SAC Chairman PM Senior General Min Aung Hlaing visits National Kandawgyi Garden, Pwekauk waterfall resort (BE Falls)

State Administration Council Chairman Prime Minister Senior General Min Aung Hlaing views round the National Kandawgyi Garden in PyinOoLwin on 17 April 2023.

CHAIRMAN of the State Administration Council Prime Minister Senior General Min Aung Hlaing yesterday morning inspected the conservation of the National Kandawgyi Garden in PyinOoLwin.

Officials reported on the inflow of water to the lake from the inlets due to renovation in accord with the guidance of the Senior General, test growing of domestic flowery plant species in the research centre, regular sanitation tasks at the inlet channels of water to the National Kandawgyi Garden and public relaxation during the Thingyan period and flower festivals.

After hearing the reports, the Senior General stressed the need to conduct research on flowery plants thriving all season round. It is necessary to systematically do research on the better blossoming of cherry. Only when the environment is lush and green will people take relaxing. Officials were urged to maintain the inflow of water to the Kandawgyi Lake and instructed to develop PyinOoLwin.

The Senior General viewed round the National Kandawgyi Garden and cordially greeted the people who took relaxing.

The Senior General instructed officials to keep trash bins for systematic disposing in the garden not to throw garbage into the lake, grow cheery plants in the National Kandawgyi Garden in addition to other shade plants.

As the inflow of water volume to the lake is lesser, the water courses are maintained in accordance with the guidance of the Senior General. So, an inflow of water to the lake turns into normalcy. During this Maha Thingyan festival, 24,950 people paid visits to the garden but 317,115 in the flower festival in 2022.

Then, the Senior General and party rode Sky Cable Car built in Pwekauk Waterfall resort (BE Falls). The Senior General and party viewed the skill demonstration of elephants in the BE Falls and fed them. After inspecting the pumping at the flowery patches by using solar power, the Senior General cordially greeted the people who took relaxing.

If it is a good deed, all will be good

TODAY is a significant day which falls in Myanmar New Year in 1385 ME after the old year 1384 ME has gone out. From this New Year's Day, I wish all citizens to be free from any dangers and enjoy all good deeds as they anticipate. On the New Year occasion, I would like to urge all with loving-kindness to follow ten good-deed practices on a daily basis to enjoy good things based on physical, oral and mental moves for their prosperity in the morning, in the afternoon and at night and to be able to overcome any challenges in line with the Pubbanhna Sutta preached by the Lord Buddha.

May all auspiciousness be for all virtuous persons. May all good celestial beings look after all virtuous persons. May all virtuous persons be physical and mental well-being due to all Lord Buddhas, all Dhamma and all members of the Sangha.

It means making a wish for all. Actually, the Buddhism is the advice of the Lord Buddha. All virtuous persons have to exercise good deeds to have all auspiciousness under the advice of Buddhism. All virtuous persons have to take good meritorious deeds to have blessed varieties of good celestial beings.

All virtuous persons have to perform meritorious deeds to enjoy health and happiness because they believe in the Lord Buddhas, all Dhamma preachings and all members of the Sangha. The Lord Buddha had given advice to all living beings with blessings in addition to pointing out the ways of enjoying good deeds via self-efforts.

As such, all virtuous persons and I have to keep three gems: Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha in our souls from this New Year's Day to the Nibbana by performing noble deeds, and may all virtuous persons have a chance of serving their interests as well as the interests of all, the Sasana and the country.

MAY the whole living world be peaceful and tranquil as a shining moon. I bid farewell to the old year and welcome the New Year. The moon gives lighting not only to the jungle where virtuous persons reside but to the jungle of robbers and rebels. Loving-kindness is like a "moon". I extend my greetings that the whole world can be peaceful and prosperous as a moon during the transition from the old year to the new one.

How do we bid farewell to the old year in the transition from 1384 ME to 1385 ME? How will we welcome the New Year? Everybody needs to understand how we will embrace the New Year. Every human needs to understand that the whole world is always changing from the old to the new ones. It is "Dhamma". Despite different faiths and religions, changing from the old to the new ones is a common concept for all. In changing process, new years take the positions of old years. So also, new eras and systems take the places of old ones. Old years and systems disappear. Likewise, new systems are getting old and then will disappear.

All humans in different strata including the poor, the rich, hunters, fishermen, politicians and all religious leaders are facing physical changes from the tip of the hair to the feet. At the same time, all physical and mental beings are changing and ruining. It can be called "Sankara". Hence, everybody needs to analyze "Sankara" to change their mindsets.

