Reminder issued to rice millers, merchants, companies: MRF

THE management committee of the Myanmar Rice Federation issued a reminder on 25 August to rice millers, merchants and companies.

The reminder mentioned those who manage the rice and paddy industry are aware that paddy is cultivated at home for local sufficiency and annual export of surplus rice to foreign markets with a sufficient volume of rice stock. As such, everybody needs to emphasize fair and stable prices of rice without storing stock to manipulate rice prices.

Rice millers who are members of MRF and associate rice associations, rice merchants and companies have been urged to cooperate in implementing the press releases.

Rice millers have to systematically compile statistics for storage and consignment of paddy, records of prices for buying and selling, and stock records.

They have to operate rice mills at full capacity in the supply of electricity, record running hours of rice mills, and report to MRF and its branches at different levels if they need to operate rice mills by diesel due to a lesser supply of electricity.

Around 4,000 vissees of chilli peppers traded at low price

A total of 200 bags of cold-processed Panye long chilli pepper weighing around 4,000 vissees have been sold out wholesale at a low price in the sluggish Bayintnaung chilli pepper market, according to the market reports.

At a time when the market was sluggish, it was strange that the chilli peppers were traded at K14,000 per viss. The price of long chilli peppers in the cold storage was as high as K15,000–K15,500 in the previous days, but the price fell due to a lack of demand.

The purchase price of a viss of long chilli pepper varies from K11,000 to K13,500 when they were first put in cold storage. The cost of the cold storage for half a year, transport, and labour is about K1,000 per viss. Those who purchased them at a price of K11,000–K12,000 per viss in early 2023 got profits, and those who paid K13,000–K13,500 for a viss of chilli pepper faced losses.

Thus, storing the Pyawbwe Moehtaung chilli peppers produced in 2022 in cold storage could incur a loss, not profit, this year, said a chilli pepper trader.

Only Sinphyukyun bell peppers and Delta bell peppers (bell peppers from the delta region) processed in the cold storage have a wholesale rate of K19,500–K20,000 per viss in the Yangon chilli pepper market.

It is reported that the colour of the chilli peppers fades about a month after they are taken out of the cold storage, so traders sell them out in the market as soon as possible after they have been taken out of the cold storage. — TWA/CT

Consumers can complain about overcharging: MOC says

WITH the Consumers Affairs Department under the Ministry of Commerce endeavouring to scale down palm oil prices, consumers can make a complaint about overcharging by dialling the Call Centre.

The department is making concerted efforts to steer the high volatility in palm oil prices in the retail market and offer fairer prices to the consumers, in coordination with the Myanmar Edible Oil Dealers Association and oil importing companies.

The complaints for overcharging can be lodged over Hot Line: 1535 of the Call Centre of the Consumers Affairs Department or sent to the Facebook Page of the department and the pages of the region and state departments concerned.

The coordination meeting for the edible oil price stability was held on 30 August at the Ministry of Commerce (office No 3). Union Minister for Commerce U Aung Naing Oo gave the remark that the State contributed cheaper way to buying foreign currency to the edible oil sector by allowing the importers to buy 50 per cent of the total cost of imported palm oil at the reference exchange rate at the Central Bank of Myanmar and the remaining at the best rate. Furthermore, the CBM also stepped up to deal with foreign currency shortages for edible oil importers.

Afterwards, Union Minister U Aung Naing Oo elaborated on the Commerce Ministry issuing the wholesale reference price weekly. However, the market price is exorbitantly high. He found that consumers are not able to access the subsidy scheme. Therefore, the Union Minister warned the businesspersons in Yangon on 1 July to set a reasonable price. He called for them to prioritize the consumers' interest, not for self-interest only.

Additionally, the Union Minister encouraged all the stakeholders in the supply chain to cooperate with the ministry to reduce palm oil prices in the coming days as the ministry will try to achieve the meeting outcomes practically.

price stability was formed and started informing the lists of wholesale/retail shops of each company from 28 August, including the address of the shops in the respective townships and the number of available barrels.

The task force will govern the market to meet the satisfaction of the end-users in the supply chain and get easy access to the consumers.

