Many countries facing challenges related to poverty employ more child labour at workplaces: Vice-Senior General

THE Myanmar national committee on child labour eradication held the fourth coordination meeting as Zoom meeting at the office of the State Administration Council at 2 pm yesterday, with an address delivered by Chairman of the national committee Vice-Chairman of the State Administration Council Deputy Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services Commander-in-Chief (Army) Vice-Senior General Soe Win.

In his address, the Vice-Senior General said eradicating child labour is a global issue of the current era. It is necessary to implement the long term project, which is a big challenge for the country, by accepting it as a national duty. He pledged to forge friendly relations with all countries while inviting foreign investments to develop the economic sector further. Investments will be handled under the existing laws without harming anything.

He stressed the need for respective work committees to hold coordination meetings among them. They must accept it as a national duty as Myanmar's national action plan on eradicating child labour is to protect the social rights of work-

According to the 2017 census of the International Labour Organization, a total of 218 million children between the ages of 5 and 17 worked throughout the world, some 152 million — 88 million males and 64 million females of whom were child labour. Among them, about 73 million children worked at dangerous workplaces. The world's census stated that there were 152 million child workers — 72.1 million in African countries, 62.1 million in Asia-Pacific region countries, 10.7 million in countries of America, 1.2 million in Arab countries and 5.5 million in European and the Middle East countries. In accord with the 2017 report on youth policy of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar, as the number of workable youth across the world reached some 1 billion of the global population, accounting for 18 per cent, the world's youths face advancement of economic, social and technical affairs, cultural gap and diversities among regional countries and social organizations. As the development role of youths and children are of great importance in shaping the future image of a country, youths and children are invaluable resources of the country.

The majority of regional developing countries employ youths and children who may contribute to productivity as employees. Most of them face challenges related to poverty and employ more child labour at workplaces. Development of State economy, improvement of living standard and promotion of education are directly related to the main factors of employing child labour. Moreover, these main factors are concerned with consequences of global climate change happening in today's global countries, such as food insufficiency based on storms, flooding, droughts, forest fire and earthquakes and poverty and migration depending on some internal conflicts. Due to socio-economic crises, it is regrettable that child labour, youths and young workers miss the chance to choose learning opportunity for their education. However, they are employed as child labour in the majority of developing countries.

The Vice-Senior General urged region and state administration councils, including Nay Pyi Taw Council, ministries, social partnership organizations, NGOs and INGOs, to steadfastly implement the Myanmar child labour eradication project as a national duty by considering all sectors. The majority of children are working at all sorts of jobs such as house workers, seafood industries, garment and footwear factories so as to provide assistance to families because they are poor and lack learning opportunity.

Children are facing pressure to work for earning income without fail. Generally, they are working as child labour in the agriculture, service and industrial sectors. Hence, the national child labour eradication action plan was drawn and implemented to protect the children from workplaces. The Myanmar national committee on child labour eradication was formed with 37 members in 2018, holding three national committee meetings. The Myanmar national child labour eradication action plan was approved. Eight work committees were formed, and each committee is implementing the plan in their respective sectors. The State Administration Council will constitute the national committee with 39 members led by the Vice-Chairman of the State Administration Council with the aim of continuously carrying out eradication of child labour in Myanmar with momentum since its assumption of the State duty.

Being a developing country, Myanmar faces difficulties and criticism of the international community in mitigating the number of child labour as lesser job opportunities and lesser number of family members to earn come for their basic needs is main factors to come out child labour. However, Myanmar applying its capability as much as possible pledged to prioritize solving the issue of child labour effectively. Child labour hits the generalized system of preferences-GPS of big developed countries of the world to some extent, while GPS is an effective aid for the employment opportunity and economic growth of the State. In an effort to reduce child labour, just removal of children from the workplaces is impossible to eradicate child labour. As such, only when it is necessary to create chances for all school-age children to attend the schools free of charge, encourage the strengthening of civil society organizations taking care of children and alleviation of poverty through earning increased income for families, can the underage children be reduced from workplaces.

