Unity in its real essence

Unity must have a common interests, a common sense of working together and a common objective, for the independence of the whole country and the interests of the whole populace. Unity must work for the people so that they can enjoy shared well-being and shared cause in working together. It is not enough just to say that we want to be united. Labour must be shared, and interests must be shared. Our objective must be the same. Only this kind of effort is worth calling “Unity”.

The Tatmadaw (Navy) gives training to male and female military personnel. And, female officers are assigned on warships. With the potentials of warfare, the naval formation was improved for effectiveness in the State defence system. Tatmadaw members need to take exercises for having health and fitness. Their health and fitness are important in the sea duties. Hence, they all need to take physical strength without harming the duty.

Troops from the Tatmadaw (Navy) transported vaccines and related equipment for the people. Hence, efforts of the Tatmadaw (Navy) are recognized as the record in the preventive measures of COVID-19.

Tatmadaw members need to take care of individual security, unit security and the Tatmadaw security with a conscience. Although Our Three Main National Causes are national duty, emphasis is being placed on the prosperity of the State and food sufficiency as the current needs of the nation.

Today's commissioned submarine Minye Kyaw Htin is primarily to serve the training as well as military operation duty if necessary. It was named with the aim of bravely fighting against any invasion which can encroach on the perpetuation of the sovereignty of the State. The Senior General praised officials, engineers and Tatmadaw members who participated in the building of war vessels.

missions, organizational set-up of the university, academic measures, training of the university meeting international standards, practical training, cooperation with international universities, and participation of the university in the State projects.

After hearing the reports, the Senior General said that this university is a valuable university for the State. Myanmar possesses more than 140,000 square miles of territorial waters and more than 1,260 miles long of coastal areas. The Ayeyawady, the Chindwin and the Thanlwin rivers are facilitated with ports. The university turns out the maritime professionals who are of importance in local and international maritime transport. It is necessary to appoint those who graduated from the university. It is employment for Myanmar to show their skills for the development of the nation and the creation of job opportunities. The graduates from the university must be deployed for management of small and large ports so as to contribute much to the development of the nation.

Likewise, the Senior General stressed the waterway transport is the cheapest in transporting a large number of cargos. Myanmar must utilize Ayeyawady, Thanlwin, Chindwin and Sittoung rivers the best. The professionals turned out by the university must serve the State. Port management is of importance in the maritime sector. Hence, it is necessary to study the management subject through modern technologies in line with international norms. Likewise, maritime professionals and those from the Ministry of Electricity and Energy are to join hands in generating hydropower through the ordinary current as renewable energy.

With regard to shipbuilding, Hsinmalaik shipyard built river vessels and coastal vessels in the past. Myanmar needs to build overseas-going merchant vessels and other vessels to extract the natural resources from the seas while conserving the sea resources. The shipbuilding engineers who graduated from the university need to serve at the shipbuilding works of the nation. As part of emerging the outstanding shipbuilders, the Senior General stressed the need to give practical exercises to the students. The ship building professionals from the MMU need to lead the shipbuilding process at the shipyards of the nation. Necessary faculty members will be added to the university for giving effective training to the students.

Take shelter of the rule of law for building better society

THE rule of law is defined as the condition in which all members of society, including its rulers, accept the authority of the law.

It indicates a specific political situation but any law, rule and regulation. The rule of law is dubbed as authority and influence in society, especially over individuals and institutions.

Generally, those from the judicial arena and politicians say a sentence that no man is above the law. But, is no man really consistent with international human rights norms and standards. It requires measures to ensure adherence to the principles of supremacy of the law, equality before the law, accountability to the law, fairness in the application of the law, separation of powers, participation in decision-making, legal certainty, avoidance of arbitrariness, and procedural and legal transparency.

World set to ring in another pandemic Christmas

Omicron's rise has heralded another pandemic-tinged Christmas for billions, with Santa's arrival and longed-for family reunions overshadowed by the prospect of yet more Covid restrictions.

FESTIVE jokes about reindeer having "herd immunity" and millions isolating "Home Alone" may be wearing thin, but the emergence of the ultra-infectious Omicron variant means the pandemic isn't going anywhere.

For a second straight year, surging infections have complicated yuletide plans from Sydney to Seville.

In Bethlehem — the city Christians believe was Jesus' birthplace — hoteliers expecting an influx of tourists have been disappointed. After a near-total pandemic lockdown last year, Israel's borders are again closed.