It will also supervise the market to ensure the palm oil sales at wholesale prices are not higher than two per cent of the net profit margin and retail prices not higher than 10 per cent margin.

The Supervisory Committee on Edible Oil Import and Distribution under the Ministry of Commerce has been closely observing the FOB prices in Malaysia and Indonesia including transport costs, tariffs and banking services, and issuing the wholesale market reference rate for edible oil weekly.

The wholesale reference rate of palm oil for the Yangon market was set at K4,155 per viss this week from 28 August to 3 September.

The domestic consumption of palm oil is estimated at one million tonnes per year. The local palm oil production is just about 400,000 tonnes. To meet the domestic demands, about 700,000 tonnes of palm oil are yearly imported through Malaysia and Indonesia.

THE pigeon pea prices were on an upward trend in late August in the Yangon market, hitting a fresh peak of K3.8 million per tonne on 31 August 2023.

Meanwhile, black gram prices also touched a high of K2.499 million per tonne on 31 August 2023.

gust and K3.8 million on 31 August, indicating a sharp rise of K350,000 per tonne in the past four days.

The pigeon pea was priced below K300,000 per tonne in early 2009. The price remarkably surged on 31 August 2023, which is a 12 times increase compared to that of 2009. The growers earned a handsome profit and expanded the cultivation.

India's market observers forecast that the output of India's pigeon pea (tur) cultivation is estimated at 300,000 tonnes in 2023. The pigeon pea is grown in May in the central Myanmar regions and it usually flows into the market at the end of the year. — TWA/EM

Foster future professionals: Nurturing democracy in students

IN PURSUIT of a workforce equipped to invigorate the manufacturing sector and elevate the competencies of the younger generation, the government is actively implementing a comprehensive education system. This endeavour places paramount importance on enhancing the capabilities of youth to create knowledgeable and skilled citizens throughout the nation.

As the nation progresses toward embracing an authentic and disciplined multiparty democratic system, it becomes imperative to instil democratic values within students from an early age. This process, however, must be carefully orchestrated to ensure that the intrinsic national character and cultural heritage remain intact. An optimal educational framework emerges when schools prioritize imparting not only sound democratic practices but also a deep understanding of democratic principles, setting the stage for an ideal educational paradigm.

Youth who possess both education and a refined demeanour stand poised to seize pivotal opportunities. Demonstrating politeness in interpersonal interactions fosters mutual respect within society, thereby bolstering democratic values. It is incumbent upon educational institutions to take a forward-looking stance and incorporate lessons on democratic practices to equip youth with the necessary skills for a promising future.

various sectors necessitate early exposure to democratic principles.

Incorporating lessons on democratic practices into the curriculum yields twofold benefits: it equips young individuals to navigate their personal lives as well as contributes to societal advancement. Equipping youth with an understanding of democratic obligations nurtures responsible citizenship, a foundational requirement for contributing positively to the Republic of the Union of Myanmar.

Each young individual is duty-bound to contribute to the nation's development, healthcare services, cultural preservation, diplomatic relations, and social progress. Ethical integrity goes beyond surface-level politeness, as even well-educated individuals might lack this crucial attribute. Mere education and moral uprightness, devoid of genuine politeness, may fall short of ensuring absolute success. The lack of tactfulness can, at times, lead to missed opportunities and setbacks.

OUT of the language skills, writing is the most intricately patterned skill, we have well known. Since any subject matter is usually written on paper or by the book, a writing task always covers the most convincing evidence for reliability, validity and relevancy about the written subject matter. There are different types of writing such as report, persuasive, argumentative, narrative, expository, descriptive, creative, critical, or reflective, and report writing is still living among language users till now. That writing links up with informative essays that present factual information on a topic that is likely to be unfamiliar to the reader. So, I would like to tell the basic structure, grammar and language banks of an informative essay in the following.

Like most other essays, informative essays consist of an introduction, the main body and a conclusion. The introduction of an informative essay begins with the central idea or topic, the controlling idea, a hook to get the reader's attention sometimes, and background information about the topic. Its main body continues to describe details about the topic, transitions from old information to new information, usually at the beginning of a new body paragraph, words that let the reader know when the writer is certain and when he or she is hedging, and use of specific tenses like present simple, present perfect, past simple, and past perfect. The conclusion of informative essays ends in the restatement of the central idea or topic and a satisfactory ending.

