New roads and bridges for speedy flow of goods

Nowadays, as the government has been constructing networks of new roads and bridges across the nation, transport in every region and between one and another has become smooth and easy. As a result, transportation of goods has also become speedier, leading to social and economic development.

With social and economic development, the volume of freight and passenger traffic between one region and another has naturally become bigger. The population of towns and villages along the roads, especially along the highways, has also increased. Therefore, it is necessary to build new roads and bridges to ensure smooth and speedy interregional flow of goods and passengers.

The Bago river-crossing bridge (Kawa), built by the Ministry of Construction, was opened on 21 March. In the past, the people in that region had to rely on ferries and wait till the weather permitted. Now, they can travel between Bago and Kawa at any time all the year round.

In Bago Division, the Sittoung river-crossing bridge (Shwekyin-Madauk) and the Ayeyawady river-crossing bridge (Nawade) in Pyay has already been built. This newly-opened Bago river-crossing bridge (Kawa) will surely contribute a lot to education, health, economic and social development of the people in the region. The people in Kawa will be able to travel to Yangon 37 miles away and Bago nine miles away in so short a time.

Bago Division is rich in aquatic and terrestrial resources and has the potential for development as it is very suitable for cultivation of paddy, edible oil crops and various kinds of beans and pulses. As the government is building more and more roads and bridges across the nation, networks of all-weather roads will emerge and it will speed up the economic development of all regions.

China, US to build positive, cooperative and comprehensive relationship in 21st century

LONDON, 2 April—Chinese President Hu Jintao and his US counterpart Barack Obama agreed to work together to build a positive, cooperative and comprehensive relationship in the 21st century when they met here on Wednesday.

Hu said China-US ties have got off to a good start since Obama took office. “I have been keeping close relations with Obama and the foreign ministers of both countries have exchanged visits in a short time,” he said. The current international situation is undergoing complicated and profound changes, and the international financial crisis continues to spread and go deeper, he said, adding that global challenges are markedly increasing.

China and the United States share more extensive common interests in tackling the financial crisis, striving to recover global economic growth, dealing with international and regional issues and safeguarding world peace and security, the Chinese president said. He said China and the United States need to view each other from a positive perspective and push forward dialogue and cooperation with positive moves despite the differences in their social systems, historical background, cultural tradition and phases of development.—INTERNET

17 die in militant attack in Afghanistan

KANDAHAR, 2 April—Four Taleban suicide bombers disguised in army uniforms detonated a car bomb and stormed a government office on Wednesday, killing 13 people.

The assault highlighted the increasingly deadly tactics that Taleban militants are learning from al-Qaeda, an expert said.

The multi-pronged raid mirrored an attack in Kabul in February when militants assaulted three government buildings simultaneously, killing 20.

Wednesday’s attack on Kandahar’s provincial council office killed seven civilians and six police officers, President Hamid Karzai’s office said.

Ahmad Wali Karzai, the head of the council and President Karzai’s brother, said the attack came during a meeting of tribal leaders. He said 17 people were wounded.—INTERNET

US soldier dies in noncombat incident in Iraq

BAGHDAD, 2 April—A US soldier died of noncombat related incident in north of Baghdad, a US military statement said on Wednesday.

The soldier, assigned to Multi National Division - North, died on Tuesday in Salahudin Province, a military statement said, without providing further details about the incident.

It said that the incident is being investigated and has withheld the identity of the deceased pending notification of relatives.

The latest death raised the toll of the US soldiers who have been killed in Iraq to 4,263 since the US-led invasion in Iraq in March 2003, according to media count based on Pentagon figures.—INTERNET

60 years on, NATO in crisis over Afghan war

BRUSSELS, 2 April—The NATO alliance, born from the ashes of World War-II, meets for a 60th anniversary summit on Friday to seek ways to avoid stumbling in a far-off war in Afghanistan it never imagined having to fight.

The meeting in the Rhineland border cities of Strasbourg and Kehl — venues straddling the frontier of foes-turned-allies France and Germany — will be packed full of symbolism aimed at celebrating an alliance created to defend Europe’s borders. NATO will also welcome France’s return to the NATO participation after a Franco-US schism dating to the days of Charles de Gaulle in the 1960s, and an improved transatlantic mood brought by US President Barack Obama.