Greed, anger, ignorance, conceit, jealousy and envy are very old and faded minds. If everybody cannot wash their mindsets, the whole world will never be peaceful and prosperous. It is important that only when all kinds of old and faded ed minds must be wiped off will they possess seven kinds of mindsets called virtuous morale. Just washing cannot clean the bad morale.

Some religious sects contemporary with the Lord Buddha keep themselves in the water of the Ganges, Jamuna and Niranjana rivers with their concept to fade out their passion. Some sets hold a concept that passion will not fade out by just keeping themselves in the water. So they scorch themselves in summer to burn passion. Up to now, there remain these concepts in India. The mind cannot be burnt as well as washed with water. The water of Thingyan is a commemorative concept. I would like to point out that if you all wish to clean your dirty mind which has been existing since the early world period, everybody needs to clean the mind with Sila, Samadhi and Panna called Dhamma water. So, all virtuous persons need to uphold the Dhamma water to clean and polish their mindsets.

May all wash their old minds with Dhamma water to possess new mindsets.

Pwekawk Waterfall faced ecological degradation due to undisciplined acts of shops, disposing of and cutting trees. In accord with the guidance of the Senior General, the waterfall was renovated. As the fall uses natural clean water, visitors can enjoy water healthily. The first-ever glass bridge was built there for the visitors to enjoy the scenes under the bridge. Flower festivals will be held there annually. The area is facilitated with a glass bridge, suspension bridge, log house, coffee shop, jungle trekking paths, relaxation areas and playgrounds. Now, the 554 metres long Sky Cable Way has been built for travellers to ride sky cable cars so as to enjoy natural scenes. During the Maha Thingyan festival period, local and international travellers paid visits to the Pwekawk (BE Falls). — MNA/TTA

New Year Message of greetings delivered by Chairman of State Administration Council
Prime Minister Senior General Thadoe Maha Thray Sithu Thadoe Thiri Thudhamma
Min Aung Hlaing on New Year occasion in 1385 Myanmar Era
Myanmar New Year Day, 13th Waning of Tagu 1385 ME
17 April 2023

I extend greetings to all people and all ethnic national brethren to be auspicious on the occasion of the Myanmar New Year.

Today is New Year's Day of 1385 ME when we all could overcome all challenges in the old year with the concept that “The strength of the nation lies within”, by giving a helping hand to each other of the Union. I believe we all would have the capacity to pass the year 1385 ME with unity not less than the previous year.

During the past year, the State Administration Council led by myself successfully solved the Covid-19 pandemic issue through the united strength of the government, Tatmadaw and the people. Now, we are striving for shaping a safe and healthy environment for all citizens and creating good health practices in the long run. Food security is important for all citizens to have a healthy lifestyle.

The national objective was adopted to encourage manufacturing based on agriculture and livestock farms which plays a key role in the primary livelihoods of the citizens so as to ensure food security.

Our country faced economic crises in 2021. As the internal strength was stronger in 2022, productivity rose up. Reopening border trade to some extent contributed to running industries and rising about +3 per cent for the State GDP. It is necessary to operate firm businesses as well as to encourage domestic manufacturing for booming the State economy. The government is encouraging MSME businesses. I firmly believe that if people strive for exporting greater products, this year's economic development will be higher than the previous years. The family spirit is the backbone of a family and the Union spirit is the lifeblood of a Union as well. If we all value the shade of the Union as our lives in doing everything, the development momentum of the nation will not halt. I believe we will reach our goal without fail.

Peace and tranquillity are essential for the democratization of the nation. The countries facing terror acts will delay development. If everybody makes efforts with righteousness and honesty for the sake of the nation and the Union, the country will have developed in line with the “Keep Moving Forward to Achieve Our Goal”.

Likewise, the success of a person depends on the accumulation of knowledge and skills. It shows everybody needs to have an education. So, the enhancement of school education for all school-age children with the national spirit will bring prosperity to the country.

Everybody knows man matters most. A man participates in all measures such as political, social and economic matters. Leadership, obedience and the creation of humans are crucial in all aspects. If we all actively and adorably serve our duties in cooperation with each other in respective sectors, the country will achieve victory without fail as we anticipate. On the auspicious occasion of the early period in 1385 ME, I would like to urge all to serve the interests of the State while amending the weakness and enhancing the strong points of the old year.

Let's join hands to serve the interests of the nation in unison!

Thank you all.

New Year greetings from SAC Member U Wunna Maung Lwin

I am especially happy and honoured and grateful to have the opportunity to speak to you on the occasion of the transition from 1384 to 1385 in the Myanmar Era.

Thingyan New Year is a special and memorable occasion for all Myanmar citizens, ethnic people, and monks.

According to Myanmar tradition and the tradition of Buddhism, the impurities of the old year are washed away with clean water on the occasion of the transition from the old year to the new year.

