‘Nothing is better than peace’: State Counsellor

At 7th JICM in Nay Pyi Taw, Daw Aung San Suu Kyi urges ‘discussions with confidence’

THE Union Peace Conference-21st Century Panglong will be held in late April or early May, according to the 7th Joint Implementation Coordination Meeting (JICM) on the Nationwide Ceasefire Agreement held in Nay Pyi Taw yesterday. The decision was made at the meeting held at the National Reconciliation and Peace Centre in Nay Pyi Taw yesterday, which began with a greeting by State Counsellor Daw Aung San Suu Kyi.

In her speech, the State Counsellor, in her capacity as the Chair of the National Reconciliation and Peace Centre, called on participants to dare to dream for a peaceful federal Union. “I believe that those who are here don’t want their grandchildren to grow up in surroundings which are not at peace. So, to all those delegates who are here who have a strong desire for peace, nothing is better than peace. To build development, we need peace,” she said.

She also urged the participants of the meeting to take part in the discussions with confidence.

Two new signatories become members of NCA

THE Pyidaungsu Hluttaw approved the inclusion of two recent signatories to the Nationwide Ceasefire Agreement (NCA) yesterday, which had received the Pyidaungsu Hluttaw’s first approval on 8 December 2013.

The New Mon State Party (NMSP) and Lahu Democratic Union (LDU) signed an agreement to ink the NCA on 13 February 2018. Their signing must be approved by the Pyidaungsu Hluttaw, said U Tun Tun Oo, Union Attorney-General, during a clarification at the union parliament yesterday, in his capacity as a member of the National Reconciliation and Peace Centre on behalf of the union government.

Earlier, the NCA between the government and eight ethnic organisations, signed on 15 October 2015, was approved by the Pyidaungsu Hluttaw on 8 December 2015.

Paragraph 26 of the NCA, which came into effect on 15 October 2015, mentions that the agreement shall be submitted to the Pyidaungsu Hluttaw, in accordance with the rules to seek approval.

In the meeting yesterday, the Pyidaungsu Hluttaw also approved part-1 of the Union Peace Conference 21st Century Panglong, signed by leaders of the groups that attended the conference on 29 May 2017.

Following this, Secretary of the Joint Bill Committee Dr. Myat Nyana Soe submitted the findings and remarks of the committee about the Union Tax Bill 2018. After the clarification, Speaker of Pyidaungsu Hluttaw Maung Win Khaing Than invited the MPs to participate in the debate over the bill in the next meetings.

The union parliament also approved the National Planning Bill for six months, starting from April 2018.

Following some objections to the extension to the Pyidaungsu Hluttaw’s Legal Affairs and Special Cases Assessment Commission, the issue was put to vote, and it was approved with 295 votes in favour and 179 against.

Later, Union Minister for Home Affairs Lt-Gen Kyaw Swe urged the Pyidaungsu Hluttaw to approve the memorandum of understanding between ASEAN and Australia for cooperation in fighting international terrorism, sent by the President.

Meeting held for implementing development in Rakhine

THE Committee for Implementation of the Recommendations on Rakhine State held its meeting at the office of the Ministry for Social Welfare, Relief and Resettlement yesterday.

At the meeting, Union Minister and Committee Chairman Dr. Win Myat Aye said the committee will closely follow the recommendations of the advisory board to provide long-lasting solutions to problems in Rakhine State. He noted Rakhine State was facing obstacles to its development, human rights, security and equality. The union minister said if these hardships are resolved, then lasting peace will be possible in Rakhine.

The union minister said that Rakhine was being given priority because it was one of the least developed states; however, the development of human rights is being pursued equally throughout the country. He said the union government is drafting laws and amending the existing ones to ensure equal human rights for all. He said the government is working to accelerate the national verification process and rehabilitation of the affected people. He said all the responsible ministries should announce their progress and plans to the public to improve transparency.

The union minister said he had discussed with the Ministry of Home Affairs about reducing travel restrictions in Rakhine State, in addition to national verification cards for people living there.

Dr. Win Myat Aye said youth volunteers had successfully conducted four Union Enterprise Agency reports will be given once every four months, he said. He then invited the public and other ministries to provide feedback on their progress.

Later, U Soe Aung, joint-secretary of the implementation committee, explained the tasks completed from the previous meeting and discussed further plans with the attendants. Next, the various ministries explained their processes in Rakhine State, followed by a collective general discussion.—Myanmar News Agency

VP U Henry Van Thio inspects elephant camps in Bago Region

VICE President U Henry Van Thio, who is also Chairman of the Central Committee for the Development of the National Tourism Industry, inspected the Phoe Kyar elephant camp and the Wingabaw elephant camp in Bago Region yesterday.

The Vice President and his entourage arrived first at the Phoe Kyar elephant camp and were welcomed by Dr. Saw Nyo Win, the Bago Region Minister for Natural Resources, Forestry and Environmental Conservation and official.

In the briefing hall of the elephant camp, Managing Director of Myanmar Timber Enterprise U Saw John Shwe Ba explained the condition of the protected elephants in Phoe Kyar camp and the number of tourists who visit the camp annually. Next, U Zaw Win Myint, the Director of the Forestry Department, explained the forest conservation efforts in the Bago-Yoma mountain range, the progress of public forest reserves, the capture of illegal loggers in the area, the status of wild elephants in the forest, and the progress on identifying and arresting elephant poachers.