The 26-nation body will usher in two new Eastern European members, Albania and Croatia, evidence of how it prevailed in the Cold War, and look to build ties with post-Soviet Russia.—INTERNET

Belgium to send more troops to Afghanistan

BRUSSELS, 2 April—Belgium will send an additional 150 troops to Afghanistan, bringing the total number of Belgian contingent in the Asian country to 650, Belgian broadcaster VRT reported on Wednesday.

Most of the Belgian troops in Afghanistan are guarding the Kabul Airport, while some Belgian instructors are training regular Afghan forces in the north of the country. Both operations will be reinforced with the new arrivals.

Moreover, Belgium will deploy two more F-16 fighter jets in Afghanistan, bringing the total Belgian F-16s to six. This will require the deployment of another 50 Belgians at Kandahar Airport.

The new troops will stay in Afghanistan until the end of 2010, the report said.

Belgian Prime Minister Herman Van Rompuy earlier indicated that Belgium should send more troops to Afghanistan. He said that US President Barack Obama was pursuing policies which are closer to those of the European allies than his predecessor.

High birth rates hamper development in poorer countries, warns UN forum

United Nations, 2 April—Rapid population growth, fueled by high fertility, presents a barrier to reducing poverty levels and reaching other internationally agreed development goals, experts attending the current session of the United Nations population body said here on Monday, and concludes on Friday, is examining the extent to which population growth affects the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs), globally agreed targets on reducing poverty and eliminating other social ills by 2015.

Although birth rates have been on the slide across the developing world since the 1970s, women in most of the least developed countries (LDCs) still have five children each on average, according to a policy brief presented by the Population Division of the UN Department of Economic and Social Affairs.

The lack of access to family planning and to modern methods of contraception is the major cause of this persistence in high fertility.—Xinhua

Seven die as minibus carrying factory staff plunges into river

HANGZHOU, 2 April—Seven people died when a minibus plunged into a river in east China’s Zhejiang Province early on Thursday, local police said.

The Ford Transit, carrying 10 people from a textile-dying company in Haiyan county, veered off the road and into the river at about 12:30 am, a spokesman with the Zhejiang provincial public security department said.

He said the bus was raised from the water at 3 am, with three people still alive. “They were all injured, none critically,” he said.

The bus was either owned or hired by the dyeing company to take staff to and from work, the spokesman said. He said the cause of the accident was not immediately known.—Xinhua

Philippine police capture suspected bomber

COTABATO, 2 April—Philippine security forces captured a suspected militant blamed for a series of bomb attacks in the troubled south last year, local police reported Thursday.

The suspect, Manuel June Guevarra, was arrested after police cordoned off his hideout in the village of Perez in Kidapawan City, North Cotabato Province, on Tuesday, the city police director Superintendent Chino Mamburam said.

Mamburam said Guevarra, involved in the bombing attacks in the region, is facing charges for violating anti-terror law in the country.—Xinhua

Ten people reported dead in helicopter crash in North Sea

LONDON, 2 April — Ten people are feared dead after a helicopter with 16 people on board ditched in the sea off the north east Scottish coast on Wednesday. While the search for survivors is still on, Sky News said that ten people were killed with six missing in the accident.

The Bond Super Puma aircraft, with 14 passengers and two crew members, was returning from an oil platform just before 2 pm when it went down 35 miles from Aberdeenshire.

Aberdeen Coastguard was coordinating the search and rescue operation, which includes two RAF helicopters and a Nimrod. Helicopter operator Bond confirmed it was one of its aircraft that was involved in the crash.

BP said that the aircraft was operating on behalf of the oil giant and it was returning to shore from the Miller oil field.

Another six million people to be impoverished in Latin America, SELA warns

CARACAS, 2 April — The global economic crisis will increase the amount of poor people in Latin America and the Caribbean by another six million, SELA warned on Wednesday.

Over six million people will be impoverished due to this crisis, adding to the 190 million poor people already existing in the region, said Jose Rivera Banuet, permanent secretary of the Latin American and Caribbean Economic System (SELA).

Rivera made the remarks in a regional seminary of SELA on US and Latin America economic ties in the crisis.—Xinhua

Blizzards, thunderstorms threaten rice crops in China

BEIJING, 2 April — More blizzards and thunderstorms will hit southern China this month, a crucial month for cultivating rice, top meteorologists warned on Wednesday.

This follows the worst drought in 50 years in northern China, which has plagued 40 percent of the country’s wheat harvest.

“The weather conditions ahead are not optimistic for farmers,” said Zhai Panmao, director of China Meteorological Administration (CMA)’s forecast services and disaster mitigation department. Although grain officials have said China’s grain stocks remain secure despite the drought, meteorologists worry disasters might spread to southern parts of the country, where farmers will soon be planting rice, the staple Chinese food.

