Palm oil wholesale reference price for Yangon Region bounces back from a-week fall

THE wholesale reference rate of palm oil for the Yangon market regained this week ending 9 April compared to that of the previous week, according to the Supervisory Committee on edible oil import and distribution. The reference price stood at K4,440 per viss in the week from 28 March to 2 April. For the week ending 9 April, the price was set higher at K4,515 per viss, showing a small decrease of K105 per viss this week.

The Supervisory Committee on edible oil import and distribution under the Ministry of Commerce has been closely observing the FOB prices in Malaysia and Indonesia including transport costs, tariffs and banking services, and issuing the wholesale market reference rate for edible oil every week.

Regardless of the reference price, the current market price is too high at over K6,000-7,000 per viss.

If those edible oil retailers and wholesalers are found overcharging, storing inventory intentionally and attempting unscrupulous action to manipulate the market, they will face legal action under the Essential Supplies and Service Act, MoC released a statement.

The Ministry of Commerce is striving for consumers not to worry over the supply of edible oil. The ministry is also trying to secure edible oil sufficiency, supervise the market to offer reasonable prices to the consumers and maintain price stability.

At present, mobile market trucks operated by oil importing companies, in coordination with Myanmar Edible Oil Dealers' Association, were back to business in some townships on 17 July 2022 to offer palm oil at a subsidized rate. They offer palm oil at a fairer price to the consumers directly depending on the reference price. However, there are limited sources of supply although they directly sell palm oil at a reference rate depending on the volume quota.

The domestic consumption of edible oil is estimated at a million tonnes per year. The local cooking oil production is just about 400,000 tonnes. To meet the oil sufficiency in the domestic market, about 700,000 tonnes of cooking oil are yearly imported through Malaysia and Indonesia. — NN/EM

Nurture saplings in summer for the coming monsoon

NOW is summer in Myanmar. It is a preparatory time for growing trees in monsoon. Hence, farms under the Ministry of Natural Resources and Environmental Conservation have started nurturing saplings to be distributed to people across the nation for doing green tasks in their environment.

Myanmar always holds tree-growing ceremonies in June and July when the monsoon brings a lot of rainwater to the country. At that time, rainwater treats hard soil from summer to be soft. So, rainwater is mixed with humus to be ready for the cultivation of saplings.

Millions of saplings are grown across the nation on a yearly basis as a public campaign so as to be the environment lush and green. Of them, some saplings are damaged and lost for various reasons. Hence, it is necessary to take lessons from the past events of growing the saplings in order to lose saplings in the relevant positions. It is because the government spends a large sum of money on nurturing the saplings.

The report of the United Nations stated that some 7.3 million hectares of forests disappear across the world for various reasons on a yearly basis. At the same time, forest areas in Myanmar are facing deforestation for extraction of timbers and forest products for State income, reclamation of farmlands in the forest areas, mining of minerals including gold, construction of dams and embankments, roads and bridges for infrastructures, and expansion of urban and rural areas for public residences.

In 2021, the monsoon tree growing ceremonies were held in the entire nation under the plan for growing two-foot saplings for two years old to have resilience to climatic conditions. Moreover, local authorities raised public awareness to protect the already planted saplings by preventing the various dangers to harm the saplings and substitute the withered plants with new ones. Actually, it is sure that the concerted efforts of the people in growing saplings will not be wasted, and the remaining trees apart from withered ones will help improve the climate of the nation gradually.

Cocaine trafficking surges following COVID-19-related slowdown

The supply surge matches a steep growth in demand, with many regions showing a steady rise in cocaine users over the past decade. While the cocaine market remains quite concentrated in the Americas and parts of Europe, the report warns that there is a strong potential for a large expansion in Africa and Asia.

ROUTED through new hubs and expanded criminal networks, cocaine trafficking has made a dramatic comeback following an initial slowdown caused by the emergence of COVID-19, the UN Office on Drugs and Crime said on Thursday in a hard-hitting new report.

“The surge in the global cocaine supply should put all of us on high alert,” UNODC Executive Director Ghada Waly said. “The potential for the cocaine market to expand in Africa and Asia is a dangerous reality.”

Sky high supply and demand
Criminal networks are now diversifying with alarming results alongside record levels of production, moving beyond the pandemic and its related global shutdown, which had appeared to have temporarily hobbled the illicit trade, UNODC said in its Global Report on Cocaine 2023.