The Vice President instructed the officials on carefully and effectively arresting illegal loggers and elephant poachers and also uncovering the ring leaders behind these illegal activities. He said that the entire world was going towards environmental conservation and reforestation, so Myanmar needed to put more emphasis in this area.

The Vice President then toured the elephant museum, bungalows, and the conservation and tourism efforts at the camp before watching the camp’s elephants perform dances.

The Vice President then travelled to the Wingabaw elephant camp and was given a presentation by U Hla Moe Aung, the General Manager of the Timber Production Division. Next, Bago Region Chief Minister U Win Thein explained tourism development and the Bago-Yoma range’s conservation efforts.

The Vice President commented that there has been a gradual increase in the number of tourists visiting to the elephant camps. He said the camp needs to do more advertising to raise more awareness and to cooperate with other agencies to further promote tourism.

The vice President then toured Wingabaw camp. The Phoe Kyar elephant camp is located in Yadashe township, Taungoo District in Bago Region and is home to 14 elephants. Visitors can interact with the elephants, bathing them, feeding them and observing them in their natural habitat.

The Wingabaw elephant camp was established in 2016 and is located 14 miles from Bago City. The camp is 86 acres wide and houses adult elephants orphaned wild elephants and orphaned baby elephants.—Myanmar News Agency
Yangon-Mandalay highway to get more speed control devices

More speed control devices will be installed on the Yangon-Mandalay highway to reduce accidents, according to the highway police.

Although the department has already installed a few speed control devices on the highway, more such devices are needed, the police said.

Upon completion of the highway road upgrading project, 11 devices will be installed at dangerous locations. The upgrading of the asphalt road on the Yangon-Mandalay highway is being done at the rate of 20 miles per year.

The police have found excessive speed to be the major cause of accidents. Other causes include unsafe vehicles, dilapidated condition of the road surface and negligent driving.

The highway traffic police are also providing awareness training about road safety measures on the Yangon-Mandalay highway to the public. Drivers must be aware that they should stay within the speed limit, said an official from the highway police. Currently, some 16 traffic police stations have been constructed on the Yangon-Mandalay highway.
Bilateral trade between US, Myanmar valued at $568 million this FY

Myanmar’s trade with the United States (US) from 1 April to 31 December was worth some US$568 million, including $212 million in exports and $356 million in imports, according to statistics provided by the Commerce Ministry. Myanmar records trade deficit of $3.8 billion this FY

Myanmar’s trade balance in the last 10 months of this fiscal year FY showed a deficit of US$2.8 billion, according to statistics provided by the Commerce Ministry.

Myanmar’s external trade with foreign countries between 1 April and 16 February in the current FY was valued at US$28.6 billion, including $12.4 billion worth of exports and $16.2 billion worth of imports.

Myanmar’s trade deficit was US$91.9 million in the 2012-2013 FY, US$1.9 billion in the 2013-2014 FY, US$4.9 billion in the 2014-2015 FY, US$5.4 billion in the 2015-2016 FY and more than US$5.5 billion in the 2016-2017 FY, respectively, according to the Central Statistical Organisation (CSO). Concerted efforts are being made to reduce the trade deficit by screening luxury import items, except essential goods. The government succeeded in reducing the trade deficit slightly this FY, as it was more than US$2 billion during the same period last FY.

Capital goods such as auto parts, vehicles, machines, steel and airplane parts are imported, but imports by the private sector were less this FY due to changes in the automobile policy. However, the total value of imports by the private and public sectors increased slightly compared with last FY. Raw materials such as petroleum-based products and plastic raw materials recorded the highest value in the import sector. Their import value was up by US$1.4 billion against last FY.

Consumer products, including pharmaceuticals, cosmetics and palm oil, also flowed into the domestic market, registering an increase of US$467 million compared with last FY. Meanwhile, agro products, animal products, fisheries, forest products, minerals, finished industrial goods and other export products are shipped to foreign countries.—Ko Khant
Myanmar places at bottom in ease of doing business ranking

MINA MAR’s economy is moving at a slow pace, with it being placed a lowly 171 among 190 countries in the ease of doing business rankings.

Foreign investors have criticised the slower economic development in the country, attributing it to weak infrastructure and policy requirements.

To improve the ease of doing business ranking and provide precise answers to the tricky questions posed by the World Bank, a coordinating meeting of the public and private sectors was held at the Union of Myan- mar Federation of Chambers of Commerce and Industry last Monday.

The meeting highlighted issues of construction permits and tax and trading across borders.

Chin State chosen for tourism promotion

The Trade Promotion Organisation, under the Ministry of Commerce, has selected Chin State for tourism promotion this year.

“We will continue the ongoing tourism promotion plans in Kayah State. We will then work on new plans for Chin State. However, we are still conducting surveys in other states,” U Aung Soe, Director-General of the Trade Promotion Organisation, told Myawady Daily.

Tourism promotion plans were implemented under the guidance of the Ministry of Commerce last year. This year, the Ministry of Hotels and Tourism will assume the major responsibility, in cooperation with the Ministry of Commerce.

Chin State has potential for development but lacks a reliable means of transport. However, the tourism industry has great potential here, and so, the ministry plans to develop the state through tourism.

The tourism promotion project will be a three-year plan, including the building of information centres for tourism and developing tour packages, among others. —GNLM

BORDER trade with the use of individual trading cards (ITCs) reached a record high of Ks29 billion at the Myawady checkpoint, as of mid-February of the current fiscal year (FY), according to statistics provided by the Commerce Ministry.

