Extend the cultivation of paddy, sunflower and beans and pulses

The government is implementing farmland development projects and taking all the necessary measures for land reclamation, sufficient water supply for agricultural purpose, high crop yield and cultivation of quality strains. Moreover, it is also having dams, embankments and sluice gates built wherever possible across the nation to ensure sufficient water supply needed for agricultural works.

Sluice gates can not only prevent floods but also store surplus water and, as a result, they can contribute to cultivation of crops when the rains are over. The Kadappana sluice gate built near Kadappana village in Kyauktan Township in Yangon Division was opened on 25 April. It is the 19th irrigation project implemented in Yangon Division and will be able to irrigate 15,000 acres of farmland in Kyauktan and Thongwa Townships.

Thanks to the opening of the Kadappana sluice gate, farmers in ten village-tracts in Kyauktan and Thongwa Townships will be able to put more than 14,000 acres of farmland under monsoon paddy. Moreover, they will be able to grow summer paddy, sunflower and beans and pulses. In addition, the newly-opened sluice gate will contribute towards the greening of the area within the 30-mile radius of Yangon.

The purpose of building dams and sluice gates is to irrigate farmlands, to prevent floods and to green the environment. Up to now, all over the nation, a total of 221 irrigation projects have been completed. As a result, about 2.8 million acres of farmland can be irrigated now.

As the government has fulfilled all the requirements, it rests with farmers and all those in agribusiness to try to extend the cultivation of paddy, sunflower and beans and pulses with the use of high-yield quality strains.

Security problems uncovered at US bases in Iraq

WASHINGTON, 27 April— A commission investigating waste and fraud in wartime spending has found serious deficiencies in training and equipment for hundreds of Ugandan guards hired to protect US military bases in Iraq.

The problems at Forward Operating Bases Delta and Hammer include a lack of vehicles used to properly protect the two posts, a shortage of weapons and night vision gear, and poorly trained guards.

Both bases house several thousand US military personnel.

Concerned the shortages leave the bases vulnerable, the Commission on Wartime Contracting alerted military officials in Iraq and at US Central Command in Tampa, Fla.

“Incidents such as this are a concern in their own right, but they are a particular concern to the commission if they prove to be indicators of broader, systemic problems that impede the delivery of critical services to American military forces in a war zone,” said Bob Dickson, the commission’s executive director.

Army Lt Col Brian Maka, a spokesman for Multi-National Force-Iraq, said contracting officials have taken the commission’s findings seriously. “Security contractors at both sites have corrected or are in the process of correcting deficiencies,” he said Saturday.

Hundreds of Iraqis protested in the southern city of Kut against US forces and the provincial governor also condemned the military operation. The US military had any immediate comment on the Iraqi stance but said the raid was carried out with the full approval of Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki’s government.

Mexico: suspected swine flu deaths climb to 149

MEXICO CITY, 27 April—Mexico canceled school nationwide Monday and warned the death toll from a swine flu epidemic believed to have killed 149 people would keep rising before it can be contained.

“We are the most critical moment of the epidemic. The number of cases will keep rising so we have to reinforce preventative measures,” Cordova said at a news conference that was briefly shaken by an earthquake centered in southern Mexico.

Cruise ship fends off pirate attack with gunfire

ROME, 27 April—An Italian cruise ship with 1,500 people on board fended off a pirate attack far off the coast of Somalia when its Israeli private security forces exchanged fire with the bandits.

Six men in a small, white Zodiac-type boat approached the Msc Melody at about 1730 GMT Saturday and opened fire with automatic weapons, Msc Cruises director Domenico Pellegrino said. They retreated after the security officers returned fire and sprayed them with water hoses. The ship continued its journey with its windows darkened.

"It felt like we were in war," the ship's commander, Piero Pinto, told Italian state radio.

None of the roughly 1,000 passengers and 500 crew members was hurt, Pellegrino said. The passengers were asked to return to their cabins and the external lights on board turned off.

Pellegrino said all Msc cruise ships around the world are staffed with Israeli security agents because they are the best trained.

