Water supply projects being extended to provide potable water to Meiktila and its environs

Since my childhood, I had heard the song for children about Meiktila Lake although I had never been there. Recently, I had an opportunity to make a trip to Meiktila for the first time. Meiktila is situated by Yangon-Mandalay Highway in Mandalay Division. It is a junction of Meiktila-Kyaukpadaung Road, Meiktila-Myingyan Road and Meiktila-Thazi Road. Meiktila is a part of the arid plain region of central Myanmar. A total of 4.64 square miles area of the town is home to over 95,000 people. Significantly, the area of Meiktila Lake is equal to the residential area of the town. Up to now, the firm evidence has not been found as to when the Meiktila Lake was built. However, the successive Myanmar kings managed to maintain the lake. Actually, the local people have been relying on the water from the lake for agricultural purpose and for drinking since yore. (See page 7)
Safeguard independence and sovereignty for perpetuity

Myanmar has been a sovereign nation with its own culture and customs, standing tall in the world since time immemorial.

Myanmar lost its sovereignty as the imperialists waged three aggressive wars against Myanmar and annexed it. However, it regained independence and became a sovereign nation again through the struggle and united strength of the entire people.

Myanmar will soon celebrate its 61st anniversary of independence regained through sacrificing lots of lives, blood and sweat of national people. It is the duty of the entire people to continue to safeguard the independence that was built by our ancestors with full Union spirit and patriotism.

The government is striving for all-round development of every sector upholding the national policy of non-disintegration of the Union, non-disintegration of national solidarity and perpetuation of sovereignty. At the same time, it is implementing the seven-step Road Map and building a genuine new modern, developed discipline-flourishing democratic nation in accord with the new constitution approved by the entire people.

Thus, it is necessary for the national people to actively participate in democratization and nation-building task, safeguarding independence and sovereignty for perpetuity.

Iraq parliament rejects draft law on non-US troops

Baghdad, 21 Dec — Iraq’s parliament rejected for the second time on Saturday a draft law allowing foreign troops from countries other than the United States to remain after the end of the year, lawmakers said.

The law drafted by the government of Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki would allow all foreign troops other than Americans to stay in Iraq until the end of July 2009.

It was rejected earlier in the week and is expected to be approved in another vote after Christmas.

Those opposed to the draft law were primarily lawmakers loyal to radical Shiite cleric Muqtada al-Sadr.

A separate agreement approved recently by the Iraqi government and parliament allows the US to retain troops in the country until the end of 2011. The accord, which takes effect on 1 January, gives Iraq strict oversight over the nearly 150,000 American troops now in the country. Voting was carried out in parliament on the draft law and it was rejected and turned back to the government,” Kurdish lawmaker Mahmoud Othman said.

Britain will withdraw its 4,000 troops by the end of May. After the 31 December expiration of the US mandate authorizing military operations in Iraq, the only coalition troops to remain will be the US, Britain, Australia, El Salvador, Estonia and Romania.

Australia has the largest force among the last four countries with 1,000 troops, followed by Romania with 501, El Salvador, Estonia and Romania.

Four militants killed, five more arrested in S Afghanistan

Kabul, 21 Dec — The US-led Coalition forces killed four armed militants and detained five suspected militants during an operation targeting the Taleban’s roadside bomb network in Zabul Province of southern Afghanistan, said a Coalition statement released here on Sunday.

Supply line threat

Peshawar (Pakistan), 21 Dec — Militants in Pakistan launched rockets at two trucks returning from delivering fuel to Western forces in Afghanistan, killing three people, an official said on Saturday.

The attacks are among a string of attacks targeting a supply route critical to the US fight against the Taleban.

US and NATO forces in landlocked Afghanistan transport up to 75 percent of their supplies through Pakistan, and any serious disruption of that pipeline could hamper operations.

American officials have so far said the uptick in attacks has not affected their ability to operate in Afghanistan so far, but have acknowledged they are looking for ways to improve security along the route and are investigating alternative ways to deliver supplies.

Militants struck the oil tankers on Friday as they traveled through the Khyber Pass, said Fazal Mehmood, a government official in the lawless Pakistani tribal area for which the route is named.

