State Counsellor Daw Aung San Suu Kyi in her capacity as Chairperson of the National-Level Central Committee for Prevention, Control and Treatment of COVID-19 held a videoconference yesterday morning from the Presidential Palace in Nay Pyi Taw to discuss restarting movie production operations during the COVID period.

The following persons attended the videoconference: Dr Myint Htwe, Union Minister for Health and Sports; U Nyi Nyi Tun Lwin, Chairman of the Myanmar Motion Picture Organization; and U Zaw Min, Chairman of the Mingalar Cinema Group. The State Counsellor in her introductory remarks said that Union Minister Dr Myint

Htwe, was very concerned that the people of Myanmar had become careless with respect to COVID-19; and that this was not the time to become careless and the people should remain ever vigilant. She wanted the movie industry to resume operations just like other industries; although she wanted the movie industry to resume operations there were many things to be considered regarding health matters; in some other countries, they thought they had the COVID under control but had to contend with a new outbreak of the disease. In Myanmar COVID prevention was most important as the cost of treatment was a very heavy burden for a country like Myanmar which was still a developing country; that was why more emphasis was placed on prevention; regarding the movie industry she wanted to discuss based on two factors generally; one was movie production and the other was the screening of movies in the movie halls. She said they had to consider which of these would have more difficulties to follow the health rules and regulations to a certain extent. SEE PAGE-3

State Counsellor discusses restarting movie production operations during COVID period with movie industry senior executives

Union Minister Dr Myint Htwe discussed mutual cooperation among the Ministry of Health and Sports, the Ministry of Information and the stakeholders in the film industry which is providing many employment opportunities, entertainment and knowledge.

The Union Minister also emphasized his ministry is helping the film industry in the prevention of COVID-19 disease, and all the stakeholders in this business need to know the precautionary measures of this disease thoroughly to be able to resume this sector.

He continued to discuss the possible risks of infection without showing symptoms as there is no vaccine for COVID-19 until now; the schools have reopened with care not to occur second and third waves of the pandemic.

The Union Minister also discussed the draft plan for film shootings based on the experiences of this business in Florida and the Netherlands; the field surveys of senior health officials at the shootings; recommendations of the ministry on the entire film production process.

A book of guidelines for the shooting was published with 29 recommendations jointly made by the experts from the Ministry of Information and the Ministry of Health and Sports.

Union Minister Dr Myint Htwe urged the public to continue wearing masks in public places not to experience the outbreak of pandemic like in the United States, Brazil and India.

Chairman of MMPO U Nyi Nyi Tun Lwin discussed the needs to take records on the shootings, artistes, medical tests, rules and guidelines in the work.

There are 10 pending films to be finalized until now.

Chairman of Mingalar Cinema Group U Zaw Min talked about preparations for organizing centenary of Myanmar film industry and development of Myanmar motion picture business with 220 cinemas across the country and the increasing number of films up to 100 annually.

He also requested the reopening of cinemas, like in some other countries, in line with the rules and directives of relevant ministries.

U Zaw Min also proposed plans to sell only 50 per cent of seats for physical distancing in the cinema and to get financial assistance and loan of the government.

In responding to the discussions the State Counsellor said that care should be taken so that there was no transmission of the COVID disease during the movie-making process; once the movies have been made, the movie theatres were very important for the people to see the movies; in the developed countries movies have become fashionable again; they have recreated the movie theatres as places to have fun, to have recreation and turned them into interesting places. She wanted the movie industry people to strive to make the same thing happen in Myanmar; for the economy to develop, it was important for all sectors to be successful; she said for her part she had also encouraged the fine arts; she wanted the movie industry to progress and prosper; at one time the Myanmar movie industry held the leading position in Asia; therefore efforts should be made to regain this position; Myanmar would be successful like before if she knew how to use the new technologies effectively.

Once the movie theatres have been renovated, the Ministry of Health and Sports would make visits, formulate rules and regulations and issue necessary instructions; once these movie theatres are able to abide by the rules and regulations, it would be possible to reopen them.

When we reopened the schools some were worried; they were afraid that if the schools had been reopened in a hasty manner, the school children would get infected and the virus would spread; there were also concerns that if the schools were kept closed for a long time, the children would drift away from education and later it would become difficult to send them back to school; these two things had to be balanced all the time; therefore the high schools were reopened first; the high schools were categorized into A, B, C levels and only the A level schools were allowed to be reopened. The schools that were given permission to reopen were schools that had made modifications in accordance with the rules and regulations stipulated by the Ministry of Health and Sports. Once all those schools which had made the necessary modifications had been permitted to reopen, we will wait for one month; during that one-month period, we will monitor if there had been any transmission of the disease and whether there had been any spread of infection among the students and teachers; only after that would we make a decision as to whether we should move to the next phase of reopening schools.

