China freezes bank accounts of Myanmar companies

Commerce minister in negotiations to reopen accounts

Three banks in Yunnan Province, China froze the bank accounts of over 100 Myanmar companies engaged in border trade last week over possible links to illegal internet gambling and smuggling, prompting swift action from the Union Minister for Commerce to try and reopen the accounts, according to officials in China and Myanmar.

The frozen accounts were from three banks, the Agricultural Bank of China, China Construction Bank and the Industrial and Commercial Bank of China, all located in Shweili, Yunnan Province, on the border of Shan State. A delegation led by the Union Minister for Commerce met with the Consulate-General of China on Thursday to negotiate the reopening of the accounts. The Ministry also contacted the Chinese Embassy in Myanmar to talk about possible solutions when more bank accounts were frozen on Friday.

The Ministry also contacted the secretary of the political party in Shweili and an official from Shweili’s Foreign Affairs Department for an official explanation as to why the bank accounts were frozen and made negotiations to reopen the bank accounts as soon as possible.

A meeting was held on Saturday at the Myanmar Pulse, Beans and Sesame Seeds Merchants Association at Muse 105-mile trade camp to discuss the frozen bank accounts. The meeting was attended by Hlut-taw representatives, officials from NGOs, the chairman and 180 members of the association.

2nd Pyithu Hluttaw 5th regular session 17th day meeting

Kyaw Thu Htet (MNA)

WATER scarcity in Ngapudaw, a sluice gate in Dagon Myothit (South) and agriculture loans for farmers in reserved forest areas were among the issues discussed at yesterday’s Pyithu Hluttaw meeting.

A total of four questions were answered, one report read, one bill confirmed and a motion debated at the 2nd Pyithu Hluttaw 5th Regular Session 17th Day Meeting yesterday.

U Than Aung of Ngapudaw constituency asked whether there is any plan for constructing a water storage dam at the confluence of Mekkay Creek near Ngapayama village, Ngapudaw Township and if found feasible a design will be submitted. He added further that the Irrigation and Water Utilisation Management Department currently have no plans to construct a water storage dam in Ngapudaw Township.

In response to a question by U Aye Naing of Dagon Myothit (South) Township on any plan in existence to construct a new sluice gate near sluice gate 9 on Thanekyaung Creek near Thitsate camp in Dagon Myothit (South) Township that is not properly discharging water, Deputy Minister U Hla Kyaw said the sluice gate is no longer sturdy and Yangon Region government had not included funds to construct a new sluice gate nearby in the 2017-2018 fiscal year. The region government said it would include it in the next fiscal year and will construct it if funds are allocated, said the Deputy Minister.

U Myint Thein of Wetlet constituency asked about a plan to provide agricultural loans to farmers farming in forest reserved areas and protected forest outside of forest reserved areas. Deputy Minister U Hla Kyaw said the procedure to provide agriculture loans stipulates that loans can be provided only to those who are in possession of form-7 that shows the right to farm on a land, issued by the Settlement and Land Record Department. Forest reserved areas and protected forest outside of forest reserved areas are not recognised as farmland by the Settlement and Land Record Department and therefore, agriculture loans could not be provided, answered the Deputy Minister.

Replying to a question by U Maung Maung of Hlaingtaung constituency on returning 42.06 acre of farm land taken over by Great Wall Company to build a sugar plant to 28 farmers from Aung-thaya village, Deputy Minister U Hla Kyaw said the land was not confiscated by any government department and Great Wall Company bought the land from farmers at a mutually agreed-upon market rate of Ks135,000 to Ks150,000 an acre, and then applied for landNa 39 to construct the sugar plant.

At the request of locals, Great Wall Company donated 2 acre of the 42.06 acre in 2012 to construct a school. On the remaining 40.06 acres of land proposed to construct a sugar plant, the company constructed a 120 feet x 24 feet building for storage and staff quarters using only 0.06 acres, resulting in 39.99 acres that were not used yet, the Deputy Minister said.

Even though this is a case of farmland being permitted for use for other purposes prior to the enactment of the 2012 farmland law, as the land was not used as permitted, it will be determined in accordance to article 90, 91, 92 and 93 of the 2012 farmland law and the committee to assess cases of confiscated farmlands and other lands, the Deputy Minister said.

A motion by U Myo Zaw Oo of Lewe constituency urging the government to quickly implement a crop insurance programme for losses through natural disasters and pests was then debated by U Min Naung of Pinlebu constituency, U Saw Thalay Saw of Shwegyin Constituency and U Thein Tun of Kyaukgyunung constituency.

Continuation of the debate on the motion by Pyithu representatives, response by relevant union level department and decision by the Hluttaw will be made at the Hluttaw meeting of 21 June, it is learnt.

Also during yesterday’s meeting, the hluttaw conducted the reading of an annual report by the Pyithu Hluttaw banking and financial development committee, submitted for decision a bill on amending conservation of water resources and maintaining river law that was sent back with amendments by the Amyotha Hluttaw: The Amyotha Hluttaw and Pyithu Hluttaw disagree on eight points of the bill on amending conservation of water resources and maintaining river law; and it will be submitted to Pyithu Hluttaw for a decision.

The 2nd Pyithu Hluttaw 5th Regular Session 18th day meeting is scheduled on 21 June.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS towers, water overflow sections of the Mutha-Magykone-Taunggya-Lintalu-Chinegyi Road and the Myanmar Coastal and Inland Water Transport License Law were among the issues discussed at yesterday’s meeting of the Amyotha Hluttaw.

Union Minister for Transport and Communications U Thant Sin Maung and Deputy Minister for Construction U Kyaw Lin also answered questions from Hluttaw representatives on transport, communications and upgrading of roads at the 2nd Amyotha Hluttaw 5th regular session 16th day meeting yesterday morning in the Amyotha Hluttaw meeting hall.

U Win Maung of Magway Region constituency 6 asked if there were any plan by Myanmar Posts and Telecommunications (MPT) to establish GSM (MPT) towers in Ngahnletwin and Kinpuncho villages in Salin Township, U Thant Sin Maung, Union Minister for Transport and Communications, said MPT, Telenor Myanmar and Ooredoo Myanmar were installing mobile telecommunications bases and towers throughout the country, but it is dependent on the return on investment, availability of electricity and the ground situation.

At the present moment there is no plan to install communications towers in the two villages, he said.

