulation of the global currency markets, a source familiar with the matter said on Wednesday.

Multiple traders in New York and possibly elsewhere in the Americas are affected after investigations into “communications across a number of currencies,” the source said.

The source didn’t say how many traders had been suspended or what current steps they faced. Deutsche Bank said it would not comment on individual staff members. “Deutsche Bank has received requests for information from regulatory authorities that are investigating trading in the foreign exchange market,” it said in a statement. “The Bank is cooperating with those investigations and will take disciplinary action with regards to individuals if merited.”

Last year, Britain’s Financial Conduct Authority began a formal investigation into possible manipulation in the $5.3 trillion-a-day global FX market. The US Justice Department is also engaged in an active investigation of possible manipulation of the market, the world’s largest.

Producer prices post largest gain in six months

WASHINGTON, 16 Jan — US producer prices recorded their largest increase in six months in December as the cost of gasoline rebounded strongly, but inflation pressures remained benign. The Labour Department said on Wednesday its seasonally adjusted producer price index rose 0.4 percent last month, the biggest rise since June, after slipping 0.1 percent in November.

December’s rise in prices received by the nation’s farms, factories and refineries ended two straight months of declines and matched economists’ expectations. In the 12 months through December, producer prices increased 1.2 percent after advancing 0.7 percent in November. Wholesale prices excluding volatile food and energy costs increased 0.3 percent, the biggest gain since July 2012, after ticking up 0.1 percent the prior month. However, tobacco accounted for nearly half the increase.

In the 12 months through December, the so-called core PPI rose 1.4 percent after increasing 1.3 percent in November. While economic activity has picked up, inflation continues to run very low because of labor market slack. That could see the Federal Reserve keeping interest rates near zero for a while.

The US central bank has started scaling back its monetary stimulus, reducing its monthly bond purchases to $75 billion from $85 billion starting this month.
Ananda Pagoda festival in Bagan

BAGAN, 16 Jan — Bullock carts camped under trees, besides stupas around Ananda Pagoda and smoke comes out from stoves outside make-shift tents have created scenery attractive areas in January every year, attracting tourists, local and foreign photographers and artists.

The annual festival where local farmers take vacation once a year falls in the time when they finished their last harvest of oil crops.

After selling their last harvest of the year, they come to the festival where they can buy what they need, from farming equipment to modern clothes and electronic equipment.

Another reason to visit the festival is to donate provisions and goods putting in alms bowls to Buddhist monks on the full moon day in January during a traditional annual charity ceremony which is believed to be 800 years old and over 1000 Buddhist monks around Bagan gathered at the ceremony.

We used to see a mango tree in blossom in rural area when we were young. The tree got ruined as we threw the stones at the mangoes, plunked the mangoes with a rock or climbed up the tree to bring mangoes. Although some could bring the mangoes, others failed. And then inequality happened. Mangoes were within reach for someone while they were out of reach for another.

If a faithful gardener took a responsibility to bring the mangoes and to divide them equally, there would be an equal share for everyone and make them to be cheerful and happy in whatever situations where mangoes are within their reach or out of reach and the mango tree would sustain the least damage. Likewise, we can see a similar situation in our human society. When there arises an opportunity at a certain place, people tries to firmly grasp it through various ways and means. Some abuse power and other use money to grab the opportunity, causing a situation in which the opportunity is within reach for some people, not for others. Inequality will exist in the situation.

If an honest and reliable person left the opportunity divided equally, regardless of differences in wealth, nationality and religion, all concerned would be delighted. Nobody blames and complains to him. Even at a refreshment-giving ceremony in a ward, the rest of dwellers will be disappointed by a situation showing favoritism. If a faithful gardener took a responsibility to firmly grasp it through various means, it will exist in the situation.

Now is the time when our country is moving towards democracy. Democracy provides equal rights. The poor are to be given equal chances to reach a point where the rich can reach. The rich and the poor alike have equal rights. Thus, it is imperative to take equality of rights into consideration based on the fairness whenever we are dealing with any matters to be fair.

Vice Pres Shindo to assume Nippon Steel & Sumitomo Metal presidency

Tokyo, 16 Jan — Nippon Steel & Sumitomo Metal Corp has decided to name Vice President Kosei Shindo as president on 1 April, replacing Hiroshi Tomono, the company said on Thursday.

As the company has performed favorably since the merger of Nippon Steel Corp and Sumitomo Metal Industries Ltd in October 2012, it now aims to promote its overseas operations under a new leadership, according to company sources. Shindo, 64, joined Nippon Steel in 1973 and assumed his current post in October 2012 to deal with the structural integration of the two major steelmakers following their merger.