The trade department has issued 158 cards to individual traders so far. Individual trading card holders carried out trade worth Ks38.6 billion between 1 April 2017 and 16 February 2018. Exports were worth only Ks4 billion, while the import value hit more than Ks34 billion.

The value of trade conducted by individual card holders this FY was more than Ks2.2 billion in Yawgyi, more than Ks47 million in Muse, Ks29 billion in Myawady, Ks915 million in Tachileik, more than Ks70 million in Lwejoi, more than Ks4 million in Chinshwehaw, more than Ks1.68 billion in Kengtung, more than Ks743 million in Kayin, more than Ks10 billion in Reeb, more than Ks268,000 at Huitlalan Township, more than Ks26.5 billion in Mawtaung and Ks160 million in Kengtung, according to the official statistics of the commerce ministry.

Clear and proper responses have to be provided while answering the questionnaire released by the World Bank for the year 2019, said U Zeya Thu-ra Mon from Zeya and Associates Co. Ltd. He also explained the research activities of the ease of doing business ranking and the scores of New Zealand, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand, India and Myanmar.

While filling out the questionnaire, businessmen can directly ask for a support group, including officials from the World Bank and the Commerce Ministry, if the questions are confusing.

The World Bank determines a country’s ease of doing business rank based on 11 indicators; starting a business, dealing with the construction permit, getting electricity, registering property, getting credit, protecting minority investors, paying taxes, trading across borders, enforcing contracts, resolving insolvency and labour management, all of which are incorporated into those indicators in 2018. Each indicator has 3-8 page questions. —GNLM

Cattle exporters to face legal action for violating regulations

FARM owners working on a manageable and commercial scale need to strictly adhere to regulations enforced under the existing law for the export of live cattle. If exporters are found violating rules, the authorities will take action against them.

Before exporting live cattle, exporters have to go through a number of stages, such as seeking health certificates for the cattle, inspection of the export channel at stations established by the Livestock Breeding and Veterinary Department and an acknowledgement that they will obey the existing laws of the department, according to a report in Myanmar Alinn yesterday.

Director-general U Yan Naing Tun told Myanmar Alinn that inspection checkpoints are located at 16th mile, Yebu and Muse 105th mile gates along Mandalay-Muse Road and at Mayanchaung and Myawady trade zones along Yangon-Myawady Road. A hundred heads are permitted per shipment.

For the export of live cattle, they are bought and kept at the respective temporary inspection stations of the township live-stock breeding and veterinary department in Mon and Shan states, and the Bago, Magway, Mandalay and Sagaing regions. Health certificates and recommendations from the region and state Livestock Breeding and Veterinary Department, a permit to pass the towns along the export route and an export licence granted by the commerce ministry are a must for live cattle exports.

The transaction costs more than Ks1.6 million, but exporters get some Ks300,000 profit per head. However, the supply of live cattle cannot meet the demand, as Myanmar needs to improve its commercial farms. Only farms on a manageable scale are seen across the country.

Also, the export permit drove the prices of cattle up. A couple of draught cattle working for farming fetches more than Ks2 million, making the working process difficult for farmers.

Australia bans importation of Myanmar’s betel nut

Australia’s Department of Agriculture and Water Resource prohibited the importation of Myanmar’s half cut betel nut in January 2018, according to the Food Standards Code, the Commerce Ministry reported online.

Betel nut is included among the prohibited and restricted plants and fungi for importation, according to some provisions of Australia’s Food Standards Code.

Australia will continue to ban betel nut imports and other similar goods as long as the importers do not fulfill the country’s food requirements.

According to the commerce ministry’s statistics, bilateral trade between Myanmar and Australia in the first nine months of the current fiscal year was valued at $139 million. Myanmar’s exports to Australia are much lower than its imports. —GNLM

‘Nothing is better than peace’: State Counsellor

The State Counsellor has also expressed her belief that it is not helpful to have doubts about building a federal union without taking part in the peace process and discussing a federal system that is suitable for Myanmar.

On behalf of the Union Government, the State Counsellor also encouraged negotiations between the Tatmadaw and the ethnic armed organizations, urging those who want to sit at the negotiation table to accept the invitation.

The State Counsellor has also urged peacemakers to seize the opportunity of gaining understanding among participants whenever a meeting ends and to make the best use of the understanding in building a democratic union. In conclusion, the Chairperson of the NRPC has pledged that all ethnic armed organizations are confident in building peace to the country, appreciating the step that was taken in 2010 for a nationwide ceasefire as part of efforts for solving the political problems in political ways.

He also stressed the importance of inclusiveness in making efforts for building a Democratic Federal Republic.—MNA

Trial for Reuters journalists continues

The two Reuters reporters facing charges under the Official Secrets Act appeared in Northern District Court again yesterday, with the prosecution putting two civilian witnesses on the stand.

U Ohn Khair, the Court’s Information Officer, told reporters the witnesses were Daw Htu Htu Myint, the owner of the restaurant where the two reporters were arrested, and U Kyaw Shein, the hundred-household head of Koneitalabaung village, who was present when the reporters were arrested. Their testimony is being used to determine where the reporters were when they were arrested.

The next hearing for Wa Lone and Kyaw Soe Oo has been scheduled for 7 March, when another two witnesses are expected to testify. Officials say there are a total of 25 witnesses connected to the case. So far, eight have testified.—Zaw Giyi

MNHRC, Democracy Reporting International sign MoU

The Myanmar National Human Rights Commission (MNHRC) and the Democracy Reporting International (DRI) signed a memorandum of understanding (MoU) to cooperate on human rights issues at the MNHRC office yesterday.