The Vice-Senior General stressed that today's meeting needs to approve the work committees of the action plan and adopt the undertakings of work committees and future plans. Region and state administration councils, including Nay Pyi Taw Council, must continuously carry out the action plan and prioritize the tasks to initiate eradication of child labour from their regions by taking education for children, job opportunities, family situation and poverty into consideration in Yangon, Bago and Ayeyawady regions and Mon and Kayin states that will implement the first five-year short-term project. He urged all to seek constructive ways and means for the successful implementation of child labour eradication.

It found 7,886 remaining ballots and another bag containing 8,322 ballots -- 8,320 fine ballots and 2 damaged ballots. Moreover, a total of 4,750 ballots were return to the township election sub-commission by the officials of No (19) polling station and unknown polling station from Ywar Bae Ward after the election.

Press Release

Re-invitation to Myanmar citizens who arrive in various regions for many reasons

1. Some student youths, State service personnel and citizens, evaded to areas of EAOs and foreign countries with worries because of incitement and intimidation of NLD members, the extremists who support that party, CRPH unlawful association, incitement of CDM and persons and organizations at home and abroad not wishing to restore peace and stability of the State since after 1 February 2021 when the Tatmadaw assumed the State responsibility.
2. They are further worried about the dictatorship statement and speeches of CRPH unlawful association and some relevant persons. As they face no security guarantee and difficulties in socio-economic life in their areas, they wish to return to their native lands.
3. As those who evaded from their native areas are also citizens, the State Administration Council will arrange their returns from evaded areas to various regions of Myanmar.
4. Information was released that if those who evaded to various areas except the persons who committed any kinds of crime wish to return to their native lands in Myanmar of their own accord, the citizens abroad are to contact nearby ward, village, township and district administration bodies and relevant embassies, military attaché offices and consulates without facing action taken in accord with the law.

Handle trade volume to increase income for the State

NOWADAYS, Myanmar mainly exports rice, beans and pulses, maize and other agricultural products, export commodities from various sectors, and marine products in large volume to the international market through border and maritime trade routes for earning foreign exchange be inserted into the State fund as usual. Meanwhile, not only the government but the private sector also import various kinds of goods necessary for the use of the State and the people by spending foreign exchange.

As such, it is necessary often to adjust export and import goods in trade volume to be able to calculate the gross domestic product of the nation. By assessing the GDP of the country, Myanmar citizens and foreign investors can implement their plans to grasp investment opportunity for their businesses.

According to the temporary statistics within February and March 2021, border trade zones and camps handled export and import processes with US$1,774 million worth of export products and US$1,772 million worth of import goods. As a result, the government has managed more than US$2 million of trade surplus for two months.

Myanmar is sharing the border with five neighbouring countries, namely China, Thailand, Laos, India and Bangladesh. Among them, China is the largest foreign market for Myanmar. During February and March, Myanmar traded US$438 million worth of export products and US$171 million worth of import commodities, totalling US$609 million with China. In this regard, Muse border trade zone occupied 65 per cent of trade volume, Chinshwehaw 18 per cent, Kampaiti 10 per cent and Lwejel six per cent respectively.

To improve the economy not only for the State but also for the private sector, 18 border trade zones and camps, namely Muse, Lwejel, Kampaiti, Chinshwehaw, Kengtung, Tachilek, Myawady, Kawthoung, Myeik, Hteekhee, Mawtaung, Meisei, Sittway, Maungtaung, Tamu, Reed, Thantlang and Kenglek are handling export and import processes with counterpart cities from neighbouring countries.

Today is time to strive for the growth of the State economy. All the entire people should strive for raising export volume while reducing import volume in order to increase trade surplus.

Clot questions over AstraZeneca and J&J vaccine

THE Johnson & Johnson and AstraZeneca vaccines have come under suspicion of causing very rare but serious blood clots in a handful of cases among the millions vaccinated in the drive to bring the pandemic under control.

Here is what we know about the two vaccines, which are based on the same technology.

WHAT HAPPENED?

The European Medicines Agency (EMA) said on Tuesday that blood clots should be listed as a “very rare” side effect of the Johnson & Johnson coronavirus vaccine.

As of April 13, 2021, eight cases of blood clots were reported in the United States - all in patients under 60, mostly women - out of seven million people vaccinated.