This year, like last, midnight mass in the city on Christmas Eve will be reserved for a small circle of people by invitation only.

In Europe, governments are reimposing misery-inducing safety measures that are draining the fun from Christmas for many.

The Netherlands is back in lockdown while Spain and Italy have made wearing masks compulsory outdoors.

And with the United Kingdom recording a record high number of Covid-19 infections on Thursday, British Prime Minister Boris Johnson suggested getting a vaccine booster shot as a Christmas gift for relatives.

'Sliver of hope'

Still, Christmas gatherings

A giant Christmas tree stands at the Galleries Lafayette department store for the festive season. PHOTO: XINHUA/GAO JING will be easier than a year ago in many other places around the world.

Most Australians are allowed to travel interstate over the festive break for the first time in two years, bringing a touch of Christmas sparkle even as case numbers hit record highs.

"We've all witnessed the moving scenes of people at airports after months of separation," Sydney's Catholic Archbishop Anthony Fisher said in his Christmas message.

"In such dark times, Christmas is a ray of light, a sliver of hope."

And Pope Francis is still scheduled to deliver the traditional Christmas Eve midnight mass from St Peter's Basilica.

Millions of Americans are also on the move during the busy travel days before Christmas, even as Covid infections with Omicron surpass the peak of the Delta wave and hospitals run out of space for patients.

However, thousands of them are set to face a grim holiday weekend, with major carrier United cancelling 120 flights because infection numbers had impacted flight crews and other operations.

In one sign of people's darkened mood, one of the most popular shows on Netflix in the run-up to Christmas has been "The Unforgivable", a less-than-festive tale of a murderer released from prison and struggling to win redemption.

Books on identity and slavery topped the New York Times best-sellers and a profanity-laden rant about a bad break-up led the Spotify charts — beating even Mariah Carey's perennial Christmas hit "All I Want for Christmas Is You".

In Britain, Rage Against The Machine's distortion-laden "Killing In The Name" was voted the country's favourite Christmas

Number One of all time.

Operation Present Drop

But angst borne from a seemingly interminable crisis, long testing queues, cancelled flights and close contact notifications will not prevent Santa from doing his rounds.

The hirsute spreader of holiday cheer has reportedly been cleared for travel in Canada's airspace after showing proof of vaccination and a pre-flight negative Covid test, Ottawa's transport minister said.

Santa's flight crew — including reindeer Rudolph, whose "nose shone red and bright (but) made sure he had no Covid-19 symptoms before taking off" — have also been given the all clear.

And Australian authorities said they were working round the clock to ensure "Operation Present Drop" goes smoothly.

COVAX targets 70% COVID-19 immunization coverage by mid-2022

COVID-19 Vaccines: COVAX was envisioned to be the world's primary distributor of COVID-19 vaccines, with IAVG serving as an independent referee for needs-based allocations.

A MID possible need for variant-specific vaccines, changes to vaccination policies, country preference for some products over others, the programmatic complexity of managing multiple products, and the need for better intelligence on country-level planning and execution, COVAX on Thursday set a target to achieve 70 per cent COVID-19 immunization coverage by mid-2022.

The Independent Allocation of Vaccines Group (IAVG) of COVAX has issued a set of recommendations to make the allocation of COVID-19 vaccines more equitable and more effective, read the statement of IAVG.

The group was established a year ago, to validate and assess vaccine allocations recommended by the World Health Organization (WHO) and Gavi's Joint Allocation Taskforce (JAT) of COVAX. Since then, much has changed.

COVAX was envisioned to be the world's primary distributor of COVID-19 vaccines, with IAVG serving as an independent referee for needs-based allocations.

But rich nations largely side-stepped COVAX, hoarding doses for their own populations and cutting deals directly with low- and middle-income countries. This has made subsequent allocation decisions even more challenging.

Moreover, IAVG is concerned that the primary priority use of available vaccines is not consistent with the goals outlined in the Strategy to Achieve Global COVID-19 Vaccination by Mid-2022 in October 2021.

The group also noted that it has validated the allocation of only 730 million of the estimated 8 billion doses of vaccine that have been administered globally, which is less than 10 per cent.

The IAVG is therefore calling for the achievement of 70 per cent coverage with COVID-19 vaccines in all countries as a global imperative.

As the overall vaccine supply to COVAX is anticipated to continue to grow substantially next year, COVAX will have a greater opportunity to contribute to achieving this goal, read the statement.

