Both sides also discussed prevention of deforestation and illegal trade in natural resources, cooperation plan for the control of drugs, human trafficking and other violent cases, promotion of legal trade in border areas and mutual cooperation between the two borders.

During his tour, U Nyan Tun attended the 11th ASEAN-China Expo and the opening ceremony of ASEAN-China Economic and Investment Summit in Nanning of the People’s Republic of China (PRC), source said.

Central Bank of Myanmar to circulate new Five Thousand Kyats note on 1 October 2014

Central Bank of Myanmar
Nay Pyi Taw

Dated: 18-9-2014

Press Release

With a view to promoting a modern and sound financial system in consonance with the State’s objective to properly evolve the market-oriented economic system, the Central Bank of Myanmar has issued currency notes which carry a high quality security status of international standard. Without affecting the legal tender status of Five Thousand Kyats note issued on October 1, 2009, the Central Bank of Myanmar will with effect from October 1, 2014, put into circulation Five Thousand Kyats currency note with a new type of security thread, a new watermark image and a protective layer of varnish on both sides of the banknote in order to further enhance its security status, quality, to prolong circulation life span and to prevent forgery.

A “NEW COLOUR SHIFT WINDOW TYPE SECURITY THREAD” is inserted vertically on the obverse side of the note, in lieu of the normal window type security thread embedded upright in the previously issued Five Thousand Kyats note. The “NEW COLOUR SHIFT WINDOW TYPE SECURITY THREAD” is wider and colour shifting, which changes from gold to green colour upon viewing the banknote from different angle. On the right part of the obverse side, the note bears a new type of watermark image of the white elephant which appears when the banknote is against the light. The protective layer of varnish enhances banknote circulation life span by protecting it from degradation due to moisture, fluid and soiling agents. The size, design and colour of the Five Thousand Kyats note to be issued are all the same as those of the previously issued Five Thousand Kyats note with the exception of the new type of security thread, new watermark image and protective layer of varnish on both sides.

The existing Five Thousand Kyats note with is in circulation will continue to be legal tender currency.

SIM cards of MPT not enough for customers

Mandalay, 18 Sept—Myanma Posts and Telecommunications sells SIM cards worth K1,500 each without limit as of 1 September.

Up to now, the demand of SIM cards is still high in all regions of the nation.

Although seven townships of Mandalay District have over 10 shops for official sales of SIM cards, most of them have run out the sales. Thus, the people in a queue are waiting for buying the cards at a few shops.

“I knew most of the mobile phone shops had run over their sales of SIM cards. I miss the chance to buy the cards till today. But I am still in a queue with a great hope for buying one card,” said a local.

MPT has announced that it will sell 700,000 SIM cards for the first step to the whole nation as of 1 September. MPT requested the people to wait for buying the cards due to high demand and warned the mobile phone shops not to increase the price of cards.

People may make complaints over any malpractice of sales to Telephone Number 106—Min Htet Aung (Mandalay Sub-printing House).

Myanmar seeks international support to develop its media

Yangon, 18 Sept- The 3rd Conference on Media Development in Myanmar kicked off at the Chatrium Hotel here on Thursday, with an opening speech by Union Minister for Information U Ye Htut, sources said.

The two-day conference was organized by the Ministry of Information in partnership with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) and local and foreign news agencies.

UNESCO Director-General Irina Bokova recognized Myanmar’s attempt to transform the media, describing it as palpable and noting that the media reform reflects the government’s commitments to political and economic reforms.

Irina expressed her hope that the highlights of the conference would be on challenges facing the media world, the role of the media in shaping good governance and the rule of law, ethical journalism, and press accountability.

She pledged UNESCO’s help to Myanmar with its ongoing process of enacting media laws.

Roland Kobia, Ambassador of the European Union to Myanmar, said that challenges are not new in reforms and offered cooperation in the long-term development of the media in the country.

He suggested that freedom of expression should incorporate ethical journalism into the development of the media, stressing that press freedom does not amount to violation of the rights of other people and it has its own limitations.

The conference is scheduled to continue on 19 September at the same venue.— MNA

Xi visits Modi’s home state, extends birthday wishes

AHMEDABAD, India 18 Sept — Wearing traditional Indian vest presented by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Chinese President Xi Jinping visited Modi’s home state of Gujarat on Wednesday, and extended wishes to his 64th birthday. Both leaders called for advancing bilateral ties “step by step” and “inch by inch” in their second meeting in about two months. The two met in July in Brazil at a summit of the emerging-market bloc of BRICS.

“I am very delighted to come to your home state as soon as I land on the Indian soil,” Xi told Modi in a brief meeting shortly after he arrived in the western Indian city of Ahmedabad in Gujarat on Wednesday afternoon.

“This is where eminent Chinese monk Xuan Zang went by during his trip to India to seek Buddhist scriptures in the Tang Dynasty (618–907), and thus enjoys a special position in the long history of friendly exchanges between our two countries,” he said.

China and India are important neighbours to each other, Xi said, noting that both are ancient civilizations and large developing countries, and are committed to development and national rejuvenation. The two countries should respect each other, learn from each other, build good-neighbourly and friendly relations, and go forward hand in hand, the Chinese president said.

“My visit is a trip of friendship and cooperation. Thank you for specially coming here to accompany me in visiting your hometown,” Xi told Modi, who had served as chief minister of Gujarat for over a decade before becoming India’s prime minister in May.

It is Xi’s first trip to India since he took office in March 2013, and also the first state visit in eight years by a Chinese president to the country. Citing an ancient Chinese famous line “A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step,” Xi called for a down-to-earth and persistent manner to press ahead with the China-India relations.

“I would like to make concerted efforts with you to accomplish this mission,” Xi said.

For his part, Modi said the people in Gujarat felt the people in India and China are one mind with two bodies are widely circulated in India, as the two countries share the same aspiration for development and have every reason to strengthen cooperation.

Recalling their first meeting in Brazil, Modi said he and Xi had very good talks and he shared Xi’s feeling that the meeting was like between “old friends.”

The prime minister said his remarks that China and India are one mind with two bodies are widely circulated in India, as the two countries share the same aspiration for development and have every reason to strengthen cooperation.

