Quick Win can result from rice sector promotion

- As rice is the staple food, it is the most important crop for socioeconomic development of our country.
- State Administration Council is prioritizing the export promotion activities for national economic development.
- In exporting promotion programmes to further boost products that are globally marketable and suitable with the country’s weather and geographical conditions, rice sector promotion is a Quick Win within a short period.

Operations of MSME and re-requirements

Local businesspersons reported on their efforts to export domestic products, needs of electricity, manufacturing traditional products and textile works, and extension of MSME businesses. Response to reports in relevant sectors

Union ministers discussed plans of relevant ministries to provide necessary capital and techniques to agriculture and livestock farms, conducting feasibility studies for generating electricity, promoting education qualification in the region, healthcare services and deployment of basic health staff in the region.

Requirements of discussions to develop the region

Speaking on the occasion, the Senior General said that the Naga region is difficult to extend sown acreage as it is a hilly region. Hence, local people are to strive for increasing per-acre yield of paddy as well as conjac. He urged all to cultivate paddy on highland farmlands for ensuring local food sufficiency. Agriculture and livestock farms need to have quality strains of crops and animals with the sufficiency of feedstuffs.

The Senior General pointed out that encouragement must be given to manufacturing the products in long run. Local people have to produce coffee and tea as primary products of the Naga region. Likewise, it is necessary to grow oranges and other crops to increase products. The government will emphasize the further improvement of road transport, he added.

Health and Education

The Senior General highlighted that manufacturing can help earn incomes which will contribute to the economic development of locals and the region. Military medical officers were assigned duties to serve at station hospitals and dispensaries in remote areas of Sagaing Region, Chin State and Naga Self-Administered Zone. In learning education, the Naga region faces the needs of the education sector. All students must complete at least a middle school education. As arrangements will be made for the improvement of the education sector in the Naga region, all local people are to nurture their offspring to be educated persons.

Striving for electricity sufficiency in the Naga region

A plan is underway to generate hydropower in Lahe, Leshi and Nanyun regions. To undertake development tasks, the government needs money. So, if all regions manufacture products, they will earn income for the State. As the government will provide necessary assistance for agriculture and livestock farms as well as manufacturing industries, all people are to try hard to develop these industries.

The Senior General presented gifts for departmental officials to local authorities and cordially greeted attendees.

The Senior General then inspected the situation to upgrade the sports ground in Lahe to a standardized stadium. — MNA/TTA

All Tatmadaw members need to systematically take practice shaping a capable military unit: Senior General

State Administration Council Chairman Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services Senior General meets officers, other ranks and families of the Lahe station yesterday.

If all Tatmadaw members try hard to have individual improvement with proper lifestyle in a systematic manner, these military units will be capable, said Chairman of the State Administration Council Chairman Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services Senior General Min Aung Hlaing, at separate meetings with officers, other ranks and families of the local battalions in Lahe and Homalin stations of North-West Command yesterday afternoon.

Political progress

At the meetings, the Senior General explained political changes in successive eras in Myanmar, the political declaration of a state of emergency depending on the situation and the Tatmadaw taking on State responsibilities, crises in the Covid-19 pandemic and violent incidents triggered by instigations of those who wished to gain political profit, controlling all measures under the law, development of the nation and implementation of the policies and objectives for restoring peace and stability.

The Senior General continued to say that the government strived for economic growth of the State amid crises and difficulties in various ways, encouraging domestic production. As encouragement was given to operating the manufacturing based on agriculture and livestock farms and micro, small and medium scale enterprises, the country's economy has secured improvement to some extent at present.

Efforts for building powerful and capable battalions

The Senior General noted that if all Tatmadaw members try hard to have individual improvement with proper lifestyle in a systematic manner, these military units will be capable. Hence, all Tatmadaw members need to systematically take practice shaping a capable military unit. Moreover, Tatmadaw members have to cooperate with relevant departments and local people in carrying out the development of the region in unity. They all have to emphasize a fair administrative system for providing entitlement and rights for Tatmadaw members so as to build unity in the military unit. Self-control for improvement of social life

The Senior General underscored that as the Tatmadaw arranges convenience for accommodation and food supplies, Tatmadaw members need to strive for the successful operation of military own and manageable scale agriculture and livestock farms. As the Tatmadaw has fulfilled basic needs for Tatmadaw members and families in individuals as much as it can, they all need to uplift their lives.