Israel detains suspect in West Bank pickax attack

JERUSALEM, 27 April—Israeli forces have detained a Palestinian man suspected of killing an Israeli child and wounding another during a rampage in a West Bank settlement earlier this month, authorities said Sunday.

Officials said the suspect, from a village next to the settlement, confessed to the killing and handed over a knife used in the attack.

The assailant attacked a group of children in the Bat Ayin settlement with the knife and a pickax on 2 April.

A 13-year-old boy was killed, a 7-year-old was seriously wounded and a third boy escaped.

The attacker fled the scene, leaving behind the small, red pickax.

At the time of the attack, a murky Palestinian group claimed responsibility. But authorities discounted the claim and said Sunday that the suspect, Moussa Tayet, had no links to any organized militant groups.

Israeli military and police officials alleged, however, that Tayet, 26, meticulously planned the attack for weeks, picking up the weapons from a hiding place as he entered the settlement. They said he told investigators that the attack was religiously motivated.

The attacker entered Bat Ayin, located between Jerusalem and the southern West Bank city of Hebron, unhindered.

The religious settlers have refused to build a security fence around their community — standard practice in most settlements — saying it would be a sign of weakness.

The Israeli army said Tayet was caught on 14 April, but his arrest was only announced on Sunday because he was being interrogated.

Wild elephants kill five villagers in India

Wild elephants demolished two thatched-roof huts, killing five villagers in a pre-dawn attack on Friday in India's remote northeast, an official said.

The dead included a woman and her two children, Magistrate Ishfaqur Rahman said.

The two elephants, who were apparently looking for food, disappeared into the forest after the attack in Bangsali, about 170 miles (270 kilometres) west of Gauhati, the capital of Assam state, he said.

The attack came less than three weeks after a wild elephant trampled to death a 60-year-old Dutch tourist who was on a bird and monkey safari in Kaziranga National Park in Assam.

India's northeast has the world's highest number of wild Asiatic elephants, with 7,000 estimated in the states of Assam and Meghalaya alone.

About 700 people have been killed by elephants in India's northeast in the past 19 years. Conservationists say rising elephant attacks on people are largely the result of the rapid shrinkage of their habitat.

Present Status

At present, MMCWA's activities are carried out throughout the country under the supervision of the Central Council including the 15 members of the Central Executive Committee, under which there are various Supervisory Committees at State/Division and District levels respectively. These committees supervise and give necessary assistance to the Township Maternal and Child Welfare Associations, altogether (325) in number, plus (21,454) branch associations under them. The total number of MMCWA member for both gender, stands at (11,169,740) by the end of the year 2008.

Four-Main Activities

In line with its objective to promote the families and their overall standard of living, MMCWA gives assistance in the areas of health, education, economic and social matters, trying to get the operations, as much as possible, down to villages and wards at grassroot level.

Health Activities

MMCWA carries out health activities in close collaboration with the Ministry of Health. Examples include TB, Malaria, HIV/AIDS prevention and control measures and National Immunization Programme for children against 6 major childhood diseases. It also operates a variety of community-based health activities through its Township and Branch associations, Maternity Homes and Maternity Waiting Homes.

In order to provide the general public with the correct information and facts on health issues, educative talks have been conducted throughout the country covering various health topics under the supervision of maternal and child welfare supervisory committees. MMCWA also provides information, education and communication on Adolescent Reproductive Health (ARH) and Reproductive Health (RH). The aim is to increase awareness regarding reproductive health issues among youths, men and women of reproductive age through advocacy meetings for community mobilization, community health talks, round table discussions, training of trainers and multiplier courses in all states and divisions.

A total of (119) MMCWA Maternity Homes play a crucial role for pregnant women especially in needy townships and rural villages where hospital services are not in proximity.

The services provided at these Maternity Homes include quality antenatal, intranatal and postnatal care, immunization services, clean and safe delivery by skilled attendants as well as prompt referral services for emergencies. Iron and folate supplementation is also available as an intervention against anaemia in pregnancy.

MMCWA volunteers from the community are sent to 18-month-multipurpose midwifery course annually with the aim to improve access to skilled care by a health professional with midwifery skills. In addition, auxiliary midwife training courses are also conducted in all States and Divisions to overall increase in the number of deliveries with skilled attendants.

