Republic of the Union of Myanmar Office of the President Press Release

6th Waxing of Kason 1381 ME
(9 May, 2019)

1. The Presidential Pardon was given after systematic scrutiny. It is given to prisoners under the policy to provide clemency to prisoners who are aged, in
2. poor health, women, youth and disabled.
3. However, citing dissatisfaction with the Presidential Pardon as an excuse, there were riots on 8th May in the prisons at the Kalay and Hpa-an townships. These were followed by riots in the prisons of Shwebo, Myitkyina, Dawei, Tharyarwaddy and Patheingyi townships on 9th May 2019.
4. During these riots, the prisoners made demands that are of the same vein and in some cases identical. In some prisons, the prisoners used mobile phones to stream live on social media. It is evident that there are linkages and incitement behind these prison riots.

4. Therefore, effective investigations will be made to bring out the truth behind these riots.

State Counsellor meets people of Magway

STATE Counsellor Daw Aung San Suu Kyi, the Chairperson of the Central Committee for Development of Border Areas and National Races together with Union Ministers Lt-Gen Kyaw Swe, Lt-Gen Ye Aung, U Min Thu, Dr. Aung Thu, U Ohn Win and Dr. Myint Htwe and officials met with people of Magway at Magway Town Hall yesterday afternoon.

At the meeting the State Counsellor said that in her tour of the country she saw people from Magway working everywhere because there wasn't sufficient work in Magway. On one hand it shows that people from Magway didn't shy away from jobs, were capable of taking up any works and had the courage to seek out jobs anywhere. On the other hand it was sad to see that they had to leave their place of birth to seek out jobs elsewhere. No one would want to leave their place of birth and will want to stay there.

That was why we said creating jobs was a very important matter ever since our government took over responsibility. Economically or socially, job creation was important. Only through jobs can we earn income. Only with income can we survive. However, only with work or job where they were can people live with their family, relatives and society. If not they'll have to seek out works or jobs elsewhere and part with their family which was not good.

We prioritize job creation all over the country. We designated job creation as our first priority when we took over the government responsibility. But after a few months we noticed that the main requirement for job creation was road communication in electricity. Where there was a good road communication with electricity, jobs and works were created. There were two ways in which this happens. One was where locals have the opportunity to create jobs and works. They set out to start small businesses. Sometime, due to good road communication, farmers were able to send their products to the market quickly without the products degrading from time. So, economically there'll be development. With electricity, they'll be creating their own businesses or increase whatever they're doing. Create more jobs and works.

Another one will be businesses coming in to invest. Once the road communication became good and electricity became available, business persons come in to invest in businesses. Road communication was noticeably good in Magway Region. It was quite developed. However, we were unable to provide as much electricity as we want to. Electricity was required all over the country. We have to decide on where to prioritize. We can't provide to the entire country at tant for the whole country. We emphasize on education because the future of our country will be good only when our people were educated. Only when children were taught with what they need to learn can they benefit the country when they grow up. When civic rights and responsibilities were taught to the children at the primary schools they'll understand and learn quickly. It would be hard to teach the parents as once the mindsets as they first reach there if they couldn't leave it in a better condition. The least they should do was to leave a place as how it was before they were there. If possible, they were to leave a place in a better situation than they were there first.

I would like to urge both young and old to have a spirit of leaving a place they went through in a better condition once they left. This would be the individual duty and responsibility of each and every citizen. Only when this duty and responsibility was taken up can the country develop. Our country was a developing country. What this was like was like a youngster growing up in harsh neighborhood. We need to have the quality of putting in more efforts than others. I trust that people of Magway had this ability. They can endure hardship. They stay simple but aim high. They were simple and straight forward. All must have this aim. All can improve themselves. It was possible to become an honorable and qualified person. People of Magway should be exemplary in this. People of Magway were seen all over the country working in all sorts of works. I believe such people had the ability to advance the country in a big way.

We would want to make the education system as practical as possible. We want to establish an education system that was in line with the time. In other word, we want to establish an education system that was unique from other countries. We want to be on par in all technologies. This we have to teach. But we need to raise not only the education but also the moral and ethics too.

For this, we need to teach civic duties and responsibilities that'll change and develop the morality of youngsters. We want to teach subjects that changes the moral characters and provide physical development.

For most, higher education means university education. But this was now becoming an outdated thought. Even in the world's most developed countries, there were many unemployed university graduates. It was important for youngsters and parents to know the value of vocational education. University education was not the only education. Vocational education was also an education. They are two different types of education. Vocational education was practical and there were many good opportunities for people who had completed vocational education to go straight into the work forces.

