China says latest-tested baby formula milk and other milk powder safe

BEIJING, 27 Oct—The latest test found that Chinese baby formula milk and other milk powder products met the new temporary restrictions on melamine, the country’s top quality control agency said on Sunday.

It was the eleventh test on the industrial chemical following the tainted baby formula scandal that killed at least three infants and sickened more than 50,000 others, according to the General Administration of Quality Supervision, Inspection and Quarantine (AQSIQ).

The latest test covered 101 batches of baby formula milk powder from 13 brands in seven major cities nationwide, and 46 batches of other milk powder products from 18 brands in nine cities, the agency said.

At present, 1,208 batches of baby formula from 69 brands and 1,630 batches of other milk powder from 170 brands produced after 14 Sept were tested and all were in line with the limit, it added.

Melamine, often used in the manufacturing of plastics, was added to sub-standard or diluted milk to make the protein levels appear higher.

Price plunge aids jump in California home sales

BEIJING, 27 Oct.—Single-family home sales in California almost doubled in September, rising above an annual rate of 500,000 for the first time in more than two years, as a plunge in prices boosted buying, the state’s Realtors group said Sunday.

The number of existing single-family detached homes sold in California last month was 502,190 on an annualized basis, up 97 percent from 255,340 a year earlier, the California Association of Realtors said.

The last time the number of houses sold in a single month was more than 500,000 on a seasonally adjusted, annualized basis was in April 2006, when 516,965 sold.

Home sales in the most populous United States state were helped by plummeting prices, according to Bloomberg News.

The median price was 316,480 US dollars in September, a 41 percent drop from a year earlier, the Realtors said.

The increase also “owes as much to market weakness a year ago,” when the availability of mortgages began to plunge, said William E Brown, president of the California Association of Realtors.

“We expect the market to register significant year-to-year percentage gains in the coming months as current sales are compared against extremely low numbers that prevailed during the fourth quarter of last year,” he said.—Internet

High energy beams a boost for tumor treatments

Chinese nuclear physicists have developed a medical treatment for destroying malignant tumors more than 2.1 cm below the skin surface through the use of heavy ion beams.

Zhan Wenlong, the country’s leading nuclear physicist, said the research carried further an earlier accomplishment made by the same scientists in January.

It also used heavy ion beams to treat tumors 2.1 cm or less below the body surface.

Compared with light ion beams, such as gamma rays and X-rays used in traditional radiotherapies, heavy ion beams are considered the most effective, so far, in accurately moderating the amount of radiation and minimizing the damage done to healthy cells, said the scientist.

I have received a bank loan, two bags of fertilizer, pesticides, six baskets of paddy seeds, a Leya-16 Brand power-tiller and fuel at the rate of six gallons an acre. This season, I will harvest five vis of rice and five vis of edible oil. Every day, I sell them to purchase edible oil and beans. So, I am earning about 7000 kyats a day.”

U Khway Lay of Mya Khaing Village said, “I catch prawns when the tide ebbs. Every day, I catch nearly 80 baskets. I got a motorized boat, so we can go there easily.”

U Ne Lin, Chairman of Kyaukhmaw model village Peace and Development Council said, “There are four members in my family. Since the pre-season, the government has provided us with relief supplies, so everything is okay in my business. Last week, I got a bag of rice, some edible oil, and gram. We have also got fishing boats and engines. Some merchants collect the prawns we catch. Every day, I catch prawns when the tide ebbs. So, I earn a regular income. In the past, whenever we went to downtown Labutta by boat with my family, I had to row till we reached the destination, so we did not go there frequently. Now, we have got a motorized boat, so we can go there easily.”

Those were the voices some local people of Labutta expressed to us in recognition of the good-will and relief supplies the government, and internal and international organizations have provided for them. However, some pessimists are making comments as though storm victims are going through hard times. I am sure their exaggerations based on their negative attitude will dwindle away soon.