To best respond, Ms Waly urged governments and others to closely examine the report’s findings to determine how this transnational threat can be met with transnational responses based on awareness raising, prevention, and international and regional cooperation.

Inroads into Africa and Asia
The report details how coca cultivation soared 35 per cent from 2020 to 2021, a record high and the sharpest year-to-year increase since 2016.

The rise is a result of both an expansion in coca bush cultivation and improvements in the process of converting coca bush to cocaine hydrochloride, the drug which is then sold on the streets.

The supply surge matches a steep growth in demand, with many regions showing a steady rise in cocaine users over the past decade. While the cocaine market remains quite concentrated in the Americas and parts of Europe, the report warns that there is a strong potential for a large expansion in Africa and Asia.

The report examines the emergence of new hubs for cocaine trafficking, noting that countries in Southeastern Europe and Africa — particularly those in West and Central Africa — are increasingly being used as key transit zones for the drug.

Ports on the North Sea like Antwerp, Rotterdam, and Hamburg, meanwhile, have eclipsed traditional entry points in Spain and Portugal, for cocaine arriving in Western Europe. Traffickers are also diversifying their routes in Central America by sending more and more cocaine to Europe, in addition to North America.

Record-high seizures

Arrests and seizures have also skyrocketed. Interceptions of cocaine shipments by law enforcement around the world recorded seizures reaching a record high of nearly 2,000 tonnes in 2021.

The report shows a criminal landscape fragmented into myriad trafficking networks. Examining these groups’ modalities, the report found new traffickers filling gaps and an array of so-called “service providers” lending supply-chain services “for a fee”.

For instance, the demobilization of fighters from the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (FARC), which had previously controlled many of Colombia’s coca-growing regions, created an opening for others to step in. This includes new, local actors, ex-FARC fighters, and foreign groups from Mexico and Europe, the report showed.

Tracking trends

Angela Me, Chief of the UN-ODC Research and Analysis Branch, said the report contains a wealth of more information about the phenomenon.

“With its latest knowledge and trends on the routes, modalities, and networks employed by criminal actors,” she said, “it is my hope that the report will support evidence-based strategies which stay ahead of future developments in cocaine production, trafficking, and use.”

Ms Me told UN News in an interview before the report launch that dealing with the increase in demand for cocaine was a major international challenge, so rethinking ways in which countries could work together to tackle the problem was much needed.

Japan to soon scrap negative Covid test requirement for visitors from China

According to the relaxed restrictions, which may go into effect in early April, as long as they have received at least three doses of a Covid-19 vaccine, passengers from mainland China will no longer be required to produce documentation of a negative coronavirus test done 72 hours or less before departure.

OWING to a low percentage of positive results from sampling at airports, Japan is considering scrapping a requirement of a negative Covid-19 test for those travelling from China, Kyodo News reported.

According to the relaxed restrictions, which may go into effect in early April, as long as they have received at least three doses of a Covid-19 vaccine, passengers from mainland China will no longer be required to produce documentation of a negative coronavirus test done 72 hours or less before departure.

Covid-19 testing of all arrivals

The Japanese government began requiring Covid-19 testing of all arrivals from the Chinese mainland, including those who had been there within the previous seven days, at the end of the last year, according to Kyodo News.

Early in January, Japan added a requirement for confirmation of a negative test further to tighten border inspections for visitors from the Chinese mainland.

However, the authorities decided to test only passengers on particular aircraft departing from China in March after observing a decline in the amount of Covid-19-positive tests.

The relaxations came a day after Japan’s audit board had requested the health ministry to provide supporting documentation for contracts with the US and British coronavirus vaccine manufacturers after finding a weak basis for ordering a total of 882 million doses in fiscal 2020 and 2021, Kyodo News reported.

The report released on Wednesday by the Board of Audit of Japan also found that at least 30 per cent of the doses were either cancelled or disposed of after expiring.

Fee for FDA approval application reduced by K500,000

The test for a ready-to-eat food product is running in an FDA laboratory.

IN order to encourage and promote micro, small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), the amount to be paid for applications for food production approval has been changed by the Food and Drug Administration Department under the Ministry of Health starting from 1 April.

According to the statement, the submission fee for the online e-submission for the approval of the Food and Drug Administration Department was originally K750,000 and it will be only K250,000 from now on.