That was why we want to promote vocational education. People need to support and strive toward understanding the value of it said the State Counsellor.

We hope to fulfill 50% of the country's electricity requirement before the end of this year. We'll strive toward providing this to the entire country in the coming two to three years.

one time. This depends a lot on technology, work situation and financial situation.

We hope to fulfill 50% of the country's electricity requirement before the end of this year. We'll strive toward providing this to the entire country in the coming two to three years. As we want 100%, we were not satisfied with 50%. But let me say that there was progress. Two years ago, we were only providing about 30% and reaching 50% means the progress was close to double. This was indeed quite acceptable.

Education was most impor-

were established it would be difficult to change their attitudes and practices. The children were easier to teach and change.

An example is trash. Trash is becoming a habit for our people. The trash we throw away were something like not related to us but even when we left a place, the trash we throw away remains. We were taught not to throw away our trash since we were in school. We were taught since young to handle this.

Ever since we started our political party movement in 1988, we told youths to leave a place at least in the same condition

The State Counsellor, Union Minister Dr. Aung Thu, Region Chief Minister, region ministers and official then responded to matters that can be resolved immediately while explaining of resolving some matters requiring more time and to conduct matters that requires doing things in the long run.

At the end the State Counsellor asked the people to raise matters in which they were facing difficulties with full confidence and trust to the Region Government, spoke of the requirement for the Region Government to consistently keep in touch with the local populace, possibility of overcoming any problem if the people and the government have good relation and the government having full confidence in the capacity of the people. — MNA

Ensuring loans can help MSMEs overcome financial challenges

MICRO, Small, and Medium-sized Enterprises, or MSMEs, make up 99 per cent of Myanmar's businesses. Therefore, only when MSMEs are developed can the country achieve economic progress.

To oversee MSME development, an MSME development policy was adopted in December, 2015, a law was enacted in April the same year, and a by-law was enacted in October, 2016.

In accordance with the policy, national MSME products trade fairs and contests have been held in different states and regions since February, 2018 with a view to support the market expansion of MSMEs; promote import substitution across various sectors; encourage linkages between the manufacturing and trade sectors; improve MSME competitiveness, technology, and economic know-how, with the cooperation of local and international businesses; increase import substitution products; and promote innovative products and MSMEs.

To oversee MSME development, an MSME development policy was adopted in December, 2015, a law was enacted in April the same year, and a by-law was enacted in October, 2016.

There are more than 67,000 registered SMEs in Myanmar along with many un-registered businesses, according to the SME Development Department. SMEs constitute 90 per cent of Myanmar's businesses. Most of them are facing barriers and challenges in terms of capital, technology, and market access.

To ensure the MSMEs overcome their financial challenges, the Union Government has been providing loans to businesses in need of capital by collaborating with domestic private banks.

Awareness talks have been held through Credit Guarantee Insurance (CGI) to help businesses get credit from banks for investment. The Sumitomo Mitsui Banking Corporation (SMBC) and private banks such as CB, KBZ Bank, and SMIDB have provided CGI loans of K4,105.9 million to 406 businesses and JICA two-step loans of K8,348.5 million to 47 businesses.

Till January, 2019, the Ministry had inspected 51,171 registered workshops at industrial establishments, in line with the private industrial enterprise law.

All SMEs engaged in manufacturing, labor-based projects, retail and wholesale, service and other businesses are eligible for the JICA SME two-step loans.

The Myanmar Economic Bank has been providing two-step loans, funded by the Japan International Cooperation Agency, since September, 2018 to help develop Myanmar's small and medium enterprises.

The relevant ministries, government organizations, and the public sector have been urged to step up collaboration to help MSMEs obtain loans and technology so they can produce innovative and quality products, expand their reach in local and foreign markets, improve technology and economic knowledge, cooperate with local and foreign organizations related to the sector, produce more import substitution products, consistently update technology, strategies, news and information, and develop human resources.

