State Counsellor: The best inheritance we leave behind for our youngsters includes good morality and knowledge

STATE Counsellor Daw Aung San Suu Kyi, accompanied by Union Ministers Lt-Gen Ye Aung and Dr. Myint Htwe, Mandalay Region Chief Minister Dr. Zaw Myint Maung and Deputy Minister U Min Thu, opened a village hall and ‘Pwintlin Thuta’ reading room in Nyaungpin Village, Singu Township, yesterday morning.

State Counsellor Daw Aung San Suu Kyi viewed the books and journals in the library (reading room), after cutting the ceremony ribbon to open the village hall and ‘Pwintlin Thuta’ reading room.

The village hall and reading room were constructed by the Daw Khin Kyi Foundation on a land donated by U Than Swe, U Htay Ko family to Rector Sayadaw Agga Maha Pandita Ashin Nanda Marla Bivamsa. The village hall and reading room is a concrete single-storey building that costs Ks 36 million to construct and the construction cost, 1,392 books and two computers were donated by the Daw Khin Kyi Foundation.

State Counsellor and party then went to Nyaungpin Village women household work vocational training school to observe the sewing machine course conducted for young women from nearby villages.

The training school was opened on 14 December 2015 and seven basic household work courses and six sewing machine advanced courses were conducted for 390 trainees, it is learnt.

At the meeting, the State Counsellor said, “I’m happy to visit this village and meet with the villagers. As the majority, 70 per cent of our country’s people live in rural villages, we must come to villages to know the true life situation of the people. I came here first to donate a monastery (school) to the Sayadawgyi, and now to donate a library.”

I want to open libraries extensively all over the country. I say extensively, because I want to open the eyes and ears of our people so that they will gain knowledge. By opening libraries, youngsters will want to read books since a young age and will be attracted to and love books.

But for youngsters to be attracted to and love books, elders need to encourage them. The inheritance we leave behind for our youngsters include both good and bad. This is unavoidable in ordinary human beings. That is why I always said that the best inheritance to leave behind is good morality and knowledge. If we leave these behind, we don’t need to worry much. Money and houses can disappear. Material is something that can be lost or stolen, but knowledge could not be lost or stolen.

That is why I encourage knowledge. Being a graduate is not having knowledge. I want people in rural areas to know this. Some are very simple minded and admire graduates, and want their sons and daughters to become university graduates. This is the goodwill (cetana) of the parents. But knowledge is not something that you obtain only by going to a university.

Second Amyotha Hluttaw’s 9th regular session holds eighth-day meeting

By Aye Aye Thant (MNA)

THE Second Amyotha Hluttaw’s ninth regular session held its eighth-day meeting at the Pyithu Hluttaw meeting hall yesterday morning. At the meeting, asterisk-marked questions were answered by Deputy Minister for Agriculture, Livestock and Irrigation U Hla Kyaw and Deputy Minister for Electricity and Energy Dr. Tun Naing.

Asterisk-marked questions

In the question and answer session, Daw Khin Hnin Thit of Padaung constituency raised a question on whether there is a plan to expand Emerald Green Project in Padaung Township. Deputy Minister for Agriculture, Livestock and Irrigation U Hla Kyaw replied that Emerald Green Project has been implemented in 23 villages of Padaung Township, while people-centered project will be implemented in all the villages of the township for the full four-year cycle of the project. As the Emerald Green Project is being implemented in other townships, there is no plan to expand the project in Padaung Township at the moment, explained the Deputy Minister.

U Myat Lay Oo of Htilin constituency raised a question on plans to provide electricity to nine villages of Kyin village area in Htilin Township. Deputy Minister for Electricity and Energy Dr. Tun Naing replied that a 66 KV Pauk-Kyaukhtu power line passes near the subject villages but electricity can be supplied only when sub-stations are constructed and a 11 KV power line laid. Due to the geography of the region and technical requirements, it would be difficult to provide electricity from the power grid. Off-grid system (solar) is the most appropriate way of providing electricity to the subject villages and the Department of Rural Development is being informed and coordinated about this, said the Deputy Minister.

In replying to a question posed by U Nay Myo Htet of Kyauktada constituency on plans to implement base load hydro-electric projects and provide electricity to required places in Myanmar, Deputy Minister for Electricity and Energy Dr. Tun Naing said hydro-electricity is not appropriate to produce base load. The Deputy Minister explained further that there are 27 installed hydro-electric plants generating 2,800 MW. Of the 27, 21 are reservoir type, generating intermediate load of 2,170 MW and only 6 are run-off-river type plants, generating 630 MW for base load. Feasibility studies are being conducted to construct more hydro-electric projects with government fund, local and international investment. Survey and investigation will take at least three years while construction period is from four to ten years, explained the Deputy Minister.

Questions raised by U Myint Oo of Thanathip constituency, U Win Win of Minbu constituency and U Khun Than Htoo of Hlaing constituency were also answered by Deputy Minister for Agriculture, Livestock and Irrigation U Hla Kyaw and Deputy Minister for Electricity and Energy Dr. Tun Naing.

In replying to a question on whether there is a plan to expand Emerald Green Project in Padaung Township, Deputy Minister for Agriculture, Livestock and Irrigation U Hla Kyaw, explained the Deputy Minister.

Second Pyithu Hluttaw’s 9th regular session holds eighth-day meeting

By Myo Myint (MNA)

THE Second Pyithu Hluttaw’s ninth regular session held its eighth-day meeting at the Amyotha Hluttaw meeting hall yesterday morning. At the meeting, five questions on health sectors were raised, a bill discussed and a motion tabled to discuss a bill.

questions on health sector

In the first question of the day, U Htay Oo of Yangon Region constituency asked if the government has a plan to increase nurses and fund for Yangon Eye Hospital. Deputy Minister for Health and Sports Dr. Mya Lay Sein said the Department of Medical Services will give priority to assign nurses to Yangon Eye Hospital when new nurse appointments are made in December 2018. As for the fund, the hospital was allocated Ks 1,188,627 million in fiscal year 2017-2018 and when there was a request for additional fund, Ks 68.97 million was provided, said the Deputy Minister.

At the Hluttaw, Dr. Mya Aye of Dala constituency, U Kyaw Thaung of Sagaing Region constituency 1, on the other hand, asked if hospitals have plans to inform and educate visitors to hospitals, and family members, close relative or friend of a patient who tend to the patient in the hospital to follow the hospital rules. Deputy Minister Dr. Mya Lay Sein replied that hospitals display the hospital rules on notice boards in the hospital. Doctors and nurses occasionally provide demonstration on washing hands and informative talks on prevention against communicable diseases to visitors and those tending to the patient. As visitors and those tending to the patients are worried about their patients, education and information programs for them in person are impractical and thus distribution of pamphlets on prevention against communicable diseases will be made through hospital support group. Health departments and Departments of Public Health to follow this requirement, said the deputy minister.

