Bago, Ayeyawady regions to get K13 bln for purchasing paddy at basic price

By Nyein Nyein

THE government has pledged K13 billion to the Bago and Ayeyawady regions to allow them to purchase paddy at the basic price, said U Aung Htoo, the Deputy Minister for Commerce.

“The Bago Region government has asked for K8 billion to purchase paddy. To set the rules and regulations regarding that we will call a meeting soon. Afterwards, we will pay the subsidy to them. However, we will figure out a way so they can repay it. No report has been submitted by the Ayeyawady Region. The regional government has sought around K5 billion. The existing fund is adequate to make the allocations. It is available so they can buy paddy, if the market price falls below the basic price,” said U Aung Htoo.

At present, the Bago, Ayeyawady, and Yangon region governments have requested the leading group on protecting the rights and enhancing the economic welfare of farmers to buy the paddy at the set floor price, he said.

On 15 October, the government fixed the basic price of paddy (low-quality variety) at K500,000 per 100 baskets (one basket is equivalent to 46 pounds) for this year's monsoon paddy and the 2020 summer paddy. The government has pledged K15 billion for purchasing paddy, in case the market price falls below the basic price.

Therefore, the concerned region and state governments are preparing plans to purchase the paddy if the price drops below the basic price.

“The related region and state governments will buy the paddy. They had to submit a report to the Union government to seek a purchase permit. They all have forwarded the respective reports and will take action on this,” said U Aung Htoo.

Additionally, to pay off the funds allocated under the government purchase plan, rules, regulations, and payment terms will be discussed, he added.

The agricultural management group and paddy purchase groups formed by the leading group will initiate the purchase plans in remote places, where it is hard to trade paddy at the basic price. The plans are being drafted at present. The Myanmar Rice Federation and warehouse businesses will also cooperate in the plans.

Stock trades on YSX drop by half in Oct

THE value of stocks traded on the Yangon Stock Exchange (YSX) last month was registered at K1.36 billion, nearly half the value recorded in September.

The value of stocks traded on the exchange had reached a peak this year in September at K2.47 billion.

The volume of shares traded also plunged in October. A total of 259,245 shares were traded on the exchange last month compared to 421,358 shares in September, according to the monthly report of the YSX.

At present, shares of five listed companies — First Myanmar Investment (FMI), Myanmar Thilawa SEZ Holdings (MTSH), Myanmar Citizens Bank (MCB), First Private Bank (FPB), and TMH Telecom Public Co Ltd. — are being traded on the stock exchange.

In January, 89,576 shares worth K526 million were traded on the exchange, and the trade value slid to K409 million and K396 million in February and March as share prices fell. In April, 102,682 shares worth K506 million were traded on the YSX. Starting from May, the value of shares traded crossed K1 million. It touched a new peak of K1.4 billion, with 275,325 shares traded, in May; K1.32 billion, with 233,994 shares traded, in June; K1.22 billion, with 256,241 shares traded, in July, and K1.9 billion, with 322,176 shares traded, in August. It reached a record-high in September and then plunged nearly 50 per cent in October.

In October, the shares of FMI closed at K12,000, MTSH at K3,950, MCB at K8,300, FPB at K23,000, and TMH at K3,000.

The YSX was launched three years ago to improve the private business sector. It disseminates rules and regulations regarding the stock exchange and knowledge of share trading through stock investment seminars.

The YSX has doubled its stock trade matching time from two to four per day. In addition to this, it held a promotional event to attract new investors and encourage existing investors to trade more actively. The YSX has also sought the government's support to get more public companies to participate in the stock market and to help more institutional investors, such as financing companies, investment banks, and insurance companies, to emerge.

Meanwhile, the Securities and Exchange Commission of Myanmar, under the Ministry of Planning and Finance, issued a press statement on 12 July, announcing that foreigners would be allowed to invest in shares listed on the YSX within a few months and currently, they are making preparations for this.

With the aim of increasing the number of individual investors in Myanmar's financial market, support the growth of business enterprises, develop the ecosystem of the Myanmar capital market, and improve financial literacy among people, the YSX Expo 2019 was held on 1 September at the Novotel Yangon Max Hotel, according to the YSX.

In 2016, shares of only three companies were traded on the YSX — First Myanmar Investment, Myanmar Thilawa SEZ Holdings, and Myanmar Citizens Bank. One more public company, First Private Bank, was listed on the YSX in 2017. Last year, TMH Telecom Public Co Ltd debuted on the exchange.

More than 2.5 million shares of three listed companies were traded on the YSX in 2016, and their value was estimated at K70 billion. In 2017, despite an increase in the stock trading volume to 2.6 million shares, the trade value was only K22 billion. In 2018, 2.3 million shares of five companies, worth K11.5 billion, were traded on the exchange, according to the annual report of the YSX. — GNLM

Sorghum price rises due to demand from China

IN spite of the huge harvest of Myanmar sorghum this season, the price has been increasing gradually due to a large demand from China, according to the Mandalay Commodity Depot.

