The measures it is taking are even softer than the ones in other countries

The nation was peaceful during the first week of its administration, but riots and protests have been occurring since the second week. Those demonstrations are caused by the persons who are disgruntled by the action taken against the vote-rigging amidst the COVID-19 prevention and containment restrictions. The Myanmar Police Force is controlling the situation by using minimum force and through the least harmful means. The MPF is doing its work in accordance with democracy practices and the measures it is taking are even softer than the ones in other countries.

I also want other teachers to return to work from CDM. We all are responsible for the development of our region and people.

By Nay Chi Oo

CDM movement is actually to manipulate the life of innocent civil servants for politics. It is a movement to complicate social life and politics. It is to destroy the lives of innocent young employees. It is to push the life of active and young public servants to darkness.

However, we have heard the voice of some civil servants who did not join the CDM movement with the conscious decision as below.

A judicial staff

I am a judicial staff. I am Daw Thuzar Aung (not her real name). I work as the Deputy Judge of the Township. I am currently on duty in Shan State. I was in Yangon before and I was transferred here quite recently. I have been serving the country for over 20 years. I think the employee should stay as an employee and I do not like to mix the duty of work with politics. Our work is our profession and it was not easy to get this job. I had to get the relevant law degree and also had to study to become proficient in various legal affairs. I had to try very hard to get to this level. As it was not easy for me to get this job, it would be a loss for me if I became jobless due to CDM. Therefore, I do not agree with joining CDM. I would like to suggest to other judicial staff like me to return to work in time even if they joined CDM. It is very difficult to get a job these days even for an ordinary employee. It is better to work and live peacefully. I have two daughters and I work for my elders too. I do not have any other work than this. It will be difficult for me if something happens when I join CDM. That is why I believe it is the right choice to work for our work.

A teacher

My name is Daw Tin Tin Ei (not her real name). I am a middle-class teacher in Rakhine State. I have been a teacher for 15 years and currently, I am preparing for the reopening of schools. I heard that some teachers are participating in the CDM movement. As for me, I have decided not to join CDM since its start. As I become older, I do not want to lose my service term. If something happens, no one can guarantee. I think the staff should stay as staff. I have a son and a daughter and I have responsibilities to take care of them. I make the living only by being a teacher and I am so scared CDM would harm my work. We have to be loyal to our work. It is not only our family who gets hurt when we join CDM, but our superiors are also embarrassed.

I make the living only by being a teacher and I am so scared CDM would harm my work. We have to be loyal to our work. Thank you.

It is right. Buddha, himself, said it is a blessing to have an uncomplicated job. Everyone should work in a straightforward manner. It is the best. In other words, it is a blessing. As the CDM movement confused the responsibilities of employees and the situation of the State, it cannot be said an uncomplicated work. Hence, it is best for employees to avoid the CDM and it is the best choice to return to work in order to live peacefully.

“Hundi” businesses exploit benefits for border trade as private banks shutter

THE closure of private banks forced the traders to turn to the operators running ‘hundi’, an informal money transfer system, to make transactions in the border trade, said U Min Khaing, chair of Myanmar Corn Export Association.

At present, the Myawady border does not have trade barriers except transaction problem triggered by the shutdown of the private banks, he continued.

“Trade is regularly flowing in and out of the country. What a problem is that we cannot claim income through a legitimate financial market during the meantime. Now, the trade is carried out through hundi operators. The closure of formal financial markets except the state-owned banks render the cash flow difficulties,” U Min Khaing stressed.

“Remittance cannot be done through the private banks and so, the traders use hundi service. It is okay for big cities like Yangon and Mandalay. They are not enough for security whatever. Bank services are much better than hundi. For an instance, we can withdraw K500 million immediately at the private bank. However, withdrawal through hundi operators takes time for such a big amount of money,” he elaborated.