The MoU was signed by MNHRC Chairman U Win Mar and DRI’s Myanmar representative Ms Eva Gil. The MoU included points on drafting the MNHRC’s master strategic plan (2018-2021), planning observation trips, receiving technological support from DRI for capacity building to carry out the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, and other topics of cooperation related to human rights between the two entities.—Myanmar News Agency

Without self-confidence, without confidence in our organization, we will not have the confidence to walk together, joining our hands. A group or organization should not go individually on the road to peace. Each organization has to take an approach, which is marching. Without unity and coordination, the idea of walking together will help us to overcome our challenges. Only when we take part in the peace process and in discussions with confidence and courage, can we build a federal democratic union. But without it, the Burmese will continue to cut down on others and is not helpful for the country which is marching towards a federal union. In some cases where it is in the interest of the majority of the people, there are attempts to march towards the end without taking a step for a beginning. We have to build a federal democratic republic, one in which we take part in the peace-making process and must discuss thoroughly what democracy is, what is the federal system and what kind of a federal democratic union we want. At the same time, we can decide to “give up and take part” in a new constitutional dialogue at the negotiation table.

Working together and joining hands with each other will help us to overcome our challenges on the road to our goal. It is a will to overcome our confound in ourselves and to dare to find the right solution for peace. Rightly assessing whether we can find out the answers we want or not, we must try when we want to assist Burmese stakeholders for the peace process have strong aspirations for peace. There is the reason why we are the ones who can accommodate our goal. Our people who have experienced the consequences of a lack of peace want peace the most, more than anyone else.

But without a pragmatic approach, casting doubt on others is not helpful for the country, which is marching towards a federal union.

Long-term restoration and sustainability of Inle Lake conservation efforts on the basis of a clear action plan that rallies private, civil and government actors.

It is vital to strengthen the governance of Inle Lake conservation efforts on the basis of a clear action plan that rallies private, civil and government actors.

By Dr. Khin Aung Tham

Inle Lake is located in Nyaungshwe Township, Taungyi District in Shan State. The Inle lake wetlands ecosystem is home to 267 species of birds, of which 52 are wetland birds, 42 species of freshwater fish, 10 reptile species, 9 mammals and 3 amphibian species. It is the second largest lake in Myanmar and is located in the heart of the Shan Plateau. It is about 130 feet above sea level.

Socio-economic characteristics

Inle Lake is situated in the Nyaungshwe Township, which covers 30 villages and 43 floating villages and many ethnic races including Inthas, Shan, Pa-o and Danu.

The majority of the local people earn their income from traditional activities such as shrimp fishing, as a form of hydroponic farming and fishing.

Geographical facts

Inle Lake is a shallow lake located in the eastern part of Shan region and is currently covered by hilly forest. It is estimated that the lake was formed more than 2 million years ago and constitutes a remnant of a much more extensive series of lakes. These lakes formed as water dissolved limestone in the landscape, resulting in many limestone features such as caves, stalactites, springs, springs and intermontain streams.

Inle Lake receiving most of its run-off from creeks that were blocked by parallel mountains that now lie at the current level covered by hilly forest. These lakes formed as water dissolved limestone in the landscape, resulting in many limestone features such as caves, stalactites, springs, springs and intermontain streams.

Inle Lake is the major water supplier for the Lawpita hydroelectric dam.

Conservation has laid down plans to address the environmental issues in the Inle Lake watershed. It is vital to strengthen the governance and improve the interaction between public, private, non-governmental organizations and local communities.

It is of paramount importance to address the environmental issues and to make it possible and feasible for government and stakeholders to address the environmental issues in the Inle Lake watershed.

The Phaung Daw Oo Pagoda is a place of religious significance, visited by Buddhists and non-Buddhists alike, from all around Myanmar. The shrine itself is huge and features an ancient golden Buddha donated by King Alaung Sithu of the Bagan Dynasty during his travels around the country. The Phaung Daw Oo Pagoda is located in Inle Lake, on a raft, taking it days to complete its journey. There are also rowing competitions between the villages, using the rafts operated at various local pagodas.

The Phaung Daw Oo Pagoda

It is vital to strengthen the governance of Inle Lake conservation efforts on the basis of a clear action plan that rallies private, civil and government actors.

With our increasing confidence in our organization, we must be able to move and move forward another step or two if we need to, according to our negotiations, with the spirit of fulfilling people’s needs, desires and aspirations to which they have greatly aspired since the time of gaining independence.

Republicans rebuff students’ call for tough gun curbs

WASHINGTON — Republican leaders rebuffed calls for major changes to US gun laws on Tuesday following the mass shooting at a Florida high school, as students braced for their emotional return to the campus where 14 classmates and three staff were murdered.

Student survivors of the Valentine’s Day assault met with members of Congress to urge curbs on firearm sales but found little enthusiasm for legislative action beyond closing gaps in a national background check system.

President Donald Trump has called for stronger background checks in the wake of the shooting, and the White House said he “still supports” raising the minimum age from 18 to 21 for some gun purchases, a policy opposed by the National Rifle Association, America’s powerful gun lobby group.

Democrats hailed the students as an inspiration. But even with polls showing overwhelming public support for stricter gun laws, it would be a steep climb to achieve dramatic changes to gun laws in a Republican-dominated Congress.

Turning to the specifics of the Florida tragedy, Republicans put the blame on a “colossal breakdown” of law enforcement rather than the easy availability of assault rifles.

