Speed up development of storm-hit areas in cooperation with companies

Ayeyawady, Bago and Yangon Divisions are major rice producing areas and they provide not only local consumption needs but also international food requirements.

Over one million acres of cultivable lands were flooded with seawater in seven townships in Ayeyawady Division, three in Yangon Division, two in Bago Division and three in Mon State during the storm earlier this month. Moreover, over 200,000 cattle were lost.

Many paddy fields and farmlands were destroyed. Seeds, fertilizers, cattle, fuel and power-tillers are needed for production of paddy.

In order to restart agricultural work, companies, associations and industrial zones provide power-tillers. Moreover, the government will provide necessary assistance for fisheries and salt industries in the storm-affected areas.

Power-tillers arrived in Dedaye, one of the storm-hit townships and the farmers will reclaim the land by using the power-tillers in their fields with the help of drivers of Agricultural Mechanization Department.

Necessary assistance is being provided for livelihood of the people in some worst-hit areas in Ayeyawady Division. In addition, the tasks for rebuilding of towns and villages are being implemented and the needs for education, transport, food and health care services are being provided to the villages.

Regional development will be brought about in storm-hit regions through the assistance of the government and cooperation of local and foreign donors including companies.

British submarine hits rocks in Red Sea, no casualties reported

LONDON, 28 May—A nuclear-powered submarine of Britain’s Royal Navy hit rocks beneath the surface of the Red Sea, but there were no casualties and the vessel has now safely surfaced, the Ministry of Defence said Tuesday.

The collision occurred Monday when the HMS Superb was diving in the northern Red Sea, the ministry said in a statement. The Swiftsure-class attack submarine, which does not carry nuclear weapons, remains water-tight and its nuclear reactor was “completely unaffected,” it added.

A ministry spokesman refused to reveal the vessel’s current mission in the area, which he said was being reassessed as its sonar was damaged. An investigation into the cause of the accident is underway, the ministry said.—Internet

Oil prices drop below $129

New York, 28 May—Crude futures dropped sharply to below 129 US dollars a barrel Tuesday as the demand concern began to weigh on the market.

Light, sweet crude for July delivery settled at 128.85 dollars a barrel, trading down3.34 dollars, on the New York Mercantile Exchange. And the price continued to fall as low as 128.18 dollars a barrel in the after-hour electronic trading. A series of supply warnings sent oil prices skyrocketing to an all-time high of 135.09 dollars a barrel on Thursday.

Speculative traders were heavy sellers Tuesday, cashing in profits from last week’s oil price rally. Some analysts believed that investors pulled back on the concern that the soaring oil and gas prices have hurt demand for fuel during the normally busy summer driving season.

A rising dollar, which gained ground against the euro on Tuesday, also contributed to the fall of oil prices.

Nigeria ruling party wins two re-run elections

LAGOS, 28 May—Nigeria’s ruling party has retained the governorships of the oil-producing state of Bayelsa and of northern Sokoto in re-runs of elections last year that were condemned as not credible, officials said on Sunday.

The courts had annulled the election of nine state governors after polls in April last year which foreigner observers said were flawed.

The People’s Democratic Party (PDP) has won all four state re-runs so far held, with victories in central Kogi state in March and in northeast Adamawa state last month.

The national electoral body said on state television that Aliyu Wamakko polled 562,395 votes in the election in Sokoto to defeat his closest rival Maigari Dingyadi of the Democratic Peoples Party, who had 124,046 votes.

In Bayelsa, Timipre Sylva scored a landslide against Ebitimi Amgba of the opposition Action Congress Party, electoral officials said.

The rerun governorship polls on Saturday were generally peaceful, but turnout was low, local media said.

The April 2007 elections were billed as a democratic landmark in Africa’s top oil producing nation, marking the first transfer of power from one elected leader to another since independence from Britain in 1960. —MNA/Reuters

Prime suspect to stand trial in Siemens bribery scandal

FRANKFURT, 28 May—One of the main suspects in a corruption and bribery scandal that shook German engineering group Siemens will stand trial on Monday at a Munich court on charges of embezzlement. Reinhard Siekaczek, who worked at Siemens for almost four decades, is accused of expanding a system of funds for bribes to win contracts and setting up a network of front firms to facilitate the transfer of cash.

