YRTA operates 4th trip of Yangon-Cocogyun vessel

YANGON Region Transport Authority ran the 4th vessel between Yangon and Cocogyun Township yesterday, carrying materials and equipment for electrification and construction works.

The ship departed in the early morning from No. 3 Sule Wharf in Yangon.

"YRTA is running the vessel trips to Cocogyun Township under the arrangement of Yangon Region government. This trip is aimed at effectuation of development of the township. We have to take responsibility for transportation. Now, we can supply the electricity in Cocogyun Township. We have to conduct other processes such as regional development and transportation of the civil staff," said U Hla Aung, the joint secretary of YRTA.

The passengers will have to stay one-week quarantine under COVID-19 preventive measures.

A total of 61 passengers including seamen, municipal staff, police officers, bank staff, Yangon Electricity Supply Corporation (YESC) staff and residents were on board the ship. The ship was loaded with some 350 tonnes of cargos. YRTA conducted this trip by renting MV Charites, which cost around K350 million.

Regarding the electricity supply in Cocogyun Township, U Maung Maung Latt, the YESC chair said, "We are supplying electricity to this area for 24 hours under the solar system. Now, we are finalizing the project. We also carried a 500 kW diesel engine and fuel oil to run the ship. However, we are providing the electricity under the solar system. If necessary, we will run the diesel engine. Now, YESC is supplying 1.5 megawatts under the solar system. To deliver more than 1.5 megawatts, the YESC engineering team will ride on the ship for field inspection."

Not only YRTA but also the Ministry of Transport and Communications also assisted in delivering the goods to enable access to the electricity in Cocogyun Township. Out of the recent seven vessels to this township, four trips were organized by YRTA.

Cocogyun is one of the 45 townships in Yangon Region. It is located in the Bay of Bengal 257 nautical miles south of Yangon and its area is 20.54 square kilometres.

Cocogyun Township lagged in development due to its remote location. Now, the government is making an all-out effort for the development of this township. —Myint Maung Kyaw

MoC discusses promoting domestic fish consumption

THE Ministry of Commerce organized a videoconference yesterday to discuss a plan for promoting fish consumption in the country.

At the meeting, Union Minister for Commerce Dr Than Myint said that the Ministry would continue making great efforts to improve local fish consumption as fish exports are declining because of the COVID-19 crisis.

In the 2018-2019 financial year, the export of fishery products was US$732.156 million and in the financial year 2019-2020, the amount increased to $858.869 million, according to the Union Minister, who said that the meeting was aimed at discussing how to collaboratively work to increase fish consumption because the export of fishery products including fishes was declining in the entire year of 2020 because of COVID-19 pandemic.

He continued that there are issues and inconveniences related to transportation and sales of fishery products during the COVID-19 crisis, so all stakeholders need to work to encourage local fish consumption in Myanmar collaboratively. He added that if the fishery sector can be implemented, as usual, it could become a very developed sector in two or three years.

He said that trade development activities must be carried out in the “New Normal” way during the period of COVID-19 pandemic.

The virtual meeting was participated by the Deputy Minister for Commerce; senior officials from the Ministry of Commerce; the Ministry of Agriculture, Livestock and Irrigation; Taninthayi Region government; Yangon Region government; Mandalay Region government; Ayeyawady

Region government; commercial attaches; Union of Myanmar Federation of Chambers of Commerce and Industry; Myanmar Fisheries Federation and other relevant organizations.—MNA

Floating bike rental services debuted in Myitkyina

A private business has introduced floating bicycle rental services near the township development committee office at the bank of Ayeyawaday River in Myitkyina Township, Kachin State.

“The services are aimed for fun and fitness of the youth to stay themselves away from the narcotic drug while schools are closed during the COVID-19 crisis,” said U Sai Khum, the owner of floating bike rental shop.

The rental of each bike for 30 minutes is K3,000 per person, and K5,000 for two persons. The user has to wear a life jacket before riding the bike. When they feel exhausted and need any help, they can blow the whistle on the life jacket. Then, the rental shop will bring tired users by a motorboat.

The floating bike rental services will be available from 8 am to 5 pm, and the business will be expanded to Indawgyi area and Bhamo Township in Mohnyin district.—Sein Win (IPRD)

We continuously implemented the peacemaking process step-by-step

The first session of the Union Peace Conference- 21st Century Panlong began in 2016. We encountered many difficulties during the peace talks in 2015, based on the provisions of the Nationwide Ceasefire Agreement signed between the previous government and some ethnic armed organizations. However, we continuously implemented the peacemaking process step-by-step. When official peace negotiations were suspended due to some disagreements, the NRPC and the Peace Commission were able to organize many informal discussions, and they finally managed to resume official peace talks.

Significant pagoda features artworks of Bagan era in Pakokku Township

PAKOKKU Township of Magway Region is recognized as the Western Ayeyar City. The well-known pagodas such as 900-year old Thiho Shin pagoda, Shwegu pagoda, Shwe Mu Htaung pagoda and Phaung Taw Oo pagoda are concentrated there.

Although the domestic tours are suspended across the country during COVID-19 pandemic, the well-wishers including those living in foreign countries donate money for the construction of pagoda called Aung Su Pyae Kyaung Shit-thaung-lay-htaung pagoda located about two miles from Pakokku.

The pagoda was first called 31-bone (31 realms of existence) Kyaw Lon Aung and only 30 per cent of construction completed over 30 years. It was rebuilt in 2003 by Aggamahapandita Aggamahasddhammajotikadhaja Abidhajangamaratthaguru Sayadaw Baddhantavisara, Patron of Mahavithutaryama Monastery of Pakokku Township and renamed as Su Pyae Kyaung Shit-thaung-lay-htaung pagoda. The famous architects were hired to restart the construction in 2017.

The pagoda with artworks of the Bagan era is 75ft in height and surrounded by 24 smaller zedis outside.

There are 32 chambers inside the pagoda and all are depicted with the history of Buddha and picturesque wall paintings.

The whole body of pagoda can be seen from a certain distance. The 89 years old Sayadaw Bhadanta Visara who leads the construction of pagoda is also Ovadacariya Sayadaw for Sugyi Pan Sasana and Saint San Myint Pariyatti (Nunnery school). Sayadaw makes efforts in building meditation centres and religious buildings. The main aim of Sayadaw is to receive propagation of Sasana and provide information for the rural populace.

It will cost K1240,000 per small zedis and K5,400 per buddha statue and K54,000 per sitting buddha statue. The pagoda board of trustee receives between K2.5 million and K9 million of donation daily during COVID-19.

Those wanting to donate cash distributions for construction of pagoda can also donate as much as they can. Currently, two-third of construction works are being completed under the management of Sayadaw. —Salai Ko Kee (IPRD)

Resumption of supplementary medical classes scheduled for third week of this month

Plans are underway to reopen supplementary classes for the examinations of the final year part 2 at Universities of Medicine across Myanmar in the third week of this month, said Dr Zaw Wai Soe, Rector of University of Medicine 1, Yangon.

He said that the supplementary classes will be reopened with the permission of the Ministry of Health and Sports, and the students must undergo COVID-19 tests.