The new year is also the time of the Thingyan festival, which is the time to resolve to be full of energy and to do good things with new energy.

At this time, Buddhist monks and Buddhists have been doing good deeds for their vicious cycle for many years in Myanmar's history.

It is also a great festival with a good history and tradition where all the people of the country pay their respects to the elderly, perform good deeds, and wash themselves with Thingyan water to welcome the new year.

At this festival, all citizens of our country and ethnic groups should welcome the new year with new vigour and a new spirit, making resolutions for the prosperity and development of the whole country for the good of their country and religion.

We must identify the experiences and lessons learned in the previous year, and in the new year, we will have a new spirit, and new energy, and work on nation-building and religious development issues.

This is an opportunity for Myanmar to become a modern country with peace and development.

Therefore, in order to fully achieve the five-point Roadmap and 12 objectives set by the State Administration Council, we all need to work hard and strive hard.

At this time, all the people of all stratas in Myanmar are welcoming the new year with new energy.

Students also have to attend a new class.

High school students will also have to go on to university education. Young people who have graduated from university are also going to enter the workplace.

It is also an occasion when employees in the workplace make efforts to progress step by step year after year.

Thus, we all have to work together to achieve the nation's goals of promoting prosperity and the long-term stability of the country.

In order to do this, I would like to wish everyone that they will be able to work together and fully implement their goals.

At a time when the government is building a nation to stand tall in the world, maintain its independence and sovereignty, and stand with high dignity throughout the world, all the people of the country need to make special efforts.

While expressing my hope that they will be able to make efforts, I would like to welcome the new year with pride and extend greetings to all the people of the country. Thank you. —MNA/KZL

New Year Message of Greetings from SAC Member Daw Dwe Bu

FIRST of all, I would like to wish all ethnic national brethren residing in the Union a happy new year.

I pray for all Myanmar people to have peace and stability in the Myanmar New Year. Only when there is peace in our hearts, will our society, our country and all be at peace. For our hearts to be at peace, we need to forgive and love each other, starting with each one of us. Indeed, forgiveness and love are very difficult things to do, while hate and unforgiveness are very easy things to do.

It is important to have love and forgiveness among all ethnicities in our country and move our country forward. If each individual has peace in their heart, then our families, our organization, our environment and our village will be at peace. I would like to say that through this kind of peace, we will be able to build the country's stability and peace.

So, I do want to wish for everyone to be at peace, attain stability and tranquillity and love each other in the new year. I pray that everyone can cancel the hatred and move forward with forgiveness.

SAC Member Porel Aung Thein extends New Year Greetings

ON the occasion of the end of the old year and the arrival of the new year, may all the citizens of Myanmar be full of health and happiness of mind, and may the weather be good throughout the coming period from the beginning of the new year.

May there be plenty of rice and crops in fine weather. May they be free from diseases.

I would like to say a New Year's wish that the country stability to restore peace as soon as possible through unity and harmony of the country.

TODAY is the Myanmar New Year occasion for the 1385 Myanmar Era after the Myanmar Era 1884 has gone out. I would like to make New Year's wish on the auspicious occasion.

Yadisam Vapatevijam – Tadisam Haratephalam

Kalyana Karikalyanam – Papakarica Papakam. (Sagathavagga Samyugga)

It can be defined as follows: -

May all Myanmar people as well as global people initiate meritorious deeds with goodwill.

May all Myanmar people as well as global people not perform evil acts with the bad will.

May all perform good deeds and forge good benefits in their souls.

May all keep themselves away from bad deeds.

Property accumulated from the morning to the evening does not follow you all but two things: good deeds and misdeeds only follow you all.

Hence, you all should do meritorious deeds from the morning to the evening to accumulate good advantages with full prosperity.

May all remove bad deeds but consider good deeds for embracing prosperity.

I would like to make New Year wish for all to have good health and happiness on the New Year occasion.

Choose the best way waiting for us on New Year

NOW is the time for the Myanmar New Year’s Day. Everybody residing in Myanmar regardless of religion and racism should wish all the people of Myanmar a happy, peaceful, and prosperous New Year. We should all need to welcome all activities of restoring durable and perpetual peace for all.

From the transition to the New Year 1385 Myanmar era from the old year 1384 ME, all Myanmar people should do good deeds for themselves and others while doing daily routines like physical actions, verbal actions, and mental actions. If we all wish to possess all new and good things, we should have to change our mindsets first. It is because only when our mindsets are pure can we possess all new things.

We should widen our scope and raise generosity to enjoy all better things with optimism without putting blame on anyone even if we face some difficulties and problems in doing daily routines. We should have to wish our souls to be whitish not only on the occasion of New Year’s Day but on all days.