“Sorghum is generally harvested during Thadingyunt, and the market opened at K28,000 per basket this season. Although sorghum is currently being sent to local markets, the price has gradually climbed to K30,000 per basket, instead of declining,” said U Soe Win Myint from Soe Win Myint Depot in Mandalay.

“The price of sorghum has been rising on account of a large demand, despite the high yield this year. Earlier, the price stood at K28,000 per basket. In China, sorghum is used to make alcohol. The Chinese consider sorghum alcohol healthy. So, they prefer sorghum over corns. Sorghum is selling well among the Leeshaw ethnic people in Momeik and Mogok, who also use it to brew alcohol. Miners in these regions consume sorghum alcohol for its health benefits,” he added.

“Moreover, growers in Myingyan tried cultivating sorghum of Chinese origin on an experimental basis, like watermelons. But, the cultivation failed due to differences in geography and land quality,” he added.

Sorghums are mostly cultivated in the central regions of Myanmar, including Kyaukse, Thetaw, Wundwin, Myitthar, Myingyan, and Monywa towns, and Magway Region. More farmers must choose to grow sorghum because the input costs are not very high and it has already grabbed a share of the foreign market, said U Soe Win Myint. —Min Htet Aung (Mandalay Sub-printing House)

Healthy lifestyle, food can help prevent NCDs

CARDIOVASCULAR diseases and other non-communicable diseases (NCDs) remain an important reason for substantial morbidity and mortality in countries, especially low-income and middle-income nations, including Myanmar.

A rise in unhealthy lifestyles alongside poverty, inequality, and conflict has increased the burden of NCDs on countries.

In Myanmar, over 30 per cent of the population above the age of 18 has hypertension. That is a very high percentage.

This also means that our younger generation can play a crucial role in curbing NCDs and reducing the burden caused by the four main types of non-communicable diseases. More than two-thirds of preventable and premature deaths in adults attributed to NCDs are associated with risk behavior that started during adolescence.

The risk of NCDs is increased by tobacco use, alcohol abuse, unhealthy diet, and physical inactivity.

A healthy lifestyle and physical exercise for the 9.5 million students across Myanmar would help prevent them from developing diseases in old age. Therefore, calls are rising for incorporating physical exercises in school curriculums.

Hypertension is the medical term for high blood pressure, which is described as an increase in the level of force exerted by the blood on the walls of blood vessels.

The signs and symptoms of hypertension are headache, nausea, vomiting, dizziness, nose-bleed, heart palpitations, blurred vision, blood in urine, and sudden loss of consciousness.

Now, non-contagious diseases which can just as easily afflict us are posing a threat to our daily lives.

According to a health survey conducted in 2016-2017, 75 per cent of deaths in Myanmar can be attributed to hypertension, diabetes, or some form of non-contagious disease.

The 2014 WHO STEPS Survey reveals that 26.4 per cent of adults in Myanmar (between the age of 25 and 64) have hypertension, 10.5 per cent have diabetes, and 22.4 per cent are obese. Likewise, the National Survey on Causes of Death using verbal autopsy (2016-2017) shows that 75 per cent of all deaths can be attributed to hypertension, diabetes and other non-contagious diseases. As a result, there is now a greater need to administer healthcare for these diseases in rural areas where the majority of our citizens live.

If proper preventive measures are not put in place now, the situation may develop into a public health crisis in the next five years.

Rural and township health departments across Myanmar run diabetes-hypertension treatment clinics every Wednesday, which offer medical examinations, treatments, and health awareness programs.

Self-care is better than cure. NCDs can be remedied by a healthy lifestyle and eating nutritious food.

Mass Rapid Transport (MRT)

By Ko Ko Aung

DEVELOPED and developing countries have implemented Mass Rapid Transport systems, which can be abbreviated as Ma-Hta-Tha in Myanmar language. An effective transport system can help take a large number of people to any destination in a short time.

Good foundation for mass rapid transport Good foundations are required to transport a lot of people en masse to a destination. Building enough modern and latest model buses, a lot of bus routes, main roads, branch roads, shortcuts and ring roads cannot be seen comprehensively. Comprehensive developments for rapid public transport and sustainable and comprehensive systems depend 100% on good foundations. Among them, security of smooth transportations should be prioritized. For secure and smooth transportation, there are two parts: security and smoothness.

In security sector, safe driving involves systematically built main roads, branch roads, ring roads, two-tiered roads, causeways and flyovers by means of modern engineering; in smooth sector, road signals, junction traffic and signal lights, circles, warning signboards, zebra crossings, overpasses and lamp posts are included.