In 2006, MMCWA, in collaboration with UNFPA established Maternity Waiting Homes in 5 selected townships in order to enable rural women to have greater access to hospital deliveries. Plans are also underway to extend this activity to 5 more townships with high MMR and IMR.

In 2006, as an effort to combat HIV/AIDS, MMCWA launched maternity-home based PMCT (Prevention of Mother to Child Transmission) project in cooperation with UNICEF in 5 selected townships and one PMCT centre in the MMCWA compound in Yangon. This programme has been extended to 10 more townships.

In order to prevent undesirable effect of iodine deficiency such as mental retardation in children, MMCWA actively participate in health talks and distribution of iodated salt to the community.

Growth Monitoring Programme (GMP) for children under 5 has been a regular MMCWA's health activity to promote the health and well-being of children. Included in the programme are health education talks on nutrition, regular weight and height measurements, supplementary feeding and holding cooking demonstrations for nutrition purpose.

One notable activity of MMCWA members is organizing for reconstructive surgery in collaboration with Ministry of Health for congenital malformations among children as well as adults throughout the whole country.

Together with other NGOs and forces, MMCWA members also take part in community home-based care programme for chronically ill persons.

In addition, MMCWA is actively participating, in cooperation with Ministry of Health, in the implementation of school health programme to promote the health standard of the entire student youth. MMCWA endeavours in implementing tobacco-free, narcotics-free and Aedes-free school programmes in various townships in all States and Divisions.

Before it moved its central office to Nay Pyi Taw, MMCWA had opened a Diagnostic Center in its compound in Yangon to offer medical services to women for early detection of cancers of the reproductive system. Mammography, Pap Smear, Colposcopy and Ultrasonographic examinations plus services like health education and counseling were provided at the center with referrals whenever necessary. The Diagnostic Center was later upgraded for the expansion of Laboratory and Radiological Diagnosis.

In Nay Pyi Taw, MMCWA is planning to set up a new clinic that will provide all the services of the old Diagnostic Center, together with an extension of a 10-bed Maternity ward where the usual maternity home services will be provided. With the opening of "Myittar-San-Yay" Clinic on April 28th, MMCWA aims to provide health care services at reasonable prices to the public around Nay Pyi Taw Dekkhinathiri and Nay Pyi Taw Lewe Townships.

Educational Activities

Regarding the educational activities, MMCWA has been operating community based pre-schools and day-care centers country-wise, the total number amounting to (1,275) by the end of 2008. These centers give valuable lifelong ideas and concepts to the children to enable them to adopt good habits and practices crucial for their physical, mental and intellectual development. Parenting education is also one function of those centers. Mothers also have a chance to earn additional family income while their children are left in good care.

In line with the "Education for All" policy of the Ministry of Education, MMCWA members at all levels in the States and Divisions try to ensure that all children of school going age get the chance to go to school and complete their primary education. In addition, stipends, school uniforms and stationery are provided for the needy students. For nonformal education, township and branch associations supervise and organize 3-R classes, voluntary twilight schools, evening classes and Reading—circles to speed up the reading capacity of those who have finished the basic 3-R course.

Economic Activities

Another important area of MMCWA is to help mothers in income generation. Vocational training courses like knitting, sewing, cooking, etc., appropriate to the respective regions are carried out to generate family income. Sewing machines are often sold to them on installment basis as part of the arrangement. Similarly, micro-credit loan scheme is quite common in most of maternal and child welfare associations to help women get a start in doing business for extra earnings.

Social Activities

As far as the social area is concerned, MMCWA participate in the home-based elderly-care programme, providing medical and other assistance to the old people. Some volunteers even offer their time to those who are left alone in their houses to keep company with them and listen to them. To the needy ones like the twins and triplets, mothers, MMCWA also contribute cash and other commodity supply.