“Let me just say we shouldn’t be banning guns for law-abiding citizens, we should be focusing on making sure citizens who should not get guns in the first place don’t get those guns,” House Speaker Paul Ryan told reporters.

Ryan and other Republican leaders until now have largely been absent from the debate that has raged since the assault in Parkland, Florida, by a troubled 19-year-old armed with a semi-automatic rifle.

The speaker met with students from Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School, describing them afterwards as “smart and passionate” and saying that “we had an important discussion about how to keep our kids and our schools safe.”

But in his remarks to reporters, he blamed the rampage on the failure of local authorities to heed numerous warnings about the shooter, Nikolas Cruz, a former student at the school, rather than lax US gun laws that have been sharply criticized by some survivors.

- Full debate -

“There was a colossal breakdown in the system locally,” Ryan said, citing lapses by the FBI and a deputy sheriff accused of failing to act when shooting broke out at the school. Ryan’s argument echoed that of Trump, who asserted on Monday that he would have charged into the school after the shooter, even without a gun. Trump was scheduled to meet with a bipartisan group of lawmakers on Wednesday to address gun laws.

He has pushed for arming teachers as a first line of defense, an approach favored by the NRA but widely criticized by teachers themselves as an impractical and unreasonable burden on them.

Trump also has called for building more mental hospitals, a ban on devices known as “bump stocks” that allow a semi-automatic weapon to be fired much more rapidly, and better background checks to keep guns out of the hands of “sickos.”

A bipartisan “Fix NICS” bill marked by 17 white crosses.

“I’m a little nervous, but we have to far-reaching reforms, several quarters for its opposition to far-reaching reforms, several measures sponsored by the state’s Republican governor. An assault weapons ban is not part of the package.

With the NRA under fire in some quarters for its opposition to far-reaching reforms, several corporations including Delta Air Lines have abandoned their ties with the pro-gun group.

Russia in 2017 prevented 25 terrorist attacks — National Anti-Terrorist Committee

MOSCOW — Twenty five terrorist attacks were prevented in Russia in 2017, the first deputy chief of staff of the National Anti-Terrorist Committee, Igor Kulyagin, told a news conference on Wednesday.

“Last year 25 terrorist attacks were prevented in the territory of our country. Pre-emptive work continues non-stop,” he said.

“Sixty eight terrorism-related crimes, including attacks with the use of firearms, were prevented during the preparatory stage. More than 1,300 individuals were persuaded to refrain from terrorist activity,” he said. “More than 17,500 foreigners suspect ed of involvement in terrorism activities were prohibited from entering our country’s territory last year,” he said.

At the same time, Kulyagin went on to say, ringleaders continued attempts to stage terrorist attacks at transport facilities and crowded places.

“In 2017 the NAC’s priorities were prevention of growth in terrorist activity, exposure and elimination of underground terrorist cells and prevention of terrorist attacks in the country’s territory. Special attention was paid to transport facilities and crowded places,” he said. The activity of more than 50 terrorist cells was quashed, 1,060 militants detained and 90 others, including 12 ring leaders put out action. Andrey Przhezdomsky, an advisor to the chairman of Russia’s National Anti-Terrorism Committee said terrorists are actively recruited via the Internet. “Online recruitment is becoming global today, so the question of control over cyberspace is far from idle, rather, it is one of the most topical issues,” he said.

According to the NAC representative, “now everything is done remotely, with cells being set up remotely.” The process can be very fast, and the impact sometimes occurs within just a few months,” he noted. Russia’s special services last year prevented more than 80 Russians from going abroad for participation in combat operations on the side of illegal armed groups, he added.

“Last year more than 80 persons were prevented from leaving Russia for participation in terrorist activities. A firm obstruction has been placed to minimize this flow,” he said.—AFP

Church at Jesus’s traditional burial site reopens after protest

JERUSALEM — The Jerusalem church built at the site many see as the holiest in Christianity reopened on Wednesday after a three-day closure to protest against Israeli measures had left thousands of visitors locked outside.

The two men who act as keepers of the key of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre opened its large wooden doors at around 4:50 am (0250 GMT), ending the protest that began on Sunday at noon.

Shortly afterwards, a group of pilgrims emerged from the still darkened corridors of Jerusalem’s Old City to visit the sacred site.

“They pray in front of the doors every day since Sunday,” said Francois-Roch Ferlet, a 29-year-old visiting with a group of 30 people from France, standing near the ornate shrine encasing the traditional site of Jesus’s tomb inside the church.

They were due to leave later on Wednesday and were relieved they were able to visit.

The church is built where Christians believe Jesus was crucified, buried and resurrected. Custody of it is shared by the Greek Orthodox, Armenian and Roman Catholic denominations.

The closure seemed to be the longest since at least 1990.

Christian leaders decided to reopen the church after Israel on Tuesday suspended tax measures they strongly oppose.

A proposed law that Christian leaders say would allow Israel to expropriate church land is also to be shelved.

A statement from Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu’s office said a “professional team” would be appointed to come up with a solution to the tax measures imposed by Israeli authorities in Jerusalem.

Israeli Regional Co-operation Minister Tzachi Hanegbi will also look into the issue of land sales in Jerusalem by Christian bodies, which prompted the proposed law that is now also suspended.

Christian leaders are in part angry over attempts by Israeli authorities in Jerusalem to enforce tax collection on church property they consider commercial, saying exemptions only apply to places of worship or religious teaching.

Jerusalem Mayor Nir Barkat says the city is due 650 million shekels ($186 million/152 million euros) in uncollected taxes on church properties.