The scandal, which resulted in one of the biggest bribery investigations in German corporate history and prompted the departure of the company’s chairman, Heinrich von Pierer, as well as its chief executive, has tarnished the image of a German industrial icon. The court, which has allotted 15 days for the trial, is expected to hear testimony from von Pierer and Thomas Ganswindt, who used to run Siemens’ telecommunications business. —MNA/Reuters

US company to train Nigerian pilots, engineers

Rising food prices hurting poorest in war zones

GENEVA, 28 May—Millions of people already suffering because of armed conflicts are likely to be particularly hard hit by the current increase in food prices, the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) warned on Tuesday.

“The recent rise in food and fuel prices is making life even harder for poor people already struggling to cope with the effects of war and internal violence,” said ICRC President Jakob Kellenberger in a statement.

“This is especially the case in countries such as Chad, Somalia, Yemen, Afghanistan and Haiti,” he said.

In its annual report on 2007, which was released on Tuesday, the ICRC announced a total expenditure of 944 million Swiss francs (about 917 million U.S. dollars), with 45 percent of field expenditure last year going to Africa and 21 percent to the Middle East.

The welfare of people forced fighting to flee their homes continued to be a priority for the ICRC.

In 2007 it assisted more than 4 million internally displaced people—around half a million more than in 2006—especially in places not covered by other organizations on security grounds.

Kellenberger expressed concern that in many armed conflicts, civilians are being specifically targeted, with effects that devastate the lives of millions of men, women and children.

“This report draws attention to the countless violations of international humanitarian law that we witnessed throughout the world last year and it documents the ICRC’s efforts to put a stop to those violations,” he said.

“Greater respect for the law would mean fewer civilians being killed or wounded, fewer women and girls being raped, and fewer people forced to leave their homes,” he added.

Iran says ElBaradei report approves its peaceful use of nuke program

VIENNA, 28 May—Iranian Ambassador to IAEA Ali Asghar Soltanieh said here Tuesday the report of the IAEA Director General Mohamed ElBaradei approved that all atomic programs of Iran are for peaceful use and no nuclear-related military programs were found.

He reaffirmed that Iran had clarified all unresolved problems, saying that “we have made necessary explanations” to all questions and Iran would continue “co-operating with IAEA.”

However, some media pointed out that ElBaradei’s latest report, which was circulated Monday evening to the UN Security Council and the IAEA Board of Governors still showed serious concern on the nuclear programs of Iran.

Therefore, the agency would require “substantive explanations” from Iran to support its statements on the alleged studies and other information with a possible military dimension.

Some media even said the report mentioned Iran’s uranium enrichment facilities were still on increase.

So far the report has not been published. However, according to media in Vienna, this draft report was a development on the report which was published on 22 Feb, and said Iran did not offer enough explanation on some problems, especially those ranged over high explosives testing and the missile re-entry vehicle project as well as uranium-related components.

The relief supplies donated from abroad for the storm victims have been arriving by air and by sea. Officials accepted the donations at the airport and ports systematically and distributed them to the storm-hit regions without delay.

Myanmar has been hit by the cyclone ‘Nargis’. The storm is the severest of its kind in the course of Myanmar history. So, it destroyed houses and buildings in seven townships in Ayeyawady Division and 40 townships in Yangon Division and triggered tidal waves, killing a huge number of human beings and animals. Some villages, farm huts and fishery huts were swept away.

So, the National Disaster Preparedness Central Committee steered by the Prime Minister held an emergency meeting during the period of the storm on 3 May. Then, rescue and relief tasks were launched as soon as possible. Rescue and resettlement works were carried out with might and main at the national level. As a result, a large number of the homeless people had been rescued and more than 1,064,000 homeless people could be evacuated and accommodated in five base camps, 15 transit camps and 12 forward camps. Moreover, drinking water and food supplies were distributed by motorboat and by helicopter in the storm-hit areas stretching to the far-flung areas.

Now, rescue tasks have been carried out to a certain degree. And food supplies, water, clothes and shelters have been provided for the victims to continue to survive. The success is largely due to the donations made by internal and international donors. It is common knowledge that the relief supplies are being delivered by car, by helicopter, by motorboat, by vessel and by naval ship as soon as possible to the storm-hit area at will. Local authorities do not impose any restrictions on any forms of donation at all. Now, even well-wishers are invited to donate things to the storm-affected areas, let alone imposing restrictions on the donors. The more the people provide supplies, the greater benefit the victims will enjoy.