If we remove all grudges from our souls and forge optimism, the whole society will be peaceful and prosperous. If so, wars will cease. Hatred for someone will automatically change to the fraternity. The whole world will be rounded by happiness and pleasure. Every morning, every afternoon, and every evening as well as every day and every night will be full of peace and tranquility.

But, it is true that we have to try hard to change our mindsets. It is because new mindsets are important to embrace the new society and the New World. If we cannot change ourselves, we will miss all chances. Great options are waiting for us in how we choose our future.

Actually, we have to harvest everything we sowed. It is unavoidable for all. We have to thoroughly understand it is a Universal Truth. As such, we have to decorate society with the best morality in order to flourish Four Cardinal Virtues which can definitely benefit society. Only when we can improve our mindsets will society be better. If society is better, the environment as well as the Universe will give back good things to all.

Now, we are standing at the junction with tributaries leading to various futures. These are complicated in good and bad ways. We have knowledge based on our learning in our life to choose the best way.

In Mexican jungle, scientists prepare for future pandemics

AS night fell in Mexico’s Yucatan jungle, veterinarian Omar Garcia extracted blood and fluids from a bat as part of an investigation aimed at preventing the next potential pandemic.

The goal of the Franco-Mexican project is to detect diseases — known as zoonoses — transmitted from animals to humans in tropical climates.

Bats are under scrutiny from the international scientific community as a possible source of coronavirus transmission.

The winged mammal remained immobile while bearing its fangs, before being released by Garcia, a vector-borne disease expert.

Scientists from France’s Research Institute for Development (IRD) and the National Autonomous University of Mexico (UNAM) have been collaborating in the study since 2017, using a modern laboratory in Merida, the Yucatan state capital.

The aim is to discover how different viruses that circulate between animals such as mammals, birds and rodents, can potentially pass to humans, said Audrey Arnal, an infectious diseases expert at the IRD.

“This is zoonosis... understanding what the consequences of human contact with wildlife could be and then understanding what could be the next epidemic that can come out of nature,” she told AFP.

Scientists take samples of all kinds of animals from the rich ecosystem of the tropical rainforest, where they have identified 61 species of mosquitoes.

“We have many questions” to try to “complete the history of the transmission cycle” of viruses, said UNAM biologist Maria Jose Tolsa, who after a decade of research finally feels that the importance of her work is recognized.

“A pandemic has serious consequences for health and the economy,” she said.

High-risk zone

The area was chosen for the research because rapid deforestation has made it “a highly emblematic region in terms of zoonosis emergency risks,” said Benjamin Roche, a specialist in ecology and evolutionary biology at the IRD.

It is estimated that between 500,000 and 800,000 viruses could affect humans, he added.

The risks grow with the expansion of agriculture and tourism, which increase contact between animals and humans, according to researchers.

Thousands of trees have been felled in the Yucatan Peninsula to build President Andres Manuel Lopez Obrador’s flagship tourist rail project, the Mayan Train, scheduled to start operating in December.

The government says that it is offsetting the loss with a tree-planting programme and the creation of the second-largest tropical rainforest reserve in the world after the Amazon.

The key is to achieve a balance between humans and nature, Arnal said.

“The population have to live, eat and develop their economy,” she added.

The research is being carried out in 12 communities across the three states that make up the Yucatan Peninsula.

“In birds we’ve found species that have been identified as reservoirs for the West Nile virus or influenza,” said Rosa

Elena Sarmiento, from the virology laboratory of the UNAM Veterinary School.

‘Great revealer’

Field work begins at dawn by placing a dozen fine nets to trap birds. At dusk it is the turn of bats and even owls.

Once caught, blood, fluid and ectoparasite samples — if they carry them — are taken.

Scientists identify the animal, measure it, record the data and check its condition before releasing it.

Later the material is analyzed in the laboratory.

“DNA is a great revealer,”

Arnal said.

“With the blood of the mosquito we can determine which species or which animal was bitten,” she added.

Blood samples will also be taken from local residents to determine if they carry any virus that came from an animal.

The project also includes consultations with communities to learn about their environmental and social problems, and encourage forms of coexistence with nature.

“There has to be a knowledge dialogue with the communities,” said Erika Marce Santos, a member of the Mexican Association of Conservation Medicine who liaises with residents.

The Merida laboratory is connected with others in Africa, South Asia and other Latin American countries within the framework of an initiative called Preventing Zoonotic Disease Emergence.

Launched by France in 2022, it brings together 22 countries and 200 organizations.

“What we’re looking for in the Yucatan is to devise a prevention strategy against zoonoses that can serve as an example to the whole world,” Roche said.