The Senior General urged all to read books and publications on general knowledge contributing to the improvement of their lives. They all should try to be good parents by encouraging the education of children and giving education legacy to them.

Old Shwebo Pawsan price sees spike above K100,000 per bag

HIGH-GRADE old Pawsan rice variety from the Shwebo area rose above K100,000 per bag, according to the Wadan Rice Wholesale Centre.

The rocketing price of old Pawsan rice from Shwebo pushed up the price of old Pawsan paddy from Shwebo to K2.7 million per 100-baskets.

The price was stable at K93,000 per bag between the last week of October and 11 November 2022. The price went up to K97,000 per bag. The figures show a significant increase of K40,000 per bag within two weeks.

On 13 January 2023, the price of old Shwebo Pawsan surged to K105,000 per bag from K99,000 per bag. The figures indicated an increase of K6,000 per bag within three days.

Similarly, the price of new Pawsan rice also increased to K80,000 from K72,000 per bag on the same day at Yangon markets, showing an increase of K8,000 per bag within three days.

Starting from 3 August, Myanmar Rice Federation, Myanmar Rice Producers and Planters Association, Myanmar Rice Millers Association, and traders and brokers engaged in Wadan Rice Wholesale Centre and Bayintnaung Rice Wholesale Centre have been working together to offer fair prices for Shwebo Pawsan from K75,000 per bag and other rice varieties to the consumers at the Wadan Wholesale Centre.

The offer prices are K52,000-55,000 per bag of Pawsan from the Ayeyawady area, K55,000-60,000 per bag of Kyapyan, and K35,000-37,000 per bag of short-matured rice varieties (90 days) at the Wadan Rice Wholesale Centre.

Each household is able to buy only one bag. Those traders and retailers are not entitled to buy them.

Rice is packed into bags at the warehouse.

On 16 January, the prices stood at K63,000 per bag of old Pawsan varieties produced in the Dedaye and Pyapon areas, K65,000 from Myaungmya and Pathein areas, and K67,000 from Pyapon while the prices of other Pawsan varieties are estimated at K63,000 per bag. New Pawsan prices moved in the range between K61,100 and K67,000 per bag depending on producing areas. The Kyapyan variety is valued at K67,000-71,000 per bag, whereas the short-matured rice variety (90 days) is worth K47,000-K51,000 per bag. The prices of low-grade rice were K44,000-54,000 per bag depending on varieties (Emahta, Meedone). Rice grown under the intercropping system was priced at K43,500-48,500 per bag. — NN/EMM

Palm oil wholesale reference price dips this week ending 22 Jan

THE wholesale reference rate of palm oil in the Yangon market is down by K90 this week ending 22 January compared to that of the previous week, according to the Supervisory Committee on edible oil import and distribution.

The reference price stood at K4,530 per viss in the week from 9 to 15 January. For the week ending 22 January, the price was set higher at K4,440 per viss. The figures showed a small decrease of K90 per viss.

The Supervisory Committee on edible oil import and distribution under the Ministry of Commerce has been closely observing the FOB prices in Malaysia and Indonesia including transportation cost, tariff and banking service, and issuing the wholesale market reference rate for edible oil on a weekly basis.

Regardless of the reference price, the current market price is still getting high.

If those edible oil retailers and wholesalers are found overcharging, storing inventory intentionally and attempting unscrupulous action to manipulate the market, they will face legal action under the Specific Goods Tax Law, MoC released a statement.

At present, mobile market trucks operated by oil importing companies, in coordination with Myanmar Edible Oil Dealers' Association, were back to business in some townships on 17 July in order to offer palm oil at a subsidized rate. They sell palm oil at K4,650 per viss to consumers directly. However, there are limited sources of supply although they directly sell palm oil at a reference rate depending on the volume quota.

The domestic consumption of edible oil is estimated at 1 million tonnes per year. The local cooking oil production is just about 400,000 tonnes. To meet the oil sufficiency in the domestic market, about 700,000 tonnes of cooking oil are yearly imported through Malaysia and Indonesia. — NN/EMM

Settawya guesthouse signboard was seen during the 2020 Mann Shwesettaw pagoda festival.

