Japanese Ambassador meets SWRR Union Minister

UNION Minister for Social Welfare, Relief and Resettlement Dr. Win Myat Aye received Japanese Ambassador to Myanmar Mr. Ichiro Maruyama at the Maykal- ar Hall in his ministry in Nay Pyi Taw yesterday morning.

During the meeting, they openly discussed the status of constructing houses in northern Rakhine State with support from the Japanese Government, closing down displaced people camps in Sittway, ensuring displaced people have appropriate livelihoods, assuring cooperation between local residents, the displaced people, humanitarian organizations, the regional government and UN organizations in the resettlement processes, and cooperation with UNHCR in repatriating displaced people who fled to Bangladesh.—MNA
In order to achieve these aims, it is important that we create opportunities for citizens across the country to participate in these endeavours. We urge all our citizens to cooperate together with the government.

We have witnessed the cooperation of government, civil society organisations and citizens both during the peace process and holding 21st Century Panglong Conferences, as well as in the course of adapting and creating new government policies.

Speaker and all members of Parliament.

The government is undertaking to establish a Union for the benefit of all its citizens, however, there are still many challenges to overcome to ensure our successful transition to democracy. As the government has anticipated, the 2008 Constitution should be amended step by step, to guarantee the smooth transition. Similarly, the Democratic Federal Union can only be implemented if we can build freedom, equality and mutual respect amongst the ethnic people.

With this in mind, the current government has made the peace process a top priority. With the peace process at the centre, national reconciliation can be achieved, and this, shall lead to democratic transition and the establishment of the Union.

The main goal of the current peace process is to reach political agreements. In short, to sign the Union Accord and implement steps for establishing a Union based on democracy and federalism. In doing so, common approaches will be agreed through the process of holding political dialogue.

The role of military in the peace process is also very crucial. We need to overcome many challenges harmoniously during the peace process.

Establishing the federal Union and achieving the democratic standards anticipated by the government will take time and there will only be steps by step. However, our ultimate goal is to establish a democratic federal Union is unwavering. In order to bring about a political agreement, the 21st Century Panglong (Union Peace Conference) has already been held three times. As of now, 51 political agreements have been agreed. The government has reasserted its commitment to establish a Union based on democracy and federalism which has been unanimously requested by the ethnic people.

At the second meeting of the 21st Century Panglong (Union Peace Conference), an agreement was in fact reached on matters regarding the right to self-determination and the formation of state constitutions. However, after reaching agreement, this had to be set aside. Just as non-secession is important, it is equally important to join hands together to build up a federal Union.

Speaker and all members of Parliament

While the government is working to establish peace, stability and a democratic federal Union, there are many challenges. For over 70 years, previous governments have been trying to resolve the issues in Rakhine State, which have been smouldering in the background. This is the reason why the transition to democracy has been slow, as the current government is trying to take care of the Rakhine issue first.

Since the ARSA attacks in October 2016, the situation has been unstable. The issues reignited in August 2017 when 30 border police outpost and a military headquarters were attacked by ARSA. Due to the terrorist attacks, a significant number of people fled over to neighbouring Bangladesh, and as a consequence, Myanmar was blamed in the international arena.

The necessary arrangements for repatriation, relief and resettlement have now been undertaken in accordance with the bilateral arrangement signed by Myanmar and Bangladesh on 23 November 2017.

The Independent Commission of Enquiry (ICOE)

The Independent Commission of Enquiry (ICOE) consisting of two well-known international personalities and two local experts was established in accordance with the law. This Commission is mandated to investigate allegations of human rights violations and the related issues of terrorist attacks. There will be cooperation and collaboration among relevant departments and organisations, the security forces and the ICOE.

We are capable of handling our national affairs not only by utilising our sovereign power, but also by being able and willing to do so.

Myanmar respects the sovereignty and dignity of each individual nation, and therefore it will continuously work towards fostering closer friendships that will contribute towards global peace and the improvement of international relations. In this regard, it is also crucial to follow international laws and agreements.

In order to handle the Rakhine issue, peaceful coexistence through diversity will be implemented. However, if mind-sets and perspectives remain the same as when the conflicts and tension occurred, we will not be able to resolve these issues. Thus, the issue should be addressed with a new approach, taking into consideration regional and international perspectives, in accordance with 21st century globalisation. We will only be able to overcome the unfair challenges and pressures with the unity of our citizens.