Chinese, Russian officials pledge to push forward energy coop

MOSCOW, 27 Oct — Senior Chinese and Russian officials pledged to push forward the two countries’ energy cooperation during a high-level energy negotiators’ meeting here on Sunday.

“During this conference... we exchanged views and reached consensus on strengthening bilateral cooperation in oil and gas, nuclear energy and electricity,” said Chinese Vice Premier Wang Qishan, commenting on the talks with his Russian counterpart Igor Sechin.

Wang suggested that the China-Russia energy cooperation cover all sectors including oil and gas, nuclear energy and electricity, be market-oriented and based on the principle of benefiting both sides.

Hailing the booming Chinese-Russian political and economic ties, Wang said the two countries’ energy negotiation mechanism will help expand and deepen the long-term and steady energy cooperation.

Sechin, for his part, said the energy negotiation mechanism promoted bilateral energy cooperation to a new level as related government agencies and enterprises have done a lot to stimulate cooperation since the first energy negotiators’ meeting.

Australian govt may cut migration intake

CANBERRA, 27 Oct — The Australian Immigration Minister Chris Evans said on Sunday the government would consider calls for a reduction in immigration to cope with slowing economic growth when it received the mid-year economic data.

He said Australia already was seeing increased interest in migration to Australia from countries like Britain which were experiencing economic downturn.

Evans said the government would also consult with industry before deciding whether or not to alter this year’s migration programme.

“The programme was designed in the light of the forecasts for this year - strong economic growth, high inflation and a real skills crisis,” he told the Nine Network.

“If those parameters are changing, the government will take a sober look at those issues and make a decision when we have got proper information,” he said.

Evans said it was easy to call for a migration reduction but it was important to consider migrants actually had a positive impact on the economy.

“What we know is most migrants have better job outcomes than Australians locally. We know that they consume, they buy property and they’re a net positive to the budget,” he said.

OIL falls to $63 as investors eye falling demand

SINGAPORE, 27 Oct—Oil prices fell to 17-month lows at $63 a barrel Monday in Asia as investors weighed Friday’s OPEC output cut against growing evidence of a severe global economic slowdown that would undermine crude demand.

Light, sweet crude for December delivery fell 32 cents to $63.83 a barrel in electronic trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange by midday in Singapore.

Investors brushed off a 1.5 million barrel-a-day cut announced by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries on Friday, focusing instead on falling crude demand as economies across the globe reel from the impact of a credit crisis.

On Friday, oil fell $3.69 to settle at $64.15. Prices have plunged 57 percent from a record $147.27 on 11 March as newlyweds, Uribe and Solis held hands and swayed by more than 400 guests. For the traditional first dance couple husband and wife in a civil ceremony attended

Study shows humans made fire 790,000 years ago

JERUSALEM, 27 Oct — A new study shows that humans had the ability to make fire nearly 790,000 years ago, a skill that helped them migrate from Africa to Europe. By analyzing flints at an archaeological site on the bank of the river Jordan, researchers at Israel’s Hebrew University discovered that early civilizations had learned to light fires, a turning point that allowed them to venture into unknown lands.

A previous study of the site published in 2004 showed that man had been able to control fire — for example transferring it by means of burning branches — in that early time period. But researchers now say that ancient man could actually start fire, rather than relying on natural phenomena such as lightning.

The new study, published in a recent edition of Quaternary Science Reviews, mapped 12 archaeological layers at Gesher Benot Yaaqov in northern Israel. While they did not find remnants of ancient matches or lighters, Alperson-Afil said the patterns of burned flint found in the same place throughout 12 civilizations was evidence of fire-making ability, though the methods used were unclear. — Internet

Can smoke and mirrors ease global warming?

OSLO, 27 Oct — Backers of extreme technologies to curb global warming advocate dumping iron dust into the seas or placing smoke and mirrors in the sky to dim the sun.

But, even though they are seen by some as cheap fixes for climate change when many nations are worried about economic recession, such “geo-engineering” proposals have to overcome widespread criticism that they are fanciful and could have unforeseen side effects.