“The course work of our Universities of Medicine includes Final Year Part I and Part II. In fact, the duration of Final Year Part II is one-and-a-half years. But, there is a supplementary exam, too,” he said. Supplementary examinations are ones conducted after the students failed their previous examination.

“There are 27 students (who will sit the supplementary examination) at our university. We are informing each of them. Some students are travelling, and we are informing them. When they arrive, they must receive COVID-19 tests. We will teach them for two weeks, and then they will have an a-week break before the exam,” he said.

“In fact, they had already attended the classes,” said Dr Zaw Wai Soe. “Human resources, especially for the health sector, are important. So, the classes will be reopened one by one.”

“Teaching will be conducted only in areas where there is no case of COVID-19. We have prepared to use videoconferencing to teach them. Courses will be taught in a combination of online learning and face to face learning.”

There are about 100 students who will sit the supplementary examinations of the Final Year Part II in Universities of Medicine across Myanmar.

Through the Department of Human Resources for Health, permission has been sought from the Ministry of Health and Sports to allow the universities to reopen the regular classes of the Final Year Part II.—Htet Hlyan

Domestic palm oil prices up as global production down

By Nyein Nyein

ACCORDING to the Myanmar Edible Oil Dealers Association, the domestic palm oil is on the rise as it tracks the imported oil price.

“The domestic edible oil price is related to the international price. It has risen because of the rise in the global market,” Chair U San Lin of the association.

Myanmar yearly imports 700,000 tonnes of palm oil from Malaysia and Indonesia to meet local demand. Those countries faced unpredictable weather condition, and the production declined. Consequently, the edible oil price has risen.

“The reasons for rising edi-

ble oil price is production slump caused by erratic weather conditions, such as flood and La Niña, coupled with the COVID-19 impacts,” he continued.

Additionally, the temporary storage of palm oil in those countries and tax hike caused other price rise reasons, the association stated.

The palm oil fetches up to US$1,035 per tonne in the international market, while it is priced K2,400 per viss (a viss equals to 1.6kg) in the retail market of Myanmar.

During the early outbreak of COVID-19 pandemic, palm oil price stood at only $700-800 per tonne, and the price in the domestic retail market was only at K1,500-1,600 per viss.

To ensure the self-sufficiency during the COVID-19 pandemic, the government purchased over 12,000 tonnes of palm oil for reserves and distributed to the oil tanks in the respective regions and states, the association stated.

“The import volume of palm oil during the pandemic is adequate for the domestic market’s needs. The association urged its member to have an adequate supply of oil during the pandemic.

“Myanmar Edible Oil Dealers Association and the government cooperated to import 12,000 tonnes of oil for reserves in May 2020. The association has urged the members to store oil in tanks for the needs. We have enough oil to meet the requirements for sure, the association chair affirmed. The domestic consumption of edible oil is estimated at 1 million tonnes per year. The local cooking oil production is just about 400,000 tonnes. About 600,000-700,000 tonnes of cooking oil are imported annually to meet the domestic market’s self-sufficiency.

YSX stock trading dives in 2020

ACCORDING To the annual report released by the exchange, a total of K12.6 billion worth of 1.87 million shares by six listed companies were traded on the Yangon Stock Exchange (YSX) in 2020, a significant drop compared to 2019.

Over 2.4 million shares from five listed companies, valued K13.39 billion, were traded on the exchange in 2019.

Both continuous trading and block trading on YSX fell in 2020 despite Ever Flow River Group Public Co’s (EFR) debut, on the exchange on 28 May 2020.

Amid the COVID-19 crisis, Myanmar’s securities market has been able to continue operating without stopping trading.

At present, shares of six listed companies — First Myanmar Investment (FMI), Myanmar Thilawa SEZ Holdings (MTSH), Myanmar Citizens Bank (MCB), First Private Bank (FPB), TMH Telecom Public Co. Ltd (TMH) and the EFR are being traded on the exchange.

In 2020, the value of stocks traded on the exchange peaked at K1.48 billion in February. In contrast, trading on the exchange registered an all-time low of K552.9 million in November due to the COVID-19 resurgence in Myanmar.

In January 2020, 196,836 shares worth K1.25 billion were traded on the exchange while 188,919 shares, with an estimated value of K1.48 billion, were traded on the exchange in February and K1.42 billion worth 228,913 shares were traded in March respectively. It touched the lowest of K902 million with 173,808 shares in April. It rose to K1.2 billion with 200,416 shares being traded in May. The share volumes traded on the exchange surged to 221,682 in June, with estimated value K1.3 billion and then, it fell to K1 billion with 125,137 shares in July. In August, the exchange witnessed a low stock trading value at K747.5 million, with 118,850 shares traded. The value slightly rose to K838.67 million, with 85,237 shares on the exchange in September. It continued drops in October with 85,630 shares worth K673.5 million. The value of shares traded on the exchange sank to the lowest level of K552.9 million in November, with 107,028 shares. The trading value rose to K1.14 billion with 139,513 shares in December, the exchange’s monthly report showed.

The price per share of FMI decreased from K11,500 in January 2020 to K9,900 on 30 December 2020. The share price of MTSH remained unchanged at K3,850 last year. MCB’s stock price also dipped to K8,000 from K8,200. The cost of FPB showed a small drop from K23,000 to K22,500, while TMH slightly fell to K2,800 from K2,850. Nevertheless, the share price of EFR rose to K3,700 in Dec-end compared with the rate in May 2020

In 2016, only three companies were traded on the YSX — FMI, MTSH, and MCB. One more public company, FPB, was listed on the YSX in 2017. In 2018, TMH debuted on the exchange. EFR entered the exchange in 2020. This year, Amata Holding Public Co., Ltd has been approved to be listed on the exchange, and the listing date will be announced soon.

More than 2.5 million shares of three listed companies were traded on the YSX in 2016, and their value was estimated at K70 billion. In 2017, despite an increase in the stock trading volume to 2.6 million shares, the trade value was only K22 billion. In 2018, 2.3 million shares of five companies, worth K11.5 billion, were traded on the exchange, according to the annual report of the YSX.

The stock markets worldwide have reported their largest declines since the 2008 financial crisis. Similarly, the local equities market is also scared by the COVID-19 crash, points out a market observer.

At present, people are putting money in savings, rather than investing during the COVID-19 crisis, he added.

YSX held webinar sessions on 26 and 27 December to share the future benefit of stock investment for the investors, in coordination with securities companies (MSEC, KBZSC, CBSC, AYA Trust SC, KTzRH and uabsc).

Next, the Securities and Exchange Commission of Myanmar (SECM) has allowed foreigners to invest in the local equity market from 20 March 2020.

Furthermore, YSX launched pre-listing board (PLB) on 28 September 2020 to provide unlisted public companies with fund-raising opportunities and build a bridge toward listing on YSX, YSX stated.

The YSX was launched three years ago to improve the private business sector. It disseminates rules and regulations regarding the stock exchange and knowledge of share trading through stock investment seminars. The stock exchange has also sought the government’s support to get more public companies to participate in the stock market and help more institutional investors, such as financing companies, investment banks, and insurance companies, to emerge. —Ko Htet

Domestic gold price rises to K1,336,000 per tical on global cues

FOLLOWING a robust global market trend, the domestic gold price has risen to K1,336,000 per tical (0.578 ounces, or 0.016 kilograms) in early 2021 according to the gold traders.