COVID-19 booster dose can do more harm than good at this time, says AIIMS doctor; some experts disagree

IN the wake of the recent rise in Covid-19 cases, although many experts are advising people to take maximum precautions and also booster doses, AIIMS doctor Dr Sanjay Rai is of the opinion that at this point of time, a booster dose of the vaccine can do more harm than good.

In the last 24 hours, 10,753 new cases have been recorded. At the same time, the cases have crossed 1,500 in the national capital too. The infection rate has also risen to 33 per cent.

In view of these increasing cases, many experts and doctors are advising people to take maximum precautions and telling those who have not taken booster doses, to take them.

Dr Sanjay Rai, the professor of Community Medicine, at AIIMS Hospital, Delhi, is of the opinion that at this point in time, a booster dose of the vaccine can do more harm than good.

Talking to ANI, Dr Sanjay said, “Due to the mutation in the RNA virus, the cases will continue to increase and decrease. This situation will continue like this in the coming times as well. There is no need to panic about this. The people that will get infected with the new variants will create new immunity. But despite all this, the more important thing is whether the severity, hospitalization or the death rate is increasing?”

He said, “In the initial phase of Covid, when people were not infected in large numbers, people did not have herd immunity, then they needed more vaccines. But now almost all the people in the country have been infected, after which natural immunity has been formed in them. This is more effective in protecting against any virus than the vaccine. Also, we cannot stop any new web with the vaccine, it only reduces death and severity. Giving more steroids to prevent infection may do you more harm than good”.

The Professor of Community Medicine further said that many researches have come out saying that if you have been infected with coronavirus once, then you have developed natural immunity.

“And you have been protected from death and severity for a long time. At present both corona and influenza are infecting people. Influenza is a viral infection that comes every year and infects people according to the season. How effective will the booster dose of the vaccine be? No research has come to the fore regarding this. Only on the basis of possibilities, we cannot say that booster dose will be beneficial for people at this time,” he said.

Dr Sanjay Rai said that in the last few months we have seen that the infection of corona has increased rapidly in countries like China, Japan, South Korea.

“All these countries have been highly vaccinated, Japan has got four doses of the vaccine, yet the corona infection was once again spreading very fast there. Covid-19 spread rapidly even after vaccination in these countries because they kept zero Covid-19, people did not have natural infection due to which people got infected even after being vaccinated,” he further said.

Markets rally as traders weigh latest US data, rates outlook

MARKETS rose Monday as traders weighed a bigger-than-expected drop in US retail sales and the prospect of further Federal Reserve monetary tightening.

The mood was helped by forecast-beating earnings from US banking titans that eased concerns about the sector after last month's turmoil that saw three regional lenders go under.

Investors built on last week's broad rally that came on the back of data showing inflation falling quicker than estimated last month, which fanned hopes the Fed will bring its interest rate hiking campaign to an end soon.

Analysts said that while the one per cent drop in retail sales — double what was forecast — could give the US central bank more room to pause, it also revived worries that the world's top economy could tip into recession.

Despite figures pointing to prices falling, a survey by the University of Michigan on Friday showed consumers' expectations for inflation rose this month to 4.6 per cent annually, from 3.6 per cent in March.

Meanwhile, Fed governor Christopher Waller dented hopes the bank will ease back on its tightening campaign soon, saying on Friday that rates should continue going up as inflation remained elevated.

“Because financial conditions have not significantly tightened, the labour market continues to be strong and quite tight, and inflation is far above target, so monetary policy needs to be tightened further,” he warned.

Increasing demand pushes up airfares during holiday season in Viet Nam

VIET Nam's local airfares have risen sharply due to increased fuel prices, the exchange rate of US dollars, and interest rates, resulting in higher airline costs, according to the country's Aviation Business Association.

Airlines have resumed international routes after the pandemic, but cannot increase domestic flights like in 2022 due to the need to balance manpower and aircraft, resulting in limited domestic flights and ticket prices being pushed up, local newspaper Vietnam News reported on Monday, citing Bui Doan Ne, vice-chairman of the association.

The price of flights has increased sharply as thousands look ahead to the national holiday, which lasts for five days from 29 April to 3 May, the newspaper reported. Round-trip airfares for some routes from Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City to tourist destinations such as Phu Quoc, Da Lat, Hue, Da Nang and Nha Trang are currently very high, ranging from four million to eight million Vietnamese dong (169-339 US dollars) including taxes and fees.

A representative of the country's national carrier, Vietnam Airlines, explained that the tickets at low prices have been almost sold out, and only tickets at high prices are left, but this price is still within the ticket price framework of the Ministry of Transport. Bamboo Airlines, a local private airline, said commercial aviation is seasonal. During peak periods such as 30 April to 1 May, travel demand spikes, while the supply of airlines is limited, leading to high ticket prices.