After all, about report writing, I want to try an informative essay of 376 words under the title of 'The Art of Ironing' as follows: -

The Art of Ironing

Housework has traditionally been regarded as women's work in many different parts of the world, even until today. As we know, this work also includes ironing, and I have imitated the habit of ironing from my eldest sister since I was able to wash my clothes all by myself in my childhood. The main reason why I do the ironing of washed clothes even though I am a boy is that I just prefer ironing clothes to folding as well as wearing them stylishly and attractively. Then, I try to think about the beginning and another reason for ironing.

As far as I can see, researchers discovered that people have been using heated rocks to smooth out animal hides as long as 40000 years ago, and using metal to iron was introduced by the Chinese over 1,000 years ago. In the 1st century BC, they would use metal pans filled with hot water to smooth their clothes and erase creases from fabric. It is also assumed that the ancient Chinese used a scoop that was heated with hot coal or sand and would rub it over clothing to smooth wrinkles. The electric iron was invented by Henry Seely White in 1882. It is named for the metal (iron) of which the device was historically made, and its use is generally called ironing, the last step in the process of laundering clothes.

As to ironing benefits, ironing our clothes makes them last longer, first of all. This helps fabrics soften and return to their original states despite shrinking over time. Second, ironing gives our clothes a fresh and better look, removing all the wrinkles, offering our clothing a smarter impression, and influencing the fabric for quality enhancement. Third, ironing clothes kills the germ like thermophilic bacteria and fungi all of which the heat from the iron will terminate once and for all. Fourthly, I should like to mention that ironed clothes have a specific fresh smell for high temperatures can remove some bad smells, too. Finally, I may be a little biased on this one, but ironing while listening to our favourite music can be really relaxing. Ironing is a very methodical job and the back and forth of the iron can iron away worries.

After me is the reader's turn, I hope!

POEM

That Brief Moment

By Minthuwun

'tis from faults and omissions of others that intense roaring anger arise in me

'tis from my own mistakes and negligence that restlessness and anxiety burn inside my heart

in a sea of mental suffering physical ailments also arose unable to sleep past midnight

the wrong-headed groping for the 'I' the 'me', the 'great' I, the 'unparalleled' me causes all this turmoil in a very rare moment of insight when one thinks detachedly putting one's palm over one's forehead one sees the state of being immersed in this 'I', in the 'Self'

are indeed states of defilements

when this affirmative truth is glimpsed serenity pervades that brief rare moment which is so difficult to attain:
one continues to pine and wait for this glimmer of insight to visit if only briefly the turbulent 'I' once again

Global Fund secures deal to slash HIV treatment price

THE Global Fund announced Wednesday a deal with generic pharmaceutical manufacturers to significantly slash the price of a cutting-edge HIV drug, in a move it said would save lives.

The Global Fund, a partnership set up in 2002 to battle AIDS, tuberculosis and malaria, said the agreement would make it possible to provide the advanced pill known as TLD for under $45 per person per year. "This improved pricing — a 25-per-cent reduction — will allow governments in resource-limited settings to expand access to critical HIV services," it said in a statement.

The three-in-one pill bands together the drugs tenofovir disoproxil fumarate, lamivudine and dolutegravir.

The World Health Organization has recommended it as the preferred first-line HIV treatment for adults and adolescents, since it rapidly suppresses the virus that causes AIDS, has fewer side effects and is easy to take, the statement pointed out.

Addressing Financial

Barriers

"The countries most affected by HIV face enormous fiscal constraints, and there are still millions of people who are HIV-positive who don't have access to quality treatment," Global Fund chief Peter Sands said in the statement.

"Reduced pricing for TLD means governments and other implementers of Global Fund grants can expand treatment programmes and invest more in prevention, saving more lives and reducing new infections." — AFP

Pope to publish updated climate thesis on 4 October

POPE Francis revealed Wednesday he will publish an update to his seminal 2015 thesis on the environment in October, just weeks before the next round of UN climate talks.

The 86-year-old pontiff earlier this month mentioned plans to write a second part of “Laudato Si” but gave no details beyond saying it would address “current issues”.