When roads, two-tiered roads, causeways and flyovers are built by means of modern engineering, safe driving depends of modern technology. The systematic arrangement of road signs, traffic lights, circles, warning signboards, zebra crossings and overpasses is in place; vehicular control system and actions taken have made traffic flows quick and smooth; it is very important and must base on technical systems.

Construction of roads and upgrading

In road construction sector, wide traffic lanes, two-tiered roads, construction of overpasses and causeways must be carried out by means of modern engineering including the endurance of earthquake intensity.

Upgrading, sustainable development and regular maintenance must be observed for the comprehensive security. Even though constructions are implemented by means of modern engineering on the one hand, upgrading and regular maintenance cannot be carried out on the other hand, thus having no complete security on the road.

Similarly, handing of vivid road signs, traffic islands, obstacle must be clearly seen in day and night. Warning signs could be easily seen hanging during night and day. Practical creations of zebra crossings and overpasses, phasized for smooth traffic flow.

Control for vehicular routes

Control for vehicular routes must be taken care of as a very important role. In controlling traffic routes, electronic systems and experts go together. Controlling by traffic lights means using electronic systems whereas traffic policemen serve as human experts. Electronic systems serve as the way for automatic traffic lights. During natural disasters and man-made disasters such as fire, collapses of buildings and bridges and cracks in road surfaces happen, experts and traffic police must be called out. The benefits of local traffic systems are vividly found; in addition to going to office during rush hours, the opposite lands are allowed, with traffic police blocking the crosscut routes, thus stranding this system, people waste about one-and-a-half hours per day on the road, losing man-hours and time. Individual as well as organizational capabilities have been lost on the road to urbanization and development.

Weighing up between traffic systems and policemen

For instance, there six lanes on the main road where cars are stopped for two seconds; it means three vehicles are blocked. Here in this place, if blocked for one minute, there will be 90 vehicles blocked. If blocked for 5 minutes, there will be 450 cars coming to a halt. One could imagine how long a series of cars waiting at the traffic lights. In this way, cars on the main roads are unable to drive on the branch roads nor will those on the latter come forwards the main road. Then the blockage of vehicular routed happens; during the day, long duration of vehicular blockage means traffic blockage will occur many more times. That is why during the normal time, cars should be stopped not more than one minute whereas not more than one and a half minutes during office hours. Therefore, the traffic police should not interfere in controlling the automatic traffic systems. Public transportation system as well as an organization and individual system will go quickly and smoothly.

Sagaing Yoke Sone Monastery attracts over 200 visitors every day

MORE THAN 200 local and foreign travellers are visiting the Sagaing Yoke Sone monastery on Sagaing Hill every day. The Yoke Sone, or Ariyawuntha Chaung, monastery is being promoted as a tourism site by the regional government and is well-known for art from the Inwa era.

"The monastery is always crowded with visitors. We get over 200 visitors per day and over 500 visitors on the weekends and fullmoon days. We have one or two foreigners arriving here on motorcycles every single day. Sometimes, the monastery hosts groups of over 40 or 50 foreigners travelling by car. Most people come to explore the wooden sculptures at the monastery and take photos," said the residing Sayadaw of the monastery.

Migratory birds flock to Indawgyi Lake for winter

THE population of birds at the Indawgyi Lake has registered an increase with flocks of winged visitors returning to the lake for the winter season, according to the Environment and Wildlife Conservation Department. Every year, migratory birds from Russia, Siberia, and northern China flock to the freshwater lake, where there is abundant food, away from colder regions with frozen lakes and short food supply that make it difficult for them to survive. Sarus cranes, ferruginous ducks, and black-headed gulls have mostly returned to the lake. The migratory birds usually arrive in October every year, and they leave the lake by April-end. A variety of migratory birds can be seen in March, said U Tin Aung, a local resident. In 2018, the migratory bird population at Indawgyi Lake was registered at over 20,000. This year, the number has reached 30,000. There are about 37-45 migratory bird species at the Indawgyi Wildlife sanctuary during the winter season, according to the department. —Win Naing (Kachin Myay) (Translated by Ei Myat Mon)

15 killed, 130 injured in 63 highway accidents in October

FIFTEEN persons were killed and 130 injured in 63 traffic accidents on the Yangon-Mandalay Highway in the month of October, according to a report issued by the Highway Police. Most of the traffic accidents occurred because of traffic law violations, including reckless driving, and poor traffic awareness among the people. Therefore, traffic education talks are required to reduce traffic accidents on the highway and assist in increasing the livelihoods of residents, according to officials.