Mann Shwesettaw to receive overnight stays for pilgrims

THE Buddha Pujaniya Festival organizing committee of Mann Shwesettaw Pagoda in Minbu (Sagu) Township, Magway Region, welcomes pilgrims for overnight stays.

This is one of the longest and largest pagoda festivals in Myanmar. It will kick off on 25 January and end until the first day of the new year (Myanmar calendar) in mid-April. Preparations for accommodation facilities and shops are being undertaken at present in order to ensure a comfortable and enjoyable stay.

“The construction of shops near Mann Creek is nearly finished. The car parking, restroom and festival stalls have been constructed,” said a businessperson from Minbu city.

“There are about 1,000 bamboo lodging houses and over 500 stalls designated for the upcoming festival. Over 400 houses and 200 stalls have been built. The shops are already put up for sale,” the pagoda festival organizing committee stated.

Mann Creek flows steadily around the Upper Settawya (the footprint of the Buddha on the hill) and the Lower Settawya (another footprint of the Buddha at the foot of the hill). Mann Creek has a new Bailey bridge this year for the smooth transportation of passenger buses while driving uphill and downhill.

The guesthouse cost is around K30,000-50,000 per head depending on the place. However, the committee set the cost at K20,000 for an ordinary guesthouse and K30,000 for the waterfront one. It stated actions will be strictly taken for overcharging.

Furthermore, under the guidance of the Minbu District Private Vehicle Supervision Committee, Aungman’s fleet of small vehicles will run a total of 30 cars (Starex and Vongo types), including 20 for uphill and downhill driving and 10 for Minbu-Shwesettaw trip.

Moreover, they will add more vehicles to the fleet to ensure safe and sound transport. The fare is set at K12,000 for round trip, K1,000 for uphill and K500 for downhill.

The Minbu District Private Vehicle Supervision Committee will monitor the vehicle’s body stiffness and strength, peaceful pilgrimage and discipline of the drivers and assistants.

The pilgrimage operators have been selling tickets for two-night stays, Mann Shwesettaw trip plans and other pilgrimage tours in Minbu, Magway. For a four-day trip (two-night stays), the full package costs K90,000 per head with the meal and accommodation provided.

Real estate transactions low for value-added apartments in Yangon

IT is known that there are fewer transactions due to the fact that the prices of apartments in Yangon are higher than before, according to buyers.

Real Estate Agent Daw Wai Lwin told the GNLM that the 625 square-foot wide topmost floors of the apartments (7th and 8th floors) were sold for around K35 million per room in early 2022. Apartment owners from townships with easy transportation raised their price for apartments to K39 million after mid-2022. However, the buyers did not buy at that price due to the additional costs such as the preparation costs for old buildings. No deals are made for apartments since buyers are not in a hurry, said an apartment broker.

U Moe, a real estate agent, told GNLM that while the prices of gold and cars are rising this year, the prices of apartments are also rising.

Prices of apartments are rising this year, just as the prices of gold and motorcars, U Moe, a real estate agent said. These days, information about the value and rents of real estates in Yangon has been revealed on social networks. It is known that if the transaction was made, the seller have to pay two per cent to the agent and the landlord separately.

Although movable assets such as gold and cars are sold the most in the current period, immovable real estate is less in sales. Apartment rentals are only rented as dormitories in most cases. Some two-storey buildings and ground-floored apartments can be seen closed for years in the downtown streets, because they have not been rented yet. It is reported that some of the two-storey buildings on the roadside have reduced the rent this year.

Broker Daw Hla Tint told the GNLM that although some apartments have been interested for purchasing, the transaction was not able to be made because the apartment owners tend to raise the value of the apartment.

'Six Friends' offers each unique way of art at Water Lily Art Space SIX art masters have collectively held a show under the title “Six Friends” at the Water Lily Art Space in downtown Yangon, showcasing their unique styles from 19 to 23 January, 2023.

The exhibition brings together about 60 works of art from different perspectives by six contemporary artists aged over 60.