The three Pakistanis killed in the attack included a passenger and both drivers, who were taking their vehicles back to Pakistan without the paramilitary escorts that often accompany the convoys on their way to Afghanistan, Mehmood said.

Despite the escorts, convoys are often attacked in Afghanistan, where US and NATO forces toppled the hard-line Taleban regime in 2001 but have been battling a resurgence by the group.—Internet

Taleban kill Afghan on charge of spying for US troops

Kabul, 21 Dec — Taleban insurgents fighting Afghan and international troops have killed a person on charge of spying for the US forces based in Afghanistan’s eastern Khost Province, a local official said on Saturday.

“Several armed insurgents sneaked into the house of a man named Toryalai in Ismail Khil district on Saturday night and shot him dead,” Daillat Khan Qayumi, the district chief of Ismail Khil, told Xinhua.

He also said those committed the crime were dressed in army uniform. Meanwhile, Zabiullah Mujahid who claims to speak for Taleban fighters told media from an undisclosed location that militants executed Toryalai on charge of spying for the US forces stationed in the province.

Taleban militants have assassinated over a dozen persons on similar charge in Afghanistan as well in Pakistan’s tribal areas along the border over past one year.—Internet

Italian general Bruno Sato convicted over Iraq suicide attack

Rome, 21 Dec — An Italian general has been convicted of failing to provide proper security at a base in southern Iraq where 19 Italians died in a 2003 suicide attack, ANSA news agency said today.

But General Bruno Sato was spared any jail sentence. Sato, another general and a colonel were charged last year with “omissions of military defence measures”.

General Vincenzo Lops was acquitted while Colonel Georg Di Pauli still faces military justice.

The two generals were successive commanders of Italy’s then 3000-strong contingent in Iraq, while the colonel commanded a special police unit headquartered in the Nasiriyah base.

In the November 2003 attack, a small truck burst through the guard post at the entrance to the base before exploding, destroying the three-storey barracks. Internet

India to send three ships to Somalia to battle pirates

BEIJING, 21 Dec—China’s Navy will send three ships to the waters off Somalia this week to protect Chinese vessels and crews from pirate attacks, state media said.

Two destroyers and a supply ship will leave the island province of Hainan in southern China on 26 Dec, the official Xinhua News Agency said.

They will patrol the Gulf of Aden and areas off the Somali coast, Foreign Ministry spokesman, Liu Jianchao, said in a statement issued late Saturday.

“The major task is to protect the safety of Chinese ships and crew on board as well as ships carrying humanitarian relief material for international organizations,” Liu said.

Piracy has taken an increasingly costly toll on international shipping, especially in the Gulf of Aden, one of the world’s busiest sea lanes. Spurred by widespread poverty in their homeland, the pirates have made an estimated $30 million hijacking ships for ransom this year, seizing more than 40 vessels off Somalia’s 1,880-mile (3,000-kilometre) coastline.

Earlier this week, Liu said about 20 percent of the 1,265 Chinese ships passing through the area have come under attack so far this year. Seven hijackings have involved Chinese ships or crews.—Internet

Gunmen attack vessels in Nigeria, kidnap Russians

ABUA, 21 Dec—Gunmen in speedboats attacked three oil vessels and some of the ships and kidnapped at least two Russians in separate incidents in Nigeria’s Niger Delta, private security and industry sources said on Saturday.

The Falcon Crest and Falcon Wings were attacked late Friday off the coast of southern Nigeria’s Akwa Ibom state near crude oil facilities operated by Canada’s Addax Petroleum.

A Filipino captain on one of the vessels was killed, one security source said. The gunmen were believed to have fled to nearby Cameroonian waters.

A group has claimed responsibility.

Addax and police officials were not immediately available for comment.

A third ship, operated by Nigerian oil company Monipulo, was attacked by pirates early Saturday near the Abana offshore oilfields, located close to the Nigeria-Cameroon border.

Winter weather blasts nation from end to end

DES MOINES, 21 Dec—Successive waves of winter weather gripped much of the country on Saturday, frustrating holiday travelers from coast to coast and keeping the lights off for thousands of people who lost power after ice storms just days ago. Iowa public safety officials urged motorists not to travel as heavy snow began to fall in the morning.

