Japan, US security advisers agree closer bilateral cooperation

WASHINGTON, 18 Jan — The Japanese and US national security advisers agreed on Friday to boost mutual cooperation to deal with issues in East Asia such as North Korea’s nuclear programmes, a Japanese government official said. Shotaro Yachi, a close aide to Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe and head of the secretariat of Japan’s new National Security Council, and his US counterpart Susan Rice reached the agreement during a meeting in Washington. Yachi and Rice “agreed to frequent regular communications between the two National Security Councils,” according to the White House. Yachi, a former vice foreign minister of Japan, also met with Secretary of State John Kerry, Deputy Secretary of State William Burns and Defence Secretary Chuck Hagel the same day. Yachi told reporters he discussed “various issues” with Kerry including the situation in East Asia, but declined to go into further detail.

The Japanese official in Yachi’s delegation suggested Abe’s controversial visit to the war-related Yasukuni Shrine, which honours convicted war criminals along with war dead, was not a major topic in the meetings. The official declined to say whether Yachi and the US officials discussed China’s claim to the Japan-controlled Senkaku islets in the East China Sea and Beijing’s establishment of an air defence identification zone over the waters.

The US Defence Department said Hagel “expressed appreciation” for Japan’s efforts in securing the relocation of the US Marine Corps’ Futenma Air Station within Okinawa Prefecture. Yachi and Hagel endorsed “a forward-looking revision” of the bilateral defence cooperation guidance lines that will enable Japan to take a more active role in promoting regional peace and stability, the Pentagon said.

Three killed in Mozambique mine collapse

MADUTO, 18 Jan — Three illegal panners died from a mine collapse in the northernmost Mozambican Province of Cabo Delgado, local media reported on Saturday.

The accident, which happened in the Nampula mine in the muddy Montepuez district, also injured other two people. The administrator of the neighboring Ancuabe district, Eusebio Celestino, told reporters that it was not the right time for people to be involved in the mining activities here, due to the rains which have been falling since the end of last year, according to the newspaper Noticias. Montepue and Ancuabe districts are rich in precious stones, which attract both local and foreign nationals to dig, while many cases have been caused by mine collapses have been reported in Montepue.

It is reported that Pakistani, Thai and Tanzanian nationals are accused of illegal panning and purchase of the stones in the province.

Hun Sen warns opposition not to put Cambodia hostage for politics

PHNOM PENH, 18 Jan — Prime Minister Hun Sen warned opposition leaders on Saturday not to put Cambodia hostage for political benefit or face a political crackdown.

“Do not try to put this country hostage for bargaining your power,” Hun Sen said, warning that any attempt to stage a civil war will be “cracked down on in just hours.” Hun Sen issued the warning amid a brewing political crisis over the outcome of last July’s general election.

The opposition Cambodian National Rescue Party has refused to recognize the outcome of the election, won by the ruling Cambodian People’s Party, on grounds the polls were rigged to ensure a CPP victory. The opposition has boycotted all parliament sessions and staged mass protests, demanding a serious probe of the election, reform of the National Election Committee, organization of a new election and Hun Sen’s resignation.

Hun Sen said a political settlement should be conducted through negotiation or through the National Assembly. “It should not be settled by walking in the streets,” he said.

The Cambodian People’s Party won 68 seats of the total 123-seat National Assembly in last July’s general election, while the Cambodian National Rescue Party of Sam Rainsy got the remaining 55 seats.
Brazilian president promises to distribute federal funds to all states

Rio de Janeiro, 18 Jan — Brazil’s President Dilma Rousseff on Friday said federal funds should be distributed to all states, irrespective of their political affiliations.

She stressed the distribution of federal resources must be made in a democratic manner, without considering political allegiance or party affiliation.

“I am very proud of having maintained in the presidency this democratic behaviour, in which one takes into account the importance of states and municipalities,” she said.

Rousseff made the remarks in her hometown of Belo Horizonte, in Minas Gerais state, whose governor belongs to an opposition political party and where she announced the release of 2.5 billion reals (about 1 billion US dollars) in federal funds to support local urban transportation projects.

During her speech, Rousseff also called for greater cooperation between the federal government and local and state administrations. —Xinhua

Syria offers Aleppo truce as rebels argue over talks

Moscow/Istanbul, 18 Jan — The Syrian government, preparing for peace talks with rebels next week, handed the Russian co-sponsors of the conference a proposal on Friday for a ceasefire in Aleppo and an exchange of prisoners.

The offer was dismissed by some of President Bashar al-Assad’s disperate opponents, whose very attendance at the talks due to start on Wednesday in Switzerland remained in doubt, despite fresh assurances from Washington that negotiations would lead to Assad’s departure from power. After nearly three years of war, and over 100,000 deaths, however, Assad’s forces have been making gains, helped by in-fighting among the rebels and support from Iran and new arms and equipment from Russia.

Syrian Foreign Minister Walid al-Moualem, visiting Moscow, said he gave Russian officials a plan for a truce in Aleppo, Syria’s biggest city, where government forces have been unable to disable rebels over the past year. He also said Damascus was ready to exchange prisoners, something rebels want.