In addition, the valid date for the application is from 1 April to 30 September, and the laboratory test fee is not included in the amount of K250,000 to be submitted for the online e-submission, the statement of MoH indicated. If the examination of the businesses which apply for approval within six months is completed, the approval valid for one year will be issued, notified the MoH.

It is stated that edible oils, potentially hazardous foods, and purified drinking water with specially controlled food labels are not covered in this programme. In addition, the Food and Drug Administration Department has informed that there is no need for further testing in the FDA's laboratories for foods with a low risk of harm and foods with a medium risk level, if it presents the test results that have been checked within three months at the accredited laboratories of Myanmar Food Laboratory Network. — TWA/CT

DICA apprises companies of requisite attached documents in filing AR

THE Directorate of Investment and Company Administration has notified the companies of providing attached documents alongside the annual returns (AR) on the online registry system, MyCO to ensure compliance with the existing laws.

The DICA has been closely monitoring the companies. More attached documents are required for filing the AR to check whether the directors of the companies follow the laws or not.

This move is to support the anti-money laundering and counter-terrorism financing law. According to Section 97 of the Myanmar Companies Law, all with the AR.

The bank statement of a company's business account that shows a deposit for paid-up capital from shareholders must be presented while filing AR on the MyCO, together with the copy of the citizenship scrutiny card of the director and police verification certificate for proof of the actual address.

If the company's director is a foreigner, the certificate of registration is also to be provided with the documents made in line with the Registration of Foreigners Rules (1948).

Additionally, the police verification certificate for the present address of the company that needs to be the exact address while filling out registration, a copy of the shareholders' citizenship scrutiny card and the police clearance must be attached with the AR.

If the company's shareholders are legal persons or legal entities, the proof of the institution concerned needs to be added as well, the DICA stated.

China developing parachute system to recover reusable rocket parts

CHINESE engineers are working on a parachute system for recovering rocket boosters and fairings during launches.

Developed by the China Academy of Space Technology, the system will be used to help make the recovery of reusable rocket parts more precise and controllable.

According to the research team, the system, which uses glide-control technology, can narrow the landing range to a smaller area than the usual range of 30 to 90 kilometres. Together with landing buffering technology, it will enable the boosters and fairings to remain intact after landing on the ground.

China's major launch sites are deep inland, which means that preventing fallen rocket parts from landing unpredictably, especially in areas with human activity, has become an urgent key task for scientists.

Teng Haishan, a deputy chief engineer of the project, said the recovery system can also help lower the price of rocket launches, providing more economical services.

"In the past two years, China has conducted carrier rocket launches more than 50 times each year. Once such a recovery system is in place, more than one billion yuan (about 145 million US dollars) in launch costs can be saved each year," Teng noted.

NASA to reveal crew for 2024 flight around the Moon

NASA is to reveal the names on Monday of the astronauts — three Americans and a Canadian — who will fly around the Moon next year, a prelude to returning humans to the lunar surface for the first time in a half century.

The mission, Artemis II, is scheduled to take place in November 2024 with the four-person crew circling the Moon but not landing on it.

As part of the Artemis program, NASA aims to send astronauts to the Moon in 2025 — more than five decades after the historic Apollo missions ended in 1972.

Besides putting the first woman and first person of colour on the Moon, the US space agency hopes to establish a lasting human presence on the lunar surface and eventually launch a voyage to Mars.

NASA administrator Bill Nelson said this week at a "What's Next Summit" hosted by Axios that he expected a crewed mission to Mars by the year 2040.

The four members of the Artemis II crew will be announced at an event at 10:00 am (1500 GMT) at the Johnson Space Centre in Houston.

The 10-day Artemis II mission will test NASA's powerful Space Launch System rocket as well as the life-support systems aboard the Orion spacecraft.

The first Artemis mission wrapped up in December with an uncrewed Orion capsule returning safely to Earth after a 25-day journey around the Moon.

During the trip around Earth's orbiting satellite and back, Orion logged well over a million miles (1.6 million kilometres) and went farther from Earth than any previous habitable spacecraft.

Nelson was also asked at the Axios summit whether NASA could stick to its timetable of landing astronauts on the south pole of the Moon in late 2025.

"Space is hard," Nelson said. "You have to wait until you know that it's as safe as possible, because you're living right on the edge. — AFP

Arctic scientists race to preserve 'ice memory'

ARCTIC scientists are set to start drilling to save samples of ancient ice for analysis before the frozen layers melt away due to climate change, mission organizers said on Monday.