He stresses the Church of the Holy Sepulchre and all other churches are exempt, with the changes only affecting establishments like “hotels, halls and businesses” owned by churches.

Some Indonesian and Malaysian media reported that the boat was owned by Low. The ship’s captain and 34 crew are being questioned, Silitonga said.

Metro TV showed footage of what it described as Indonesian and American investigators boarding the yacht and questioning the crew. The scandal surrounding 1Malaysia Development Berhad (1MDB) has rocked the administration of Malaysian Prime Minister Najib Razak.—APF

Indonesia seizes yacht in Bali wanted by US investigators

DENPASAR (Indonesia) — A luxury yacht sought by US authorities was seized on Wednesday off the Indonesian tourist island of Bali, officials said, with the vessel reportedly linked to a corruption scandal at Malaysia’s state investment fund 1MDB.

The US Justice Department alleges in civil lawsuits that $4.5 billion was looted from 1MDB in an audacious campaign of fraud and money-laundering. “Based on the US investigation, part of the money was used to buy a yacht which has been sailing in Indonesia,” said Daniel Silitonga, a senior Indonesian police officer, who declined to specify whether the US hunt for the boat was linked to the 1MDB case.

“We are still investigating who the owners of the yacht are.”

The church is built where Christians believe Jesus was crucified, buried and resurrected. Custody of it is shared by the Greek Orthodox, Armenian and Roman Catholic denominations. PHOTO: AFP

The bill would allow certain lands sold by the Greek Orthodox Church to be handed over to the state, which would then compensate those who bought it from the church.

“This reminds us all of laws of a similar nature which were enacted against the Jews during a dark period in Europe,” Christian leaders said in a statement on Sunday.

Recent land sales by the Greek Orthodox Church — a major landowner in Jerusalem — to unknown buyers have drawn fire from both Israelis and Palestinians.

Palestinians fear the sales will favour Israeli settlement construction in east Jerusalem, while Israelis are concerned over private developers’ intentions for the land.

The dispute over the taxes and proposed law is also linked to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

The church is located in Israeli-annexed east Jerusalem, which the Palestinians see as the capital of their future state. Israel sees the whole city as its undivided capital.

Christians in Jerusalem are mainly Palestinians and Arab Israelis.

The decision to close the church was extremely rare. In 1990, Christian sites including the Holy Sepulchre were closed for a day to protest the installation of Jewish settlers near the church.

Christian sites were shut for two days in 1999 to protest at the planned construction of a mosque near Nazareth’s Church of the Annunciation, where tradition holds the Angel Gabriel announced to Mary she was to become the mother of Jesus.

Manila hails US move to blacklist local IS-linked groups

MANILA — The Philippines hailed on Wednesday Washington’s decision to blacklist two local pro-Islamic State groups, including one which occupied the southern city of Marawi last year, triggering a months-long battle.

The US State Department and the Department of Treasury designated the Maute group and the Daulatul Islamiyah as “terrorist organisations” on Tuesday, blocking US-based assets belonging to them or their supporters and barring Americans from dealing with them. “The (move) is an affirmation of what Philippine authorities already know — that the Maute Group and the Dawlatul Islamiyah are terrorist groups that need to be dealt with decisively using the full force of the law,” a statement by the defence ministry in Manila said. “They will be denied access to the US financial system and will face sanctions as may be deemed appropriate, making it more difficult for them to conduct their activities in the Philippines and abroad.”

Militants from the Maute group were routed out of Marawi last October after a five-month battle sparked by its bid to establish an IS caliphate in the largely Catholic country’s southern Mindanao region.

The Philippines military warned last week that remaining members of the group have recruited about 200 gunmen to mount another attempt.

The Daulatul Islamiyah, or Dawlah-Islamiyah as designated by the Philippine defence ministry, is a smaller faction also based in Mindanao.

“We are profoundly committed to preventing ISIS from gaining a foothold in the Philippines and in Southeast Asia, and we should continue working together on this objective,” Philippine Foreign Under-secretary Ernesto Abella told reporters, using an acronym for IS.

Brigadier-General Bienvenido Datuin, spokesman for the Philippine military, said the US move would boost local counter-terrorism efforts. “(A specific advantage... is the checking of money trail, financial sources, logistics lines and conduits of terror groups in foreign countries that may have connections with local violent extremists,” he said.

Other armed Philippine groups that have made the US terror blacklist in previous years include the New People’s Army, waging a decades-old Maoist armed rebellion, and the Abu Sayyaf, which linked up with the Maute gunmen in Marawi last year.

Economists see stability in Xi supremacy, Chinese eye exit

BEIJING — As Xi Jinping marches toward presidency for life, economists are lauding the stability of his continued rule but the move has caused some Chinese people to consider moving assets, or themselves, abroad. The Communist Party’s move to scrap presidential term limits is the latest indication Xi is returning the country to strongman rule, undermining the consensus of technocrats that has governed China in recent years. But a lengthy period of stability under Xi, whose second term would normally end in 2023, will give him time to push through the much-needed reforms he has championed, analysts say. Xi and his economic team have pledged to tackle China’s ballooning debt, move the economy towards sustainable consumption-based growth and taken aim at corruption endemic in the Communist Party. The “measures are more likely to be successful with a strong and steady leadership”, said Robert Carnell, chief economist at ING Bank. “The ability to get stuff done is something that the weak coalitions that govern, for example, most of Europe, would give their teeth-tooth for;” Carnell wrote in the note to investors quoted by Bloomberg News. At Davos in January, Xi’s top economic advisor Liu He told the crowd of global elites China would get financial risk under control within three years. “This reform agenda would last for decades,” economist Raymond Yehung at ANZ Bank wrote in a note to investors, which was largely positive on the raft of proposed constitutional changes. Concentration of power. Liu, who analysts believe could be in line to become the next central bank chief and also hold the title of vice premier, is in the United States this week dealing with the thorny trade issues rocking relations between the world’s two largest economies. A firm grip on the country for his patron Xi may give him greater leeway to bargain with Donald Trump’s administration, analysts say, though others caution it could harden China’s positions. The United States and Europe have also complained that Beijing has repeatedly failed to keep its word on opening up its market to foreign firms, which still face many obstacles. Historically, one-man rule can hamper effective economic decision-making, though.