Moscow and Washington, which respectively supported and opposed Assad since the uprising in 2011, have urged both sides to make concessions, including ceasing fire, access for aid and prisoner exchanges, to build confidence before the conference. But there is little sign of coherent negotiating positions — nor of violence abating. Rebels are fighting each other, in battles involving Islamist militants whose influence has cooled Western support for the uprising. Assad’s forces, once reeling, have recovered and have been bolstered lately by new Russian arms and supplies, sources have told Reuters. Jamal al-Ward, head of the military office of the exiled opposition National Coalition, said a ceasefire in Aleppo was in the rebels’ interest, “but we don’t believe that the regime is serious about going through with this”. Most of the disparate rebel forces fighting inside Syria have dismissed the negotiations, known as Geneva-2. The National Coalition, which is backed by Western and Arab powers, began a delayed meeting in Turkey on Friday to decide whether to take part. Their discussions were due to resume on Saturday and it remained unclear how or when they would reach a final decision. —Reuters

Thousands of Afghans face cold, hungry winter as aid goes missing

Herat, (Afghanistan), 18 Jan — Thousands of homeless Afghans are huddling on the sides of freezing roads this winter with little shelter and nothing to eat, not far from warehouses stuffed with food.

The government’s in-ability to help — through mismanagement, corruption, or factors beyond its control — threatens the future of a united Afghanistan after an April presidential election and the withdrawal of foreign combat troops by the end of this year.

It also leaves poor Afghans open to more exploitation and suffering, and makes them ideal recruits for insurgents.

“Warlords are coming at night, asking us for sheep and chickens. We are poor, we cannot afford this,” said Gholfam Hassan, part of a cluster of people who have been living for weeks by the side of a road in Herat, one of Afghanistan’s few relatively prosperous provinces near the border with Iran.

“I hope the government gives us shelter, tents to protect the children from the cold and snow.”

The taskforce meant to respond to emergencies has failed to distribute supplies and, in some provinces, money to transport it has gone missing. Elsewhere, warehouses have been emptied without Kabul’s knowledge, Afghan and UN officials say.

So thousands of desperate people have abandoned their homes in dangerous provinces and fled to Herat, many of them with just a blanket for shelter from Afghanistan’s harsh winter.

The crisis became so dire that the United Nations and international aid agencies stepped in with emergency provisions, but there is not enough to go around.

Myeik Archipelago, Taninthayi Region

Off Myanmar’s southeastern coast, the Myeik Archipelago, with its 800 islands, is a world-class diving destination, with beautiful coral reefs and a rich variety of marine life. Many of the islands in the 36,260 square kilometre (14,000 square mile) archipelago are uninhabited. Lampi, one of the main islands, has been designated the Lampi National Park and is listed as an ASEAN Heritage Site. Diving in the Myeik Archipelago leave from Kawthoung, at the southern end of Taninthayi Region.

Moyingyi Wetland Wildlife Sanctuary, Bago Region

This 103 square kilometre (40 square mile) sanctuary is the home of thousands of birds, including more than 40 species of waterfowl. More than 30 species of migratory birds have been identified at this sanctuary. As well as bird watching, there are hire boats available for sightseeing trips in this vast wetlands habitat, which is about a three-hour drive from Yangon.

SPOILED FOR CHOICE

Myanmar Orichs, Kachin, Chin and Shan States and Mandalay Region

Myanmar’s jungles, described as the “last paradise of wild orchids” have about 1500 species of orchids, many of them rare. Among the rarest are the Black Orchid (Paphiopedilum wardi) and the endangered Vanda coerulea, about 10 centimetres (4 inches) across in size. Large colonies of Phaphiopedilum bellatulum, at the international list of endangered species, are found in Myanmar.

FOOD & DRINK

Myanmar food culture is about sharing, by hosting feasts for hundreds of people on special occasions but also sharing food everyday with co-workers or school friends. Special meals are given to residents of monasteries, nunneries, old people’s homes, orphanages and hospitals in commemoration of marriages, birthdays or other anniversaries. If friends drop in by chance at meal times they are invited to share the meal.

Myanmar Fare

The usual Myanmar meal comprises rice, served with a soup, salad, meat, fish or fowl curry, a vegetable stir-fry, and a salty spicy relish of fish paste to eat with blanched or raw vegetables. The soup is spiced throughout the meal.

The main point of the menu is to balance the tastes and textures, therefore there there might be thick and creamy bean soup; a crunchy salad; fresh and light vegetables; curry with thick gravy to mix into the rice and the relish, sour as well as salty and spicy, to even out the tastes. The whole meal is not the same taste and texture throughout but each mouthful is as different as one creates it.

Russia, Syria determined to hold Geneva-II as scheduled

_Moscow, 18 Jan —_ Moscow and Damascus believed no one could undermine the peace conference on Syria scheduled for later this month, Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov said on Friday. Speaking to reporters after his talks with visiting Syrian counterpart Walid al-Moallem, Lavrov expressed Moscow’s concern Syrian opposition group the National Coalition might attempt to delay the peace conference, known as Geneva-II, due to internal arguments.

“This goes beyond any reasonable (behavior),” he said. Moscow was also worried the opposition still had not received a formal invitation to attend the conference, Lavrov said.

Meanwhile, Lavrov said he believed Damascus would demonstrate political will and restraint and would not let anyone undermine the conference scheduled for 22 January in Montreux, Switzerland.

Al-Moallem confirmed the Syrian government would not let the conference be undermined, and accused the United States of supporting terrorist groups operating in Syria.

“How may the US condemn terrorism in Iraq, while supporting the same terrorists in Syria. This is an anti-Syrian conspiracy”, al-Moallem said.

Lavrov said Russia would continue humanitar- ian aid to Syrian refugees inside and outside Syria, but added practical humanitar- ian operations required coordination with Syrian opposition groups as well.

He said the attempts to use humanitarian issues for justification of “humanitarian intervention” in Syria were unacceptable and the attempts would undermine the Geneva-II conference.

Moscow and Damas- cus reconfirmed their de- termination to implement the chemical disarmament of Syria according to the agreed schedule.

Mexico replaces top security officials in troubled state

_Mexico City, 18 Jan —_ Mexican officials on Friday said top security officials would be replaced in a western state that has been shaken by conflict between a powerful drug gang and heavily armed vigilantes.