The gold price rallied to US$1,944 per ounce on 6 January 2021, whereas it stood at $1,893 per ounce on 31 December 2020, with a rise of $50 within one week.

In Dec-end, yellow metal fetched K1,325,000 per tical in the domestic market. Then, the price showed uptick this year, with K1,336,000 per tical on 6 January 2021.

“Nevertheless, local market relying on international gold prices did not shake up as it is supposed to be, due to the shortage of raw material,” said Chair U Myo Myint of Yangon Region Gold Entrepreneurs Association (YGEA). At present, the old gold scrap and jewellery are refined into the pure gold bar. The raw material has not come from gold mining as the transportation restriction halted gold mining, the YGEA stated.

The gold market has become sluggish as the pandemic shut down the events like wedding and traditional festivals, gold traders pointed out.

The daily transaction of 50 visses (a viss equals to 1.6kg) of gold was earlier seen. Now, about 5-10 viss are rarely traded per day, according to YGEA.

According to gold traders, the domestic gold was priced with the minimum rate of K1,216,500 (1 July) and the maximum rate of K1,296,500 (27 July). The price moved in the range of, K1,286,500 on 13 August and K1,332,500 on 7 August. The local gold reached the lowest level of K1,310,500 (2 September) and the highest level of K1,314,000 (1 September). In October, the rate ranged between K1,307,800 (30 October) and K1,316,500 (21 October). The rate fluctuated between the highest of K1,312,000 (16 November) and the lowest of K1,278,000 (28 November). In December, the pure yellow metal priced moved in the range of K1,275,000 (1 December) and K1,333,000 (28 December). —GNLM

Now it's time to redouble our efforts for aquaculture development

DUE to impacts from the COVID-19 pandemic, 2020 had been a tough year for the aquaculture sector.

With lack of order from foreign buyers, closure of restaurants and transport disruption and the consequences of other measures, the aquaculture export and fish consumption in the country had declined significantly.

Besides, this fall has also threatened the livelihood of millions of workers relying on the fishery industry.

This situation demands all stakeholders including government departments in the aquaculture sector to take a leading role in putting the industry back on the recovery track through innovative ways. Let us hope that all hands in this aquaculture sector are on deck.

We believe that by seizing opportunities possible from the current situation, national-level plans and projects can ensure a recovery of the aquaculture export sector and local consumption.

national-level plans and projects can ensure a recovery of the aquaculture export sector and local consumption.

To put our fishery sector on the right path to recovery in a short period, we need to attract foreign investment which can also offer modern technology. For foreign investments to come in, we need to show first that we have the potential to develop from all sides. Everyone is obliged to cooperate to gain business confidence and to create a good environment for business.

We believe that national-level plans and projects which ensure future success in the sector would be seen soon.

We must act now to boost the local fish consumption and find new ideas to ensure that the aquaculture sector recovers in the coming years.

Our country earned over US$ 732 million in the 2018-2019 financial year and over US$ 858 million in the 2019-2020 financial year.

But, the sector has been badly affected by the COVID-19 pandemic with a slump in aquaculture exports since February, 2019 following the cancellation of orders from foreign buyers and closure of processing plants.

Our country has good prospects for shipping aquaculture products to foreign markets.

Myanmar is rich in natural resources. But, we are still weak, compared with other countries, in catching and farming fish and prawns and producing value-added products.

There is a good opportunity and potential for producing fish and prawns, and this needs to be prioritized to upgrade the food sector.

We believe that by seizing opportunities possible from the current situation,

The good old days at the Rangoon University

By Khin Maung Myint

AS tributes to the centenary celebration of the founding of the Rangoon University (RU), now Yangon University, many a writer had written articles based on their experiences at the RU. Being a student at the RU in the mid-nineteen fifties myself, I couldn't resist the urge, thus jumped onto the band wagon and had written some lately. As one already got covered in the GNLM, I intend to keep on writing some more based on my experiences from the RU days. Tediousness from attending classes and studies aside, those were the most care-free and the best days of my life.

Going to the front of the ladies' hostels during the nights, armed with a mandolin or a guitar or a violin to serenade the ladies of those hostels were the most popular pastimes for some male hostel students of the old, but I was never one of them. My hobbies were quite different from most students then. I used to spend my leisure times in and around the Inya Lake -- angling, swimming or rowing.

The RUBC

Here, I don't want the readers to think I belonged to the famous RUBC (Rangoon University Boat Club). By rowing I meant to say I used to row a traditional dugout boat that a businessman who lived close to the Lakes owned and had placed at my disposal as I was a close friend of his brother.

Here, I would like to mention briefly about the RUBC. It was founded in 1923, three years after the establishment of the RU itself, by Sir Arthur Eggar, a Britisher. Since its founding, the RUBC rowers had participated in many international regattas at home and abroad and had won their fair shares of prizes. To save space and time I'll not be elaborating those achievements in detail, but would like to say that the RUBC was the pride of our university and the country in the old days. That boat club still exists today as the Yangon Universities' Boat Club (YUBC).