Responding to a question by U Kyaw Thaung of Sagain Region constituency 1 on plans to repair the four damaged 120-feet long water overflow sections between mile posts 6/1 and 6/7 of Mutha-Magykone-Taunggya-Lintalu-Chinegyi Road, Deputy Minister for Construction U Kyaw Lin said reconstructing the four water overflow sections, a 55-feet long water overflow section and six farlungs of damaged road were included in the region’s special maintenance fund for FY 2017-2018, but were not included in the approved spending plan due to fund shortage.

However it will be included in the additional request fund for FY 2017-2018, the Deputy Minister said. Starting from FY 2018-2019, it will be included in the initial fund list and will be implemented depending upon availability of funding, added the Deputy Minister. The Ministry of Transport and Communications and Ministry of Construction responded to questions by U Tet Tun Aung of Rakhine State constituency 2, Daw Htu May of Rakhine State constituency 11 and U Thein Lwin of Kachin State constituency 10.

Traders wish for negotiations with Chinese for blocked bank accounts

By May Thet Hnin

TRADERS want the State to enter into negotiations with the Chinese government over 1,000 bank accounts of Myanmar merchants which are frozen by Chinese banks, merchants said. The Chinese government blocked the bank accounts which are used in transactions in the course of taking actions against illegal importers from Myanmar and Vietnam.

The bank accounts are reported to have deposits of around Ks400billion, prompting cries for action to the State. The Myanmar Rice Federation (MRF) will also request the State to reach a government-to-government (G-to-G) agreement for rice exports with an aim for the long term and to reopen the banned accounts of the merchants, except those that are linked with drug cases and whose accounts have an illegal flow of money, said Dr Soe Tun, the vice chairman of MRF.

Myanmar is exporting rice, maize, watermelon and other agro products to China mostly through Muse border trade gate. China levies a tax of about 180 per cent for rice imports, which prompts illegal trade in the border areas, he continued.

“China as a member of the World Trade Organisation should provide trade preference to developing countries. During the previous government period, China allowed Myanmar to export 100,000 tons of rice under a G-to-G agreement with trade preference. We expect they will grant it again”, he added.

Similar termination of bank accounts occurred in the past, but the most recent case has involved a large amount of money. The merchants engaged in the Muse border trade gate were united in signing a petition which has would be submitted to the State Counsellor’s office, it was learnt.

“Now, all the border trading has come to a stop at Muse. Therefore, we wish bank accounts that involve transactions of rice, beans, corns and sesames shall be opened. At present, we are now in the meeting room discussing the current issue. We are going to submit the petition to State level. We earnestly request the Myanmar government to look into this problem and make necessary coordination with the authorities concerned from China.” explained U Yin Sein, secretary of Muse Rice Merchants Association.

Sixty per cent of Myanmar rice production is exported to China, as is 99 per cent of corn production and 96 per cent of watermelon exports, it is learnt.

Currently, trading of Muse border has been suspended. Most of the importers to China are SME entrepreneurs. If China continues to block the bank accounts, those account owners will be faced with difficulties to resume their trade. If rice imports to China are suspended, the rice price will drop in the domestic market.

As a result, farmers will struggle to meet even the cultivation cost, which will affect the country’s economy, experts predicted. Some merchants practice a payment system in which they pay back money to the farmers only after they receive money, said Dr Soe Tun.

China is the main buyer of Myanmar’s rice, which is also shipped to ASEAN countries, Africa and Europe. Over 400,000 tons of rice have been exported so far this fiscal year, which is targeted to export up to 2 million tons a year.

Gold to be allowed for export/import

A discussion is ongoing to delist gold from the list of restricted items for export and import, according to Sunday’s report of the Myawady Daily newspaper.

The discussion includes categorisation of pure gold and jewellery products, and seeking a licence and approval, said U Kyaw Win, the general secretary of Myanmar Gold Entrepreneurs Association, told Myawady Daily.

The discussion had already been held six times, resulting in a third draft resolution. Currently, the aforementioned association has been preparing for the requirements.

The resolution will be made soon after a combined meeting of the Central Bank of Myanmar, the Ministry of Natural Resources and Environmental Conservation, the Ministry of Home Affairs, the Commerce Ministry and the associations engaged in the gold industry.—200

Rice export volume decreases in the first week of June

A total of 30,423 tons of rice and glutinous rice with an estimated worth of US$9.467million were exported to neighbouring countries between the 3rd and 9th June via the Muse, Chinshwehaw and Maungtaw border trade camps.

The export volume this week was 5,848 tons lesser than the previous week, according to news released by the Commerce Ministry.

In the similar period, 6,136 tons of broken rice were exported via Muse and Lweje border gates, earning over US$1million. The export volume of broken rice slightly increased against that of last week.

From the 4th to the 10th of June, nearly 4,500 tons of white rice and parboiled rice worth more than US$1million were exported to Viet Nam, Bangladesh, Benin, Sri Lanka, European Union countries, Singapore, South Africa, Russia and Hong Kong through sea routes. However, the volume slumped by over 34,000 tons compared to last week.

Meanwhile, a total of 7,803 tons of broken rice worth more than US$1million were shipped to South Africa, European Union countries, Singapore, Madagascar and Indonesia. Broken rice exports also saw decrease of over 1,222 tons against last week.—Mon

THE GLOBAL NEW LIGHT OF MYANMAR
Singapore PM apologises for harm caused by family feud over house

SINGAPORE — Singapore Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong apologised on Monday that a dispute with his siblings over their late father Lee Kuan Yew’s will has had an impact on citizens’ confidence in the government.

The feud between the children of Lee Kuan Yew, Singapore’s first prime minister, over the future of the family home erupted publicly last week in a flurry of accusations and denials through press releases and Facebook postings, which also touched on Lee Hsien Loong’s leadership.

The prime minister’s brother, Lee Hsien Yang, and sister, Lee Wei Ling, said they had lost confidence in their older brother as a leader and feared that state power would be used against them in their dispute with him.

Prime Minister Lee denied the allegations made by his siblings, and said he would make a statement on the charges and answer questions when parliament sits on 3 July.

“I deeply regret that this dispute has affected Singapore’s reputation and Singaporeans’ confidence in the government,” the prime minister said in a statement and a video message posted on his Facebook page.

“These allegations go beyond private and personal matters, and extend to the conduct of my office and the integrity of the government,” he said.

“They must be and will be dealt with openly and refuted.”

The prime minister assured Singaporeans that a dispute with his siblings “will not distract me and my cabinet colleagues from our responsibility to govern Singapore, and to deal with more important national issues, including the pressing economic and security challenges we face”.