To welcome President Xi’s visit to India, Modi said, he wrote an article for Indian newspapers, describing the potential of India-China ties as “INCH (India and China) towards MILES (Millennium of Exceptional Synergy).”

In the presence of the two leaders, China and India clinched the deals of setting up an industrial park in India focused on building power transmission equipment, and establishing sister province-state relations between China’s Guangdong and Gujarat and sister city relations between China’s Guangzhou and Ahmedabad.

Also Wednesday afternoon, Modi accompanied Xi’s visit to the former residence of Mahatma Gandhi, leader of India’s national independence movement.

Xi pointed out that the Chinese and Indian peoples sympathized with and supported each other and forged profound friendship in the fight against colonialism for national independence, stressing that “we must carry forward the friendship.”

As they walked along the Sabarmati River in the city, Modi briefed Xi on the Sabarmati riverfront development project, saying it is the largest slumtown renovation project in India.

Modi and Xi celebrated the prime minister’s 64th birthday together, which Xi said was very meaningful and unforgettable.

India is the last stop of Xi’s four-nation tour in Central and South Asia, which has already taken him to Tajikistan, Maldives and Sri Lanka. In Tajikistan, he also attended a summit of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization.

Cambodia supports US strategy against ISIS

PHNOM PENH, 18 Sept — Cambodian Prime Minister Hun Sen announced on Thursday that the country supported the US President Barack Obama’s strategy to defeat the Islamic State in Iraq and Syria (ISIS).

“For our stance on ISIS, previously, we have subsequently condemned the killings of American and British journalists, and we will continue condemning such brutal crimes,” he said during a national conference. “Cambodia has no possibility to send forces to directly fight with ISIS group in Iraq, but, mentally and politically, we support all activities that destroy terrorism groups — not only ISIS, but also al-Qaeda and other groups.”

The prime minister said Cambodia would do all its best to prevent terrorists from taking Cambodian territory as their shelter or terrorism financing place, and would share information that could be useful in the campaign to fight against terrorism.

“We do not tolerate any terrorism act,” he said.

“In fact, Cambodia is not the target of terrorism attack, but we should not forget that more than 4 million foreign tourists have come to Cambodia each year and many foreign companies are doing businesses in Cambodia.”

ISIS has recently claimed to have established an “Islamic Caliphate” in parts of Syria and Iraq.

Philippines lowers alert level for Israel, West Bank

MANILA, 18 Sept — The Philippine government on Thursday lowered the security alert level for Israel, Palestine and Gaza Strip after Tel Aviv and Hamas agreed to an indefinite ceasefire after months of fighting.

From alert level 2 or “restriction phase,” the Philippine Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) has lowered this to alert level 1 or “precautionary phase” for Israel and West Bank. Gaza Strip, which was placed under alert level 4 or “mandatory repatriation phase,” is now at alert level 2.

“The security situation in Israel and Palestine has greatly improved since the implementation of a ceasefire between Israel and Hamas,” Foreign Affairs spokesman Charles Jose told a Press briefing.

“These notwithstanding, the DFA maintains alert level 1 in Israel since it still faces external threat to security,” Jose said, adding all Filipinos are urged to take the necessary precautions.

Jose said alert level 2 is maintained in Gaza due to the humanitarian situation in the territory.

Lessons from World War I are now more important than ever

Belgrade, 18 Sept — World War I changed the geopolitical map of Europe and the world, caused massive destruction and human death, and Serbia suffered the most in the war, losing in it a sixth of its population, participants at an international conference in Belgrade said on Wednesday.

Attempts to falsify history and put the blame for the outbreak of the war on Serbia are unacceptable, said participants at the two-day event held to mark the centenary of the Great War.

Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Alexey Meshkov said that important lessons should be drawn from that war, the first global disaster of mankind. We are increasingly witnessing astonishing distortions of history, coming even from very high levels, which shows ignorance of historical events, Meshkov said, adding that World War I was cardinally different from the previous wars as it saw weapons of mass destruction being used for the first time.

Meshkov said that the pointless attempt to kick Russia out of the world game was a fatal mistake, but it was very instructive when it came to the European politics of today.

According to Meshkov, the crisis in Ukraine that has shaken the world has a negative impact on Russia’s relations with its partners.

But although it is obvious that there would be no return to the old models of cooperation, Russia is open to dialogue and cooperation, he said.

Meshkov also stressed the important role of Serbia as holder of the chairmanship of the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe in 2015.

He said that all attempts to isolate international partners to force them to give up on pursuing an independent policy and attempts to put Russia on the margins of European politics were dangerous plays.

Our proposals are on the table, we are open to dialogue, and we are interested in seeing our EU partners finding a way out of the maze of illusory political campaigns and returning to the rational approach, advised Meshkov.

Olivier Anit, advisor to the Serbian president, said that the annexation of Bosnia-Herzegovina by Austria-Hungary in 1908 had been the prelude to the war and that fears had been voiced by European states early in the twentieth century that Austria-Hungary’s aggressive policy could push Europe into war.

Serbian Orthodox Church Patriarch Irinej said that we should respect the historical facts as they were and not “as others prefer them to be.”

After messages from Russian Patriarch Kirill and Russian State Duma Speaker Sergey Naryshkin were read at the conference, Vladimir Yakunin, president of the Foundation of St Andrew the First-Called, warned about distortions of historical truth and pinning the blame on others and asked who had really benefited from the war.

Russia had the biggest losses in terms of people killed. It is an indubitable fact, said Yakunin. “The farther we move from the historical facts as they were and not ‘as others prefer them to be’.”

Scots start voting in independence referendum

Edinburgh, 18 Sept — People in Scotland began voting on Thursday in a referendum on whether the country should become independent or stay part of the United Kingdom.

After an intense final day of campaigning, voters turned up at polling stations in schools and halls as soon as polling stations opened at 0700 GMT on a day that will decide the fate of a 307-year-old union. The first to cast a ballot was Prime Minister David Cameron, as Waverley Court was a businessman who gave his name as Ron. “This is a historic day for Scotland,” he said after casting his ballot. “It’s a day that I’ve waited all my life for this. It’s time to break with England. ‘Yes’ to independence,” he said.

Obama vows US will not fight another ground war in Iraq

WASHINGTON, 18 Sept — Top US military officials welcomed China’s first-time attendance at a 113-nation naval forum on Wednesday but made clear that despite progress in US-Chinese military interaction, more work is needed to avoid incidents that could trigger a crisis.

