WHATEVER challenges emerge, the illegal trade process must be eradicated successfully, said Vice-Chairman of the State Administration Council Deputy Prime Minister Vice-Senior General Soe Win at the meeting 4/2023 of the Illegal Trade Eradication Steering Committee at the Ministry of Commerce in Nay Pyi Taw yesterday afternoon.

Speaking on the occasion, the Vice-Senior General who is in the capacity of Chairman of the Steering Committee said that during the period from January 2022 to June 2023, the approximate value of seized illegal commodities amounted to K127.054 billion in 7,011 cases.

According to the statistics on Myanmar-Thai trade from May 2022 to April 2023, the Vice-Senior General disclosed that the statistics of Thailand mentioned the export value worth US$2.932 billion but Myanmar statistics for import value, US$1.293 billion, which showed US$1.639 billion differences. So, it can be reviewed that these would be illegal trades within a year.

As illegal commodities still flow into the country due to the weakness of some assigned service personnel, the Vice-Senior General stressed the need to check and seize illegal commodities at warehouses and markets.

He noted that a total of 57 backhoes worth K4.531 billion used in the illegal excavation of natural resources were seized in Kachin State and Taninthayi Region in June 2023. From January 2022 to June 2023, the value of seizures amounted to K4.421 billion in 1,462 cases, accounting for 3.48 per cent of the total seizures.

The Vice-Senior General highlighted that the illegal trade process used detours for transportation and also passed the checkpoints and security gates with bribery money. Chairmen of special task forces and in-charge directors-general of OSS have to strictly supervise functions of checkpoints and security gates

State Administration Council Vice-Chair Deputy Prime Minister Vice-Senior General Soe Win addresses the meeting 4/2023 of the Illegal Trade Eradication Steering Committee yesterday in Nay Pyi Taw.

Illegal natural resources excavation to face effective legal action

Vice-Senior General Soe Win warns assigned staff of taking severe action for weakness and bribery cases at checkpoints along trade routes not to commit bribery cases. If the union-level officials find the cases, severe action will be taken against the staff assigned to relevant posts and officials at different levels, he added.

He continued to say that in reviewing the seizures in June 2023, the amounts of seizures were larger than that of the previous month. According to the reviews on commodity groups, the monthly balance of the seizures amounted to K11.816 billion and the vehicle group K7.822 billion, exceeding K4.254 billion rather than the previous month but seizures of agricultural produce, timbers, raw materials, personal goods, foodstuffs and live animals declined. The seizure volume at main checkpoints such as Mayanchaung, Kawka-reik Tadakyo, Muse 105th-Mile, international airports and ports remarkably declined. It must be reviewed that the root causes of declining the seized volume were based on the weakness of relevant task forces and assigned staff.

The Vice-Senior General underlined that the Bill of Loading system has been operated on test since 1 December 2022 for easing the inspecting the cargo trucks along the trade routes. So, it is necessary to submit the assessment of the difficulties of staff, drivers and businesspersons in applying the bill of loading system for making decisions.

Staff members from the checkpoints have to take care of export items and tonnage mentioned in the QR code to be in harmony with export items and tonnage on the trucks.

MACSS, Myanmar Tradenet 2.0 and MyCO systems are very good systems in the online trade process. But any system is not perfect. It is necessary to review the difficulties and weaknesses in applying the system to amend it to be better.

The Vice-Senior General stressed that relevant departments need to submit reports continuously to the steering committee on the implementation of the National Single Window System, the Single Window Inspection (SWI) and Single Stop Customs Inspection (SSCI).

He pointed out that whatever challenges emerge, the illegal trade process must be successfully eradicated. It is necessary to check and ban illegal trade goods to be taken action at border regions and trade routes as well as warehouses and markets. Effective action must be taken against illegal excavation of natural resources at home, he added.

The Vice-Senior General urged all to submit an assessment on the bill of loading system and implement the e-lock system as quickly as possible.

Union ministers and officials reported on the accomplishments of the minute of the meeting on 3/2023, comparison of export and import between Myanmar and Thailand, prevention of illegal import goods through illegal routes, seizures of illegal commodities and implementation of modern systems.