The horrors of Mao Zedong’s Cultural Revolution and Great Leap Forward are still remembered by many in China. Following the disastrous policies, the Communist leadership sought to prevent further chaos by tempering presidential power through a system in which major personnel and policy decisions were hushed out by the powerful Politburo Standing Committee. While some say removing term limits will allow Xi Jinping to push through key reforms, there are fears about one-man rule, with the horrors of Mao Zedong’s Cultural Revolution and Great Leap Forward still remembered by many in China.

Stars to wear #MeToo white ribbons at ‘French Oscars’

PARIS — Stars attending the “French Oscars” — the Cesars — on Friday will wear a white ribbon in protest at violence against women, organizers said.

“We are all going to wear white ribbons,” Alain Terzian, the head of the French Academy told AFP on Tuesday, after actors and directors at the Golden Globes and the British Bafta awards wore black in solidarity with the #MeToo movement.

The Berlin film festival, which wrapped up at the weekend, also came under pressure to replace its red carpet with a black one in support of victims of sexual harassment in Hollywood after the Harvey Weinstein scandal.

The Cesars sparked feminist fury last year by inviting controversial Franco-Polish director Roman Polanski to preside over the awards before he was forced to pull out.

The veteran filmmaker — who has been accused of sexual assault by several women — is wanted in the United States for the statutory rape of a 13-year-old girl in 1977.

Terzian said the Franco-American actress and director Tonie Marshall came up with the idea to support the white ribbon idea to support the #MeToo movement.

She launched a Twitter campaign to bring equal rights to the red carpet.

Several actors at Berlin launched a campaign to bring equal rights to the red carpet.

German star Anna Bruggermann urged actresses to ditch high heels and low-cut dresses to challenge the “patriarchal gaze” women face at award ceremonies.

She said only one in five feature films subsidised by the French state every year are made by women.

She said she would wear the ribbon with conviction and determination, “We will all wear the ribbon with conviction and determination,” he added.

French Culture Minister Francoise Nyssen said film producers had a huge responsibility to fight stereotypes, discrimination and harassment both on camera and behind it.

India says farewell to Bollywood icon Sridevi

MUMBAI — Thousands of heartbroken fans lined the streets of Mumbai on Wednesday as India said farewell to Bollywood legend Sridevi Kapoor following her shock death from accidental drowning in a Dubai hotel bathtub aged just 54.

Some carried roses while others held photos of the late screen icon as they queued patiently to pay their final respects at a condolence service in the western Indian city.

“It’s a shock to believe that she is no more. We want to pay her one last visit today and thank her for all her wonderful performances,” Nandini Rao, a 32-year-old teacher, told AFP.

Legends of Hindi cinema, including actresses Aishwarya Rai and Kajol, were among the mourners at the Celebration Sports Club in the Andheri West area of Mumbai — the home of the Bollywood film industry.

Heavy security lined the streets to control the crowds, which included people who had travelled hundreds of kilometres to be there.

Several fans chanted prayers as Sridevi’s body was brought the short distance from her home to the club at 9:00 am (0030 GMT). “I’m an avid Sridevi fan. I loved her smiling personality. She had such a commanding presence in the Indian film industry. Her death was so sudden and I feel terrible,” 45-year-old Kuldeep Singh told AFP.

Sridevi’s body is due to leave India on Thursday in its final journey. She will be cremated at a private Hindu ceremony later on Wednesday.

Egypt court sentences diva over Nile hygiene remarks

CAIRO — An Egyptian court sentenced pop star Sherine to six months in prison on Tuesday for suggesting drinking from the Nile River leads to illness, although she will remain free pending an appeal.

Sherine Abdel Wahab, known simply as Sherine, had apologised after being caught on tape joking with concert-goers that water from the Nile could give them parasites.

The Cairo misdemeanours court convicted her of having spread “false news”. Judicial officials said she would remain free on bail pending an appeal.

Sherine is one of the region’s best known singers. She is also an actor and hosted the Arabic version of singing contest The Voice.

In the video recording of the concert, Sherine is asked by a fan to sing her tune “Have You Ever Drunk From the Nile.” She responds that drinking from the river could cause “bilharzia”, a name for the parasitic disease schistosomiasis which was once widespread in Egypt.

“Drink Evian instead,” she joked.

She later apologised in a Facebook posting.

Turkish tourists explore Myanmar

A group of 20 Turkish tourists, through an arrangement with the MAPPA TUR and Group Company, arrived in Myanmar yesterday afternoon.

“No many Turkish tourists visit Myanmar, and it is a good chance for them to explore Myanmar. For the first time, they will stay in Myanmar for nine days,” said U Phyo Wai Yarzar, managing director of Diethelm Travel Co. Ltd.