During this time, if the movie theatres did the necessary preparations and modifications, the Ministry of Health and Sports would begin their inspection process; if the process to reopen the high schools went smoothly, it would be able to assume that we have reached a stage where activities involving large numbers of people could be carried out effectively and with discipline. She said that at such a time, the Ministry of Health and Sports would have to decide when the movie theatres should be reopened.

In making her concluding remarks the State Counsellor said that at the present time the Union Government had been giving as much support as possible to control the negative impact of COVID-19; they were making assessments to determine how effective these measures were; assessments were being made at this time to determine the effectiveness of reducing the impact on the economy; what changes need to be made and which measures need to be maintained. She said they had to consider how they should proceed until the end of the year and how they should proceed in the next year. The funds that had been spent this year would have a great deal of positive impact for the next year's budget; they had to consider for the short-term as well as for the long-term; they would give support as much as possible to the fullest extent; they had to consider how much support could be given and in what manner support could be given; they were doing their best in accordance with the availability of the national budget.

She continued by saying that she wanted the movie industry to succeed; she wanted them to succeed not only for the economy but also for the country; in this age, the whole world has accepted that the entertainment industry is a kind of "soft power". The progress of Myanmar's fine arts can influence, overwhelm and spread all over the world; she said they have the policy to encourage the fine arts industry for the long-term interest of the country.

She said activities to educate and remind the public about COVID have lost steam and have lost interest; that was why she wanted to obtain the help of the people in the entertainment industry to increase the effectiveness of COVID-related campaigns for public education and awareness and to make these more interesting. The role of people in the entertainment industry is very important; she wanted to make an appeal to the people in this industry to participate enthusiastically for the progress and security of the country.

She said we need to contain the spread of COVID; if this disease spread without control it would create a lot of difficulties for Myanmar; the cost for treatment would be very high; Myanmar had taken advance measures since 4 January with respect to COVID; that was the reason we have been able to contain the disease; at present some of the returnees brought back the disease; we have quarantined all the returnees and have sent those who have been infected to the hospitals for treatment; we have given full treatment to our people; she said she wanted to thank all those who have given assistance for the nation's economy; it was the duty of the Union Government to render assistance to those who have given support to the national economy; they were reviewing the situation to determine what would be the best way to utilize public funds with regard to the status of the national budget.

She said the national movie industry could make considerable progress if efforts were made to improve the movie industry and the art of movie-making; at the same time, because of COVID, efforts need to be made to make the movie theatres more hygienic and pleasant places for people to go. In this matter of COVID, we are searching for success with the participation of the whole country; Myanmar has been able to contain COVID up to now, because of the participation and cooperation of all the people; she hoped that Myanmar would be able to effectively prevent the COVID with the participation and cooperation of everyone, till the danger of the disease came to an end.

She ended by sending best wishes for the progress of the movie industry, movie theatre industry and everyone in the entertainment industry. —MNA

You can protect yourself

It was not a good thing to be afraid all the time. She said she did not mean to say that people should be afraid. People should be vigilant. To be vigilant and to be afraid are not the same. Wearing a mask when you go out is being vigilant. To wash your hand carefully and frequently; to wash your hand when you come home; taking off the mask and changing your clothes; these things are not too difficult to do. By taking these steps you can protect yourself from having to meet with more critical situations. This is the reason why people are being reminded all the time.

329 Myanmar nationals come back home via Myawady border bridge on 28 July

A total of 329 Myanmar nationals returned home from Thailand through No. 2 border bridge in Myawady Town, Kayin State, yesterday. Be ready for flooding

THE risk of flooding looms increasingly large along the Ayeyawady River.

According to the (14:30) hrs M.S.T observation yesterday, the water level of the Ayeyawady River at Hinthada in the Ayeyawady Delta, is expected to reach its danger level in the next three days and at Pakokku in central Myanmar in the next two days.

The waters of the swollen river in central Myanmar would gush downstream in the coming days and cause river flooding.

Floods aren't a new problem, of course. Too many factors are involved, including local geography, ground cover, long-term precipitation and climate change.

Floods are the most common natural disaster in Myanmar, especially in the rainy season, capable of striking almost any river or creek.

Besides, monsoon rain brings not only floods but also landslides in hilly areas in Myanmar. When torrential rain falls, people must remain on the alert for flash floods and landslides near hilly areas and also small rivers, according to the weather bureau.

To reduce the losses, disaster preparedness should begin at the grass root level, but ministries and regional authorities must take a leading role in the drive.

People, especially in risk areas, are urged to heed the warnings that are given to them. We do not want to lose lives to the disasters. These are avoidable tragedies.

In fact, floods pose great danger to all the people with direct impacts including injuries and drowning. Beyond these immediate risks, floods cause hindrances to safe drinking water supplies and damage sanitation facilities, increasing the risk of diarrhea and other disease outbreaks, as well as impacting on children's access to education.