Chinese navy chief Admiral Wu Shengli’s participation in the 21st International Seapower Symposium comes less than a month after Washington formally protested what it said was a “dangerous intercept” of a Navy surveillance plane by a Chinese fighter pilot in international air space off China’s coast. US officials said the Chinese fighter flew within a safe distance.

Admiral Jonathan Greenert, the top US Navy officer, said Wu’s attendance at the forum in Newport, Rhode Island, was “a great, great signal” following China’s decision to send ships this summer for the first time to the US-hosted Rim of the Pacific exercises, the largest such multinational naval event.

Greenert noted that China hosted a naval symposium in Qingdao in April where more than 20 countries agreed to guidelines on how their navies should react to avoid a crisis at sea, a code Greenert said was “starting to reap some fruit.” But Greenert and US Navy Secretary Ray Mabus also said more efforts were needed to keep interactions between US and Chinese militaries professional to ensure they avoid a miscalculation that could provoke an international incident.

“We want to engage with ... China. We want to engage with them operationally, we want to engage with them in terms of exercises,” Mabus told reporters. “They need to bear the responsibility of a power their size and they need to be a part of this coalition to keep the world’s sea lanes open, to ensure freedom of navigation, to make sure that there are no incidents that can escalate,” he added.

The US military was “very particular” about following accepted protocols so that “everybody knows exactly where our aircraft are, everybody knows exactly where our ships are,” Mabus said. “It’s very dangerous, very problematic when pilots from other countries do not follow those.”

Mabus said when they come in too close, they raise the stakes of an incident, of losing life, of losing planes and of stirring up a big international incident. That should not happen,” Greenert said and Wu had discussed many of the challenges they share, from bringing new ships online to recruiting the right people. But he also said “we disagree on some things,” such as some Chinese territorial claims.

Obama vows US will not fight another ground war in Iraq

WASHINGTON, Fla — US President Barack Obama, trying to reassure war-weary Americans, vowed on Wednesday the United States will not fight another ground war in Iraq but his spokesman said some military advisers could end up in front-line positions against Islamic State.

Obama, who has spent much of his presidency distancing himself from the Iraq War, stressed that airstrikes would be the central US contribution to the fight against Islamic State in Iraq and Syria, along with coordinating a coalition that he said now includes more than 40 countries.

“I want to be clear. The American forces that have been deployed to Iraq do not and will not have a combat mission,” Obama said in a speech at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa.

“We will train and equip our partners. We will advise them and we will assist them. We will lead a military advisers have been deployed to Iraq and Syria, along with coordinat- ing a coalition that he said now includes more than 40 countries.

Peace and security are fundamental to social progress and sustainable development

By Kyaw Thura

History bears witness to the fact that conflict, no matter how violent, can come to an end if the fires of extremism are extinguished and the root causes of dispute are tackled.

A glance at newspapers is enough to convince us that instability reign, especially in countries where political, social and economic crises persist. Civilians are the innocent victims of any outbreak of armed conflict, for it causes untold grief to families, communities and the country as a whole.

The time has come for all the people living in the country to get involved in dealing with budding crisis situations so as to improve our response to the prevention of horrendous human suffering in conflict areas.

In addition, it is necessary for all of us to unite as a human family and stand in solidarity with the civilians and traumatized families whose homes and futures have been shattered by catastrophic effects armed conflicts have had on them. How we react to impending doom calls for moral and political responsibility.

We should not waver in our determination to call on the entire people, governing bodies, ethnic groups and political parties to come together in renouncing conflict and promote harmony in the belief that peace and security are essential foundations for social progress and sustainable development. Only when conflict ends will reconciliation triumph so that peace can prevail.

All we need to do is respect the rights of people to peace. This commitment should be executed promptly and systematically, with compassion, integrity, impartiality and courage by all of us.

The Inhumane acts and deteriorating climatic conditions on earth

By Tommy Pauk

Nowadays, our planet is getting warmer and human minds seem burning and natural environment is deteriorating significantly. Burning of greed, delusion and anger are the main causes which ignore compassion, loving-kindness and human fundamental decency. Human conscience are hampered by greed, delusion and anger. Among the human relations, they prioritize egoism rather than philanthropy. So they become materialistic due to such cravings and mentality. Such behavior and practices can be obviously seen in doing businesses and politics in the world. They do not feel shame at doing sinful deed and do not fear of paying for sins. The respective religious teachings control mindfulness of peace and compassion in mankind. However, the acts of brutality, cruelty, atrocity and violence among human beings are prevalent everywhere on earth. Man tries to possess nuke power to fight each other. Very few peaceful countries can be seen on earth. Civil wars, riots, act of terrorism, conflicts and tensions occur in the world. It is a burning world with no peace.

At the same time, our mother earth is sickening of so-called global warming caused by human beings, the most superior living things on earth. It is no doubt that human beings destroy our earth as they excessively use natural and mineral resources and gas emissions. Deforestation and urbanization are also done for firewood, timber extract, human settlement and survival without considering the impact for ecosystem and animals. Thus, as we all know, the great amount of carbondioxide emissions from automobiles and industries does affect the ozone layer which protects our earth from ultraviolet rays from sunrays. Then it is depleting gradually and our planet gets more heat which causes melting to glaciers day after day on both North and South poles regions.

You can find the proof of that situation by viewing the documentary video named “An Inconvenient Truth” shot by US Vice President Mr. Al Gore. When I watched that video movie, I was greatly shocked to learn to destroy the deteriorating situation there and some climate changes. Thanks to Mr. Al Gore for his efforts to reveal the actual side effect of global warming on earth, the severe climate changes appear on earth. It is likely to be detrimental to human beings and animals on earth.

Who will save our earth known as home of all living things? Of course we are the ones who ought to maintain our human-reigned planet by any means. It is a global concern indeed! This is a vital issue to be discussed for right solution. We should not handle this issue flipantly.

The burning of human cravings are the causes and global warming is the consequential effect. We should love nature and protect our natural environment so that the so-called human-reigned world could last longer posteriorly. Naturally our mother earth equally gives us sustenance for our survival and livelihood. We should not be too greedy and selfish. It is a common sense that those who commit inhumane acts will surely meet Nemesis and their life will end in bad way. We should be deeply grateful to our mother earth for accepting us as human beings.