Ko Mg Win Hla

Ko Mg Win Hla completed the Mandalay State School of Fine Arts in 1970s, and since then, he has created art works with different medium. He has mastered portrait and figurative art with different medium. The art master is showcasing about 10 stunning art works in this exhibition.

Soe Aung

Those who read mysticism magazines such as Thurizza and Vedas are familiar with art works of Soe Aung for his art of mysticism in Buddhism and traditional Myanmar culture in the magazines. He brings together the Myanmar traditional culture, with mystery and aesthetics as a subject in his works on canvas with oil and acrylic, offering a mystical pleasure to visitors.

Ni Po U

In Myanmar, it is Artist Ni Po U who interprets both Myanmar traditional dance and music in his work on canvas. In his paintings, he makes the face of Myanmar dancers black to highlight Myanmar character of dance and music through his creation. “I transform the music and movements into my artwork. Golden strokes represent music which supports the dance,” said Ni Po U. His early works are realism. His contemporary works has shown that the artist, in his 60s, combined the realism with new idea of his own creation.

Soe Aung

Pyi Kyaw Han

With thick brush strokes of his own style, Artist Pyi Kyaw Han captures the Myanmar’s scenes, character and fragrance on canvas. Viewers can enjoy ten paintings of his oil and acrylic works. In his early days of artist career, he used to create background paintings for Myanmar traditional open-theatres and posters for gate shows with body colour. In this exhibition, the 60-year old artist show off about 10 paintings reflecting rural life of Myanmar people in plain area to ethnic people from hilly areas.

Pyi Kyaw Han

Ko Mg Kyaw Than

After his retirement from the Yangon’s State School of Fine Arts as an instructor seven years ago, Veteran Artist Ko Mg Kyaw Than has tasted freedom and toured the country and captured scenes from different areas on drawing paper. He has spent most of his time creating outdoor paintings, capturing scenes in the country. The veteran artist’s latest offering of water colour paintings would light up the gallery from 19 to 23 January.

Thet Oo

With vinyl printing replacing cinema art posters, the commercial artists have turned to painting fine artworks. Thet Oo is one of the poster artists who said goodbye to cinema posters and found his another career in creating portraits and landscapes. For decades, the artist painted posters for cinema. In this exhibition, Thet Oo featured his unique pathway, in terms of strokes and colour.

Myanmar’s exports up by 14% over past nine months

Cargo containers are seen at Yangon Port.

MYANMAR’S exports grew by 14 per cent over the past nine months from the same period last year, according to the Ministry of Commerce’s statistics.

The value of exports significantly surged to US$12.75 billion between 1 April and 6 January in the current financial year 2022-2023 from $11.15 billion recorded in the corresponding period of the last 2021-2022 mini-budget period.

The figures reflected a sharp increase of over $1.59 billion compared with a year-ago period, according to data from the Ministry of Commerce.

The negative pandemic consequences dealt a severe blow to the agriculture, livestock and mineral sectors during the past mini-budget period. As China eases some virus rules and regulations, export sees a slight increase in the agriculture sector this FY. Some border points such as Mang Wein and Kyinsankyawt were reopened after a nearly three-year suspension.

Also, the export values in forest products and livestock groups slightly climbed. At present, the CMP garment sector raises its head again after the vaccination programme for factory workers as well.

Of the seven export groups, fisheries, minerals and other exports showed a decrease compared to the year-ago period.

The values of export were registered at $2.77 million for agri-products, $18 million for livestock, $559.7 million for fishery products, $228 million for minerals, $119.9 million for forest products, over $8.68 billion for manufactured goods, and $364 million for other goods.

Myanmar targets to achieve exports worth $15.5 billion and imports worth $14 billion in the 2022-2023 FY (April-March), the National Planning Law stated.

Myanmar’s top export countries are China, Thailand, Japan and India. The country’s export sector relies more on the agricultural and manufacturing sectors. The Ministry of Commerce is focusing on reducing the trade deficit, export promotion, import substitution and market diversification. – KK

ECONOMY WORLD

Most Asian markets rise on optimism over China, rates

MARKETS mostly rose in Asia on Monday, following another rally on Wall Street fuelled by optimism over the world economy as inflation slows and China reopens to the world.

After last year's battering, caused by surging prices and central bank interest rate hikes, the new year has seen a calmer mood on trading floors, with recession fears receding and bargain-buying providing support to equities.