Myanmar is currently shipping about 5,000-6,000 tonnes of corns to Thailand through the Myawady border every day. Myanmar is allowed for corn export between 1 February and 31 August with Form-D, under zero tariff. Myanmar corn exports were exempted from tax between February and August. Thailand imposed a 73 percent of tax on corn import to protect the rights of their growers if the corns are imported during the corn season of Thailand, under the notification of the World Trade Organization regarding corn import of Thailand.—NN/GNLM
Towards a peaceful and brighter future in unity

By Lay Lay Nwe

The unscrupulous persons locked the door of an office that did not join CDM, blocked the public roads with car tyres, trees, concrete blocks and set fire to the car tyres. They also destroyed the CCTVs, vehicles and also attacked the security forces. Although they shout out democracy, they brazenly commit destructive elements that run against democracy culture.

DIFFERENCE

According to democratice nature, everyone has their rights to opinions, decision, feeling and stance. These differentes are the different essences of democracy and so the people should know its value.

Therefore, people should take lessons from the past like getting negative things from the instigation and should do good things for others with great goodwill or love to reach a perfect future.

Fishery exports slide to $354.6 mln in 5 months this FY

EXPORT earnings from the fisheries sector during the period between 1 October and 19 February in the financial year 2020-2021 touched a low of US$354.6 million, a decrease of $32.6 million from the year ago period, according to statistics released by the Commerce Ministry.

The figures stood at just $387.25 million during a year ago period.

Myanmar Fisheries Federation (MFF) expected to earn more than $800 million from fishery exports in the FY2020-2021 and it reached a target.

Myanmar exports fisheries products, such as fish, prawns, and crabs, to markets in 40 countries, including China, Saudi Arabia, the US, Japan, Singapore, Thailand, and countries in the European Union.

Myanmar’s fishery exports have slightly declined over the past months, owing to the COVID-19 impacts and current political conditions.

Additionally, the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) and the World Health Organization (WHO) issued guidelines to ensure food safety during the COVID-19 pandemic in April 2020.

The permitted companies are advised to carry out food safety plans, follow the guidelines of WHO and FAO, formulate the safety management system and suspend the exports if any suspicious foodborne virus or virus infection risk are found in the products. They can resume the exports once the products meet food safety criteria set by the General Administration of Customs of the People Republic of China (GACC).

China is the second-largest buyer of Myanmar’s fishery products, accounting for US$254 million out of the overall fishery export value of $850 million in the financial year 2019-2020.

The federation expects to reach a fishery export target of US$1 billion in the current FY 2020-2021.

The MFF is making concerted efforts to increase fishery export earnings by developing fish farming lakes that meet international standards and adopting advanced fishing technologies.

To ensure food safety, the foreign market requires suppliers to obtain Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points (HACCP) and Good Aquaculture Practices (GAP) certificates.

To meet international market standards, fishery products must be sourced only from hatcheries that are compliant with GAP. The MFF is working with fish farmers, processors, and the Fisheries Department under the Ministry of Agriculture, Livestock, and Irrigation to develop the GAP system.

Processors can screen fishery products for food safety at ISO-accredited laboratories under the Fisheries Department.

There are 480,000 acres of fish and prawn breeding farms across the country and more than 120 cold-storage facilities in Myanmar.

Myanmar exported 340,000 tonnes of fishery products worth $530 million in the 2012-2013FY, 330,000 tonnes worth $480 million in the 2014-2015FY, 360,000 tonnes worth $500 million in the 2015-2016FY, 430,000 tonnes worth $600 million in the 2016-2017FY, 560,000 tonnes worth $700 million in the 2017-2018FY, 580,000 tonnes worth over $730 million in the 2018-2019FY and $847.5 million, according to the Commerce Ministry.

An MFF official said the federation had asked the government to tackle problems faced in the export of farm-raised fish and prawns through G2G pacts and ensured smooth freight movement between countries to bolster exports.