Magnificent Indawgyi Lake aspiring to be inscribed as Geopark

By Than Htun (Myanmar Geosciences Society)

(From previous article covered on 9 May)

The gold bearing gravel beds are observed in the western part of Indawgyi Lake and around Maing Naung Village. Since 1987 local people are exploiting gold and platinum surrounding area of Maing Naung and Nam Yin Hka stream (Htun Win, 1991),

Indawgyi Lake Wildlife Sanctuary Asian Heritage Park

Forest Department established Wildlife Sanctuary 5 forest areas surrounding the biggest freshwater inland lake, Indawgyi Lake in 2004. Asian Heritage Park in 2003, Indawgyi Ramsar Site in 2003, Indawgyi Biosphere Reserve in 2017 with the following objectives:-

- To protect one of the largest freshwater inland lake.
- To protect water fowls, forest birds and migratory birds.
- To conserve rare animals.
- To carry out research works.
- To develop nature-base tourism or geotourism.
- To develop well-being of the local people.

The wetlands of Indawgyi are globally important for conservation: the lake its resting and feeding ducks, geese and pelicans; the floating vegetation with jacanas balancing over leaves; lakeshore reeds providing shelter for the purple swamphens and crakes; and flooded grasslands with feeding cranes and storks. One of the most residents is the rare Sarus Crane with its prominent red head sticking out from grasslands and paddy fields (FFI).

Indawgyi Lake basin is surrounded by forested hills, home of amazing birds such as the Rufous-necked and Great Hornbill, with Gibbons calling and shy coloured Leopards searching for prey (FFI).

Indawgyi Worldlife Scactuary is famous for its birds, especially the reed, seasonally flooded grassland, the floating vegetation which are responsible for high biodiversity including bird's species. Every October more than 20,000 water birds start arriving from their summer breeding grounds in China and Siberia. Most birds come to stay over winter, but others only stop to rest and feed, preparing for a much longer journey to Australia. In the Indawgyi Lake area 10 endangered species can be observed. Of these species, greylag geese, Oriental darter and purple swamphen are prominent during the month of January. A tour of the lake by motor canoe allows one to view a large array of wetland species. It appears that the lake and surrounding wetlands provide an important winter feeding habitat.

On the other hand Indawgyi Lake is threatened by over-fishing and pollution at the moment. Illegal logging and firewood extraction is degrading surrounding forests. Everyone need to collaborate with each other for conservation of invaluable nature and environment of Indawgyi lake for our young generation to come (FFI).

Geotourism Vs Ecotourism

Geotourism adds to ecotourism's principal focus on plants (flora) and animals (fauna) by adding a third dimension of the abiotic environment. Thus it is growing around the world through the growth of geoparks as well as independently in many natural and urban areas where tourism's focus in on the geological environment. Most of the world defines geotourism as purely the study of geological and geomorphological features.

"Looking at the environment in a simplistic manner; we see that it is made up of Abiotic, Biotic and Cultural (ABC) attributes. Starting with the 'C' or cultural component first, we note that of three features it is this one which is generally the most known and interpreted, that is, through information about the built or cultural environment either in the past (historical accounts) or present (community customs and culture). The 'B' or biotic features of fauna (animals) and flora (plants) has seen a large focus of interpretation and understanding through ecotourism. But it is the first attribute of the 'A' or abiotic features including rocks, landforms and processes that has received the least attention in tourism, and consequently is the least known and understood. This then is the real power of geotourism, in that it puts the tourist spotlight firmly on geology, and brings it to the forefront of our understanding through tourism".

Geosites in Indawgyi Aspiring Geopark Shwe Myitzu Pagoda

The most famous and beautiful landmark at Indawgyi Lake is Shwe Myitzu Pagoda which is shining in the middle of the lake. The annual Pagoda festival held end of February and early-March. It is end of dry season and water level is low enough to walk along the wooden trail from mainland to the Pagoda in the lake.

Shwe Taung (Golden Mountain)

Shwe Taung is situated at the north bank of Indawgyi Lake and has a pagoda and monastery on top of the hill and provide with panoramic views of the lake. It will take about 30 minute walk to the hill top and some local generous people will offer you refreshment on the way.

Lwemun Village

Lwemun Village is located on the western bank of the lake and the most picturesque village. There are two monasteries, a nat (spirit) shrine and a shrine which tells the story of Indawgyi Lake. The story is that there was a village right below the current Lwemun before Indawgyi Lake was appeared. A widow had dreamt that the area would be filled with water soon and so she left the village for the hill with some animals. The other villagers didn't believe her, but then the village was flooded and the lake had been appeared. One of the monasteries at the southern end of the village has a nat shrine for celebrating the widow's dream. Her footprint seems to be there as well, but it can only be seen during the dry season.