“We are at the boundaries, treading in areas that we are not normally dealing with,” said Rene Coenen, head of the Office for the London Convention, an international organisation that regulates dumping at sea.

Security firms join Somali piracy fight

NAIROBI, 27 Oct — Blackwater Worldwide and other private security firms — some with a reputation for being quick on the trigger in Iraq — are joining the battle against pirates plaguing one of the world’s most important shipping lanes off the coast of Somalia.

The growing interest among merchant fleets to hire their own firepower is encouraged by the US Navy and represents a new and potential lucrative market for security firms scaling back operations in Iraq. But some maritime organizations told The Associated Press that armed guards may increase the danger to ships’ crews or that overzealous contractors might accidentally fire on fishermen.

The record in Iraq of security companies like Blackwater, which is being investigated for its role in the fatal shooting of 17 Iraqi civilians in 2007, raises concerns about unregulated activity and possible legal wrangles. Some security companies — not all of which let their employees carry lethal weapons — blame trigger-happy operators in Iraq and Afghanistan for tarnishing the reputation of legitimate businesses. — Internet

One man’s garbage becomes another’s power plant

“It’s like you’re buying back your own garbage, but in a different form,” said Tom Marturano, director of solid waste and natural resources for the New Jersey Meadowlands Commission, which owns and operates the 1-E site.

The Kearny site is among 21 landfills in New Jersey where methane gas produced by decomposing garbage is used as fuel to generate electricity, according to the state Board of Public Utilities.

That is almost as many as in the state of Texas and more than the combined number in Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Nationwide, the federal Environmental Protection Agency counts 455 landfills that use their methane to generate electricity and has targeted more than 500 others as potential candidates through its Landfill Methane Outreach Programme.

One of New Jersey’s leading environmentalists envisions the state’s landfills someday making more use of the sites by installing wind and solar power to supplement methane.

Kearny, 27 Oct — Standing atop the 400-acre 1-E landfill, you get a panoramic view of the Meadowlands sports complex to the north and the New York City skyline to the east. You’re also standing on a critical part of New Jersey’s, and the nation’s, energy future.

Decades’ worth of household trash, construction waste and assorted refuse buried in the landfill are providing electricity to thousands of homes.

But some as cheap fixes for climate change when many nations are worried about economic recession, such “geo-engineering” proposals have to overcome widespread criticism that they are fanciful and could have unforeseen side effects.

“We are at the boundaries, treading in areas that we are not normally dealing with,” said Rene Coenen, head of the Office for the London Convention, an international organisation that regulates dumping at sea.

Federer season back on course with Basel title hat-trick

BASL, 27 Oct — Roger Federer completed a trophy hat-trick at his home event, the Swiss Indoors, on Sunday as he defeated longtime rival David Nalbandian 6-3, 6-4.

Federer, who came alive after a slow start this season as he lifted a fifth straight US Open crown, has now won two of the last three ATP events he has played and a fourth trophy in all 2008.

Federer goes into the season-ending Masters Cup in Shanghai from November 9 charged with enthusiasm with his 57th career title secured and a 63-13 record so far this season.

The Swiss stands 10-8 over Nalbandian after facing the Argentine for a decade or more dating to their first match point. Federer then picked off the cars in front of him one at a time to widen his lead to 183 points over Edwards.—Internet

Referees are disrespecting fans, says Roma chief Sensi

ROME, 27 Oct — AS Roma owner Rosella Sensi took a swipe at referees after her team’s understudying stutter fell to their fifth defeat in eight Serie A matches with a 3-1 loss at Udinese.

Antonio Di Natale scored the first Udinese goal on 10 minutes from the penalty spot after Max Tonetto was adjudged to have brought down Antonio Floro Flores in the box. Television replays showed that Tonetto caught Floro Flores just outside the box but momentum took both players into the area.