Current president Tomomo, 68, will become vice chairman, while Chairman Shoji Muneoka, 67, will remain in the post. At the time of the merger, the two companies installed a leadership to reflect a balance between the two, with Muneoka from Nippon Steel assuming the chairmanship and Shindo from Sumitomo Metal the presidency. The promotion of Shindo, who is well briefed on overall corporate management and planning, indicates that the second largest steelmaker in the world in terms of crude steel production is focusing more on growth. The company now has around 10 domestic iron plants and some 83,000 employees. Its consolidated sales for the business year through March 2013 came to 4.389 trillion yen.

Second man dies after collision between fishing boat, MSDF vessel

Tokyo, 16 Jan — An angler on a leisure fishing boat sank, following a collision on Wednesday with a Maritime Self-Defense Force transport vessel off Hiroshima Prefecture, authorities said Thursday, bringing the death toll in the incident to two. Koji Otake, 66, was one of three anglers aboard the boat. Kiyoshi Takamori, the 67-year-old captain of the fishing boat, died on Wednesday.

The Japan Coast Guard plans to raise the fishing boat on Thursday and question the crew of the MSDF vessel Osumi to determine the cause of the accident, coast guard officials said. The collision between the 180-meter Osumi and the 7.6-meter fishing boat occurred at around 8 am on Wednesday in the Seto Inland Sea off the city of Okaze. The four men on the fishing boat were thrown into the water following the collision and rescued by the Osumi and another vessel passing nearby. The remaining two were not injured.

One of the rescued men was quoted as telling coast guard officials that the leisure boat collided with the port side of the Osumi. The coast guard found marks believed to be from the collision on the MSDF vessel’s hull. The sea was calm and the weather was fair when the accident occurred, according to the authorities.

Thai political instability worries Lao exporters

As turmoil in Thailand continues, Lao exporters are becoming increasingly concerned about the future of exports to the country. Anti-government protesters holding rallies in Bangkok have vowed to intensify efforts to shut down the city if Prime Minister Yingluck Shinawatra fails to resign this week before a planned election on 2 February.

13 killed, 40,000 displaced in flash flood, landslide in North Sulawesi, Indonesia

Jakarta, 16 Jan — The number of death toll in flash floods and landslides in North Sulawesi province of eastern Indonesia rose to 13 on Thursday, with 2 people still missing and about 40,000 others fleeing to escape the catastrophe, an official said.

Consecutive days of heavy downpours have bloated four rivers and burst their banks in Manado city, the capital of the province, since Wednesday, submerging the city and sweeping cars and houses, said Sutopo Purwo Nugroho, spokesman of national disaster management and mitigation agency. The rains also incurred landslides in Sangihe island of the province and buried several houses, said Sutopo.

The disaster also left two bridges collapsed, he added. “Temporary data stipulates 13 dead, 2 missing and 40,000 others taking shelters to safe grounds,” Sutopo told Xinhua via phone.

Record number travel between Chinese mainland, Taiwan

BEIJING, 16 Jan — A record number of more than 8 million people traveled across the Taiwan Strait in 2013 amid closer ties between the Chinese mainland and Taiwan, a Beijing spokesman said on Wednesday.

Among the travelers, 2.2 million were mainland tourists to Taiwan, an 11 percent rise compared with the previous year, said Ma Xiaoguang, spokesman for the State Council Taiwan Affairs Office, at a Press conference.

The number of individual tourists from the Chinese mainland to Taiwan hit 523,000, a rise of 174 percent year on year, thanks to the mainland’s efforts to make it more convenient to travel across the Strait, he said.

Mainland authorities began allowing individuals to travel to Taiwan in June, 2011, with access only permitted from Beijing and Shanghai municipalities as well as Xiamen City in Fujian Province. However, the current number of cities allowing such tourism is 26.

In 2013, 47 travel agencies also obtained the qualification to organize group package tours to Taiwan, increasing the total number of such agencies to 263, Ma said. To facilitate personnel exchanges, the Chinese mainland has expanded its urban residents’ health insurance to cover Taiwan students studying at mainland universities. The government also supports Taiwanese who have graduated from mainland universities to start businesses, according to the spokesman.

A lot of big events took place last year across the Strait, including the first Cross-Strait Peace Forum, the ninth Cross-Strait Economic, Trade and Culture Forum and the sixth Cross-Strait Cultural Industry Fair.