RU produced many national class sportspersons

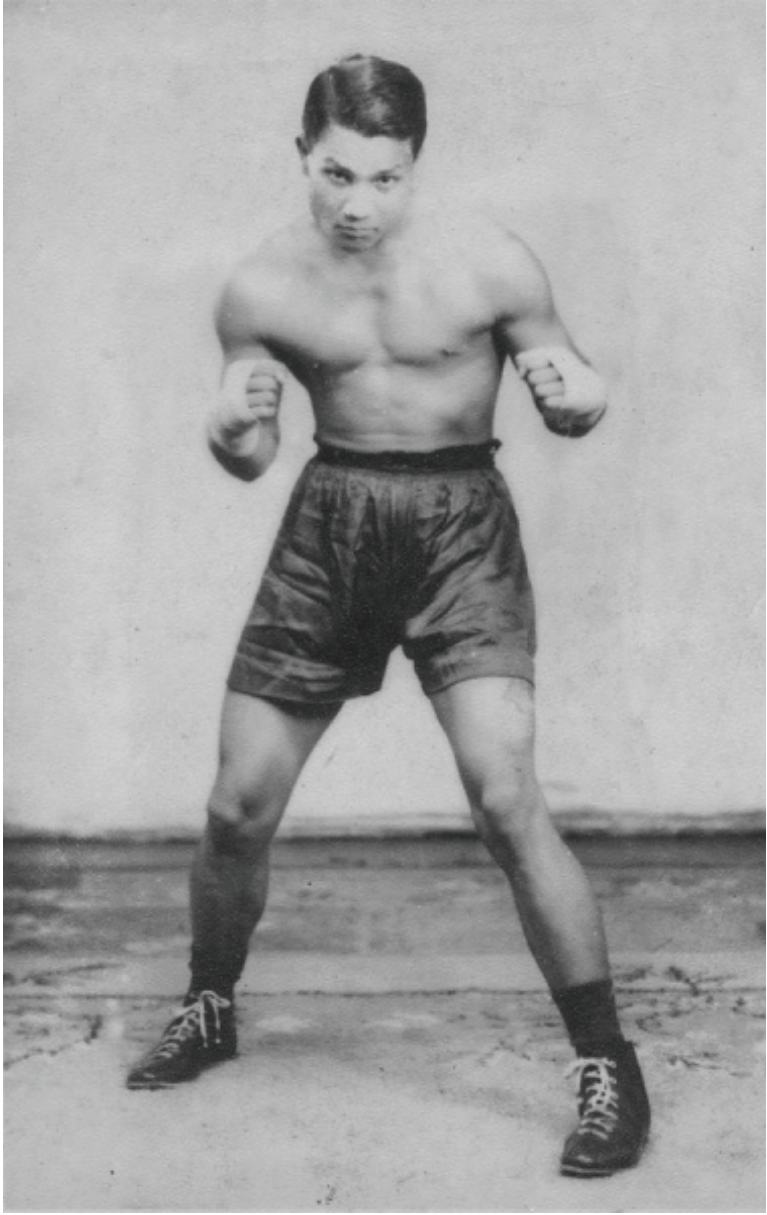

The RU student sportspersons were prominent in various fields of sports then. Our RU soccer team was one of the star teams in the senior league alongside the best teams such as: the Burma Police, Burma Customs, Burma Army, Burma Navy, Burma Railways and the Burma Post and Telecoms teams to mention some I can remember. That team produced many national standard players and one of the most popular among them was Ne Win, later Collegian Ne Win, the Academy award-winning movie actor. Two other prominent players who preceded him were (U) Sonny Tin Tun and (U) Myoe Sein. They were not only star players, but (U) Sonny was a Burma champion 110 yards sprinter and (U) Myoe Sein was a 440 yards Burma champion.

Besides soccer, there were other sports where the RU students excelled. The RU produced star tennis players too. Joe Ba Maung and Than Lwin, the Burma Champions were the most prominent ones. There were also many national standard athletes in those days. The most outstanding and successful athletes were the "Mra" brothers, who were champion pole vaulters and sprinters. During their heydays, no one ever beat them. They shone even in the regional sport meets such as the South East Asian Peninsula (SEAP) Games, the predecessor of the present South East Asian (SEA) Games.

In swimming, the Burma and S.E Asian champion Tin Maung Ni was an alumnus of the RU. Also the Burma boxing champion in his weight class was Stanley (Sugar) Majid of the Medical College, which was an affiliate of the RU. Besides the champions in the physical sports, RU also produced draught champions of national standards. They were Burma champions (Kyar) Ba Nyein and Yin Maung.

The RU also produced many prominent sprinters, runners, hurdlers, throwers and jumpers, who dominated every sport discipline they competed in. Even after leaving the RU and had joined the various services, they continued to reign the fields and tracks for sometime. A fact evidenced by the fact that for some years after leaving university their old familiar faces were common sights at every national

Besides the champions in the physical sports, RU also produced draught champions of national standards. They were Burma champions (Kyar) Ba Nyein and Yin Maung. (Kyar) Ba Nyein was the Lethwei fighter and boxer who participated in boxing at the 1952 Summer Olympics and was a pioneer in modernizing the Lethwei. PHOTO: WIKIPEDIA or international sports meets. In those days, there was an African American athletic coach from the US attached to RU, courtesy of the US government, who was an Olympic pentathlon champion. His name was Bill Miller, if I remember correctly.

As for the lady students, they fared quite well too. There were many successful sportswomen and also many beauty queens of that era. The most outstanding beauty queens during our times were Miss Burma / Union Mini Pu, Ma Sein Aye, Lily Soe Yin, Phyu Phyu Shein, Nu Nu Yee and Naw Louisa Benson, to mention some.

Inter universities and college sports meets that bred many sportspersons were held regularly. These sport activities provided the students, who were interested and enjoyed attending those events the opportunities to root for the team or the individuals they liked. Those occasions were time to vent or release our tensions and stresses, relax ourselves and forget about the tedious studies for a while.

Extracurricular activities

Besides these there were some other extracurricular activities for us. As the saying goes: "All work and no play makes Jack a lazy boy", students need to relax and recreate. There were volleyball courts, badminton courts and basket ball grounds at almost every mens' hostel, where we can play and relax. During the evenings those places were ever busy with activities as many enthusiasts spent their times there. There was also an indoors gymnasium behind the Student Union building. It provided weight lifting and body-building facilities in one half of the building and in the other half were squash racket ball courts. There was also a boxing ring in a building close to the gym; sometimes boxing tournaments were arranged outdoors on the campus grounds.

The tennis courts were located across the University Avenue some distance away from the mens' hostels. As far as I can remember, only a very few from my hostel, Pinya, played tennis during my stay there. However, those courts produced national champions in the old days. There was also a soccer/cum athletic field for field and track sports that also produced many national standard sportsmen and women. There was a swimming pool on the campus, where swimming competitions were held regularly. I rarely went there to swim; for me I prefer the "Inya Lake" where I could swim long-distance across the lake.

Other extracurricular activities on the campus included the hostel annual dinners, which were the most coveted occasions that everyone looked forward to. The annual dinners were held during the winter months; "Anyeint pwe" or may be music troupes were hired for entertainments and those occasions were the most joyous highlights of the year. The Mandalay Anyeint troupes like "Yoedayar Pyan Ah Mar Sein" and "Soviet Pyan Nwe Nwe Sann" were popular at hall dinners. We could invite guests to the dinner and naturally the lady students from the "Sister Hall" were regular guests and a mens' hostel made friendly pact between themselves as "Brother and Sister Halls". The objective was to assist and cooperate one another to conduct some activities like debates, Q&A sessions with the "Brain Trust (group)" that comprised academics and established writers, and other social activities. The relationship between most of the residents of the two hostels grew into sibling bonds that last years long after leaving the university.

The Scientific Exhibitions were also held annually on the campus grounds and behind the Convocation Hall near the Rangoon Yacht Club. During such exhibitions some military hardware, such as: a WW2 vintage army tank, a 40 mm Bofor gun, the famous "Ta Pyet Sea" that played a vital role in the "Insein Campaign" and a gunnery training simulator from the navy, plus a small Bell helicopter from the air force were also on display. Those exhibitions attracted many outsiders too as it was open to the public.

Other entertainments and outlets

Apart from the above mentioned extracurricular activities that could be pursued on the campus, some hostel students ventured outside the campus in pursuit of entertainments and relaxations. There were numerous movie theatres in the downtown area in the neighbourhood of the Continental roundabout at the junction of the Sule Pagoda street and the Montgomery (Bogyoke) street. Some cinemas and a theatre, where plays were performed could also be found on the Payre (Pansodan) street. The area around the "Myaynee-kone" roundabout was another popular hangout for the hostel students. That place had a few cinemas and the "Padonmar Kwin" provided those who had interests in Burmese traditional plays and dances with "Zat Pwe", an all night affair, during the dry seasons.