Deputy Minister Dr. Mya Lay Sein also replied to questions posed by Daw Htu May of Rakhine State constituency 11 on plan to upgrade a rural health clinic in Yanbye Township, and U Aung Thein said the Penal Code was tabled, explained U Aung Thein.

State Counsellor: The best inheritance we leave behind for our youngsters ...

Knowledge can be gained wherever you are if you know how to seek it. The reason we are opening libraries is to install the habit and mindset of gaining knowledge through them. Knowledge is something that supports your livelihood. I don’t want to produce unemployed university graduates. Graduates should be able to obtain jobs that are suitable for them. But our country also needs many people who possess other knowledge (and skills) although not university graduates.

Now our government is encouraging vocational education system. In fact, vocational training is practical. If properly arranged and taught, they will have many job opportunities. Thus, instead of being an unemployed university graduate, those who complete vocational trainings would be able to work on their own for a living, gaining much benefits.

First, youths will have confidence. After they complete a course, they wouldn’t worry about what to do as they are given an opportunity to choose.

Therefore, in future, we plan to reduce the requirement to attend such vocational training courses. Anyone who can read and write would be able to attend it. We are thinking of opening schools (training courses) that can be attended by a student who passes the eight standard. Only then, will our youth have opportunities in life.

We also need to think about middle-aged person who didn’t have the opportunity to get an education when they were young. Yesterday, when I went to Daw Khin Kyi Foundation computer course, some students there, who are not so young, told me to please think about people who didn’t have an opportunity for education.

As our education system was weak, there are many people who were unable to get a good education. We need to think of how to support those people so that they can live their lives well.

When we meet such people, we want to know their thoughts and views. When I ask the young women in the sewing course earlier, they all told me of their wish to go back and work in their own places. Only a small number said they will go to the city and work with what they learnt. I want to help our people gain the ability to help themselves.

The government needs to create opportunities for them to return to their villages and earn a living. Those who want to settle back in their villages also need to put in their efforts, too. They must strive hard and seek out opportunities. Opportunities won’t simply drop down from the sky. The government will help. So can you all help yourselves. We will give our people the strength to help themselves.

That is why, at this moment, I want you all to tell the government what it should do, so that it could support your ability to help yourself. The government will put much emphasis on health and education. Our people need to be full of strength, both physically and mentally. Only when you are knowledgeable, can your mental strength be strong. Health and education is connected. According to research conducted on health, children below two years old who are not physically fit will not have a fully-developed brain. If children below two years old are full of nutrition, their brain will grow strong. But if they are lacking in nutrition, they’ll be affected for life. I’m concerned about our children. From the standpoint of health, the youngsters in this village, as well as in my constituent of Kawhmu Township, lack growth. Many of whom I think are 4 or 5 years old are already 8 or 9 years old. They are very small in stature.

This is because they are not well nourished. In this case, providing nourishment for a year is not sufficient. In my view, our youngsters are quite developed up to two years old because they are being breast fed by their mothers. But, after this age, they need more nourishment. I want our people to be strong, both physically and mentally, as well as in knowledge. Villagers, please suggest what our government should do to help you. Ask us for what you want to know, said the State Counsellor.

Afterwards, villagers in the meeting spoke of how they will cooperate with the government for rural development and their electricity requirement and Region Chief Minister Dr. Zaw Myint Maung explained about the support that will be provided.

Following the discussion, the State Counsellor donated exercise books, stationeries, school uniforms, sports equipment, snacks for students and solar plates and lamps for the village to school principal and head of village administration.

The State Counsellor and party then paid homage to a pagoda built in Thitsa Nanda Dhamma center in Yetkansintaung region and then offered ‘soon’ (lunch) and offerings to Rector Sayadaw Agga Maha Pandita Ashin Nanda Marla Bivanna. The State Counsellor also donated cash offerings made by the Ministry of the Office of the President to the pagoda trustees.

Later in the afternoon, the State Counsellor, accompanied by Mandalay Region Chief Minister Dr. Zaw Myint Maung and Sagaing Region Chief Minister Dr. Myint Naing, went to No. (3) Police Training School (Sagaying). At the training school briefing hall, the State Counsellor met with Deputy Minister for Home Affairs Maj-Gen Aung Thu, Myanmarr Police Force Chief Police Lt-Gen Aung Win Oo and officials.

At the meeting, Deputy Minister for Home Affairs Maj-Gen Aung Thu explained about the construction of police training schools. In response to the explanation, the State Counsellor said that in the past people did not trust the police, but now the police force was being renamed. After this, the police force needs to strive towards becoming a force that the people trust. And in striving for people’s trust, mentality is the main thing that needs to be changed and improved. At this opportune time, the police force must become a trustworthy force for the people, remarked the State Counsellor. The State Counsellor then inspected the training courses conducted and attended a lecture together with the trainees. Afterwards, the State Counsellor inspected by car the buildings in the school compound constructed with the President’s emergency fund. — MNA

Snail fever preventive measures taken in Rakhine State

By Nyein Nyein

MORE than 300 patients have been affected with snail fever, an acute and chronic disease caused by parasitic flatworms released by freshwater snails, in Rakhine State. Snail fever is also known as schistosomiasis. Therefore, authorities are conducting snail fever prevention measures as well as treatment activities, said Dr. Toe Thiri Aung, Deputy Director of Epidemiology at the Department of Public Health.

Among the 574 suspected patients from ten townships in Rakhine State, it was found that 302 were suffering from schistosomiasis. Symptoms of schistosomiasis include rash, abdominal pain, diarrhea, fever, headache, cough and body sores.

There were some cases of snail fever occurrences in the past, but this is the first time it was discovered in such a high number. Therefore, we are conducting investigation and preventive measures on this case, Dr. Toe Thiri Aung added.

World Health Organization (WHO) is providing medicine and medical equipment to treat the disease. Moreover, experts from Chinese Center for Disease Control and Prevention and WHO head office will visit Myanmar at the end of this month to conduct research over the outbreak of schistosomiasis as well as to provide technical assistance, prevention and treatment under the WHO’s Schistosomiasis disease prevention and measurement strategy, according to the Ministry of Health and Sports.

“An effective method will be used to control schistosomiasis disease. The Ministry of Health and Sports will conduct paper-reading sessions in cooperation with the Myanmar Medical Association, to provide awareness and knowledge of schistosomiasis disease to the public, doctors and health staff,” said Dr. Myint Htwe, Union Minister for Health and Sports. ■

Rubber quality certification to be issued

MYANMAR Natural Rubber Quality Testing Laboratory will issue rubber quality certificates that would encourage fetching a good price in the export market.

“Certification is required for rubber quality. We need to follow the rules and regulations set up by China and South Korea. Myanmar, being the sixth world’s largest rubber exporting country, needs accreditation. Other countries are also trying to seek certificates like that, said U Zan Htoo Maung, Kayin State Rubber Growers Network member.