Between January and September, there were 386 traffic accidents on the Yangon-Mandalay highway, Myanmar's busiest highway. The mishaps left 74 persons dead and 736 injured. To make sure the people obey traffic laws and test the hardness of vehicles, officials from the concerned departments have the responsibility of launching awareness campaigns to bring down the number of accidents in Myanmar. —Kyaw Kyaw (Mahlaing) (Translated by La Wonn)

Amyotha Hluttaw discusses infrastructure, housing for civil servants

The matter of compensation regarding the land along the route will be discussed between MPs and government department and included in the closest financial year’s budget proposal, said the Deputy Minister.

Housing for retired civil servants

Next, MP Daw Thiri Yadanar of Mon State constituency 12 asked for the status of the survey for constructing residential housings for retired civil servants, implementation progress, and when it can be handed over to civil servants.

The Deputy Minister replied that the survey indicates there will be around 20,000 civil servants retiring every year and two-thirds of them answered they wish to purchase housing. This means 13,000 housing units need to be constructed every year.

The survey also asked civil servants who have a year before retiring where they would like to settle afterwards and the results show 10,819 chose Yangon, 3,663 chose Mandalay, 1,125 chose Nay Pyi Taw as the top three options.

The Deputy Minister said the survey shows there should be an option for financially struggling retired civil servants to rent housing instead. He said K15 billion from the Union budget was used to construct 812 rental units for Yangon, Mandalay and Nay Pyi Taw in 2018-2019 FY and 120 more units will be constructed in the capital this 2019-2020 FY. He said the state and regional governments are also properly addressing the same concerns for their own civil servants. He said 8,416 housing units have been constructed across the nation between 2017 and 2019 for civil servants and citizens with low income.

New road in Mandalay Region

Next, MP U Kyaw Tote of Mandalay Region constituency

7 asked if there were plans to upgrade the dirt road between Nga Ta Yauk Town and Taung Zin-Kan Saunt village to a smooth gravel road. The Deputy Minister replied that 9.2 miles of the 13-mile road between the aforementioned locations in NyaungU Township is not under the authority of the Rural Development Department. He said they are working with the local government on that matter but for now, the 3.6 miles under the ministry’s authority has been submitted in the 2020-2021 budget proposal for upgradation.