About 350 acres of special cotton yarn to be grown this year

A total of 350 acres of cotton yarn special zone will be grown in the Mandalay region's four townships. PHOTO : KO THWIN (MANDALAY)

ABOUT 350 acres of special cotton yarn will be grown in mid-February, in this financial year for the local farmers from Mandalay region to produce and use the high-quality cotton seeds, according to the Mandalay Region Agriculture Department.

"About 350 acres of cotton yarn will be grown to produce and use good quality cotton seeds per the water and soil conditions in the region. It will also be grown for the local cotton growers to reduce the production costs and increase the yield and promote the quality of cotton," said Daw Si Si Phone, Assistant Director of Mandalay Region Agriculture Department.

"Our Agriculture Department is working to increase the rural farmers' income and ensure the production of high-quality products. The cotton yarn is widely used in the region. It was grown as the special zone for yielding of the excellent quality products. The cotton yarns are planted with irrigated water, and it is convenient to supply the water in the same compound of the plantation.

The cotton yarn will be cultivated in four townships. Also, the agriculture technologies will be provided to the local growers to promote high-quality cotton yield, she added.

A total of 350 acres of cotton yarn special zone will be grown in the Mandalay region's four townships, including 50 acres in Meiktila and 100 acres in Wundwin townships of Meiktila District and 100 acres each in Yamethin and Pyawbwe townships of Yamethin District. Only Shwe Taung-8 and Shwe Taung-10 cotton species will be grown in a special cotton zone. —Ko Thwin (Mandalay)

Only new membership cardholders allowed to enter commodity depot beginning from 1 April

ONLY the new membership cardholders will be allowed to enter the commodity depot for trading beginning from 1 April, according to a statement of the Yangon Region Chambers of Commerce and Industry (YRCCI) Yangon on 5 January.

The YRCCI (Bayintnaung Commodity Exchange) held its 25th annual general meeting on 21 December 2018. According to the association rules approved by the meeting, all association members have to pay in the annual fees.

So, those members who have not paid the yearly expenses of K30,000 should continuously pay in the annual fees for 2020 and pay in the annual fees for 2021.

However, the Bayintnaung Commodity Exchange was closed in 2020 for many days because of prevention and control measures of COVID-19 pandemic. So, the association members have been exempted from paying in the annual fees for 2020 under the management meeting of the association held on 4 January. But, the annual fees for 2021 will be collected.

Those who have already paid in for the annual fees for 2020 do not need to pay in for 2021 and only exchange the new membership cards. Those who have not paid in for 2020 are needed to pay for 2021 and exchange the new membership cards, according to the announcement of YRCCI on 5 January.

Therefore, the members must return their old membership cards. The association has also urged the members to take out the new member cards and pay in the annual fees not later than 31 March 2021. — Thiri

Exporters to ship watermelon, musk melon daily under quantity setting system

By Nyein Nyein

ACCORDING to a statement released by the Fruit Commodity Depot in Muse 105-mile trade zone, the trucks carrying the watermelon and musk melon will be allowed to export the fruits under the quantity setting system of controlling the market.
Starting from 5 January, the Ho Naung (Kyinsankyawt) border crossing, a majority route of fruit export, has extended the opening time from 7 am to 8:30 pm. Although more trucks with watermelon and musk melon could be exported, Myanmar will export the fruits with a limit to quantity to control the market.

"During the last few days, there was a blockade of the lorries in Wantein ground because of the shortage of labourers and drivers," said Vice-Chair U Aung Thet Oo of Fruit Commodity Depot in Muse 105-mile trade zone.
"Around 24 or 25 December, our lorries loaded with fruits entered the sale ground. But, there were not enough workers and drivers on that ground, and it took many days. Some could not even find their vehicles. We have tried to adjust to the sale ground operation systematically," he added.

Moreover, the vehicle accidents occurred because more trucks entered the exchange ground exceeding limited capacity.
"The exchange ground can accommodate only 300 or 400 lorries. There are so many lorries on the ground, and there are also some collisions there. If we could reduce the number of lorries entering the ground, we could also reduce the number of accidents," explained U Aung Thet Oo.

Fruit Commodity Depot with Muse 105-mile trade zone announced on 5 January that the trucks would be entered to the exchange ground under the Fruit Commodity Depot and Truck Supervision Board management.

I remembered two very rare opportunities we received. Many famous foreign entertainment groups used to visit our country in those days. They used to entertain at the Jubilee Hall on the Shwe Dagon Pagoda Road. The entrance fees were exorbitant and out of reach for most of us. However, on one occasion the famous American Ballet Dance group, the Martha Graham Ballet Group from the US entertained for the university students, free of charge at the Convocation Hall. Another occasion was when the world famous Benny Goodman Jazz Band, also from the US entertained us in the open space between the Science Block and the "Grande Thitpoke pin", in an open air setting.

Another attraction for the hostel students was the "Tazaungdaing" lighting festival. During those festivities hostel students, mostly males and sometimes accompanied by some lady hostel students went to the 15th Street in the "Lanmadaw" township late in the evenings. There we used to loiter leisurely among the cartoon posters displayed along the colorfully lit street. We enjoyed reading the cartoons drawn by famous cartoonists and also by some upstarts. They were really entertaining. Another popular place to visit during those festivals was the "Suburban Street" (now Ngu War) in the Ahlone township where every house in the street were decorated with colourful lights.

This article will not be complete if I leave out the annual State and Division soccer tournaments held at the Aung San Stadium. For us, who hailed from all over the country, these tournaments provided us the rare opportunities to watch them 'live' instead of crowding around vintage radios and listen to the commentators' incomprehensive comments. On such occasions the RU students, mostly hostel students both male and female would proceed in organized groups to the Aung San Stadium to cheer on their respective State or Division teams.

As this piece is neither a chronicle nor anything resembling that, but just an attempt to depict a rough sketch of the university environs of my university days, some important facts and names may have missed being mentioned. Also some facts may lack accuracy. However, I sincerely hope that as a nostalgic reminiscence of those good old days at the RU, these flaws would be excusable and that it will bring back the fond memories of the past to many of the alumni of the old RU.

ORIGINS OF VIRUS

Impasse over WHO virus mission ‘not just a visa issue’: China

DELAYS to a long-planned mission by WHO experts to China to investigate the origins of the Covid-19 pandemic are “not just a visa issue”, Beijing said Wednesday.

A year after the outbreak started, international health experts were expected to arrive in China this week for a highly politicized visit to explore the beginnings of the virus, which first emerged late last year in the city of Wuhan.

The sensitive mission has been beset by delays and politics, with fears of a whitewash by Beijing.

Foreign ministry spokeswoman Hua Chunying told reporters Wednesday that talks were continuing between the two sides over “the specific date and specific arrangement of the expert group’s visit”.

“The issue of origin-tracing is incredibly complicated. To ensure the work of the international expert team in China goes smoothly, we have to carry out necessary procedures and make relevant arrangements,” said Hua.

She said the country is “doing its best to create good conditions for the international expert group to come to China”.

On Tuesday the head of the World Health Organization told reporters Beijing had not yet finalized permission for the team’s arrival, saying he was “very disappointed with this news” -- in a rare rebuke of Beijing from the UN body.