This laboratory is operating under private-public partnership at the Information Technology and Quality Management Division (Hlegu Township) of the Consumer Affairs Department, under the Ministry of Commerce. It is also endeavoring to be accredited by the International Rubber Association.

The laboratory will grant certificates to Myanmar Standard Rubber 5,10 and 20, said U Myint Lwin, Director General of the Consumer Affairs Department.

Of 1.6 million acres of rubber farming, about seven million plants can be tapped for latex. There are around 50,000 old trees which cannot be tapped.

Dr. Ye Tint Tun, Director General of the Agriculture Department said that private sector role has become crucial in boosting rubber quality and improving rubber processing businesses. In order to maintain quality, private businessmen should lead the industry by forming rubber associations, as individual producers cannot ensure equal quality standard. Myanmar is also trying to be a member of inter-governmental Association of Natural Rubber Producing Countries (ANRPC).

According to data from worldexports.com, Myanmar ranks at the sixth place behind Thailand, Indonesia, Viet Nam, Malaysia and Ivory Coast, among 15 global rubber exporting countries, which accounts for 95.4 per cent of export. Eighty per cent of rubber supply in the global market are from Asian countries, while Africa makes up 8.5 per cent and European Union constitutes 4.7 per cent of market shares.—Zar Lin Thu (AMIA) ■

Over 1600 hotel licenses granted as of July 2018

THE number of operational hotels and guesthouses as of 31 July 2018 has reached 1,676, providing some 67,350 rooms across the country, according to the Ministry of Hotels and Tourism.

To ensure tourists can travel to Myanmar conveniently, the Ministry of Hotels and Tourism approved the licences after scrutinizing the applications of the hotels.

There are 64 hotels with 5,515 rooms in the capital of Nay Pyi Taw, 399 hotels and guesthouses with 20,845 rooms in Yangon, 216 hotels with 8,995 rooms in Mandalay, 85 hotels with 3,019 rooms in Bagan and Nyaung U, and 145 hotels with 4,612 rooms in Taunggyi and Inlay.

The number of hotels and guesthouses which were granted licenses by the Ministry of Hotels and Tourism has increased every month. To be able to increase the number of tourists, the Ministry has relaxed the restriction of visa and opened new tour ports at the border gates.

The ministry has also granted 2,802 travel and tour agency licenses, including to 2,802 companies owned by local residents. In addition, the ministry has granted 2,586 transport licenses, 4,404 tour guide licenses and 3,803 regional tour guide licenses, as of July 2018.—Zwe ■
Increased existing investments account for more than half of FDI value in past four months

By May Thet Hnin

MORE than half of foreign direct investment (FDI) inflow in the past four months are an increase of investments by existing companies, according to the Directorate of Investment and Company Administration (DICA).

Over US$1 billion of FDI, including increased investments, were brought into the country in the past four months. A total of 53 newly-permitted enterprises made investments of only $442 million. Thilawa Special Economic Zone absorbed FDI worth over $171 million including increased investment.

Yangon Region attracts sixty per cent of foreign investments, especially bringing into the manufacturing sector. Those enterprises are engaged in manufacturing of pharmaceuticals, vehicles, container boxes and garments through Cutting, Making and Packing (CMP) basic, said U Myo Khaing Oo, director of Yangon Region DICA.

Myanmar Companies Law 2017 came into effect starting from 1 August 2018. Previously, foreigners were anticipating that law. This being so, more foreign investments are likely to be brought into the country later on, said U Aung Naing Oo, secretary of Myanmar Investment Commission (MIC).

MIC has prioritized ten sectors for investment in Myanmar. They are agriculture, livestock and fishery production, export promotion businesses, import substitution businesses, power supply, logistics, education services industry, healthcare industry, construction of affordable housing and establishment of industrial estate. MIC will speed up processing time for investment proposals in those ten prioritized areas.

Myanmar-Thailand border trade worth $430 million since April

MYANMAR-Thailand border trade between 1 April and 27 July totalled US$431 million, an increase of US$40.9 million against similar period of last fiscal year 2017-2018, according to statistics released by the Ministry of Commerce.

Myanmar and Thailand are conducting the border trade through these border checkpoints: Tachileik, Myawady, Kawthoung, Myeik, Htikhee, Maese and Mawtaung. Of the seven gates, Kawthoung and Htikhee checkpoints show a slight decrease, compared to similar period of last FY.

Myanmar-Thailand border trade values in the past four months are worth $29 million in Tachileik, over $271 million in Myawady, $46 million in Kawthoung, $79.6 million in Myeik, nearly $1.79 million in Htikhee, $3.03 million in Mawtaung and $0.37 million in Maese. Myanmar mainly exports fishery products, including fish, crabs and shrimps, as well as agricultural products to Thailand while cosmetics, machineries, food products and agricultural equipment are imported from Thailand.—Mon Mon

Trade deficit shows decline against same period last year

Trade value showed a deficit of US$988.9 million in nearly four months. The figure shows a decrease compared to the similar period of last FY 2017-2018, according to data of the Ministry of Commerce.

In the same time of last FY 2017-2018, there was a trade deficit of $1.85 billion. Between 1 April and 27 July, in the current six-month interim period prior to next fiscal year 2018-2019, external trade amounted to over $11.57 billion, with export worth $5.29 billion and import valued $6.27 billion, according to statistics provided by the commerce ministry.

During that period, maritime trade is registered at $8.98 billion, while border trade has $2.58 billion.

Myanmar exported agricultural products, animal products, minerals, forestry products, finished industrial goods, whereas capital goods, raw industrial materials and personal goods were imported into the country.

The country’s export sector is depending more on the agriculture and industrial products of small- and medium-sized enterprises, while lessening its reliance on natural resources, such as natural gas and jade.

The government is trying to reduce trade deficit, screening luxury import items and boosting export.

During the last 2017-2018 FY, trade deficit narrowed to $3.97 billion. There were trade deficits of US$91.9 million in 2012-2013 FY, US$2.5 billion in 2013-2014, US$4.9 billion in 2014-2015, US$5.4 billion in 2015-2016 and $5.5 billion in 2016-2017 FY respectively, according to the statistics released by the Central Statistical Organization. —Mon Mon

Full-dress rehearsal conducted for All-Round Youth Development Festival at Mandalay University

A FULL-dress rehearsal for opening the All-Round Youth Development Festival was held at the Mandalay University yesterday.

The rehearsal was conducted in the presence of Union Minister for Education Dr. Myo Thein Gyi, Chairman of the Work Committee for holding the All-Round Youth Development Festival Deputy Minister for Information U Aung Hla Tun, Deputy Minister for Home Affairs Maj-Gen Aung Thu, Mandalay Region Minister for Development Affairs Dr. Ye Lwin and officials. The three-day festival will officially open today at the University of Mandalay.