Manufacturers, vaccine-producing and high-coverage countries must prioritize vaccine equity and transparency, including the sharing of information about manufacturing capacity and supply schedules with COVAX, as well as vaccine access plans.

All countries to work with COVAX with considerable urgency to optimize the strategic use of the growing vaccine supply.

This means that high-coverage countries will need to establish complementary, "dual-track" approaches that consider both domestic and international goals, read the statement.

It also stressed on greater attention to who is being immunized and equity as the overarching principle, and priority in all countries to ensure that the primary series is offered first and foremost to all adults and adolescents, in the step-wise manner recommended by the WHO, as these populations still require primary immunization.

However, as more is known about the required vaccination response in the face of Omicron, the need for booster doses and need to immunize children, the COVAX vaccine allocation decisions must consider these recommendations, added the statement.

The rapid emergence of the Omicron variant is a stark reminder of the ongoing threat posed by the evolution of the COVID-19 pandemic and reinforces the critical need to achieve high levels of immunization coverage in all countries, including in highly vulnerable populations, in a timely manner.

Given the global health and epidemiologic consequences of failing to immunize vulnerable populations, including those in humanitarian settings, the IAVG recommends that COVAX continue to work with all manufacturers and countries to immediately increase the availability and uptake of vaccines in these populations.

All countries to have a steady, predictable supply of COVID-19 vaccines, which meet the unique needs of each country. Attention must be paid to addressing prohibitive absorptive challenges in countries that request support. This may include support for vaccine storage, distribution, administration and/or record-keeping, which may in part be due to competing health and immunization crises, said the statement.

Suspects of robbery case on Insein overpass arrested

ON 19 December, U Hnin Ngwe, owner of Kyon Sin jewellery shop opened in the Insein market of Zaygon Ward in Insein Township, returned to his house together with his wife Daw Thuzar Aye and son Maung Maung Thet Khaing from his shop. When they arrived in the middle of the Insein overpass, a white car Probox YGN-5F/7939 blocked their way and robbed two handbags containing four vises and 50 ticals of gold worth of (K720 million) and ran away.

The police investigated to arrest the suspects, and on the evening of 22 December, they seized the Probox car and one homemade bomb on that car at Arkar Kyaw car workshop near Danyingon railway station in Insein township.

When they inspected the owner of the car, they arrested Thant Zin Oo (aka) Wa Toke and Aye Aye Han (aka) Thei Thei at No 913 in No 42 Ward of Dagon Myothi (North) in the evening together with K1,140,000, 165 gold rings, 14 pairs of gold earrings, four necklaces, two hand chains, 46 gold chains and 15 bracelets.

According to the confession of Thant Zin Oo (aka) Wa Toke, the police arrested Baw Ga with K900,000, 97 gold rings, 14 pairs of earrings, 40 gold necklaces, eight hand chains, 20 gold chains and eight bracelets at Mudita Housing (2) in Ywama (West) Ward of Insein Township in the evening while Than Myint Soe (aka) Soe Lay, Thin Thin Wai and Khine Hnin Wai at Thawka Street in North Okkalapa Township together with K13.5 million, 20 rings, two hand chains, one gold chain, four pairs of earrings, two gold buttons and one Probox taxi.

According to the words of Than Myint Soe (aka) Soe Lay, the police arrested Hein Zaw Tun (aka) Ko Hein at Kyat Chan Kwin (1) Ward in Mayangon Township at night and Sithu Phyo (aka) Sithu Htwe in Thamine Myothit Ward on the morning of 23 December together with K900,000, 30 pairs of earrings and one ring.

Based on the confession of Hein Zaw Tun (aka) Ko Hein, the police arrested Zin Nyein Aung (aka) Zin Ko Win and Moe Zin Oo (aka) Myo Min Oo in Baho Street in No 2 Ward of Mayangon Township together with 25 pairs of earrings, one gold ring and 5,450 WY tablets at noon on 23 December.

The suspects admitted that Thant Zin Oo (aka) Wa Toke and BawGa discussed robbing the Kyon Sin gold shop in November and inspected the condition of the shop. Then, Thet Zin Oo (aka) Wa Toke ordered Bawga to hire another persons and so he communicated with Sithu Phyo (aka) Sithu Htwe and other suspects who are still at large Zaw Lin, Nay Zaw, Kalar, Hmat Gyi and Cho Oo to rob.