The main rule for staying safe during a flood is to never willingly go near the water, whether on foot or in a car.

Electrocution is another dangerous side-effect of flooding, one more reason to stay away from the water. Avoid and report any downed power lines and electrical wires, and consider turning off your home's electricity and checking around for gas leaks.

Infection and disease can be major problems during a flood as well as long afterward. While water levels are still high, an array of contaminants can be mixed in with the flood, ranging from untreated sewage to toxic chemicals.

People must be alerted to approaching disasters, including storms and earthquakes, and should prepare "full precautions" and take "necessary action" to protect themselves and their property from gale-force winds and lightning.

The Ministry of Social Welfare, Relief and Resettlement has also established hotline numbers 067-340466 and 067-3404777 to help the victims of disasters.

We are confident that collaboration and cooperation between regional authorities and the people will ensure safety from natural disasters during the COVID-19 crisis.

A determined path to SDGs in 2030 despite COVID-19 pandemic

AS lockdowns ease in countries across Asia and the Pacific in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, one thing is clear—a return to business as usual is unimaginable in a region that was already off track to meet the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The virtual High-Level Political Forum on Sustainable Development recently convened governments and stakeholders across the globe to focus on the imperative to build back better while keeping an eye on the Global Goals.

Asia was the first to be hit by COVID-19 and feel its devastating social and economic impacts. Efforts to respond to the pandemic have revealed how many people in our societies live precariously close to poverty and hunger, without access to essential services. Between 90 million and 400 million people in Asia and the Pacific may be pushed back into poverty, living on less than $3.20 a day. Many countries are taking bold actions to minimize the loss of life and economic costs, estimated in May by ADB at $1.7 trillion to $2.5 trillion in the region alone.

Mission orientation and mobilizing fiscal and social support that realize the SDGs

As attention shifts from the immediate health and human effects of the pandemic to addressing its social and economic effects, governments and societies face unprecedented policy, regulatory and fiscal choices. The SDGs—a commitment to eradicate poverty and achieve sustainable development, globally, by 2030—can serve as a beacon in these turbulent times.

Our new joint report—Fast-tracking the SDGs: Driving Asia Pacific Transformations, highlights six entry points for achieving the SDGs in the face of the pandemic. These include strengthening human well-being and capabilities, shifting towards sustainable and just economies, building sustainable food systems, achieving energy decarbonization and universal access to energy, promoting sustainable urban and peri-urban development, and securing the global environmental commons.

Each of these entry points has been disrupted by the pandemic. Yet, these disruptions may create opportunities for new approaches to deliver on SDG targets that reflect the ambitions of the 2030 Agenda.

What will it take to align systems and institutions with the SDGs as they build forward?

The pandemic has exposed fragility and systemic gaps in many key systems. However, there are many workable strategies that countries have used, both before and after COVID-19, to accelerate progress related to development goals and strengthen resilience. Countries have taken steps to extend universal health care systems, strengthen social protection systems, including cash transfer and food distribution systems for vulnerable households. Accurate and regular data have been key to such efforts. Innovating to help the most disadvantaged access financing and small and medium-sized enterprise (SME) credits have also been vital. Several countries have taken comprehensive approaches to various forms of discrimination, particularly related to gender and gender-based violence. Partnerships, including with the private sector and financing institutions, have played a critical role in fostering creative solutions. These experiences provide grounds for optimism.

Policy revolutions to manage complexity

Responses to the COVID-19 crisis must be centred on the well-being of people, empowering them and advancing equality. Driving change in the people-environment nexus to protect the health of people and natural resources is key to a future that does not repeat the crisis we are in today.

We need a revolution in policy mind-set and practice. Inclusive and accountable governance systems, adaptive institutions with resilience to future shocks, universal social protection and health insurance and stronger digital infrastructure are part of the transformations needed. All are driven by low carbon and environmentally sustainable infrastructure and energy transition.

Several countries in Asia and the Pacific are developing ambitious new strategies for green recovery and inclusive approaches to development. The Republic of Korea recently announced a New Deal based on two central pillars: digitization and decarbonization. Many countries in the Pacific, already proponents of ambitious clean energy targets and climate action, are focusing on "blue recovery," seizing the opportunity to promote more sustainable approaches to fisheries management. India recently announced operating the largest solar power plant in the region. China is creating more jobs in the renewable energy sector than in fossil fuel industries. Many countries in our region are expanding social protection systems as part of COVID-19 recovery to go beyond a temporary patch and include the marginalized, such as informal sector workers.

Institutions such as the United Nations and ADB have mobilized to support a shared response to the crisis. Now it is vital that we enable countries to secure the support they need to go beyond, to achieve the SDGs.