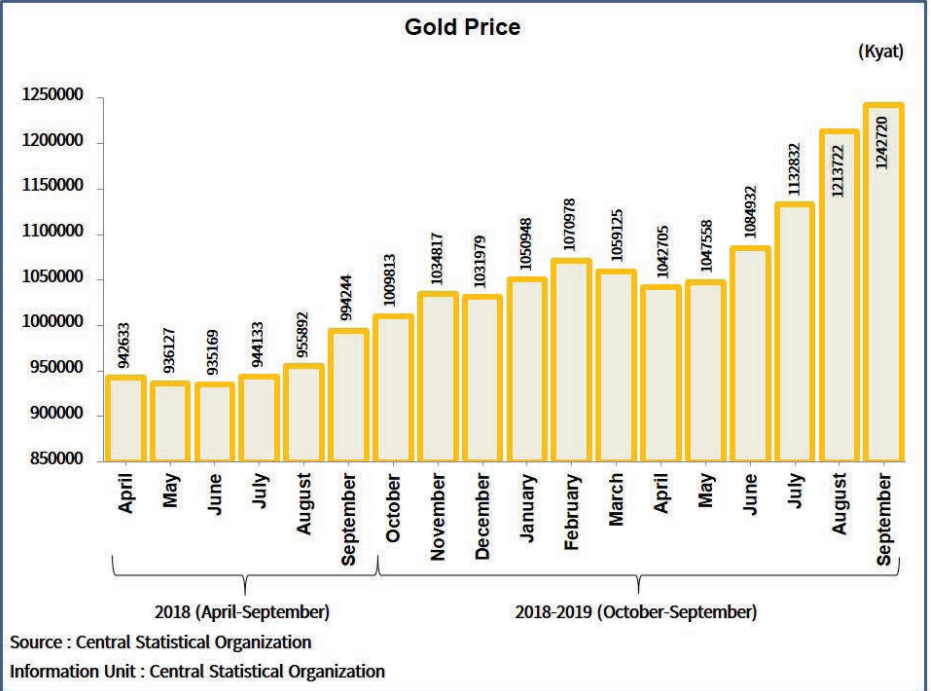

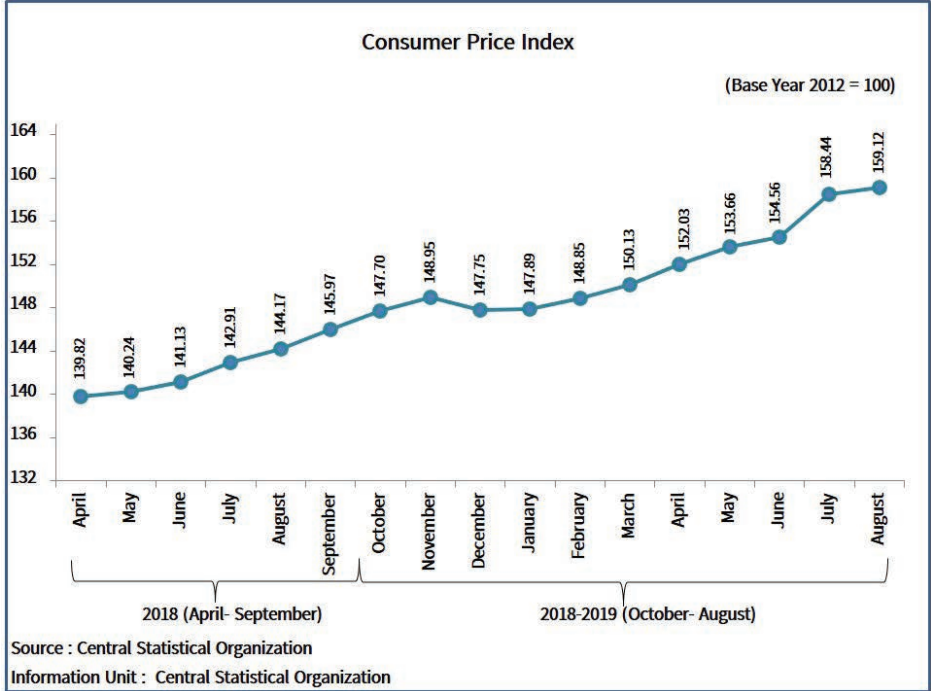

Next, the Speaker called for the deliberation of the Amyotha Hluttaw on The Adaptation of Expressions Bill sent back with amendments from the Pyithu Hluttaw and gained the assembly’s approval.

MP U Min Oo of Bago Region constituency 6 then tabled a motion expressing sorrow for the recent passing of Amyotha Hluttaw MP U Pe Tin of Mon State constituency 6 on 30 October, which was then put on record. The entire assembly observed two minutes of silence for U Pe Tin.

The second-day meeting of the current 14th regular session will convene today.—Aung Ye Twin, Michael Htan

Asian markets rally on strong US jobs data, trade optimism

HONG KONG (China) — Asian markets rallied Monday following a forecast-busting US jobs report, and on growing optimism that China and the United States will finally sign off on a mini trade pact.

Investors took their lead from another record-breaking close on Wall Street, which came at the end of a strong week for equities thanks to strong earnings and another Federal Reserve interest rate cut.

The Labor Department said the US created 128,000 net new jobs in October, surpassing the 80,000 expected, while the figure for the previous two months was also revised upwards.

Friday's reading came days after data showed the world's top economy slowed slightly in July-September but not as much as projected, suggesting it is stabilising.

The figures helped the S&P 500 to a new all-time high, while the Dow moved to within a whisker of its own record.

Asian investors took up the mantle on Monday, with Hong Kong, Seoul, Bangkok and Taipei each piling on more than one percent, while Shanghai jumped 0.6 per cent.

Sydney was 0.3 per cent up, Singapore added 0.1 per cent, Mumbai edged up 0.3 per cent and Wellington climbed 0.4 per cent. There were also healthy gains in Manila. Tokyo was closed for a public holiday.

In early trade London edged up 0.2 per cent, Paris climbed 0.4 per cent and Frankfurt was 0.5 per cent higher.

The upbeat mood was enhanced by comments from Chinese Vice Premier Liu He that indicated trade talks with Washington were on track. —AFP ■

Japan to make it easier for troubled banks to get capital boost

TOKYO — Japan's financial watchdog has decided to make it easier for regional banks that have solid financial standing to put money into their struggling peers, with the introduction of a special measure that prevents them from seeing their capital-to-asset ratios being reduced, officials familiar with the matter said Monday.

The measure, which is likely to be carried out by the end of the current fiscal year in March, is aimed at providing an option for survival to troubled regional banks that are finding it hard to increase their earnings amid the Bank of Japan's prolonged low-interest policy but are reluctant to engage in mergers and acquisitions, the officials said.

Under the current system, capital-to-asset ratios of both major and regional banks will be reduced in proportion to the amount of money they invest in other banks that are not consolidated in their earnings results. The rule has been in place to help avert a chain reaction of bankruptcies.

The Financial Services Agency has already presented a plan to revise supervisory guidelines to the Regional Banks Association of Japan to enable regional banks to be subject to the special measure, according to the officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity. The measure is expected to be applied to the investment for regional banks that face the risk of their capital adequacy ratios going below 4 per cent, the minimum level required by law to operate in Japan, they said.