Hepa Village

The lake front of the village on the southeast of Indawgyi Lake has a scenic beauty. Further to the east there is a main north-south road and after a short walk or ride some lovely scenery of rolling fields can be seen.

Namde Village

Namde Village is most notable as the turn-off point to Shwe Myitzu Pagoda and there is a house for two elephants. The elephants (male and female) are kept in the second house south of the turn-off to Shwe Myitzu Pagoda.

Nammilaung Village

Nammilaung Village is famous for its interesting architecture with high wooden fences around all the houses. Nammilaung also has a cane Buddha image, which was collaborative effort by local people. On the fourth street south of the cane Buddha complex there is another house for elephants.

Indawgyi Environmental Education Centre

Indawgyi Environmental Education Centre was established by Inn Chit Thu and Fauna & Flora International with support from The Helmsley Charitable Trust and Hla Day. Indawgyi Lake occupied various natural, cultural, biodiversity, wildlife and geological and archaeological heritages and those are internationally significant values for an UNESCO Global Geopark in Myanmar.

Bird watching

Indawgyi Lake is a major stop for migratory birds and attracts thousands of birds especially during winter months from December to March on the East Asia-Australian Flyway. During that period thousands of birds on the lake and flying in flocks over it are wonder to behold.

Inn Chit Thu Ecotourism: is an organization based at the lake that is supported by Flora and Fauna International that provides a range of services, goods, and opportunities for visitors. They have been working at the lake since 2013.

Kayaking: Kayaks are available for hire at Inn Chit Thu and Indawgyi Motel. The lake is too wide to cover by kayak in a single day, but the southern half and the western shore, including Shwe Myitzu Pagoda, can conveniently be visited by kayak.

Cycling: Bicycles are available at Inn Chit Thu for hire and allows to explore the villages along the western and southern shores of the lake.

Trekking: Single day treks are available for the mountains around the lake through Inn Chit Thu or Face of Indawgyi. Due to security reason trekking in the mountains on the west side of the lake is not allowed at the present.

Recreational fishing: Basic recreational fishing trips can also be done at Indawgyi Lake.

Boat tour: You can hire a boat and go around the lake at reasonable price.

Festival: Every year during the ten days before the full moon in March people from all over Kachin state celebrate Shwe Myitzu Pagoda festival. During the festival there are boat races, concerts and various recreation in the area. The water level is low and you can walk over dry land to the pagoda.

Souvenir: Kachin bags, tissue holders, and handmade jewellery at the ecotourism spot. A local weaver is situated about 30 minutes by boat from Lonton where homemade Kachin woven fabric are available.

Indawgyi Lake in Kachin State occupied international significance sites of landscape, biodiversity, biosphere, wetland ecology, geology and mineral deposits, archaeology, traditional culture, ecotourism and geotourism, those are the basic requirements and characteristics for Geopark. Therefore, Geopark Development Committee of Myanmar Geosciences Society congratulate and welcome magnificent Indawgyi Lake of beautiful Kachin State as Aspiring National Geopark as well as UNESCO Global Geopark and decided to collaborate with Forest Department, local authorities, Inn Chit Thu, Flora Fauna International and local people. Indawgyi Lake is more than a lake.

The Education and Training Department has taken recommendations from the Ministry to keep working on capacity building in the ethnic youth community to help develop the resources of the state and benefit the region as a whole.

Ministry of Electricity and Energy

Regarding the accomplishments of the Ministry of Electricity and Energy in its third-year term, Permanent Secretary of the ministry U Tin Maung Oo said only 44 percent of the whole of Myanmar have access to a power grid. MOEE aims to increase this number to 55 percent in 2020-2021, up to 75 percent for 2025-2026 and 100 percent by the year 2030-2031.

The ministry has increased the output by 12 percent from the previous year. During the current administration's first year in office, the ministry also increased output by 13 percent compared to the previous.

The permanent secretary is working under the National Electrification Plan-NEP, and about 55 per cent of the country's total households are targeted to get access to electricity in 2021, 75 per cent in 2026 and 100 per cent in 2030.

Price of long grain rice falls by K7,000 to K19,000 per bag

By Nyein Nyein

LONG grain rice of 90-day yield is currently priced at K19,000 per bag in the domestic market, a decline of K7,000 compared with a year ago, according to rice depots.

"Last year, the price of 90-day rice had went up a high of K26,000 per bag, but this year, it is fetching around K18,000-19,000 per bag," said U Aung Than Oo, the chair of the Myanmar Rice and Paddy Traders Association.