Conclusion

The activities mentioned here by no means cover all those that are being carried out in different regions. Despite its main focus on mothers and children, MMCWA is ready and willing to give any kind of assistance whatsoever to enhance the quality of life of our people. Credit goes to all those who are actively engaged in the execution of MMCWA's activities. To all members across the country-

Global Human Flu Preparedness and Response Work Committee meets

NAY PYI TAW, 27 April—A work coordination meeting of Global Human Flu Preparedness and Response Work Committee took place at the meeting hall of the National Health Committee at the Ministry of Health here at 5 pm today with an address by Work Committee Chairman Deputy Minister for Health Dr Mya Oo.

The meeting was attended by work committee members, subcommittees members, heads of State/Division Health Departments, medical superintendents and officials.

In his speech, Deputy Minister Dr Mya Oo said as a national duty, Myanmar was able to prevent SARS that broke out in 2003 from entering the country and protect every person from contracting the disease. About six months later, avian flu occurred in the world. Since that time, the Ministry of Health has been taking preventive measures under the leadership of NHC.

Deputy Minister Dr Mya Oo addresses the meeting of Global Human Flu Preparedness and Response Work Committee.—MNA

Myanmar attended international ministerial meetings on prevention of global human flu six times and is taking international preventive measures. Observing the outbreak of human flu since 17 April, swine flu has infected more than 1300 people and killed 80 in Mexico. Twenty people in the US, ten in New Zealand, and six in Canada have caught the swine flu virus. So it can be assumed that the virus has spread to some countries.

It is found that the current swine flu virus infects people through an infected pig, and it can also infect from human to human. The current virus is a new strain of virus mutated from a combination of four kinds of genes. Mexico has to close schools, museums, theatres and libraries. Health screening is being carried out at the airports of Japan, the People's Republic of China, the Republic of Korea, Thailand, the Republic of Singapore and Malaysia. In Myanmar the Ministry of Health has informed NHC about the pandemic and is taking preventive measures in cooperation with related ministries and the WHO. Measures are also being taken to prevent the virus from entering Myanmar through airports, seaports and borders. Arrangements have been made to keep watching suspected patients at hospitals and to provide medicines and medical equipment for effective treatment. Moreover, laboratories have been upgraded to diagnose the virus and warnings about the disease have been issued to the public. It is necessary to prevent the current flu as a national task in cooperation with the people.

Afterwards, the attendees explained performance of their assigned duties.

Later, the deputy minister gave necessary instructions and a concluding remark.

Khabaung Diversion Weir to irrigate summer paddy plantations in Sittoung River Valley

U Myint Aung and in-charge of DY-4 Staff Officer U Kyi Thein explained progress of their respective sectors.

Staff Officer U Toe Lin took us to observe progress in construction of the left main canal and supply of water to the tributary canals and drains. We witnessed the long canals and lush and green summer paddy plantations.

Assistant Director U Aung Bo of Construction (5) of Irrigation

Department said, "In the past, the local people had greeted each other asking the condition of soil and water since the two were very important for farm work. The farmers broadcast paddy seeds for cultivation of summer paddy. After that, they transplanted the paddy in row. Some farmers grew green gram at first, and after harvesting green gram, they cultivated summer paddy. Now, some are worried about supply of adequate water to the farmlands.

Khabaung Dam stores water at the full brim. Leaving doubt of water supply, they should grow green gram in time after harvesting monsoon paddy and they have to continue growing summer paddy. So, the local farmers will have to enjoy fruits of undertaking triple cropping fully."

The farmers who could not grow paddy in the past summer due to lack of irrigation facility are going to earn more income through cultivation of summer paddy with the use of irrigated water from Khabaung Diversion Weir.

The left main canal of the diversion weir can supply water to 10,000 acres of farmlands in Ottwin Township. Of them, 8,500 acres of farmlands are being cultivated with the help of the irrigation facility.

In the summer, water is being supplied to the farmlands through the right main canal. Therefore, the summer paddy plants are thriving in the fields. After that, we observed thriving summer paddy plantations irrigated by Khabaung Dam, near Yangon-Man-dalay Expressway in Chin Village.

Nowadays, the water drained out from Khabaung Dam to Khabaung Diversion Weir contributes to lush and green summer paddy plantations in Sittoung River Valley.

Detroit hydrogen buses may go regional ROMULUS, 27 April—US officials say tests of hydrogen-powered buses at the Detroit airport are designed to see if they can eventually be connected to regional mass transit.