His so-called encyclical in 2015 laid the blame for global warming squarely on humanity’s shoulders, and was seen as influential in United Nations climate talks in Paris later that year that led to landmark commitments.

At his weekly audience at the Vatican on Wednesday, Pope Francis set the date for his new version as 4 October — just weeks before the next round of UN talks, at COP28 in the United Arab Emirates in November and December. “On that date I intend to publish an exhortation, a second Laudato si,” he said.

“Let us join our Christian brothers and sisters in the commitment to safeguard Creation as a gift of the Creator.

“It is necessary to stand with the victims of environmental and climate injustice, striving to bring an end to the senseless war on our common home, which is a terrible world war.”

Microsoft bows to EU competition concerns over Teams

MICROSOFT will unbundle its Teams communications from its popular Office suite in an attempt to assuage EU antitrust concerns, the company said Thursday.

The European Commission launched the investigation in July to see whether the US tech giant was “abusing and defending its market position” by bundling the software together.

If the commission probe finds against Microsoft, the company could face a hefty fine or other ordered remedies.

In a bid to address the concerns, Microsoft will unbundle Teams from its Microsoft 365 and Office 365 suites in the European Economic Area and Switzerland from 1 October, the company’s vice president on European government affairs, Nanna-Louise Linde, said.

Customers will now be able to buy the software without Teams at a lower price, she added.

“We are announcing proactive changes that we hope will start to address these concerns in a meaningful way, even while the European Commission’s investigation continues and we cooperate with it,” Linde wrote in a blog post.

Microsoft bundles Teams with its cloud-based Office 365 and Microsoft 365 suites, which include its popular Word, Excel, Powerpoint and Excel programmes. Teams is a platform that allows users to communicate through messages, video calls and file sharing. — AFP

Google courts businesses with ramped up cloud AI

GOOGLE on Tuesday said it was weaving artificial intelligence (AI) deeper into its cloud offerings as it vies for the business of firms keen to capitalize on the technology.

The internet giant unveiled new AI-powered features for data searches, online collaboration, language translation, images and more at its first annual Cloud Next conference held in-person since 2019.

The gathering kicked off a day after OpenAI unveiled a business version of ChatGPT as tech companies seek to keep up with Microsoft, which has been ahead in powering its products with AI. “I am incredibly excited to bring so many of our customers and partners together to showcase the amazing innovations we have been working on,” Google Cloud chief executive Thomas Kurian said in a blog post. Most companies seek- ing to adopt AI must turn to the cloud giants — including Microsoft, AWS and Google — for the heavy duty computing needs. Those companies in turn partner up with AI developers — as is the case of a major tie-up between Microsoft and ChatGPT creator OpenAI — or have developed their own models, as is the case for Google. — AFP

Milestone Chinese summer box office earnings inject confidence, mirror quality advances

AS of 10 pm on Saturday, China’s summer box office revenue had surged past 20 billion yuan (2.78 billion US dollars), a new record high for summer box office sales in the country.

From a pre-pandemic high of nearly 17.8 billion yuan in 2019, China’s summer box office revenue has rocketed to a new level of 20 billion yuan, injecting more confidence into the recovery of the Chinese and global film industries. China’s summer movie season runs from the beginning of June to the end of August. Analysts attribute the strong performance of this year’s summer movie period — the first since

China adjusted its pandemic control measures — to the recovery of cultural consumption, including movies, from the impact of the pandemic, a diversity of film genres and themes, and overall higher quality than previous years, satisfying a diverse range of viewing demands.

Yu Chao, deputy general manager of Beijing’s Capital Cinema, said his most prominent impression of this season was the number of standout films.

According to film data platform Beacon, as of Sunday morning, crime films “Lost in the Stars” and “No More Bets” ranked first and second in the summer box office chart, with 3.5 billion yuan and 3.3 billion yuan, respectively.