The meeting ended with a concluding remark of the Vice-Senior General. — MNA/TTA

Staying on the path of learning: The guiding hand of teachers

IN SHAPING the lives of students and paving the way for a brighter future, teachers’ hands are akin to those of sculptors and casters. As early trainers, they possess a vast array of knowledge that broadens the horizons of their students, enabling them to view the world panoramically.

In Myanmar society, teachers hold a position on par with parents. They teach children essential skills like reading, writing, and fluency in languages. Thanks to their guidance, children develop the capacity to read, write, calculate, engage in self-study, and acquire various techniques. These capacities become their reliable tools, unlocking doors to a broader world.

To effectively guide their students, teachers must continuously

It is imperative for both teachers and students to cultivate unity and harmony between them in order to improve the education qualification of the students. When their mindsets are aligned, their endeavours are more likely to meet with success, and their progress will be accelerated through relentless efforts. Enhancing reading skills, learning capacity, and knowledge-sharing techniques will become a natural part of this cohesive process.

Teachers must be enthusiastic about sharing their knowledge and techniques with their students. Simultaneously, students must diligently follow the guidance of their teachers while striving to secure their deserved positions in society. It is evident that their qualifications, derived from school education and a thirst for general knowledge, will determine their rightful place. In practice, students must surpass their teachers in learning and studying to truly thrive. By staying on the path of learning under the guidance of teachers, young minds can aspire to reach their full potential and make meaningful contributions to the world.

Omega-3 fatty acids help in maintaining lung health: Study

This research provides the most compelling evidence to date on the connection between omega-3 fatty acids and lung health.

OMEGA-3 fatty acids, abundant in fish and fish oil supplements, are promising for maintaining lung health, according to new research from a sizable, thorough study in healthy individuals funded by the National Institutes of Health.

The study highlights the importance of consuming omega-3 fatty acids, especially in light of the fact that many Americans do not consume enough of them, and provides the most compelling evidence of this connection to date.

“We know a lot about the role of diet in cancer and cardiovascular diseases, but the role of diet in chronic lung disease is somewhat understudied,” said corresponding author Patricia A Cassano, PhD, director of the Division of Nutritional Sciences at Cornell University in Ithaca, New York. “This study adds to growing evidence that omega-3 fatty acids, which are part of a healthy diet, may also be important for lung health.”

Whether nutritional therapies could aid in the fight against lung illness has recently gained more attention. Because of their well-documented anti-inflammatory effects, omega-3 fatty acids have been linked to promising results in earlier studies. However, until recently, there haven’t been any reliable investigations of this link.

To learn more, researchers developed a two-part study investigating the link between omega-3 fatty acid levels in the blood and lung function over time. In the first part, the researchers conducted a longitudinal, observational study involving 15,063 Americans from the NHLBI Pooled Cohorts Study — a large collection of NIH-funded studies that helps researchers to study determinants of personalized risk for chronic lung disease.

The participants studied were generally healthy when the study began, and the majority had no evidence of chronic lung disease. They comprised a racially diverse group of adults, with an average age of 56 years, and 55 per cent were female. The researchers followed participants for an average of seven years and up to 20 years.

The longitudinal study showed that higher levels of omega-3 fatty acids in a person’s blood were associated with a reduced rate of lung function decline. The researchers observed the strongest associations for docosahexaenoic acid (DHA), an omega-3 fatty acid that is found at high levels in fatty fish such as salmon, tuna, and sardines. DHA is also available as a dietary supplement.

In the second part, the researchers analyzed genetic data from a large study of European patients (over 500,000 participants) from the UK Biobank. They studied certain genetic markers in the blood as an indirect measure, or proxy, for dietary omega-3 fatty acid levels to see how they correlated with lung health. The results showed that higher levels of omega-3 fatty acids — including DHA — were associated with better lung function.

One caveat of the current study is that it only included healthy adults. As part of this ongoing project, researchers are collaborating with the COPD Gene study to examine blood levels of omega-3 fatty acids in relation to the rate of decline in lung function among people with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease or COPD — including heavy smokers — to determine if the same beneficial associations are found.