The draft of the plan also showed that the applicability of it will be determined by other criteria such as whether the banks to receive financial assistance have the potential to contribute to the economic development of areas where they provide services.

One of the major benefits for regional banks that provide help is that they can make larger income gains if needy banks restore their financial soundness. At the moment, all regional banks in Japan fulfill the required ratio of 4 per cent. According to the Daiwa Institute of Research, for even the lowest-ratio Japanese bank, it stands at 5.85 per cent. —Kyodo News ■

British MPs vote on new speaker after Bercow's departure

LONDON (United Kingdom) — British MPs will on Monday select the new speaker of the House of Commons, once an unremarkable event but one now charged with significance following the previous occupant's role in Brexit.

Eight MPs are running to replace John Bercow, who placed himself front and centre of the Brexit saga by choosing amendments and introducing procedures that Leave-supporting MPs claimed were designed to frustrate Britain's departure from the European Union.

Bercow also faced accusations that he fostered a culture of bullying within parliament. But his colourful personality and eccentric performances in parliament gave him an international profile and raised the status of the office.

deputy since 2010, is the odds-on favourite to fill his shoes but other political heavyweights are also vying for the job.

Hoyle has been a Labour MP for 22 years and was Bercow's deputy from 2010, since when his distinctive Lancashire accent has rung out from the speaker's chair.

In a sign that he may follow a different path from Bercow, he recently rejected amendments that would have made it more difficult for Prime Minister Boris Johnson to force a general election, now due on 12 December.

The 62-year-old is as unimpressed as his predecessor by rowdy MPs, once chastising Scottish Nationalists for humming the EU anthem "Ode to Joy" in the chamber.

Hoyle pledged in an interview published in the Sunday Times to repair what he claims has become a "toxic parliament".

"I don't want the abuse of each other and I think we have got to close that down quickly and make sure it is a calmer place to be," he said.—AFP ■

UK airline giant IAG agrees to buy Spain's Air Europa

LONDON (United Kingdom) — British Airways owner IAG agreed Monday to buy Spain's Air Europa for 1.0 billion euros to expand routes to Latin America and the Caribbean, boosting Madrid as a key hub.

The London-listed company said in a statement that it has signed a transaction agreement with Air Europa owner Globalia in a deal worth the equivalent of $1.2 billion that it aims to complete in the second half of next year. IAG added that Air Europa will complement existing Spanish divisions Iberia and Vueling — and help Madrid take on the four largest air hubs in Europe, Amsterdam, Frankfurt, London Heathrow and Paris Charles De Gaulle. The deal, which is subject to regulatory approvals, will further expand IAG's portfolio that also includes Ireland's Aer Lingus and low-cost European carrier Level. The British company added that it will fund the deal with debt, and anticipates that the transaction will generate significant savings in terms of costs and sales.

"Acquiring Air Europa would add a new competitive, cost effective airline to IAG, consolidating Madrid as a leading European hub and resulting in IAG achieving South Atlantic leadership, therefore generating additional financial value for our shareholders," said IAG Chief Executive Willie Walsh in Monday's statement.

"IAG has a strong track record of successful acquisitions, most recently with the acquisition of Aer Lingus in 2015 and we are convinced Air Europa presents a strong strategic fit for the group."

Iberia boss Luis Gallego added that the move was a boost for Madrid. "This is of strategic importance for the Madrid hub, which in recent years has lagged behind other European hubs," Gallego said. "Following this agreement, Madrid will be able to compete with other European hubs on equal terms with a better position on Europe to Latin America routes and the possibility to become a gateway between Asia and Latin America."

Air Europa flies to 69 destinations around the world, including the Caribbean, Latin America, North Africa and the United States.

It flew 11.8 million passengers last year, with revenues of 2.1 billion euros and an operating profit of 100 million euros.

IAG meanwhile carries about 113 million passengers per year to a total of 268 destinations.

The company had decided at the start of 2019 not to make a formal bid for low-cost airline Norwegian Air Shuttle, after its informal approaches were rejected as too low. —AFP ■

Trump threatens to withhold emergency aid from fire-hit California

WASHINGTON (United States) — US President Donald Trump threatened once again Sunday to withhold federal aid from California after its Democratic governor criticized his environmental policies.

Over the past two weeks, fires have ravaged nearly 100,000 acres (40,000 hectares) in the sprawling western state, where firefighters on Sunday were battling the Maria Fire, about 60 miles (100 kilometers) northwest of Los Angeles.

Taking a line of attack he first used last year when fires killed 86 people in northern California, Trump blamed Governor Gavin Newsom, saying he had done "a terrible job of forest management."

"Every year, as the fire's (sic) rage & California burns, it is the same thing-and then he comes to the Federal Government for $$$ help. No more. Get your act together Governor," he said on Twitter. Newsom, responding on Twitter, brushed off Trump's criticism in a terse 12 words: "You don't believe in climate change. You are excused from this conversation."