Lee Hsien Yang, who said he and his wife would be leaving Singapore because they felt closely monitored and threatened, has no immediate comment.

Lee Wei Ling could not be immediately reached for comment.

In his last will, part of which was released by Lee Hsien Yang on Thursday, Lee Kuan Yew, who ruled Singapore for three decades, said he wanted his house, a humbly furnished home near the bustling Orchard shopping district, to be demolished.—Reuters

Lockheed signs pact with Tata to make F-16 planes in India

PARIS — Lockheed Martin signed an agreement with India’s Tata Advanced Systems on Monday to produce F-16 fighter planes in India, pressing ahead with a plan to shift its Fort Worth, Texas, plant to win billions of dollars worth of order from the Indian military. India’s air force needs hundreds of aircraft to replace its Soviet-era fleet, but Prime Minister Narendra Modi’s government has said foreign suppliers would have to make the planes in India with a local partner to help build a domestic industrial base and cut outright imports.

But Modi’s Make-in-India drive runs the risk of conflicting with US President Donald Trump’s America First campaign under which he has been pressing for companies to invest in the United States and create jobs instead of setting up factories abroad. In announcing their agreement at the Paris Airshow, Lockheed and Tata said moving the production base to India would still retain jobs in the United States.

“F-16 production in India supports thousands of Lockheed Martin and F-16 supplier jobs in the US, creates new manufacturing jobs in India, and positions Indian industry at the centre of the most extensive fighter aircraft supply ecosystem in the world,” a joint statement by the firms said.

Sweden’s Saab is the other contender to supply the Indian Air Force, offering to make its Gripen fighter in India. It has not yet announced a local partner for the plane which it has pitched as a modern alternative to the F-16s.

The announcement comes days before Modi travels to Washington for a first meeting with Trump, scheduled for 26 June. India and the United States have built a close defence relationship in recent years with Washington emerging as among the top three arms suppliers to India, along with Russia and Israel. India will also have the chance to export the F-16 that is flown by air forces around the world, the joint statement said. Some 3,200 of these planes are being flown by 26 countries and the model that is being offered to India will be Block 70, the most modern of all the F-16s.

This unprecedented F-16 production partnership between the world’s largest defence contractor and India’s premier industrial house provides India the opportunity to produce, operate and export F-16 Block 70 aircraft, the newest and most advanced version of the world’s most successful, combat-proven multi-role fighter,” the statement said.

IMF urges Japan to make most of growth by pushing structural reforms

TOKYO — Japan should capitalize on its current economic expansion by pushing for labour and other structural reforms, the International Monetary Fund said on Monday.

The IMF also said the country’s monetary policy should be accommodative, calling on the Bank of Japan to “carefully calibrate” its yield curve control policy aimed at guiding long-term interest rates around zero and enhance its communication with market participants.

“We feel the best policy is to make the most of the positive (economic) momentum at present and to push ahead with needed reforms,” IMF First Deputy Managing Director David Lipton told a press conference in Tokyo.

In its assessment of Japan released Monday, the IMF said the country needs a well-coordinated reform package combining continued fiscal and monetary support with structural reforms.

Japan’s economy has been on its longest run of expansion since 2006 thanks to robust overseas demand, particularly in other parts of Asia.

The IMF pointed out that Japan’s labour shortages have yet to feed through to wages and inflation remains subdued, citing as policy challenges “demographic headwinds and an unprecedented level of public debt.” The government of Prime Minister Shinzo Abe is seeking to promote labour reforms, including imposing a binding cap on overtime hours and eliminating discrimination between regular and nonregular workers.—Kyodo News
Xi says BRICS cooperation will usher in new “golden decade”

BELIING — Chinese President Xi Jinping said on Monday that the BRICS cooperation will be more productive and usher in a new “golden decade.”

Xi made the remarks when meeting with the heads of delegations from Brazil, Russia, India and South Africa who are in Beijing to attend the BRICS foreign ministers’ meeting. The BRICS cooperation mechanism has been in existence for ten years and BRICS members have focused on development, which not only benefits the people in the five countries but also offers a recipe for the world to address food and security problems, Xi said. “BRICS countries are a community of shared interests and future,” Xi said, urging the countries to give full play to the win-win spirit and jointly contribute to the development of the organization.—Xinhua

Southeast Asia officers board Japanese ship for South China Sea tour

TOKYO — Southeast Asian military officers have embarked on a four-day tour of the South China Sea on the Japanese navy’s Izumo helicopter carrier in the latest sign Japan is stepping up efforts to counter growing Chinese influence.

The officers from the 10-member Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN) joined the Japanese ship in Singapore on Monday, the Japanese Ministry of Defence said in an outline of the plan.

Other ASEAN military representatives will attend a separate three-day event from Tuesday in Japan, to observe Self Defence Forces (SDF) military disaster relief drills, the ministry said.

“It is the first time we have done this,” a ministry official said at a press briefing in Tokyo.

The events show a hitherto unseen degree of coordination between Japan's military services and civilian defence officials to bolster foreign ties.

It also marks a concerted push into military diplomacy by Japan's hawkish prime minister, Shinzo Abe.

Japan is worried that China is cementing its control in the South China Sea with the construction of island bases, arms sales and development aid. Some $5 trillion of ship-borne trade passes through the strategic waterway each year, much of it sailing to and from Japanese ports.

As Japan looks for a greater regional security role as part of its alliance with the United States, Abe’s administration believes Japan is better placed than the United States to woo Southeast Asian nations away from Chinese influence.

Japan can help bolster countries’ capabilities in disaster relief and is able to emphasise its status as a fellow Asian nation, two Japanese government officials told Reuters, asking not to be identified because they are not authorised to talk to the media.

A 2014 military coup in Thailand means that the US government has limited engagement, while US relations with the Philippines have been strained since President Rodrigo Duterte took office last year, seeking to reduce what he sees as dependence on the United States.

Another plank of Japan’s emerging military diplomacy is military-industrial cooperation. Abe in 2014 ended a decades-old weapons export ban, allowing Japan to offer arms technology as a lure for closer military ties.

Japan last week held a military technology seminar with representatives of Thailand, Vietnam, the Philippines, Indonesia, Malaysia and Singapore. —Reuters

1st antiterror drill held at nuclear plant for drone attack

MATSUYAMA (Japan) — Japan's first antiterrorism drill involving a drone attack on a nuclear plant took place on Monday in western Japan prefecture.