Earlier this month, the EMA made the same recommendation for the vaccine made by Anglo-Swedish pharmaceutical company AstraZeneca.

For both vaccines, however, the EU medicines regulator stressed that overall benefits in preventing Covid-19 clearly outweighed the risks.

The clots occur in veins in the brain - called cerebral venous sinus thrombosis (CVST) - as well as the abdomen and arteries.

They are uncommon both for where they appear in the body and because they occur together with low levels of blood platelets, which help the blood to clot.

Paradoxically, this can mean the patient has both haemorrhages as well as blood clots.

There have been 287 cases of these atypical thromboses worldwide following AstraZeneca jabs, including 142 in the European Economic Area (the EU, Iceland, Norway and Liechtenstein), the EMA told AFP on Tuesday.

As with the J&J jab, most of these cases were in women under 60 and occurred within two weeks of vaccination.

US regulators have suspended the J&J vaccine and are set to announce a decision on Friday.

SUSPECTED CAUSES

Both of these vaccines - as well as the Russian Sputnik V jab - are based on a technique known as “viral vector”.

The vaccines use a common-cold causing adenovirus, modified so it can't replicate, as a “vector” to shuttle genetic instructions into human cells, telling them to create a protein of the coronavirus.

This trains the immune system to be ready for the live coronavirus.

AstraZeneca opted for a chimpanzee adenovirus, J&J for a human adenovirus.

“Whilst a causal link between certain Covid-19 vaccinations, platelet abnormalities and blood clots has not, so far, been confirmed, the index of suspicion is rising that these rare cases may be triggered by the adenovirus component of the AstraZeneca and J&J vaccines,” said Eleanor Riley, an immunology professor at Edinburgh University.

WHAT MECHANISM?

Although nothing has been proven, Peter Marks of the US Food and Drug Administration has said the “probable cause” of the clots could be an unusual reaction to the vaccines.

The FDA has also said that while in normal circumstances an anticoagulant drug called heparin is used to treat these blood clots, in this case administering heparin may be dangerous.

That might be because the disorder resembles a rare reaction to heparin itself, in which the body forms antibodies in response to the thinner, and in turn triggers platelets to form dangerous clots.

A team of German and Austrian scientists made the connection between this previously-known immune response to heparin and the AstraZeneca vaccine in March.

And the EMA said this was “one plausible explanation”, calling for more research.

BALANCING RISK

The European agency has said no specific risk factors for this type of reaction have been confirmed for the AstraZeneca vaccine, but different countries have opted to restrict access to the jab by age.

The reasoning is that the older people get, the more they risk developing a serious form of Covid, and the more it is in their interest to be vaccinated, despite potential side effects.

For example, Britain has said it will not administer AstraZeneca to the under 30s, while France is not using it on under 55s.

In the US, health authorities said the suspension of the J&J vaccine was “out of an abundance of caution”.

People who have had the shot within the past three weeks were asked to report to their doctors if they experience severe headaches, abdominal pain, leg pain, or shortness of breath.

Covid vaccine-makers largely protected on side effects

PHARMACEUTICAL companies making Covid vaccines are largely protected legally in the event of harmful side effects, like blood clots that have been linked to jabs from AstraZeneca and Johnson & Johnson.

However while some governments will pay compensation due to sufferers, others assume it is the responsibility of the companies even after drugs agencies back the vaccines.

Europe's drug regulator was set Tuesday to rule on the safety of the J&J single-shot vaccine after fears it could cause extremely rare clots, while the US will likely announce its verdict on the jab by Friday.

The European Medicines Agency has reviewed four cases —one fatal—of rare blood clots reported among people who got the shot.

The J&J vaccine concerns follow similar reports of blood clots in a very small number of people who received the AstraZeneca jab.

Outlined below are some of the geographical similarities and differences regarding potential legal fallout:

North America and the UK

The United States and the UK have limited the legal responsibility of pharma groups, in a move seen as helping to speed up production of vaccines.

In the US, the Public Readiness and Emergency Preparedness Act authorises the health secretary “to limit legal liability for losses relating to the administration of medical countermeasures such as diagnostics, treatments, and vaccines”.

