Article: Win Kyaw; Photos: Tin Soe (Myanma Alin)

In the cold morning, the panoramic beauty of pine forests can be seen with the mountain ranges in the background. Crop plantations are cultivated on the terraces of the hills. Lush and green seasonal crop plantations are thriving on the red colour soil. Such scenic beauties are located in the gate way town to Shan State (South) or Kalaw. The town is situated at an altitude of 4315 feet.

On 15 May morning, the news crew of the Myanma Alin Daily proceeded to Kalaw after covering the news in Yaksawk. Along the route, we saw pine plantations on both sides.

We witnessed growing of multi-coloured flowery plants in the urban area. To observe progress of the town and socio-economic development of the local people, the news team had an interview with Chairman of Township Peace and Development Council U Myint Aung at his office.

With regard to the location of the town, the chairman said, “Kalaw Township is included in the area of Taunggyi District in Shan State (South). The township is located on 582.13 square miles land. The township is sharing border with Pindaya Township in the north, Pinlaung Township in the south, Taunggyi and Nyaungshwe townships in the east and Thazi and Pyawbwe townships in the west. The temperature of the township is 30.3 degree centigrade in maximum and 3.5 degree centigrade in minimum.”

A Myanmar delegation attended the 62nd Conference of the World Health Organization and the SEARO preliminary meeting for Health Ministers of Southeast Asian countries who are members of WHO held at the Office of the United Nations in Geneva, Switzerland on 18 May 2009.

At the meeting, the member countries discussed matters related to prevention and treatment of A/H1N1 flu, production of vaccines, primary health care and enhancement of health system and impact of socio-economy on health.

The Myanmar delegation discussed work carried out for improvement of health, projects being implemented in accordance with the policy of WHO covering the reducing of losing eyesight in 2020.

The Myanmar delegation also expressed thanks to GDF for the providing of medicines for TB patients in Myanmar from 2003 to 2005 and from 2006 to 2008, and clarified works being carried for eradication of TB in Myanmar. As GDF was satisfied with the TB eradication work in Myanmar, an agreement was reached on provision of medicines worth US$ 2 million for TB patients in Myanmar.

Myanmar has been able to distribute traditional medicines provided by Nippon Foundation for eradication of leprosy right down to villages and has made arrangements for extending assistance to disabled lepers and for their rehabilitation. The participant nations are making arrangements for distribution of traditional medicines right down to villages taking Myanmar as a role model.

As the health care of Myanmar has a great impact on the socio-economy, it is incumbent upon the entire national people to actively contribute their services to the drive for improvement of health care services of the people.

Bomb kills four north of Baghdad, say Iraqi police

BAGHDAD, 29 May — A bomb exploded inside a bus station north of Baghdad on Friday, killing at least four people and wounding 10, police said, the deadliest in a series of attacks in northern Iraq.

A US soldier also was killed Friday in a grenade attack, raising to at least 21 the number of American troop deaths so far in May. That's the deadliest month for US forces in Iraq since September, when 25 died.

The grenade detonated near a US patrol in the northern province of Ninevah, the military said in a statement, providing no further details.

At least 4,303 members of the US military have died in Iraq since the war began in March 2003, according to an Associated Press count.

Insurgent activity has persisted in northern Iraq despite several US-Iraqi military operations.

Friday's bus station bomb was attached to a car parked inside the station in the Shiite enclave of Khalis, according to local police and a report from the provincial security headquarters.

Police officers gave the casualty toll on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to release the information.

The US military said the attack occurred near a vegetable market, killing at least one person and wounding 14. Conflicting casualty tolls are common in the chaotic aftermath of bombings in Iraq.

British marine dies from injuries in Afghan blast

LONDON, 29 May—A British soldier died on Thursday after being wounded in an explosion in southern Afghanistan, the Ministry of Defence said.