Myanmar’s economy is more dependent on the agricultural sector to a large extent. Also, the fisheries sector contributes a lot to the national gross domestic product (GDP). Its fishery production including shrimps and saltwater and freshwater fish are far better than the regional countries. If the country can boost processing technology, it will contribute to the country’s economy and earn more income for those stakeholders in the supply chain, Yangon Region Fisheries Department stated. — KK/GNLM
Tokyo Gas allies with 14 firms to promote LNG emission offsets

A group of 15 Japanese firms including Tokyo Gas Co. and Isuzu Motors Ltd. on Monday formed an alliance to promote so-called carbon-neutral liquefied natural gas as a step to offset climate change-causing emissions.

The launch comes as Japan has pledged to bring its carbon dioxide emissions to net zero by 2050 and companies explore ways to meet the goal.

“Even if we aim to realize a hydrogen-based or net zero (carbon) society, CO2 emissions are increasing even now,” Tokyo Gas Executive Vice-President Kunio Nohata said at a joint press conference in Tokyo with other executives of the companies.

Carbon-neutral LNG involves energy suppliers engaging in green projects such as reforestation to offset CO2 emissions produced in the process of gas extraction, liquefaction, transport and actual use.

Tokyo Gas has begun procuring LNG from Shell Eastern Petroleum or coal. Still, reducing the costs associated with offsetting LNG emissions remains a challenge.

Isuzu, the maker of trucks and buses, has already introduced vehicles that run on compressed natural gas. The automaker will first use LNG at a refuelling station in Kanagawa Prefecture, near Tokyo, according to Tetsuya Ikemoto, an Isuzu senior executive officer.—Kyodo News

Vodafone Towers unit set for €14.7bn valuation

BRITISH mobile phone giant Vodafone on Tuesday announced the price range for the upcoming German stock market flotation of its towers business, valuing the unit at up to €14.7 billion.

The float of up to one-quarter of Vantage Towers comes amid increasing demand for mobile telecommunications connectivity across Europe, driven by data growth, 5G roll-out and regulatory coverage obligations.

Mobile phone giants are also floating or selling off their tower businesses in order to slash debt.

German-headquartered Vodafone is the world’s biggest tower company, with commitments of €500 million and €450 million, respectively.—AFP

Pakistani Nobel laureate Malala Yousafzai signs Apple TV deal

PAKISTANI activist Malala Yousafzai, who won the Nobel Peace Prize as a teenager after surviving a Taliban assassination attempt, has signed a deal with Apple TV+ that will see her produce dramas and documentaries that focus on women and children.

The multi-year partnership would “draw on her ability to inspire people around the world”, the company said in a statement, adding that content would also include animation and children’s series.

“Im grateful for the opportunity to support women, young people, writers, and artists in reflecting the world as they see it,” the 23-year-old was quoted as saying.

Yousafzai earned the wrath of the Taliban as a 10-year-old in rural northwest Pakistan when she began campaigning for education rights for girls.

At the time, the Pakistani Taliban had gained a significant foothold in the Swat Valley, imposing a fundamentalist version of Islam on areas they controlled — banning education for girls and employment for women.

Yousafzai drew international attention with a series of blogs and articles she wrote about everyday life and hopes for a better future, but her fame incensed the Taliban, whose leadership ordered her murder.

In October 2012, a Taliban assassin shot the then-15-year-old as she rode home on a bus from school. The bullet struck near her left eye, went through her neck and lodged in her shoulder.

She recovered after months of treatment at home and abroad before co-writing a best-selling memoir titled “I am Malala”, which drew even more international attention.—AFP

China OKs world’s largest free trade deal including Japan, ASEAN

THE CHinese government said Monday that it has formally ratified the world’s largest free trade deal signed last year by 15 Asia-Pacific countries, including Japan, South Korea and the 10-member Association of Southeast Asian Nations.

China hopes other countries will speed up their processes to put into force the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership, Commerce Minister Wang Wentao told reporters on the sidelines of the annual session of the National People’s Congress, the nation’s parliament.