Italian, French and Norwegian researchers have set up camp in Norway's Svalbard archipelago in what they called a race against time to preserve crucial ice records for analyzing past environmental conditions.

They will extract ice in a series of tubes from as far as 125 metres (137 yards) below the surface, containing frozen geochemical traces dating back three centuries.

Analysis of chemicals in deep "ice cores" provides scientists with valuable data about past environmental conditions.

But experts warn that water from melting ice is leaking down and altering the geochemical records preserved in ancient ice beneath.

Ice scientists "are seeing their primary material disappear forever from the surface of the planet", Jerome Chapellaz, president of the Ice Memory foundation running the operation, told AFP. "It is our responsibility as glaciologists of this generation to make sure a bit of it is preserved."

Human-caused carbon emissions have warmed the planet by 1.1 degrees Celsius since the 19th century. Studies indicate that the Arctic is warming between two and four times faster than the global average.

One set of ice tubes will be used for immediate analysis while a second set will be sent to Antarctica for storage in an "ice memory sanctuary" under the snow, where the samples will be preserved for future generations of scientists. — AFP

Dry spell leads to wildfires across South Korea

FIREFIGHTERS were scrambling Monday to contain wildfires across South Korea as a dry spell led to blazes in multiple regions, including on a mountain popular with hikers in central Seoul.

A fire broke out Sunday morning on Mount Inwang, a popular outdoor destination in Seoul's Jongno district, and spread rapidly due to strong winds, the city government said in a statement.

About 120 households were forced to evacuate, but no deaths or injuries were reported, it added.

Firefighters using helicopters were still struggling to extinguish smouldering fires early Monday, the statement said, although the main blaze was put out Sunday evening.

Authorities planned to investigate the cause of the fire once it was completely extinguished, Yonhap news agency reported.

On Monday, firefighting authorities were also battling strong winds and smoke in an effort to contain wildfires across Chungcheong province, south of Seoul.

More than 60 homes and buildings were damaged by fire and at least 236 people were evacuated in Hongseong county in the south of Chungcheong, according to the Korea Forest Service.

South Korean President Yoon Suk Yeol on Sunday ordered fire and forest authorities to use "all possible resources" to put out the fires, his office said. — AFP

Highway freight service facilitates trade between ASEAN, western China

THE volume of cross-border highway freight transport via the New International Land-Sea Trade Corridor increased with a growing number of trucks involved in the first quarter of this year, according to the Chongqing Highway Logistics Base in southwest China's Chongqing Municipality.

During the period, 1,306 truck trips transported goods worth about 991 million yuan (about 144.03 million US dollars), surging 316 per cent and 394 per cent year on year, respectively. The service delivered 2,939 twenty-foot equivalent unit (TEU) containers with a total cargo weight of 28,100 tonnes.

In March, 403 truck trips delivered 907 TEU containers of goods worth about 308 million yuan, a year-on-year increase of 153 per cent, 153 per cent, and 377 per cent, respectively.

Launched in April 2016, Chongqing's cross-border highway freight service mainly caters to countries of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN). It reduced transportation time compared with sea freight massively.

As of 31 March, 11 cross-border highway freight-service routes had been launched, covering over 30 cities in Southeast Asia and parts of South and Central Asia. Via the service, auto parts, motorcycle parts, laptops, and fruits from Chongqing and other regions are transported to the ASEAN countries. — Xinhua

Indonesia's inflation falls to 4.97% in March

INDONESIA posted its inflation at 4.97 per cent year-on-year in March, the lowest in the last seven months, according to Statistics Indonesia (BPS) on Monday.

The March inflation figure was compared to 5.47 per cent in February and 5.28 per cent in January, but it was still above the central bank's target range of two per cent to four per cent.

"Inflation at this beginning of Ramadan was relatively lower than the previous year, but we must be aware of rising commodity prices and high demand ahead of the Eid al-Fitr holiday," said BPS deputy for distribution and services statistics, Pudji Ismartini, at a press conference.

Indonesia, with its large population of Muslims, typically experiences higher inflation during the Muslim fasting month of Ramadan, which this year started in late March. — Xinhua

Sri Lanka revises tourism targets due to positive trends

SRI Lanka's tourism industry is aiming to attract two million visitors in 2023, an increase from the previous target of 1.5 million, an official said on Monday.