They assigned the duties such as the vehicle driven by Thant Zin Oo (aka) Wa Toke to block the way of his car and another car carrying Than Myint Soe (aka) Soe Lay and Zaw Lin (still at large) had to follow the vehicle driven by U Hnin Ngwe. Sithu Pyo (aka) Sithu Htwe and Hmat Gyi (still at large) and Cho Oo (still at large) had to wait at the left side of the Insein overpass while Nay Zaw and Kala, who are still at large, at the right side of the road.

After they assigned the duties, Baw Ga inspected the working hours of the gold shop from 16 to 19 December. On 19

December, the suspects robbed the gold shop according to the fixed procedures. The suspects shared the robbed materials. The suspect Baw Ga kept K4 million at Thant Zin Oo (aka) Wa Toke and used the remaining amount. Than Myint Soe (aka) Soe Lay sold some gold materials at K16 million. Sithu Phyo (aka) Sithu Htwe gave some gold to Hein Zaw Tun (aka) Ko Hein and Zin Nyein Aung (aka) Zin Ko Win to boil them.

The suspects committed robbery taking chances on the doings of PDF terrorist groups that intentionally conducted bomb attacks to threaten the public, killed innocent people, destroyed CCTVs and Control Box. Livestock sector struggling with high input cost MYANMAR livestock sector is burdened with high input costs, including feedstuff cost and transport charges, the Myanmar Livestock Federation (MLF) stated.

Additionally, they are facing another problem owing to unfair trade practices with illegally imported frozen meat. The depreciation of Kyat on the US dollar is also another contributing factor to a price rise as feedstuff and fuel oil are imported.

The economic impacts caused by the COVID-19 consequences led to the drop in production of layer poultry and broiler chicken this year.

amid the COVID-19 cases spiking in the country. After the concerted efforts of the stakeholders in the industry to govern the volatile price, the price fell.

At present, the breeders are worried about the price drop. If the price is in the bear market, the breeders will not even cover the production cost, breeders stressed.

Livestock and poultry production in Myanmar has been growing 10-15 per cent annually. Most breeders are using traditional methods and some have shifted to modern methods. Moreover, integrated poultry and fish farming is widely seen in Myanmar.

Furthermore, the local producers are also facing pressure from foreign investors entering the sector. Local poultry breeding is mostly carried out on a small scale by farmers, but now investments from China, Thailand and India have entered the sector. That is why local breeders need to shift to modern breeding methods and increase the production rate to keep up with the foreign investors. — KK/GNLM

Green gram Shwe Wah variety flooding Mandalay market

The green grams from Monywa, Shwebo, Myaung and Myinmu townships enter the Mandalay market. The newly harvested green grams are commercially valued due to their high quality.

GREEN gram (Shwe Wah) variety is found in abundant supply these days in the Mandalay market, Mandalay bean traders said.

The green grams from Monywa, Shwebo, Myaung and Myinmu townships enter the Mandalay market. The newly harvested green grams are commercially valued due to their high quality. Last year, the price of green grams stood at only K100,000 per three-basket bag, whereas it touches a high of K120,000 per bag at present.

“The yield rate is regular this year. The green grams produced in Yangon Region will also get to the Mandalay market soon. Mandalay is the central market for green grams. Chinese buyers come to purchase in Mandalay every day as some Sino-Myanmar border posts resume operations. Additionally, the use of Yuan or Kyat in the bilateral transaction is officially allowed in the border areas between Myanmar and China in a bid to encourage trade. We expect a brisk market in future,” said Soe Win Myint beans and pulses warehouse owner.

The prices of beans in the Mandalay market are estimated at K145,000 per three-basket bag for Japanese white sesame, K135,000 for white sesame, K195,000 for black sesame, K145,000 for black-eyed peas and K2,950 per viss for peanut. — Min Htet Aung (Mandalay Sub-Printing House)/GNLM

Post-monsoon cotton gets better prices this year in Yamethin

THE local farmers from Yamethin township, Mandalay region grew the post-monsoon cotton and are earning better prices this year than last year, said U Than Win, the deputy head of Yamethin Township Agriculture Department.

More than 30,000 acres of cotton were cultivated in Yamethin township in July and August. These kinds of cotton are being harvested in November and December. Each acre of cotton plant produced about 460 visses. Last year, the price of harvested cotton was only K1,400 per viss. But this year, the cotton price are ranging between K1,500-K1,600 per viss.