Some 60 people from police and local coast guard participated in the exercise at the Ikata nuclear plant in Ehime playing out a scenario that a drone flew from a boat and placed a makeshift explosive on the premises of the No 3 reactor.

Officials of Shikoku Electric Power Co, the operator of the nuclear plant, and bomb disposal unit members of the Ehime prefectural police department also took part.

“We took into account the serious situation regarding terrorism in conducting this drill and I think it is important to prepare for the unpredictable,” said Hideto Murase, a local security chief of the prefectural police.

The power company resumed operation of the No 3 unit in August last year after clearing stricter safety requirements introduced following the March 2011 Fukushima nuclear disaster. The No 3 reactor runs on plutonium-uranium mixed oxide fuel, which contains plutonium extracted from reprocessing spent fuel. Shikoku Electric plans to finish building by March 2020 a facility capable of withstanding major terror attacks, such as those involving the crashing of aircraft, and preventing the release of radioactive materials. — Kyodo News

Prevention is better than cure

By Dr. Khine Khine Win

Freedom of expression can take many forms, encompassing verbal, non-verbal (wearing a shirt) artistic and physical expression. It is the cornerstone of any democratic society and crucial in democracy. The right to freedom of opinion and expression should be understood to be an essential instrument for the promotion and protection of other human rights.

Universal Declaration of Human Rights, UDHR declared that all human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights. Being human being you have rights. You have right to freedom of expression. And also you have right to respect of others dignity and rights. The right to freedom of expression or freedom of speech as one of the basic human rights enshrined in many international human rights documents. For instance, Article 19 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights express that “Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression; this includes freedom to hold opinions without interference and to seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers.

Government may restrict this right if they can show that their action is lawful, necessary and proportionate in order to protect national security, territorial integrity or public safety, prevent disorder or crime, protect the rights and reputations of other people etc. An authority may be allowed to restrict your freedom of expression if, for example, your freedom of express encourage racial or religious hatred. In most States, it is accepted that there can be limitations on the freedom of expression. The main responsibility for upholding human rights in a country lies with the State. It must take legislative and executives action to carry out what it has promised to do and to ensure that his citizens understand and follow human rights rules.

Being citizens of Myanmar, we all have to know the article 354 of the constitution of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar (2008). The constitution of the Republic of Myanmar provides the right of freedom of expression given in article 354. It states that every citizen shall be at liberty in the exercise of the following rights, if not contrary to the laws, enacted for Union security, prevalence of law and order, community peace and tranquillity or public order and morality: a) to express and publish freely their convictions and opinions, b) to assemble peacefully without arms and holding procession and etc. You have freedom of expression and you also have a duty to behave responsibly and to respect other people’s rights. Bear in mind that some people want the right to speak freely but some want to deny others opinions if they disagree with their views. There will always be occasions when rights and freedoms conflict. Freedom of expression is one of the more obvious examples of this. For example, there is the clash between the freedom of expression and the right to privacy. You know that you have right to privacy and here your responsibility is you must respect privacy of others. All human being possesses innate dignity that goes beyond their personal histories of success and failure and their ethical or unethical actions. Being you are in human rights world, you have responsible to respect of others dignity and rights. In this regard, when you have to judge someone, try to be fair. You have freedom of expression of course, but don’t forget to judge fair to others and respect of others inherent dignity.

Now a day the biggest challenge to the freedom of expression is the world-wide web and increasingly global internet usage. The right to hold an opinion and the right of free thought is almost impossible to control. Mass media is the best instrument for the society to exercise its right to freedom of expression. However, the same society can enjoy freedom of speech and expression at the same time it can infringe this right. So, another issue arises: where are the limits of freedom of speech?

Both freedom of speech and privacy are fundamental rights, which are equally recognized in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. However, sometimes these two rights must be in conflict with each other; and sometimes that is the case. Thus, freedom of expression is a very “sensitive” right, which shall respect certain restrictions, which as well shall be protected from the government intention and other influential persons to hide criticism addressed to them. Sometimes, unrestricted freedoms lead to more accidents, for instance when they present threat or danger for the national security or for public order and public safety.

To conclude, you have right to freedom of expression but before using this right you have to make sure that your expression is not to violate another person’s rights and break the privacy of others.

Thais top list of foreigners who make pilgrimage to Shwedagon Pagoda

By Zaw Min Latt

Of the 615,946 foreign pilgrims to the Shwedagon Pagoda in 2016, Thai nationals were the most numerous, according to the office of the board of trusteeship of the Shwedagon Pagoda.

In 2017, 78,654 overseas pilgrims visited the pagoda in January, 77,962 in February, 64,085 in March, 40,789 in April and 36,674 in May.

An admission fee of Ks 1000 is collected from each foreign visitor.

With the aim of allowing visitors to comfortably pay pilgrimage to the pagoda, terrazzo plates are being replaced on the platform around the pagoda, with shade trees planted for greening the Singuttara hillock.

For added security at the pagoda, it has been learnt that taking candid photos and film shooting by drones are strictly prohibited in the vicinity of Shwedagon Pagoda.

The Shwedagon Pagoda, which enshrines four sacred relics of Lord Buddha, was built by King Okkalapa on the Singuttara hillock some 2,600 years ago.

The staff of Kakusandha, the water filter of Konagamana, a piece of the robe of Kassapa and strands of hair from the head of Gautama Buddha were enshrined in the pagoda on the full moon day of Tabang month 103 ME, by King Okkalapa, Taphussa & Bhalika two brothers and the people in a holy ceremony.

Later, consecutive kings of Okkalapa dynasty renovated the pagoda, which resulted in its present height of 326 feet, most of it gilded with gold leaf.

Religious ceremonies are held at the pagoda in their respective month, like Abhidhamma Holy Day and Lighting Festival in Thadingyut, the Tazaungdine Festival and the robe weaving festival in Tazaungmone, recitation by monks and the awarding ceremony for outstanding monks, Ovadapatimauk Holy Day and the competition for cooking the best delicious glutinous rice.

LONDON — A van ploughed into worshippers near a London mosque on Monday, injuring 10 people in what Prime Minister Theresa May said was a sickening, terrorist attack on Muslims.

Shortly after midnight, the vehicle swerved into a group of people leaving prayers at the Muslim Welfare House and the nearby Finsbury Park Mosque in north London, one of the biggest in the country.

The driver, a 48-year-old white man, was grabbed at the scene by locals and pinned down until police arrived.

“This morning, our country woke to news of another terrorist attack on the streets of our capital city; the second this month and every bit as sickening as those which have come before,” May told reporters outside her Downing Street office.