Executive Seminar on National Transport Development Master Plan held

NAY PYI TAW, 18 Sept — The Department of Transport, Ministry of Transport, and Japan International Cooperation Agency organized the Executive Seminar on National Transport Development Master Plan in the Republic of the Union of Myanmar at the Thingaha Hotel in Nay Pyi Taw on 16 September 2014 (Tuesday).

U Nyan Htun Aung, Union Minister for Transport, delivered an address, saying that together with the initiatives for democratization, multi-modal transport sector development has become one of the important and urgent agenda to assist Myanmar’s efforts in achieving its targets for sustainable development. Under the Survey Program, the National Transport Master Plan was formulated in cooperation with related departments and ministries. The Master Plan will give strategic policy guidelines, strategies and prioritized list of projects to develop transport sector in line with Myanmar’s National Development Policy and Framework (NDCP). In addition, it features socioeconomic, financial, environmental, national special development, and institutional frameworks. The Master Plan also suggests the development of transport networks linking Myanmar with other neighboring countries to further integrate Myanmar into regional development mainstream in Southeast Asia.

The seminar proceeded to Mandalay, presented his letter of Commission to U Wunna Maung Lwin, Union Minister for Foreign Affairs at the Ministry here on Thursday.—MNA

Lithan University College launches its US$2,000 worth Startup Boot Camp Myanmar Contest

By Khang Thanda Lwin

YANGON, 18 Sept — Lithan University College launches on Tuesday its Startup Boot Camp Myanmar Contest with the aim of developing more startup founders and young entrepreneurs in the IT industry, the organizer said at Tuesday press conference in Yangon.

People who want to take part in the contest may download application forms at http://goo.gl/LuZiEd or www.startupbootcampmm.com and send completed applications to info@start upbootcampmm.com not later than September 30. Almost 30 shortlisted candidates will be announced on 3rd October.

After giving the two-day training to those candidates, at least one winner will be chosen to participate in the Start-up! Reality Show in Singapore. The show is a popular TV programme arranged by Channel NewsAsia to help entrepreneurs start a successful business.

During the training on 11th and 12th October, experienced entrepreneurs from Singapore and Myanmar will share their entrepreneurial knowledge and skills to all participants.

Country Manager Pyae Thiri Thaw of Lithan University College, said selection is based only on the merits of their business ideas, adding that Lithuania arranged to present US$2,000 prize to each winner.

In order to provide business opportunity to local talented youths, Lithan University College discussed with local media to broadcast a TV show like Start-up! Reality Show of CNA.—NLM
SYDNEY, 18 Sept — Intelligence showed that militants connected with Islamic State were planning to behead a member of the public in Australia, Prime Minister Tony Abbott said on Thursday after hundreds of police raided homes in a sweeping counter-terrorism operation.

Abbott said there was a “serious risk from a terrorist attack” days after Australia raised its national terror threat level to “high” for the first time. The heightened alert cited the likelihood of attacks by Australians radicalized in Iraq or Syria.

Australia, which is due to host the Group of 20 Leaders’ Summit in Brisbane in mid-November, is concerned over the number of its citizens it believes are fighting overseas with Islamist militant groups.

Treasurer Joe Hockey insisted that the necessary precautions had been put in place for the G20 Leaders’ Summit. He dismissed concerns the raids could disrupt a meeting of G20 finance ministers this weekend in the tropical northern city of Cairns.

More than 800 police were involved in the dawn security operation in Sydney and Brisbane, described as the largest in Australian history. At least 15 people had been detained, police told a news conference.

Austalian Broadcasting Corp and other local media reported earlier on Thursday that members of the group planned to snatch a random person in Sydney, Australia’s largest city, and execute them on camera draped in the flag of the Islamic State militant organization.

Asked at a media conference in the Northern Territory about reports or plans to conduct a public beheading, Abbott said: “That’s the intelligence we received.”

“The exhortations, quite direct exhortations, were coming from an Australian who is apparently quite senior in ISIL to networks of support back in Australia to conduct demonstration killings here in this country,” Abbott said, referring to the group otherwise known as the Islamic State that has seized large swathes of territory in Syria and Iraq.

He did not identify the Australian.

A court official and police said a Sydney man identified as Omarjan Azari, 22, had appeared in court after the raids and been charged with conspiracy to commit a terrorist act and would remain in custody until a hearing in November.

Prosecutor Michael Allnutt told the court in Sydney that an attack was being planned that “was clearly designed to shock and horrify, perhaps terrify” the community, the Sydney Morning Herald reported. Azari’s lawyer, Steven Boland, did not apply for bail. Boland was not immediately available for comment.

Footage released by Islamic State militants fighting in Iraq and Syria in recent weeks purported to show the beheadings of American journalists James Foley and Steven Sotloff as well as aid worker David Haines.

In 2013, British soldier Lee Rigby was hacked to death by two Muslim converts in London who claimed the attack was in retaliation for the killing of Muslims by British forces.

Police said the raids were focused in western Sydney and the Queensland state capital, Brisbane. Around half of Australia’s population of roughly 500,000 Muslims lives in Sydney, with the majority in the western suburbs where the raids occurred.

Defence chief, US envoy agree to ease Okinawa’s base-linked burden

Tokyo, 18 Sept — Defence Minister Akinori Eto and US Ambassador to Japan Caroline Kennedy agreed on Thursday to work together toward a reduction in the burden on Okinawa Prefecture of hosting the bulk of US military bases and other facilities in Japan.

During a meeting at the Defence Ministry, Eto told Kennedy that the Japanese government intends to move forward the relocation of the US Marine Corps’ Futenma Air Station within the southernmost prefecture, but that “it’s important to gain support from the people of Okinawa.”

Kennedy said the United States is willing to do what it can to help.

The meeting, arranged as Kennedy’s courtesy call on the new minister after a Cabinet reshuffle earlier this month, was partially open to the press.

The meeting followed Chief Cabinet Secretary Yoshihide Suga’s visit to Okinawa the previous day where he said Japan will try to end Futenma operations by February 2019, revealing a specific deadline for the first time.