The All-Round Youth Development Festival (Mandalay) is being held with the aim of promoting the development of the five strengths of youths – physical, knowledge, character, friendship and wealth – to support their vision and ideas in building up the future of Myanmar’s society...

As an entrepreneur, I will discuss what youths should prepare to find jobs and possible challenges for them. Previously, youths think about finding jobs after their graduation. After this talk, youths will understand that they should prepare while attending their university or college to find jobs.

All-Round Youth Development Festival opens today in Mandalay

All-Round Youth Development Festival will be opened today at the Mandalay University. Following are the voices from the people who will participate in the literary talk at the festival.

U Nay Win Aung
Mandalay Region Computer Professional Association

On behalf of the Mandalay Region Computer Professional Association, I will discuss the basic points for digital technology focusing dos and don’ts for digital technology to benefit our socio-environment. The reason why I choose this topic is that the mobile phone density has reached 30 million of the total population of the country and the use of digital technology has reached media, business, socio-economy, education and health sectors. I will discuss ethics for mobile phone users to prevent ill effects from the digital technology and to make the best use of digital technology for their health, social, business and education affairs.

Dr. Te Zar Thant
Executive Director, Yong-Kyi-Yar Knowledge Dissemination Society

This festival is held for the youths of the country. So, I will discuss the title “Future Myanmar and the role of youths” at the literary talk. The discussions will focus on which role the youths are taking part today and how they can bring better benefits to the country. Myanmar is home to diverse ethnic minorities and ethnic people will also participate in the talk. Another title is “National Reconciliation”. The population of youths makes up over 30 per cent of the country’s total population. This mass of youths is a huge force for development of the country. Hence, I have chosen this topic.

It is clear that our leaders are relying on youths in transition to democracy. Therefore, I want to let the youths know that their capability is necessary for the development of the country.

Dr. Kay Thari Kyaw
Entrepreneurs Association

I will discuss the title “Youths and choice of path for future of their life”. My discussion will mainly focus on job opportunities and change of mindset of youths in accordance with the current era. I see that today youths have more opportunities. After my discussion, I hope that youths can know how they can find jobs after their graduation.

Dr. Ko Aung Htay Myint
Mandalay Region Youths Affairs Committee

I will discuss the benefits of the youth affairs policy. The age of youths is considered between 15 and 35 years. The youth affairs policy comes to better benefits to the country. Currently, the participation of youths in the political sector has gained speed. The festival shows strong linkage between the government and the youths. I will let youths know the youth affairs policy so that they can review and give suggestions.

Daw Myat Mon Zaw
Entrepreneurs Association

As an entrepreneur, I will discuss what youths should prepare to find jobs and possible challenges for them. Previously, youths think abount finding jobs after their graduation. After this talk, youths of Myanmar will understand that they should prepare while attending their university or college to find jobs.

Ma Nann Thinn Myat Su Aung
Primary Colour Civic Edu Network

I will be in charge for time management for the talks. The topics chosen are very good for youths. I will be a moderator for the topics including arts, sports, literature and drugs, and I am responsible for time management...

First, the Union Minister and party visited the university’s Main Building where the opening ceremony of the festival will be held today.

PRESS RELEASE/NEWS RELEASE

MYANMAR-BANGLADESH Ministerial Meeting was held on 10 August 2018 at Thingaha Hotel, Nay Pyi Taw. The meeting was chaired by the Union Minister of the Ministry of the Office of the State Counsellor; U Kyaw Tint Swe, and the Foreign Minister of the Government of the People’s Republic of Bangladesh, Mr. Abul Hassan Mahmood Ali. Union Ministers U Thein Swe and Dr. Win Myat Aye, officials concerned and delegates from both sides participated in the meeting.

The meeting discussed the implementation of the bilateral agreement, the Arrangement on Return of Displaced Persons from Rakhine State/signed between the governments of Myanmar and Bangladesh in November 2017. The meeting reached agreement on the following points:-

1. Both parties agreed that there should be early repatriation of displaced person from Rakhine who recently fled to Cox’s Bazar. Repatriation will be in a voluntary, safe and dignified manner. In this regard, a hotline has been established between the Ministers to facilitate ease of discussions.

2. It was agreed to distribute the agreed Verification Forms to those at Cox’s Bazar, for the displaced persons to fill up the forms themselves. Signatures, finger-prints, and photo IDs, are to be completed when filling the forms to indicate voluntary return and assist with Myanmar’s verification process.

3. As agreed in the Arrangement, Myanmar has built two reception centres and one transit camp. Bangladesh has confirmed progress on the five transit camps; one is complete, another under construction, and remaining three to be built.

4. Both parties agreed to intensify cooperation on counter-terrorism and the fight against drug trafficking through exchange of intelligence, closer cooperation between the border guard officials and conducting enhanced coordinated border patrols.

5. Both parties agreed to cooperate on the issue of repatriation of displaced persons currently residing along the international border between Myanmar and Bangladesh, in particular the area between the international border and the fence erected on Myanmar’s territory in an expeditious manner.

6. It was also agreed that any humanitarian aid given to those inhabiting the area on Myanmar’s territory should be given by the aid agencies from Myanmar side.

7. Bangladesh has agreed to revise the language used in the ID cards being issued to those who are currently residing in Cox’s Bazar.

8. They also agree to conduct a joint inspection of the boundary line between the boundary pillars BP34 and BP 35.

Both Ministers reiterated their commitment for closer consultation in resolving the issue of displaced persons from Rakhine State in the spirit of good neighbourliness. They also agreed to promote closer economic and trade relations of interest of both countries.

Mission Statement of ICAC in Hong Kong

On a cool Sunday morning under the clear sky in the first week of August, I was strolling around the city of Hong Kong and happened to pass the area of Independent Commission against Corruption (ICAC) Headquarters Building on Java Road, North Point. I stopped for a moment near the elegant and prestigious ICAC building. While admitted into the structure, my mind rushed back to two recent events related to the ICAC, such as the anti-corruption workshop on “Risk Assessment in Public Procurement” held in June 2018 in Nay Pyi Taw, and that of the ICAC delegation led by Comissioner Mr. Simon Pek Yun-ho, who visited Myanmar in April last year. I was quite thrilled that the ICAC delegation was in Myanmar with a view to sharing its experience with the Hong Kong anti-graft experience and exploring offering training to assistance to anti-corruption agencies.