In an attempt to boost its economic influence in the region, China has also recently expressed its eagerness to join the Trans-Pacific Partnership free trade pact, from which the United States withdrew in January 2017.

The RCEP covering a third of global trade and population, involves ASEAN, Australia, China, Japan, South Korea and South Korea. ASEAN groups Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Myanmar, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam.

The deal will take effect after ratification by six ASEAN members and three of the other countries. Last month, the corporate bodies of shareholder resolutions trying to push the banks to actually end financing of fossil fuels.

NatWest chief executive Alison Rose has put the climate high on her agenda by pledging to end loans for coal projects by 2030. Brazil judge clears ex-leader Lula to run again in 2022

A Brazilian Supreme Court judge on Monday overturned the graft convictions against former president Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva, clearing the way for the left-wing leader to run in the 2022 presidential election. Justice Edison Fachin overturned all convictions against the popular-but-tarnished ex-president (2003-2010), stemming from a probe into a massive corruption scheme centred on Brazilian state oil company Petrobras.

Fachin ruled the court in the southeastern city of Curitiba that convicted Lula “lacked jurisdiction,” and sent a total of four related cases against him to a federal court in the capital, Brasilia.

Lula, 75, regains the right to run for office unless the convictions are reinstated.

The decision, which was procedural, did not go into the merits of the cases.

The prosecutor general’s office said it would appeal.

The full Supreme Court could overturn Fachin’s ruling, though legal experts said that was unlikely. —AFP

Syrian heritage suffered ‘cultural apocalypse’

A decade of war has not only destroyed Syria’s present and poisoned its future, it has damaged beyond repair some of its fabled past.

Syria was an archaeologist’s paradise, a world heritage home to some of the oldest and best-preserved jewels of ancient civilizations.

The conflict that erupted in 2011 is arguably the worst of the 21st century so far on a humanitarian level, but the wanton destruction of heritage was possibly the worst in generations. In a few years, archaeological sites were damaged, museums were looted and old city centres were levelled.

Standing in front of a restored artefact in the Palmyra museum he ran for 20 years, Khalil al-Hariri remembers the trauma of having to flee the desert city and its treasures as they fell into the hands of the so-called Islamic State group. “I have lived many difficult days. We were besieged several times in the museum,” he said, recounting how he and his team stayed behind as late as possible to ferry artefacts to safety.

“But the most difficult day of my life was the day I returned to Palmyra and saw the broken antiquities and the museum in shambles,” said Hariri, now 60 years old. “They broke and smashed all the faces of statues that remained in the museum and which we could not save. Some of them can be restored, but others have completely crumbled.”

‘Venice of the Sands’

Palmyra is a majestic ancient city whose influence peaked towards the end of the Roman empire and was famously ruled by Queen Zenobia in the 3rd century.

Its imposing kilometre-long colonnade is unique and one of Syria’s most recognizable landmarks. When IS jihadists hunted into Palmyra in May 2015 to expand the “caliphate” they had proclaimed over parts of Syria and Iraq a year earlier, the outcry was global. —AFP

Eritrea’s murky role in Ethiopia conflict

Eritrea is a bitter enemy of the Tigray People’s Liberation Front (TPLF) -- the party which dominated Ethiopian politics for nearly three decades before falling by the wayside with the appointment of Aby Ahmed as prime minister in 2018.

Animality

However the current leaders of Eritrea and the TPLF were not always foes.

In 1991 they were allies when a coalition of Ethiopian fighters led by the TPLF ousted dictator Mengistu Hailemariam with the key support of separatist rebels from Eritrea -- then still a part of Ethiopia.

Eritrea gained its independence in 1993, rendering Ethiopia landlocked as it lost ports. Over the weekend, the M2D, which includes Sonko’s Pastef party, had called for three days of large-scale demonstrations against his arrest, starting Monday. —AFP

Senegal opposition group drops protest call

A Senegalese opposition group on Tuesday suspended calls for massive protests in the West African state after a judge freed opposition leader Ousmane Sonko from detention.