Okinawa Gov Hirokazu Nakaima had requested that the base be closed “within five years” as part of efforts to reduce Okinawa’s base-hosting burden. After Prime Minister Shinzo Abe told him in response that a relevant working group would be set up within the ministry, Nakaima approved in December the start of landfill work to build a replacement facility in waters off Nago for the Futenma base, which is located in densely populated Ginowan.

Also Thursday, Suga, who doubles as state minister in charge of alleviating Okinawa’s base-hosting burden, visited Naha, Yomaguchi Prefecture — the seaside city that hosts the Marines’ Iwakuni Air Station — to meet with local leaders.

During talks with Gov Tsgumasu Murakoka and Iwakuni Mayor Yoshishuku Fukuda, Suga said the central government intends to consider “necessary steps” for prefectures where defense facilities are located, a reference to the central government’s subsidy programme for municipalities affected by the broader realignment of US forces in Japan. The US military has already transferred 15 KC-130 air refueling tankers and military personnel to Iwakuni from the Futenma base to operate them there. A total of 59 carrier-based aircraft will be moved there from the US Navy’s Atsugi base in Kanagawa Prefecture near Tokyo around 2017.

Japan exports knocked by weak US shipments, hurt economic recovery

TOKYO, 18 Sept — Japan’s exports declined in August as shipments to the United States contracted, another sign the economy is struggling to rev up after a deep slump in April-June.

A further period of lackluster exports and weak domestic demand could force the government and the Bank of Japan to find new ways to prop up the economy.

Exports fell 1.3 percent in August from a year ago, less than the median estimate for a 2.6 percent annual decline. That followed a 3.9 percent annual gain in the previous month after having fallen in June and May.

The patchy performance has dashed hopes that external demand can offset a consumer spending slump caused by an April sales tax hike to 8 percent from 5 percent, heaping pressure on policymakers to do more to spur economic growth. “The US economy is recovering, so things should not be this bad,” said Hiroshi Miyazaki, senior economist at Mitsubishi UFJ Morgan Stanley Securities.

As growth stalls, G20 seeks closure on regulations

SYDNEY, 18 Sept — G20 host Australia is leading a push to draw a line under the global financial crisis, urging the group of top economies to swiftly finalise regulations aimed at preventing a repeat of the crash and focus on measures to revive sputtering global growth.

But the efforts of the Group of 20 finance ministers and central bankers, meeting this weekend in the tropical tourist town of Cairns, risk being drowned in geopolitical tensions and increased market volatility.

“They will do so against a backdrop of downgraded OECD growth forecasts and a deteriorating global political climate,” said London-based Lena Komileva, chief economist at G+V Economists.

Indeed, headlines from the G20 will vie with any fallout from Scotland’s independence vote on Thursday and ongoing US interest rate speculation that has driven the dollar to six-year highs against the yen.

At home, a sweeping counter-terrorism operation across several major Australian cities on Thursday has knocked everything else from the front page. Yet Treasurer Joe Hockey this week said he and his G20 colleagues are focussed on delivering jobs and growth more than ever before. “The changes in the economy over the last few months have made the job harder but it has not diminished our collective resolve,” he said.

He acknowledged the challenge of attaining the target of bettering the global growth trajectory by 2 percent by 2018, a goal set earlier this year at a similar meeting in Shanghai.

“How we weather the 2 percent or not – the G20 is committed to promoting further growth and to creating more jobs,” said Hocke ry, perhaps suggesting he had already conceded the target was too ambitious.

WASHINGTON, 18 Sept — The United States needs to improve its medical care for people nearing death, a move that might cut rising healthcare costs, an Institute of Medicine (IOM) study said on Wednesday.

The 507-page “Dying in America” study is aimed at opening a debate on how the US healthcare system treats Americans nearing death and urges comprehensive care to improve the quality of life in their final days. The study was spurred by allegations that under the 2010 Affordable Care Act doctors who would advise patients about end-of-life issues would be part of “death panels” that would decide who would live and who would die. The proposal never became law.

When political leaders hesitate to discuss end-of-life issues, “it is incumbent on others to ... promote a reasoned and respectful public discourse on the subject,” IOM President Dr Victor Dzau and former IOM President Dr Harvey Fineberg wrote. Doctors need training in how to talk to patients about planning for their deaths since more than a quarter of US adults have given little or no thought to how they would like to die, the report said.

That has occurred even though polls show that many Americans worry about the potential high costs of care near the end of life and do not want to be a burden on family members, the study said.

One benefit of improved end-of-life programs could be lower healthcare spending in the United States, which reached $2.8 trillion in 2012, the study said.

US needs better end-of-life care, which might cut costs

“Impressed, the team led by Sofiia Gudbjornsdottir from the University of Gothenburg in Sweden observed 18,000 suffers of type 1 diabetes of whom 2441 had an insulin pump, over a period of almost seven years, Austria Press Agency reported. It was found that the overall mortality rate (statistically from all causes of death) dropped by 29 percent when patients used the device. The incidences of fatal cardiovascular disease were also reduced by about 43 percent.

The pumps were originally designed for insulin-dependent diabetics whose blood glucose levels could not be adequately controlled with injections, and have more recent years incorporated sensors to continually measure blood glucose levels and better adjust the insulin dose to the needs of the patient.

Also revealed at the conference was a study from a team from Malmo University, who found that milk products are capable of protecting against type 2 diabetes.

In a study of 27,000 patients aged 45 to 74 years of age, it was observed that a diet of high-fat milk and dairy products reduced the risk of this form of diabetes. Observed over a period of 14 years, those eating eight or more daily servings had a 23 percent lower risk than those consuming little or no dairy products, though the authors of the study acknowledged the fat content itself is also not healthy.

High consumption of meat and sausage products however is definitely bad for those with the condition, the study claimed.

Insulin pumps capable of saving lives

VIENNA, 18 Sept — The use of insulin pumps to improve therapy for type 1 diabetes patients has provided very positive results including saving the lives of patients, it was revealed at the annual meeting for the European Association for the Study of Diabetes (EASD) in Vienna on Wednesday.

Kirby: Security sector reflects on society

Belgrade, 18 Sept — US Ambassador to Serbia Michael Kirby said on Wednesday that institutions in the security sector must be transparent in their work and protect all citizens regardless of their race, religion or any other affiliation, because the functioning of the entire society depends on them.