PLAN, PREPARE AND RESPOND TO COVID-19

WHO to reexamine COVID-19 emergency status, six months on

THE World Health Organization said Monday that a key committee would meet later this week to discuss COVID-19's emergency status, six months after it was declared.

WHO chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus told reporters that the UN health body's emergency committee would convene to reexamine the declaration that the outbreak constituted a "public health emergency of international concern".

A so-called PHEIC declaration, which marks the highest level of alarm under international health rules, must be reevaluated every six months.

Prior to COVID-19, WHO had only made such declarations five times since the International Health Regulations changed in 2007, for swine flu, polio, Zika and twice for Ebola outbreaks in Africa.

Of those, the current pandemic "is easily the most severe," Tedros said.

There is little doubt that the emergency committee will consider that the pandemic still constitutes a global public health emergency, but it could potentially alter some of its recommendations on how the WHO and the world should respond.

The situation has shifted dramatically since the declaration was made.

"When I declared a public health emergency of international concern on the 30th of January, ... there were less than 100 cases outside of China, and no deaths," Tedros said.

But since then, the case numbers have soared past 16 million, with close to 650,000 deaths around the world.

"Almost 16 million cases have now been reported to WHO, and more than 640,000 deaths as the pandemic continues to accelerate. In the past 6 weeks, the total number of cases has roughly doubled, WHO chief informed.

"COVID-19 has changed our world. It has brought people, communities and nations together, and driven them apart," Tedros said.

Tedros lauded the efforts of New Zealand, Thailand, Viet Nam, Cambodia and the Caribbean countries for preventing outbreaks and other countries - China, Canada, South Korea and Germany for bringing large outbreaks under control.

"The most fundamental ingredients for stopping this virus is determination, and the willingness to make hard choices to keep ourselves and each other safe," Tedros said.

Tedros asked people to follow social distancing, wash hands, avoid crowded places and wear masks in order to combat the virus.

The WHO has faced criticism from certain quarters for its response, with some charging it acted too slowly — something the organization itself strenuously denies.

"Over the past six months, WHO has worked tirelessly to support countries to prepare for and respond to this virus," Tedros said.

"I am immensely proud of our organization, WHO, and its incredible people and their efforts." Tedros himself has for months faced relentless attacks from US President Donald Trump, who has accused WHO of being a "puppet of China".

Earlier this month Trump made good on his threat to begin withdrawing the US — traditionally WHO's largest donor — from the organisation.

Exports of cattle, animal products down by $254.3 mln in current FY MYANMAR'S exports of animal products between 1 October and 17 July in the current fiscal year 2019-2020 touched a low of US$64.7 million, a sharp drop of $254.3 million compared with the corresponding period of the 2018-2019FY when livestock trading was suspended by China.

In the previous fiscal, animal products exports were registered at $319 million.

Animal products exports are solely driven by the private sector this year.

At present, live cattle exports to China has been on the decline due to the suspension of a trade by China since the pre-Chinese New Year period, said cattle exporters.

Normally, a large cow is valued at over K1.6-2.3 million, but last year, the suspension of trade led to Chinese traders resorting to price manipulation and offering a lower price of below K1 million.

Myanmar has held a series of negotiations with China at the Joint Border Trade Cooperation and Coordinating Committee (JBTC) meetings on legal exports of cattle along with cross-border control of communicable diseases.

While cattle exports are legal in Myanmar, livestock trading is still not permitted by China, according to the Myanmar Livestock Federation.

Myanmar, which allowed livestock trading in late 2017, is now exploring new export markets for cattle.

At present, to prevent animal disease, the Ministry of Agriculture, Livestock and Irrigation issued a notification on 11 March 2020 that the cattle are subject to special goods and procedures for movement of the cattle in the regions and states were mentioned, posing difficulties to those livestock farmers working on a manageable scale.

To transport the cattle within the country, the health certificate (AHD/PC-3) issued by the head of the related Livestock Breeding and Veterinary Department in the townships, districts and regions or states are required.

If the traders fail to comply with the notification, they will face legal action under the Special Goods Tax Law.

At present, the COVID-19 consequences pose transportation difficulties and it is hard to seek for approval from the related Livestock Breeding and Veterinary Department.

As a result of this, the drastic plunge of live cattle export forced the breeders to turn to meat market as they are facing financial hardships during the coronavirus pandemic. The meat price is also dropping, said a trader.

The country exports cattle that are above five years old, along with vaccination certificates, health certificates, and farming registration certificates. According to the 2018 cattle census, there are 11.5 million heads of cattle in the country.

Myanmar has exported over 460,000 heads of cattle, with an estimated value of over $581 million, to China through Muse border, between the 2017-2018FY and the month of October in the current FY, according to trade figures.