Earlier this week Chinese authorities refused to confirm the exact dates and details of the visit, a sign of the enduring sensitivity of the mission.

FESTIVE PERIOD

Pandemic rains on Spain’s glittering Epiphany parades

FOR children, it’s the most wonderful time of the year, when Spaniards turn out to welcome the gift-laden Three Kings. But this year’s glittering parades have been torpedoed by the pandemic.

In Spain, it’s not Father Christmas nor Christmas Eve that beguiles all the children, but the Melchior, Caspar and Balthasar who arrive bearing gifts on the night of January 5.

Every year, millions flock to the streets across Spain to watch the fairytale parades welcoming the royal visitors, with music, dancing and bucket-loads of sweets that are hurled into the excited crowds.

But with all outdoor gatherings banned to slow the spread of the virus this year, local authorities across the country have been scrambling for creative ways to keep the magic of “Reyes” alive.

Kings sail into Barcelona

In Barcelona, organisers have been working on a detailed plan “since the summer”, fearing even back then that life would not yet have returned to normal come January.

ebration -- total madness, a real family event with dancing, lights, floats and everyone packing the streets to watch,” said Esteve Carames, in charge of Barcelona’s Reyes festivities, which normally sees 700,000 people massed along the three-kilometre (two mile) route.

This year, however, the Three Kings will be arriving by boat. The royal landing will be broadcast live from Barcelona’s port on TV, after which they will screen footage of a parade recorded in advance.

Barcelona has also set up an open-air amusement park based on The Three Kings. With a capacity for 400 visitors, it has lights, music and scenery, but no actors and nothing that can be touched.

CARMAKERS

Difficult 2020 ends on an improving note for US carmakers

GENERAL Motors and Toyota reported strong US sales at the end of 2020 on Tuesday, reflecting surprisingly robust consumer demand that mitigated the sales drop for the full year in the wake of Covid-19.

The pair are the top two automakers by US market share, and both scored higher sales in the fourth quarter despite notching double-digit sales declines for all of 2020.

US auto sales for 2020 are projected to drop 15.3 per cent to 14.4 million – which would make it the worst year since at least 2012 – according to a December forecast from Cox Automotive.

Still, those numbers are much better than analysts feared after the US car market almost completely froze during spring lockdowns as the country contended with a spiralling coronavirus crisis.

“Everybody is excited the market has done as well as it has,” said Charles Chesbrough, senior economist at Cox Automotive. “We’re getting back to normal much more quickly than expected.” While the pandemic has caused elevated unemployment and long lines at food pantries, other consumers have more cash for cars and other big-ticket items due to less spending on travel and other discretionary goods, and many have benefited from federal stimulus funds.

“If you haven’t lost your job, the government has been giving away money,” said Chesbrough, who thinks the industry could benefit in the second half of 2021 from a recovering US economy bolstered by vaccinations and additional federal spending.

Chesbrough said auto companies have been able to keep selling incentives in check due to limited inventories. However, sales could sag in the first quarter if the worsening pandemic crimps demand.

CYBER SECURITY

Beijing slams ‘bullying’ US over Trump order on Chinese apps

BEIJING accused the US on Wednesday of “bullying” after President Donald Trump ordered a ban on a series of Chinese apps in his last weeks in office, branding them a threat to national security.

Under the Trump administration Beijing and Washington have clashed repeatedly over trade, technology, human rights and the origins of the coronavirus pandemic.

In the latest move to raise tensions, Trump ordered a ban on transactions involving Alipay, WeChat Pay and other apps linked to Chinese companies, saying they could route user information to the government in Beijing.

Foreign ministry spokeswoman Hua Chunying said Wednesday the move was an example of “bullying” by the US, and accused Washington of “stretching the concept of national security”.

“This harms both itself and others.” Trump’s executive order is to take effect in 45 days – just weeks after he is replaced in the White House by President-elect Joe Biden on January 20.

But a senior administration official said the order and its implementation have not been discussed with the “potential incoming Biden administration.”

The apps targeted by the new ban were chosen because of the extremely high number of downloads, which meant tens of millions of users could be at risk of having their data harvested, according to the administration official.

Trump’s order specifically named apps including Alipay, QQ Wallet, Tencent QQ, WeChat Pay and WPS Office. Alipay and Tencent did not respond to queries.

Previous executive orders aimed at banning TikTok – which is owned by China-based ByteDance – were derailed by court rulings indicating Trump had overstepped his legal authority.

Hua said the new order would “of course have some impact on related Chinese companies, but more important might be that it damages the interests of American consumers and the US”.

“The US talks about a free market economy and fair competition, but how does it behave?” she said.

NEW STANDARDS

Apple ties exec bonuses to social, environmental values

APPLE is making environmental and social values factors it will weigh when calculating bonuses for top executives, according to a regulatory filing on Tuesday.

The change taking effect this year is intended to motivate Apple executives “to meet exceptionally high standards of values-driven leadership in addition to delivering strong financial results”, the Silicon Valley technology titan said in proxy documents filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Financial targets and thresholds for executive bonuses at Apple will not change, the iPhone maker said.

“Beginning in 2021, an environmental, social, and governance modifier based on Apple Values and other key community initiatives will be incorporated into our annual cash incentive programme,” Apple said in the filing.

Living up to Apple’s stated values regarding sustainable energy, workplace diversity and other environmental and social issues will be among factors considered when deciding whether bonuses should be increased or decreased by as much as 10 per cent, according to the company.

“We’ve led the industry in reducing our environmental footprint for years and are committed to one day sourcing 100 per cent recycled and renewable materials across all of our products and packaging,” Apple said in a section of the filing outlining its values.—SOURCE: AFP

PORK PIE PAUCITY

Brexit casualty for France: Empty food shelves at Marks and Spencer

FANS of British fare in France have suffered an unsavoury Brexit shock – grocery retailer Marks and Spencer hasn’t been able to stock its popular sandwiches and meals since Britain’s official exit from the EU on January 1.

Hungry shoppers found empty shelves this week at more than a dozen M&S Food stores in and around Paris, depriving them of club sandwiches, pork pies and ready-to-eat curries, popular in particular with harried lunch crowds.

Instead, signs in French and English apologized that “Due to new UK/EU import legislation, we’re sorry some of your favourites might be missing. We’re working hard to get them back soon”.

“It’s amazing, I come here to buy stuff to eat but there’s nothing,” said Ludovic Bonnet, a marketing director, at the M&S in an ornate gallery right opposite the fabled Grevin wax museum.

“It’s linked to Brexit I suppose – they wanted to leave, now they have to live with it,” he said.

The shortage brought home for many the fact that despite pledges on both sides of the Channel to maintain a smooth flow of goods, the new customs systems have disrupted decades of friction-less trade.

“I came especially for their broccoli and spinach,” said Sarah, who said she works in sales.

“Does this mean they’re going to close? That would be a shame, I really like their products,” she said.

M&S chairman Archie Norman had warned as far back as August 2018 of this particular Brexit risk.

US treasury
chief visits Sudan after blacklisting lifted

TREASURY Secretary Steven Mnuchin arrived in Sudan Wednesday for talks on future US economic assistance following Khartoum's removal from Washington's state sponsors of terrorism blacklist.