Newsom had offered a fuller critique in a recent interview with The New York Times, pointing to Trump's roll-back of environmental protections. "We're waging war against the most destructive fires in our state's history," he said, "and Trump is conducting a full-on assault against the antidote." —AFP ■

Russian scandal clouds WADA summit

KATOWICE (Poland) — Twenty years after its formation, the world anti-doping agency WADA meets for its fifth world conference in the Polish city of Katowice from Tuesday to Thursday.

Officially, the business of the meeting is to adopt a new anti-doping code and to elect a new president.

However, it is the long-running saga over Russian state-backed doping and institutionalised cheating which will dominate proceedings.

AFP Sport looks at the business in hand in Poland.

Shadow of Russia doping

It's the scandal which refuses to die but the burning issue over potential new sanctions for Russia is not even on the agenda of WADA's executive committee on Monday and Thursday in Poland. The affair, which has dominated the global anti-doping fight — as well as creating splits in how to deal with it — for the past five years, reappeared in September due to suspicions of manipulation of the electronic data from the former Moscow laboratory handed over to WADA investigators in early 2019.

WADA president Craig Reedie is stepping down after two terms overshadowed by the Russian doping crisis. PHOTO: AFP

The new revelations could lead to new sanctions such as a ban from the 2020 Tokyo Olympics as the fight against doping is ramped up after Russia was already found guilty of state-sponsored cheating between 2011 and 2015.

Russia's Athletics Federation has been banned from international competition since 2015.

The latest allegations are still under investigation and WADA hopes to reach a decision by the end of the year.

Last month, the picture became even murkier when Microsoft revealed that Russian hackers, Fancy Bears, had tried to attack the computer systems of several global anti-doping agencies. —AFP ■

Abe urges Moon to stick to bilateral pact over wartime compensation

BANGKOK — Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe on Monday urged South Korean President Moon Jae In to stick to a 1965 bilateral agreement designed to settle all wartime compensation issues amid a lingering dispute over the matter.

Abe and Moon met in Bangkok at a time when bilateral ties have deteriorated to their lowest level in years over wartime labor compensation that has played out in a tit-for-tat trade spat.

It was the first time that the two leaders have held talks since they had a formal one-on-one meeting on the sidelines of the UN General Assembly in September last year.

During their 11-minute conversation in a waiting room ahead of a summit involving leaders of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations plus Japan, China and South Korea, Abe and Moon agreed on the need to resolve outstanding bilateral issues through dialogue, the South Korean presidential office said.

They reaffirmed the importance of the two countries' ties in their "very friendly and serious" face-to-face meeting, it said.

Speaking to reporters, Japanese Deputy Chief Cabinet Secretary Akihiro Nishimura said Abe conveyed to Moon Tokyo's "basic stance," which means that the issue of compensation was settled by the 1965 agreement, under which it provided Seoul with $500 million in the form of "economic cooperation."

Moon also expressed hope for "substantial progress" in improving ties and proposed a dialogue involving high-level officials, if necessary, the presidential office said.

In response, Abe suggested that the two neighbors make efforts to explore solutions "through every possible measure," the South Korean side said.

However, Nishimura only said Abe has reiterated his position that outstanding bilateral issues should be settled by "exchanges between diplomatic authorities."

The two leaders also shook hands and chatted with each other during a gala dinner the previous evening.

Late last month, South Korean Prime Minister Lee Nak Yon handed Abe a private letter from Moon during his visit to Japan to attend Emperor Naruhito's enthronement ceremony. South Korean Foreign Minister Kang Kyung Wha said Moon expressed his openness to talks with Abe in the letter.

But it remains to be seen when the two leaders can hold a formal meeting as Nishimura said Abe and Moon did not touch on the possibility of holding official talks in the future.

Tensions between the neighbors have escalated since October last year when South Korea's top court ordered a Japanese company to pay compensation for forced labor during Japan's 1910-1945 colonial rule of the Korean Peninsula.

The dispute has spilled over into areas of trade and security.

Japan imposed stricter export controls on some key materials needed by South Korea's tech industry, while Seoul has said it will end a military intelligence-sharing pact with Tokyo, which is scheduled to expire later this month. — Kyodo News ■

Millions in Indian capital endure 'eye-burning' smog

NEW DELHI (India) — Millions of people in India's capital started the week Monday choking through "eye-burning" smog, with schools closed, cars taken off the road and construction halted.

A poisonous haze envelops New Delhi every winter, caused by vehicle fumes, industrial emissions and smoke from agricultural burning in neighbouring states.

But the current crisis has turned into the worst in three years, and New Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal called for a range of measures to fight what he described as "unbearable pollution".