The state expected winds up to 35 miles per hour and wind chills of minus 25 just two days after being slammed with sleet, ice and snow. Washington state braced for hurricane-force winds as a storm blew in from the Pacific. The temperature dipped to minus 18 on Saturday in Spokane, which expected up to 6 inches of snow on top of the 25 that fell over the past three days, said Johnny Burg, a National Weather Service meteorologist.—Internet

Israel strikes Gaza day after truce expires

Gaza City, 21 Dec—An Israeli airstrike against a Palestinian rocket squad killed a militant on Saturday, the first death in Gaza since Hamas formally declared an end to a six-month truce. Palestinians fired 10 rockets and at least 23 mortar shells from Gaza into Israel, causing some property damage but no casualties, the Israeli military said. An Israeli airstrike at one of the rocket squads in northern Gaza killed a militant, said the army and Palestinian medics.

The Al-Aqsa Martyrs’ Brigades, the armed wing of Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas’ Fatah movement, identified the dead man as one of its fighters. Hamas, which controls Gaza, said it was behind the mortar fire.

A six-month truce that expired on Friday had curbed violence between Israel and Hamas in Gaza though sporadic fighting has continued. Hamas declared on Friday that it would not continue the truce.

Also on Saturday, about carrying a Qatari delegation, Lebanese activists and journalists from Israel and Lebanon sailed into Gaza City’s small port in defiance of a border blockade. It was the fifth such boat trip since the summer and the first official Arab delegation to reach Gaza.

“The only queen whose pyramid is missing is Shesheshet, which is why I am sure it belonged to her,” Hawass said. “This will enrich our knowledge about the Old Kingdom.”

Chinese, Japanese youth ends year-long exchange programme

BEIJING, 21 Dec — A total of 2,008 young people from China and Japan on Saturday concluded a year-long youth exchange programme between the two countries.

Chinese Premier Wen Jiabao and former Japanese Prime Minister Fukuda Yasuo joined the youth at the closing ceremony in Beijing University of Aeronautics and Aerospace.

Australian frigate rescues injured French yachtsman

SYDNEY, 21 Dec — An Australian frigate plucked injured French yachtsman Yann Elies to safety from the Indian Ocean on Saturday after he fractured his leg while sailing in a round-the-world race.

Elies, a 34-year-old Breton, was competing in the Vendee Globe round-the-world solo yacht race when a large wave struck his yacht late on Thursday while he was changing sails, throwing him to the deck and breaking his left femur and several ribs.

In pain and unable to handle his boat, Elies managed to drag himself into his cabin, send a call to his team for help and lie on his bunk while awaiting rescue, his team manager said.

Australia’s Defence Ministry said the frigate Arunta found Elies aboard his 60-foot yacht Generali late on Saturday, about 850 miles from Australia’s west coast. The Arunta launched an inflatable boat whose crew boarded the Generali and managed to transfer the injured yachtsman to the Arunta, where a doctor confirmed that he had broken his left femur and several ribs.—MNA/Reuters

Study shows Ecoli bacteria can be altered to make fuel

Journal Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences. Alcohol molecules with eight carbon atoms may also be possible, the researchers said in the study. Ecoli, which is usually associated with polluted beaches, can be modified so that each cell can generate “long-chain alcohol,” an advance that could reduce global warming and increase fuel efficiency by using the bacteria to create a better form of fuel, said the researchers.

The genetically modified Ecoli has the potential of making jetfuel, gasoline and other petroleum products that deliver much more energy, the study noted. The new Ecoli bugs would be unleashed on organic material, much like Ethanol is produced from corn. But Ethanol has only two carbon atoms per molecule, and the greater the number of carbon atoms from the bacteria will increase the density of the biofuel, the study said. — Internet

Gaza militants launch more rockets into Israel

JERUSALEM, 21 Dec — Barrages of rockets fired from Gaza hit Israeli towns on Sunday and the Israeli air force responded with a missile strike as violence surged after the expiration of a shaky truce. Israeli rescue services said one rocket struck a house in the town of Sderot, but no injuries were reported. A worker at a farming community near Gaza was lightly wounded by shrapnel in a separate rocket strike, the Israeli military said. The Palestinian militant group Islamic Jihad took responsibility for Sunday’s rocket fire.