They were followed by mythological epic “Creation of the Gods I: Kingdom of Storms” and reality-themed film “Never Say Never,” with box office receipts of 2.4 billion yuan and 2.2 billion yuan, respectively. The animated historical film “Chang’an” ranked fifth with nearly 1.8 billion yuan. Yu was particularly impressed with this film. “The exquisite production exceeded expectations, sparking a craze for Tang poetry and traditional culture and attracting audiences of all ages,” Yu said. — Xinhua

India deploys ‘monkey-men’ to scare away primates from G20 summit

INDIAN officials preparing for the G20 summit next week have hired teams of “monkey-men” and erected primate cutouts to deter marauding monkeys from munching on the floral displays laid out for global leaders. New Delhi’s city council has hired more than 30 “monkey wallahs”, or “monkey-men”, who mimic the hoots and screams of the aggressive langur monkey — the natural enemy of the smaller rhesus macaque primates who wreak havoc in the capital’s leafy government areas.

“We can’t remove the monkeys from their natural habitat, so we have deployed a team of 30-40 men who are trained to scare away monkeys,” Satish Upadhyay, the vice-chairman of the New Delhi Municipal Council, told AFP on Wednesday.

“We will deploy one man each at the hotels where the delegates would be staying, as well as in places where monkey sightings have been reported.” Though revered in the majority Hindu nation, monkeys are a major menace, often trashing gardens, office and residential rooftops and even viciously attacking people for food. — AFP

Climate poses ‘high risk’ for Europe’s ski resorts

Half of the world’s ski resorts are in Europe, where they generate about $30 billion (28 billion euros) per year. PHOTO: AFP/FILE

AT current rates of greenhouse gas emissions, which would see Earth’s surface warm nearly three degrees Celsius above pre-industrial levels, 90 per cent of Europe’s ski resorts will eventually face critical shortages of natural snow, researchers said Monday.

Even if the world caps global heating at the Paris climate treaty target of 1.5 degrees Celsius (a very big if) a third of the continent’s 2,234 resorts would still be highly vulnerable to snow scarcity, they reported in the journal Nature Climate Change.

At this lower temperature threshold, ski spots at higher altitudes and latitudes such as in Nordic countries and the French, Swiss and Austrian Alps can reduce climate risk through mechanical snowmaking. But this will be of little use to resorts further south and in lower altitudes, according to the study, the first to factor in the cost and carbon footprint of consuming additional energy and water to produce manufactured snow.

“Snowmaking involves investment and operating costs that expose resorts to economic failure risk,” lead author Hughes Francois, a researcher at France’s National Institute for Agronomics Research, told AFP. Even where artificial snow can be produced cheaply enough to keep a resort open and turn a profit, however, it also contributes to a vicious circle by increasing global warming due to its energy demands, the study showed. — AFP

China upgrades green power industry to boost high-quality development

CHINA'S green power industry, the global leader, is becoming a new driving force for China's high-quality development through technological upgrades.

GREEN POWER

China has the world's largest renewable power generation system, with the installed capacity of hydropower, wind power, solar power and biomass power generation ranking first in the world. This cheap and eco-friendly energy has become a key for high-quality development. According to the latest data from the National Energy Administration (NEA), as of the end of June 2023, the installed capacity of renewable energy in China had exceeded 1.3 billion kilowatts, surpassing the installed capacity of coal power for the first time in China's history.

A closer look at the installed capacity of renewable energy in China reveals that wind power is at 389 million kilowatts, ranking first in the world for 13 consecutive years, while the installed capacity of photovoltaic power is 470 million kilowatts, ranking first in the world for eight consecutive years.

According to Minister of Ecology and Environment Huang Runqiu, the technological progress and large-scale application of renewable energy in China have greatly reduced the cost of renewable energy.

For example, China supplies 50 per cent of the wind power equipment and 80 per cent of the photovoltaic module equipment in the world. In 2021, the installation cost of global photovoltaic equipment had decreased by about 82 per cent compared with the cost in 2010, while the installation cost of wind power equipment had decreased by at least 35 per cent.

TECH UPGRADES

China's green energy industry has been developed through continuous technology upgrades.

According to Li Chuangjun, director of the new energy and renewable energy department of the NEA, China's new energy innovation has gone through technology introduction, digestion and absorption, and re-innovation. — Xinhua

EU fossil fuel energy production hits record low: report

THE European Union's fossil fuel energy production hit a record low the first half of the year, think tank Ember Climate reported Wednesday, although green sources are struggling to fill the gap.