The authorities have issued cattle export licences to more than 300 companies in the Magway region. There are around 5,000 companies holding cattle export licences across the country. — Ko Khant

Rice export through sea trade up by $181.9 mln in current fiscal MYANMAR'S maritime trade constituted over 85 per cent of rice exports and generated an estimated income of US$572.58 million as of 10 July in the current fiscal year 2019-2020, as per data from Myanmar Rice Federation (MRF).

The figures reflect an increase of $181.96 million compared with a year-ago period.

Earlier, border trade was relatively high compared to sea trade in terms of rice exports. Since the previous financial year, border trade has dropped, and currently, it accounts for just 14.8 per cent of the total rice exports. Rice exports through the border gates have generated an estimated $93.6 million in the current financial year, which plunged from $171.5 million registered in the corresponding period of last year.

Myanmar primarily exports rice to China through the border gates. However, trade in agricultural products has been halted on account of China clamping down on illegal trade and China's precautionary measures to contain the spread of coronavirus.

With the growing demand from foreign countries, the export price of rice is up by $10-15 per tonne in recent day. However, it is difficult to ship rice in the rainy season, said traders from Bayintnaung market.

The volume of rice and broken rice exported between 1

October and 10 July in 2019-2020 fiscal year has been estimated at over 2.2 million metric tonnes, worth over $666 million, according to an announcement from the MRF.

The export volume is up by 360,000 tonnes, while the value showed an increase of $100 million compared to the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year.

In the current financial year, Myanmar has shipped rice to 66 foreign markets.

China is the main buyer of Myanmar rice, followed by Malaysia and Madagascar. The Philippines is the fourth-largest buyer and Cote D'Ivoire the fifth-largest buyer of Myanmar rice. The European Union countries account for over 20 per cent of rice exports, while 30.56 per cent of rice grown in Myanmar goes to African countries.

In the current fiscal, Myanmar has exported broken rice mostly to Belgium, followed by Senegal, China, Indonesia and the Netherlands. Broken rice has been placed in 58 foreign markets.

Myanmar shipped 3.6 million tonnes of rice in the 2017-2018 fiscal year, which was an all-time record in rice exports. The export volume plunged to 2.29 million tonnes, worth $691 million, in the 2018-2019FY. — GNLM

Chaungtha, Ngwehsaung hotels undergo inspection for reopening

ALTHOUGH hotels in Ayeyawady Region are receiving room bookings because they hear that they will be granted the permission to resume their businesses commencing from 28 July, the regional COVID-19 committee has not confirmed yet to reopen the hotel businesses, according to the Directorate of Hotels and Tourism (Pathein).

A hotel in Chaungtha beach sets the room charges from K35,000 to K70,000 per day and they have announced that booking of the rooms is being accepted because they will resume their businesses starting from 28 July.

The regional joint committee inspected over 40 hotels in Chaungtha and Ngwehsaung beaches on 23 and 24 July to see whether the hotels have made necessary preparations in line with the health guidelines. The hotels are found to abide by the health guidelines, according to the joint committee.

“Some of the rooms are already booked,” said a hotel staff member in Ngwehsaung beach.

Although the beaches in Ayeyawady Region were closed temporarily, the local travelers reached the beaches on Martyrs’ Day, according to the Ayeyawdy Region Administration Team.

At present, the joint committee will submit their inspection results to the regional COVID-19 committee.

“The committee will grant permission to reopen the hotels if they are found to be in concordance with the guidelines. However, they are not sure of the reopening date exactly. We hope to grant the permission soon,” said an official from the Directorate of Hotels and Tourism (Pathein).—Aye Maung

Spain lockdown leaves 1mn jobless but not ‘unemployed’

MADRID—The coronavirus epidemic has destroyed the jobs of over a million Spaniards, but with lockdowns preventing them from looking for work, they were excluded from the unemployment count, data showed Tuesday.

Figures published by the National Statistics Institute (INE) showed the number of unemployed rose by only 55,000 between April and June to 3.4 million. That pushed the unemployment rate to 15.3 per cent from 14.4 per cent in the first quarter.

But those figures significantly underestimate the impact of the virus on the Spanish job market which registered a 1.07 million drop in the number of people employed during the second quarter, the INE said.

“The figure is horrible, without a doubt the worst in history,” Pepe Alvarez, the leader of the UGT union, Spain’s second-biggest, told radio Cadena Ser.

The unemployment data is based on surveys, not claims for benefits, and the survey counts only people actively seeking a job as unemployed. As the lockdowns imposed to stop the spread of coronavirus kept people from hunting for jobs, they were not considered as unemployed by the survey.

Spain’s unemployment rate jumped in the first quarter of 2020 to 14.4 per cent, figures from national statistics institute INE showed, as a nationwide coronavirus lockdown hit the eurozone’s fourth largest economy. PHOTO: AFP

The unemployment data also does not take into account the millions of workers on the government furlough scheme that was put in place to avoid massive layoffs at firms hit by the lockdown.