The country has had the most frequent thunderstorms between January and March in the past decade, and so far this year natural disasters have been more severe, Zhai told a press briefing.

Wind and hail storms have swept through 14 provinces, municipalities and autonomous regions this year and caused 700 million yuan ($102 million) in direct losses, CMA figures showed.

Last year’s storms hit nine provinces and autonomous regions and resulted in a direct loss of only 35 million yuan.—Xinhua

China-US relations on right track in time of great challenge

NEW YORK, 2 April—China-US relations are on the right track and the first bilateral summit after US President Barack Obama took office is a positive step forward, a US expert said on Wednesday.

Chinese President Hu Jintao and Obama held their first face-to-face talks in London on Wednesday on the sidelines of the G20 summit.

“From what we can learn, they had a good meeting. They did agree that a whole range of topics we need to discuss further,” Orville Schell, Arthur Ross Director of the Asia Society’s Center on US-China Relations, told Xinhua.

Having devoted his professional life to reporting on and writing about Asia, especially China, Schell has been closely observing the development of the cooperative scheme between the United States and China. He welcomed the new “US-China Strategic and Economic Dialogue” mechanism which was revealed in a White House statement following the bilateral summit.

“I think this is really a positive step forward. It means we will be discussing more than just economics. It means the (cooperation in) economics can go on in their own pace, and other issues such as climate change, military to military relations, cultural exchange, things like that can happen in their own track,” Schell said.—Internet

Bullet train brings hope for Beijing’s faltering housing market

TAIYUAN, 2 April — A new bullet train service between Beijing and China’s “coal capital” Taiyuan was launched Wednesday, offering hope of a boost to the Beijing’s sluggish real estate market.

The No D2002 CRH train left Taiyuan, in Shanxi Province, at 8:31 am, and hit a maximum speed of 250 km per hour to reach Beijing 2 hours and 59 minutes later, cutting five hours from the rail journey.

Eight CRH services will operate daily on the route, which could bring up to 4,976 more passengers and a glimmer of hope to Beijing’s real estate market, which suffered a 33.4 percent year-on-year drop in investment during January and February to about 12 billion yuan (1.76 billion US dollars).

Shanxi Province, the largest coal production base in China, also “produces” wealthy coal industry home buyers. Pan Shiyi, chairman of property developer SOHO China, said Shanxi people had invested 700 million yuan, buying up 50 percent of its two largest residential projects in Beijing.

“The new bullet train saves time for Shanxi people coming to Beijing, and could motivate them to move here for a more developed cityscape, and for better education opportunities for their children,” said Pan.—Internet

Thailand opens new investment promotion office in China

BANGKOK, 2 April—Thailand’s Board of Investment (BOI) opened on Thursday a new overseas office in Beijing, China to woo more Chinese investments in Thailand, senior official said in a Press release on Thursday.

The new office in Beijing is the BOI’s second office in China after the first one in Shanghai, the BOI press release said, adding that the BOI plans to open the third office in Guangzhou by the third quarter of this year.

“We are confident that China will still consider Thailand as a prime investment destination despite the global downturn,” Charmchai Chaiwongruang, Thai Industry Minister, said in the BOI Press release.

On the back of many investment incentives, including a strategic location and a comprehensive supply chain with world-class automotive, jewelry, food processing and hospitality sectors, Thailand has hoped the country will be able to attract more Chinese investments, BOI Secretary General Atchaka Sibunruang said in the Press release.

The country has particularly targeted more investments from China in machinery and equipment, metal working, pharmaceutical and alternative energy, Atchaka said.—Internet

Oil inches above $49 in Asia

SINGAPORE, 2 April—Oil crept above $49 a barrel Thursday in Asia as glimmers of hope that the US economy may be stabilizing were weighed against concerns that global demand remains weak.

Benchmark crude for May delivery rose 74 cents to $49.12 a barrel by midday in Singapore in electronic trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange. The contract fell $1.27 on Wednesday to settle at $48.39.

Oil prices have pulled back from 3-month highs of above $54 a barrel last month as investor optimism that the global recession may be bottoming has waned.

Pending home sales rebounded in February from a record low, the National Association of Realtors reported Wednesday, while the Institute for Supply Management’s index of manufacturing activity contracted in March but by a bit less than anticipated.