The decline in coal and gas generation was driven by a drop in electricity consumption across the bloc of 4.6 per cent amid high power prices, which surged after Russia invaded Ukraine, upending gas supplies.

"The decline in fossil fuels is a sign of the times," said Ember analyst Matt Ewen.

Coal generation was down 23 per cent, accounting for less than 10 per cent of the EU's total electricity production for the first time ever in May, Ember reported.

While gas prices have fallen from "crisis highs" last year, they remain double the cost compared with the first half of 2021, the report said.

The drop in electricity consumption resulted from emergency measures implemented by nearly all EU members between November and March to combat rising prices.

Industrial demand, notably in Germany, had also declined over the period, the report said.

Fossil fuels now make up the "lowest share ever of the power mix" at 33 per cent, Ember said.

The greatest declines in fossil fuel use year-over-year at more than 30 per cent were seen in Portugal, Austria, Bulgaria, Estonia and Finland. — AFP

UTTAR Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, has stated that his state is on a trajectory to become India's second-largest economy among all states.

Addressing the National Executive Committee Meeting (NECM) of industry body FICCI in Lucknow on Tuesday, the Chief Minister further emphasised Uttar Pradesh's ambitious journey towards industrialisation.

Uttar Pradesh is not just progressing; it is advancing rapidly to become a revenue-surplus state, said Yogi Adityanath, as per a FICCI release. He emphasised that the once-stigmatized 'Bimaru' image of UP is changing as the state transitions into an economic powerhouse.

CM Adityanath, as per the release, highlighted that Uttar Pradesh's substantial working-age population, comprising 56 per cent of its total demographic, fuels its economic aspirations.

Key initiatives like the 'One District One Product' scheme, along with robust infrastructure development and the provision of essential amenities to residents, are turning UP into a burgeoning industrial hub.

Recalling his initial days in office, Adityanath remarked that the first business meeting he attended as the Chief Minister in 2017 was convened by FICCI.

He expressed gratitude towards the FICCI for hosting its National Executive Committee Meeting in Uttar Pradesh after a gap of 38 years, signalling the state's increasingly business-friendly climate. — ANI

UBS to absorb

BANKING giant UBS said Thursday it plans to fully absorb Credit Suisse's century-old Swiss division and slash thousands of jobs across Switzerland, as it seeks to redress its recently-swallowed rival.

Switzerland's largest bank, which was strung into a $3.25-billion takeover of its closest domestic rival in March to keep it from going under, said it aimed to complete most of the integration by the end of 2026, with more than $10 billion in cost savings by then.

"Two and a half months since closing the Credit Suisse acquisition, we are wasting no time in delivering value for all our stakeholders from one of the biggest and most complex bank mergers in history," UBS chief executive Sergio Ermotti said. — AFP

Japan PM unveils relief package for fishery sector amid China ban

PRIME Minister Fumio Kishida on Thursday announced an additional rescue package for the fishery industry following China's import ban on Japanese seafood due to the release of treated radioactive water from the Fukushima nuclear power plant.

The support measures include steps to expand domestic consumption and ensure the sustainable production of seafood, responses to mitigate reputational damage, strategies to find new overseas markets, and provision of swift and thorough compensation.

The government will make efforts to "diversify" seafood sales channels instead of depending on sales in "specific countries" so that Japan will not rely heavily on China, Kishida said at his office, while calling on Beijing to engage in discussions to evaluate scientific evidence of the environmental impact of the water release.

Earlier in the day, Kishida visited Tokyo's Toyosu fish market to exchange views with seafood wholesalers about the potential adverse effects of import bans imposed by China and Hong Kong, both of which are primary markets for the Japanese fishery sector. — Kyodo

INDIA'S Adani Group hit back Thursday at a new report investigating alleged manipulation of the conglomerate's share prices, accusing its authors of conspiring to drive down its stocks for profit.

N Korea launched 2 ballistic missiles late Wed: KCNA

NORTH Korea launched two ballistic missiles Wednesday night as part of a tactical nuclear strike drill in response to the deployment of US strategic bombers to the Korean Peninsula during an exercise with South Korea, the country's state media reported.