In the second quarter, the number of hours worked experienced “an unprecedented fall” of nearly 23 percent, the INE said.—AFP ■

Chinese airlines offer unlimited flights to revive industry

BEIJING—China Southern on Tuesday became the latest Chinese airline to offer ultra-cheap, all-you-can-fly deals aimed at reigniting air travel following coronavirus lockdowns.

At least eight Chinese carriers have so far launched similar schemes which they hope will boost the ailing domestic aviation sector in the world’s second-largest economy.

Lucky Air, which unveiled offers for unlimited domestic flights on July 13, announced two days later that it had hit capacity for monthly and seasonal passes for individuals.

The deals, valid for anything between a month and a year, start at 1,588 yuan ($227) for unlimited flights over 31 days per person.

Lucky Air said it has plans to sell more of such packages in the future.

Airlines offer variations of such deals, including Spring Airlines’ package for children travelling with their parents and China Eastern’s unlimited weekend flights.

Southern’s all-you-can-fly deal costs 3,699 yuan ($528) and can be used until next January.

Some carriers have chosen to join hands, with Qingdao Airlines, Okay Airways and Ruili Airlines collaborating for unlimited weekend deals as well.

Others like Juneyao Air rolled out a 888 yuan ($127) package for unlimited upgrades -- allowing passengers to bump up their economy class tickets for no added cost.—AFP ■

Nissan expects 670 bil. yen net loss in FY 2020

TOKYO —Nissan Motor Co. said Tuesday it expects a net loss of 670 billion yen ($6.4 billion) in fiscal 2020, as the new coronavirus pandemic hits auto demand, adding pressure on the carmaker already struggling to restore profitability after the 2018 arrest of former boss Carlos Ghosn. Nissan’s group net loss projection for the current business year to March 2021 follows a loss of 671.22 billion yen last fiscal year. The carmaker expects a group operating loss of 470 billion yen, expanding hugely from 40.47 billion yen in loss the previous year, on sales of 7.8 trillion yen, down 21.0 per cent.—Kyodo ■

Vietnam curbs movement in city of 1.1m as virus-free run ends

DANANG —Vietnam will suspend all flights and public transport into and out of a city of 1.1 million people where the country’s first coronavirus cases in months were recently detected, authorities said Monday.

Until the weekend it appeared that the Southeast Asian country had managed to stub out the virus -- and with lockdowns lifted since late April, domestic tourists had flocked back to the coastal city of Danang.

But fresh restrictions on movement, including stopping buses and taxis within the city, were announced following the discovery of Vietnam’s first locally transmitted COVID-19 infection in nearly 100 days.

The transport ministry made the order on Monday evening, just hours before it goes into effect at midnight (1700 GMT Monday).

After a 57-year-old retired Vietnamese man in Danang was confirmed to have the disease on Saturday -- the first community transmission since April 16 -- more than a dozen new infections have been found.

Proximity Finance raises US$14 million to reach more smallholder farmers

Impact-focused Finnfund, Nordic Microfinance Initiative and Proparco partner to support rural Myanmar

PROXIMITY Finance, Myanmar's first farmer-focused finance institution, signs a US$14 million equity package with Finnfund, Nordic Microfinance Initiative (NMI) and Proparco. Proximity Finance was launched in 2010 as the microfinance arm of Proximity Designs, one of the largest agricultural services platforms in Myanmar, that provides farm technology, agronomy advice and financial services to small farms across the country.

While the deal is pending the Financial Regulatory Department's approval, the increased equity will support Proximity Finance in tripling its active client base, currently 130,000 households, and dispersing 1,500,000 loans in the next four years. The commitment will also support an increase in loan sizes and the diversification of products, and ultimately will provide critical capital to entrepreneurial-minded small farmers.

While most microfinance institutions require clients to pay back monthly, Proximity Finance's repayments are made when farmers receive income for their harvest. "Financing agriculture is challenging due

Grab anticipates continued growth in Myanmar with expansion of GrabFood services to Mandalay, Myanmar's second largest city

GRAB, on 24 July 2020, has today launched GrabFood, its on-demand digital food delivery service, in Mandalay. The introduction of GrabFood in Myanmar's second largest city comes after the growing popularity and take-up of the service by customers in Yangon in recent months, with thousands of customers ordering their favourite meals daily using the same Grab App they already trust for daily transportation services.

With GrabFood, Grab has invested in human resources, city operations, and technology to bring the industry-leading digital ordering platform to Mandalay eaters who can enjoy their favourite foods from all across the city, with convenient, fast and affordable deliveries. Customers need not head out and meddle with crowds especially as health authorities continue to encourage social distancing; instead, users can rely on Grab-

Food to save them time to focus on other daily priorities as they await safe deliveries of their food orders. At launch, GrabFood is ready to cater to customers in the four major Mandalay townships – Aungmyethazan, Chanayethazan, Chanmyathazi and Maha Aungmye.