Sensi also felt Roma should have had a first half penalty when Mirko Vucinic went down after seemingly minimal contact. He was booked for diving, although TV replays showed he had been caught on the ankle.—Internet

Redknapp ‘couldn’t turn Tottenham down’

LONDON, 27 Oct — Harry Redknapp watched Tottenham win his first game in charge, and their first Premier League match this season, before revealing how he would have “regretted it for the rest of his life” if he’d turned them down.

Redknapp left his position as manager of top-flight Portsmouth on Saturday to replace Spanish coach Juande Ramos at White Hart Lane, who was sacked after the club made their worst start to a season.

Under Ramos, Tottenham took two points from their opening eight league games this term. In one match alone Redknapp surpassed that total with goals from Roman Pavlyuchenko and Darren Bent securing a 2-0 win over Bolton at White Hart Lane.

Last season, Redknapp was linked with a high-profile move to Spurs’s fellow strugglers Newcastle before deciding to remain on the south coast.—Internet

Dementieva wins three-hour Luxembourg title marathon

LUXEMBOURG, 27 Oct — Russia’s Olympic champion Elena Dementieva clinched the Luxembourg WTA title on Sunday but the top seed needed three hours to see off Danish fourth seed Caroline Wozniacki 2-6, 6-4, 7(4).

The 27-year-old, world number five eventually had too much experience and power for her 18-year-old opponent who was struggling with her fitness by the end. “I feel like I just won a Grand Slam,” Dementieva said. “I think it was the most difficult final I’ve ever played.—Internet

Edwards wins at Atlanta Motor Speedway

HAMPTON, 27 Oct — Carl Edwards passed Denny Hamlin on a late restart, then held on to win Sunday at Atlanta Motor Speedway to keep his championship hopes alive.

But his seventh win of the season barely dented Jimmie Johnson’s points lead. Johnson had a rough start to the race — earning a rare pit-road penalty that dropped him a lap off the pace — but stormed back to finish second with an impressive final sprint through the field.

A debris caution with 13 laps to go gave Johnson a chance to dip onto pit road for two fresh tires, and he was 11th when the race resumed with eight laps remaining. Johnson then picked off the cars in front of him one at a time to widen his lead to 183 points over Edwards.—Internet

Eto’o and Barca back to their best

MADRID, 27 Oct — For the entire summer Samuel Eto’o’s Barcelona future was up in the air as new coach Pep Guardiola set about getting rid of under-performing stars and instilling a new mentality within the club.

Tottenham Hotspur were strongly linked with Cameroon international Eto’o but he made peace with Guardiola and it has paid dividends with the striker back to his best, scoring nine goals in his first eight matches.

Eto’o scored the fastest league hat-trick in Barcelona history with a treble in the first 23 minutes as Barca crushed Almeria 5-0 on Saturday and they are now second in La Liga, a point behind leaders Valencia. Eto’o sits top of the goalscoring charts alongside Valencia’s David Villa and after their worst start for 35 years Barca are on a roll.

The Catalan giants have won nine games in a row, six in the league, and are starting to look like the Barcelona of a few years ago rather than the inconsistent side that failed to secure silverware for the previous two seasons under Frank Rijkaard.—Internet

Back to best Ivanovic wins Linz title

LINZ, 27 Oct — Serbian top seed Ana Ivanovic won the 600,000 dollars WTA event in Linz on Sunday with an impressive 6-2, 6-1 demolition of Russian second seed Vera Zvonareva.

Ivanovic, currently ranked fourth in the world after a spell as number one, swamped her ninth-ranked rival, at 23, three years her senior, never looking back after two breaks sent her romping 6-2, 6-1 clear in the opening set.

She wrapped that one up at the first time of asking then bagged another break to all but end her rival’s resistance at the start of the second.

She completed the job in just 51 minutes on her first match point. Ivanovic, ten days off her 21st birthday, pocketed her eighth career title and the third of 2008 — including Roland-Garros.