While China is expected this week to report its worst annual growth since 1976 — excluding pandemic-ravaged 2020 — its emergence from zero-Covid and pledges to boost key sectors are raising hopes for a strong rebound in 2023.

Signs that the government was taking a lighter touch on the tech sector after a long-running crackdown were also lifting confidence and giving a boost to market majors, including Alibaba and Tencent.

And HSBC's Frederic Neumann said China's emergence from almost three years of strict virus containment measures would likely boost the global economy. "As the second-largest economy in the world, accelerating Chinese household and investment spending will help put a floor under global trade at a time when demand in the West is faltering," he said.

The brighter outlook helped Asian markets on Monday.

Shanghai, Sydney, Seoul, Taipei, Manila, Bangkok, Wellington and Jakarta all rose, while Hong Kong was flat.

Tokyo, however, dropped as a stronger yen weighed on exporters. Singapore and Mumbai also dipped.

The Japanese unit has surged in recent weeks thanks to an expected slowdown in Federal Reserve rate hikes and after the Bank of Japan signalled a shift away from years of ultra-loose monetary policy.—AFP

Economic slowdown will force workers into worse jobs: UN

A global economic slowdown will force more workers into accepting lower quality, poorly paid jobs in 2023, while inflation gobbles up real term wages, the United Nations warned Monday.

As prices rise faster than incomes, the cost-of-living crisis risks pushing more people into poverty, the UN's International Labour Organization said, while unemployment around the world is set to rise.

The ILO said deficits in decent work had been worsened by multiple, overlapping crises, including Russia's war in Ukraine, emerging geopolitical tensions, an uneven recovery from the Covid-19 pandemic and continuing supply chain bottlenecks.

"Together, these have created the conditions for stagflation — simultaneously high inflation and low growth — for the first time since the 1970s," the agency said in its annual World Employment and Social Outlook report.

ILO director general Gilbert Houngbo said the recovery from the Covid-19 pandemic was particularly patchy in low- and middle-income countries, and was further hampered by climate change and humanitarian challenges.

"Projections of a slowdown in economic and employment growth in 2023 imply that most countries will fall short of a full recovery to pre-pandemic levels in the foreseeable future," the former prime minister of Togo said in the report.

"Worse still, progress in labour markets is likely to be far too slow to reduce the enormous decent work deficits that existed prior to, and were exacerbated by, the pandemic."

Global employment grew by 2.3 per cent last year, but is expected to expand by just one per cent this year, to nearly 3.4 billion people with work.

The projected rise is down on the 1.5 per cent the ILO had previously predicted, adding to the gloomy outlook.—AFP

Japan to test new freight routes amid global supply chain instability

THE Japanese government plans to work with domestic firms to test new international supply routes as soon as March, as it aims to diversify freight options in response to recent supply chain instability highlighted by the coronavirus pandemic and the war in Ukraine.

With international events causing delays and a rise in transport costs, the Ministry of Land, Infrastructure, Transport and Tourism intends to ensure a reliable freight system by preparing alternative shipping and train links to reach the United States and Europe.

Delays in international freight can lead to shortages in raw materials and goods, and rising costs of transporting the items can also push up prices on many commonly-used products. Among the areas the transport ministry will be investigating under the scheme are cost, time and customs clearance issues.

Until the end of February, the ministry is recruiting Japanese companies including cargo firms and logistics businesses to participate in testing deliveries with government backing of 1 million yen ($7,800) per consignment. A report on its activities is intended to be made around the fall.

Although disruption to the international freight system is easing, the transport ministry maintains it is "important to secure complementary replacement routes in case of emergencies."

Among the alternative routes planned are the use of ports in Canada, Mexico and the east coast of the United States instead of the US west coast, where ships were left unable to offload their cargo during the coronavirus pandemic due to truck driver shortages.

The invasion of Ukraine has also limited supply line options via Russia, with flights having to divert around its airspace and its Trans-Siberian Railway seeing less use.

Strikes for more pay by dockworkers in Europe have also caused issues at seaports, and Indian Ocean and Suez Canal supply lines are at risk of blockage from conflicts and ships running aground.