Michoacan Governor Fausto Vallejo told reporters that he had named a new state attorney general and also announced new top officials for regional proce- dures offices. Top police officials were also replaced.

The government this week stepped up efforts to restore order in the poor, rural state of Michoacan, where violence has stained the security record of President Enrique Pena Nieto, who took office at the end of 2012. Violence in Michoacan has stoked con- cerns about President Pena Nieto’s ability to maintain order one year into his term. Spooked investors drove the peso to a 3-1/2 month low this week.

Large swathes of the state have been under the control of the Knights Templar drug cartel, but earlier this month, local vigilante groups began oc- cupying much of the gang’s heartland. Masked, armed groups arose in Michoa- can last year, saying the government was failing to protect citizens from extor- tions, kidnappings and kill- ings by drug gangs.

Vigilante groups have claimed that local officials are in league with traffick- ers, but some have accused the heavily armed masked groups of having ties to a rival cartel.

Jose Godoy, who was an official in the federal at- torney general’s office, will replace Marco Aguilera as the new state attorney gen- eral, Vallejo said. Aguilera had served in the post since July, when a previous state attorney general resigned.

Carlos Castillo, who was an official in the federal consumer protec- tion agency, was named to replace Alberto Reyes as head of police forces.

At least four killed in clashes across Egypt

_Cairo, 18 Jan —_ At least four people were killed as clashes between Islam Muslim Brotherhood sup- porters and police flared up across Egypt on Friday, se- curity sources said.

The violence erupted a day before Egyptian au- thorities are expected to announce official results of this week’s referendum on a new constitution, part of an army-backed transition plan for the Arab world’s most populous nation.

One man was killed by a gunshot to the neck in the city of Fayoum, south of Cairo, a local health minis- try official told Reuters.

Three people were killed in clashes in the Cai- ro area, the security sources said. Two were shot and the circumstances of the other death were unclear. Sup- porters of the Brotherhood also clashed with security forces in the city of Suez, MENA reported, as well as in Ismailia and a number of locations in the capital, se- curity sources said. In cen- tral Sinai, gunmen caused an explosion of a natural gas pipeline supplying an industrial zone. Nobody was hurt but the blast dis- rupted gas supplies to some factories in the area, secu- rity sources said.

Interim Prime Minis- ter Hazem el-Beblawi con- demned the attack on the pipeline and vowed to pun-ish such crimes with force.

State authority col- lapsed in parts of the Sinai peninsula after the downfall of veteran president Hosni Mubarak in 2011, allowing hardline Islamist groups to expand into the vacuum.

Tokyo hotels undergo revamps to win foreign guests with Japan taste

_Tokyo, 18 Jan –_ Amid the latest tourism boom and in preparation for intensifying competition for guests toward the 2020 Tokyo Olympics, major hotels in downtown Tokyo have set out to win the hearts of for- eign visitors with massive renovations infused with Japanese aesthetics while also upgrading Internet ac- cess and other facilities to meet the needs of interna- tional travellers.

The Prince Sakura Tower Tokyo near JR Shinagawa Station, for example, reopened last September after extensive refurbishment that placed emphasis on creating a tasteful Japanese touch.

In harmony with the hotel’s traditional Japanese landscape garden, guest rooms are decorated with delicate artwork that com- bines traditional woodwork by Kynosashimo crafts- men with Nishijin fabrics, both from the ancient capital of Kyoto. US FDA issues warning on flammable wart removers

WASHINGTON, 18 Jan — Some cryogenic wart removers, which remove warts from the skin by freezing them off, are highly flammable, and should be kept away from heat sources and cigarettes, the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) warned on Thursday.

The FDA, which regulates wart removers as medical devices, said it has received 14 reports about wart removers since 2009. The products are sold over the counter and contain a mixture of liquid dimethyl ether and propane. At least 10 patients have suffered singed hair, blisters, burns or skin redness, according to FDA nurse consultant Karen Nast. In three of the reports, there was a candle nearby, but in the other 11 reports no ignition source was identified.

“This is extremely concerning, especially because people may not be aware that everyday household items like curling irons and straight irons can be hot enough to be an ignition source for these products,” Nast said. Warts are growths caused by human papillomavirus infection and can often disappear on their own without treatment in most people, the FDA said.—Reuters

Poor sleep linked to teen mental health problems

NEW YORK, 18 Jan — Getting too little sleep might be a sign of — or even a contributor to — emotional problems, anxiety and suicidal thoughts among teens, according to a large study from Europe.

Based on data about the sleep habits of nearly 12,000 teens across 11 European countries, researchers found that a student with suicidal thoughts could be predicted to sleep about 36 minutes less each night compared to counterparts with no suicidal thoughts. For teens with severe emotional problems, the amount of sleep lost would be about 30 minutes, on average, each night.

“This is not a very large effect,” study author Laura Mandelli told Reuters Health in an email. Mandelli is assistant professor of psychiatry at the University of Bologna in Italy.

And the researchers cannot say whether there is a cause-and-effect relationship between the sleep patterns and mental health problems seen in the study.

Lack of sleep among teens has been linked in other research to many negative health effects, including high blood pressure (see Reuters Health story of 17 Dec, 2013). And researchers have found that teens who pick diet drinks eat more food, generally going to bed later. Past research has also shown that teens need between eight and a half and nine hours of sleep each night. Teens in the current study averaged about eight hours of sleep.

Mandelli and her colleagues asked them about total hours slept during school nights, or Monday through Friday. Teens also answered questions about whether they worried a lot or spent long periods alone. —Reuters

Teamwork

Every organization and businesses should have teamwork and spirits. It plays a crucial role in achieving business success. Teamwork is the process of working collaboratively with a group of people in order to achieve a goal. Teamwork is often a crucial part of a business, as it is often necessary for colleagues to work well together, trying their best in any circumstance.