After winning in Paris and taking the number one ranking, things turned sour for the Serbian pin-up as a right thumb injury forced her to miss the Beijing Olympics, while dragging down her overall level - she went out in the third round at Wimbledon to 133rd-ranked Zheng Jie of China.—Internet
US independent candidate claims record-long speech

WASHINGTON, 27 Oct—An US independent presidential candidate claimed on Sunday that he has created a world record of longest campaign speeches in a single day.

Ralph Nader, a longtime liberal consumer advocate, said that he has made speech marathon of more than 255 minutes in 21 Massachusetts communities on Saturday, long enough to overwrite the Guinness Book for World Records.

The 74-year-old candidate was told earlier by Guinness officials that he has to give at least 150 minutes of speeches with each lasting at least 10 minutes and having an audience of at least 10 people.

“When you’re seeking justice, as I have for so many years, it’s invigorating, not fatiguing,” he said of his adventure.

His spokesman told reporters that Nader’s “Massachusetts Marathon” was aimed at raising awareness he is running for president as an independent.

Bangladesh warns of storm in Bay of Bengal

DHAKA, 27 Oct—Bangladesh advised ports to hoist warning signals and asked all vessels to stay in shelters or close to shore as a tropical storm in the Bay of Bengal moved towards its coasts, officials said on Sunday.

Two people were killed when a tree uprooted by the wind fell on them at a village in Chandpur District 170 kilometres (106 miles) southeast of the capital Dhaka on Sunday.

Bangladesh warns of storm in Bay of Bengal

JAKARTA, 27 Oct—At least 2,000 people have escaped from floods in Gorontalo province in eastern parts of Indonesia, official said here Monday.

Indonesia has been frequently hit by floods and landslide due to lack of forest-covered areas, which could not hold excessive waters during heavy rains.

Consecutive days of heavy rain had caused two rivers in Gorontalo city, the capital of the province, overflowed and submerged the city, provincial secretary Nurdin Mokoginta said.

The flood that started Saturday had led the people gradually left their homes for the higher places, he said. “Now, the total residence taking shelters reaches about 2,000,” he told Xinhua on telephone from the province.

The secretary said that the number was expected to rise should the rain come again. “Many of them go to school buildings, market and other public buildings,” said Mokoginta.

Voices of Labutta dwellers about restoration of their businesses

I had conducted interviews with some local farmers and fishermen of Labutta Township in Ayeyawady Division from 16 to 21 October 2008 to present their living conditions for public information.

When asked about his business and living conditions, U Aung Myat of Kyakhmaw model village said, “I have a 26-acre land and I grow Hsinthwelat, Manawthukha, Pawhsanyn and Hnankar strains of paddy in it. The government has provided me with 25 baskets of paddy seeds, 12 bags of fertilizer, a Leya-22 brand power-tiller, fuel and pesticides. I lost my draught cattle in the storm. Now I have got a power-tiller, and it is more convenient for me to plough my fields with it than with cattle. I grow more paddy this year than previous years, and about 95 per cent of it is successful. The government and local and foreign organizations have provided me with relief supplies including rice, edible oil and beans and pulses that are adequate for me to have till the completion of the harrowing of my fields. I have not run out of the provisions yet. Paddy will be in season in the end of this month. Regarding the growing of paddy, there is no difference between in the past and at present. Kyaukhmaw Village-tract has more than 40,000 acres of paddy fields, and as you see, all the paddy fields here are thriving.”

Bumblebees Learn The Sweet Smell Of Foraging Success

LONDON, 27 Oct—Bumblebees use flower scent to guide their nestmates to good food sources, according to scientists from Queen Mary, University of London. For any animal, finding food on its own can be time consuming and inefficient; social animals such as bees reduce these problems by informing their peers of plentiful sites, and ‘recruiting’ them to the search. Honeybees use their waggle-dance to tell nestmates the distance and direction of a food source. But bumblebees can’t communicate geographical information in this way; instead, they release a recruitment pheromone in the nest to encourage their colleagues to venture out in search of food. But where should they look? Internet