Researchers have turned their attention to exploring the potential effects of omega-3 fatty acids on lung health. One promising avenue of exploration lies in the realm of nutrition, particularly the potential benefits of omega-3 fatty acids found abundantly in fish and fish oil supplements.

Advancing cross-border freight connectivity: China's high-speed rail network and Myanmar's rail system at the heart of the discussion

China's high-speed rail projects will be completed in 2027 in Ruili

A part of the section from Dali to Baoshan of the Dali-Ruili railway that opened in 2022.

TO increase bilateral trade between China and Myanmar, a memorandum of understanding on facilitating cross-border transport, including connecting with the railway network, was signed in Nay Pyi Taw on 26 July.

The Union Minister for Transport and Communications and Mr Wei Gang, the Governor of the People's Government of Dehong Autonomous Prefecture under the Yunnan Province, China, attended the signing ceremony and had a discussion.

Mr Wei Gang discussed matters concerning the operation of flights between Mangshi, the city of Dehong Autonomous Prefecture, and Mandalay, four times a week by Ruili Airlines; the expansion of passenger and cargo flights to potential cities, in addition to the round trips of Yangon-Mandalay-Mangshi flights three times a week by Myanmar National Airlines; and issues regarding the transit of Chinese goods through the Yangon port.

It is known that China's high-speed rail projects to Ruili will be completed in 2027.

The Chinese Embassy to Myanmar stated that the flow of goods between Myanmar and China will be more convenient, and it will be possible to open a new channel for the flow of goods between China and Southeast Asian countries by combining maritime, road, and rail transportation since the section from Dali to Baoshan of the Dali-Ruili railway was successfully opened in August 2022.

Therefore, the role of the Dali-Ruili railway will be more significant for the construction of the Belt and Road and the China-Myanmar Economic Corridor, the embassy added. — TWA/CT

Compulsory licensing required for brokers in Mandalay gem market

LICENCES are mandatory for gem brokers involved in the Mandalay gem market and legal action will be taken if they are found doing illegitimate dealings.

"The notification boards regarding legal actions for trading without licences are installed in the market," Ko Arkar, a dealer from Mandalay gem market, told the Global New Light of Myanmar. The brokers involved in cutting and polishing and trading gems need to seek a licence. Under Section 26 of the Myanmar Gemstone Law, a licence is compulsory for those executing the trading of raw gemstones, finished jewellery and gem products, it is mentioned in the notification.

Those who break the rules will be fined or sentenced to up to three years under the existing law.

Mandalay Gem Traders Association has already notified the traders to apply for a licence. The licence fee for an individual and manufacturing business of finished gems and carvings is set at K30,000 for one year and K50,000 for a jewellery shop owner. — TWA/EM

Rafale sales help France reach arms exports record

FRANCE said Wednesday its arms exports hit a record last year, helped by Rafale aircraft sales, in a context of rising global defence spending after Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

French weapons exports totalled 27 billion euros ($30 billion) in 2022, up from 11.7 billion euros the previous year, the ministry said in its annual report to parliament, seen by AFP.

France is the world's third biggest arms exporting nation, after the United States and Russia.

A contract with the United Arab Emirates for 80 Rafale combat aircraft alone contributed more than 16 billion euros to the French total.

Indonesia placed a firm order for six Rafale, as did Greece, further cementing the global success of the fighter made by Dassault Aviation.

Since then, India has signed a memorandum of understanding for 26 Rafale for navy use, after 36 were delivered for its air force.

Greece last year also ordered three French defence and intervention frigates, and signed maintenance and associated weaponry contracts. — AFP

German consumer mood improves as inflation slows

Consumer prices in Germany are not rising as quickly as they did towards the end of last year, although inflation remained high in June at 6.4 per cent. PHOTO: AFP

GERMAN consumer confidence rose heading into August, a key survey showed Thursday, as once red-hot inflation looked to be on the way back down.

Pollster GfK said its forward-looking survey of around 2,000 people rose to minus 24.4

points in August from minus 25.2 points in July.