“If we can show them that Myanmar is a wonderful and pleasant place, more Turkish tourists will surely visit the country,” he added.

During their nine-day visit to Myanmar, arrangements will be made to explore many tourist destinations, such as Chauk Htut Gyi Pagoda, Pansodan Jetty, Botataung Pagoda, colonial buildings in downtown Yangon, China Town, India Quarters, Shwedagon Pagoda and Kandawgyi Lake.

Later, they will proceed to Phaung Daw Oo Pagoda and the renowned Inle Lake NYuang Shwe Township. Then, they will continue to visit several pagodas and interesting places in Mandalay, Amarapura, Inwa and Sagaing.

Mrs. Mayda Tuna, a tourist, said, “This is my second visit to Myanmar. The country has numerous historical monuments and places of religious significance which are worth visiting. I visited Myanmar seven years ago. A memorable place that I like to visit in Myanmar is the Inle Lake.” Mr. Kenan Jay Tamor, who has been to more than 100 countries, said, “I am very excited to visit Myanmar for the first time, and the purpose of my visit is to tour Bagan, an ancient city” —Tayar

German village votes to keep ‘Hitler bell’ as memorial

BERLIN — A German village has decided to keep a contentious Nazi-era church bell that bears a swastika and the words “All for the Fatherland — Adolf Hitler”, arguing it serves as a reminder of the country’s dark past.

The parish council of Herzheim voted 10-3 on Monday that the bronze bell from 1934 should remain as “an impetus for reconciliation and a memorial against violence and injustice”.

The council rejected an offer by the regional Protestant Church to pay for taking down the 240 kilogramme (530 pound) bell and replacing it.

A memorial pointing to the bell’s history will now be fixed in the southwestern village near the university city of Heidelberg.

Some church-goers were dismayed to find out that they had got married, baptised their children or joined other religious ceremonies and events under the Hitler bell. Last year the former town mayor, Roland Becker, re-signed over comments that appeared to defend not just the bell but the Nazi era.

Amid the controversy, the bell was silenced last September and a second one used, pending the municipal decision in the southwestern village near the city of Heidelberg.

Neymar faces ‘at least six weeks out’, set to miss Real clash

PARIS — Paris Saint-Germain's hopes of getting Neymar back for their crunch Champions League clash against Real Madrid next week look to be over after the Brazilian's father claimed the player would be out for “at least six weeks”.

Speaking to ESPN in Brazil on Tuesday, Neymar Senior said: “PSG know that they will not be able to count on Neymar for the upcoming matches: his treatment will last six to eight weeks, whether there is an operation or not.”

That was after PSG coach Unai Emery claimed earlier that “no decision” had been taken on whether Neymar would require surgery and that there remained a “small chance” of getting the world's most expensive player back in time to face Real next Tuesday, 6 March.

Tests confirmed that Neymar suffered a hairline fracture of the fifth metatarsal in his right foot as well as a twisted ankle late in PSG's 3-0 win over Marseille in Ligue 1 on Sunday.

He appeared to be in tears as he was stretchered off the field at the Parc des Princes, immediately raising fears that the 26-year-old could miss the Champions League last 16, second leg against Madrid.

PSG lost 3-1 in the first leg in Spain two weeks ago and are in danger of being knocked out of the competition in the last 16 for the second season running.

Brazillian newspaper Globo Esporte had claimed Neymar would undergo surgery, and that the former Barcelona player would be sidelined until May.

If his father’s estimate is correct, Neymar would not return before the semi-final stage of the Champions League in late April.

On the possibility of rushing Neymar back for the Real second leg, experts say that PSG would be taking a huge risk, possibly even jeopardising Neymar’s participation at the World Cup in Russia in June and July.

“It would be very risky as it’s a fragile bone in the foot which is difficult to protect,” Jean-Marcel Ferret, a former doctor with the French national team, told AFP.

“(Playing against Real) could compromise the rest of his season.” In the meantime, PSG are preparing to do without Neymar for Wednesday’s French Cup quarter-final at home to Marseille, the second meeting of the clubs in four days.

Argentine star Angel di Maria should replace the Brazilian at the Parc des Princes, with PSG hoping to stay on course to win the French Cup for the fourth season running.

U-19 team tops
MNL standings with win over Yangon

IN one of the significant Week 5 matches of the MPT Myanmar National League (U-19), Southern Myanmar beat Yangon United by a score of 2-1 at Salin Stadium in Yangon yesterday and retained their place at the top of the league rankings.

Southern Myanmar’s goals were scored by the team’s stars Zin Min and Min Khant Thein. At the beginning, Yangon pressured Southern Myanmar’s defenders their speedy passing.

Yangon strikers had chances to score in the early minutes of the match as Southern Myanmar defenders seemed to losing their concentration.

Yangon got the opening goal at the 42-minute mark from striker Lwin Moe Oo.

In the second half, with substitutions and a change in tactics, Southern Myanmar’s play improved. With the stable ball control along with accurate positioning, Southern Myanmar’s Zin Min pulled back a goal at the 71-minute mark.

After gaining the equaliser, Southern Myanmar forced play back to Yangon.

With a speedy pass, the winning goal for Southern Myanmar was scored by young striker Min Khant Thein at the 87-minute mark.

In garnering the win, Southern Myanmar remains atop the standing table after playing five matches, winning four and losing one. Yangon United gets five points and stands in ninth place with one win, two draws, and two losses.—KyawZin Lin