He was treated at the scene and at a military hospital in Afghanistan, before being flown back to Britain for specialist treatment in Birmingham. He died on Thursday. Turkish warplanes strike PKK in northern Iraq

ANKARA, 29 May — Turkey's warplanes bombed targets of the outlawed Kurdish Workers' Party (PKK) in northern Iraq, the Turkish military said in a statement on its website on Thursday. The warplanes bombed targets in the Iraqi border region of Avasin-Basyan. This was seen as a retaliation following a land mine explosion in eastern Turkey earlier in the day that killed six government soldiers. The PKK took up arms in 1984 to create an ethnic homeland in southeastern Turkey. Some 40,000 people have been killed in the over two-decade conflict.

Turkey's military forces have taken tougher actions against the PKK after the country's legislature extended the government's mandate to launch cross-border operations against the rebels in northern Iraq.—Internet

Four security guards of de-mining agency killed in W Afghanistan

KABUL, 29 May — Four Afghan security guards of a de-mining agency were killed and another sustained injuries Thursday as a group of rebels opened fire on their vehicle in Afghanistan's western Herat Province, police said.

"It occurred at around 1:00 pm (GMT0830) when a vehicle of the de-mining agency, heading from capital city of Herat to bordering town of Islam Qala, was attacked by gun fire from rebels in another car, killing four security guards and injuring one another", police commander Delawer Shah Delawer told Xinhua.

However, he did not disclose the name of agency.

No group or individual has yet to claim the responsibility for the attack. However, the Taleban militants, who vowed to intensify their attacks against government interest, were blamed for the involvement of the similar attacks in the past.

Obama meets Abbas, presses Israel on settlement

WASHINGTON, 29 May—President Barack Obama on Thursday ratcheted up pressure on Israel to freeze settlements as he sought to reassure visiting Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas of US support for Palestinian statehood.

Faced with an Israeli rebuff of Washington's latest appeal to halt settlement building, Obama held talks with Abbas 10 days after hosting Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, who remains at odds with the US Administration over peace-making strategy.

Seeking to revive stalled peace efforts, Obama made clear he would continue pushing Netanyahu to impose a total freeze on Jewish settlement construction in the occupied West Bank and embrace the goal of Palestinian statehood.

"We can't continue the drift... We need to get this thing back on track," Obama told reporters with Abbas, a Western-backed moderate weakened by Hamas Islamists' control of the Gaza Strip, seated at his side in the Oval Office. —MNA/Reuters

US slams British press over report of abuse photos

WASHINGTON, 29 May—President Barack Obama's Administration strongly denied a British report on Thursday that images of apparent rape and sexual abuse of Iraqi prisoners are among photographs that it is trying to prevent being made public.

In unusually forceful terms, the Pentagon attacked the report in the Daily Telegraph newspaper while the White House went so far as to cast doubt on the accuracy of the British Press in general. The Telegraph quoted retired US Army Major General Antonio Taguba as saying the pictures showed "torture, abuse, rape and every indecency". Taguba conducted an investigation in 2004 into abuse at Iraq's Abu Ghraib Prison.

Pentagon spokesman Bryan Whitman said the Telegraph had shown "an inability to get the facts right". "That news organization has completely mischaracterized the images", he told reporters. "None of the photos in question depict the images that are described in that article".

White House spokesman Robert Gibbs went further. "I think if you do an even moderate Google search you're not going to find many of these newspapers and truth within, say, 25 words of each other", he said.

"Let's just say if I wanted to read a write-up today of how Manchester United fared last night in the Champions League Cup, I might open up a British newspaper. If I was looking for something that bordered on truthful news, I'm not entirely sure it'd be the first stack of clips I picked up", Gibbs said.

"A repeat of the very wet summers of 2007 and 2008 is unlikely," the forecaster said on its website.

The UK average temperature for the period from June to August in the years 1971-2000 is 14.1 degrees Celsius.

The average rainfall in Britain for June, July and August is 227 millimetres (8.9 inches).

Indian DM urges attainment of self reliance in Nat'l Defence

NEW DELHI, 29 May—Indian Defence Minister AK Antony said on Thursday that India should attain self reliance in national defence by shifting from "buy" to "make" in strategy and taking full advantage of its information technology in developing high-tech weaponry.