Sri Lanka Tourism Development Authority (SLTDA) Chairman Priantha Fernando told the media that the SLTDA amended the estimates due to a positive trend in the first quarter of the year.

Fernando said Sri Lanka has already exceeded its target for March 2023, with over 112,000 tourists arriving in the first 28 days of the month, marking the first time since 2019 that Sri Lanka has welcomed over 100,000 tourists for three consecutive months.

Sri Lanka has welcomed over 323,000 tourists so far this year, he said.

The country is expecting a boost in Chinese tourists due to increased flights and promotional efforts in China, and is also considering adding direct flights from Israel, he said.

Tourism, one of Sri Lanka's leading foreign exchange earners, has suffered a setback due to the COVID-19 pandemic and economic and political crises in the country. — Xinhua

NTT network service disruptions hit over 440,000 lines across Japan

NIPPON Telegraph and Telephone Corp's regional subsidiaries said their internet and landline telephone services experienced disruptions Monday, affecting up to 446,000 internet lines across Japan.

The disruptions were caused by a failure in communications equipment on Monday morning, the first business day of fiscal 2023, before services were restored hours later, Nippon Telegraph and Telephone East Corp and Nippon Telegraph and Telephone West

Corp said.

NTT Docomo Inc and SoftBank Corp, which both use NTT's optical line services, also experienced connection issues following the disruptions at NTT.

At an online press conference, officials from NTT East and NTT West acknowledged the outage constituted a "serious incident" under the law. The communications ministry may issue administrative orders to both companies depending on the cause, which is currently under investigation. — Kyodo

Türkiye's inflation slows to 50% ahead of election

TÜRKIYE'S annual inflation rate slowed to 50 per cent in March, official data showed on Monday, delivering another boost for President Recep Tayyip Erdogan ahead May elections.

The inflation rate slowed for a fifth consecutive month from a high of more than 85 per cent, according to the state statistics agency.

The official rate stood at 50.5 last month, down from 55.2 per cent in February.

The slowdown was led by a drop in the cost Türkiye's energy imports, the figures showed.

But analysts warn that consumer price increase may start speeding up again unless Türkiye radically alters its economic policies.

SOUTH Korean carmakers' global automotive sale grew in double digits last month thanks to solid demand both at home and abroad, industry data showed on Monday.

The number of cars, sold globally by five local automakers including Hyundai, Kia, GM Korea, Renault Korea and KG Mobility, was 730,241 in March, up 19.8 per cent from the same month of last year.

The domestic auto sale advanced 26.8 per cent to 140,926 units, and the car sale outside South Korea jumped 18.5 per cent to 589,315 units.

Global car sale by the country's top carmaker Hyundai Motor totalled 381,885 units in March, up 21.3 per cent from a year earlier.

Hyundai's car sale at home soared 40.9 per cent to 74,529 units, and its overseas sale spiked 17.4 per cent to 307,356 vehicles.

Kia Motors, affiliated with Hyundai, globally sold 278,275 vehicles in March, up 10.9 per cent from a year ago. — Xinhua

Business confidence slumps among Japan's big manufacturers

JAPAN'S largest manufacturers feel less optimistic about business conditions with confidence falling to its lowest level in more than two years, a key survey showed Monday.

The Bank of Japan's closely watched quarterly Tankan survey is considered the broadest indicator of how Japanese businesses are faring.

It reports the difference between the percentage of firms that are upbeat and those that see conditions as unfavourable.

Among major manufacturers, business confidence fell to plus one from plus seven three months earlier.

The reading was the lowest since December 2020, marking the fifth quarterly drop in sentiment, and was below market expectations of plus four.

Optimism grew slightly among non-manufacturers, however, from 19 to 20. A positive figure means more businesses feel optimistic than pessimistic.

During the fraught first months of the Covid-19 pandemic in June 2020, the Tankan score for Japan's big manufacturers plunged to minus 34.

Tsuyoshi Ueno, a senior economist at NLI Research Institute, had predicted a drop in the manufacturing reading ahead of the survey's release on Monday.

"Business confidence among large manufacturers is expected to worsen markedly, given high raw material and fuel prices, as overseas demand falls and the global semiconductor market continues to deteriorate," he said.

Central banks around the world have hiked interest rates to tackle soaring inflation linked to the war in Ukraine and other factors, but the Bank of Japan has stuck to its longstanding monetary easing policies.