The mood among consumers hit a low of minus 42.8 points in October, as prices soared and consumers worried about the cost of heating their homes over the coming winter.

Since then, the index climbed steadily until July, when it suffered a small drop.

The August rebound meant there were good chances the “consumer climate will be able to resume its recovery course”, said GfK expert Rolf Buerkl. — AFP

ECB to mark year of hikes with inflation still high

EUROPEAN Central Bank policymakers looked set to deliver another interest rate increase on Thursday as their fight against eurozone inflation reaches the one-year mark with consumer prices still rising fast.

The ECB began lifting borrowing costs in July last year to combat soaring prices, kicking off the most aggressive hiking cycle in the central bank's history.

Key rates have since risen by four percentage points, and “virtually everyone” expects a fresh quarter-point increase at Thursday's meeting, German central bank boss Joachim Nagel said last week.

It would be the ECB's ninth straight hike, and take the closely watched deposit rate to 3.75 per cent — its highest level since 2000.

The outlook for the ECB beyond Thursday's meeting was however less clear, as the wind looks to have gone out of the sails of the eurozone economy. —AFP

Yemen speciality coffee ‘wave’ sweeps war-hit capital

TUCKED amid shell-pocked buildings and roadside tributes to fallen fighters, a less obvious byproduct of wartime is spreading across Yemen's capital: speciality coffee houses serving steaming cups of top-rated pour-over.

The Arabian Peninsula's most impoverished country, locked in an eight-year conflict between Iran-backed Huthi rebels and forces supporting the internationally recognized government, has deep ties to coffee.

Legend has it that Sufi mystics on Yemen's western coast were the first people to brew coffee beans back in the 15th century.

Yet Yemeni entrepreneurs have until recently focused on exporting their best product to wealthy overseas markets.

The most famous among them is Mokhtar Alkhanshali, whose death-defying bid to ship a container full of speciality beans during the war's early stages was chronicled in Dave Eggers' 2018 best-selling book “The Monk of Mokha”. — AFP

Coord meeting held on bilateral trade between Myanmar & Dehong Autonomous Prefecture

A coordination meeting on bilateral trade between Myanmar and the Dehong Autonomous Prefecture of China was held at the Ministry of Commerce in Nay Pyi Taw at 10 am yesterday.

The meeting was attended by a group led by Director-General U Myint Thura of the Trade Department, responsible personnel, and Mr Wei Gang, the Governor of the People's Government of Dehong Autonomous Prefecture under the Yunnan Province, China.

At the meeting, the participants discussed the opening of more border gates between the two countries, policy issues, the smooth flow of goods, financial cooperation, the greater cooperation between the two countries in agricultural sectors, and the status of increasing exports between the two countries. — MNA/CT

Corn price rebounds in domestic market

The corn is cultivated in Shan, Kachin, Kayah and Kayin states and Mandalay, Sagaing and Magway regions. The photo shows the corn for sale in the market.

THE price of corn rallied to K1,170-1,190 per viss in the domestic market as the FOB corn prices rise to US$290-310 per tonne, according to Yangon Region Chambers of Commerce and Industry (Bayintnaung Commodity Depot).

Myanmar conveys corn to China and Thailand through the border and also sent corn to China, India, Viet Nam and the Philippines by maritime shipping at present, according to the Myanmar Corn Industrial Association.

China is purchasing Myanmar's corn through cross-border trade under the opium substitution program. Legitimate corn trade between Myanmar and China commenced at the end of 2022. A total of 112 companies have been given the green light for legitimate corn exports.

Thailand gives the go-ahead to corn imports under zero tariff (with Form-D), between 1 February and 31 August. However, Thailand imposed a maximum tax rate of 73 per cent on corn imports to protect the rights of their growers if the corn is imported during the corn season of Thailand. There is only over one month remaining to export Myanmar's corn to Thailand under the Form D customs tariff benefit.