The official Korean Central News Agency said Thursday a missile unit of the Korean People's Army "fired two tactical ballistic missiles northeastward" and "correctly carried out its nuclear strike mission".

North Korea slammed the US-South Korean exercise as a "serious threat" and tantamount to plans for a pre-emptive nuclear strike by the United States, according to KCNA.

The projectile launches came after US B-1B bombers were deployed to the region for a joint exercise with South Korean forces on Wednesday as part of the countries' annual Ulchi Freedom Shield large-scale military exercise from 21 August KCNA also reported that North Korean leader Kim Jong Un visited the training command post of the General Staff of the Korean People's Army on Tuesday and observed a command drill involving the whole army.

The drill was "aimed at occupying the whole territory of the southern half by repelling the enemy's sudden armed invasion and switching over to an all-out counterattack," KCNA reported. — Kyodo

Thai ex-PM Thaksin applies for royal pardon: govt source

THE 74-year-old billionaire, twice elected PM and ousted in a 2006 military coup, was sent to prison last week immediately after returning to the kingdom from 15 years of self-exile.

His homecoming coincided with his Pheu Thai party returning to government in alliance with several pro-military parties, sparking widespread speculation of a deal to cut his jail time.

Caretaker justice minister Wissanu Krea-ngam said Thaksin had applied for a pardon from the eight-year jail term he is serving for convictions for graft and abuse of power.

"We have received (the request), the rest will be according to the procedure," Wissanu told reporters. — AFP

China braces for super typhoon Saola ahead of new semester

IN response to the approaching super typhoon Saola, multiple cities in coastal Chinese provinces, including Guangdong and Fujian, have postponed the start of the upcoming new school semester, suspended train and ferry operations, and directed fishing boats in the affected waters to return to ports for safety.

Cities including Shantou, Shanwei, Jieyang and Chaozhou in eastern Guangdong Province, and Quanzhou and Zhangzhou in Fujian Province have pushed back the start of the new semester for primary schools, middle schools and kindergartens to 4 September.

The use of Guangdong sections of railway lines, including the Guangzhou-Shenzhen intercity line and the Guangzhou-Shenzhen-Hong Kong high-speed railway line, is set to be suspended from Thursday to Monday, according to the China Railway Guangzhou Group Co., Ltd.

To cope with the typhoon, Guangdong's provincial flood, drought and typhoon control headquarters raised its emergency response to Level II at 8 am Thursday.

Similar adjustments and suspensions of train operations have also been implemented in the neighboring Fujian Province. — Xinhua

Shan United draws Myanmar U-23 in friendly match

MYANMAR National League defending champion Shan United played a test match against Myanmar U-23 football team at Thuwunna Stadium in Yangon yesterday and the game ended in a goalless draw.

As many of Shan United's core players are participating in the Myanmar national team's international matches, the team only competed with reserve players in this match.

Shan United lineup includes

Hein Thiha Zaw, Myo Ko Tun, Zin Phyo Aung, Zwe Min Khant, Thi Nyein Min, Mark, Aung Kyaw Thu and Lin Htet Soe.

Meanwhile, strong players participated in the Myanmar youth team.

Every player from both sides showed their good performance in the friendly match.

Both sides were eager to win, but the match ended in a goalless draw.

Shan United will face Macarthur FC of Australia in the first match of the AFC Cup group stage on 21 September. In turn, the Myanmar U-23 team is taking training with 25 preliminary players for the 2024 Asian Cup U-23 qualifiers to be played in September.

The team has been reorganizing since 23 August after the 2023 ASEAN U-23 tournament. U Aung Naing is handling it as the interim head coach as

France's Pavard signs for Inter Milan from Bayern Munich

BENJAMIN Pavard has signed for Inter Milan from Bayern Munich, the Serie A club announced on Wednesday.

In a statement, Inter confirmed that France full-back Pavard has moved to Italy in a permanent deal for which local media report last season's losing Champions league finalists will pay 30 million euros (US$32.7 million) plus a potential two million euros' worth of add-ons.

Pavard, who landed in Milan on Tuesday, has been in limbo waiting for Bayern to agree to the transfer for a week.