Here, I would like to present what I have heard from some witnesses and the stories relayed by some people so that well-wishers and donors can weigh the rumours. As far as I am concerned, in some regions, the people dropped snacks and things from the moving vehicles, and as a result, a large number of people were waiting along the roads for supplies. Maybe, some of them were storm-victims, whereas some were opportunists. No one can know exactly where those waiting for vehicles along the roads are from and who they are.

Supposing they were victims, the people should recognize the status of the victims. The victims along the roads were in a scramble to get the dropped things from the vehicles. I would say that can tarnish the image of the country and the people, and downgrade the status of the victims. In addition, that can have adverse effects on the generosity of the donors. Indeed, the donors should show their respect in presenting their donations, while the victims should accept the donations in all modesty. There might be conflicts between victims, jostling each other for the supplies from the moving vehicles. If the conflict between two victims grows into that between two villages, and then between two village-tracts, it will not be worth it for the donors. Moreover, the donors may get evil consequences, rather than fruitful benefits. That is a notable point.

Another possible point is that the victims gather into a large crowd and they might stop the vehicles by force for things. And they might not allow a car to move on if the passengers do not make any donations to them. If so, charity may grow into a robbery without violence. There should not be such incidents. Some said that they had witnessed such incidents. I learnt that in their trip to the areas to donate things, some donors had to spare some of their supplies to present to the people waiting along the roads in order to avoid possible hostility. Donors were embarrassed in their trips to the storm-hit areas.

Everybody may make donations at will

Kyaw Ye Min

Everybody may make donations at will

It is also learnt that township level authorities going around the township concerned warned with the use of loudspeakers that some people were dropping things from the vehicles to the victims, thereby arousing the covetousness of non-victims; and that donors were requested not to make donations along the roads and to cooperate with respective relief committees to donate things. I would like the donors to understand and accept that dropping things from moving vehicles to the victims along the roads may harm the character of local victims.

Some of such donors are making donations designed for political gains. In some cases, such people in disguise of donors incited a riot by provoking the outrage of the crowd on the road. Some shot the scenes in which people were in a scramble to get money and things dropped from moving vehicles and sold the tapes and photos to foreign media at the expense of the image of the nation and the people. If foreigners, watching those tapes and looking at those photos, misunderstand the status of our country, the image and dignity of the nation and the people will go down the drain. That is food for thought.

Now, some persons are trying to exploit the natural disaster for political gains. I do not want any unnecessary restrictions on the people who are willing to make donations. Therefore, it is required of the donors to be vigilant against the real purposes of so-called donors trying to attain political gains.

I would like to present a true story. A team made up of the chairman of Pathein NLD, the secretary and members gave away a one-thousand kyat note each to the victims at the relief camp in Pathein Basic Education High School (3). After giving away 34 notes, they engaged in conflict with local authorities. So, they stopped giving away the notes. If their donation was based on goodwill, they should present all the notes to the victims. Some of the victims who had not got a one-thousand kyat note left the camp to show their dissatisfaction. So, officials concerned had to meet and organize them and make arrangements for their convenience to proceed to their destinations.

Indeed, it is NLD that incited the outrage of the victims under the pretext of donation. Officials had to address the issue created by the NLD.

The government and the people are now working in collaboration in carrying out rehabilitation tasks at the national level. International community is making significant contribution towards the drive. In such a situation, NLD is trying to exploit the situation politically, instead of cooperating with the people. That event was a profound evidence that NLD is attempting to incite the outrage of the victims and problems, and to make the public outrage go into riots. I would say that evidence showed the selfishness and coarse manners of NLD.

In conclusion, remarkable success will be achieved in the rescue, resettlement and rehabilitation tasks and supply of relief aid in the camps only if the government, the people and the Tatmadaw work hard in harness. In this regard, the contribution of the people is greater than that of the other two. The people’s donations of funds, relief and voluntary service play a crucial role. So, every citizen is urged to make donations to the victims. They may present cash or kind right in the hands of the persons and may go down to any storm-hit area of their choice. However, they should take care in doing so in order that unscrupulous persons cannot exploit the situations for political gains, and their donation may not tarnish the image of the nation and the people.

Dem lawyers: Fla, Mich can’t be fully restored

WASHINGTON, 28 May — A Democratic Party rules committee has the authority to seat some delegates from Michigan and Florida but not fully restore the two states as Hillary Rodham Clinton wants, according to party lawyers.