The right balance must be struck between confidentiality and transparency, even in the security sector, said Kirby opening the conference on “Partnership for Integrity in Security Sector in Serbia” in Belgrade’s Hotel Zira.

Serbian authorities have recognized the importance of the principle of transparency, Kirby said, adding that the US continues to support the development of a strong and responsible security sector in Serbia.

He pointed out that Serbian Prime Minister Aleksandar Vucic said that transparency will also be included in the anti-corruption strategy.

The key role will be played by the parliament, as well as strong civil society organizations, which can give major contribution to this cause, he said.

The fight against corruption in security sector institutions is constant even in the United States, and no system is perfect, said Kirby, recalling the incident in which a white police officer shot a black teenager in the US State of Missouri.

Security services are of crucial importance and they should create the conditions for the development of other democratic institutions, stressed Kirby.

Security structures are the basic building blocks of a democratic society, the US Ambassador said, but warned that many countries have large and expensive organizations, such as the army, police, or intelligence agencies, which they use as an instrument of repression instead of protection of human rights.

IMF warns of growing risks to global economy ahead of G-20 talks

WASHINGTON, 18 Sept — The International Monetary Fund warned on Wednesday of growing risks to the global economy such as geopolitical tensions and urged Japan and Europe to continue with monetary easing to get out of low inflation.

The IMF mentioned “geopolitical tensions” caused by the Ukrainian crisis and US moves toward termination of monetary easing as examples of such risks in a report released ahead of the Group of 20 finance chiefs’ meeting starting on Saturday in Australia.

“An uneven global recovery continues,” the Washington-based lender said in the Global Prospects and Policy Challenges report to be submitted to the G-20 meeting.

“Global growth in the first half of 2014 was weaker than expected” in the World Economic Outlook report released in April, the IMF said.

The IMF said in the April report it expected the overall global economy to grow 3.6 percent in 2014 but its chief Christine Lagarde suggested in a recent interview her organization will cut the estimate in the next report due out in October.

While urging many countries to push structural reforms, the IMF, in an apparent reference to countries such as Germany, called on countries running a trade surplus to boost domestic demand and ease austere measures.

Monetary policy in the euro area and Japan is expected to remain more accommodative for an extended period as they fight low inflation or try to persistently raise inflation, the report said.

If Japan hikes the consumption tax rate to 10 percent in October 2015 the government should help low-income households not by reducing rates on essential items but by granting targeted subsidies, it said.

No plans for power cuts, citizens must save energy

Lazarevac, 18 Sept — The Serbian government is doing all it can to stabilize the energy system, but there are no plans for power cuts, Energy Minister Aleksandar Antic said as the Kolubara Mine Basin started draining water from the Tanmava West Field coal mine on Wednesday. The companies that won the tender to drain the water from the mine, Novi Sad-based Energotehnika Juzna Backa and Romanija’s SC NESS PROJECT EUROPE, SRL, started the operation in the largest Kolubara coal mine early on Wednesday. The deadline is 90 days, with the operation to be funded by the World Bank with a EUR 15 million loan.

“There are no plans for power cuts but I urge the citizens to save energy because the situation in the energy system is quite difficult,” Antic noted. The Kolubara River flooded along the west bank in the May floods, practically transforming the Tanmava West Field mine into a large artificial lake and, as a result, coal production on the site for the Nikola Tesla power plants has been at a standstill ever since.

The contractors need to pump out 80 percent of the remaining floodwater.

The submerged mine is one of the biggest consequences suffered by Serbia’s energy system, Antic said, adding that the goal is to restart production in the mine as soon as possible.

The mine produced almost 15 million tons of coal a year, which is half of the entire output of the Kolubara Mine Basin, Antic said. Speaking to reporters, Antic confirmed that the last floods have not put the Djerdap 1 hydropower plant in danger, but said that the Djerdap 2 plant is working below capacity as some of the generators are out of service. For this reason, the Serbian government is preparing three scenarios — the first implies restarting coal production in the Tanmava West Field mine, while the second and third scenario would involve importing coal and electricity during the winter. — Tanjug

Lightning strikes oil tank, causing explosion in US state of Texas

HOUSTON, 18 Sept — A crude oil tank exploded on Wednesday afternoon after it was struck by lightning in Baytown, which is located at the mouth of the San Jacinto River on Galveston Bay, about 35.2 kilometres east of Houston, in the largest city in the US state of Texas.

The accident, which occurred shortly after 1 pm local time, caused no injuries, but thick black smoke could be seen in the sky from several kilometres away, local TV station Channel 2 Houston reported.

Baytown fire department officials are working at the scene and traffic in the surrounding area has been closed due to smoke, said the report, adding that there are currently no public protection orders for the population nearby. The property where the tank is located is operated by the Hollowin Oil Corporation, based in San Antonio, a city in the state of Texas.

Croatia to build new wind farm

ZAGREB, 18 Sept — A new wind farm, financed by international Financial Institution Corporation (IFC), will be built near the Croatian southern coast city of Dubrovnik. Croatian Ministry of Finance reported on Wednesday that the 34.2 megawatt farm located in coastal town of Slano, 32 km northwest of Dubrovnik, will boost Croatia’s supply of wind-generated power 11 percent and help to reduce greenhouse gas emissions by more than 24 tons of CO2-equivalent each year, according to IFC, a member of the World Bank Group.

IFC would arrange 42.5 million Euros (54.7 million US dollars) in financing for the farm, it said, adding IFC would provide 18.9 million Euros in loan and an additional 23.6 million Euros from UniCredit Bank Austria through a syndicated loan.

Thomas Lukeb, IFC Regional Manager for the Western Balkans, said the wind farm would make a significant contribution to Croatia’s renewable energy production and improve electricity supply in the area around Dubrovnik.

RP Global, an independent power producer based in Vienna, will build and operate the wind farm. This is the second wind project developed by RP Global in Croatia. In 2012, IFC also supported its 43.7-MW wind farm near Bise- nik, southern coastal city of Croatia, by providing 55 million Euros in financing.

WASHINGTON, 18 Sept — Oscar-winning actress Reese Witherspoon chose a subdued role in her latest film “The Good Lie,” a drama about Sudanese refugee children who end up in America, but there is nothing small in what she hopes to convey.