Bayern coach Thomas Tuchel said on Sunday that Pavard would not leave the Bundesliga champions unless a replacement was found for the 27-year-old. Pavard was in the last year of his contract after spending seven seasons in Germany with Stuttgart and then Bayern, with whom he won four German league titles and the Champions League in 2020.

Blow for Messi, Miami MLS playoff hopes as Cincinnati clinch

FC Cincinnati led the way into the Major League Soccer playoffs on Wednesday as the slim post-season hopes of Lionel Messi's Inter Miami took a hit with a goalless draw against Nashville. Second-half goals from Luciano Acosta and Brandon Vazquez lifted Cincinnati to a 2-1 victory at Atlanta, where Colombian Edwin Mosquera's first MLS goal had put the hosts ahead in the 10th minute. The victory was Cincinnati's first at Mercedes-Benz Stadium and took the Eastern Conference leaders to 57 points and the first berth in the MLS Cup playoffs with eight matches remaining in the regular season.

Miami, meanwhile, made little headway in their unlikely bid to make the playoffs as they were held scoreless for the first time in the 10 games of the Messi era.

The Argentine star had scored 11 goals in nine appearances since joining Inter Miami -- including their run to the Leagues Cup crown, in a US Open Cup semi-final and in his regular-season debut off the bench in New York on Saturday. The workload may have finally caught up with him on Wednesday as he was unable to work the magic again in front of another star-studded crowd at a blustery DRV PNK Stadium, where boxing great Floyd Mayweather and FIFA chief Gianni Infantino were among the spectators.

The draw left Miami 10 points out of the final playoff spot with 10 games remaining. — AFP

French troops reportedly given until 3 September to withdraw from Niger

Supporters of the troop withdrawal plan to hold an indefinite protest against the French military's presence in Niger. They are also demanding that essential services such as water, power, and food supply be cut off from the French base.

NIGER'S National Council for the Safeguard of the Homeland (CNSP) has reportedly demanded the complete withdrawal of French troops from the West African country by 3 September. Earlier in the day, Saudi media reported the CNSP had announced the annulment of all security and military agreements with France. By the end of the week, supporters of the pullout are going to stage an indefinite protest against the presence of the French military in Niger. Some residents have reportedly demanded that the authorities cut water and power supply to the French base, as well as halt food deliveries. Last week, the Nigerien Foreign Ministry called on French Ambassador Sylvain Itte to leave the country within 48 hours. Paris said it took note of Niger's request to the ambassador, but noted Niger's military leadership has no authority to make such decisions. On 26 July, Niger's presidential guard ousted and detained President Mohamed Bazoum. The guard's commander, Gen. Abdourahmane Tchiani, proclaimed himself the president of the caretaker CNSP-led government. Most Western countries as well as ECOWAS condemned it. four blasts in one night

BOMB squad experts have been called in after Swedish cities were rocked by four explosions in just over an hour, police said, with the country struggling to rein in a surge of gang-related violence. Just after 1:00 am local time (2300 GMT), police in Gothenburg received reports of two explosions at separate addresses, just 10 minutes apart. "Both sites have been cordoned off and technical investigations are ongoing," police said, adding that the national bomb squad had been called to the scene. "There are no reports of people being injured, only material damage," police added. An hour later another two explosions were reported minutes apart in Norsborg — a suburb south of Stockholm — and in Nykoping, about 100 kilometres south of the capital. In both cases, police said no one was hurt. All four blasts were at residential buildings. S Korean govt to promote seafood sales amid Fukushima water fears

SOUTH Korean President Yoon Suk Yeol said Thursday the government will allocate 80 billion won ($60.4 million) to help boost consumption of domestic seafood, which has been hit following Japan's release of treated radioactive water from the crippled Fukushima nuclear plant into the sea. The allocation comes amid opposition among many in South Korea to the water release, which commenced a week earlier, due to concern over seafood safety. The South Korean government has said it has found no scientific or technical issues with the discharge. Yoon unveiled the funding, covering up to a 60-per-cent discount on domestic seafood products, at a regular meeting on the economy and people's livelihoods. South Korean Prime Minister Han Duck Soo urged Japan on the day the discharge commenced, which is expected to last around 30 years, to disclose relevant information "in a transparent and responsible manner". — Kyodo