“The cotton cultivation is mainly for clothing. When the cotton is ground, it can produce cotton wool. We can sell them at the domestic factories. Some factories bought cotton wool. Then, those are sold to China under the companies’ arrangement. There are some domestic textile factories. Cotton is mainly planted to meet the domestic demand for factories. This year, the local growers are making a handsome profit by growing them,” he clarified.

More than 30,000 acres of post-monsoon cotton are cultivated and sold by over 10,000 farmers in Yemethin township. The price of kinds of cotton has also increased this year than last year. Most of the people are growing model long-staple cotton species such as Shwetaung 8, Shwetaung 10 and Ngweche 9. Asia markets climb as Covid fears recede

ASIAN markets rose in thin trade on Friday, extending their rally as fears over the Omicron coronavirus variant faded and further positive economic data from the United States cheered investors.

Studies indicating Omicron infections are less likely to result in hospitalization and US approval of drugs from Merck and Pfizer to add to a growing arsenal of weapons against Covid have increased confidence that the pandemic will have less impact on the economy.

“Omicron is looking more like a short-term disruption to the economic outlook and not a destructive headwind that knocks the economy off its course,” said OANDA’s Edward Moya.

On Wall Street, the S&P 500 ended the last session before the holiday weekend at a fresh record following a raft of mostly decent US economic data.

ment data showed consumer spending climbed in November, though at a slower rate, and new home sales rose.

Jobless benefit claims held steady from the prior week and orders for big-ticket manufactured goods climbed, though mostly due to aircraft.

Inflation, however, posted the biggest increase in nearly four decades, illustrating the delicate balancing act the Federal Reserve faces between reining in inflationary pressures and keeping the economic recovery on track. Omicron “will create some slowdowns in the economy, perhaps some slowdowns of production which could add to inflation pressures in the short term,” Paul Christopher, head of global market strategy at Wells Fargo Investment Institute, told Bloomberg Television, adding however that the economy would work its way through the situation.

Nissan, Mitsubishi halt minivehicle shipments on airbag issues

NISSAN Motor Co. and Mitsubishi Motors Corp. said Friday they had stopped production and shipment of some of their minivehicles since earlier in the month after finding potential problems with the airbags installed in several models.

Nissan said that collision tests conducted on its Nissan Roox model showed that the airbags might not function properly under certain conditions. Mitsubishi said in a separate statement that similar issues were found in its eK space and eK X space models.

The automakers did not elaborate on what conditions would lead to the airbags not functioning properly.

However, both companies said there are no safety concerns when vehicles are driven regularly and that airbags will function when they collide.

Nissan and Mitsubishi Motors said they had suspended the production, shipping and sales of the three minivehicle models since Dec. 3 to look into the matter without revealing the timeline for a resumption.

The three models have been produced under a joint venture between the two companies. The models were developed by Nissan and produced at Mitsubishi’s factory in Okayama Prefecture, western Japan.—Kyodo ■

Ryanair doubles annual loss forecast on Omicron

LOW-COST airline Ryanair said Wednesday that the Omicron coronavirus variant would have a strong impact on its financial performance as it more than doubled the forecast for its annual loss and cut back flights.

The Irish airline now expects a loss of between 250 to 450 million euros ($283-510 million) in its financial year that runs through March 2022, up from an earlier forecast of 100 to 200 million euros.

Ryanair said in a statement that “the Omicron Covid variant and recent government travel restrictions across Europe have notably weakened close-in Christmas and New Year bookings”.

It added that “this sudden downturn has also caused Ryanair this week to cut its planned

January schedule capacity by 33 per cent.”

Belgium will close all nuclear reactors by 2025

Progressively phasing out nuclear power has been enshrined in Belgian law since 2003.

BELGIUM will shut down all seven of its nuclear reactors by 2025 but will not close the door on new-generation nuclear technology, according to a deal reached Thursday by the coalition government.

A government source told AFP the all-night negotiations included an agreement of “investments of around 100 million euros ($1.1 million) on small modular reactors”.

A press conference is due to take place at the prime minister’s office headquarters at 1000 GMT to present the details.

Progressively phasing out nuclear power has been enshrined in Belgian law since 2003. The final date is 2025, a target the current government committed to meet when it took office in October 2020.

But the issue has divided the governing seven-party coalition of greens, socialists and Prime Minister Alexander De Croo’s liberals. The French-speaking liberal MR party argued against completely abandoning nuclear power; the strategy proposed by Flemish green Energy Minister Tinne Van der Straeten.