In Nay Pyi Taw, capital of Myanmar, Mr. Pek and the ICAC delegation called on the Anti-Corruption Commission (ACC) of Myanmar and held discussions with its Chairman U Aung Kyi. The ICAC chief had engaged in an exchange sessions with the Myanmar business-owned operation in the country and the local business environment and the areas that ICAC can be of assistance to help the ACC to enhance Myanmar’s anti-corruption capacity for the creation of a level playing field for investors. Myanmar’s Anti-Corruption Commission and the UN Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) had a workshop titled “Risk Assessment in Public Procurement” in the commissioner’s office building in Nay Pyi Taw in June 2018. Present at the discussion were the ACC Commissioner, the Chair U Aung Kyi, Commission Secretary, and ACC staff, as well as ACC members and UNODC experts Mr. Constantine Millehier, Publicly and Mr. Cornelis van der Kooi. In his opening speech, U Aung Kyi said public procurement takes up a huge share of public expenditure and is the most corruption-prone area as departmental heads can have reciprocation with business owners. According to the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) 2012 report, 20 to 30 percent of public expenditure on public procurement were lost due to corruption in countries around the world, said U Aung Kyi. He added that billions of corruption in Myanmar may exceed this average percentage.

Proving losses of public funds triggered by violations of rules and regulations will soon become a duty of the Anti-Corruption Commission, said U Aung Kyi. In the first week of July 2018, the Anti-Corruption Commission Chairman U Aung Kyi stressed that those who pay bribes will also be punished, not just those who take bribes. His wording at a seminar on business ethics hosted by the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Federation of Chambers of Commerce,1442 amendments made to the 2012 Anti-Corruption Law. We have amended Article 3 (a) defining what is a bribe and recipient. The original article did stipulate the giver and recipient. Now the amended provision allows us to take action against anyone involved,” U Aung Kyi said. The law had already been amended three times prior occasion — in 2016, 2015 and 2017 — but the last amendment was made in November 2018. There is a ‘thickening that the given is not given and receiving of bribes. The original article did not stipulate the giver and recipient. Now the amended provision allows us to take action against anyone involved,” U Aung Kyi said. The law had already been amended three times prior occasion — in 2016, 2015 and 2017 — but the last amendment was made in November 2018.

In conclusion, the author of this article would like to share with the esteemed readers that after the ICAC’s establishment in 1976, Hong Kong’s anti-corruption efforts have been stimulated and developed. The ICAC has methodically and systematically investigated and prosecuted cases in Hong Kong. The graft-busting agency, 40 years old today, has helped transform the city beyond all recognition.

Nestlé continues its campaigns to fight against iron deficiency in Myanmar

Organised by Nestlé Myanmar, the campaigns have initially been conducted in Pathetin, Mandalay and Magway towns in July and August, with several programmes, consisting of free medical examination and other edutainment programmes. The campaign was conducted in Pathein Town last month, with organisers planning to carry out the campaign in the remaining towns this month.

The move aims to raise knowledge on food nutrition value and eating practices among the general public through these social campaigns.

This is a part of efforts of Nestlé Myanmar, which launched Bear Brand Malted Milk in late 2017, designed for Myanmar to help people fight against iron deficiency.

Iron deficiency is the most prevalent nutritional disorder all over the world, particularly in developing countries. Iron requirements are especially high in infants, young children and pregnant women.—GNLM

Pan Pacific Yangon’s wedding showcase on 11-12 August

PAN Pacific Yangon operated by Pan Pacific Hotels Group in Myanmar will launch a ‘Wedding Showcase’ on 11 and 12 August at its Pacific Ballroom, planning to feature dresses created by five well-known Myanmar designers.

This is the first of its kind organized by Pan Pacific Yangon, performing beautiful wedding dresses of the five designers—Ma Myint Zu, Ma Latt, Mogok Pauk Pauk, Pyae Soe Aung and Kaung Myat, under the theme of “A Moment of Love”, with a lucky draw programme. Interested individuals may also watch the event through TV channels.

The two-day event provides guests with opportunities to engage with the hotel’s events and wedding planning experts, view venue setting, explore ideas for their special day with wedding consultants, get inspiration for floral arrangement, video and photography, cosmetics and accessories, invitation cards and other wedding essentials.

In addition, couples who confirm their wedding banquets from 1 August this year will enjoy 20% savings and stand a chance to win prizes including a one-night stay at the hotel’s most luxurious Presidential Suite. The 20% offer on wedding banquets is available throughout this month.—GNLM

Incomplete facts hinder online company registration

By May Thet Hnin

DIRECTORATE of Investment and Company Administration (DICA) is currently unable to approve registration and re-registration of companies through online system as most of the companies have incomplete data, said its director U Myo Min.

The DICA is now implementing MyCO, an online registration system, according to the Myanmar Companies Law 2017, he added.

U Myo Min said; “Most of the companies cannot fill in the forms correctly. They don’t understand meanings exactly and read guidelines issued for the registration process. Therefore, the DICA receives incomplete registration data.”

Under the new online registration system, the DICA will approve the online registration only when companies can fill required facts correctly. Although the DICA is conducting educative program through its website and TV channel, the majority of applicants still fail to follow the guidelines.

U Myo Min continued to say that there occurred a system error on 1 August this year, when the online registration system was launched, as many people used it simultaneously. Therefore, the DICA approved only three companies on the first day. The DICA’s website became active again on 8 August. Until 10 August, the number of local and foreign companies which have made online registration has reached 591. However, nearly 1,000 companies are under scrutiny. The DICA phoned some companies which did not get approval.

Dr Soe Tun, managing director of Farmer Auto Car Showroom, said; “I submitted my application through online yesterday but I don’t know whether my application is approved or not as I have not received confirmation letter yet. I find it difficult, as I don’t get any feedback. No email replies and the phone line was busy when I called the DICA.”

At all DICA’s offices, there are service providers offering online registration services for companies with a set certain service fees. A few companies joined the DICA’s services while many other companies requested the DICA to explain the process of online registration.

According to the new law, entrepreneurs can enjoy reliefs and a business can be set up even with one share and a director. The new law ditches the renewal of licenses, blacklisting, court cases and objectives of establishment of a company. Small companies no longer need to submit their financial statements. In addition, the new law allows a 35-per-cent stake by foreign investors. Foreign-based companies can also run insurance and stock exchange businesses in the country.

Under the new system, 24/7 services are available for all companies to make registration, re-registration and payment through www.myco.dica.gov.mm.

Developed by local and foreign experts, the new Myanmar Companies Law was enacted in 2017. The new law replaced the old Myanmar Companies Act 1914. The emergence of the new law took four years.
Aftershocks rock Indonesia’s Lombok as quake death toll tops 300

MATARAM—The death toll from a devastating earthquake on the Indonesian island of Lombok jumped to 319 Thursday, as strong aftershocks triggered panic among traumatised survivors waiting for aid in the worst-hit regions.

The shallow 5.9-magnitude quake Sunday levelled tens of thousands of homes, mosques and businesses across Lombok, with relief agencies only just starting to reach survivors in some of the worst-hit areas four days later.

“Our latest update is that 319 people died,” said Indonesia’s chief security minister Wiranto, who like many Indonesians goes by one name, adding that rescue efforts were ongoing and complicated by aftershocks.