“The demonstrations scheduled for March 9 and 10 are suspended,” the Movement for Defence of Democracy, or M2D, said in a statement.

It added it would outline plans for future protests at a press conference on Tuesday.

Usually seen as a haven of stability of a volatile region, Senegal was rocked by deadly protests over the weekend, sparked on Wednesday by the arrest of Sonko, a government critic.

Over the weekend, the M2D, which includes Sonko’s Pastef party, had called for three days of large-scale demonstrations against his arrest, starting Monday. —AFP

Mexican election season brings wave of violence

MEXICO is reeling from a surge in political violence ahead of upcoming elections, with dozens of politicians murdered at the hands of criminal gangs vying for influence.

At least 66 Mexican politicians have been murdered since September in a bloodstained electoral campaign, including two mayoral candidates killed on the same day last week.

Kidnapping, threats against relatives, arson attacks on homes and extortion are also among the tactics used by drug cartels and other crime gangs to entrench their power.

“Criminal organizations seek to strengthen their operations through intimidation and increasing their political influence,” Security Minister Rosa Rodriguez said. —AFP
Coronavirus set to dominate Dutch elections

DUTCH voters head to the polls next week in the first major test of a European government’s coronavirus policies in 2021, with Prime Minister Mark Rutte on course to win a fourth term in office.

Despite the Netherlands recently suffering the worst riots for decades over its Covid curfew, Rutte leads in the polls as the Dutch appear to rally around the flag after a year of the pandemic.

The virus has dominated the debate ahead of the March 17 vote, leaving little space for other issues such as the anti-immigration message of the anti-Islam, EU-bashing opposition leader Geert Wilders.

Some polling stations will open on March 15 and 16 for the elderly and Covid-vulnerable people to vote.

A total of 37 parties, the most for decades, are competing for 150 seats in the Dutch lower house of parliament, in a crowded political landscape that usually produces unwieldy coalitions.

Rutte’s liberal VVD (People’s Party for Freedom and Democracy) currently has 33 seats and leads a four-party coalition along with the conservative Christian Democratic Appeal (CDA) and Christian Union, and the centre-left D66.

‘Rally around the flag’

The elections will be closely watched in Europe as the Netherlands is the eurozone’s fifth biggest economy, and the strongest voice besides Germany for financial discipline.

One of Europe’s longest serving leaders, Rutte is now in his 11th year in power.

Belgium carries out vast drugs sting operation

Police in Belgium staged a vast sting operation against drug traffickers Tuesday, with the main focus on the port of Antwerp, a major hub for Europe’s cocaine trade.

More than 1,500 police conducted some 200 searches simultaneously since 5 am (0300 GMT) in “one of the biggest operations ever organized on Belgian territory”, a spokesman for the federal prosecutor’s office told AFP.

The operation is being steered by the federal prosecutor’s office and the Antwerp public prosecutor’s office. According to broadcaster RTBF, the operation mainly targets drug traffickers in Antwerp, particularly those involved in the cocaine trade, as well as the broader organized crime gangs connected to them.

The federal prosecutor’s office does not plan to release further information, pending the outcome of the operation and a possible press conference for Wednesday morning in Brussels.

An all-time record of 65.5 tonnes of cocaine were seized last year at the Port of Antwerp, Europe’s second-biggest port.

The drugs come from Latin America - principally Colombia, Brazil and Ecuador - and are usually found hidden away in cargo containers offloaded from ships.—AFP

Desert country Jordan aims for green with 10-million tree campaign

ON a bare hill in Jordan’s verdant Ajloun region, dozens of people plant saplings as part of a reforestation effort that aims to reach 10 million trees in 10 years.

“The trees in our region are beautiful,” says 11-year-old Mohammed al-Ananza, helping his father Mustafa plant a carob sapling.

“It’s a real shame that we have lost so many to fires... We should work together to protect them,” he says as they work near the Kufranjah forest north of the capital Amman.