Teamwork also means that people will try to cooperate, using their individual skills and providing constructive feedback, despite any personal conflict between individuals. Due to the lack of teamwork for decades, the country has been lagging behind the development.

The country has to grasp its decades-long internal conflicts. Thanks to the fruits of democracy, the country sees a lot of organizations, associations, civil societies and labour union here and there. The emergence of these organizations and association en masse may lead to the flourishing of team work and team spirits.

All our national races should have teamwork and spirits at a time when the country is on the way to democracy. Teamwork and spirits come from the collaborative efforts by all involved. It would bring the benefits such as improved problem solving skill, swift accomplishment of tasks, healthy competition, developing relationships and sharing and acquiring knowledge etc.

Time has come to seize this golden opportunity. Taking the lessons of the past events, all our nationals need to “leave no stone unturned” in our efforts to reach a genuine and eternal peace through teamwork and team spirits.

Landslide derails train in northern Italy, leaving two injured

MILAN, (Italy), 18 Jan — Two engine drivers were injured on Friday when a train connecting northwestern Italy to France veered off the tracks due to a landslide, local reports said. According to ANSA news agency, at least one raiarcar and the engine completely derailed when the train found a mass of water, mud and rock on its tracks about 500 meters from the station in the town of Andora.

The derailment left the two drivers of the train injured, though not seriously, while the around 200 passengers onboard were unharmed.

US man pleads guilty to sending ricin to Obama, two others

JACKSON, (Mississippi), 18 Jan — A Mississippi man accused of sending poisoned letters to President Barack Obama and two other public officials, and then pinning them on an Elvis impersonator, pleaded guilty in US court and agreed to a 25-year jail sentence, the Justice Department announced on Friday.

James Everett Dutschke, 41, has been jailed since Friday.

The plea agreement was announced by John Carlin, acting assistant attorney general for national security; Felicia Adams, the US attorney for the Northern District of Mississippi; and Daniel McMullen, special agent in charge of the FBI’s Jackson field office.

Dutschke will be sentenced in about 60 days, the Justice Department said.

Dutschke previously had pleaded not guilty to five counts of a grand jury indictment, and denied sending the letters. He also pleaded not guilty on December 3 to a new charge that he tried to continue the scheme from jail. — Reuters

 Guerrero group claims responsibility for bullets sent to Greek officials

ATHENS, 18 Jan — A newly emerging guerrilla group on Friday claimed responsibility for sending two envelopes containing bullets to the central bank of Greece’s governor Yorgos Provopoulos and journalist Yannis Pretentieris.

The threatening letters bore the signature of the “Popular Avengers”, according to police investigating the case.

In both cases the envelopes did not reach the offices of the recipients, the Bank of Greece and the private television channel Mega, as they were stopped after checks by metal detectors.

Political parties strongly condemned the incident. The socialist PASOK which supports the ruling coalition denounced the attempt to “terrorize democracy.” The main opposition radical left SYRIZA party rejected any attempts to “divert attention and create a climate of insecurity.”

Last year, Finance Minister Yannis Stournaras received a similar envelope with a bullet signed by the group “Cretan Revolution.”

California governor declares drought emergency

SAN FRANCISCO, 18 Jan — California Governor Jerry Brown declared a drought emergency on Friday, a move that will allow the parched state to seek federal aid as it grapples with what could turn out to be the driest year in recorded state history for many areas.

The dry year California experienced in 2013 has left fresh water reservoirs with a fraction of their normal reserves and slowed the normally full American River so dramatically that brush and dry riverbeds are burning through in areas normally tending with fish.

“We can’t make it rain, but we can be much better prepared for the terrible consequences that California’s drought now threatens, including dramatically less water for our farms and communities and increased fires in both urban and rural areas,” Brown, a Democrat, said in a statement. “I’ve declared this emergency and I’m calling all Californians to conserve water in every way possible,” he said, in a move that will allow him to call for conservation measures and provide flexibility in deciding state water priorities. — Reuters

Interpol helps probe Indonesian domestic helper abuse case in HK

HONG KONG, 18 Jan — Hong Kong police and Interpol are jointly probing an alleged assault case of an Indonesian domestic helper by her Hong Kong employer over eight months, a Hong Kong official said on Friday.

Commenting on the case of Erwiana Sulistyaningsih who is being treated with injuries reportedly induced by her host family since May last year, Labor and Welfare Secretary Matthew Cheung said the government is responsible for the safety of the more than 300,000 foreign domestic helpers working in Hong Kong.

“Hong Kong police’s crime unit is investigating the case and has sought the involvement of the Interpol so that officers can go to Indonesia to take (Erwiana’s) statement soon,” Cheung told reporters.

Police said they are contacting the Indonesian police to facilitate a cross-border investigation.

Erwiana, 23, was seen covered with wounds by her friend at Hong Kong International Airport last Friday before she was sent home to Indonesia by the employer.

Recovering at a Central Java hospital, she revealed to reporters that she was beaten almost every day — punched in the eyes, hit in the head with clothes hangers and poked in the mouth with vacuum cleaner pipe — since she arrived to stay with and work for a family on 25 May.

Deprived of food and sleep and mandatory holidays, she said she was locked up and cut off from the outside world, receiving no wages, according to the Chinese-language newspaper Apple Daily.

The torture reportedly escalated after she sought but failed to quit through the recruitment agency about a month later. The agency asked her to endure, while the employer threatened to kill her family members in Indonesia if she went to the police.