“This was an attack on Muslims near their place of worship,” said May who later visited the mosque.

The attack is the fourth since March in Britain and the third to involve a vehicle deliberately driven at pedestrians. It also comes at a tumultuous time for the government with Britain starting complex divorce talks with the European Union and May negotiating with a small Northern Irish party to stay in power after losing her parliamentary majority following a snap election.

The mosques’ worshippers, who come mainly from North and West Africa, had just left special prayers during the Muslim holy month of Ramadan. Abdurahman Aidroos said he and his friends had been tending an old man who had suffered a heart attack when the van was driven at them.

“He was saying ‘I wanna kill more people, I wanna kill more Muslims’,” Aidroos told BBC TV. He said he had helped tackle and detain the driver while other witnesses said the imam had stepped in to ensure the man was not harmed.

“Their restraint in the circumstances was commendable,” said Neel Basu, senior national co-ordinator for counter-terrorism policing. The man was arrested on suspicion of attempted murder and police said they believed he had acted alone.

“I would like to ... thank our imam, Mohammed Mahmoud, whose bravery and courage helped calm the immediate situation after the incident and prevented further injuries and potential loss of life,” said Toufik Kacimi, the chief executive of the Muslim Welfare House.

Police said 10 people were injured, with eight taken to hospital, two in a very serious condition.

The man who was being given first aid at the scene before the attack had died but it was not clear whether his death was directly linked.

Usain Ali, 28, said he heard a bang and ran for his life.

“When I looked back, I thought it was a car accident, but people were shouting, screaming and I realised this was a man choosing to terrorise people who are praying,” he told Reuters. “He chose exactly the time that people pray, and the mosque is too small and full, so some pray outside.”

Just over two weeks ago three Islamist militants drove into pedestrians on London Bridge and stabbed people at nearby restaurants and bars, killing eight.

The latest incident also follows a suicide bombing at a pop concert in Manchester, northern England, in May which killed 22, while in March, a man drove a rented car into pedestrians on Westminster Bridge in London and stabbed a policeman to death before being shot dead.

His attack killed five people.

May, weakened after losing her parliamentary majority in a June 8 election she had called to strengthen her hand in Brexit talks, has faced criticism for her record on security after the previous series of attacks blamed on Islamist militants.

She has also been criticised for her response to a fire in a London tower block last Wednesday which killed at least 79 people.

“One man was pronounced dead at the scene by locals and pinned down until police arrived. "One man was pronounced dead at the scene,” the Metropolitan police said in a statement.

Police said eight people had been taken to three separate hospitals and two people were treated at the scene for minor injuries.— Reuters

Merkel wants good Brexit deal that works for both sides

BERLIN — German Chancellor Angela Merkel said she wanted a “good agreement” for both Britain and the European Union in the Brexit negotiations that started on Monday.

“For me, it is above all about the EU27 proceeding together and listening carefully to Britain’s wishes and expectations,” Merkel told a news conference after meeting Romanian President Klaus Iohannis.

“And it is also about representing our own interests and progressing towards a good agreement. But it is too early to speculate about the details. I want us to reach a good agreement and this should be in the interests of both sides,” she added.— Reuters

Presumed death toll in London tower blaze rises to 79

LONDON — London police said 79 people were dead or missing presumed dead after a devastating tower block blaze last week.

London Police Commander Stuart Cundy said the toll from the Grenfell Tower blaze could still change but probably not as much as it had in recent days.

He also said that five people who were reported missing had now been found safe and well.— Reuters
US-backed SDF will retaliate if Syrian govt attacks again — spokesman

BEIRUT — US-backed Syrian militias accused the Syrian government on Monday of bombing their positions southwest of Raqqa city in recent days and threatened to retaliate if the attacks continue.

“The regime’s forces have mounted large-scale attacks using planes, artillery, and tanks since 17 June,” Syrian Democratic Forces spokesman Talal Selo said in a statement.

Selo said the attacks targeted SDF areas near the town of Tabqa and the adjacent dam, Syria’s largest, which the alliance of Kurdish and Arab militias captured from Islamic State militants in May.

There was no immediate comment from the Syrian army. The Kurdish-led SDF began this month to push into Raqqa, Islamic State’s base of operations in Syria. With air strikes and special forces from the US-led coalition, they had been encircling the city since November.

“If the regime continues attacking our positions in Raqqa province, we will be forced to retaliate... and defend our forces,” Selo said, accusing the government and its allies of trying to obstruct the Raqqa offensive. The Syrian government has previously said it considers Deir al-Zor and the Badia region, south of Raqqa, as its military priorities, signalling that it did not intend to challenge the SDF’s Raqqa campaign.

On Sunday, a US warplane shot down a Syrian army jet southwest of Raqqa, with Washington saying the army had dropped bombs near the SDF. Damascus said the plane was downed while flying a mission against Islamic State.

The Syrian army said the plane crashed and the pilot was missing in the first such downing of a Syrian jet by the United States since the start of the Syrian conflict in 2011.

The US Central Command said the Syrian plane was downed in self-defence after “pro-Syrian regime forces” attacked an SDF-held town near Tabqa. Islamic State has been on the back foot in Syria over the past year, losing territory to separate military campaigns, including by the SDF and by the Russian-backed Syrian army.—Reuters

Somali soldier sentenced to death for mistakenly killing minister

NAIROBI — A Somali soldier was sentenced to death on Monday for killing a government minister after mistaking him for an Islamist militant, an army officer said.

Public works minister Abbas Abdalahi Sheikh Siraji was shot dead in his car in the capital Mogadishu in early May.

Soldier Ahmed Abdalahi Ahmed, was condemned to death by a military court “for mistakenly shooting the minister,” army officer Hassan Ali Noor told Reuters. A second soldier at the scene at the time was released without charge on Monday.

Siraji, 31, grew up in a Kenyan refugee camp and was the country’s youngest minister. Militants from the al-Qaeda-affiliated group al Shabaab have carried out frequent attacks in Mogadishu as they fight to oust Somalia’s Western-backed government and drive out the al Qaeda-affiliated group al Shabaab which the alliance of Kurdish and Arab militias captured from Islamic State.

Israel begins reducing Gaza power supply after Abbas cuts payment

GAZA — Israel began reducing its electricity feed to the Gaza Strip on Monday, deepening an energy crisis, after the Palestinian Authority limited how much it pays for power to the enclave run by the rival Hamas group.