As a result, for goods being moved from Japan to Europe, the ministry is considering routes leaving regional ports on the Sea of Japan side of the country that would then take sea and railway routes via China, Central Asia, the Caspian Sea, Türkiye and elsewhere.—Kyodo

Viet Nam’s economy to face difficult year amid lagging global growth in 2023

DESPITE continued difficulties and challenges for Viet Nam’s economy in 2023, there were still silver linings to pin hope on if flexible policies were adopted, local media reported on Monday citing local experts.

Unpredictable factors would have a significant impact on the southeast Asian country’s socio-economic development, local newspaper Viet Nam News quoted Nguyen Duc Hien, deputy head of the Central Economic Commission, as saying.

Viet Nam’s major importers and exporters, including the United States, South Korea and Japan, were forecast to be affected by the looming economic recession, which would affect some industries of Viet Nam, he said.

It was necessary for Viet Nam to develop different scenarios to find both short- and long-term solutions to maintain macroeconomic stability and ensure major balances of the economy, the official said.—Xinhua

Toyota to produce 10.6 million cars globally in 2023, biggest output

TOYOTA Motor Corp said Monday it aims to produce as many as 10.6 million vehicles in 2023, which could be its highest output.

The Japanese auto giant added, however, that the final figure could be as much as 10 per cent lower due to potential disruptions in the supply of parts.

Toyota set the target to make it easier for its suppliers and other stakeholders to make plans regarding the required manpower and equipment capacity.

It said it set the “downward risk fluctuation range of approximately 10 per cent” as the impact of potential shortages in parts such as semiconductors “remains unclear.”

In 2019, Toyota produced over 9.1 million units, its biggest annual output.

In 2022, it manufactured nearly 8.3 million cars in the January-November period and announced its plan to manufacture 750,000 units in December.

Parts shortages are causing prolonged production constraints, forcing consumers to wait for new cars.

To deal with the issue, Toyota Chief Communication Officer Jun Nagata said during an online interview, “We will shorten the delivery time (for parts), prioritizing the domestic market,” and pledged to work closely with the automaker’s suppliers to minimize the impact of parts shortages.—Kyodo

Air cargo exports of New Zealand’s products severely impacted by shortage of liquid CO2

AIR cargo exports of New Zealand products are being severely impacted by the critical shortage of liquid CO2 and dry ice, said an industry body representing freight forwarders on Monday.

According to the World Bank, exports account for about a quarter of New Zealand’s gross domestic product (GDP).

The Customs Brokers and Freight Forwarders Federation of New Zealand (CBAFF) is calling on the government to investigate options to increase domestic production of food grade CO2, including the possibility of reopening the Marsden Point refinery, which produced CO2 as a by-product of its refining operation.

Liquid CO2 is used to create dry ice, with many thousands of kilograms used weekly to fly high quality perishable goods, including meat, fish, dairy and pharmaceutical products, internationally. New Zealand’s food sector accounts for 46 per cent of all goods exported by New Zealand.—Xinhua

Kremlin says British tanks in Ukraine will 'burn'

THE Kremlin said on Monday that British tanks promised to Ukraine will "burn" on the battlefield.

"The special military operation will continue. These tanks are burning and will burn," Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov told reporters, using Moscow's term for the Ukraine offensive.

He added that plans by some Western countries — like the UK and Poland — to send tanks to Ukraine will "not change the situation on the ground. It will only prolong this story."

British Prime Minister Rishi Sunak promised last week to provide British Challenger 2 tanks to Kyiv.

Earlier this month France also pledged to send tanks — the French-build AMX-10 RC — to Ukraine.

German defence minister quits as pressure grows for Ukraine aid

GERMAN Defence Minister Christine Lambrecht resigned on Monday after coming under months of heavy criticism over Berlin's stuttering response to the war in Ukraine.

Her decision came just days ahead of a crucial meeting of defence ministers from Ukraine's allies, and as Berlin was once again under intense pressure to provide battle tanks to Kyiv.

But government sources told AFP that no decision was expected on Monday on her successor.

Lambrecht, 57, said in a statement she had asked Chancellor Olaf Scholz to relieve her of her duties. —AFP

Indonesia stadium disaster negligence trial begins

FIVE Indonesian men charged with negligence leading to one of the worst stadium disasters in football history appeared in court by video link on Monday as their trial began.