The directive released on 30 June 2022 said that transactions for the exports of agricultural products including corn, rice, bean and oil crops are to be made in dollars instead of Yuan-Kyat/Baht-Kyat. Therefore, 65 per cent of export earnings (US dollars) of the corn have to be exchanged according to the reference rate of the Central Bank of Myanmar (K2,100). The CBM eased the foreign currency conversion order to 50 per cent from 65 per cent for the exporters on 13 July 2023, according to its notification 15/2023.

At present, the CBM sets the reference exchange rate at K2,100 whereas the US dollar is transacted at K3,300 in the grey market, showing a large gap between the reference exchange rate and the grey market rate.

Myanmar exported over 2 million tonnes of corn to foreign trade in the 2022 corn season. The majority of them were sent to Thailand and the remaining went to the Philippines, China, India and Viet Nam.

More than two million tonnes of corn are expected to be shipped to foreign trade partners in the 2023 corn season, said U Min Khaing, chair of the Myanmar Corn Industrial Association.

The corn is cultivated in Shan, Kachin, Kayah and Kayin states and Mandalay, Sagaing and Magway regions. Myanmar has three corn seasons — winter, summer and monsoon. The country produces 2.5-3 million tonnes of corn every year. — NN/EM result in positive outcomes and Myanmar is willing to cooperate in the bilateral cross-border trade and investment and trade promotion matters.

Volkswagen profits dip as it struggles in China

VOLKSWAGEN said Thursday its profits slipped in the second quarter as it battles to regain ground in China, the German auto giant's most important market.

From April to June, net profit came in at 3.8 billion euros ($4.2 billion), 3.1 per cent below the same quarter a year earlier.

The 10-brand group —whose models include Audi, Seat and Skoda -- makes a big chunk of its overall sales in China.

But it has faced increased competition in the world's number two economy, particularly in the booming electric car market.

The auto giant nevertheless struck a positive note about its prospects in the major market, saying it was stepping up the pace of "transformation in China".

On Wednesday, the carmaker announced it would invest over 600 million euros in Chinese electric vehicle manufacturer XPeng, acquiring a stake of just under five per cent.

The two companies plan to develop two mid-sized VW-branded electric models to be rolled out on the Chinese market in 2026.

VW's premium Audi brand has also signed a memorandum with the group's existing Chinese partner SAIC to expand their cooperation and work on new high-end electric vehicles.— AFP

Ryanair accused of 'invasive' facial recognition use

A prominent digital privacy campaign group on Thursday filed a complaint against Ryanair in Spain, alleging the popular budget carrier was pushing customers to undergo "invasive facial recognition process".

Austria's noyb said some customers of the Irish no-frills airline were required to go through "a mandatory 'verification process' involving invasive facial recognition" when booking through an online travel agent rather than directly on the company's website or app.

"There is no reasonable justification for Ryanair to implement this system. Instead, it seems Ryanair did not immediately reply an AFP request for comment.

Mattel reports profit dip despite glow from 'Barbie' blockbuster

MATTEL reported a drop in profits Wednesday on lower sales, including a decline in Barbie products in the second quarter.

Profits fell 59 per cent to $27.2 million, on a 12 per cent fall in revenues to $1.1 billion. Business was negatively hit by retailers trimming inventory levels and "some overall industry softness", said Chief Financial Officer Anthony DiSilvestro. "At this point, we believe the retail inventory correction is mostly behind us, and we look forward to meeting consumer demand for our product as we enter the second half of the year and all-important holiday season," DiSilvestro said.

N Korea’s Kim hosts Russian defence minister at arms exhibition

NORTH Korean leader Kim Jong Un met Russian Defence Minister Sergei Shoigu on Wednesday and showed him round an arms exhibition held in the capital to commemorate the 70th anniversary of the Korean War armistice, state-run media in Pyongyang said.

Photos released Thursday by the official Korean Central News Agency showed Kim and Shoigu at the exhibition that featured weaponry including solid-fuel Hwasong-18 and other intercontinental ballistic missiles as well as a new drone.

It is rare for the North Korean leader to host a senior foreign military official at a location where the nation’s advanced weapons are on display.

Shoigu will attend a military parade marking the armistice anniversary later Thursday, Russia’s Tass news agency quoted the country’s defence ministry as saying.