Ma said the two sides will cooperate to reach agreements on exchanges of culture, education as well as science and technology.—Xinhua

Doctor convicted in Michael Jackson death loses appeal

LOS ANGELES, 16 Jan — A California appellate court refused on Wednesday to overturn the conviction of Michael Jackson’s personal physician, Conrad Murray, who was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter in the death of the pop star.
The three-judge panel of California’s 2nd District Court of Appeal unanimously upheld Murray’s 2011 conviction, ruling that there was sufficient evidence and there were no errors during his trial.
Grenada-born Murray, 60, was released from a Los Angeles jail in October after serving two years.
Murray’s six-week trial in 2011 grabbed global attention after Jackson, preparing for a series of comeback concerts in London, died unexpectedly in 2009 at age 50 from an overdose of the surgical anaesthetic, propofol. Prosecutors successfully argued at the trial that Murray, who was hired by concert promoter AEG Live as Jackson’s general practitioner, was grossly negligent in administering the powerful anaesthetic, which was used to help the singer sleep.
Murray’s attorneys presented the case that Jackson had injected himself with propofol and there was not enough evidence that Murray was negligent.

‘Frozen’ soundtrack ices Beyonce again on Billboard chart

LOS ANGELES, 16 Jan — The soundtrack to the Walt Disney Co. animated film “Frozen” topped the weekly Billboard 200 album chart on Wednesday for the second consecutive week, again holding off Beyonce. “Frozen” sold 86,000 copies last week, down from 165,000 the previous week, edging R&B singer Beyonce’s self-titled album, which sold 79,000 copies last week, according to figures compiled by Nielsen SoundScan.
Billboard said “Frozen” is the first soundtrack to claim the top spot for consecutive weeks since “Dreamgirls” in 2007. The soundtrack has been helped by the film’s box office popularity. Billboard said, citing sources. The film has grossed $319 million at the domestic box office since its November release. Rapper Kid Ink’s “My Own Lane” was the lone debut album to enter the top 10 this week, placing at No 3 with 30,000 in sales.
Rapper Eminem dropped a spot to fourth as 36,000 copies of his “Marshall Mathers LP2” were sold last week, while New Zealand teen singer-songwriter Lorde’s “Pure Heroine” held at No 5 with 33,000 in sales. Pop singer Katy Perry’s song featuring rapper Juicy J, “Dark Horse,” topped the digital songs chart with 243,000 downloads. Last week’s top download, “Timber,” by rapper Pitbull with pop singer Ke$ha, fell to No 2, with 227,000 downloads.
Album sales last week totaled 4.3 million, a decline of 21 percent compared to last week and down 17 percent compared to the same week last year, Billboard said.—Reuters

Frazzled Sharapova fumes over murky heat policy

MELBOURNE, 16 Jan — Maria Sharapova criticized Australian Open organizers for a lack of transparency over their ‘extreme heat policy’ when the Russian was left toil on court for nearly an hour after organizers had invoked an official halt on Thursday.

Sharapova and her opponent Karin Knapp of Italy struggled it out in 40 degrees Celsius (104 Fahrenheit) heat at Rod Laver Arena for three-and-a-half hours before the Russian prevailed 6-3, 6-4, 6-6 (10-8) in their marathon second round encounter. The pair were already struggling in the oppressive conditions but continued their arduous battle some 50 minutes after matches on outside courts were suspended at about 1:50 pm local time (0250 GMT).

Players have slammed organizers for failing to call off matches earlier, with some describing the conditions as dangerous, and one Croatian player in the men’s draw expressing fear for his life on Wednesday.

Rather than use the raw Celsius readings to assess the heat, organizers prefer to use the Wet Bulb Global Temperature composite, which also gauges humidity and wind to identify the perceived conditions.

Under a change to the rules for this year, the decision on whether to stop matches is now at the discretion of tournament referee Wayne McKewen.

“There is no way getting around the fact that the conditions were extremely difficult, and have been for the last few days,” the third seed Sharapova told reporters. “It’s a tough call. I mean, I think the question I have is no one really knows what the limit is. “Not the players (nor) the trainers themselves when you ask them when will the roof be closed. “No one actually knows what that number is in comparison to humidity or the actual heat.

“Sometimes you wish you knew, because it’s — it just depends on I’m not sure who, a referee or the meteorologist, and there are just a lot of questions in the air that maybe should be solved. “I asked the trainer the other day, ‘what does it take for the roof to be closed or matches to be stopped?’ She said, ‘we have no control over this.’ “Despite the suspension, players could only walk off court at the conclusion of the set they were playing, according to the policy.