“You see bright spots here and there,” said Jonathan Kornafel, Asia director for market maker Hudson Capital Energy in Singapore. “But I think the supply and demand fundamentals will push us lower.”

The Energy Department reported Wednesday that crude inventories continued to rise last week, and gasoline stocks jumped despite predictions for a steep drop.—Internet

Brazil calls for maturity to deal with financial crisis

RIO DE JANEIRO, 2 April—Brazilian President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva said on Wednesday that leaders of the G20 must have maturity to deal with the international financial crisis.

“The only thing that I hope for is that the presidents’ meeting here have the maturity to understand that every day that passes without a solution for the crisis, more people will suffer,” Lula was quoted as saying in London, where the G20 Summit will take place on Thursday.

“Everybody knows what to do, we just have to have the courage to do it,” Lula also said Brazil didn’t want to depend only on the USDollar as reference currency. He mentioned that Brazil and Argentina recently use their own currencies instead of the US dollar in bilateral commercial transactions.

Lula reaffirmed that Brazil does not need International Monetary Fund (IMF)’s loan at the moment, as it has sufficient reserves.—Internet

Canadian woman, 71, pleads guilty to pot smuggling

KINGSTON, 2 April — Police say a 71-year-old Canadian woman has pleaded guilty to drug smuggling charges after Customs officials found 8 pounds (3.6 kilograms) of marijuana hidden in her luggage at a Jamaican airport.

Montego Bay Police Constable Ulet Lewis-Green on Wednesday identified the woman as Margueritta Lancaster-Reid of Ontario. Authorities did not disclose a hometown for the Canadian dubbed “ganja granny” by local media.

Lewis-Green says the elderly woman pleaded guilty Tuesday to concealing the marijuana in her luggage at Donald Sangster International Airport. The Jamaican Observer says she told police officers it was “herbs” when the drug stash was found on 28 March.

She is scheduled to be sentenced Friday and could face up to a year in prison.

Protein-folding problem may help spur Alzheimer’s health day

WASHINGTON, 2 April — A dysfunction in protein folding contributes to nerve cell death in Alzheimer’s disease, a finding that could help lead to new treatments, Dutch researchers report.

The presence of tangles of misfolded proteins is believed to contribute to Alzheimer’s disease, the experts explained. A process known as the “unfolded protein response” typically protects cells from the toxic effects of accumulated misfolded proteins. But prolonged activation of the unfolded protein response — such as that seen in Alzheimer’s patients — may result in cell death.

The researchers at the VU University Medical Center in Amsterdam and the University of Amsterdam believed that unfolded protein response contributed to brain damage through its effects on the accumulation of hyperphosphorylated tau, a major component of tangles in the brains of people with Alzheimer’s.

Hidden planet discovered in old Hubble data

TORONTO, 2 April — A new technique has uncovered an extrasolar planet hidden in Hubble Space Telescope images taken 11 years ago.

The new strategy may allow researchers to uncover other distant alien worlds potentially lurking in over a decade’s worth of Hubble archival data.

The method was used to find an exoplanet that went undetected in Hubble images taken in 1998 with its Near Infrared Camera and Multi-Object Spectrometer (NICMOS).

Astronomers knew of the planet’s existence from images taken with the Keck and Gemini North telescopes in 2007 and 2008, long after Hubble snapped its first picture of the system.

The planet is estimated to be at least seven times the mass of Jupiter. It is the outermost of three massive planets known to orbit the dusty young star HR 8799, which is 130 light-years away from Earth.

NICMOS could not see the other two planets because its coronagraphic spot — a device that blocks out the glare of the star — blocked its view of the two inner planets.

16 dead, 2 bodies chopped up, in latest Mexico violence

CIUDAD JUAREZ, 2 April — Ten people died in drug-related violence in northern Mexico amid a massive army crackdown, and six others were killed in bloody attacks in the west of the country, officials said on Wednesday.

The killings came just days after US President Barack Obama said that such attacks in Mexico had “gotten out of hand,” as the United States stepped up efforts to stem violence spilling over its southern border.

More than 6,400 people have been killed in Mexico alone since January last year.

Six male bodies were found handcuffed and with shots to the head in an isolated spot in Chihuahua state, an official at the local prosecutor’s office said.

After villager Chen Zhiwang was bitten by Xiu’s dog, he tried to get the man to pay 240 yuan ($35) to cover his medical bill. He was turned down and he never forgot that.