“We’ll certainly step up regulation, enforcement action and particularly inspection of employment agencies. We will impress all agencies in Hong Kong that they should protect the interests of (domestic) helpers,” Cheung said, adding that the government will seek justice for the victim.

The agency for Erwiana, Chan’s Asia Recruitment Centre, also allegedly collected from individual domestic helpers a fee amounting to HK$15,000 ($1,930).

The government-set monthly wage for domestic helpers, who are mainly from Indonesia, the Philippines and Thailand, is HK$4,010, on top of paid-for health care, food and accommodation.

Japan to ease permanent resident conditions for foreign professionals

Tokyo, 18 Jan — The government is considering relaxing requirements for highly skilled foreigners to obtain permanent residency status in Japan as it expects them to help enhance the nation’s international competitiveness, according to government sources.

The government plans to submit a bill to revise the immigration control law to the ordinary Diet session, which convenes on Friday, enabling corporate managers as well as highly skilled researchers and professionals to obtain permanent resident visas after three years of residency in Japan instead of the current five years, the sources said.

Under the current system, foreign nationals need more than 10 years of residency in Japan to get permanent residency, but foreigners with high skills need only five years for the status.

The government plans to shorten the required period from five years to three years for researchers studying advanced information technologies and cutting-edge medical technologies, people involved in the development of new materials and top managers of global companies, the sources said.

Around 2.03 million foreign nationals were staying in Japan as of the end of 2012, including about 620,000 permanent residents, according to the Justice Ministry.

Rahul Gandhi says willing to accept any role Congress party gives him

NEW DELHI, 18 Jan — India’s Nehru-Gandhi scion Rahul Gandhi said on Friday that he is willing to accept any role which the ruling Congress party gives him, just hours after his mother and party chief Sonia Gandhi reiterated he would not be the prime ministerial contender for the next general elections.

“Congress is not a party, it is a idea close to our hearts. It is an idea enshrined in India for 3,000 years. The Constitution of India says that the Prime Minister is elected by the Members of Parliament. We are a democratic party and we function in a democratic way. I am a soldier of the Congress. I am willing to do whatever you want me to do,” he said at a party conclave in the national capital.

The 43-year-old Congress vice president, however, will lead the party’s poll campaign, despite a growing clamor in the rank and file of the party that he be made the contender for the top post.

Speaking at a meeting of the All India Congress Committee earlier Friday, Sonia Gandhi said that “the decision not to make Rahul Gandhi as the party’s prime ministerial candidate was taken by the Congress Working Committee (the highest decision-making body) Thursday, and that is final.” India goes to general elections in May this year.

The country’s main opposition Bharatiya Janata Party has already named the controversial chief minister of the western state of Gujarat, Narendra Modi, as its prime ministerial candidate for the polls.

Haze continues to shroud central, east China

BEIJING, 18 Jan — Most cities in central and east China will remain hazy Saturday as no cold front is in sight to help disperse the fog, the national observatory forecast. The National Meteorological Centre (NMC) maintained the yellow alert for heavy fog as the provinces of Hebei, Shandong, Henan, Jiangsu, Anhui, Sichuan, as well as the cities of Beijing and Tianjin, will be enveloped, with visibility in some regions reduced to less than 500 metres.

Since the beginning of the winter, large parts of China have seen smoggy weather. The Ministry of Environmental Protection blamed unfavorable weather patterns, vehicle exhaust and coal burning for winter heating for the problems.

The weather condition will further test China’s already stressed transport system as some 3.62 billion passenger trips are expected during “Chunyun”, the 40-day travel period around the Chinese New Year, or Spring Festival, which falls on 31 January.

Thai protesters march on, defiant after grenade attack

Bangkok, 18 Jan — Anti-government protesters marched defiantly through Thailand’s capital on Saturday, with one group entering a police compound, undeterred by a grenade explosion the day before that wounded 35 demonstrators and killed one.

Friday’s blast sent tension rippling through Bangkok after several days of relative calm that had suggested the movement to close down the government and force the resignation of Prime Minister Yingluck Shinawatra was running out of steam.

It was not clear who was behind the attack on the protesters. Their firebrand leader, Suthep Thaugsuban, blamed the government and said the incident would not dent the morale of thousands who this week stepped up a two-month agitation, blockading key arteries of the city and occupying ministries.

The incident, which comes just two weeks before a general election, heightens the risk of a move by the country’s army to end an impasse that is starting to damage the economy.

Boonyakiat Karavekphan, a political scientist at Ramkamhaeng University in Bangkok, said the attack had raised the chances of a “significant clash between the protesters and groups they perceive to be their enemies, the police or forces loyal to the government, in order to provoke some sort of military reaction and speed up chances of a military intervention”.

Fancy clubs in parks closed in East China

HANGZHOU, 18 Jan—Authorities of Hangzhou, capital city of east China’s Zhejiang Province, ordered ten high-end clubs in West Lake park to close on Friday, with other fancy establishments in public parks, with the state of Hangzhou city government.

The move targets to close all high-end clubs in West Lake and other historical cultural grounds, so scenic spots are used primarily for locals and tourists, the statement said.

This approval towards private clubs has been on the increase. They are often unlawfully built with public resources, sometimes in historical buildings. The statement said, after closure, the buildings should be used to provide services for the general public rather than the privileged few.

The parks should not allow such clubs to operate within the grounds. High-end clubs outside parks should lower their prices so that ordinary people can afford the services, it said.

Strict measures should be taken against those occupying public resources, it added. Similar actions were taken in other Chinese cities including Beijing, Changsha and Nanjing, amid the latest Communist Party of China campaign to curb extravagance, corruption and power abuse among officials.—Xinhua

Guizhou’s retired doctors asked to serve in rural clinics

BEIJING, 18 Jan — Retired medical experts should lend their expertise to rural area clinics, a political adviser proposed at the ongoing session of the 11th Guizhou provincial committee of the Chinese People’s Political Consultative Committee.