The number forced from their homes in the disaster has soared to 270,000, national disaster agency spokesman Sutopo Purwo Nugroho said, with around 1,000 people severely injured.

Most of the displaced are sleeping under tents or tarpaulins near their ruined homes or in evacuation shelters that are short of food, clean water and medical help.

Makeshift medical facilities have been set up to treat the injured. Survivors of the quake have also been shaken by hundreds of aftershocks, including a shallow 5.9-magnitude quake Thursday which caused people to flee evacuation shelters crying and screaming.

Motorcycles parked on the street in northern Lombok’s Tanjung district toppled over and the walls of some nearby buildings collapsed.

“We were stuck in the traffic while delivering aid, suddenly it felt like our car was hit from behind, it was so strong,” witness Sri Laksmi told AFP.

“People in the street began to panic and got out of their cars, they ran in different directions in the middle of the traffic.”

Twenty-four people were injured by falling debris in the tremor, Nugroho said.

‘Exceptionally destructive’

Authorities and international relief groups have begun organising aid, but badly damaged roads have slowed efforts to reach survivors in the mountainous north of Lombok, which bore the brunt of the quake.

Aid had begun trickling into some of the most isolated regions by midday Thursday, officials said, but many displaced people still lack basic supplies.

In some parts of northern Lombok, survivors can be seen standing on the road with cardboard boxes asking for donations and food.

“It is already clear that Sunday’s earthquake was exceptionally destructive,” Christopher Russi, the head of a Red Cross assessment team on Lombok, said in a statement.

“I visited villages yesterday that were completely collapsed.”

Workers with heavy machinery are searching the rubble of homes, schools and mosques, with hope of finding any survivors fading.

There are fears that two collapsed mosques in north Lombok had been filled with worshippers.

Rescuers have found three bodies and also managed to pull one man alive from the twisted wreckage of one mosque in Lading Lading village, while at least one body has been spotted under the rubble in Pemenang. Authorities are gathering information from family members with missing relatives to determine how many more people may have been in the buildings when they collapsed, national search and rescue agency spokesman Yusuf Latif told AFP.

Waiting for aid

Across much of the island, a popular tourist destination, once-bustling villages have been turned into virtual ghost towns.

Evacuees in some encampments say they are running out of food, while others are suffering psychological trauma after the powerful quake, which struck just one week after another tremor surged through the island and killed 17.

There is a dire need for medical staff and “long-term aid”, especially food and medicine in the worst-hit areas, government officials said.

About 300 cars packed with food, medicine and basic supplies were sent to heavily impacted regions in the north and west Thursday morning, Agung Pramana, a spokesman for Mataram mitigation disaster agency, told AFP.

But some evacuees have complained of being ignored or experiencing long delays for supplies to arrive at shelters. At a shelter in hard-hit Kayangan, new mother Rusnah, who like many Indonesians goes by one name, said she needed basic supplies for her children.

“I’m still in pain from giving birth,” she told AFP. “I need diapers, I need milk.” —AFP

Russia vows to retaliate against new US sanctions

MOSCOW—The Kremlin on Thursday vowed to retaliate against “unacceptable” new US sanctions against Russia over its alleged role in a nerve agent attack on a former spy in Britain, which prompted the ruble and Russian stocks to tumble.

The action by the US State Department is the latest salvo in a series of disputes between the rival powers and comes less than a month after US President Donald Trump met his Russian counterpart Vladimir Putin in Helsinki.

The State Department said Wednesday the new sanctions were in response to “the use of a ‘Novichok’ nerve agent in an attempt to assassinate UK citizen Sergei Skripal” — who was a Russian double agent — and his daughter Yulia on English soil in March.

They were aimed at punishing Putin’s government for having “used chemical or biological weapons in violation of international law,” spokeswoman Heather Nauert said in a statement.

But the punitive measures triggered a furious reaction from Moscow. Russia will “work on developing retaliatory measures,” foreign ministry spokeswoman Maria Zakharova told journalists.

“Whatever the sanctions against Russia are, the retaliatory measures will be the same,” she said.

Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov was equally emphatic.

“We consider categorically unacceptable the linking of new restrictions, which we as before consider illegal, to the case in Salisbury,” he told journalists.

He said Moscow felt it could now “expect anything at all from Washington” but nevertheless retained “hopes of building constructive relations.”

The announcement of sanctions caused Russian stock markets to drop dramatically on opening and the ruble reached its lowest point since November 2016. The markets and the currency rebounded slightly over the day while remaining sharply down.—AFP

“Aggressive” climate change eroding Andean glaciers, says expert

LIMA — Stepped up global warming is eroding glaciers in South America’s Andean mountain range, Peruvian expert Erick Soriano warned on Thursday.

According to the president of a special commission at the National Glacier and Mountainous Ecosystems Research Institute (Inagem), “the loss of glacial mass has accelerated.”

“We are experiencing a period of very aggressive climate change and the possibility that we will continue to lose glacial mass is imminent,” Soriano told Xinhua.

Soriano spoke of the phenomenon at the start of a two-day regional conference in Lima on policy to address the problem.

Peru has lost about 50 percent of its glaciers in the past 40 years and “if the trend continues, the situation would be serious,” said Soriano.

The glaciers are a vital source of freshwater, he noted, calling for the construction of large reservoirs to capture the runoff and for reforestation to attract more rainwater.

“Water is an essential element for the country’s development, we have to learn to conserve it, treat it and use it rationally,” he said.

Southern Peru has already lost three medium-size glaciers, leading to shortages of water in surrounding communities and more migration to the cities.

Peru’s glaciers are especially vulnerable to rising temperatures because the Peruvian Andes are close to the tropics, he said.

Experts from Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia and Ecuador attended the event.

Death of Margot Kidder, Lois Lane of ‘Superman’ fame, ruled suicide

LOS ANGELES — The death of Margot Kidder, the actress who soared to fame in the 1978 play-acting Lois Lane in the “Superman” movies, has been ruled a suicide, a Montana coroner’s office said.

When she died in May at age 69 neither her agent nor the funeral home who handled her arrangements specified a cause, but Montana’s Park County cor-oner’s office has announced she killed herself.

“Ms. Kidder’s family urg- es those suffering from mental illnesses, addiction and/or suicid-al thoughts to seek appropriate counseling and treatment,” the statement said. Her death came one month before designer Kate Spade and chef Anthony Bour-dain took their own lives, casting a spotlight on the jarring global spike in suicides and the impor-tance of confronting the issue.

Diagnosed with bipolar disorder, Margot Kidder became an activist as well as a champion of left-wing causes PHOTO: AFP

Kidder starred in the Superman trilogy released between 1978- 1983 as hotshot reporter Lane, who was also the love interest of Clark Kent — played by Christopher Reeve, who died in 2004. She also made a cameo appear-ance in the 1987 film about the DC Comics super- hero titled “Superman IV: The Quest for Peace.”