"The price of 90-day rice is not that low. It is stable at K18,500-19,000 per bag. Compared with last year, the price is lower this year, but the market is witnessing regular buying," said U Aung Than Oo.

Rice Federation announced it would purchase long grain rice with 90-day yield, which had no demand in the market, at a basic price of K19,500 per bag from 8

April.

At present, 90-day rice is cultivated in the Ayeyawady and Bago regions. Rice from the Ayeyawady Region has been supplied to the Wadan rice depot, according to the depot.

"The basic rate of 90-day rice will ensure growers do not face losses. They will just make a lower profit compared with the previous year," according to rice traders.

"Long grain rice of 90-day yield is primarily meant for domestic consumption, and it is also exported to China. However, rice has piled up in the domestic market due to lack of demand from China," said U Zaw Khaing, joint secretary, Wadan rice depot.

"At present, rice cannot flow out of the Muse border gate to China. We have only the Yangon market to rely on," said U Zaw Khaing.

Myanmar exported 2.3 million tons of rice to foreign trade partners between April, 2018 and March, 2019. "Due to a drastic plunge in rice exports through the border, about 2 million tons of rice has been stockpiled in the market," said U Aung Than Oo, the chair of the Myanmar Rice and Paddy Traders Association.

Myanmar exports rice through maritime trade and border gates. Rice trade to China through the Sino-Myanmar border trade channels has been halted as China has been cracking down on entry of illegal goods since October, 2018. This has led to a steep drop in rice exports to China.

Myanmar shipped 3.68 million tons of rice to foreign countries in the 2017-2018 fiscal year. ■ (Translated by Ei Myat Mon)

Nearly $500 mln earned from cattle exports since 2017: officials

By Aye Yamone

MYANMAR has earned around US$500 million from the export of more than 400,000 head of cattle since 2017, said Dr. Ye Tun Win, Director-General, Livestock Breeding and Veterinary Department.

The Ministry of Commerce began issuing permits for export of live cattle in 2017. Since then, Myanmar has earned $480 million from cattle exports, he said. "The livestock sector faces both challenges and opportunities. Myanmar has been conducting trade with China since 2017, enabling locals to earn a livelihood through livestock breeding, which in turn, has contributed in part to rural development," said Dr. Ye Tun Win.

"At present, China is applying strict controls in border trade, allowing only legal trade through Muse. Therefore, local traders have been exporting cattle to meat factories and slaughter houses in Longtang Town, China through Goteik, Man Waing Gyi Road, Namhkam in Shan State (North) and Man Waing Gyi area close to the border of Kachin State," he said.

Negotiations are currently on as one Chinese company has offered to import cattle through the Lwejel border gate as the Muse route is long and the cost of transportation is high, he said.

"While negotiations are on, we are seeking ways to ensure the stability of the market. We need to adopt a long-term plan for sustainable production of livestock products," he added.

Between the 2017-2018FY and 28 March, 2018-2019FY, the authorities have permitted traders to export 50,264 buffaloes and 413,781 cows. The Ministry of Commerce decided to permit entrepreneurs to export live cattle on 9 October, 2017, with the aim of discouraging illegal trade and create job opportunities for local livestock breeders.

Over 1,000 new companies registering with MyCO every month:

By Nyein Nyein

OVER 1,000 new companies are registering on the online registry system MyCO every month, according to the Directorate of Investment and Company Administration.

Registration and re-registration of companies on the MyCO website commenced on 1 August, 2018, in keeping with the Myanmar Companies Law 2017. More than 14,000 new companies and 46,000 existing companies have registered and re-registered on MyCO in the last nine months (August-April), which brings the total number of registered companies to 62,000. Over 90 per cent of companies have used online applications for registration, while the rest have filed their applications manually, according to data from the DICA.

MyCO is receiving more than 1,000 applications from new companies every month. When the online registry was launched in August, 2018, 1,816 new companies registered on MyCO. The figure stood at 2,218 in September, 1,671 in October, 1,437 in November, 1,364 in December, 1,733 in January, 1,419 in February, 1,108 in March, and over 1,300 in April, data from the DICA shows.

The DICA had set a six-month period from 1 August, 2018 to 31 January, 2019 for registration and re-registration. It had said those companies which failed to re-register would be struck off from the register list.

Over 60,000 companies were previously registered in Myanmar and all of them were notified to re-register on MyCO. When the deadline closed, 46,377 old companies had re-registered on MyCO and over 10,000 companies had failed to do so.