The Ministry of Transport has requested the Civil Aviation Authority of Viet Nam to direct airlines to arrange night flights to meet travellers' needs in line with the aviation infrastructure whilst also ensuring security and safety. — Xinhua

Japan's Sega to buy Finnish Angry Birds maker Rovio

JAPANESE video games group Sega has offered to buy Angry Birds maker Rovio, valuing the Finnish company at over 700 million euros ($770 million), the companies said Monday.

“Combining the strengths of Rovio and Sega presents an incredibly exciting future,” Alexandre Pelletier-Normand, CEO of Rovio, said in a statement, which added that Rovio was recommending shareholders to accept the offer.

The offer, which represents a 19 per cent premium over Rovio's closing share price on Friday, is part of the Sonic the Hedgehog maker's “long-term goal” of expanding into the mobile gaming market, Sega CEO Haruki Satomi said.

“Among the rapidly growing global gaming market, the mobile gaming market has especially high potential,” he added.

In 2022, Rovio, which employs over 500 people, saw a revenue of 317.7 million euros, and an adjusted net profit of 31.4 million euros.

Rovio launched the bird slingshot game in 2009 and it soared rapidly to become one of the most popular games on Apple's App Store. — AFP

Russia’s Pacific Fleet conducts anti-submarine exercises in Sea of Japan

COMBAT ships of Russia’s Pacific Fleet conducted anti-submarine exercises in the Sea of Japan, as well as artillery firing at sea and air targets during a sudden readiness check, TASS news agency reported on Monday.

The vessels left their permanent bases and arrived at the designated training area, where they carried out tactical manoeuvres in different formations and provided all types of defence for the naval convoy during the sea transit, said the report.

All tasks were completed, said Sergey Merkulov, commander of the frigate Marshal Shaposhnikov, adding the sudden readiness check did not present difficulties for his team as they have been receiving training almost every week since January.

Under the directive of Russian President Vladimir Putin, the exercises started from Friday, which involved naval and air forces, as well as military and support units. — Xinhua

Iran court jails 10 troops over 2020 Ukraine jet downing

IRAN has sentenced 10 members of the armed forces to prison after finding them guilty of involvement in the downing of a Ukrainian airliner, the judiciary’s Mizan Online website reported Sunday.

Iranian forces shot down Ukraine International Airlines flight PS752 shortly after its takeoff from Tehran on 8 January 2020, killing all 176 people on board. Most were Iranians and Canadians, including many dual nationals.

Mizan reported that a commander received the heaviest penalty of 10 years in prison for having defied orders in shooting down the plane.

Nine other personnel were sentenced to between one and three years, Mizan reported.

The commander of a Tor M-1 surface-to-air missile system “fired two missiles” at the airliner “contrary to orders” and without obtaining authorization, Mizan said.

It did not identify any of the accused.

Three days after the Kyiv-bound plane was shot down, the Iranian armed forces admitted there had been a “mistake”.

“Given the extent of the effects and consequences of this action, the main defendant was sentenced to the maximum penalty,” Mizan Online added on Sunday, without giving further details. — AFP

Putin praises Pacific drills as China minister visits

RUSSIAN President Vladimir Putin on Monday praised the “very high level” of military drills in the Pacific as Moscow seeks closer ties with China amid a stand-off with the West.

The surprise drills announced last week come as Chinese Defence Minister Li Shangfu is in Russia on a visit which will last until Wednesday.

Putin received Chinese leader Xi Jinping last month in Moscow for a summit showing the nations’ united front against the West.

During a meeting with Putin and Russian Defence Minister Sergei Shoigu on Sunday, Li hailed ties with Moscow, saying they “surpass the military-political alliances of the Cold War era”.

The exercises in the Pacific involved over 25,000 Russian military personnel, 167 warships and support vessels, including 12 submarines as well as 89 aircraft and helicopters, Shoigu said.

“The first stage of this surprise inspection did indeed take place at a very high level,” Putin said during a televised meeting with Shoigu.

“Today we have clear priorities for the use of the armed forces and, above all, this concerns the Ukrainian direction and everything related to protecting our people in the Donbas” in eastern Ukraine, Putin said. — AFP

Fighting rages in Sudan as death toll passes 100

EXPLOSIONS rocked the Sudanese capital Khartoum Monday as fighting between the army and paramilitary forces led by rival generals raged for a third day with the death toll surpassing 100.

The violence erupted Saturday after weeks of power struggles between the two generals who seized power in a 2021 coup, Sudan’s army chief Abdel Fattah al-Burhan and his deputy, Mohamed Hamdan Daglo, who commands the powerful paramilitary Rapid Support Forces (RSF).