Born Margaret Ruth Kid- der on October 17, 1948 in Can-ada’s Northwest Territories, her career crested in the ‘70s and ‘80s, as she worked with film stars including Robert Redford and Richard Pryor.

She continued to act in her later years but her popu-larity waned after she suffered a highly publicized mental breakdown in 1996. Diagnosed with bipolar disorder, the act-ress became an activist for mental health issues as well as a champion of left-wing caus-es. She became a US citizen in 2005. —AFP

Multitasking helps me as performer

MUMBAI — From promoting her upcoming film “Stree” to doing prep work for Saina Nehw-al biopic, Shraddha Kapoor is multitasking at the moment and the actor says while it takes a toll on her, it also helps her as a performer.

“It has been a busy year for Shraddha with “Stree” and “Batti Gul Meter Chalu” releasing back-to-back, the shooting of “Saaho”, and prep work for Saina Nehw-al biopic. “Sometimes working on films simultaneously can get difficult. It takes a toll on you. But it also helps switching between characters. I feel taking a break from one character to another helps me. “But at the same time, you do not want to over-exhaust yourself thinking about one character. Only when you are this person, the other day you are another; it is the perk of being an actor that we can be someone else,” Shraddha told PTI.

At the beginning of her career, Shraddha was seen as a girl-next-door, but today she feels blessed to be getting di-verses roles. “With “Haseena Parkar”, I had the opportunity to try something different. Also, all my characters be it in ‘Stree’, ‘Batti Gul Meter Chalu’ and Saina Nehwal biopic are very different from each other. I am glad that makers are looking at me in a different way.”

While she is proud of doing “Haseena Parkar”, its box office failure disappointed her.

“I think a lot of people watched on TV, which is ironical because why did not you go to the- atre? I don’t hold both success and failure close to me. That is bound to happen. The only thing I can control is on working hard and giving my best.”

The “Ok Jaanu” star has now shifted focus on the Saina Nehwal biopic, for which she starts shoot-ing from next month. The film will be directed by Amole Gupte.

“It is a physically demanding film. But it is an inspiring story as so many people look up to her. I will begin shooting for it from next month. The film will be directed by Amole Gupte. “I feel taking films simultaneously can get difficult. It takes a toll on you. Sometimes you do and comes with its own set of challenges. “Certain level of fitness always helps. I am pushing myself maximum for ‘Saaho’, Saina Nehwal biopic and whatever is the demand of the role.”

Currently, Shraddha, is busy promoting “Stree”, a horror comedy with Rajkum-mar Rao. The film directed by Amar Kaushik is produced by Raj Nidimoru and Krishna D.K. and Dinesh Vijan under the banner of Maddock Films and will release on 31 August.—PTI

French traveler completes journey to Moscow on Russian-made Ural motorcycle

MOSCOW — Philippe Verger, a traveler from the French city of Tours, has completed his 3,500-kilometer journey to Moscow on a Russian-made Ural motorcycle and arrived to the Russian capital on Thurs-day evening, as scheduled.

“It was a wonderful jour-ney. And we are happy to reach our main goal,” Verger told TASS in an interview. “We are excited, because this is our first-ever visit to Russia, and we want to see as many things as possible.”

During his voyage, Ver ger was accompanied by his 14-year-old son. They visited Germany’s Berlin, Poland’s Poznan and Warsaw, Lithuania’s Kaunas and Velikiye Luki (Russia’s Pskov region), and other cities.

“We travelled at the speed of about 80-85 kilometers per hour on our reliable Ural mo-tocycle,” he said. “We experi-enced no technical problems throughout the entire journey.”

Verger said that upon his arrival to Moscow, he made a phone call to his wife in Tours and they agreed to make their next journey to Russia togeth-er.

During their three-day stay in Moscow, the travelers want to visit the Red Square and the World War II museum and memorial at Poklonnaya Gora (Bow Hill).

According to earlier media reports, the French traveler has been interested in Russia for many years. He was elected vice presi-dent of the French national club of French owners of Rus-sian-made motorbikes, UralFrance, which sees is mission in organizing trips, meetings and exhibitions to promote technical and economic ex-changes between the countries.

Currently, Verger rides a motorcycle that he bought last year for 16,000 euros. He carries just three bags and a rain shelter.

Verger’s trip was funded by a number of French spon-sors, and a film will be made about his journey. According to the traveler, he plans to transfer the sponsors’ funds to the French association Magie a l’hospital, which pro-vides assistance to gravely ill children.

Verger has also said his tour was linked to the history of World War II. “It is important to keep the memory of the nations’ fight against Nazism and pass it over to next gener-a-tions,” he noted on 2 August. “Russia made a decisive contribu-tion to the defeat of Nazism and France pays tribute to its outstanding role in the common struggle.” —Tass
Scientists win new funding for pioneering work to map every cell in human body

LONDON—Pioneering scientific research to create the world’s first map of all the cells in the human body will be able to go ahead following a 7 million pound (about 9 million US dollars) grant, it was announced on Thursday.

The Welbeck charitable scientific foundation, announced the grant for the Human Cell Atlas project, which aims to transform biological research and medicine by allowing scientists to define the exact characteristics of every cell type, creating a map of human bodies.

The cutting-edge international research has been compared to the Human Genome Project in its scale and ambition.

The Welbeck grant is the first major financial commitment to fund the British contribution to the research which will power the collection, sequencing and analysis of cells. The entire project currently covers 27 scientists in 10 different countries.

The project will build on a long history of research in genomics and biomedical issues by British scientists, aided by strong links between research groups, tissue biobanks and hospitals.

Researchers hope that insights gained from the atlas could give a better understanding of how diseases such as asthma and cancer develop and progress, or point to new diagnostic tools and treatments.

“The human body is made up of 37 trillion cells and the atlas seeks to create a three-dimensional map of those cells — where they are, what kind of cells they are, what are their features, how do they relate to each other, where do they sit,” Dr. Katrina Gold, of Welbeck, told Xinhua in an exclusive interview on Thursday afternoon.

“That is the first layer of information and then when you know what a healthy organ, for example, looks like you can zoom into the organ and understand in a detailed way what is there and how cells talk to each other and start to compare that to a situation where a tissue may be diseased and understand what is going wrong,” said Gold.

“Because this is a fundamental research science project looking at the nature of cells, most of the problems are caused by cells misbehaving in some way and in order to understand these processes you have to go back to how are those cells working when normal and how they react when they are disturbed by disease,” Gold also said.

The research on both donated adult and developing tissues will allow scientists to compare the properties of cells and tissues present at different stages of life.

The aim is to understand a period of human development that has previously been a dark area for researchers.

This could include new understanding about cancers, many of which hijack the same pathways that are involved in early development, or answer specific questions such as why adult tissue scars, but developing skin does not.