The Rakhine situation is a very complex and sensitive issue. The government would like to express its gratitude to the public for its understanding, trust and support during this difficult and stressful period as it is trying its utmost for the future development of the nation.

In the nation building endeavour, the government continues to strive to amend laws that are no longer agreeable to democratic values accepted and human rights standards. The current Government aims to institute the rule of law, through the development and promulgation of laws, rules and regulations, law enforcement, and the administration of justice through the legal system to promote good governance.

The Union Government has put great efforts in enhancing the ability of the youth to think critically and philosophically, by providing more access to libraries and research, so that a new generation of highly educated youth can be produced.

Apart from the construction works by Ministry of Construction, 144 Union roads were upgraded with the assistance of the ADB, the World Bank, JICA, KfW of Germany. Of them, 333 miles of concrete road, 356 miles of tar road and 1,005 miles of nylon-tar road were upgraded.

Besides, the ministry upgraded 2,916 miles of road in total and 1,940 bridges in rural areas as part of efforts for providing the rural people with smooth transportation. The Ministry of Construction would upgrade roads in rural areas every year, setting its target of turning the roads to all-weather roads to be accessed by 80 per cent of the villages and 90 per cent of the rural population of the country.

Urban projects and industrial cities

Urban projects and industrial cities are being developed in some big cities like Yangon and Mandalay within 3 years for systematic development of urban housing.

Economic growth is expected to accelerate by having businessmen participate in these mega projects. The development of these mega projects will create job opportunities and have multiplier effects in the economy. These effects will drive the economy and positively influence on the national GDP.

The role of active young entrepreneurs has become important among today’s businessmen. The government has been supporting to have more young entrepreneurs emerged. These young businessmen are the future of Myanmar’s business environment. More businesses at the international level will emerge by supporting and nurturing them.

Negotiations have been made in cooperation with the IFC of the World Bank Group for the development of Yangon elevated road in coming 2019 with a view to address the traffic issues in Yangon. Such development is being pursued with the expectation not only to address traffic issues but also to create job opportunities.

Urban development is becoming a challenge in more highly populated cities. It is important that future potential developments are taken into consideration to address these challenges.

During the past 2 years, it was planned to construct 10,924 rooms for public housing and for government employees, among which 57,48 rooms that is 70 percent of the plan are now available. Efforts are being made for timely construction of the rest and in addition, construction of over 10,000 rooms are planned, out of which over 4,000 rooms are to be constructed through different PPP models and over 6,000 rooms are to be constructed by private companies.

Urban projects in 33 cities across the country have been implemented and planning for additional urban projects are being developed in cooperation with the states and regional governments. The Master Plan for Yangon Region, Master Plan for Yangon-Hanthawaddy-Iago corridor and Master Plan for Southwest of Yangon have been developed in cooperation with JICA of Japan and KOICA of Korea.

It is important to have higher electricity supply in the process of developing road and transport connectivities, and also developing urban housing and infrastructures. Development of these basic infrastructures could open up business and job opportunities.

Electricity supply increased by 556 MW

During the past two and a half years, electricity supply has increased by 556 MW from 2,802 MW to 3,388 MW. Hence, electricity can be supplied to 33 cities, 3,843 villages and 684,013 households. As the electricity consumption has been rising from 15% to 19% per annum, it will increase up to 4,321 MW in 2020-2021.

In order to meet the electricity demand, efforts are being made to generate 220 MW in 2018, 449 MW in 2018-19, 737 MW in 2019-2010, 1,351 MW in 2020-2021 that are 2,757 MW in total.

The natural gas production may gradually decline as the production from Yadana project has reached a plateau level. Offshore natural gas exploration and onshore oil exploration are being expanded to mitigate the effect of gradual national gas production decline.

Drilling of deep and shallow wells are being conducted in the sea near Bakhine, Ayeayawaddy and Tanintharyi coastal areas. Currently, prospects are observed in A-6 off the Ayeayawaddy coast. Once the estimated reserves have been confirmed, official announcement would be made. Tender proposals will be solicited to international companies for the exploration of onshore and offshore blocks.