“There is a beautiful message throughout. We are all the same,” said Witherspoon, whose plays employment counselor Carrie Davis in the movie that made its Washington premiere on Wednesday.

“We all deal with conflict and seemingly bear the unbearable in our lives, but we have to do it together,” she said of the story of children who flee Sudan’s unrelenting ethnic violence. “We have to be there for each other.”

The film, by “Boardwalk Empire” writer Margaret Nagle and Canadian director Philippe Falardeau, stars Sudanese actors Arnold Oceng, Emmanuel Jal, Ger Duany and Kuoth Wiel — who each have a personal story about Sudan and its civil war.

Based on experiences of actual Sudanese refugees in the sprawling Kakuma camp in Kenya, the film begins with the journey of siblings who survive an attack on their village and walk hundreds of miles to a United Nations camp, gaining and losing companions along the way.

There they make it onto a humanitarian flight to the United States where the three men are resettled in a strange new land.

Witherspoon’s character is as lost as the refugees for different reasons.

“When I met with the director, he said ‘I want you to understand that this isn’t a movie about you. This is about the Sudanese,’” said Witherspoon, who doesn’t appear until more than 30 minutes into the film.

“We didn’t try to turn it into an American actor vehicle. I wanted my character to be just as lost but in a different way.”

Rather than “a character who is this great white hope who is saving African people, she is actually just as emotionally distraught,” said Witherspoon. “She is without her family.”

Jal, who plays Paul, was one of the actual Lost Boys recruited by the South Sudanese Army who later escaped to the refugee camp and sneaked into Britain in real life.

Now a hip-hop artist and spokesman for the Make Poverty History campaign, he called the film “almost the story of every person that went into” the refugee camp.

“The first time I witnessed war I thought the world was ending,” he said. “I didn’t know about death, and I ended up as a child soldier.”

Duany, who plays Jeremiah, came to the United States as refugee when he was 15. He recently returned to the refugee camp to visit his mother, who still lives there, and to search for his sister.—Reuters

Rapper Lecrae leads debut-filled top ten of Billboard 200 chart

LOS ANGELES, 18 Sept — Rapper Lecrae earned his first chart-topping album on the weekly US Billboard 200 album chart on Wednesday, leading seven new records in the top ten of the chart.

Texas native Lecrae’s seventh studio album “Anomaly” sold 88,000 copies in its first week according to sales figures compiled by Nielsen SoundScan.

Last week’s chart-topper, Maroon 5’s “V,” dropped to No 2 this week with sales of 80,000. Other new entries in the top ten this week included soul singer Jhene Aiko’s “Souled Out” at No 3, alt-rock singer-songwriter Ryan Adams at No 4 with his self-titled album and country musician Lee Brice at No 5 with “I Don’t Dance.”

Alt-rockers Interpol debuted at No 7 with “El Pintor,” country music singer Dustin Lynch came in at No 8 with “Where It’s At” and veteran British rocker Robert Plant rounded out the new entries with “Lullaby and ... The Ceaseless Roar.”—Reuters

Mexico lawmakers seek to fine Miley Cyrus for flag spank while twerking

MONTERREY, 18 Sept — A Mexican state legislature has asked the country’s federal government to fine singer Miley Cyrus after one of her dancers spanked Cyrus’s backside with a Mexican flag as she “twerked” during an independence day performance.

Cyrus, 21, who has grabbed headlines for her admitted drug use, sexually suggestive dancing and wearing as little as a pair of boots in a music video, was performing in Monterrey in the northern state of Nuevo Leon.

Local lawmaker Francisco Trevino said that the Nuevo Leon state legislature had approved a warrant for the Interior Ministry to enforce the law on use of the flag.

“She or her team could be fined up to the equivalent of around $1,200 or be detained for 36 hours, Trevino said.

Mexican authorities are often sensitive toward signs of disrespect for national symbols. In 2008, singer Paulina Rubio was fined for posing without clothes but wrapped in the country’s flag.— Reuters
Scientists locate ‘ghost’ ship wrecks in San Francisco waters

SAN FRANCISCO, 18 Sept — US government researchers working with divers and sonar have located the wrecks of what they dubbed “forgotten ghost ships” in waters just outside San Francisco’s Golden Gate strait.

The discoveries by National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) scientists follow a two-year project to find, identify and better understand some of the estimated 300 wrecks in the Gulf of the Farallones National Marine Sanctuary and adjacent Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

NOAA confirmed on Tuesday the discovery of the 1910 shipwreck SS Selja, as well as an unidentified sunken early steam tugboat that it described only as the “mystery wreck.”

It said researchers had also located the 1863 wreck of the clipper ship, Noonday, lost in 1863 and part of the fleet of fast-sailing vessels that brought men and supplies to California during and after the Gold Rush.

James Delgado, director of Maritime Heritage for the Office of National Marine Sanctuaries, described the waters in the area as one of the United States’ great undersea museums.

“These wrecks tell the powerful story of the people who helped build California and opened America to the Pacific for nearly two centuries. Finding the remains of these ships links the past to the present,” Delgado said in a statement.

Since then, the administration said, project co-leader and NOAA marine archaeologist Robert Schwemmer has done research in archives around the world, as well as interviewed fishermen and wreck divers such as the Lanham brothers of San Francisco.

The Lanham’s, who have discovered a number of historic Bay-area wrecks, led the NOAA team to the wreck site of the Selja.

The steamer sank in a fatal collision 104 years ago that featured in a legal case argued before the US Supreme Court over a key aspect of maritime law, the “rule of the road.”

In addition to the newly identified ships, NOAA said that Vital Pradith, one of its researchers, completed the first sonar survey of the submerged portions of the well-known wrecks of the tankers Frank H. Buck and Lyman Stewart.

The engines of both vessels are visible at low tide off San Francisco’s Lands End, inside the waters of Golden Gate National Recreation Area. — Reuters

Eyes on Lampard as City and Chelsea renew rivalry

LONDON, 18 Sept — Frank Lampard could make an emotional appearance against former club Chelsea this weekend as his new employers Manchester City host Jose Mourinho’s side in an early showdown between the Premier League’s heavyweights.