Forests make up only 1% of the desert kingdom’s territory, according to the agriculture ministry, though Jordan also has an estimated 23 million orchard trees, half of them olives.

Forest fires strike almost every year in the Middle Eastern country due to high summer temperatures, in a trend scientists expect to intensify with climate change.

The blazes are often started by picnickers’ barbeques or carelessly discarded cigarettes.

There were 499 fires in wood and forest areas last year alone, according to the agriculture ministry.—AFP

Anger over lies which led to killing of French teacher

THE lawyer for the family of beheaded French teacher Samuel Paty expressed her anger on Tuesday over lies spread on social media which led to the murder.

Paty, a secondary school teacher in a town near Paris, was killed last October by a radical Chechen teenager after showing cartoons of the Prophet Mohammed to students during a civics class about free speech.

A 13-year-old schoolgirl has confessed to police that she lied about being in attendance and falsely accused Paty of asking Muslim children to leave the class while she showed the pictures.

Her father, who has been charged in connection with the murder, posted several incendiary videos on Facebook afterwards based on his daughter’s testimony which identified Paty.

“Everything in the investigation showed very early that she lied,” the Paty family’s lawyer Virginie Le Roy told RTL radio on Tuesday.

She said she was “sceptical” of the version of events recounted by the girl who has said she saw herself as a spokesperson for other pupils and wanted to impress her father.

“A spokesperson of what? Of lies, of events that never happened? This explanation does not convince me and makes me rather angry because the facts are serious, they’re tragic,” Le Roy added.—AFP

More than 1,500 police conducted some 200 searches simultaneously since 5 am (0300 GMT) in “one of the biggest operations ever organized on Belgian territory”, a spokesman for the federal prosecutor’s office told AFP.

The operation is being steered by the federal prosecutor’s office and the Antwerp public prosecutor’s office. According to broadcaster RTBF, the operation mainly targets drug traffickers in Antwerp, particularly those involved in the cocaine trade, as well as the broader organized crime gangs connected to them.

The federal prosecutor’s office does not plan to release further information, pending the outcome of the operation and a possible press conference for Wednesday morning in Brussels.

An all-time record of 65.5 tonnes of cocaine were seized last year at the Port of Antwerp, Europe’s second-biggest port.

The drugs come from Latin America - principally Colombia, Brazil and Ecuador - and are usually found hidden away in cargo containers offloaded from ships.—AFP

Desert country Jordan aims for green with 10-million tree campaign

ON a bare hill in Jordan’s verdant Ajloun region, dozens of people plant saplings as part of a reforestation effort that aims to reach 10 million trees in 10 years.

“The trees in our region are beautiful,” says 11-year-old Mohammed al-Ananza, helping his father Mustafa plant a carob sapling.

“It’s a real shame that we have lost so many to fires... We should work together to protect them,” he says as they work near the Kufranjah forest north of the capital Amman.

Forests make up only 1% of the desert kingdom’s territory, according to the agriculture ministry, though Jordan also has an estimated 23 million orchard trees, half of them olives.

Forest fires strike almost every year in the Middle Eastern country due to high summer temperatures, in a trend scientists expect to intensify with climate change.

The blazes are often started by picnickers’ barbeques or carelessly discarded cigarettes.

There were 499 fires in wood and forest areas last year alone, according to the agriculture ministry.—AFP

Anger over lies which led to killing of French teacher

THE lawyer for the family of beheaded French teacher Samuel Paty expressed her anger on Tuesday over lies spread on social media which led to the murder.

Paty, a secondary school teacher in a town near Paris, was killed last October by a radical Chechen teenager after showing cartoons of the Prophet Mohammed to students during a civics class about free speech.

A 13-year-old schoolgirl has confessed to police that she lied about being in attendance and falsely accused Paty of asking Muslim children to leave the class while she showed the pictures.

Her father, who has been charged in connection with the murder, posted several incendiary videos on Facebook afterwards based on his daughter’s testimony which identified Paty.