The talks between Kim and Shoigu mark the Asian leader’s first contact with a senior foreign official since 30 June 2019, when he met then US President Donald Trump at the Demilitarized Zone dividing the two Koreas.

KCNA reported that during a meeting with Shoigu a day ahead of the anniversary, the two sides reached a consensus after exchanging views on matters of mutual concern in the field of national defence and security, and on the regional and international security environment.

Kim expressed his views on the issues of mutual concern in the struggle to “safeguard the sovereignty, development and interests of the two countries from the high-handed and arbitrary practices of the imperialists and to realize international justice and peace”, it added. — Kyodo

Entire pod of 97 pilot whales dies in Australia beaching

NEARLY 100 pilot whales have died after beaching in Western Australia, wildlife officials said Thursday, following desperate rescue attempts.

The pod of 97 long-finned pilot whales gathered in shallow water off Cheynes Beach, about 400 kilometres (250 miles) southeast of Perth, on Tuesday, with scores stranding themselves on the sand.

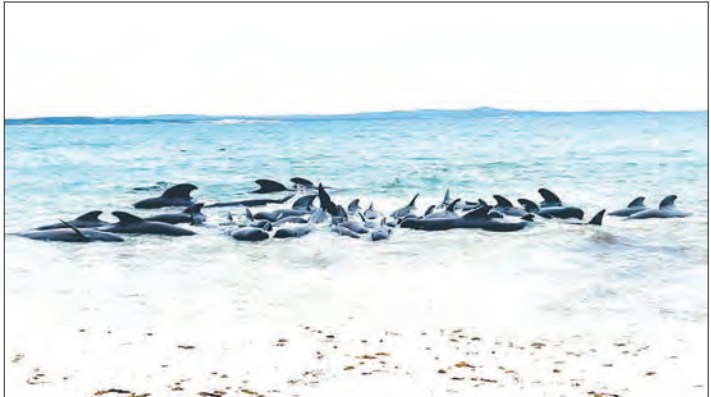

By the next morning, 51 of the cetaceans had died.

Some 250 volunteers joined 100 wildlife experts in a vain struggle to save the rest of the pod throughout the day Wednesday. Dozens of people in wetsuits stayed in the water, a few on kayaks or surfboards, trying to coax the tightly packed group of remaining pilot whales into deeper waters, and then out to sea.

“Volunteers and everyone attempted to get them back out into the deeper water, and then they re-beached themselves,” a spokeswoman for the Parks and Wildlife Service told AFP.

“From that point, the vets assessed them and it was determined on welfare grounds that they needed to be euthanized.” — AFP

Kashmir Shiites march to mourn martyr after 33-year ban lifted

THOUSANDS of Shiite Muslims marched through Indian-administered Kashmir’s largest city Thursday for a major religious procession permitted in the restive territory for the first time since a ban was imposed decades ago.

The Islamic calendar is currently in the month of Muharram, the holiest time for Shiites across the world when large processions mark the martyrdom of the Prophet Muhammad’s grandson Hussein in the seventh century.

But authorities in Kashmir had banned the traditional ceremony in 1990, the year after an armed revolt against Indian rule erupted in the disputed region that is also claimed by Pakistan.

Kuwait hangs five, including 2015 mosque bombing convict

KUWAIT put to death five people on Thursday, including a man convicted of involvement in a 2015 Islamic State group suicide bombing that killed 26 people, the Public Prosecution said. The mul-

Over 35,000 illegal migrants detained in Türkiye, 16,000 deported in 2 months

MORE than 35,000 illegal migrants have been detained in Türkiye, and over 16,000 of them have been deported from the country in the last two months, Interior Minister Ali Yerlikaya said Wednesday.

“In the last two months, we detained 35,797 illegal migrants as a result of raids. Of them, 16,018 migrants were deported, and necessary procedures are being carried out against another 19,502 in deportation centres,” Yerlikaya said in a televised appearance.