In preparation for the launch of GrabFood, the Grab Myanmar team on-boarded the largest number of licensed business food merchant-partners amongst the delivery platforms currently operating in Mandalay. They include popular chain eateries such as Lotteria, The Pizza Company, Manhattan Fish Market and YKKO, along with numerous other locally-owned F&B businesses such as Easy Ray, Moe Wai Kyaw Teahouse, Unique Mandalay Tea Room and NiMi Drinks. With no minimum order required, customers simply use the Grab App they already trust to easily make orders of their favourite food and drinks. During the initial trial period, orders were found to be delivered by Grab's efficient delivery-partners on motorbikes to the customer's doorstep in under 30 minutes.

Said Ko Myat Kaung Min, Head of GrabFood Myanmar, "As the everyday everything app, we are delighted to bring GrabFood to Mandalay and to deliver the favourite dishes of our customers right into their hands! Aided by Grab's technologies, we are seeing a shift in how people in Myanmar consume their favourite foods as well as how more traditional restaurant operators have embraced digital channels to find and serve more customers as the nation takes steps towards economic recovery."

"Through the Grab platform, our merchant-partners experience first-hand the different service quality and our commitment to long-term success. They have direct access to our technology and tools to help them shift to online sales and expand their visibility. As many restaurants and merchant-partners work hard to get back on their feet, we are here to help them undergo a digital transformation for a faster business recovery. This is especially important for smaller establishments who prior to this, did not have the means to grow their business beyond their current storefront. With access to a much wider customer base through GrabFood, they can no doubt expect more orders!" he added.

to its seasonality, so our customer-centred design approach ensures our products are tailored to farmers’ needs,” says Hedvig Sundberg, Chief Executive Officer of Proximity Finance.

She continues, “Our relentless commitment to improving the incomes and livelihoods of low-income farm families is strengthened by working with impact-driven investors. This milestone partnership underpins our investors’ focus on building an equitable society and signals international support for rural Myanmar and its people.”

In Myanmar, 39% of the rural population are living in poverty. Farmers represent a hugely undeserved market, but one with tremendous opportunity for those willing to invest in meeting their needs. “With its smallholder farmer focus, Proximity Finance addresses the critical funding gaps in the country’s rural credit sector and aims to reshape the financial landscape for 30+ million underserved rural people. We’re proud to support their commitment to financial inclusion,” says Magali Roux, Proparco’s Regional Director for North and South-East Asia.

“NMI is excited to fund

Proximity Finance on the journey to reach even more of Myanmar’s financially excluded smallholder farmers with uniquely adapted products and supported by a team providing deep expertise in agriculture,” shared Arthur Sletteberg, Managing Director, Nordic Microfinance Initiative.

“This investment advances financial inclusion, agriculture and empowering women, thus targeting several sustainable development goals at the same time,” says Ulla Huotari, Investment Manager, Finnfund. “We share Proximity Finance’s mission of increasing incomes across rural Myanmar and look forward to an impactful partnership.”

The investment is classified as a 2X Challenge gender commitment, as over 60% of Proximity Finance’s clients are women.

Additionally, there is a strong gender balance within the company: 50% of senior managers are women, including the CEO and Head of Finance. Proximity Finance has ambitions to uplift women customers and team members through its policies, programmes and finance solutions.—GNLM

Taps on the Grab App

With GrabFood, eaters in Mandalay will never have to miss a meal and will get to satisfy their food cravings in the comfort of their own home or office. The service saves customers travel time to and from the restaurant, and offers them added safety by avoiding exposure to public crowds. During an initial trial of the service in June 2020, the Grab Myanmar team noticed that customers received food deliveries within an average time of 30 minutes.

Grab customers in Mandalay can make a GrabFood order with three simple steps. First, tap on ‘Food’ on the home screen of the Grab App. Then, select the preferred restaurant and add menu items to the order ‘Basket’. Finally, tap on ‘Place Order’ to confirm the order. After an order is placed, Grab users can use features in the Grab App such as Live Order Tracking, direct messaging and calls with delivery-partners. They can also contact Grab’s 24/7 Customer Experience team for assistance should the need arise.

As a welcome treat to celebrate the arrival of GrabFood in Mandalay, new GrabFood customers can enjoy a MMK 3,000 discount and free deliveries on their first two orders. To enjoy these discounts, customers should apply the promo code ‘NEWFOOD-IE’ and place orders with a minimum value of MMK 5,000.