Agricultural sector depends on by the majority of population has become an important foundation in developing basic infrastructures for the nation building. To strengthen the important economic foundation, to have farmers’ families benefited from their own farming, and to have the generations of farmers possess the right to their farmland, the 2012 Law on Farm Land and 2012 Vacant, Fallow and Virgin Land Management Law have been amended to reflect the actual on-ground situation.

Encountering natural disasters on a regular basis

Along with the environmental degradation around the world, Myanmar has been encountering natural disasters on a regular basis due to climate change and losses are encountered on the annual basis.

During the perid under the existing government, Disaster Risk Management Committee and Ministry of Social Welfare, Relief and Resettlement have spent Kyats 2.4 billion and Kyats 11.330 billion respectively that are Kyats 13.739 billion in total for the support and rehabilitation activities in the disaster areas.

To avoid difficulty in access to agricultural and drinking water in the dry zone and coastal areas, plans are being made for effective storage of rain water.

To thanks to renovation and maintenance of reservoirs and irrigation system, about 1.23 million acres of rice received irrigation water sufficiently in this rainy season and about 1.167 million acres of rice were supplied with irrigation water from the reservoirs and dams. Besides, this year saw further 260,000 acres of rice in summer while about 1,500 tube-wells were drilled for agricultural purpose and about 400 tube-wells for supply drinking water.

To be able to adapt to climate change impacts on agriculture, to improve timelines in agricultural production and to minimize the loss and wastages in the sector, we believe that the use of farm machinery should be increased. Therefore, plans are underway to promote the use of agricultural machinery. Today, about 75 per cent of the cultivation were operated by mechanization from ploughing to harvesting.

The incumbent government has released a total of 63,417 acres of confiscated farmland so far and returned 13,991 acres to farmers and 56,256 acres to ministries and regions and states.

To accelerate the country’s economy based on the agricultural sector and to boost the agricultural products, the Union Government laid down the national export strategy; practicing all possible means and ways to get the export market for Myanmar’s products.

Regarding the export sector, efforts are being made to produce value-added products from rice, peas and pulses, fish, textile, woods and rubber. Besides, the Union Government has stepped up its efforts for promoting transport, quality of export products, availability of information on trade and financial services. Today, Myanmar’s export is relying on agricultural sector, fishery and livestock sector, and private small and medium enterprises.

Local production sector facing challenges

Meanwhile, local production sector is facing challenges, such as getting quality seeds, shortage of machinery in production, fertile, systematic use of pesticides, short of skilled laborers. To be able to provide the people with safety and nutritious food, efforts are being made to promote organic crops production and high-quality products. It is found that the special challenges for our SMEs are capital, technology and market penetration.

Government borrows ODA from JICA as two-step loans for SMEs in order to fill the need for finance and Kyats 60 billion loans has been extended to SMEs within 3 years. It is also planned to extend the loan of additional Kyats 290 billion to the SMEs in 2018-2019. In addition, the State-owned Myanmar Economic Bank also plans to extend the loan amounting to Kyats 250 billion as SME loans.

Similarly, A two-step loans amounting to Kyats 290 billion was acquired to support farmers and help them have better access to finance during a transformation process towards mechanized farming and Kyats 30 billion loans has been extended to farmers so far. Myanmar Economic Bank also plans to extend the loans amounting to Kyats 200 billion for agriculture and livestock farming businesses.

Agriculture loans extended by Myanmar Agricultural Development Bank has increased from Kyats 100,000 to Kyats 150,000 per acre for paddy farming. Loans extended for other crops have increased from Kyats 20,000 to Kyats 50,000 per acre and it is planned to further increase up to Kyats 100,000 per acre.

The presence of illegal trades, lower export generated incomes, loss of taxes, depletion of natural resources, illegal importation of consumer products have significant impacts on domestic small and medium sized industries and pose significant challenges exposing risks to consumers. It is planned to have these challenges properly handled in accordance with the Laws.

Trade imbalances exist due to current account deficits as imports are much higher than exports. As US dollar has strengthened significantly since the past April and June, many currencies in the world including Myanmar Kyat are becoming weaker. Although that is a global impact, depreciation of Myanmar Kyat is found to be more significant than those of other countries.

While there are many factors that cause Myanmar Kyat to depreciate, current account deficit, interest rates, inflation and economic prospects are factors among others that mainly influence on the exchange rate. Analyzing the depreciation of Myanmar Kyat, although it started with the external impacts, the factors that include but are not limited to weaken economic fundamentals and structural issues have significant impacts on the exchange rate.