Viet Nam's seafood exports in 1st quarter drop on weak global demand

THE value of Vietnamese seafood exports slumped 27 per cent in the first quarter from a year earlier to 1.85 billion US dollars as inflation in most countries has soared to multi-year highs, denting global growth and exacerbating weak demand, Vietnam News Agency reported on Monday.

The Viet Nam Association of Seafood Exporters and Producers (VASEP) said shipments of shrimps, a key earner, posted a year-on-year plunge of 40 per cent in the first three months to 577 million dollars, catfish exports tumbled 32 per cent to 447 million dollars, and tuna shipments fell 31 per cent to 179 million dollars. Sales of other wild-caught fishes, the only bright spot in otherwise sluggish seafood exports, edged up three per cent to 435 million dollars, said VASEP.

Shrimp exports, which normally account for up to 45 per cent of Viet Nam's total annual seafood exports, faced tougher competition from low-priced products from Ecuador, India and Indonesia, especially in the US market, said Le Hang, VASEP's director of communications.

However, China's optimized COVID-19 response has given Viet Nam's catfish exporters renewed hope for a better-than-expected trading environment in the year ahead, Hang said. — Xinhua

Thai poll hopefuls register as opposition vows constitutional reform

CANDIDATES began registering Monday for Thailand's upcoming general election, in which Prime Minister Prayut Chan-O-Cha faces a tough fight against opposition parties vowing to rewrite the kingdom's army-scripted constitution.

Former army chief Prayut, who came to power in a coup in 2014, insisted the country needed an experienced leader as he accompanied prospective MPs from his United Thai Nation.

He faces a difficult challenge from a resurgent opposition fronted by Paetongtarn Shinawatra, daughter of billionaire former PM Thaksin Shinawatra.

Prayut, 69, arrived on an open-top truck with supporters and candidates in lively scenes at a Bangkok sports hall.

Thailand "needs people who know how to do the job. If they have never done it, they can't do it," Prayut told Thairath TV.

Thais go to the polls on 14 May for the first election since the kingdom was rocked by major youth-led protests in 2020 calling for political reform.

Prayut and his party are lagging in the polls behind Paetongtarn's Pheu Thai and the progressive Move Forward Party led by Pita Limjaroenrat.

But while opposition parties are riding high in the polls, Thailand's junta-scripted 2017 constitution gives army-favoured parties a big advantage when it comes to forming a government. — AFP

IAEA head set for safety talks on Ukraine nuke plant

UN nuclear chief Rafael Grossi will travel to Russia's Kaliningrad territory on Wednesday for talks on the Moscow-held Zaporizhzhia nuclear power plant in southern Ukraine, officials said.

Grossi said last week while in Ukraine that he was working on a compromise security plan for the site and warned of increased military activity around it.

"Grossi will visit Kaliningrad on Wednesday as part of his ongoing consultations aimed at ensuring the protection of Ukraine's Zaporizhzhia Nuclear Power Plant during the military conflict," the International Atomic Energy Agency spokesman told AFP on Monday.

There are persistent fears over the safety of the plant in the southern Ukrainian region of Zaporizhzhia, where there has been frequent shelling since Russian troops invaded last year.

Grossi is to meet a "Russian interdepartmental delegation" on Wednesday, Russia's ambassador to the UN in Vienna Mikhail Ulyanov told Russian news agencies.

Ulyanov added that "declaring that a protection regime at the plant has been established" was "still a long way off".

Kyiv and Moscow have accused each other of shelling the plant, increasing fears of a disaster.

Grossi said last week after visiting the plant that his team had previously focused on the possibility of establishing a security zone around the plant, but "now the concept is evolving". — AFP

India's Rahul Gandhi appeals defamation conviction

TOP Indian opposition leader Rahul Gandhi appealed on Monday against the defamation conviction that resulted in his expulsion from parliament two weeks ago.

Gandhi, 52, who was sentenced to two years imprisonment in a case about remarks he made in 2019 seen as insulting to Prime Minister Narendra Modi and those sharing his surname, is looking to overturn the conviction before elections due next year.

The sentence also renders Gandhi ineligible to stand in the poll, which the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party is widely expected to win convincingly.

Egypt's leader makes snap Saudi visit as economic woes mount EGYPTIAN President Abdel Fattah el-Sisi met Saudi Arabia's de facto ruler on a brief visit late on Sunday, state media said, as the North African country grapples with severe economic difficulties.