Sun Fa, a professor with Guiyang Medical University and a member of the committee, proposed that retired doctors should work in smaller hospitals and rural clinics to help improve them.

According to his studies, about half of 600 retired doctors with senior professional titles from the province’s five top hospitals are healthy enough to work in rural clinics.

Guizhou currently has 41,137 medical staffers in township clinics. Forty percent of them only hold degrees from professional secondary schools while some are working without a medical degree. The majority of these doctors only have junior professional titles.

Other political advisers at the session supported the proposal. “In the medical field, senior doctors have more experience and most of them are still in good health, so it is a pity that these retired experts are not using their expertise to help more people,” said Wang Fuyu, chairman of the provincial CPPCC committee.

The number of retired medical workers with intermediate and senior professional titles exceeds 9,400 in the capital Guiyang. Ten percent, according to Sun, are simply resting at home.

A recent survey from the provincial health department showed that more than 200 retired doctors that used to work in provincial hospitals are willing to continue working.

To promote the project, “we should create a positive public opinion atmosphere to encourage more retired doctors and make them feel honored to work in the countryside,” said Hou Liqiang, deputy director of the provincial human resources and social security bureau.

Hou added that the government will offer competitive salaries to the retired doctors.—Xinhua

Moroccan king says Jerusalem key to Palestinian cause

MARRAKECH, (Moroc-co), 18 Jan — Moroccan King Mohamed VI stressed on Friday in Marrakech that Jerusalem is the core issue of the Palestinian cause, and no peace is conceivable without an agreement on the final status of East Jerusalem (Al-Quds) as the capital of the independent Palestinian State.

He also stressed that the crucial element for a stronger Palestinian position remains the achievement of sincere national Palestinian reconciliation based on the unity of Palestinian ranks under the legitimate National Authority.

This constructive reconciliation should put the best interests of the Palestinian people above all other considerations, contributing, in particular, to the creation of the independent Palestinian State on Palestinian liberated territory, with East Jerusalem as its capital, living in security, peace and concord with Israel, Mohamed VI said.

The Jerusalem meeting is chaired by Moroccan King and attended by Palestinian president Abbas and by foreign ministers of the committee’s member states along with the secretary general of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) and representatives of the five permanent members of the UN Security Council and officials from European Union, the United Nations, the Vatican and the Arab League.—Xinhua

Rebecca Hall lauded for Broadway debut in ‘Machinal’

NEW YORK, 18 Jan —
It was written in the late 1920s, hasn’t been staged on Broadway in more than 80 years and isn’t a sexy musical, but critics praised the revival of “Machinal” and its star Rebecca Hall, saying it is a “must-see” production.

The stylized drama by playwright Sophie Treadwell that opened on Thursday at the American Airlines Theater was inspired by the true story of Ruth Snyder, a New York woman who was executed in the electric chair for the murder of her husband in January 1928 at the age of 33. “Machinal” is a vivid, braiding portrait of a woman pushed to the edge, but it doesn’t involve any weepy psychologizing,” said the New York Post.

“What makes the show so fascinating is the contrast between its cerebral approach and Hall’s compassionate performance.” With its modernist prose style and dark theme it is not an easy play, but the Post said its director Lyndsey Turner and Hall, in her Broadway debut, “have made it a must see.” “Machinal” is one of those lost ahead-of-its-time plays that gets found by successive generations,” said the Independent newspaper of London, adding it has been greatly staged in New York.

The Hollywood Reporter described the production as a “bristling revival” with an enduring intensity and committed actors.

“But it’s Hall who rivets attention, holding nothing back in her tortured portrayal of this everywoman’s dehumanizing downward spiral as she’s failed by her own survival skills and by everyone around her,” it added.

Shah Rukh, Salman Khan hug again at award show

NEW DELHI, 18 Jan —
Warring Khans Shah Rukh and Salman have followed up their much-discussed hug at an iftaar party last year with a repeat performance at the Star Guild Awards held in Mumbai last night. As SRK went on-stage to receive his Entertainer of the Year prize, he and award host Salman shared a hug, watched by a thrilled audience.

SRK and Salman have conducted a very public feud for five years, ever since they had an argument at actress Katrina Kaif’s birthday party in the year 2008. Despite last year’s hug at Mumbai politician Baba Siddiqui’s iftaar party, no real thaw was apparent between the Khans with Salman declaring on TV show Koffee With Karan that he and SRK would never be friends again and likening his Khan Arjun co-star to a shark.

However, at the Star Guild Awards, Salman is believed to have taken the lead in making small talk with SRK, even congratulating him on the success of 2013 blockbuster Chennai Express. The hug, as it was.

Priyanka Chopra skips Golden Globes, enjoys after-party

MUMBAI, 18 Jan —
Bollywood actress Priyanka Chopra, who was in Los Angeles during the 71st Golden Globe Awards, says she didn’t attend the prestigious gala, but enjoyed herself thoroughly at the after-parties.

The 71st Golden Globe Awards were held in Beverly Hills on 12 January. “I didn’t attend the Golden Globes this year. I was working on my video! Though I did attend all the parties. Super fun,” Priyanka tweeted on 15 January.

The actress-singer launched her first single In my city internationally in 2012, and last year, she unveiled her second song Exotic, featuring rapper Pitbull. On the big screen, Priyanka will soon be seen in Arjun Kapoor, Ranveer Singh-starring Sunday, which releases on 14 February.