An Israeli aircraft fired a missile at a rocket launcher that had been primed and was ready to fire in northern Gaza, the Israeli military said. Militants typically prepare rockets for launch and then fire them from cover at a safe distance away. There were no reports of casualties in the strike. On Saturday, militants fired more than 30 rockets and mortar shells into Israel, and the Israeli air force killed one militant who was launching rockets. — Internet

Canadian doctors change lung transplants

TORONTO, 21 Dec — A team of doctors in Canada has pioneered a procedure that allows human lungs outside the body to be preserved and nourished outside of a human body three times longer than ever before possible, The (Toronto) Globe and Mail reported on Friday.

“A lot more patients will be able to receive a lung transplant and not die waiting,” said Chris Jaynes, product manager with Vitrolife, a Colorado company that supplied the Toronto team with some of the materials needed to perform the transplants. With the new technique, instead of cooling the lungs after being removed from a donor, doctors place the organs within a clear bubble-like container that keeps them sterile and mimics the warm and humid conditions of the human body. — Internet

LONDON, 21 Dec — The British government has announced that its remaining stake in the Atomic Weapons Establishment at Aldermaston has been sold to a US company. The announcement came on Friday as Parliament began its break for the Christmas and New Year holiday, and was made through a short statement on the Web site of the BNFL, the government nuclear firm, The Independent said. Officials did not say how much was paid. The buyer is Jacobs Engineering Group based in California.

“The AWE is critical to Britain’s nuclear deterrent capability and we find it astonishing that the decision regarding the increase in US involvement in the company was not announced to Parliament,” said Gerald Howarth, a Conservative leader. “It is now imperative that the Government spells out its understanding of the implications of this move for the United Kingdom and our nuclear deterrent.”

Iranian official stresses need of investment for oil industry

TEHERAN, 21 Dec—Iran’s Oil Minister Gholam-Hossein Nozari has stressed the need for investment for the country’s oil industry, local satellite Press TV reported on Saturday.

As one of the oil producing countries, investment is needed for Iran because “it is the only way to guarantee the energy safety of consumers”, Nozari said.

“If the oil consuming countries want a continued production of oil and its supply to the markets, they should pave the way for investment in the oil rich countries and avoid double standards,” he was quoted as saying.

Nozari was in London on Friday for an energy conference after attending a ministerial meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) in Algeria’s Oran city.

During the Oran meeting on Wednesday, the OPEC agreed on a deepest-ever net cut of 2.2 million barrels per day (bpd) as of on 1 January, bringing the total output cut in 2008 to 4.2 million bpd, in another attempt to bolster sagging oil prices under the global economic slowdown.

Advance in the battle against ‘Gray Mold’

Alessandro Del Piero will battle teammate Amauri for the title of 2008’s top scorer in Serie A. The Juventus captain is leading the standings with 19 goals in 37 rounds during the current calendar year, consisting of 14 last season and five in this campaign. He has already seen off the challenge from Inter’s Zlatan Ibrahimovic, who failed to net last night against Siena and therefore ends 2008 with 18 goals.

The only player who is likely to challenge Del Piero is his own Juve teammate, Amauri, who also has 18 goals thanks to eight last term with Palermo and 10 this season.

The Juventus captain is likely to challenge Del Piero to top this particular chart, as a Juventus player has not done so since Michel Platini when he bagged 17 in 1985, on a par with Napoli’s Diego Armando Maradona.

And Alex and Amauri will be fighting it out to score at the Stadiumo Azzurri d’Italia in Bergamo this afternoon, where Juventus take on Atalanta. — Internet

Archaeological discovery:

TORONTO, 21 Dec — A research team led by Professor Michael Chauza, director of the University of Toronto’s Archaeology Centre, has discovered the earliest evidence of our cave-dwelling human ancestors at the Wonderwerk Cave in South Africa.

Stone tools found at the bottom level of the cave — believed to be 2 million years old — show that human ancestors were in the cave earlier than ever thought before. Geological evidence indicates that these tools were left in the cave and not washed into the site from the outside world.

Archaeological investigations of the Wonderwerk cave — a South African National Heritage site due to its role in discovering the human and environmental history of the area — began in the 1940s and research continues to this day. — Internet