Sisi was greeted at Jeddah airport by Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman and was waved off again several hours later by the 37-year-old, according to the Saudi Press Agency.

Few details were given about the meeting, but import-dependent Egypt's economic fortunes have plunged since Russia's invasion of Ukraine sent wheat prices soaring, fuelling rampant inflation.

Saudi Arabia, which will host an Arab League summit next month, is also engaging in significant de-escalation in the turbulent region, signalling a return to diplomatic relations with arch-rival Iran after a seven-year gap.

"They discussed developments in the regional and international situation and the efforts exerted in addressing them, in addition to tackling all issues of common concern," SPA said.

Sisi's visit comes after Saudi Finance Minister Mohammed Al-Jadaan said in January that oil-rich Riyadh would stop providing unconditional aid to Egypt, setting off a brief spat between state-linked media in both countries.

The editor-in-chief of a state-owned Egyptian newspaper was forced to apologize to the Saudi people over an article at the time. An Egyptian official told AFP that higher authorities in Cairo intervened to defuse the squabbling.

The Egyptian pound has lost half of its value in the past year, propelling annual inflation to 32.9 per cent in February.

Of the $34.2 billion in Cairo's foreign reserves in February — a 20-per-cent drop from a year earlier — some $28 billion are deposits from wealthy Gulf allies.

But Sisi's Gulf allies — on whose support he relied after deposing Islamist president Mohamed Morsi in 2013 — are now demanding economic reform and greater transparency in return for their largesse.

As part of its regional de-escalation, Riyadh has announced talks with Syria on resuming consular services after a break of nearly 10 years.

Meanwhile, in recent weeks its ally Cairo has welcomed the foreign ministers of both Syria and Türkiye for the first time in a decade. — AFP

Oil powers announce surprise cuts of more than 1 million bpd

MAJOR oil powers led by Saudi Arabia announced a surprise production cut of more than one million barrels per day on Sunday, calling it a “precautionary” move aimed at stabilizing the market.

The reductions, on top of a Russian decision to extend a cut of 500,000 barrels per day, and despite US calls to increase production, risk stoking inflation and pressure to raise interest rates.

Cuts by Saudi Arabia, Iraq, the UAE, Kuwait, Algeria and Oman from May to the end of the year will top one million barrels per day – the biggest reduction since the OPEC+ cartel slashed two million barrels per day in October.

Russia, a leading member of the OPEC+ cartel, said it was also extending an existing cut of 500,000 bpd to the end of this year, describing it as “a responsible and preventive action”.

Oil prices soared almost six per cent in Asian trade on Monday morning with West Texas Intermediate jumping by 5.74 per cent to $80.01 a barrel and Brent climbing 5.67 per cent to $84.42.

A Saudi energy ministry official “emphasized that this is a precautionary measure aimed at supporting the stability of the oil market”, the official Saudi Press Agency said. The cuts follow a drop in oil prices triggered by jitters over the banking sector, following the collapse of US lender SVB and UBS’s hurried buy-out of troubled rival Credit Suisse, UAE-based oil expert Ibrahim al-Ghitani told AFP. — AFP

S Korea, US, Japan conduct naval exercise

SOUTH Korea, the United States and Japan began a two-day naval exercise in international waters south of South Korea, officials said on Monday.

The anti-submarine and search-and-rescue exercise will be staged from Monday to Tuesday in international waters south of the South Korean southern island of Jeju, according to South Korea’s Ministry of National Defense.

South Korea mobilized three destroyers and one combat support ship, the United States engaged the USS Nimitz nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, along with USS Wayne E Meyer and USS Decatur destroyers, and Japan sent JS Umigiri destroyer.

It marks the first trilateral anti-submarine exercise in six months since September 2022, the South Korean ministry said.

The trilateral search-and-rescue exercise will be held in seven years since 2016 to practice procedures such as rapid rescue, and emergency patient treatment and transportation in the event of a marine accident, the ministry added. — Xinhua

Three dead as powerful earthquake strikes PNG

AT least three people were killed after a 7.0-magnitude earthquake shook a remote region of northwestern Papua New Guinea before dawn Monday.

The country’s National Disaster Centre said dozens of homes were also affected as emergency crews continued to assess the damage across difficult terrain.