The US Energy Department and the Wayne County Airport Authority recently began using a pair of Ford hydrogen buses to shuttle passengers between the two terminals at Detroit Metro Airport and hope they will eventually link up with the new Detroit-Ann Arbor commuter rail that will begin operations next year.

"The idea is looking at whether hydrogen buses could be used to link the airport with a regional mass transit system," said project spokeswoman Brendan Prebo.

The Detroit News said Saturday that the coaches have been getting good reviews from riders, although they are only two of the 54 shuttle buses in operation at the airport. —Internet

Farmer with transplant heart celebrates 17 years of survival

HARBIN, 27 April—Yang Yumin, a farmer from the suburbs of Harbin, capital of northeast China's Heilongjiang Province, has been living with a transplanted heart for the last 17 years.

Yang, 51, is the longest survivor of a heart transplant in China.

A celebration was organized on Sunday at the No2 Clinical Hospital attached to Harbin

University of Medical Science, where the operation was performed 17 years ago.

Yang contracted ectatic myocarditis in 1989. Before the operation he could neither walk, sit nor lie down, and was at constant risk of heart failure. Xia Qiuming, a well-known cardiac surgeon, performed the transplant on April 26, 1992. More than 100 doctors worked together, and Yang was received about 1,000 stitches. The easy-going Yang now has a 16-year-old daughter and operates a small catering business with his wife inside the hospital canteen. Yang is now in charge of vegetable purchase for the hospital canteen. "My biggest wish is to live as a normal healthy man," Yang told Xinhua. Yang said he needs to take medicine each day.—Xinhua

Leopard population declines fast in E India

NEW DELHI, 27 April—The leopard population in eastern India has been declining fast with 44 leopards killed in the eastern state of Assam in the past three years alone, said the local daily Mail

Today on Saturday.

A non-government organization called Aaranyak has been conducting a research in 30 forest divisions of Assam for over one year and it has found that most of the casualties were felines which strayed into human habitations and were killed by the villagers, said the report.

Lack of awareness for protecting the animals, destruction of natural habitat, little or no compensation for killing animals, declining prey base and a demand for leopard parts such as skins have led to a 50 percent decline of the leopard population over the past one decade, according to the report.

The Indian leopard, a very famous member of the big cats family in the country, is now regarded as a threatened, if not endangered species by animal protection groups.

UAW, Chrysler and Fiat reach concession deal

DETROIT, 27 April—Chrysler LLC cleared another major obstacle to its survival Sunday when it reached a tentative deal on concessions with the United Auto Workers union, helping it move closer to inking a vital alliance with Italy's Fiat Group SpA.

The troubled automaker is just days away from a Thursday US government deadline to gain concessions from its unions and debtholders and link up with Fiat or face almost certain liquidation. White House economic adviser Larry Summers said Sunday the Obama administration is holding out hope that Chrysler can avoid bankruptcy court. The UAW late Sunday called the concessions painful but said the deal takes advantage of the Obama administration giving Chrysler and its workers a second chance. The administration in February rejected Chrysler's restructuring plan and gave the Auburn Hills, Mich, automaker until April 30 to make further cuts and arrange to take on Fiat as a partner. The UAW agreement is seen as a key piece of pulling Chrysler's plan together, and it's noteworthy that the UAW said Fiat was involved in the deal.—INTERNET

Inter slump to shock Napoli defeat

ROME, 27 April—Italian league leaders Inter Milan slumped to a first defeat since mid-January on Sunday when Napoli edged a 1-0 win which left Jose Mourinho's men seven points ahead of AC Milan with five games left.

It was only Inter's third loss of the campaign and came just hours after Milan had retained second spot with a Kaka-inspired 3-0 home win over Palermo. Third-placed Juventus were held to a 2-2 draw by bottom club Reggina and are nine points behind Inter. Safina determined to prove she's worthy number one

BERLIN, 27 April—Dinara Safina celebrates her 23rd birthday on Monday determined to prove she deserves to be world number one despite never having won a Grand Slam title. The Russian takes to the clay courts of Stuttgart for the first time since her controversial elevation to the top of the rankings where she displaced Serena Williams, the holder of 10 Grand Slam crowns.