Los Angeles, 18 Jan —
Warner Bros. pushed back the release date of the still untitled film that will bring together superheroes Superman and Batman, delaying it by almost a year to May 2016, the studio said on Friday.

The sequel to last year’s hit Superman film “Man of Steel” was revealed at the Comic-Con convention last July by director Zack Snyder, who said the two DC Comics’ caped crusaders will face off against each other.

Warner Bros., a unit of Time Warner Inc, said in a statement that it needed to move back the date to allow “the filmmakers time to realize fully their vision, given the complex visual nature of the story.” The decision was made after the start of production was moved to the second quarter of this year, Warner Bros. said. The superhero-duo was originally slated for 17 July, 2015, and Warner Bros. said it would put a still untitled Peter Pan adventure into that slot.

“We are happy to take advantage of these coveted summer dates, which are perfect for two of our biggest tentpole releases,” said Dan Fellman, president of domestic distribution.

“Man of Steel,” starring British actor Henry Cavill as Superman/Clark Kent, premiered in June 2013 and grossed $668 million worldwide. In the North American market, it was the fourth-biggest film of 2013, with ticket sales of $291 million.

In the first encounter of the two superheroes on the big screen, Cavill returns to play Superman, while “Argo” actor and director Ben Affleck has been cast as Batman in a controversial choice that split fans.

Beverly Hills, (California), 18 Jan — In “Jack Ryan: Shadow Recruit,” Tom Clancy’s emblematic Cold War hero gets a screen reboot on Friday with a familiar villain. Russia. In this post-9/11 era, Soviet Union no longer exists and American spy agencies are tracking non-state militant groups instead. But director Kenneth Branagh said Ryan’s long-time nemesis is still relevant.

“It felt as though there had been a shift around, and the classic Cold War adversary, America-Russia, had done this flip,” said Branagh, who also plays the film’s principal villain, Russian oligarch Viktor Cherevich. “Now, the new financial power, the new empire is Russia,” he added, “and the wood-paneled club rooms of Wall Street feel like they’re connected to an old empire that’s somehow connected to the makers of the American economy in the late 19th century.”

The film backed by Paramount Pictures crafts a new origin story for CIA hero Ryan, portrayed by Chris Pine. It recasts the agent as a finance wizard and millennial who uncovers what appears to be a Russian plot to dump $2 trillion onto the open market in coordination with a terror attack on the United States.

The film’s Kremlin-blessed conspiracy is mastered by Cherevich, whose weakness is romance and drink, and is intended to create a run on banks in the US, plunging the country into a second Great Depression.”Shadow Recruit” begins on 11 Sept, 2001, in London, where a 19-year-old Ryan is completing his Ph.D. at the London School of Economics.Ryan immediately abandons his studies when he feels the call to enlist in the US military for the Afghan War.

Federer set for tougher tests after routine wins

Melbourne, 18 Jan — Four-time champion Roger Federer coasted into the last 16 of the Australian Open on Saturday before admitting that the hard work starts now.

The sixth-seeded Swiss crushed Russia’s Teimuraz Gabashvili 6-2 6-2 6-3 to make it through to the last 16 of a grand slam without dropping a set for the 27th time in his career.

Federer, 32, next plays the winner of the match between Jo-Wilfried Tsonga, who the Swiss beat over five tough sets in the Melbourne quarter-finals last year, or another Frenchman, Gilles Simon.

“Thursday is a tough draw,” he told reporters. “But the important thing now for me is just that I keep playing well and I don’t go crazy about who I play now.”

“It’s just now up to me to bring it in the next match.”

Only two of Federer’s record 17 grand slam titles have come in the past four years, in Australia in 2010 and at Wimbledon in 2012.

The Swiss has made a habit of demolishing his opponents in the early stages and said the move from 16 to 32 seeds may have helped his cause.

“I have had tough draws throughout my career, not every time, but in many tournaments. So I remember tough draws in early rounds,” he said.

“With the 32 seeds it’s a bit more predictable, a lot more predictable actually. “That’s one of the reasons I think I have always been able to go deep in slams, especially once I was able to be seeded. I took advantage of that.”

Federer was barely troubled by Gabashvili, the world number 79, and though he knows he needs to lift his game, is happy with his form.

“I’m happy that I’m winning my matches in straight sets,” he said.

“It’s been different conditions every match. The heat first and the indoor match, and now normal conditions today with a bit of wind.”

“So it’s just good to get through and get a good feel out there and make sure to win your matches easily if you have a chance. That’s what I was able to do today, so I’m pleased.” — Reuters

Barca ready for Levante test

Madrid, 18 Jan — FC Barcelona face a tough test of their title credentials when they travel to Levante’s Ciudad de Valencia Stadium on Sunday evening. Barca travel on the back of last weekend’s 0-0 draw away to joint leaders Atletico Madrid and their progress to the quarter-final of the Copa del Rey with a 6-0 aggregate win over Getafe.

The good news for Barca is that four of those goals against Getafe came courtesy of a fit-again Leo Messi. Messi returned from his calf injury 10 days ago and showed he is back to his best with both strikes Thursday’s decajalifentreated return leg, with his second goal an absolute work of art.

Reports say that Messi lost three kilos in weight as he worked to get himself back to full fitness in Argentina in December and the striker also looks to have overcome the fear of a relapse which had appeared to mark some of his displays earlier in the season.

It is not all good news for Barca given that while Messi was showing his return to fitness, the Brazilian suffered a twisted ankle in Getafe. Early fears were that he could have suffered serious ligament damage, but tests carried out in Barcelona on Thursday have ruled out that and Neymar should be back in action in just under a month.