The stampede in October in the East Java city of Malang — which killed 135 people, including more than 40 children — came after police fired tear gas into packed stands when supporters invaded the pitch at the end of a match between rivals Arema FC and Persebaya Surabaya.

Hundreds of people fled for narrow exits, resulting in a crush that left many trampled or suffocated to death.

Three local police officials, a match organiser and a security official were all charged with negligence for their role in the disaster.

The suspects face a maximum sentence of five years in prison if found guilty.

A sixth suspect — a former director of the company that runs Indonesia's premier league — remains under police investigation.

On Monday, authorities deployed hundreds of security personnel around the court and the trial was held virtually for security reasons.

Outside the courthouse, Rink Hanifah held up pictures of her son Agus Riansyah, one of the victims who went to watch the football match and never returned.

Authorities told Arema FC supporters not to travel to Surabaya for the trial, for fear of clashes with police or rival fans.

Police described the October 1 pitch invasion as a riot and said two officers were killed, but survivors accused the police of using excessive force. —AFP

EU parliament chief to unveil reforms amid graft scandal

THE president of the European Parliament will seek Monday to get ahead of a graft scandal that has rocked the legislature, by officially unveiling a series of reforms to clean up the multi-national assembly.

But many MEPs and observers believe the changes to be presented by Roberta Metsola don't go far enough to be able to restore credibility in the institution.

The parliament has been the focus of intense scrutiny since the scandal broke open a month ago with the arrest of one of Metsola's 14 vice-presidents after Belgian police raided homes and offices of several MEPs, former MEPs, parliamentary aides and heads of NGOs that dealt with lawmakers.

Belgian prosecutors are investigating alleged graft in the European Parliament benefiting Qatar and Morocco. The police raids turned up 1.5 million euros ($1.6 million) in cash.

Qatar has denied having any role in any wrongdoing in the case. Morocco says it is the target of unjustified "media attacks" over the allegations.

Metsola's arrested vice-president Eva Kaili, a Greek MEP who has since lost that high parliamentary position, also has said through her lawyer that she knew nothing about cash found at her home.

Kaili remains in custody with three other suspects: Kaili's boyfriend Francesco Giorgi, who was a parliamentary aide; former MEP Pier Antonio Panzeri; and Niccolo Figa-Talamanca, head of an NGO suspected of making payments to MEPs.

The three male suspects are all Italian. According to a Belgian media report, Giorgi has made a confession.

All four are charged in Belgium with "criminal organization, corruption and money laundering". Greece and Italy have launched their own investigations.

Metsola has vowed to act swiftly to "strengthen integrity, independence and accountability" in the parliament. She has also said the graft scandal showed "European democracy is under attack".

On Monday, Metsola will kick off the parliament's first plenary session of 2023 in Strasbourg, eastern France, by formally announcing measures which have already been trailed.

These include restricting parliamentary access for former MEPs; registering outside individuals who lobby, meet or speak at the parliament; a public MEPs' registry of gifts and travel received; and punishment for breaches. —AFP

Righting shoddy nuclear waste storage site to cost Japan 36 bln yen

THE Japan Atomic Energy Agency estimates that it will cost taxpayers 36.1 billion yen ($280 million) to rectify the shoddy storage of radioactive waste in a storage pool at the Tokai Reprocessing Plant, the nation's first facility for reprocessing spent nuclear fuel, an official said Sunday.

Around 800 containers of transuranic radioactive waste, or "TRU waste," were dropped into the pool from 1977 to 1991 using a wire in the now-disused plant in Tokai, a village in Ibaraki Prefecture northeast of Tokyo. They emit high levels of radiation.

The waste includes pieces of metal cladding tubes that contained spent nuclear fuel, generated during the reprocessing process. The containers are ultimately supposed to be buried more than 300 metres below surface.

The agency has estimated that 19.1 billion yen will be needed to build a new storage facility for the containers, and 17 billion yen for a building that will cover the storage pool and the crane equipment to grab containers. The 794 containers each are about 80 centimetres in diameter, 90 cm tall and weigh about one tonne, with many lying on their sides or overturned in the pool. Some have had their shape altered by the impact of being dropped.—Kyodo

JAPAN and India began their first joint fighter jet exercise on Monday near Tokyo as the countries upgrade defence and security ties with an eye on China's growing military might.