The cutback, announced last week by the Israeli government, is expected to shorten by at least 45 minutes the daily average of four hours of power that Gaza’s 2 million residents receive from an electricity grid dependent on Israeli supplies, Palestinian officials said.

The Palestinian Energy Authority said the Israel Electric Corporation (IEC) had cut by eight megawatts the 120 megawatts it supplies to the Gaza Strip over power lines.

An IEC spokesperson confirmed a cutback had begun, in line with the West Bank-based Palestinian government’s decision to cover only 70 per cent of the monthly cost of Israeli electricity supplies to the Gaza Strip.

Last week, Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu’s security cabinet gave the state-owned IEC the green light to implement the reduction, saying that Israel would not cover the shortfall in PA payments.

The Palestinian Authority said it had acted because Hamas had failed to reimburse it for the electricity. But the PA’s move was widely seen as a bid to pressure Hamas to relinquish its hold on the enclave the Islamist group seized in 2007.—Reuters

Portugal’s deadliest fire still rages after 62 people killed

PEDROGAO GRANDE, Portugal — More than 1,000 firefighters were still battling Portugal’s deadliest forest blaze on Monday after it killed at least 62 people over the weekend.

Prime Minister Antonio Costa, who on Sunday visited Pedro Grande, a mountainous area about 200 kilometres (125 miles) northeast of Lisbon, called it the biggest human tragedy in Portugal in living memory.

Welcome light rain that started on Monday morning brought only modest relief to the shocked population and exhausted firefighters.

Water planes, including French and Spanish ones, resumed their missions after stopping overnight. “There is still a lot of forest that can burn and the rain does not make much difference,” said Rui Barreto, deputy chief firefighter at the make-shift emergency services headquarters in Pedrogao Grande as thunder rolled through the skies over the ash-covered town.

Firefighters said the weather conditions were still adverse in many areas where the flames were raging. Two army battalions were helping the emergency services.

Dozens of fire engines drove back and forth to fight the raging blaze in areas as far as 20km north of Pedrogao Grande. In a sign of help Portugal is receiving from its European neighbours, four Spanish fire engines were seen driving off from the headquarters.

At least half the victims died in their cars as they tried to flee along a local motorway while many other bodies were found next to the road, suggesting they had probably abandoned their vehicles in panic. Despite government assurances that the first response by the emergency services was swift and adequate, many media and residents questioned the efficiency of the operation and the strategic planning in a country which is used to wooded areas burning every year.

“So what failed this Saturday? Everything, as it has failed for decades,” read a headline in the daily Publico, which blamed a lack of coordination between services in charge of fire prevention and firefighting and poor forestry reserve planning.

Police said a lightning strike on a tree probably caused the blaze on Saturday in a region hit by an intense heat wave and dry, gusty winds, which fanned the flames.

The regional prosecutor still ordered a criminal investigation into the causes, which he said would be shelved if the police version of events is confirmed. Many forest fires in Portugal are caused by arson or carelessness.

A public petition circulating on the Internet demanding an investigation into possible failures by the authorities has gathered about 270 signatures. Local residents said they had been without the support of firefighters for hours as their homes burned. Many blamed depopulation of villages that left wooded areas untended.

Greek PM says court decision to not extradite Turkish soldiers must be respected

ATHENS — A court ruling to not extradite eight Turkish soldiers who fled to Greece following a failed coup attempt last year must be respected, Greek Prime Minister Alexis Tsipras said on Monday.

“The Greek justice system has ruled on this issue ... and this decision must be fully respected,” Tsipras said in response to a question during a joint press conference with his Turkish counterpart Binali Yildirim in Athens. Turkey alleges the men were involved in efforts to overthrow President Tayyip Erdogan last July and has repeatedly demanded they be sent back. Greek courts blocked two second extradition requests by Ankara, drawing Turkey’s angry rebuke and highlighting often strained relations between the NATO allies which remain at odds over issues from territorial disputes to ethnically-split Cyprus.

Russia at final stage of developing advanced electronic warfare system

MOSCOW — Russia’s Radio-Electronic Technologies Group (KRET), part of the state hi-tech corporation Rostec, is at the final stage of developing the most advanced defensive aids system Khibiny-U, Adviser to the KRET first deputy CEO Vladimir Mikheyev told TASS on Friday.

“We are moving forward and are currently at the final stage of developing new technologies, for example, the Khibiny-U,” Mikheyev said. The Khibiny-U is the next-generation modification of the onboard defence system with expanded capabilities by the frequency band, the range of targets and other parameters, he said.

A contract with Russia’s Defence Ministry for developing the Khibiny-U onboard electronic warfare system was signed at the MAKS aerospace show outside Moscow in 2013. It was reported that the contract for carrying out R&D work to develop the fighter jets’ defense system against surface-to-air missiles and conducting all types of trials was worth 1.6 billion rubles ($28 million at the current exchange rate).

The onboard defense system comprises integrated technical means designed to identify and classify the threat of the protected object’s destruction, and also to neutralize it.

Indonesia launches sea patrols with Asian neighbours in lawless area

TARAKAN, Indonesia — Warships from Indonesia, the Philippines and Malaysia held manoeuvres on Monday near a naval base in northern Borneo to mark the launch of coordinated patrols to beef up security in waters plagued by insurgencies and banditry.

Helicopters and surveillance planes flew overhead as ministers and army chiefs from the countries attended ceremonies to launch the patrols and as regional security takes on added urgency after Islamist militants overran a town in the southern Philippines.

The Philippine military has said that some of the Islamist militants, who were made up of local insurgent groups that have pledged allegiance to Islamic State but also some foreign fighters, may have mingled with evacuees to slip away during the battle for Marawi City that has raged for almost four weeks.

“We need to watch out for the 500 to 600 terrorists there, 257 of whom have been killed already. The rest, based on information we are getting, are blending in with refugees to get out,” said Indonesian military chief Gatot Nurmantyo.

The spectacular collapse in security in the southern Philippines has alarmed neighbours such as Indonesia and Malaysia. Indonesia has deployed three Sukhoi fighters to help with security in case militants try to flee southwards towards Indonesia, the head of the Tarakan air base Colonel Didik Krisyanto told the state news agency Antara at the weekend.

Indonesia on Monday also inaugurated a maritime command centre in the naval base of Tarakan, a town in the province of North Kalimantan on Borneo island, witnessed by defence ministers and army chiefs from the three countries.

Maritime command centres to coordinate the patrols and information sharing will also be set up in Taiwan in Malaysia’s Sabah and Bongao in the Philippines.