Looking at the trade, trade deficit was US$3.6 billion in 2017-18 and it is actually lower than previous years.

Report on the current work of the government: political, economic and social development, and the peace process

In 2016-2017, trade deficit was US$ 5.2 billion and it was US$ 5.4 billion in 2015-2016. It is evident that these deficits have had a lot of pressure on the domestic currency.

Second, changes in season -al foreign currency demands also have impacts on the exchange rate. Especially during the period from July to December, demands for foreign currency is usually high.

In order to reduce the trade deficit, to strengthen domestic economy and to be resilient and to withstand various impacts, the government has been going through various reform processes in cooperation with the private sector stakeholders.

Government of Myanmar places a lot of effort in enhancing productivity, developing young drivers, and creating favorable investment and business climate. Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) for application of business approvals and permits are being developed and a Single Window system according to which applications can be made and approvals and permits can be received at one place will be developed soon. Now, the new Companies Law has been enacted and online system through which companies can be incorporated without needing to come to the office has been up and running. Hence, it is projected that Myanmar’s Ease of Doing Business ranking will improve in the years ahead.

With the cooperation of private sector and based on the efforts made by relevant government departments, it is planned to improve the ranking of Ease of Doing Business for Myanmar from the current status of 171 to less than 100 in a few years time. It is aimed not only at improving the ranking but also at changing the existing procedures of the government departments, especially to change the current situation of unpopular red-tapes, increased corruptions, and the mismatch between the government’s policy objectives and its departments’ organization and performance.

Speaker and all members of Parliament,

At the same time, the government has established a four year (2018-2021) strategic plan for anti-corruption reforms and initiatives to reduce the erosion state funds and bring bribery and corruption under control. The government’s plans are now in place to implement the strategic plan for anti-corruption and bribery. At the same time, in order to protect individual rights and the basic rights of citizens, the protection of human rights is being implemented as a matter of great importance.

The Myanmar National Human Rights Commission is ensuring greater understanding, promoting awareness and protection. In police cells and prisons, noticeable improvements in food and accommodation can be seen.

Legal aid for people who cannot afford legal representation

Legal aid for people who cannot afford legal representation has been established. Legal aid is given to citizens who are poor and unable to defend for themselves, such as children, women, the elderly, disabled, and people suffering from communicable diseases.

Similarly, the President’s Office has taken direct responsibility of the anti-narcotics taskforce. It is encouraging to see that there has been continuous cooperation from the people in reporting information on drug-related crimes.

Since the taskforce was established on 27th June 2018, until 17th September 2018, a total of 698 reports were made and 514 of these were investigated, resulting in 174 arrests made. A total of 426 people (336 males and 70 females) were apprehended. A total of 2,626.97 grams of heroin, 16.71 grams of ICE, 34,896.85 grams of opium, 144,781 tablets of amphetamine, 3,356.74 grams of marijuana, 10 assorted arms, 179 assorted ammunition and 1 hand grenade were confiscated. To date, there have still not been many reports of large-scale drug traffickers received.

Three centres for youth rehabilitation managed by the Central Committee for Drug Abuse Control, and 9 centres for rehabilitation managed by the Ministry of Social Welfare, Relief and Resettlement were opened to give assistance, education and treatment programs to people taking mind-altering drugs and other kinds of substances. Assistance and rehabilitation to people suffering both physically and mentally was also given through educational and vocational training.

The Myanmar police force, which plays a vital role in upholding the role of law, has been enhanced to improve law enforcement. Arms and weapons have been updated, and training schools have been upgraded together with international institutions. Updates were also made to the forensics and DNA lab facilities. Communication equipment has been upgraded. It is understood that for nations going through transition, it takes an average of 10 years for the rule of law to take firm hold.

It is a long-term investment, where dynamic and unremitting motivation is required, if the nation is to live in harmony, peace and security under a strong and firm rule of law.

Speaker and all members of Parliament,

May I conclude by clarifying that the government will exercise the powers vested in them by the people, with the collected efforts of the people, by:

• Ensuring the rule of law and promoting socio-economic development;
• Peace and national reconciliation; and
• Firmly upholding our objective to amend the constitution, which is the basic foundation for building a Democratic Federal Union.