"The United States Treasury chief Steve Mnuchin arrived today morning (Wednesday) atop a high-ranking delegation, in the first such visit to Sudan," a government statement said.

Mnuchin is scheduled to meet both head of state General Abdel Fattah al-Burhan and Prime Minister Abdalla Hamdok. Their talks are expected to focus on Sudan's deteriorating "economic situation, and US aid to Sudan and debt relief," the government said.

Sudan is struggling with a chronic hard currency shortage and galloping inflation that have hit the purchasing power of all social classes.

Its external debt is estimated at around $60 billion. The United States formally removed Sudan from its crippling blacklist on December 14 as part of a quid pro quo for the mainly Arab country's normalisation of its relations with Israel.

Iran says South Korea holding its $7b funds 'hostage'

IRAN on Tuesday accused South Korea of holding $7 billion of its funds "hostage" but stressed that Tehran's seizure of a Korean tanker in Gulf waters was not a tit-for-tat move. The Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps on Monday sent out naval speedboats to seize the Hankuk Chemi with 20 crew aboard, accusing it of "breaking maritime environmental law". South Korea has demanded the release of the ship and dispatched its anti-piracy unit to the region. "We are not hostage-takers," Iran's government spokesman Ali Rabiei told a press conference. "We are used to such allegations. But ... it is the government of Korea that has taken over $7 billion of ours hostage on baseless grounds".

He added that the seizure was based on a court order after the tanker had "caused oil pollution in the Persian Gulf. It was warned beforehand, and the (seizure) request was a technical one."

South Korea will dispatch a delegation to Iran soon to resolve the tanker situation "through bilateral negotiations," said its foreign ministry spokesman Choi Young-sam.

South Korea's vice-foreign minister Choi Jong-kun will go ahead with a previously planned three-day trip to Tehran early next week, the spokesman added.

New Venezuela parliament sworn in, US-backed Guaido out

Venezuelan lawmakers carry portraits of revolutionary hero Simon Bolivar (L) and late socialist president Hugo Chavez (R) as they head to the National Assembly to be sworn in. PHOTO: AFP

A new Venezuelan parliament was sworn in Tuesday with President Nicolas Maduro’s party in firm control and opposition leader Juan Guaido officially without a job, but with foreign backing to keep up a parallel legislature. The new assembly was denounced as “a fraudulently elected body” by outgoing US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo, who said in a statement Washington recognized Guaido as “the legitimate president of Venezuela”. “We consider this group to be illegitimate and will not recognize it nor its pronouncements,” he said of the new parliament which was also rejected by Colombia, Brazil and Uruguay. Members of the Lima Group, consisting of more than a dozen Latin American nations and Canada, said they did “not recognize the result of an election” that violates the National Assembly’s “constitutional right to meet without intimidation or interference” to elect its president and governing board. A total 256 of the National Assembly’s 277 seats are in the hands of Maduro’s United Socialist Party of Venezuela and its allies after December 6 elections boycotted by the opposition, who claimed fraud. The chamber, which has a five-year mandate, previously had an opposition majority with Guaido as its speaker since 2019. SOURCE: AFP

TIME FOR RETREAT?

After eight years of Mali campaign, France seeks exit strategy

EIGHT years after France sent troops to Mali to prevent jihadists from overrunning the country, it faces tough choices over how to keep pursuing Islamist extremists without becoming bogged down in a potentially unwinnable war. Five French soldiers have been killed by roadside bombs in Mali over the past 10 days, bringing to 50 the number of troops killed across the Sahel since France launched a campaign to clear northern Mali of jihadists in January 2013. The latest victims included Sergeant Yvonne Huynh, the first female soldier killed since the French intervention began. Her death Saturday, claimed by a group linked to al-Qaeda, coincided with a massacre across the border in western Niger, where unidentified gunmen killed around 100 villagers in one of the region’s worst atrocities. These deaths -- and disputed claims Tuesday from villagers in central Mali that up to 20 wedding guests were killed in an air strike -- have clouded recent successes chalked up by France’s 5,100-member Barkhane counterterrorism force and its African partners. NORTH WEST POINT IMMIGRATION DETENTION CENTRE

Australia vows to ‘restore order’ on immigration detention island

UNREST broke out at an Australian island immigration detention centre, authorities and NGOs said Wednesday following reports the Christmas Island facility had been set alight by frustrated detainees. The Australian Border Force said an operation was underway “to restore order after a disturbance” at the North West Point Immigration Detention Centre on the Australian territory in the Indian Ocean. “A small number of detainees caused some damage to the facility overnight and continue to be non-compliant,” the government agency said in a statement, adding there were no reports of any injuries. Advocacy group Refugee Action Coalition said reports from inside the centre suggested two compounds had been set ablaze overnight Tuesday into

Wednesday as tensions boiled over. “While the extent of the damage is not known, the glare from the fires and the extent of the smoke in the air indicates the fires are substantial,” the group said. SOURCE: AFP

George W. Bush to attend Biden inauguration: spokesman REPUBLICAN former US president George W. Bush will attend the inauguration of Democrats Joe Biden and Kamala Harris in Washington on January 20, his chief of staff said Tuesday. “President and Mrs Bush look forward to returning to the Capitol for the swearing in of President Biden and Vice President Harris,” Freddy Ford tweeted. “Witnessing the peaceful transfer of power is a hallmark of our democracy that never gets old,” he added, in a seeming jab at President Donald Trump who refuses to concede defeat and has not confirmed if he will attend Biden’s inauguration. MOST OUTSTANDING VOTES IN CLOSE RACE

Democrat candidate claims victory in one of two crunch US Senate runoffs DEMOCRATS claimed victory in one of two crunch US Senate runoffs on Wednesday morning, with candidate Raphael Warnock saying he ‘believed he had won.’ Democrats were also hopeful of winning a second seat in the knife-edge runoff that will determine the balance of power in the US Senate under Joe Biden’s presidency. The hard-fought races have brought the international spotlight onto this southern state, nine weeks after the most tumultuous American election in two decades. Democrats need both their candidates, Jon Ossoff and Raphael Warnock, to prevail in order to snatch the Senate from the Republicans. Outgoing President Donald Trump’s party needs either Kelly Loeffler or David Perdue to hold their seat to preserve its majority. SOURCE: AFP

DPRK top leader reviews work as 8th Party Congress opens

THE eighth Congress of the Workers' Party of Korea of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) opened here on Tuesday, with top DPRK leader Kim Jong Un delivering an opening address, reported official media on Wednesday.

The congress was convened in order to comprehensively and strictly review the work of the party's central committee, clearly reconfirm the exact orientation and duty in its struggle for winning a bigger victory in the socialist cause and take measures for substantial improvement, the official Korean Central News Agency reported.