"There's no question that while I am very proud of my results over the past year, I would have liked to reach this achievement in a different manner," said Safina, the runner-up to Williams at the Australian Open this year. "I hope to prove to everyone over the coming months that I merit the honour of being world number one."

Dinara Safina

Serena has made no secret at her puzzlement over the way the rankings operate.

"Well, she's really a good girl and she is a nice person. I just have the utmost respect for not only her, but everyone on this tour," said the American. "I just think it's crazy that I can be so consistent throughout the year and last year and barely be No. 1. I have won two of the last four Grand Slams and got to the finals of three of the last four."

No rest for tennis champ Nadal as Rome beckons

BARCELONA, 27 April—Rafael Nadal had no time for extended celebrations after winning a fifth straight Barcelona Open title 6-2, 7-5 over David Ferrer with the Rome Masters next on his all-conquering agenda. Last year, at the Foro Italico, the 22-year-old world number one, suffering from knee problems, lost his opening match there to compatriot Juan Carlos Ferrero.

That loss snapped a three-title run in the Eternal City. This year, Nadal goes to Rome in equally devastating touch after completing five on the trot trophy performances at both Monte Carlo and Barcelona in the space of 14 charmed April days.

"I could never have imagined that I could win here for the fifth time," said the champion. "For me, this is much more than a dream."

Ochoa wins in Morelia for second straight year

MORELIA, 27 April—Mexican star Lorena Ochoa shot a 5-under 68 on Sunday to hold off Norway's Suzann Pettersen by a stroke in a dramatic final round and win the Corona Championship for the second straight year. Ochoa, who also won the tournament in 2006, had back-to-back birdies on the 15th and 16th holes to break a tie with Pettersen and finish at 25-under 267.

The charismatic star played without regular caddy Dave Booker, who got hurt playing a soccer match on Saturday and was unable to help the 27-year-old Ochoa around Tres Marias Residential Country Club. She ended up calling on childhood coach Rafael Alarcon to caddy for her. He was evidently up for the challenge, helping Ochoa win her 26th career title and second this season. It was also Ochoa's third win in her home country, where she has played 11 of the 13 LPGA Tour events staged there.—Internet

Wenger says Arsenal can beat 'everybody'

LONDON, 27 April—Arsenal manager Arsene Wenger said his side could beat "everybody" when they were at their best as he urged them to be fearless against Manchester United in Wednesday's Champions League semi-final first leg clash at Old Trafford.

The Gunners head into that match unbeaten in 20 games after Cesc Fabregas's double — his first goals in six months — secured a 2-0 Premier League victory at home to relegation-threatened Middlesbrough here on Sunday. The only concern for Wenger was a back injury to former United defender Mikael Silvestre, who is rated at "fifty-fifty" for the game in Manchester.

Article & Photos: Khin Maung Than (Sethmu)

As part of efforts to efficiently use the irrigation facilities, the water drained out from generating electricity at Khabaung Dam in Ottwin Township of Bago Division is being supplied to the diversion weir, eight miles west of Ottwin Township and five miles downstream of the dam.

The diversion weir is located near Shwelaung Village. In functioning the irrigation facility, the diversion weir will supply water to 40,000 acres of farmlands in Toungoo Township through the left main canal and 60,000 acres of farmlands in Ottwin Township through the right main canal.

With regard to Khabaung Diversion Weir, Assistant Director U Aung Bo of Construction (5) explained implementation of the project for cultivation of summer paddy there.

The left canal of the diversion weir will be dug in Toungoo Township to benefit 40,000 acres of farmlands. The left canal will cross Chaungmange and Panbe creeks with the use of siphons.

Staff Officers U Soe Moe Lwin and U Kyi Thein conducted us round the functions of irrigation facility of the right main canal and its tributary canals. On 10 January 2009, the right canal (DY-1) of the diversion weir commenced the supply of water for the agricultural purpose. As a result, we saw thriving summer paddy plantations being grown with the use of irrigated water. After that, in-charge of DY-2 Staff Officer U Aung Htet Myint, in-charge of DY-3 Staff Officer (See page 11)