This is “to encourage the expeditious development and deployment of medical countermeasures during a public health emergency”, the PREP Act adds.

The act also limits the individual liability of pharmaceutical executives, except “for death or serious physical injury caused by ‘willful misconduct’ — which can be difficult to prove according to lawyers.

In Canada, the government is creating a national compensation scheme for any medical fallout from Covid-19 vaccines.

Britain's government has removed a potentially heavy financial burden for drugs companies by applying its existing compensation programme for illnesses such as tuberculosis and measles also to the coronavirus.

Under the British scheme, a Vaccine Damage Payment in the event of severe disability rise to £120,000 ($165,000, 139,000 euros).

European Union

In the European Union, the situation differs in that legal responsibility lies with the companies.

“However, in certain, very specific circumstances, the companies may ask the member states to indemnify,” according to Stefan de Keersmaecker, a spokesman for the European Commission.

Any disagreement is resolved in court, he added.

According to Antonio Andrade, a lawyer for Portuguese firm Abreu, a vaccine-maker cannot be held responsible for any possible “side effects” flagged up, for example in a leaflet.

The EMA has already stated that the AstraZeneca vaccine could cause very rare blood clots in some recipients, causing some countries to stop giving it to people under a certain age.

Fishery exports plunge to $448.6 mln in H1

EXPORT earnings from the fisheries sector over the first half (1 Oct-2 Apr) of the financial year 2020-2021 touched a low of US$448.6 million, a decrease of $56.7 million from the year-ago period, according to statistics released by the Commerce Ministry.

The figures stood at $505.37 million during a year-ago period. Myanmar's fishery exports have slightly declined in H1, owing to the COVID-19 impacts and the current trade delay amid the political changes.

At present, the frozen fish export market in Mon State came to a halt. Therefore, some fish are processed into dried fish for the domestic market. Saltwater fishing businesses this year might suffer loss, a fishing entrepreneur said.

The current political climate negatively affects the fish market. Political stability plays a crucial role in economic growth, including the fishery sector.

Following the drop in exports, the prices of fish and prawn also drop in the domestic market.

Myanmar Fisheries Federation (MFF) expected to earn more than $800 million from fishery exports in the FY2019-2020, and it reached a target.

Myanmar exports fisheries products, such as fish, prawns, and crabs, to markets in 40 countries, including China, Saudi Arabia, the US, Japan, Singapore, Thailand, and countries in the European Union.

Additionally, Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) and World Health Organization (WHO) issued guidelines to ensure food safety during the COVID-19 pandemic in April 2020.

The permitted companies are advised to carry out food safety plans, follow the guidelines of WHO and FAO, formulate the safety management system and suspend the exports if any suspicious foodborne virus or virus infection risk are found in the products. They can resume the exports once the products meet food safety criteria set by the General Administration of Customs of the People Republic of China (GACC).

China is the second-largest buyer of Myanmar's fishery products, accounting for US$254 million out of the overall fishery export value of $850 million in the financial year 2019-2020.

The federation expects to reach a fishery export target of US$1 billion in the current FY2020-2021.

The MFF is making concerted efforts to increase fishery export earnings by developing fish farming lakes that meet international standards and adopting advanced fishing techniques.

The foreign market requires suppliers to obtain Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points (HACCP) and Good Aquaculture Practices (GAQP) certificates to ensure food safety.

Fishery products must be sourced only from hatcheries compliant with GAQP to meet international market standards. The MFF works with fish farmers, processors, and the Fisheries Department under the Ministry of Agriculture, Livestock, and Irrigation to develop the GAQP system.

Processors can screen fishery products for food safety at ISO-accredited laboratories under the Fisheries Department.

There are 480,000 acres of fish and prawn breeding farms across the country and more than 120 cold-storage facilities in Myanmar.

Myanmar exported 340,000 tonnes of fishery products worth $530 million in the 2013-2014FY, 330,000 tonnes worth $480 million in the 2014-2015FY, 360,000 tonnes worth $500 million in the 2015-2016FY, 430,000 tonnes worth $600 million in the 2016-2017FY, 560,000 tonnes worth $700 million in the 2017-2018FY, 580,000 tonnes worth over $730 million in the 2018-2019FY and $847.5 million, according to the Commerce Ministry.

