Statement on the Junta's Forced Conscription Law
March 29, 2024

1. On February 10, 2024, the military dictatorship reestablished the Conscription Law, which was enacted on November 4, 2010. Putting this law into effect has triggered more people in Myanmar suffering during the current political turmoil fomented by the State Administrative Council.
2. The interim university councils urge students, young people, and the public to face the difficulties imposed by the junta's human rights violations by working for the success of the spring revolution.
3. As members of the interim university councils, we are aware of the concerns and worries of students, teachers, and the administrative staff. We are all fighting together with our people. Any students, teachers, or administrative staff who are in need of help should contact their respective university councils in order to ask for support and necessary information.
4. The interim university councils will collaborate with the township education boards, the vocational councils, teachers' unions, student unions, labor unions, ethnic organizations, and the ministries under the National Unity Government, especially the Ministry of Education.
5. The interim university councils have strongly condemned the junta's statement regarding the forced conscription of soldiers.