Lampard, who became a talismanic figure at Stamford Bridge before leaving in the close-season after 10 successful years, is in contention for a place in City’s midfield for Monday’s game (1500GMT) despite earlier reports that he had asked not to play.

Chelsea have a 100 per cent record so far this season, with four wins from four, and lead the table with 12 points, five ahead of fifth-placed City.

Both suffered disappointing nights in the Champions League on Wednesday, however, Chelsea drawing at home to Schalke 04 and City losing 1-0 at Bayern Munich.

In between them are three unfancied teams who will be aiming to maintain their surprisingly strong starts to the season.

Aston Villa, regular under-achievers in recent years, are second but face a major test with a visit by Arsenal on Saturday (1400) while Swansea City and Southampton, fourth and fifth respectively, meet at the Liberty Stadium, also on Saturday (1400).

Louis van Gaal’s Manchester United, who kick-started their campaign with a 4-0 win over QPR inspired by new signings Angel Di Maria, Ander Herrera and Daley Blind, travel to Leicester City on Sunday (1230).

Lampard, 36, might have presumed he would never have to face his former Chelsea team mates when he signed for New York City in the summer. But with the new franchise not entering MLS until next year, the midfielder was given the chance to make a quick return to English football with a loan deal to City.

The ex-England international made his competitive debut for the champions last weekend but he was withdrawn by Chelsea manager Manuel Pellegrini at half-time after an unimpressive display. — Reuters

Hat-trick for Brahimí as Porto stroll to victory

PORTO, 18 Sept — Algeria midfielder Yacine Brahimí scored a hat-trick to help Porto crush blunder-prone BATE Borisov 6-0 in the Champions League on Wednesday, their biggest-ever win in the competition.

The performance sent a warning to Group H rivals Athletic Bilbao and Shakhtar Donetsk, although the Belarus champions proved feeble opposition and contributed to their own downfall with a series of defensive errors.

Porto, Champions League winners ten years ago under Jose Mourinho, have quickly been revitalised by former Spain under-21 coach Julen Lopetegui, winning six and drawing one of their seven matches this season.

Lopetegui was brought in after a relatively poor last season when Porto finished third in the league and fell in the Champions League group stage. Brahimí, making his Champions League group debut, took full advantage of BATE’s generosity, starting with a gift from BATE goalkeeper Sergei Chernik in only the fifth minute. He miscued a throw straight to Brahimí, who ran into the penalty area and hit the ball high into the net from a narrow angle.

Brahimí, who represented France at all age levels from Under-16 to Under-21 before declaring for Algeria, added a fine solo goal after 32 minutes, running from the halfway line and veering inside before shooting in off the far post. As Porto’s momentum continued, Colombia forward Jackson Martinez volleyed against a post before scoring the third in the 37th. Martinez also headed against the bar early in the second half but the home crowd did not have to wait long for further goals. — Reuters
Iraqi men defeat Japanese 3-1, hosts beat Indians 10-0 in women’s action

Incheon, 18 Sept — Iraq downed Japan 3-1 in the Asian Games men’s soccer tournament on Wednesday while Thailand and South Korea whitewashed the Maldives and India respectively in the women’s action, both in an appalling score of 10-0.

The objective for the next match is to get three points.”

Maldives coach Ibrahim Haleem noted that their team had been struggling with a temperature drop in Incheon, and with the low profile of women’s soccer in the Maldives, given that there are only 60 senior women players and only four women’s soccer clubs in the country.

Yoo Younga scored four goals and Jeon Gaelu got three in South Korea’s 10-0 victory over India.

“I’m very glad that our players did well,” South Korea head coach Yoon Duk-yeo said. The Indian team was “a little bit less of a challenge for us,” he added. —Xinhua

Last-gasp Boateng goal hands Bayern win over City

MUNICH, 18 Sept — Bayern Munich defender Jerome Boateng returned to haunt his former club with a last-gasp goal that secured a 1-0 win over English title holders Manchester City in their opening Champions League Group E clash on Wednesday.

Boateng, who joined Bayern from City in 2011, broke the deadlock in Munich with a powerful shot after the Germans controlled the game, but could not find a way past visiting keeper Joe Hart, who made several superb saves, until the 90th minute.

“I think we had a lot of chances, we wasted many, but we believed until the end,” German international Boateng told reporters. “The ball came perfectly and I just drilled it in...

“We deserved to win, although City made a good game but it was us who had the chances and it is extremely important to start off with a win.”

City, who had come back from two goals down to beat Bayern 3-2 in Munich in the group stage last year, were mostly on the back foot but successfully kept the Germans at bay, with Hart doing his best to keep the scores level until the last minute.

Roma are top of the group on goal difference after crushing CSKA Moscow 5-1.

“It was important for the team to win,” said Bayern coach Pep Guardiola. “We played well and it was deserved and I am happy to have got the three points. Don’t forget we were playing against Manchester City.

“We played better. We had problems initially to control the game but then we improved. I am satisfied with our performance.”

Bayern, with winger Franck Ribery out injured and Arjen Robben on the bench, were slow out of the blocks as both teams cautiously tried to get a foothold in the game.

There were four changes for City from the team which drew 2-2 with Arsenal on Saturday with suspended Pablo Zabaleta replaced by Bacary Sagna and Yaya Toure, Samir Nasri and Edin Dzeko earning starting spots.

The hosts gradually got on top and almost took the lead when Thomas Muller sneaked into the box, but Hart parried his powerful header over the bar in the 20th minute.

Seconds later the England keeper pulled off another sensational save to palm Mario Gomez’s deflected effort past the post before City responded with a curling Edin Dzeko shot that sailed narrowly wide.

The English champions, with suspended coach Manuel Pellegrini in the stands and his assistant Ruben Cousillas alone on the bench, successfully closed down space to keep Bayern at bay outside the penalty area.

David Alaba tried his luck twice from long range but again Hart was on hand to rescue his team.

The Bavarians increased the pressure in the second half but had problems cracking open a tight City defence.

The introduction of Robben and forward Claudio Pizarro late in the game helped provide an added impetus and Bayern’s pressure finally told when Boateng fired home.

“We fought hard all night against a good team and we had chances all night,” keeper Hart said.

“We knew we going to be in for a tough game. The goal has come from a deflection in the end, and Jerome has come back to haunt us. I think a draw would have been good.”