An MFF official said the federation had asked the government to tackle problems faced in exporting farm-raised fish and prawns through G2G pacts and ensuring smooth freight movement between countries to bolster exports.

Myanmar's economy is more dependent on the agricultural sector to a large extent. Also, the fisheries sector contributes a lot to the national gross domestic product (GDP). Its fishery production, including shrimps and saltwater and freshwater fish, is far better than the regional ones. If the country can boost processing technology, it will contribute to its economy. It will also earn more income for the stakeholders in the supply chain, stated Yangon Region Fisheries Department. — KK/GNLM

Myanmar's border trade reaches $5.6 bln in first six months of FY MYANMAR' trade with foreign countries through border posts reached US$5.6 billion as of 2 April in the current financial year 2020-2021, which started in October, according to the figures released by the Ministry of Commerce.

During the period, the country's export via land borders amounted to $3.7 billion while its import shared $1.9 billion.

This FY's border trade down by over $264 million, compared to the same period of the last FY2020-2021 when it amounted to $5.9 billion, the Ministry's figures said.

Muse topped the list of border checkpoints with the most trade value of $2.5 billion, followed by Myawady with $729 million. The country conducts border trade with neighbouring China through Muse, Lwejel, Kampaiti, Chinshwehaw and Kengtung with Thailand via Tachilek, Myawady, Kawthoung, Myeik, Hteekhee, Mawtaung and Meisei borders, with Bangladesh via Sittway and Maung-taw and with India through Tamu and Reed checkpoints, respectively.

From 1 October to 2 April of this FY, the country's foreign trade has totalled over $7.8 billion while its sea trade valued at $4.1 billion, according to the Ministry's report. Myanmar mainly exports agricultural products, animal products, marine products, minerals, forest products, manufacturing goods, and others. In contrast, capital goods, intermediate goods and consumer goods are imported to the country. —ACM/GNLM

THE local and foreign investment mostly flow into industry, manufacturing, industrial zones and food production sectors in Bago Region. Currently, 135 foreign investments totalling US $2.3 billion and 40 investments made by Myanmar citizens totalling K977 billion were permitted in these sectors.

Eighty per cent of local and foreign investments were made near the vicinity of Bago Township. Currently, about 55,000 factory workers return to their work at Nyaung Inn Industrial Zone as there is peace and tranquillity in Bago Region.

At about 50 miles from Yangon, Bago Township, the commercial city of Myanmar, is a major transport hub. It is also located on the East/West Economic Corridor. It is the country's second-largest rice-produc-

EU unveils AI rules to temper Big Brother fears

European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen has said rules are needed to ward off abuses in the artificial intelligence sector. PHOTO: AFP

THE EU unveils a plan Wednesday to regulate the sprawling field of artificial intelligence, aimed at making Europe a leader in the new tech revolution while reassuring the public against “Big Brother”-like abuses.

“Whether it’s precision farming in agriculture, more accurate medical diagnosis or safe autonomous driving -- artificial intelligence will open up new worlds for us. But this world also needs rules,” European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen said in her state-of-the-union speech in September.

“We want a set of rules that puts people at the centre.”

The Commission, the EU’s executive arm, has been preparing the proposal for over a year and a debate involving the European Parliament and 27 member states is to go on for months more before a definitive text is in force.

The rules are part of the EU’s effort to set the terms on AI and catch up with the US and China in a sector that spans from voice recognition to insurance and law enforcement.

The bloc is trying to learn the lessons after largely missing out on the internet revolution and failing to produce any major competitors to match the giants of Silicon Valley or their Chinese counterparts.

But there have been competing concerns over the plans from both big tech and civil liberties groups arguing that the EU is either overreaching or not going far enough.

‘High-risk’

The draft regulation, seen by AFP, will create a ban on a very limited number of uses that threaten the EU’s fundamental rights.

This would make “generalised surveillance” of the population off-limits as well as any tech “used to manipulate the behaviour, opinions or decisions” of citizens. —AFP ■

Ailing Germany scrambles to pass national virus law

THE German parliament will vote on Wednesday on a controversial law amendment that would give Angela Merkel’s government power to impose tougher measures including school closures and disputed night-time curfews to curb the coronavirus pandemic.