The intense conflict, which has seen air strikes, tanks on the streets, artillery fire and heavy gunfire in crowded neighbourhoods both in Khartoum and other cities across Sudan, has triggered international demands for an immediate ceasefire.

Protesters demand justice for Black teen shot in Kansas City

HUNDREDS of protesters demanded justice for a Black teenager shot in the midwestern US state of Missouri, local media reported Sunday, as police promised to move quickly with the investigation.

Ralph Paul Yarl, 16, is in critical condition after he was shot twice and struck in the head by a white man last week in Kansas City, according to a statement on Sunday by high-profile lawyers Ben Crump and Lee Merritt, who have agreed to take the case.

Yarl was picking up his twin brothers from a friend’s house on Thursday when he rang the wrong doorbell and was shot by the homeowner through a glass door, according to a note from his aunt, Faith Spoonmoore, on a GoFundMe campaign for his medical bills and therapy. The case has drawn nationwide attention and prompted outcry on Kansas City’s streets and online from celebrities and activists.

On Sunday, protesters gathered in front of the house where Yarl was reportedly shot and demanded the homeowner face hate crime charges, Kansas City public broadcaster KCUR 89.3 reported.

Kansas City Police Chief Stacey Graves said at a Sunday night press conference that the homeowner had been released after 24 hours in custody, and that a statement from the victim would be needed before pursuing any charges.

“The information that we have now, it does not say that it’s racially motivated, that’s still an active investigation,” Graves said. — AFP

Heatstroke kills 11 at India awards event

ELEVEN people died of heatstroke in India after an estimated one million spectators waited for hours in the sun at a government-sponsored awards ceremony, officials said on Monday.

Around 20 people were hospitalized and 300 felt ill at the event near the western city of Mumbai on Sunday, when temperatures hit close to 38 degrees Celsius (100 Fahrenheit) with high levels of humidity, local media reported.

Senior government officials attended the ceremony, including Interior Minister Amit Shah, who praised the crowd for waiting so long in the sun.

The office of Maharashtra state Chief Minister Eknath Shinde described it as a “sad and disturbing incident” and promised compensation for the victims’ relatives.

India’s ruling Bharatiya Janata Party said around a million people attended the event, the Indian Express newspaper reported.

The opposition Congress party accused the government of negligence and said it should face criminal charges.

Heatwaves have killed more than 6,500 people in India since 2010, and last year saw record temperatures in several cities across the country.

The hot spells are becoming harsher and more frequent across South Asia, spurred by climate change, according to scientists.

Authorities in the eastern state of West Bengal announced a week-long shutdown of all schools, colleges and universities from Monday due to the heat, local media reported. — AFP

Viet Nam’s growth likely 2nd fastest in Southeast Asia in 2023: IMF

THE International Monetary Fund (IMF) expected Viet Nam to continue to be one of the fastest-growing economies in the Southeast Asian region, Vietnam News Agency reported on Monday.

The IMF projection came as the growth of Viet Nam’s gross domestic product is expected to reach 5.8 per cent in 2023 and accelerate to 6.9 per cent in 2024, the news agency said.

The IMF has just revised up the growth forecast for Viet Nam, making it second only to the Philippines in the region, due partly to the rebound from the COVID-19 pandemic and trade diversion to the country, said Daniel Leigh, head of the IMF’s World Economic Studies.

However, the IMF’s 2023 forecast is lower than the World Bank’s prediction of 6.3-per-cent growth rate for the Southeast Asian country and the Asian Development Bank’s expectation at 6.5 per cent.

In addition, the IMF expected Viet Nam’s inflation to rise in line with the global inflation trend but above the Vietnamese government’s target, from 3.2 per cent last year to around 5 per cent this year and 4.3 per cent next year.

Viet Nam is targeting an economic growth at 6.5 per cent while keeping inflation at below 4.5 per cent for this year.

In order to maintain growth momentum, the IMF economist advised the country to pursue a monetary policy stance that is consistent with achieving the inflation target, and a fiscal policy focused on supporting vulnerable individuals and businesses.

Regarding financial stability, to stabilize the real estate and corporate bond markets should be a priority but not at the cost of higher inflation, Leigh said. — Xinhua

New Zealand public radio threatens to quit Twitter

RADIO New Zealand became the latest broadcaster to threaten to leave Twitter on Monday, after the social media platform labelled the public broadcaster “government-funded”.

RNZ’s head of content said it could join US counterparts National Public Radio and Public Broadcasting Service, who both quit Twitter last week in protest at the tag.

“Not only is our editorial independence protected by the law, we guard it vigorously,” head of content Megan Whelan wrote on Twitter. — AFP

After major Yemen prisoner swap, another 104 released: ICRC

MORE than 100 prisoners of war were flown from Saudi Arabia to Yemen on Monday, further buoying peace hopes a day after a major exchange of 869 captives ended, the ICRC said.