One day last year, he went to Xu’s house to argue and then bit part of Xu’s lip and struck the man’s wife. He was drunk at the time.

Okshitpin-Kamma railroad section has been put into commission, for which groundwork began on 25 June 2007, and the construction of bridges, on 20 May 2007. Okshitpin-Kamma railroad section covers Bago Division for 22 miles and Magway Division for 13 miles and has 185 large and small bridges. To complete the railroad section, nearly 180 million cubic feet earth were removed and put into the ravines and gorges along it. The largest of the hills cut to even the ground along the facility was as high as 98 feet, and the largest ravine, as deep as 67 feet. The sharpest bend of the facility is 6 degrees. It has 37 bends, and the sharpest gradient is at a ratio of 1 to 100. It has six stations: Thekaw, Padaung and Phayapaw in Bago Division, and Nyaunggaing, Dangaing and Kamma in Magway Division.

The 715 feet long Madaychaung Bridge on Okshitpin-Kamma railroad section also has a road on it. Previously, by boat was the main means of transport from Kamma to Okshitpin, Padaung and Pyay in the rainy season. Due to the Madaychaung Bridge, local people of Kamma can now transport their goods to other regions all year round. So, Kamma region is on the verge of rapid development in the economic and social sectors. They can travel and transport goods to Pyay with the truck runs arranged by the Ministry of Rail Transportation through Phayapaw Station; to Taungup in Rakhine State through Okshitpin Station; and to Kyangin-Pathein by train.

When the project is completed, local people can travel to Pathein, Kyangin, Pakokku and Kalay, as well as to Myitkyina, Lashio, Taunggyi, Namsang, Aungban and Loikaw through Pakokku. Due to the efforts of the Myanma Railways of the Ministry of Rail Transportation, the total length of nation’s railroads has increased from 1976.35 miles in 1988 to 3238.05 miles; the number of railway stations from 487 to 821; and the number of large and small bridges, from 5650 to 10,421.

Now, the government is putting huge efforts in the projects in various sectors to achieve the goal of building a modern, developed nation with its all parts enjoying development. The railroads under construction by the Myanma Railways are 249-mile Kamma-Pakokku railroad, 95-mile Katha-Bhamo railroad, 198-mile Namsang-Kengtung railroad, 95-mile Pyawbwe-Namdaung-Magway railroad, and 132-mile Dawei-Myeik railroad.

Apart from them, Minbu-Sittway Railroad Project is being implemented in compliance with the guidance of the Head of State to complete a Union railroad network.

UN official says global economy could benefit from China-US cooperation

NEW YORK, 2 April—The global economy, not just members of the Group of 20, could benefit from a comprehensive China-US cooperation, said an UN official on Wednesday.

“The greater cooperation between the two major economies will not only help the global economy recover from its downturn, but also to make contributions to bringing about a new round of global economic growth,” Hong Pingfan, chief of global economic monitoring at the United Nations, told Xinhua in an interview.

Chinese President Hu Jintao and US President Barack Obama agreed on Wednesday to establish “China-US Strategic and Economic Dialogues” mechanism. Meanwhile, the US government promised to cut its deficit after the current recession while China vowed to boost its domestic demand.—INTERNET

Network turns Soldiers’ Helmets into Sniper Location System

SCIENCE DAILY, 2 April—Imagine a platoon of soldiers fighting in a hazardous urban environment who carry personal digital assistants that can display the location of enemy shooters in three dimensions and accurately identify the caliber and type of weapons they are firing.

Engineers at Vanderbilt University’s Institute for Software Integrated Systems (ISIS) have developed a system that can give soldiers just such an edge by turning their combat helmets into “smart nodes” in a wireless sensor network.

ISIS developed the novel technology with the support of the Defence Advanced Research Project Agency and the university has patented two of the system’s key elements.

Like several other shooter location systems developed in recent years, the ISIS system relies on the sound waves produced when a high-powered rifle is fired. These acoustic signals have distinctive characteristics that allow the systems to pick them out from other loud noises and track them back to their source. Current systems, however, rely on centralized or stand-alone sensor arrays. This limits their accuracy and restricts them to identifying shooters at line-of-sight locations.—INTERNET

IMF set to get $500 bln more funding

LONDON, 2 April—The Group of 20 (G20) Summit in London is set to agree on Thursday to contribute 500 billion US dollars more funding to the International Monetary Fund (IMF) to help struggling economies.

The international community has already pledged 250 billion dollars to the IMF, but the deteriorating financial situation in East European nations and the worsening crisis around the whole world have prompted calls for more funding, which could be loaned to struggling and poor economies.