“We see these (command centres) functioning as a triangle, like a spider’s web, where everything inside the triangle will be monitored,” said military chief Nurmantyo.

A port town, Tarakan is just south of the Malaysian side of Borneo and looks out across to Mindanao in the southern Philippines, a sprawling island that has suffered from hostage taking and piracy for decades.

“Maintaining marine security is the duty of ASEAN countries and not other countries,” said Indonesian defence minister Ryamizard Ryacudu, referring to the Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN).

Singapore and Brunei also attended the launch of patrols as observers.

Indonesian naval authorities had also asked local people including fishermen in border areas facing the Philippines to report any suspicious people, Antara reported.—Reuters

Singapore aims to have legislation to tackle fake news in 2018

SINGAPORE — Singapore plans to introduce legislation to tackle fake news next year, Law and Home Affairs Minister K Shanmugam said on Monday.

“We will in the second half of this year consult with the stakeholders, the media, the legal profession, of course the internet companies, we have to work with them, and see what the contours or shape of the legislation ought to be,” Shanmugam told a forum on how to deal with fake news.

“Hopefully, we will have it in place next year or so,” he said in his opening address to the “Keep it real: truth and trust in the media” forum organized by the World Association of Newspapers and News Publishers and the local Straits Times newspaper.

The minister expressed concern about misinformation that exploits racial and religious divides in Singapore’s multi-racial society.—Kyodo

Six soldiers killed in bomb attack in Thailand’s restive south

BANGKOK — Six soldiers on patrol were killed and four other people injured in a bomb blast Monday in restive southern Thailand, police said.

The bomb exploded on a road in Pattani province where military personnel carry out patrols on a routine basis. The police suspect it was planted by Islamic militants.

Bomb disposal unit members were dispatched to the scene after the blast occurred in the morning. More than 7,000 people have been killed since an insurgency began in 2004 in Thailand’s southern provinces of Narathiwat, Pattani and Yala, a predominantly Muslim region of the mostly Buddhist country. Last month, 29 people including children were injured in a bomb attack on a store in Pattani.—Kyodo News

Beyoncé gives birth to twins: celebrity news websites

LOS ANGELES — US singer Beyoncé has given birth to twins in Los Angeles, several celebrity news websites reported on Saturday, citing unidentified sources.

Beyoncé, 35, and rapper and music producer Jay Z, already have a five-year-old daughter, Blue Ivy.

E! News, citing multiple unidentified sources, reported the birth and that Jay Z and Blue Ivy were seen at a Los Angeles area hospital on Thursday.

Us Weekly, also citing multiple unidentified sources, reported that the couple welcomed twins earlier this week.

“Bey and Jay are thrilled and have started sharing the news with their family and closest friends,” one unidentified source told PEOPLE.

Reuters could not verify the reports. A representative for Beyoncé did not respond immediately to a request for comment.

The celebrity news websites did not provide additional details, such as the date and time the twins were born or the sex of the infants.

The “Lemonade” singer, one of the most powerful women in the music business, announced the pregnancy on her Instagram account in February along with an image of her posed in lingerie and caressing a noticeable baby bump.

The announcement got more than 8 million “likes” in the first 24 hours to become the “most-liked” Instagram ever.

The R&B singer performed live at the Grammy awards in Los Angeles two weeks later, proudly displaying her swelling belly in a motherhood-themed show. She has since posted numerous pictures of her bare baby bump on her social media accounts.

The birth of Blue Ivy caused a paparazzi storm in 2012, with New York’s Lenox Hill hospital shutting down part of its maternity wing to accommodate music’s royal couple.

News of the pregnancy came less than a year after the release of Beyoncé’s 2016 album “Lemonade,” in which she appeared to address long-standing rumors of trouble in her eight-year marriage.

The lyrics of several songs spoke about being cheated on, and regretting being married. But Beyoncé made clear in the final tracks of the album and in music videos featuring Jay-Z that she had decided to stay in the relationship. The couple have never addressed the rumors publicly.—Reuters

Box Office: ‘Cars 3’ Races Past ‘Wonder Woman’ to No.

LOS ANGELES — This weekend featured a heated race between four new films that opened in wide release. As of Sunday morning, it appears some have fared better than others.

The big winner is Disney and Pixar’s “Cars 3,” which is speeding to $33.5 million from 4,256 locations, putting it in first place. That’s a lower opening than “Cars” ($60.1 million) and “Cars 2” ($66.1 million), but still enough to win the weekend. The first two “Cars” movies combined have made more than $435 million in the US and $1 billion globally. The “Cars” films are far from Disney and Pixar’s highest earners, but “Cars 3” is another example that even a decent opening for the duo is a victory in the big picture.

The movie comes from director Brian Fee, who was a storyboard artist on the first two “Cars” films, as well as “Ratatouille” and “Wall-E.” The ensemble voice cast of “Cars 3” includes Owen Wilson, Cristela Alonzo, Armie Hammer, Larry the Cable Guy, Bonnie Hunt, Nathan Fillion, Kerry Washington, and Lea DeLaria.

“Cars 3” bumps “Wonder Woman” out of first place, but the super hero movie continues to show strong. With an estimated $40.7 million from 4,018 locations, the Warner Bros. and DC Comics film is seeing another extremely low drop of 32% from last weekend.

Otherwise, Tupac biopic “All Eyez on Me” from Lionsgate and Summit is beating out expectations with an estimated $27.1 million from 2,471 locations. Demetrius Shipp Jr plays the mythologized rapper. Benny Bloom — who has two feature films and a long list of music videos on his resume — directed the film that explores Shakur’s origins, rise, and imprisonment.

The release date aligns with what would have been Shakur’s 46th birthday.

I am a better son now after becoming a father: Ashton Kutcher

LONDON — Actor Ashton Kutcher says he is a better son since becoming a father himself.

The “What Happens In Vegas” star says he now understands how much his parents loved him and sacrificed for him, reported Femalefirst.

“As soon as I had kids, I called my parents and apologised because I had no idea how much they loved me,” Kutcher says.

The 39-year-old star, who has two kids with his wife Mila Kunis, says he celebrates every day with his children around him.

“That celebration happens every day I open the door, every day I go in their room and see them in the morning, every day we share a little secret or pass a message to each other. The act of being a father in itself is the gift,” he says.—PTI

47 Metres Down” is opening to $11.5 million from 2,270 locations. It’s the first major release from Entertainment Studios, which acquired the project from its original distributor, Dimension Films. Mandy Moore and Claire Holt star as sisters who decide to go cage diving, and end up at risk of being attacked by sharks.