They said some of Belgium’s current nuclear capacity should be retained as new gas-fired power stations planned to secure energy supplies were too polluting.

Belgian broadcaster RTBF reported that a ministerial meeting agreed to invest in “renewable and carbon-neutral energies” — including new-generation nuclear power.—AFP ■

Moscow court considers shutting down Memorial rights centre

A Moscow court on Thursday heard a case against a leading rights group Memorial that could shut down the veteran organization, closing off a year marked by a major crackdown on civil society.

Memorial’s Human Rights Centre, which campaigns for political prisoners and other disadvantaged groups, is accused of violating Russia’s law on “foreign agents” and of justifying terrorism.

As the first hearing in the case kicked off Thursday, around three dozen supporters gathered outside the Moscow courthouse in freezing temperatures.

Observers were not allowed inside, which judge Mikhail Kazakov said was “to create safe conditions for the participants of the process”.

The court cases bookend a year when authorities launched an unprecedented crackdown on the opposition and independent media, imprisoning top Kremlin critic Alexei Navalny in February and banning his organizations.

The move against Memorial has led to a major outcry inside Russia and from the West, with which tensions have been rising over ex-Soviet Ukraine.—AFP ■

US drops in-person interviews for H-1B, L-1 visas for now as Covid surges

Amid growing concerns of COVID-19 surge, the US on Thursday (local time) is temporarily dropping an in-person interview requirement for some work-visa categories - H-1B, L-1 and O-1.

The State Department is temporarily dropping an in-person interview requirement for some work-visa categories in 2022 to ease visa issuances, as the COVID-19 pandemic stretches into the third year, the department announced. Applicants for H-1B, L-1 and O-1 visas applying from abroad won’t be required to do an in-person interview at a US consulate, typically the final step before a visa is issued. Those categories represent the most common visa types companies use to attract high-skilled talent from abroad.—ANI ■

37 dead in Bangladesh as packed ferry catches fire: Police

AT least 37 people died when an overcrowded night ferry caught fire in Bangladesh on Friday, police said, as terrified passengers leaped overboard to escape the blaze.

The latest maritime tragedy to hit the impoverished low-lying nation happened in the early hours in a river near Jhalokathi, 250 kilometres (160 miles) south of Dhaka.

“We have recovered 37 bodies. The death toll may rise. Most died from the fire and a few by drowning after many people jumped into the river,” local police chief Moinul Islam told AFP.

The blaze was believed to have originated in the engine room and ripped through the ferry, Islam said. Despite having an official capacity of 310 the vessel was carrying at least 500 people, many of who were returning home from the capital.

“We have sent some 100 people with burn injuries to hospitals in Barisal,” he said.

Witnesses said the fire originated at around 3:00 am (2100 GMT) and quickly spread.—AFP ■

Japan’s defence budget for 2022 hits record for 8th year

THE Cabinet of Japanese Prime Minister Fumio Kishida approved Friday a defence budget of 5.40 trillion yen ($47 billion) for fiscal 2022, setting a record high for the eighth consecutive year, to advance the development of new technologies in the face of a militarily expanding China.

The draft budget, including outlays for hosting US military bases, rose 1.1 per cent from the current fiscal year ending in March as Japan ramps up its defence capabilities also against North Korea’s nuclear and missile threat.

The increase for a 10th year in a row is largely attributable to a sharp rise in research and development spending, for which the Defence Ministry has earmarked 291.10 billion yen, up 79.60 billion yen, or 37.6 per cent, from a year earlier.

The ministry will invest in game-changing technologies, such as crewless planes using artificial intelligence that fly in teams with next-generation fighter jets.

“As the security environment surrounding Japan has been changing at an unprecedented speed and becoming increasingly severe, it is an urgent task for Japan to strengthen its necessary defense capabilities,” Defence Minister Nobuo Kishi said at a press conference.

The ministry has allocated 85.80 billion yen for the development of new fighter jets to replace the Air-Self Defence Force’s aging F-2s. For this goal, Japan will work together with Britain on a new jet engine. It has also decided to spend 39.30 billion yen for standoff missiles to be launched from ships, aircraft and land.