With the country buckling under a third wave of the pandemic, the new law is intended to end a political tug-of-war between the federal government and Germany’s 16 states over coronavirus measures.

Dubbed the “emergency brake”, the law prescribes tough measures including sweeping shutdowns and overnight cur-fewes in regions with incidence rates of more than 100 new infections per 100,000 people over the last seven days.

It would also force schools to revert to virtual teaching in states where the incidence rate exceeds 165 -- a threshold tightened from 200 in an earlier draft of the law.

Only one state had an incidence rate below 100 on Tuesday, while six topped 165 -- including the two most populous of Bavaria and North Rhine-Westphalia.

Arab League, UN, EU and AU demand foreign forces leave Libya

THE Arab League, United Nations, European Union and the African Union on Tuesday demanded an immediate withdrawal of all foreign forces from Libya.

In a statement after a video-conference by its leaders, the so-called “Libya Quartet” demanded “full compliance with the arms embargo and the immediate and unconditional withdrawal of all foreign forces and mercenaries from the entirety of Libya’s territory”.

The much-violated arms embargo has been in place since 2011, when an uprising toppled longtime Libyan dictator Moammar Kadhafi during the regional upheaval known as the Arab Spring.

The UN estimates that some 20,000 foreign fighters, mainly troops from Turkey and mercenaries from Russia, Syria, Chad and Sudan, are currently deployed in the country.

In recent weeks, the possible departure of Syrian mercenaries has been raised and, this weekend, N’Djamena mentioned the arrival in Chad from Libya of several hundred Chadian mercenaries who may have contributed to the fighting that led to the death of President Idriss Deby.

During its meeting, the Libya Quartet “condemned the continued violations of the UN arms embargo and emphasized that all external military intervention in Libya is unacceptable.”

It also called for “the sustained implementation of measures to fully identify and dismantle these groups.” —AFP ■

Ukraine leader Zelensky urges Putin to meet in war-torn east

PRESIDENT Volodymyr Zelensky on Tuesday invited Russian leader Vladimir Putin to meet in war-torn eastern Ukraine, stressing that millions of lives were at stake from fresh fighting in the separatist conflict.

The blunt offer for talks came following a flare-up in clashes between Ukraine’s army and pro-Russian separatists controlling two regions in the country’s east, raising concerns of a major escalation in the simmering war.

In an address to the nation, Zelensky said that Ukrainian and Russian negotiators had recently discussed plans for officials to travel to the frontlines of the trench conflict to assess the situation.

“I am ready to go even further and invite you to meet in any part of the Ukrainian Donbass where war is ongoing,” Zelensky said.

The Ukrainian president, elected in 2019 on promises to bring an end the conflict, accused Russia of participating in peace negotiations while massing troops on Ukraine’s border. —AFP ■

Ex-policeman Derek Chauvin found guilty of George Floyd's murder

DEREK Chauvin, a white former Minneapolis police officer, was convicted Tuesday of murdering African-American George Floyd after a racially charged trial seen as a pivotal test of police accountability in the United States.

The jury deliberated less than 11 hours before finding 45-year-old Chauvin guilty of all three charges against him: second-degree murder, third-degree murder and manslaughter.

A crowd gathered outside the heavily guarded downtown Minneapolis courtroom erupted in cheers, and some wept tears of relief, when the verdicts were announced after a three-week trial that had an entire nation on edge. Hong Kong woman, 90, loses US$32 million in phone scam

A 90-year-old Hong Kong woman has been conned out of US$32million by fraudsters posing as Chinese officials, police said, in the city's biggest recorded phone scam.

Hong Kong's elderly are plagued by phone scammers who seek out vulnerable and wealthy victims willing to transfer money or make bogus investments.

Police on Tuesday said scammers targeted an elderly woman living in a mansion on The Peak, Hong Kong's ritziest neighbourhood.