Kim delivered a report on the work of the party's seventh central committee on the first day of the eighth congress, it said. According to the report, the congress will "discuss and decide on a fresh line of struggle and

THE number of people using the shinkansen and conventional train services operated by Japan Railway companies plunged 68 per cent during the year-end and New Year period from a year earlier to 4,879,000, marking the lowest level since comparable data were made available in 1991, six JR companies said Wednesday. The margin of fall was the biggest on record as well, with JR companies citing the novel coronavirus pandemic and the suspension of some services due to heavy snow in Japan's northeast as reasons. In the 12-day period through Tuesday, the number of people riding the Hokkaido Shinkansen bullet train tumbled 72 per cent, the Tokaido Shinkansen was down 68 per cent and the Kyushu Shinkansen fell 60 per cent, operators said. According to East Japan Railway Co., one of the six operators, the number of passengers for services excluding the shinkansen and other long-distance carriers at JR Tokyo Station fell 53 per cent to 2.1 million. The number of passengers at JR Maihama Station, the closest station to Tokyo Disneyland and Tokyo DisneySea parks, in Chiba Prefecture, east of Tokyo, was down 56 per cent to 312,000. SOURCE: KYODO

DECARBONIZATION

China to launch carbon emissions trading scheme next month

CHINA'S delayed carbon trading system will start operating in February, the environment ministry has said, as the world's biggest polluter takes steps towards decarbonizing its economy by 2060. The ministry issued rules on Tuesday allowing provincial governments to set pollution caps for big power businesses for the first time.

Firms can buy the right to pollute from others who have a lower carbon footprint, but the programme is expected to drive down overall emissions by making it more costly to do so. "This is one of the most exciting developments for the world's largest carbon market in the recent rollercoaster year," said Zhang Jianyu, vice president of the Environmental Defence Fund China, which has consulted with the government on emissions trading. However, 60 per cent of power in China is still provided by coal despite ambitious renewable energy targets, and experts warn the powerful coal lobby will be pressing hard for favourable carbon caps. Under the new rules, more than 2,200 firms that emit over 26,000 tonnes of greenhouse gases per year can start trading their emission quotas from February 1. China's nationwide system is expected to eclipse that of the European Union to become the world's largest emissions trading scheme (ETS). Beijing has pledged to peak emissions before 2030 and become carbon neutral 30 years later. But it pared back initial plans to curb emissions from seven other industries including aviation, steel and petrochemical manufacturing. "When Europe started its trading scheme in 2005, there were issues in the first phase where members were kind of caving in to lobbying pressure," said Li Shuo from Greenpeace China. SOURCE: AFP

PRIVACY CONCERNS

Singapore admits police can access contact-tracing data

SINGAPORE has admitted data collected for contact-tracing can be accessed by police despite earlier assurances it would only be used to fight the coronavirus, sparking privacy concerns Tuesday about the scheme. The city-state has a programme called "Trace-Together" for tracking close contacts of Covid-19 patients, that works via both a phone app and a dongle. Take-up was initially slow due to privacy worries but rose to almost 80 per cent of residents after government assurances and a decision to make its use mandatory for accessing some public places like malls. However, a senior official admitted in parliament that police could

"obtain any data" -- including information gathered through the contact-tracing programme -- in the course of a criminal investigation. Foreign Minister Vivian Balakrishnan said later that, to his knowledge, police had so far only accessed contact-tracing data on one occasion, during a murder probe. SOURCE: AFP

Ten teams to compete in Myanmar National League I in 2021

A total of ten teams will participate in the 2021 season of the Myanmar National League I, according to the official decision made by the Myanmar National League Committee meeting held yesterday by videoconferencing.

The meeting was joined by U Zaw Zaw, President of the Myanmar Football Federation and Myanmar National League Committee, football officials, MNL Club owners and chairmen.

During the meeting, football officials focused on Myanmar football development and the current situation of the Myanmar National League football teams.

According to the unanimous decision of the meeting, there will be ten teams to be included in the Myanmar National League I and Shan United, Hantharwady United, Ayeyawady United, Yangon United, Yadanarbon FC, Ra-khine United, Sagaing United, Chinland FC and Myawaddy FC and ISPE FC, were selected according to the MNL Regulations.

Football authorities also decided to hold the MNL League II tournament with a total of eight teams, including Dagon FC.

The 2021 season of the MNL League I tourney is scheduled to hold from April to September, depending on the outbreak of the Covid-19 pandemic in 2021.

Next, the MNL League II tourney will be held from May to August, and the Bogyoke Aung San Shield football tournament will run from June to September.

In the meantime, Women's League football tournament will be launched from April to July, and Youth League (U-21) is scheduled to run from May to November, according to the MNL online meeting.—Lynn Thit (Tgi) ■ arrival the CFA slapped a 100 per cent tax on incoming foreigners, with the levy going to developing Chinese youth players.

Then last month the CFA said that overseas players cannot earn more than three million euros a year. Domestic players also saw their salaries capped.

“CSL club expenditure is about 10 times higher than South Korea’s K League and three times higher than Japan’s J-league,” said CFA president Chen Xuyuan.

“But our national team is lagging far behind. The bubbles not only affect the present of Chinese football, but also its future.”

All players must now have new contracts, according to the state news agency Xinhua, adding that teams can sign “supplemental agreements” with players whose existing deals were above the cap.

That means Oscar, the 29-year-old attacking midfielder, will continue to earn more than 20 million euros a year for the time being.—AFP ■

BEIJING — In January 2017 Brazil international Oscar moved from Chelsea to Shanghai SIPG for an Asian-record 60 million euros, prompting a warning from Arsene Wenger that Chinese clubs were distorting the global transfer market.

But four years later it is a very different story after the Chinese Football Association imposed a series of measures to cool extravagant spending in the Chinese Super League, markedly dimming its star power.

Solskjaer hits back at Klopp over penalty jibes

LONDON — Ole Gunnar Solskjaer on Tuesday hit back at Jurgen Klopp’s jibes about Manchester United’s penalty record as the Old Trafford boss claimed Premier League managers are trying to influence referees.

Liverpool boss Klopp highlighted the large number of penalties given to United since Solskjaer took charge in a rant that following the champions not getting a spot-kick in Monday’s defeat at Southampton.

Klopp claimed United have had more spot-kicks in two years under Solskjaer than Liverpool have in his entire five-and-a-half year reign. United have been awarded six league penalties this season compared to the five won by Klopp’s men.

They have been given 42 in all competitions since Solskjaer took over in December 2018 compared to Liverpool’s 19 in the same period.—AFP ■

Son, Sissoko send Spurs into League Cup final

LONDON — Son Heung-min fired Tottenham into the League Cup final as the South Korean’s decisive goal sealed a 2-0 win over Championship side Brentford on Tuesday.

Moussa Sissoko put Jose Mourinho’s team ahead in the semi-final at the Tottenham Hotspur Stadium.

But Tottenham were still searching for the knockout blow against spirited Brentford until Son netted with 20 minutes remaining.

Tottenham will face Manchester United or holders Manchester City, who meet in the second semi-final on Wednesday, at Wembley on April 25.

It will be the club’s first domestic final since losing the 2015 League Cup showpiece against Chelsea, and their first final in any competition since the 2019 Champions League defeat against Liverpool in Madrid.

Mourinho, appointed in November 2019, is hoping to lead Tottenham to their first major trophy since the 2008 League Cup.

He has already won the competition four times, landing his first silverware in English football in 2005 with Chelsea, where he won it twice more before a further success at Manchester United in 2017.