The minister added that nine mobile centers of the Directorate General of Migration Management had been set up in Istanbul as an experiment, where it is possible to instantly check a migrant’s biometrics and migration status in the country. The ministry is planning to increase the number of centers up to 39, he said. Raids to detain illegal migrants under the new interior minister are now conducted daily, including on tourist ferries. Yerlikaya has pledged not to stop fighting illegal migration. Russia turns away cargo ship ‘with traces of explosives’

RUSSIA’S FSB security service said Thursday it had found “traces of explosives” on a cargo ship bound for the Russian port of Rostov-on-Don through the Black Sea.

The ship, Bmo River, arrived from Türkiye and had previously sailed twice to the Ukrainian port of Reni, the state-run Interfax news agency reported, citing security officials.

The FSB said that the ship had previously sailed to the Ukrainian port of Reni and said it had now been turned back from Russian waters.

ritorial waters,” it added.

Reni is located on the Danube near the Romanian border and a grain storage facility there was targeted by a Russian drone attack in recent days.

Russia has stepped up strikes against port facilities in southwest Ukraine after withdrawing from a deal to allow Ukrainian grain exports through the Black Sea.

This is the second such incident reported by the FSB.

On Monday, it said that traces of explosives had been found on a ship sailing from Türkiye to Rostov-on-Don which had previously been to the Ukrainian port of Kiliya and it too was turned back. — AFP

Prince Harry lawsuit against The Sun tabloid set for trial

PRINCE Harry’s lawsuit against The Sun tabloid alleging unlawful information gathering can go to trial but will not include phone hacking claims, a High Court judge ruled on Thursday.

Harry, 38, whose official title is Duke of Sussex, is suing several UK newspapers over alleged unlawful information-gathering, including News Group Newspapers (NGN) — publisher of The Sun and the now-defunct News of the World tabloids.

NGN is part of Rupert Murdoch’s global publishing empire and had asked the High Court in London to throw out the claims — filed by Harry alongside actor Hugh Grant — arguing they were out of time.

But judge Timothy Fancourt ordered that Harry’s case can go to trial, concluding NGN had “succeeded in part on its application” related to time limits around alleged phone hacking but “failed on the remaining part”. Hugh Grant learned in May that he had won his court bid to bring to trial his claim against NGN, while other high-profile claimants are also pursuing the newspaper group. — AFP

Sri Lanka massacres that triggered civil war haunt 40 years later

FORTY years ago, mobs in Sri Lanka burned 13 people alive, part of a week-long pogrom that turbocharged simmering ethnic unrest into all-out civil war.

Known in Sri Lanka as “Black July”, the brutal violence triggered a 26-year conflict that killed about 100,000 people and set development back by decades, ending only after the Tamil rebels fighting for autonomy were massacred in 2009.

The 1983 anti-Tamil mob attacks escalated on 29 July, when Mohan Panneer Selvam was just eight years old.

A rampaging gang torched his home in the tea-growing central town of Hawa Eliya, burning 13 people inside, including his parents, relatives and their staff.

“My grandmother started to escape, they shot her and threw her body into the house,” Panneer Selvam said, breaking down while recalling the events narrated to him by his older sister. He and his younger brother were away at boarding school when the riots broke out, returning as orphans to the ruins of their burned home two months later. His sister — then a child of 10 — was the sole survivor only because their mother “threw her out of the kitchen window”, he said. — AFP

Nigeria fight back to stun World Cup co-hosts Australia 3-2

SECOND-HALF goals from Osinachi Ohale and Asisat Oshoala gave Nigeria a stunning 3-2 win over Australia at the Women's World Cup on Thursday to leave the co-hosts in danger of an early exit. In front of 49,156 fans in Brisbane the Matildas missed a golden chance to reach the last 16 and instead now face a must-win final group game against Olympic champions Canada. In contrast, Nigeria top Group B and play Ireland — who are already out of contention — with the knockout rounds in sight. "We've talked about believing in each other and that the success is going to be in the unity of the team," said Nigeria's coach Randy Waldrum, whose team held Canada 0-0 in their first game. "To think we got two results against two top teams says a lot about our heart and the competitive desire that the team has." — AFP