Digital Transformation and Creating Income Opportunities for F&B Businesses in Mandalay

During the COVID-19 period, F&B businesses faced numerous challenges including a hit on revenue as dining-in for customers was not allowed. Grab’s digital platform served as the much-needed innovation to help

F&B businesses in Yangon adopt digital transformation and to serve customers through delivery orders facilitated by GrabFood. Through GrabFood marketing campaigns and operational efficiencies, food merchant-partners enjoyed a boost in sales during the challenging period, and were uplifted to continue their businesses and support the livelihoods of their staff.

Grab aims to replicate these efforts in Mandalay and support the city’s F&B businesses by helping them digitise their operations and sales to tap on new revenue streams and to expand the reach of customers to serve. Merchant-partners instantly get an online storefront, opening up a new source of incremental orders and revenue on top of their usual in-store visits. They also gain access to GrabFood’s marketing channels and promotional schemes, boosting their business further. This opportunity was recognized by some of the top F&B brands in Mandalay who have partnered with Grab exclusively as they value the quality of services and technology that GrabFood delivers.

The Grab Myanmar team is actively on-boarding new F&B businesses on its platform every week. F&B businesses in Mandalay, including small, independent food establishments and hawkers who wish to be a GrabFood merchant-partner can call the hotline +959977083330 or email gf.mm.merchants@grab.com.

Creating Jobs in Mandalay

Grab has on-boarded hundreds of delivery-partners to operate the GrabFood service and provides numerous benefits to protect their livelihoods. In addition to remuneration above the industry standard, GrabFood delivery-partners are positioned for success with safety gear and equipment, supplies of personal hygiene hygiene, along with training on food handling and hygiene as well as road safety.

All delivery-partners are covered by Trip Insurance during each GrabFood delivery. In addition, all delivery-partners are eligible for financial assistance of MMK 200,000 under the Grab Partner Relief Fund should they be diagnosed with COVID 19 or officially placed into quarantine by the health authorities.—GNLM

LONDON—Jurgen Klopp was voted the League Managers' Association Manager of the Year on Monday after ending Liverpool's 30-year wait to win the Premier League.

Klopp led Liverpool to the Premier League title in the same season they were FIFA Club World champions.

The German's award was announced by former Manchester United boss Alex Ferguson, after whom the trophy is now named.

"Jurgen, fantastic," Ferguson said on Sky Sports. "We speak about Leeds spending 16 years in the Championship, but Liverpool 30 years since winning that league, incredible."

"You thoroughly deserved it. The performance level of your team was outstanding. Your personality runs right throughout the whole club. It was a marvellous performance.

"I'll forgive you for waking me up at 3.30 am to tell me you have won the league! Thank you, but anyway, you thoroughly deserved it. Well done."

Former Borussia Dortmund boss Klopp said of Ferguson: "I know it's not 100 per cent appropriate as a Liverpool manager but I admire him. I remember he was the first British manager I met."

"We had breakfast. I'm not sure how much he remembers but I remember because for me this moment was like meeting the Pope. It was absolutely great and from that first season we clicked.—AFP ■

Aung La Ngsang donates plasma for COVID-19 treatment

BURMESE Python Aung La Ngsang, who recently recovered from COVID-19, has donated blood plasma for treating COVID-19 patients to Sanford Health, a non-profit integrated health care delivery system in the United States, according to his social media yesterday.

He posed on Facebook: "I swear our phones are listening to us. There was something on the news about researchers needing the blood of those who tested positive for COVID-19 and are now negative." "And a local blood bank advertisement came up on social media...so here I am sitting, donating my plasma. Well I have great news, we are now that much closer to finding the coronavirus cure with the Python blood. Happy Monday!" he wrote on his social media on Tuesday.

The plasma, the liquid portion of the blood, contains coronavirus antibodies. Antibodies are proteins made by the immune system which can target the virus and neutralize it, according to a health paper.

Japan's WTA Pan Pacific Open tennis scrapped over COVID-19

TOKYO—The WTA Pan Pacific Open in Japan, one of Asia's top women's tennis tournaments, has been scrapped for the first time because of the coronavirus, organizers said Tuesday.

The cancellation of the event, which was scheduled for November and was won by Japan's Naomi Osaka last year, follows last week's axing of all international tennis tournaments in China for 2020.

The Pan Pacific's demise ends a continuous run for the tournament since 1984 and leaves Asia with only one Women's Tennis Association event, October's Korea Open, on this year's coronavirus-wrecked schedule.

It is also another blow for sport in Japan after the Tokyo Olympics, originally due to start last week, were postponed for a year over Covid-19.

"We were trying to find ways (to hold the Pan Pacific Open), such as having no audience or limiting the number of spectators," organizers said in a statement.

"But we reached the tough conclusion that we have to cancel the tournament given the difficulty of ensuring the safety" of all involved, they added.

The tournament had already been postponed from September to November, with organizers hoping the delay would allow them to hold the event.—AFP ■