"Those companies which want to restore their corporate status will have to shell out a fee and provide sufficient reasons," said U Myo Min, director, DICA.

"The companies must not think they can register by paying a penalty after the lapse of the six-month deadline. According to regulations, companies will have to provide sufficient reasons why they failed to register before the deadline," he said.

As per Chapter III of the notification (66/2018) issued by the Ministry of Planning and Finance on 23 July, 2018, if an existing company fails to re-register on the electronic registry system within the deadline, the registrar can strike its name off the register and publish a notice in the Gazette. Once the notice is published, the company will be dissolved, while the liability of the directors and the members of the company shall continue to be enforced. Under Section (d) of Chapter III, a registrar may restore an existing company or corporate entity which has failed to re-register, if it provides sufficient cause before its name is struck off the register. Such companies will be restored after they shell out a fee, which will be prescribed by the Union Minister. ■ (Translated by Ei Myat Mon)

Famine on rise in Near East and North Africa: FAO

CAIRO — Famine is on the rise in the Near East and North Africa with more than 52 million people undernourished, most of them in conflict zones, the UN food agency said Wednesday.

“Conflicts and protracted crises have spread and worsened since 2011, threatening the region’s efforts” to eliminate hunger, said the UN Food and Agriculture Organization.

“Fifty-two million people in the region are suffering from chronic undernourishment” with two-thirds of them in conflict zones, the FAO said in a statement.

These included Iraq, Libya, Sudan, Syria and Yemen, whose ongoing four-year war has killed tens of thousands of people, including many civilians, according to humanitarian organisations.

The fighting in Yemen has triggered what the United Nations describes as the world’s worst humanitarian crisis, with 3.3 million people still displaced and 24.1 million in need of aid. Conflicts in the Near East and North Africa also had “long-lasting impacts on the food and nutrition security” of surrounding countries, said Abdessalam Ould Ahmed, the FAO’s Cairo-based regional representative.

“The impact of conflict has been disrupting food and livestock production in some countries and consequently affecting the availability of food across the region,” he said.

Beyond conflicts, the FAO said rising hunger was also made worse in the region by rapid population growth, scarce and fragile natural resources and the growing threat of climate change.

In response to the crisis, the UN agency called for the sustainable transformation of agriculture.—AFP ■

In India, water pollution is a major challenge with nearly 70 per cent of the country’s water contaminated, impacting three in four Indians and contributing to 20 per cent of the country’s disease burden, said a government report in June last year.—Xinhua ■

Hat-trick 'superhero' Lucas leads Tottenham to brink of promised land

LONDON — Lucas Moura came to Europe dreaming of winning the Champions League but few could imagine the Brazilian's chance to fulfil his ambition would arrive with Tottenham after he was discarded by Paris Saint-Germain.

Spurs will go to Madrid on June 1 to face Liverpool thanks to Lucas's second half hat-trick that turned around a 3-0 aggregate deficit against Ajax as the club reached the final for the first time in their history.

"The Champions League final is a dream for me. Since I was a child I dreamed of this moment and now I live this moment," said an emotional Lucas. "We need to enjoy it. Look at me — it's the best moment in my life, my career."

Ajax's wonder kids had wowed the continent with their dazzling talent in eliminating Real Madrid and Juventus and seemed set to add the scalp of a jaded Tottenham to that list after 135 minutes of the tie.

In different circumstances Lucas would likely not even have been on the pitch.

Harry Kane watched on from the sidelines due to ankle ligament damage, the latest injury to have ravaged Mauricio Pochettino's over-worked squad — Spurs have not signed a single player since Lucas's arrival in January 2018. Yet after a season of ups and downs, Spurs will travel to the Spanish capital knowing they could be on the brink of the greatest night in the club's history.—AFP ■

Nadal on the up again, Ferrer ends career in Madrid

MADRID — Rafael Nadal believes he is finding his rhythm again after beginning his bid for a sixth Madrid Open title on Wednesday by beating Canadian teenager Felix Auger-Aliassime in straight sets. The victory also came hours before Nadal's fellow Spaniard David Ferrer played the final match of his career, losing 6-4, 6-1 to Alexander Zverev in his last tournament before retirement. Nadal has endured a turbulent few weeks after slipping to surprise defeats in both Monte Carlo and Barcelona last month before then being hit by a stomach bug on Sunday. But there was never much sign of an upset in the Spanish capital, where the world number two opened up with a 6-3, 6-3 victory.—AFP ■