The quake struck at a depth of 62 kilometres (38 miles) near the Chambri Lake system in the sparsely populated region of East Sepik Province, the US Geological Survey said.

“Chambri lake is boiling and the continuous quake is still happening right now,” a member of parliament in the area, Johnson Wapunai, said in a message on social media several hours after the quake struck.

The lawmaker urged people to watch out for falling objects or trees, and to be on alert for further seismic activity.

No tsunami warning was issued.

Colles Pinga, who lives not far from the epicentre, told Australia’s national broadcaster that three homes in his village were destroyed and people have been injured.

“There’s landslides along the riverbanks... it’s quite frightening,” Pinga told the Australian Broadcasting Corporation. — AFP

Russia to boost military in northwest as Finland joins NATO: diplomat

RUSSIA said Monday it would boost its military presence in the west and northwest of the country in response to Finland joining NATO.

Secretary-General Jens Stoltenberg announced earlier in the day that Finland will become the 31st member of the military alliance on Tuesday.

“We will strengthen our military potential in the western and northwestern direction,” Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Alexander Grushko was quoted as saying by state news agency RIA Novosti.

“In the event of the deployment of forces and resources of other NATO members on the territory of Finland, we will take additional steps to reliably ensure Russia’s military security,” he added.

Russia and Finland share a 1,300-kilometre (800-mile) border.

Finland to become 31st NATO member on Tuesday

FINLAND’S flag will be hoisted outside NATO headquarters on Tuesday when it becomes the newest member of the Western alliance, Secretary General Jens Stoltenberg said.

“Tomorrow we will welcome Finland as the 31st member,” Stoltenberg told reporters on the eve of a historic meeting of NATO foreign ministers in Brussels.

Russian President Vladimir Putin’s all-out invasion of Ukraine last year upended European security and pushed Finland — and its neighbour Sweden — to drop decades of non-alignment and seek to join NATO’s protective umbrella.

Objections from Türkiye and Hungary held up Helsinki’s bid for months, and are still blocking Stockholm, before the parliament in Ankara cleared the final obstacle for Finland with a vote last week.

Completing the ratification in well under a year still makes this the fastest membership process in the alliance’s recent history.

Now all that is left are the last highly choreographed formalities at NATO headquarters in Brussels.

Finland’s foreign minister will hand over the formal accession papers to US Secretary of State Antony Blinken, the keeper of NATO’s founding treaty, and the country’s blue-and-white flag will be raised alongside those of its new allies.

Finland’s President Sauli Niinisto will speak at the event, Helsinki said.

“President Putin went to war against Ukraine with a clear aim to get less NATO,” Stoltenberg said.

Messi jeered as PSG suffer another home defeat

PARIS Saint-Germain suffered a second home defeat in a row Sunday, falling 1-0 to Lyon as their World Cup winning superstar Lionel Messi was jeered by a section of supporters.

After losing 2-0 at home to Rennes two weeks ago, it was Lyon's Bradley Barcola who inflicted the latest loss for PSG at the Parc des Princes.

The goal by Barcola — who had come on as replacement for injured Amin Sarr — made up for a missed penalty by Alexandre Lacazette in the first half.

It is the Parisians' fifth Ligue 1 loss this season, all of them in 2023, and leaves Christophe Galtier's side just six points ahead of both second-placed Lens and Marseille in third.

The night started in controversial circumstances.

Klopp not afraid of losing Liverpool job despite wave of departures

JURGEN Klopp says he is not afraid of the axe after a spate of Premier League casualties but admits struggling Liverpool must deliver as he prepares his team to face managerless Chelsea.

Liverpool, who fell agonisingly short of winning an unprecedented quadruple last season, are eight points off the top four after Saturday's painful 4-1 loss at defending champions Manchester City.

Klopp takes his team to Stamford Bridge on Tuesday after the weekend sacking of Graham Potter, hours after Leicester parted ways with Brendan Rodgers. Antonio Conte left Tottenham "by mutual agreement" last week.

There have now been 13 managerial departures in the English top flight this season — a new record.

"I think the elephant in the room is probably why I am still sitting here in this crazy world," Klopp said at his pre-match press conference on Monday. "Last man standing."

The German admitted the current season had been a disappointment for the club, who are used to winning silverware.

"I'm aware of the fact that I'm sitting here because of the past and not because of what we did this season," said Klopp. "If this was my first season it would be slightly different." — AFP