“The grant is to be spent over about two to three years; this is the first draft atlas and there is an estimated five years needed for that,” said Gold. “There will probably be another phase, when things will be scaled up to give a more solid final draft. This is roughly a 10-year timescale.”

The new project will be led by Dr. Sarah Teichmann, head of cellular genetics at the Wellcome Sanger Institute in Cambridge. She said: “The Human Cell Atlas will transform our understanding of human health and disease, and we are excited to be able to embark on the next stage of this important project.”

Five British institutions besides the Sanger Institute will collaborate on the project, including Newcastle University, King’s College London, the University of Oxford, the University of Cambridge and the European Bioinformatics Institute. —Xinhua

Samsung unveils newest smartphone hoping for sales boost

NEW YORK—South Korean electronics giant Samsung unveiled the new Galaxy Note 9 smartphone Thursday, its latest effort to address flagging sales of the high-functioning gadgets.

Boosting the power and the price, Samsung hopes to win back customers in the competitive market. The consistent leader in the global smartphone market, the company nonetheless suffered a 22 per cent drop in mobile technology sales in the second quarter.

The company blamed the drop in part to disappointing demand for the Galaxy S9, but it also has been pressured by growth in Chinese competitor Huawei.

At a glitzy the launch event in Brooklyn, Samsung unveiled a suite of high tech products, including a smart speaker and watch, and then showed off the new Galaxy Note 9, which will be available for purchase on 24 August.

The phone contains a series of improvements but was described by analysts as having no radical new innovations. The latest model boosts memory capacity, and allows customers to play video games such as the popular Fortnite.

Customers will have the option of 128 or 512 gigabytes of memory, and also can insert a micro card to boost capacity beyond a terabyte, a record for a smartphone.

Samsung also enhanced the gadget’s batteries so it can now be used for an entire day without needing to be recharged — a common headache for cell phone users.

Other improvements include tweaks to the device’s “S Pen” feature, which can be used as a remote control for taking pictures or selfie with Bluetooth technology.

And the new model has enough capacity for video games. Samsung has set up a promotion with the popular Fortnite game that lets users download a special mobile version.

According to some trade media sources, the Galaxy Note 9 version with 512 gigabytes will be the most expensive smartphone geared towards the general public.—AFP

Britain in race to launch 2,000 satellites into space by 2030

LONDON — British Business secretary Greg Clark said Thursday Britain was poised to compete for the launch of an estimated 2,000 satellites by 2030.

Clark expanded on the commercial opportunities to be gained by Britain’s increasing role in the space sector during his first visit to the site of a future UK spaceport in the Sutherland region of Scotland.

The UK Space Agency said Thursday the commercial vertical and horizontal satellite launch demand is worth a potential 5 billion US dollars to the British economy over the next decade.

Clark said that because of Britain’s location, planned regulatory framework, private sector strategy and space ecosystem, it has a competitive advantage to compete for a substantial share of a market for launching an estimated 2,000 small satellites by 2030.

During the visit, Clarkviewed plans for the spaceport site and held discussions with local people and businesses to hear their thoughts. Low cost access to space is important for the UK’s thriving space sector which builds more small satellites than any other country, with Glasgow building more than any other city in Europe, he said.

The 23 million US dollars Sutherland spaceport is being developed by Highlands and Islands Enterprise (HIE).

Final, third place matches of AFF U-16 Championship to play today

THE final and third place matches of ASEAN Football Federation (AFF) U-16 Championship will be played this evening at the same Gelora Delta Stadium, Sidoarjo in Indonesia.

The third place match between Myanmar and Malaysia will be played first at 3:30pm local time (3pm Myanmar time) after which the final match between Thailand and Indonesia will be played at 7pm local time (6:30pm Myanmar time).

With the scores 1-0 each at the semi-final matches, Thailand and Indonesia have advanced to the final place after beating Myanmar and Malaysia, respectively.

Top goalscorer so far is Amiruddin Bagus Kahfi Al-Fikri from Indonesia, garnering 12 goals, followed by Viet Nam’s Dinh Thanh Trung with eight goals and Singapore’s Zikos Vasileios Chua Ming Xun with four goals.

The best goalscorer of last year’s AFF U-16 Championship was Sieng Chanthea from Cambodia, with five goals, and the top goalscorer in 2016 was John Roberts, with eight goals, from Australia.

How Premier League’s top five stand after transfer window

LONDON—With the Premier League’s transfer window closing on Thursday, the top title contenders have completed their squad building until January.

Here AFP Sport looks at how the division’s elite teams fared in the transfer market and what their prospects are for the coming season:

Manchester City

After sweeping to the title with a record 100 points and more wins and goals than any previous team in the Premier League era, it was tough for Manchester City boss Pep Guardiola to improve his stylish side. Guardiola opted for only one significant new recruit, landing Algeria winger Riyad Mahrez from Leicester in a £60 million swoop. Mahrez bolsters City’s already impressive array of attacking talent and, while Guardiola missed out on Italy midfielder Jorginho, the Champions’ combination of youthful swagger and world-class talent still makes them favourites to reign supreme again at the end of the season.

Manchester United

Jose Mourinho made an early splash as he spent £52 million on Shakhtar Donetsk’s Brazilian midfielder Fred and a further £19 million on Porto defender Diogo Dalot, but the Manchester United manager was still underwhelmed by his club’s business. Mourinho spent much of United’s pre-season tour of the United States grumbling about the lack of depth in his squad and reportedly feuding with executive vice-chairman Ed Woodward over failed approaches for defenders Harry Maguire,erry Mina and Toby Alderweireld. After finishing second last season – 19 points behind City – United look no closer to bridging the gap to their hated rivals.

Tottenham

Mauricio Pochettino had challenged his club to be “brave and take risks” when asked what Tottenham needed to do to improve their squad following their third-place finish last season. Fast forward three months and the north Londoners are under-fire from their fans after failing to make a single signing. Pochettino is adamant Tottenham’s lack of transfer activity isn’t a problem because it was just as important to hold onto the club’s key players. Harry Kane, Christian Eriksen, Son Heung-min and Kieran Tripper have all signed new contracts since May. “I am not worried, I am not sad. I am so happy. To keep our best players was our objective and we have achieved that,” Pochettino said.

Liverpool

Determined to build on a fine season that saw his team finish as Champions League runners-up and take fourth place in the Premier League, Reds boss Jurgen Klopp embarked on a £100 million spending spree. Klopp landed Roma goalkeeper Alisson Becker for £66 million and paid £52 million for RB Leipzig midfielder Naby Keita. Not content with those eye-catching deals, Klopp added midfielder Fabinio from Monaco for £39 million and landed Stoke playmaker Xherdan Shaqiri in an £18-million move. Having knocked City out of the Champions League last season, while also beating them in domestic action, Liverpool are expected to mount a strong challenge for the title as they look to end their 29-year wait to be crowned kings of English football.