Leaders of 20 developed and emerging economies gathered in London for the second time in five months to tackle the worsening financial crisis with an ambition to pull the world economy back to sustainable growth.

China believes ASEAN related meetings to boost confidence in coping with financial crisis

BEIJING, 2 April—China hoped and believed that the upcoming meetings of the Association of the Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) would shore up East Asian countries’ confidence in resisting financial crisis, said Foreign Ministry here on Thursday.

The meetings will be held in Pattaya of Thailand from April 10 to 12, including the 12th summit between the ASEAN and China, the 12th summit between the ASEAN and China, Japan and the Republic of Korea (ROK), the 10th summit between the ASEAN and China, Japan and the ROK.

Chinese new fleet sails to fight Somali pirates

BEIJING, 2 April—Somali pirates remain a menace to trade in the Gulf of Aden and beyond, and the navy may extend its current mission to cope with their threats, said a senior naval commander Wednesday.

“Pirates have recently expanded their zone of operations, coordinated with each other, upgraded their weapons and selected a wider range of targets. They also tend to use force more often,” said Rear Admiral Yao Zhilou, the commander of a new fleet setting sail today to replace the current anti-piracy fleet near Somalia.

While the warships are being replaced, China’s biggest supply ship, Weishanhu, will continue to serve in the second escort fleet after sailing for 98 days, keeping the current number of soldiers for the mission at more than 800.

The fleet will set off from a naval base in the west Guangdong city of Zhanjiang, headquarters to the South China Sea Fleet.

Plane, with seven on board, feared crash in Philippines

MANILA, 2 April—A small turbo-prop plane with five passengers and two crew members on board was believed to have crashed in northern Philippines after losing contact with the ground for more than 10 hours, civil aviation officials said Thursday.

The European-made twin-engine Islander jet RP-C7604 went missing shortly after it left the airport of Tuguegarao in northern Cagayan province at around 8:55 a.m. Thursday (0055 GMT), the Civil Aviation Authority of the Philippines (CAAP) said.

Despite the flight destination, Macanacon airport in the neighboring Isabela Province, was only 30 minutes away, no landing has been recorded in any major airports in northern Luzon by late Thursday. CAAP Director General Ruben Ciron said in a press release.

Ciron said a team was formed to investigate the incident while several agencies of the military and government departments are engaged in the search of the missing plane. However, an official with the CAAP operation department told Xinhua over phone that the search and rescue operation was halted due to “deteriorating weather conditions in Cagayan Province.”—INTERNET
Chinese police seize 178 mln yuan in fake banknotes

BEIJING, 2 April—Chinese police have seized counterfeit cash with a face value of 178 million yuan (26 million US dollars) since a national campaign was launched on 20 January, the Ministry of Public Security said on Wednesday.

The police had resolved 271 of the 412 fake money cases, they had been investigating and arrested 613 people during the campaign, the ministry said in a statement. Police also raided five counterfeiting dens, it said.

In southern Guangdong Province, police destroyed a major production plan, arresting all 13 suspects and confiscating fake banknotes with a face value of almost 100 million yuan, according to the statement.

In the southwestern Chongqing Municipality, police broke up a counterfeiting ring and confiscated 13.68 million yuan worth of notes. In another major case, police in Luobei city, in central Henan Province, arrested 11 people when they broke up a production plant and confiscated fake banknotes with face value of almost two million yuan.—MNA/Xinhua

British police arrest 63 in G-20 London summit protests

LONDON, 2 April—The number of arrests made by British police during Wednesday’s city-wide G-20 London summit protests has risen to 63, police said.

Most were held under public order act, breaching of peace, burglary or arson on Royal Bank of Scotland building, criminal damage and possession of police uniform or drugs. Other offenses include carrying offensive weapon, threatening behavior, obstruction of police or highway.

Earlier on Wednesday afternoon, protesters clashed, with police in central London after some trouble-makers ran out of control and started to smash the windows of Royal Bank of Scotland. A man was also found dead after collapsing at a protest camp near the Bank of England in central London. A member of the public told a police officer that “there was a man who had collapsed round the corner,” said a police statement.