With no tiebreaks in deciding third sets for the women’s entrants at the Australian Open, nor for fifth sets for the men, Sharapova and Knapp’s battle continued well after the suspension was called, with Rod Laver Arena’s retractable roof left open. —Reuters

Federer canters into third round by giving Kavcic lesson

That presumption was emphatically rejected when Kavcic held two break points in the fourth game of the second set and had Federer scrambling back and forth in a 23-shot rally only for the Swiss to force a forehand error. The hard-hitting world number 99 simply stood hands on hips slowly shaking his head as if pondering what to do next.

The Slovenian did manage to break on the next point and thrust his arms skyward in mock triumph, though that only served to fire up Federer who won 13 of the next 16 points to clinch the set in 28 minutes.

The third set was a little closer with Kavcic’s serve improving markedly but he could not halt the inevitable as Federer ended the 107-minute match when he clinched the tie-break 7-4. Federer will now meet either 31st seeded Spaniard Fernando Verdasco or Russian Teymuraz Gabashvili in the third round. —Reuters

Roger Federer

Roger Federer, 16 Jan — Roger Federer spent as little time as he needed and gave Blaz Kavcic a tennis lesson in recording a 6-2, 6-1, 7-6 victory to advance to the third round of the Australian Open on Thursday.

Playing under the closed roof of Hisense Arena due to the extreme heat that had earlier suspended play on the uncovered courts, Federer raced through the first set in 26 minutes with a strong service game and by belting 17 winners.

Federer’s sixth ranking — courtesy of a sub-par 2013 — had given the impression of a 32-year-old man whose skills may be diminishing as he enters his twilight of his illustrious career.

Investigation underway into Sydney train derailment

SYDNEY, 16 Jan — Safety experts are investigating Wednesday’s incident of Sydney train derailment, which plunged rail services on the city’s eastern suburbs and Illawarra lines into chaos during the evening peak, local media reported on Thursday.

About 700 passengers were evacuated from the train just before 6.00 p.m. local time on Wednesday after two wheels came off the track and a metal bar speared up through the floor of a carriage near Edgecliff Station, in Sydney’s east.

Sydney Trains Chief Executive Officer Howard Collins told the Australian Broadcasting Corporation (ABC) on Thursday his organization was investigating if it was a faulty track or an issue with the train. “We will get to the bottom of this, it’s very important to know what caused this incident so we can understand how to eliminate it in the future,” he said.

“Although the piece of metal didn’t come from the train… it looks like it picked up this piece of metal and by sheer misfortune (it) acted like a skewer and went through the floor,” he added. However, Collins said Sydney Trains “wouldn’t jump to any conclusions” until a thorough investigation was completed. Ronaldo on target as Real knock out Osasuna

BARCELONA, 16 Jan — Ballon d’Or winner Cristiano Ronaldo scored the opening goal as 10-man Real Madrid beat Osasuna 2-0 on Wednesday to qualify for the King’s Cup quarter-finals 4-0 on aggregate.

Osasuna held Barcelo­na and Real to draws at El Sadar in the league this season but the visitors, fired by the confidence of a 2-0 first-leg win, had far too much for them in attack.

Ronaldo, named FIFA World Player of the Year on Monday, was fortunate to score, however, as his free kick slipped through the hands of keeper Andres Fernandez after 20 minutes. Angel Di Maria slotted in the second to seal a comfortable win even though Real defender Fabio Coen­t­­­­­trao was given his second yellow card six minutes from time.

“We knew it was going to be difficult and that Osasuna were going to come out strong, so it was good to get the opening goal. The shots from Cristiano are difficult to stop as they move around a lot,” Real midfielder Asier Illarramendi told reporters.

“We worked hard but now we need to keep going and next we have Beiras in the league at the weekend.”

“My dream is to win the league,” Ronaldo said. “We are the favourites against those teams below us.”

Real Madrid are 13 points clear of second-placed Atletico Madrid after 17 games.

As Real began to relax towards the end of the first half, Osasuna threatened and Alvaro Cejudo hit the woodwork with a 25-yard drive while Miguel De las Cuevas forced a smart save from Iker Casillas. Their heads dropped, though, when Di Maria fired home a Jese Rodriguez cross 10 minutes into the second half. With the match all but won Coent­­­­­trao needlessly fouled Roberto Torres and was given a second booking but Real still sealed an easy win.

Espanyol survived a scare as they went a goal down having lost the first leg 1-0 at second division Alcorcon but they responded with a 4-2 win and 4-3 aggregate success.

Athletic Bilbao also knocked out Real Betis and Levante eliminated Rayo Vallecano.