“Everything in the investigation showed very early that she lied,” the Paty family’s lawyer Virginie Le Roy told RTL radio on Tuesday.

She said she was “sceptical” of the version of events recounted by the girl who has said she saw herself as a spokesperson for other pupils and wanted to impress her father.

“A spokesperson of what? Of lies, of events that never happened? This explanation does not convince me and makes me rather angry because the facts are serious, they’re tragic,” Le Roy added.—AFP

Fans likely to be barred from Olympic torch relay start: Report

TOKYO — The starting ceremony for this month’s Olympic torch relay will likely be held without spectators, a Japanese newspaper reported on Tuesday (Mar 9), but fans will still be able to line the route.

The Yomiuri Shimbun daily reported that organizers fear crowding at the Mar 25 event in Fukushima, and will probably bar the 3,000 spectators initially planned.

Tokyo 2020 organizers did not immediately respond to a request for comment on the report, which cited an unnamed source. The organizers have already laid out strict rules for the virus-deemed relay, which cited an unnamed source.

Tokyo 2020 organizers are battling perception that the relay could also be suspended if there is overcrowding.

Organizers are battling persistent doubts about whether the Games can be held safely this summer and have unveiled a rulebook with various virus countermeasures.

They are set to decide this month on whether foreign fans will be able to attend, with limits on overall spectator numbers to be set next month. —AFP

Expert panel begins debating cause of Maradona’s death

BUENOS Aires—A panel of 20 experts began a debate on Monday into the cause of Argentine football icon Diego Maradona’s death to determine if there was negligence on the part of health care professionals.

Maradona, who was 60, died of a heart attack on November 25, just six weeks after undergoing brain surgery on a blood clot.

Investigators are looking into the health treatment he received prior to his death to determine whether or not to bring a case of wrongful death, a conviction for which would result in a prison sentence of up to 15 years. The panel of experts, made up of 10 official specialists and 10 more selected by the interested parties, is due to deliver its findings in two or three weeks.

It was convened by Argentina’s public prosecutor.

Maradona’s neurosurgeon Leopoldo Luque, psychiatrist Agustina Cosachov and psychologist Carlos Diaz are under investigation as well as two nurses, a nursing coordinator and a medical coordinator.

Two of the football great’s daughters – Gianinna, 31, and Jana, 24 – have accused Luque of responsibility in Maradona’s deteriorating health.

Maradona underwent surgery on November 3, just four days after he celebrated his 60th birthday at the club he coached, Gimnasia y Esgrima.

However, he appeared in poor health then and had trouble speaking. —AFP

Messi to Paris: Barcelona’s nightmare, and PSG’s unattainable dream?

PARIS—As Lionel Messi comes to Paris this week with Barcelona in the Champions League, the inevitable temptation is to think ahead to next season and wonder if the Argentine might be a regular fixture in the French capital.

That remains the nightmare scenario for Barcelona fans, even if their new president Joan Laporta announced following his election victory on Sunday that he was “convinced he wants to stay”.

Barcelona, like Real Madrid, fear the threat to their status at the top of the European game posed by Qatar-owned PSG and Abu Dhabi-owned Manchester City. On the evidence of the first leg of their Champions League last-16 tie, PSG have bypassed Barca. Their 4-1 win at the Camp Nou means it would take a stunning turnaround in Wednesday’s return to stop them reaching the quarter-finals. A move to one of Spain’s giants was long seen as the pinnacle for any player, but times have changed, as proven by Neymar’s transfer to Paris for a world record 222 million euros ($264m at the time) in 2017.

PSG and City are probably the only likely destinations for Messi should he leave. But could a switch to Paris really happen? ‘Reserved a seat just in case’.

“Great players like Messi will always be on PSG’s list,” insisted the French champions’ sporting director Leonardo in a January interview with France Football magazine.

“We are sat at the big table with all those who are keeping a close eye on it. Well, we are not sat down yet, but we have reserved a seat just in case.” — AFP