The officer then sent two police medics through the cordon line and into St Michael’s Alley where they found a man who had stopped breathing. “The officers gave him a initial check and cleared his airway before moving him back behind the cordon line to a clear area outside the Royal Exchange Building where they gave him CPR,” it added. The officers took the decision to move him as number of missiles believed to be bottles were being thrown at them. The man was pronounced dead when he was taken to hospital.—MNA/Xinhua

Skype to launch BlackBerry application

BEIJING, 2 April—Skype, the VoIP (Voice over Internet Protocol) communications company, said Tuesday it will soon launch a free, “lite” version of Skype for BlackBerry. Unlike the iPhone version just released, you won’t need Wi-Fi to connect to Skype.

Skype Lite will work over your BlackBerry’s data plan, so long as you have a calling plan as well. It’s Skype’s core capabilities that will debut in Skype Lite for BlackBerry — placing calls to Skype users, calling landlines and mobile phones using Skype Out credit. You’ll also be able to receive inbound calls to your online Skype number.

Instant messaging and SMS features will also stay intact, but features like voicemail and file transferring, which are available on other more platforms, will be delayed for future builds.

Skype’s downloadable applications for Android, Java, Symbian, and Windows Mobile are already available, and Palm’s Web OS platform would be the last major hurdle.

White wine can also make tooth stains darker

WASHINGTON, 2 April—It has long been known that red wine causes teeth to stain. However, a recent study by New York University dental researchers found that drinking white wine can also increase the potential for teeth to take on dark stains. The researchers compared two sets of six cow teeth, whose surface closely resembles that of human teeth, and used a spectrophotometer, an instrument that measures color intensities, to evaluate staining levels.

They found that teeth soaked for one hour in white wine before being immersed in black tea had significantly darker stains than teeth immersed for one hour in water before exposure to the tea.

“Dipping teeth in white wine for one hour is similar to the effect of sipping the wine with dinner,” said Mark Wolff, a professor and chairman of the department of Cariology & Comprehensive Care at New York University College of Dentistry, who oversaw the study. The findings were presented Wednesday at the annual meeting of the International Association for Dental Research in Miami. “The acids in wine create rough spots and grooves that enable chemicals in other beverages that cause staining, such as coffee and tea, to penetrate deeper into the tooth,” Wolff said.—Internet

Study suggests coffee kills exertion pain

BEIJING, 2 April — If you want to get rid of athletic exertion pain, have a cup of coffee! A new study suggests coffee reduces exertion pain and it works regardless of whether a person already had a coffee habit or not.

University of Illinois kinesiologist and community health professor Robert Motl says, “caffeine works on a system in the brain and spinal cord (the adenosine neuromodulatory system) that is heavily involved in pain processing. And since caffeine blocks adenosine, the biochemical that plays an important role in energy transfer and thus exercise, it could reduce pain.”

The researcher, a former competitive cyclist, divided 25 fit, college-aged males into one occasion, it contained a dose of caffeine measuring 5 milligrams per kilogram of body weight (equivalent to two to three cups of coffee); the other time, they received a placebo.

During both exercise periods, subjects’ perception of quadriceps muscle pain was recorded at regular intervals, along with data on oxygen consumption, heart rate and work rate. —Xinhua

Prehistoric cave homes among China’s top 10 archaeological discoveries

BEIJING, 2 April — A group of man-made cave houses dating back 5,500 years ranked top among the 10 most significant archaeological discoveries in China in 2008, the State Administration of Cultural Heritage (SACH) announced on Tuesday.

Other discoveries included a Bronze-Age graveyard in northwest China’s Gansu Province, a tomb that proves the existence of a kingdom during the Spring and Autumn Period (770-476 BC), and a “shopping district” of the Song Dynasty (960-1279) in southwest China’s Chengdu City. “Every discovery, chosen from 25 nominated projects, is of great and special significance in archaeological studies,” said Xu Pingfang, a leading archaeologist with the Institute of Archaeology under the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences.

The Yangguanzhai ruin, in northwest China’s Shaanxi Province, consists of 17 cave houses on a cliff and adjacent pottery kilns near Gaoling county, 20 km away from the provincial capital Xi’an. Fatty oil in fish may help reduce tumors

LONDON, 2 April — An omega 3 fatty acid found in fish oils reduced the size of tumors in mice and made a chemotherapy drug more potent while limiting its harmful effects, Egyptian researchers reported on Thursday.

The findings, published in publisher BioMed Central’s peer-reviewed Cell Division journal, add to evidence showing a range of health benefits from eating the fatty acids found in foods such as salmon.

AM El-Mowafy and colleagues from Mansours University in Egypt looked at how an omega 3 fatty acid called docosahexaenoic acid, or DHA, affected solid tumors growing in mice and how well it interacted with the chemotherapy drug cisplatin.