"There is smoke everywhere and people, including youngsters, kids, elderly are finding it difficult to breathe," Kejriwal said in a Twitter video on Sunday.

"Eyes are burning. Pollution is that bad."

Kejriwal's government has ordered half the city's private cars to be taken off the road, based on an odd-even registration plate system. Schools, which were closed on Friday last week, remained shut on Monday, and city-wide construction was halted until Tuesday in Delhi and surrounding areas.

Kejriwal said authorities were also distributing face masks to schoolchildren.

Other parts of the country have also been choked by smog, the government's Central Pollution Control Board said Sunday.

Authorities brought a van with an air purifier to the Taj Mahal, the country's top tourist site 250 kilometres (150 miles) south of Delhi, with fears the pollution was damaging the 17th-century marble mausoleum, the Press Trust of India reported.

With a state election due in Delhi in early 2020, the pollution crisis has also become a casualty of political bickering, with each side blaming the other for the severe conditions.

Kejriwal, who likened Delhi to a "gas chamber" on Friday, said his city had done its part to curb pollution and that the burning of wheat stubble residue on farms outside the capital was responsible for the smog.

But national environment minister Prakash Javadekar accused Kejriwal of politicising the issue, while an MP from the governing Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) dismissed the odd-even car rule as a "stunt" and said he planned to ignore it.

A group of environmentalists wrote to Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Sunday urging him to "take leadership" on the issue. The environmentalists said political parties were "intent on fixing the blame while Indians continue to die", PTI reported. —AFP ■ importantly legal instrument to facilitate cross-border e-commerce transactions in the ASEAN region and to create an atmosphere of trust and confidence in the use of e-commerce.

"It aims to deepen cooperation among ASEAN member states to further develop and intensify the use of e-commerce to drive economic growth and to reduce development gap in the region," he said.

CPP's senior lawmaker Sok-

Sokan said the pact will encourage cooperation among member states to help businesses, especially small and medium-sized enterprises, overcome obstacles and take advantage of e-commerce. — Xinhua ■

Lampard calls for ‘open conversation’ on VAR

LONDON (United Kingdom) — Chelsea boss Frank Lampard has called for an “open conversation” on VAR after another week-end of controversy in the Premier League as he prepares his team to face Ajax in the Champions League.

Chelsea, who are fourth in the Premier League, endured a nervy end to their match against Watford on Saturday after their 2-0 lead was halved by a VAR-awarded penalty converted by Gerard Deulofeu.

VAR also confirmed an off-side decision against Liverpool's Roberto Firmino during their 2-1 win at Aston Villa. The forward was flagged because his armpit “was marginally ahead of the last Villa defender”.

Lampard, speaking ahead of his side's game against the Dutch champions at Stamford Bridge on Tuesday, said tweaks needed to be made over the use of the technology.

“I think the use of the screen on the side of the pitch can be a help because we've seen this weekend in the Premier League decisions that firstly they've taken a long time to get to, which seems to bring in the fact that there's an element of doubt,” he said.

The lack of use of pitchside monitors by referees has been criticised after numerous controversial decisions in the first few months of the season.

“It just feels at the minute in the Premier League, obviously there are things that aren't right with it. I think that's pretty much universally agreed at this point,” said Lampard.

“I don't think it's for the want of trying or anyone having the wrong aims. We all want a better game and better decisions and the right decisions but at the moment we're not quite getting that.”

The Chelsea boss called for input from all sides on VAR.

“I would work with it at the moment and see how we can improve,” he said. “And I think it needs to be a really open conversation — referees, managers, fans.”

Lampard said the system had been positive when it came to “clinical decisions” such as off-side calls but other calls were leading to controversy.

“It's the subjective in-between ones that we really need to decide where we're coming from with this idea of ‘clear and obvious’ because at the week-end there were lots of not clear and obvious and some were overturned and some were not,” he said.

Everton's Gomes expected to make full recovery after ankle surgery

LONDON (United Kingdom) — Everton midfielder Andre Gomes is expected to make a “full recovery” after undergoing surgery to repair a fracture dislocation of his ankle, the Premier League club said on Monday.

The Portugal international suffered the shocking injury when he fell awkwardly following a challenge from Tottenham's Son Heung-min in Sunday's 1-1 draw at Goodison Park.

“Everton Football Club can confirm Andre Gomes underwent surgery to repair a fracture dislocation to his right ankle earlier today and the procedure went extremely well,” a club statement said.

It added: “The 26-year-old is expected to make a full recovery.”

Tottenham's players were also affected by the incident, with Son — who was sent off by referee Martin Atkinson for his challenge — in tears and Serge Aurier, who collided with Gomes, substituted.

The Premier League said in a statement that Son's red card was for “endangering the safety of a player”, but Spurs are expected to lodge an appeal against Atkinson's decision.