Democratic National Committee rules require that the two states lose at least half of their convention delegates for holding elections too early, the party's legal experts wrote in a 38-page memo.

The memo was sent late Tuesday to the 30 members of the party's Rules and Bylaws Committee, which plans to meet Saturday at a Washington hotel.

The committee is considering ways to include the two important general election battlegrounds at the nominating convention in August, and the staff analysis says seating half the delegates is "as far as it legally can" go.

Saturday's meeting is expected to draw a large crowd, with Clinton supporters among those encouraging a protest outside demanding that all the states' delegates be seated. Proponents of full reseating have mailed committee members Florida oranges and pairs of shoes to get their attention.

DNC officials are concerned about a potentially large turnout at the "Count Every Vote" rally outside the event and have asked the hotel staff to increase security to keep everyone safe.

Pakistan talks lead to more Afghan attacks

KABUL, 28 May — Peace talks between the Pakistani Government and Taleban militants have already led to an increase in insurgent attacks in Afghanistan, NATO said Sunday.

Faced with a wave of suicide attacks, Pakistan has begun negotiations with Taleban militants who control much of the mountainous region on its side of the border with Afghanistan and thinned out the number of its troops in the area.

Whatever the results of the talks, Pakistani Taleban leader Baitullah Mehsud on Saturday vowed to carry on fighting Afghan and foreign forces in Afghanistan.

We have seen increased activity in the eastern part of the country especially, which we believe can only be attributed to the de facto ceasefires and a reduction of Pakistani military activity," NATO's civilian spokesman in Afghanistan Mark Laity told a news conference. —INTERNET

G-8 ministers announced 3R action plan at Kobe meeting

Kobe (Japan), 28 May—The G-8 environment ministers issued “Kobe 3R Action Plan” Monday in a bid to promote the efficient use of resources and the harmonization of the environment and the economy.

By promoting sustainable consumption and production, the 3Rs (Reduce, Reuse and Recycle) activities can contribute to increases in resource productivity and decoupling resource consumption and environmental degradation caused by economic activities, said the plan, which was released toward the conclusion of the G-8 environment ministers meeting.

Calling for high priority to waste reduction and concrete actions such as reducing the use of disposable plastic bags and other single-use consumer products, the plan also advocated effective utilization of waste as one of the alternative sources of energy to fossil fuels resources by developing and utilizing technologies that help generate heat and power from organic and other wastes.

It is of great significance to collaborate to improve 3Rs capacity in developing countries by helping them develop databases, information sharing and monitoring mechanisms, 3Rs-related institutional design and policy planning.

The 3Rs, along with biodiversity and climate change, was one of the three major themes discussed at the three-day ministerial meeting.—MNA/Xinhua

Iran may limit cooperation with nuclear watchdog

TEHRAN, 28 May—Iran’s new parliament speaker warned Wednesday that Tehran could impose new limits on its cooperation with the U.N. nuclear watchdog after a critical report from the agency.

Ali Larijani, formerly the country’s top nuclear negotiator, was overwhelmingly elected as parliament speaker Wednesday. Moments later, he told parliament that a new report by the International Atomic Energy Agency was “deplorable.”

The unusually strongly worded report issued Monday said Iran may be withholding information needed to establish whether it tried to make nuclear weapons.

“We recommend them not to clandestinely keep passing Iran’s nuclear dossier between the IAEA and 5-plus-1 group. This parliament won’t allow such deception,” Larijani told an open session of parliament broadcast live on state-run radio.

He was referring to IAEA reports and permanent members of the UN Security Council plus Germany. The council has imposed three sets of sanctions against Iran for its refusal to halt enriching uranium 6% process that can be used to generate electricity or nuclear arms.

“Should this behavior continue, the parliament will set new limits on cooperation with the IAEA,” Larijani said.

Obama competitive against McCain with key voters

WASHINGTON, 28 May—Barack Obama has done poorly in the Democratic primaries with women, Catholics and others who will be pivotal in this fall’s presidential election. Yet early polling shows that with several of these groups, he’s competitive when matched against Republican John McCain.

A look at voters who have been closely contested in recent presidential elections or who veered from one party to the other, making them true swing groups, shows a significant number have leaned toward Obama’s rival, Hillary Rodham Clinton, in the primaries. Besides women and Catholics, these include the elderly, the less educated and suburbanites, leading Clinton to argue that this makes her the Democrats’ stronger candidate for the fall campaign.