“Our results support anew, fruitful drug regimen in the management of solid tumors based on combining cisplatin and possibly other chemotherapeutics with DHA,” EL-Mowafy said in a statement. —Internet

Flooded Australian towns declared disaster zones

SYDNEY, 2 April — Several towns on Australia’s east coast were declared disaster zones Wednesday after flash floods stranded thousands of people and forced hundreds to be evacuated.

More than 2,000 people spent the night house-bound or trapped in schools and restaurants after a sudden deluge hit towns around Coff’s Harbour about 570 kilometres (350 miles) north of Sydney Tuesday, officials said.

Hundreds of people were evacuated from their homes in Coff’s Harbour, where 450-millimetre (18 inches) of rain fell in just 24 hours, said New South Wales state’s Emergency Services Minister Steve Whan. “The State Emergency Service has received more than 760 requests for help from the region and, as always, the volunteers have responded swiftly and professionally to assist the community,” Whan said. —Internet

TB-plagued countries promise to scale up treatment efforts

BEIJING, 2 April — Health ministers and senior officials from 27 countries on Wednesday promised to scale up efforts to control the spread of drug-resistant tuberculosis (TB) amid warnings that the disease is fast becoming a major global health threat.

They endorsed the Beijing “Call for Action” on TB Control and Patient Care late on Wednesday after becoming a major global health threat.

Hisbollah claimed responsibility for the December 2008 suicide bombing in the southern town of Bint Jbeil that killed 24 Lebanese soldiers.

Egyptian researchers have identified a new, fruitful drug regimen for the chemotherapy drug cisplatin.

Ribery strikes again to sink Lithuania

PARIS, 2 April — A second-half strike from Franck Ribery earned France a 1-0 victory over Lithuania for the second time in five days in their World Cup 2010 qualifying match here on Wednesday.

The mercurial Bayern Munich winger scored from long range to sink the Baltic side in Kaunas on Saturday, and he proved the match-winner again in Paris after seeing his side labour for long periods of the game.

“The Lithuanians came, they stayed back and they kept their shape,” said France midfielder Lassana Diarra. “We had total control of the ball. We just had to be patient and in the end we won.”

Newly trimmed Terry a cut above for England

“Wayne and he obliged,” Terry said. “I was allowed to leave the hotel or anything so I asked him. In the week I needed a little trim up. We’re not his England team-mate loose on his hair earlier in the week. Picking a trim with Rooney and then admitted he had let his hair grow. We just had to be patient and in the end we won.”

For two black golfers, path to PGA tour is rocky

HARDEEVILLE, 2 April — Tim O’Neal watched carefully, head down, as his pitch from just off the green rolled perfectly into the cup on the ninth green at Tradition National Golf Course last month. “That was great,” cheered playing partner David Robinson at the eGolf Professional Tour event. O’Neal smiled back, a nice shot on a good day.

There just haven’t been enough of those moments for O’Neal to reach his ultimate goal. Tiger Woods’ phenomenal rise and accomplishments seemed destined to lead to a wave of talented minority golfers, a new generation topping leaderboards throughout the country. — Internet

Federer, Djokovic book semi-final clash in Miami

MIAMI, 2 April — World number two Roger Federer overcame American Andy Roddick in three sets to set up a semi-final clash with Novak Djokovic at the ATP Masters 1000 hardcourt tournament here.

The second-seeded Swiss, still in search of his first title of 2009, defeated Roddick 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, avenging a quarter-final loss to the American here last year.

Railroad links to form Union railroad network

In the time of the Tatmadaw government, which assumed State duties in 1988, the nation is in a position to enjoy peace and stability well more than ever, and the tasks designed for all-round development of the nation are now at their peak. To put it another way, the government is working hard with a self-reliant basis to enable the Union of Myanmar to catch up with the international community in terms of development.

As part of the drive to expedite nation-building tasks, the Myanma Railways is now constructing simultaneously the three sections of the 320-mile Kyangin-Pakokku Railroad intended to enable the regions on the west bank of Ayeyawady River to enjoy development on a par with that of the regions on the east bank of the river: 110-mile Kyangin-Thayet section, 100-mile Thayet-Pwintbyu section, and 110-mile Pwintbyu-Pakokku section.

The 40-mile Kyangin-Okshitpin railroad section was inaugurated on 1 March 2008. The 35-mile (See page 10)