Two International Committee of the Red Cross planes carrying 48 prisoners each flew to Sanaa, Yemen’s rebel-held capital, while a third with eight captives headed for government-controlled Aden in the south, the humanitarian group said.

The “unilateral” release is outside the terms of the three-day exchange that was negotiated between Yemen’s Huthi rebels and government officials and finished on Sunday, ICRC media adviser Jessica Moussan told AFP. “We welcome this initiative and are pleased to see that humanitarian considerations are being taken for the sake of reuniting families,” Moussan said.

“This will bring immense relief to the families of the detainees,” she added.

The ICRC is “facilitating” the transfer by providing air transport and logistical support, and by interviewing the captives, Moussan said.

The release of 104 captives, days before the major Muslim festival of Eid al-Fitr, takes the total number to 973 freed since Friday.

The Iran-backed Huthis seized Sanaa in 2014, prompting a Saudi-led military intervention months later. Hundreds of thousands have died in the conflict, which has also triggered a major humanitarian crisis.

A UN-brokered ceasefire that started in April 2022 has sharply reduced casualties. The truce expired in October, but fighting has largely remained on hold. — AFP

Arsenal can handle title stress as Man City close in, vows Arteta

ARSENAL'S bid to win the Premier League for the first time since 2004 is in danger of imploding, but Mikel Arteta remains adamant the leaders can cope with the pressure of the title race.

Arteta's side blew a two-goal lead for a second successive game as West Ham hit back to snatch a 2-2 draw at the London Stadium on Sunday.

After squandering the same advantage in last weekend's 2-2 draw at Liverpool, the Gunners once again paid the price for taking their foot off the gas.

Although Arsenal are four points clear of second placed Manchester City, it is the champions who have all the momentum heading into the final weeks of a gripping title battle.

With a home game against Arsenal looming on 26 April, City know they will be crowned champions if they win their last eight games. Ominously for Arsenal, Pep Guardiola's men have already beaten them twice this season, winning 3-1 at the Emirates Stadium in the league in February, just weeks after knocking the Gunners out of the FA Cup with a 1-0 victory in Manchester.

For Arsenal to no longer be in control of their own destiny is a bitter pill for Arteta to swallow after the north Londoners' long spell at the top this term. Arteta concedes Arsenal's untimely collapses against West Ham and Liverpool were self-inflicted wounds, with the Spaniard especially frustrated by the way his players took their strong position for granted on Sunday. — AFP

Wuhan to play host as world snooker returns to China

THE World Snooker Tour hailed the "momentous announcement" of three tournaments in China this year, including one in Wuhan, as the return of international sport to the country gathers pace.

Almost all international sports events were cancelled in China after Covid emerged in Wuhan in late 2019, and they are only just returning after travel curbs were lifted.

The World Snooker Tour will stage the first professional snooker tournament in mainland China in four years with the showpiece Shanghai Masters on 11-17 September, the WST said.

That will be followed by the Wuhan Open on 9-15 October and the International Championship in November at a Chinese city yet to be confirmed.

Total prize money for three events combined will be more than £2 million ($2.5 million).

"This is a momentous announcement for our sport as we ramp up our return to staging events in Asia," said WST chairman Steve Dawson.

"Throughout the pandemic we have maintained dialogue and relationships with the Chinese Billiards and Snooker Association as well as our key partners and promoters across China.

"This has allowed us to make a fast return to staging key events now that travel restrictions have lifted."

In a nod to snooker's popularity in the world's most populous country, Dawson added: "We will continue to explore opportunities to stage further events in China and beyond." — AFP

Barcelona have not cheated, insists chief Laporta

BARCELONA president Joan Laporta insisted Monday his club never tried to cheat amid investigations into payments made to a former refereeing chief.

In a two-hour news conference, he said there was a smear campaign against Barcelona and the head of La Liga for backing the case against the Catalan club, who are top of the league.

"Obviously referees were not bought and there was no attempt to influence their decisions," he told reporters gathered at the club's Camp Nou stadium.

"Barcelona has never done anything with the aim or intention of adulterating the competition in order to gain a sporting advantage."

Last month Spanish prosecutors charged the Catalan club with corruption after payments of more than 7.3 million euros ($7.8 million) to a company owned by a former refereeing chief were uncovered earlier this year.

Barcelona say they paid Jose Maria Enriquez Negrera, the former referee and ex-vice-president of the refereeing committee of the Spanish football federation (CTA) between 1994 and 2018, for reports and advice related to refereeing.

Barcelona ceased its payments in 2018 due to Negrera's departure from the CTA, according to Spanish prosecutors. — AFP