His absence will not be noted too much by coach Tata Martino, given that Pedro Rodriguez and Alexis Sanchez have both been in fine form and have in fact been preferred to the Brazilian in recent matches and the question now is who will miss out to make way for Messi, given that Cesc Fabregas has also been in fine form.

Levante are known for their physical style of play and Martino may for that reason decide to use Alex Song in midfield and rest either Xavi Hernandez, who would be making his 701st appearance for the Catalans, or Andres Iniesta, who is still working to recover after leaving the pitch injured against Atletico.

Xavi meanwhile has been the subject of interest from the New York Red Bulls, but given that he said earlier in the year that his ambition was to end his career playing for Barca, there seems little danger that will distract him. — Xinhua

Sharapova advances but still searching for form

Melbourne, 18 Jan — Maria Sharapova continued her erratic Australian Open campaign with a scratchy 6-1 7-6 (8-6) win over Alize Cornet that put her into the last 16 on Saturday but also sent her straight to the practice court in search of some sorely needed form.

Still rebuilding from a long layoff due to her troublesome right shoulder, Sharapova ran hot then cold against the 25th seeded Frenchwoman, her serve going awry in the hard-fought second set and only a late rally in the tiebreak saving the Russian from another potential marathon.

In her previous round, Sharapova had battled through the longest match of her career, a three-hour, 28-minute slugfest against unseeded Italian Karin Knapp, played out on a 42 degrees Celsius (108 Fahrenheit) day.

Fatigue might have been a tempting excuse, but the Russian could hardly have used it, having felt fit enough to head back out on the court after a quick rest to iron out some worrying creases in her game.

“I just didn’t have a great rhythm,” Sharapova, seeded third, told reporters after bludgeoning 35 unforced errors and landing only half of her first serves.

“It’s sometimes nice just to be able to come off the court and groove, just to get a good hit on the ball. “I still feel like in certain situations I am a bit rusty and I’m not closing it out when I have to or maybe going for a little much or overthinking it a bit. “That will come, I’m not worried about that. Those are the — as long as I feel like I’m doing the right things and I’m playing the way I want to play, if I’m making those types of errors, they are going to go in eventually.” — Reuters
Brazil pledges 300,000 USD for UN actions in Syria

Manila, 18 Jan — The Philippine Department of Education (DepEd) has intensified its campaign to keep schools safe from toxic chemicals, a senior government official said on Friday.

Philippine DepEd Secretary Armin Luistro said that his office signed a memorandum of agreement with an environmental group BAN Toxics (BT) to help the agency in establishing awareness of toxic chemicals in the school environment and make schools safe for children through various awareness campaigns.

The information campaign will highlight the “Fearsome Five” toxic substances that might be present in schools, namely mercury, lead, cadmium, asbestos, and arsenic, he said, citing that these harmful substances are present in some items and materials normally used by children such as crayons, markers and school bags. They also hide in furniture and wall paints, lights, fixtures, cleaning materials and the like, possibly exposing children to harm on a daily basis, he added.

The information will be disseminated through teachers’ trainings, forums, lectures, exhibits, and student activities, Luistro said.

Rich deal keeps Kershaw with Dodgers for seven years

Los Angeles, 18 Jan — The Los Angeles Dodgers have locked up pitching ace Clayton Kershaw to a lengthy contract that is reportedly the richest ever for a pitcher.

Kershaw, the reigning National League Cy Young Award winner, has signed a seven-year contract, the Dodgers confirmed on Friday.

Though no financial details were disclosed by the club, the deal has been widely reported to be worth a record-breaking $215 million, making left-hander Kershaw the highest-paid pitcher ever.

His contract eclipses the $150 million, five-year deal signed by Detroit Tigers pitcher Justin Verlander in March “Clayton is not only the best pitcher in baseball,” Dodgers president Stan Kasten said.

“There has been a lot of attention about this being the biggest contract for a pitcher in baseball, which is what we regard Clayton as,” Kershaw, 25, said he was excited by the opportunity.

“The contract has tremendous responsibility, not only as a pitcher, but as a good steward of the resources given to me. To whom much is given, much is required. I’m humbled by this recognition and looking forward to a new season, and hopefully, a World Series championship for the city of Los Angeles.”

Three-time All-Star Kershaw, who had filed for salary arbitration on Tuesday, has won two Cy Young awards in the last three seasons with his latest coming in a campaign that saw him finish 16-9 with a Major League-best earned run average of 1.83.

According to multiple reports, Kershaw has been offered an opt-out after five years and the annual value of his contract, $30.714 million, is a record for a player at any position.

“There are great players and pitchers in the game. And then there are those who are truly special,” Dodgers general manager Ned Colletti said.

“Clayton is not only among the elite of this era, but the perspective he and (wife) Ellen bring to their lives in helping others is equally remarkable.”

Kershaw and his wife have established several charitable initiatives and make annual trips to Africa where their foundation has set up an orphanage for “at-risk” children in Zambia.—Reuters

Glaze items from 2012-quake hit areas in high demand in Bagan

Glaze pots from the 2012-earthquake hit areas in Shwebo are in demand at the Ananda Pagoda festival in Bagan.

“All glazed-pots we have brought here are sold out every year,” said Ko Lin Lin, 35, from Shwekhun Village in Shwebo, who are selling about 900 60-gallon glazed pots at the festival.

Different kinds of glazed items including 60-gallon 3000 glazed pots from the glaze villages of Nwenyein and Shwekhun near Shwebo in central Myanmar are on market at annual festival which starts early January and lasts nearly one month.

In rural areas, 60-gallon pots are used to store drinking water and toddy palm liquid for making plum jam and medium glazed pots are used to store edible oil.

According to the glaze traders from Shwebo, the economy of the glaze businessmen from the earthquake-hit areas are recovered two years after the earthquake. —*