Last summer criminals contacted the unnamed woman pretending to be Chinese public security officials. They claimed her identity had been used in a serious criminal case in mainland China.—AFP ■

Covid sends global wine consumption to lowest level since 2002

Wine drinking worldwide fell last year to its lowest level since 2002 as bars and restaurants shut their doors and tourism travel dried up amid the coronavirus pandemic, a trade body reported Tuesday.

Overall consumption fell three percent to some 234 million hectolitres in 2020, or roughly 6.2 billion gallons, the Paris-based International Organization of Vine and Wine (OIV) said.

The decline also reflected the impact of a 25 per cent American tariff on several European wines imposed by former president Donald Trump in late 2019 over a trans-Atlantic dispute on aircraft subsidies.

Those tariffs were suspended by US President Joe Biden in a deal with EU officials last month.

In terms of market value, the OIV's estimate of the total exports from wine producing countries, a key industry metric, fell 6.7 per cent last year to 29.6 billion euros ($35.6 billion).

But drinking held up better than the OIV had expected, after warning in October of a plunge that could reach 10 per cent.

"That forecast was a bit too negative," the association's director Pau Roca said in an online press conference.—AFP ■

South Korea court dismisses 'comfort women' case against Japan

A South Korean court on Wednesday dismissed a case brought by a handful of World War II sex slaves and their families against the Japanese government, saying Tokyo enjoyed "sovereign immunity" over the issue, reports said.

The ruling comes after the same court in January ordered Tokyo to compensate a dozen women forced to serve Japanese troops -- euphemistically labelled "comfort women" -- marking the first civilian legal victory against Tokyo in South Korea.

The different verdict could pave the way for an improvement in frosty ties between the neighbours, analysts said.

The comfort women question and other issues stemming from Japan's 20th-century colonial rule over Korea has bedevilled their relations, despite a 1965 treaty which declared claims between them and their nationals had been settled.

Tokyo and Seoul are both major US allies, democracies and market economies, but their rift -- which has worsened significantly in recent years -- presents US President Joe Biden with a foreign policy headache as he seeks to build a common front on China and nuclear-armed North Korea.

Premier League clubs withdraw from European Super League plans

Plans for a European Super League (ESL) collapsed on Tuesday as Manchester United, Liverpool, Arsenal and Tottenham joined Manchester City in withdrawing from controversial proposals that provoked a furious backlash.

Chelsea are reportedly set to follow leaving just six sides: Real Madrid, Barcelona, Atletico Madrid, AC Milan, Inter Milan and Juventus still involved in the project.

The ESL was designed by the European giants to guarantee revenue from more regular matches against one another without the risk of failing to qualify for 15 founder members.

A 3.5 billion euro ($4.2 billion) pot, financed by US investment bank JPMorgan, had been raised to be distributed among the founding members to offset the impact of the coronavirus pandemic.

However, reaction to the plans has been scathing, with politicians and football authorities threatening to take legal action against the so-called "dirty dozen", who were told they faced potential bans from domestic and continental competitions.

"Manchester United will not be participating in the European Super League," the 20-time English champions said in a statement.

Man. Utd executive vice-chairman Ed Woodward to leave club

ED WOODWARD is to step down as Manchester United's executive vice-chairman at the end of this year, the Premier League club announced on Tuesday.

The 49-year-old former investment banker is believed to have been one of the prime movers behind controversial proposals for a European Super League.

JP Morgan, the bank he worked for when he advised the Glazers over their purchase of Manchester United in 2005, are financing the project.

"I am extremely proud to have served United and it has been an honour to work for the world's greatest football club for the past 16 years," he said in a statement. "The club is well positioned for the future and it will be difficult to walk away at the end of the year."

Woodward has been executive vice-chairman at Old Trafford since 2012. He took over the responsibilities of departing chief executive David Gill the following year and proved an unpopular figure with fans. Under his tenure the club spent more than a billion pounds ($1.4 billion) but have not won the Premier League or Champions League since Alex Ferguson retired in 2013. "I will treasure the memories from my time at Old Trafford, during a period when we won the Europa League, the FA Cup and the League Cup," said Woodward.

"We have invested more than £1 billion in the squad during my time here and I am particularly delighted with the progress the players have made under the astute leadership of Ole Gunnar Solskjaer and his coaching team in the last two years."—AFP ■