Such missiles are capable of attacking vessels from outside their firing range and are likely to fly 900 kilometres, with officials saying that they are aimed at deterring China’s naval activities around Japanese islands while keeping Self-Defence Forces personnel safe.—Kyodo ■

French fugitive captured in Indonesia after storm damages yacht

A French fugitive convicted of a double murder was arrested after 20 years on the run when a storm damaged his yacht in waters off Indonesia’s Sulawesi island, police said Thursday.

Thierry Ascione, 62, and another French national made an emergency landing in the Talaud islands between the Philippines and Indonesia on 3 October to seek help for repairing the boat.

Authorities nabbed them for violating immigration rules, said local police chief Lendi Hutabarat.

“The navigation system (on the yacht) was damaged due to strong waves,” Hutabarat told AFP.

Ascione was hiding in the boat when the police questioned and arrested his compatriot, who was found wandering around the island trying to buy a SIM card.

The police later raided the boat and found Ascione without a passport.—AFP ■

Iraq pays final Kuwait war reparations

IRAQ has paid its last war reparations to Kuwait more than 30 years since the invasion of the Gulf country by former autocrat Saddam Hussein, officials said Thursday.

On 2 August 1990, Hussein ordered his army to invade Kuwait and seize what he described as “Iraq’s 19th province”, before being pushed back seven months later by a US-led coalition.

“Iraq has closed the file of the Kuwait war reparations, having paid the last of its dues,” Mozher Saleh, the prime minister’s economic advisor, was quoted as saying by the official Iraqi News Agency. In total, Iraq has paid $52.4 billion in reparations, he said.

“This is not a small amount,” he added. “The sum would have been enough to construct an electricity network that would have served Iraq for many years.”

Despite being rich in hydrocarbons, Iraq’s electricity infrastructure has suffered from years of negligence and successive wars, facing regular power cuts.—AFP ■

S. Korea grants pardon to former President Park Geun Hye

THE South Korean government said Friday that it will grant a pardon to former President Park Geun Hye who is serving a 22-year prison term after being convicted of corruption and other charges.

Justice Minister Park Beom Kye told reporters that the amnesty will be given Friday next week “as a way to unite South Koreans”. The former president is still popular among supporters of the People Power Party, the main opposition and conservative party.

A spokeswoman of President Moon Jae In quoted the president at a press briefing saying, “We should proceed to the new era and leave the pain of the past era behind.”

Moon decided on the pardon after considering the 69-year-old former president’s deteriorating health that saw her hospitalized recently.

Park has been in prison since March 2017 after being impeached for abuse of power, embezzlement and accepting bribes from large conglomerates such as Samsung and Lotte Group.

The justice minister said that 3,094 prisoners including Park will be granted a pardon. But former President Lee Myung Bak, who is also serving a prison term over bribery and embezzlement, was not included in the list.—Kyodo ■

Aung La N Sang's rival to be confirmed early next year

MYANMAR MMA fighter Aung La N Sang's rematch will be confirmed early next year, according to the statement with the ONE Championship.

Aung La N Sang announced on his Facebook page on 21 December that his rival will be announced in early 2022.

Aung La has been out of MMA since the end of July and ONE CEO will announce his rival at the beginning of the year, probably as early as March, MMA experts predicted.

Aung La N Sang fought twice in 2021 and has not returned until the end of the year.

Aung La N Sang used to stay in the Light Heavyweight World Championship category while Middleweight Challenge fights will be launched next year, and both challengers or world title matches will likely be announced simultaneously.

Aung La N Sang has decided to fight only in the middleweight division after missing out on two world championships. If Aung La will fight De Ridder in the upcoming bout, he will have to fight for the world title.

If Aung La had to fight with Okami of Japan or Bigdash of Russia, it would be a challenge.

De Ridder of the Netherlands currently holding both the Middleweight and Light Heavyweight World Championships which were previously won by Aung La N Sang.

China plans for Beijing Olympic bubble with no holes or hugs

FEBRUARY'S Beijing Winter Olympics look set to be the strictest mass sporting event since the coronavirus pandemic. AFP Sport looks at what measures athletes and others can expect to face in the "bubble" and how that compares to last summer's virus-delayed Tokyo Games. What is the 'closed loop'?

China, where the virus emerged towards the end of 2019, has pursued a "zero-Covid" strategy and is taking the same no-nonsense approach to the February 4-20 Olympics. Organizers hope to limit the spread of infections and keep the Games running smoothly by cocooning almost every person involved in a "closed loop", effectively a big bubble containing thousands of people. They will be in there from the moment that they land in the Chinese capital to the time they leave. — AFP ■