Yet Obama’s performance with these voters in the primaries doesn’t necessarily mean he’d do poorly with them in the general election, assuming he nails down the last few convention delegates he needs to win the nomination.

Polls this month showed the Illinois senator leading McCain among women, running even with him among Catholics and suburbanites and trailing him with people over age 65. Results vary by poll for those without college degrees. And though Obama trails decisively with a group that has shunned him against Clinton ó whites who have not completed college ó he’s doing about the same with them as the past two Democratic presidential candidates.

Asia’s biggest colourless diamond sold for $6.2m

HONG KONG, 28 May—A 101.27-carat diamond the size of a squash ball and the largest colourless stone to be auctioned in Asia, has fetched $6.2 million at a Christie’s sale in Hong Kong on Wednesday.

The gem, which is internally flawless but rated VVS1 (very very slightly imperfect 1st degree) for clarity was sold after patchy bidding for HK$48.5 million including the buyer’s premium, a relatively low per-carat price and at the low-end of its pre-sale estimate. The diamond is the largest colourless diamond to appear at auction in 18 years and one of only three colourless diamonds of over 100-carats ever to be auctioned, Christie’s said.

It was also the biggest colourless diamond ever to be sold in Asia. While rare polished diamonds achieve all-time highs per carat at sales in Geneva late last year, a much-hyped 72.22 carat “D” flawless white diamond failed to sell at a Sotheby’s Hong Kong auction in April, suggesting demand for top stones may be waning due to a weakening world economy.—Internet

Thousands seeking refuge near Cape of Good Hope

CAPE TOWN, (South Africa), 28 May—One of South Africa’s most famous beauty spots is now a scene of disgrace. Just out of sight of the two buses that flock to the Cape of Good Hope, more than 2,000 foreigners are crammed into makeshift refugee camps on the shores of the Atlantic, seeking protection from xenophobic attacks that have killed more than 50 people across the country and devastated South Africa’s image as a haven of stability.

Nearly 19,000 people are in shelters after fleeing Cape Town over the weekend as the violence spread from Johannesburg to the so-called Mother City, which prides itself on tolerance and is the jewel in South Africa’s tourist crown.

“These attacks threaten to negate the gains we have made since the end of apartheid,” Chief Justice Pius Langa told a somber crowd in Cape Town’s cathedral on Tuesday.

“Are we as a society going to allow ourselves to be sabotaged?” said Langa, who like many in the congregation wore a T-shirt emblazoned with the word “foreigner.”

African models, designers promote peace in Kenya

NAIROBI, 28 May—Scores of top African designers and models held a show in Nairobi National Park at the weekend to raise money for victims of Kenya’s post-election violence and show a different face to their continent.

The “Fashion for Peace” event drew mainly West and East African models onto a catwalk in a marquee under the moonlight on savannah usually known for its lions and rhinos.

“Fashion for Peace will not change the world, although it does aim at changing people’s negative perceptions of Kenya and Africa in other countries,” organizers said in a statement.

“It is to control all types of provocations,” said Peace and Reconstruction Minister Ram Chandra Poudel about the move to ban gatherings at key places in Kathmandu.

“Any one could try to take the advantage of the sensitive situation and create trouble.” Authorities have also banned demonstrations at the official residence of the Prime Minister and the convention centre where the assembly will meet.

The assembly elected in April is scheduled to turn Nepal into a republic, a key part of a peace process ending a decade-long civil war which killed more than 13,000 people.

Protests banned as Nepal set to abolish monarchy

KATHMANDU, 28 May—Nepal has banned demonstrations in and around the royal palace and King Gyanjendra’s private home in Kathmandu, fearing trouble two days before a special assembly is due to formally abolish 239-year-old monarchy.

But royalists say the decision to abolish the monarchy should not be taken in a haste.

About 22 mln children in Europe are overweight

BRUSSELS, 28 May—Europe has almost 22 million overweight children, and a further 1.3 million will be overweight or obese by 2010, according to a report by the European Parliament’s Committee on the Environment, Public Health and Food Safety adopted on Tuesday.

The report called for an earlier start of measures to prevent obesity. Remedies include clearer food labeling, better food in schools and kindergartens, restrictions on advertising unhealthy food to children.