Finally, “Rough Night,” a raunchy, fem-centric R-rated comedy from Sony, is on track to earn only $8.1 million from 3,162 locations. The project combines the talents of director and co-writer Lucia Aniello, co-writer and actor Paul W Downs, and star Ilana Glazer — the three are frequent collaborators on Comedy Central’s “Broad City” and “Time Traveling Bong.” Scarlett Johansson, Kate McKinnon, Jillian Bell, Zoe Kravitz, and Glazer make up a rowdy girl gang who reunite for a bachelorette weekend that goes horribly wrong.—Reuters
World’s biggest sailing ship Sedov embarks on training voyage in Baltic Sea

KALININRAD — The world’s biggest sailing ship Sedov, which changed its home port from Murmansk in northwest Russia to Russia’s westernmost port city of Kaliningrad in late May, has sailed off from Svetly port in the Kaliningrad Region on a training voyage in the Baltic Sea.

“The voyage was due to begin on Saturday evening but the fog prevented the ship’s departure. That is why, the voyage began this morning,” spokeswoman for the Baltic State Academy of the Fishing Fleet (part of the Kaliningrad State Technical University, which is the ship’s current manager) Irina Obrazova told TASS.

There are 114 cadets from maritime educational institutions of Murmansk, Kerch and Kaliningrad aboard the barque Sedov. The sailing ship is heading for the port of Den Helder (the Netherlands).

The sailing ship Sedov will follow the route of the barque Kruzenshtern, which embarked on a training voyage on 14 June, the spokeswoman said.

Both barques are expected to take part in The Tall Ships Race 2017 (STT), which will pass through Halmstad (Sweden), the Finnish ports of Kotka and Turku, Lithuania’s Klaipeda and Polish Szczecin.

In August, the Russian sailing ships will also call at the German port of Rotterdam. The voyages are expected to be completed on 18 August in Kaliningrad.

The Sedov barque, originally named the Magdalene Vinnen II, was launched in Kiel in 1921 at Germany’s Friedrich Krupp Germaniawerft. She was used as a cargo ship voyaging from Europe to South America, Australia, South East Asia and Oceania. In 1936, the Magdalene Vinnen II was sold to Norddeutscher Lloyd, Bremen and renamed the Kommodore Johnsen. The new owner modified it to a cargo-carrying training ship, and apart from its permanent crew, the ship was to have 50 to 60 trainee officers aboard on each journey.

She came under Russian state ownership after the surrender of Germany, on 20 December, 1945, when the British handed over the ship to the Soviet Union as war reparation.

In the Soviet Union, she was converted into a sail training vessel of the Soviet Navy. She was renamed the Sedov after the Arctic explorer George Sedov who died during an Arctic expedition in 1914.

Today, the Sedov is a sail training vessel, training cadets from the universities of Murmansk, St Petersburg, and Arkhangelsk. She participates regularly in the big maritime international events as a privileged host and has also been a regular participant in The Tall Ships’ Races.

The Sedov has been entered into the Guinness Book of World Records as the largest traditional sailing ship in operation. The 117.5-metre-long ship has sails more than 4,000 square metres in area. She holds the official world sailing ship’s speed record — 12.6 knots.—Tass

Cambodian eatery offers ‘Pol Pot’ rice porridge

PHNOM PENH — A Cambodian food stall began on Monday serving a thin, watery rice porridge that almost everyone had to eat during the 1970s rule of the ultra-communist Khmer Rouge, from torture, execution, disease and starvation after harvests failed.

Restaurant owner Tuon Tem, 49, said he lost nine relatives at that time and was offering the porridge to remind young people about how hard life was then.

“I had this idea to have a shop in Siem Reap town said he wanted to offer the dish, though he said the customer Chin Ka Moniroth, 26, was not impressed with the dish, he said the restaurant might attract young people, wanting to try something new. “It’s tasteless, it’s just water and salt,” Chin Ka Moniroth said. Police were also not impressed with the restaurant, saying it could not use the name Pol Pot. “He was a brutal killer,” Siem Reap police chief Ho Vanny told Reuters. “This is not appropriate.”

Tuon Tem said police had told him to remove the sign but he had not done so, not yet anyway.

Shibasaki leveler sends Tenerife to promotion playoff final

TOKYO — Gaku Shibasaki netted a vital equalizer and steered Tenerife to the promotion playoff final in the Spanish second tier on Sunday as they secured a 1-1 aggregate draw with Cadiz, enough to see them through.

The former Kashima Antlers midfielder, who grabbed headlines with his brace against Real Madrid at the Club World Cup final in December, placed home a low cross from the right in the 34th minute for his first goal in front of his home fans.

Tenerife, who lost the first leg 1-9, won the return match by the same scoreline and played out a scoreless extra 30 minutes to book a final berth after they finished the regular season in fourth, a place above Cadiz.

“(Shibasaki) is a man who gives us time,” manager Jose Luis Marti told their website. “He’s a player with a lot of quality. He has the calmness to look for space.”

Tenerife will now face Getafe, who finished the season third and beat Huesca 5-2 on aggregate in the other semifinal. Tenerife will be at home on Wednesday before the return leg away on Saturday.

No need for alarm bells after draw, says Ronaldo

KAZAN, Russia — Portugal twice surrendered the lead against Mexico in their Confederations Cup opener on Sunday but the 2-2 draw was no cause for alarm, according to captain Cristiano Ronaldo.

Hector Moreno scored in added time to earn a point for the Mexicans five minutes after Cedric put the Portuguese in front. “It wasn’t the result that we wanted,” said Ronaldo. “There’s no need to set off any alarms, the team was good. It was a good result at 2-1 but that’s football.

They scored in the last few minutes and now we think of the next game. “We need to keep believing in ourselves, we know we have a great chance. There are two games to go and that’s why we’re cool, we’re at ease. Now we need to think of the next game, which we have to win. If we win we’re one step away.”

Portugal play hosts Russia in Moscow on Wednesday, while Mexico take on New Zealand in Sochi.

The Russians top Group A after beating the All Whites 2-0 on Saturday. The FIFA Player of the Year, who had scored 11 goals in seven games coming into Sunday’s encounter, was perhaps not as influential as usual but was still named man-of-the-match.

The Real Madrid striker, whose club future has been the subject of media speculation after he was accused by Spanish prosecutors of committing tax fraud, which Ronaldo denies, set up Portugal’s opener.