The 11-day joint exercise will involve eight Japanese fighter jets, with India sending four fighters, two transport aircraft and an aerial refuelling tanker, Japan's defence ministry said.

Around 150 Indian Air Force personnel are taking part in the exercise at the Hyakuri Air Base in Ibaraki prefecture, northeast of Tokyo.

The drill was agreed by the two countries during talks between Japanese and Indian defence and foreign ministers in 2019, but was delayed by the pandemic.

Cambodia's clean-up of landmine-contaminated land benefits over 9 mln people

CAMBODIA has cleared roughly 2,554 square kilometres of landmine and explosive remnants of war (ERW) contaminated land in the last 30 years, benefiting more than nine million people, a senior official said on Monday.

Ly Thuch, first vice president of the Cambodian Mine Action and Victim Assistance Authority (CMAA), made the remarks during a meeting with mine clearance operators and donors here in Siem Reap province.

"With this clearance effort from 1992 to 2022, over 1.15 million anti-personnel mines, more than 26,135 anti-tank mines, and three million explosive remnants of war were found and destroyed," he said.

"These lands have been returned to communities for productive purposes such as agriculture, resettlement, roads, schools and other social infrastructure," he added.

Thuch said the Southeast Asian country currently needs to clear the remaining more than 700 square kilometres of land contaminated by mines and ERW by 2025.—Xinhua

Hopes of survivors in Nepal plane crash 'nil'

NEPALI rescue workers scoured a debris-strewn ravine Monday for four missing bodies from the mangled wreckage of a plane that crashed with 72 people on board, with hopes of any survivors now "nil", according to authorities.

The Yeti Airlines ATR 72 plummeted into the steep gorge, smashed into pieces and burst into flames as it approached the central city of Pokhara on Sunday morning, in Nepal's worst aviation disaster since 1992.

The cause of the crash was not yet known but a video on social media — verified by AFP partner ESN — showed the twin-propeller aircraft banking suddenly and sharply to the left as it approached Pokhara airport. A loud explosion followed.

Nepal, which has a poor record on air safety, observed a day of mourning on Monday for the victims.

Soldiers used ropes and stretchers to retrieve bodies from the 300-metre (1,000-foot) deep ravine late into the night, with recovery efforts resuming on Monday.

"We have collected 68 bodies so far. We are searching for four more bodies. We should continue until we get the bodies," senior local official Tek Bahadur KC told AFP.

"We pray for a miracle. But, the hope of finding anyone alive is nil," he said.

Nadal victorious but Kyrgios suffers Australian Open heartbreak

RAFAEL Nadal launched his Australian Open title defence with a four-set victory over Britain’s Jack Draper on Monday, as home hope Nick Kyrgios quit through injury without hitting a ball.

In the women’s draw, top seed Iga Swiatek survived a tough examination while Jessica Pegula and teenage prodigy Coco Gauff were both emphatic winners on the first day of action.

Spanish great Nadal, 36, had been in poor form by his sky-high standards, losing six of his last seven matches stretching back to defeat in the last 16 at the US Open. In fast-rising Draper, 21, the 22-time Grand Slam champion faced a stern test to start his campaign at a sweltering Melbourne Park.

Top seed Nadal recovered from a second-set wobble — and a bizarre incident when a ball boy accidentally took his racquet — to defeat the 38th-ranked Briton 7-5, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1 at Rod Laver Arena.

Nadal, who recently became a father, faces American Mackenzie McDonald in round two. “Very exciting, new beginning, just super-happy to be back at Rod Laver with a victory I needed,” he said after grinding down Draper.

“Last couple of months have not been easy for me.”

Nadal was on court when Australia’s talented but temperamental Kyrgios called a hastily arranged press conference and announced that he was out of the tournament with a knee injury. “I’m devastated, obviously,” said the Wimbledon finalist, who was considered an outside bet to win a maiden Grand Slam crown. “I’ve had some great tournaments here, winning the doubles last year and playing the tennis of my life probably going into this event. —AFP