The report recommends a multi-level, comprehensive approach to fighting obesity, which has resulted disease approaching epidemic proportions. Obesity already accounts directly for about 6 percent of health spending, but the indirect costs are much higher, says the report.

“Obesity is one of Europe’s most serious public health problems, because it significantly increases the risk of chronic diseases such as cardiovascular disease, type 2 diabetes and some cancers,” according to a press release by the parliament.

Since childhood obesity correlates closely with obesity in adults, the commission and other stakeholders should make fighting it their priority, said the report.—INTERNET

US train collides with truck

WASHINGTON, 28 May — A train collided with a garbage truck in the U.S. states of Mississippi on Tuesday afternoon, sparking fire and leaving an uncertain number of injuries, according to a local TV report.

The Amtrak train hit the truck in Copiah County, sending at least one train car off the tracks, the local WAPT TV said.

According to American Medical Response officials, about 150 people were injured. But Mississippi Emergency Management Agency officials said that four people were injured and two of them were sent to hospital, the report said.

It also cited Amtrak spokesman Marc Magliari as saying that the train, named the City of New Orleans, left Chicago on Monday night on the way to Louisiana.

But he denied any serious injuries resulted from the accident.

Officials from the Mississippi Emergency Management Agency, the Copiah County Sheriff’s Department and the Crystal Springs police are at the scene of the wreck, it added.—INTERNET

German SPD to endorse Schwan despite coalition claims

BERLIN, 28 May—Germany’s Social Democrats plan to nominate their own candidate for the ceremonial office of president. SPD general secretary Hubertus Heil said on Monday ahead of a party executive meeting to discuss the issue.

Heil said the SPD is not worried that the move could strain relations in their coalition with Chancellor Angela Merkel’s Christian Democrats, who endorse incumbent Horst Koehler.

“I assume there will be broad support for Gesine Schanz as our candidate,” Heil told German television.

SPD party chairman Kurt Beck is due to formally announce the decision at a news conference at 1100 GMT.

Heil also dismissed talk from the arch conservative Christian Social Union, Bavarian sister party to Merkel’s CDU, that Schwan’s nomination would put the grand coalition in jeopardy 16 months before the next parliamentary elections.

“A little competition isn’t going to cause any harm to a functioning democracy,” Heil said. “The CSU is nervous ahead of state elections in September. I urge them to just relax.”

40,000 dengue cases projected in Philippines rainy months

MANILA, 28 May—As many as 40,000 dengue cases are projected in the Philippines during the rainy season, the country’s Department of Health (DOH) said on Wednesday.

The rainy season lasts from June to October in the archipelago.

While there have been no outbreaks of the disease, there have been clusters of cases in the cities of Manila, Davao, Zamboanga, Olongapo and San Fernando, the Philippine Daily Inquirer citing DOH Director Enrique Tayag as saying in a report posted on its website.

The health agency earlier reported a 36.4 percent increase in dengue cases from 1 January to 26 April over the same period last year, from 7,697 to 10,497.

The three regions with the most reported cases are the National Capital Region with 2,750, Central Luzon with 1,736, and Central Visayas with 1,384. Deaths from the disease also increased from 88 to 116 during this period, mostly in Central Visayas, the agency said.—Xinhua

LONDON, 28 May — Recently sacked Chelsea manager Avram Grant has claimed that The Blues would have secured the Premier League title if he had been at the helm from the beginning of the season.

Grant had his contract terminated by the Stamford Bridge club on Saturday after just eight months in charge.

The Israeli took over from former boss Jose Mourinho at Chelsea last September with the club fifth in the league table at the time.

Grant went on to push Manchester United for the League title only to miss out by two points on the final day of the season.

And he has insisted that Chelsea would have been crowned 2007/08 champions had he taken the reins sooner.—INTERNET

Mancini leaves Inter - agent

Roberto Mancini

Milan, 28 May — Roberto Mancini's agent has indicated his client is no longer the coach of Inter Milan.

Mancini, heavily linked with the Chelsea vacancy, looks to be on his way out at the San Siro less than a fortnight after delivering the club's third consecutive Serie A title.

The 43-year-old's agent, Giorgio De Giorgis, says Mancini left the club following a 25-minute meeting with president Massimo Moratti. The club has yet to make an announcement.

De Giorgis also claimed before the Moscow showdown that he is too generous. —Internet