The Information Technology (IT) sector must develop futuristic products through a public and private partnership for the Indian military and mark a global impression by exporting such capabilities as well, Antony said while dedicating the first of the three Israeli-made "eye-in-the-sky" airborne early warning and control systems (AWACS) to the country.

"India's image as a global leader in Information Technology should be reflected in the national defence domain. The IT industry, therefore, should come up with indigenous products for the transformation of defence," Antony said.

Stating that the focus of defence should not solely be on imports, Antony called for integrating the public and private sectors for bringing in a positive shift in defence production strategy.

He said that the defence industry should move from "buy" to "make" strategy and the foreign collaborators should offer expertise to the national manufacturers in this regard.

Japan's April industrial output rises fastest in 56 years

TOKYO, 29 May—Japan posted a fastest rise in the industrial output in more than 56 years in April, a strong evidence to further prove the economy may have started to pick up, the government said on Friday.

The April industrial output rose a seasonally adjusted 5.2 percent in April from the previous month, the second highest on all records available, only behind a rise of 7.9 percent in March 1953, according to the Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry.

The rate is also far beyond the market expectation, which is around 3.2 percent.

The index of industrial shipments gained 2.3 percent to 74.8 while that of industrial inventories was down 2.7 percent to 97.1.

The ministry projects the production index will surge 8.8 percent in May and gain a further 2.7 percent in June.

Dam break kills four, displaces 2,500 in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, 29 May—At least four people, including two teenagers, died after the break of a dam in the small town of Cocal da Estacao in Brazil's north-eastern Piaui state, local civil defence authorities said on Thursday.

At least 2,500 people were left homeless by the dam break, which according to the authorities was caused by constant rainfall in the past month. The water of the Pirangi River flooded an area of 50 square kilometres and destroyed about 500 houses.

Piaui state governor Wellington Dias visited the site of the disaster, saying the scene is "terrible."

"I have seen dead animals, houses with their roofs down, dead horses and cattle, fridges on trees," he said.

The dam started showing cracks about a month ago. The government said that it authorized the repair service and evacuated the families in the nearby areas, which prevented an even worse tragedy.—Xinhua

Cyclone death toll rises to 155 in Bangladesh

DHAKA, 29 May—The Bangladeshi government on Thursday confirmed 155 people were killed in the cyclone Aila which battered the country's southwestern coast on Monday.

Spokesman of the Food and Disaster Management Ministry Golam Kibira in a Press release issued on Thursday evening said that 155 deaths were confirmed while ten others are missing.

However, Kibira earlier on Thursday noon said more than 1,100 people in the coastal districts remained missing.

The cyclone Aila formed in the Bay of Bengal crossed Bangladesh's southwestern coast on Monday with speed of 70-90 kilometres per hour, leaving more than 6,500 people injured and 3.47 million affected in about 15 coastal districts.

This was the biggest natural calamity in Bangladesh after cyclone Sidr battered the country's southwestern coastal belt on 15 Nov, 2007 leaving more than 4,000 dead or missing.

The food ministry's release said the government on Thursday allocated additional 300 million taka (about 4.3 million US dollars) and 5,000 tons of rice to the affected areas on Thursday.

With the new allocation, the government has so far allocated a total of 322.3 million taka (about 4.6 million US dollars) and 19,000 tons of rice to the victims. —Xinhua

Arctic holds one-third of world's undiscovered natural gas reserves

WASHINGTON, 29 May—The Arctic region may be home to 30 percent of the planet's undiscovered natural gas reserves and most of them are in Russian territory, an international team lead by the US Geological Survey (USGS) said Thursday. This is the first-ever comprehensive assessment of undiscovered oil and gas reserves within the Arctic Circle. Report about the findings will appear in Friday's edition of the journal Science.

According to the report, two-thirds of the undiscovered gas is in just four areas — South Kara Sea, North Barents Basin, South Barents Basin and the Alaska Platform. In fact, the South Kara Sea off Siberia contains 39 percent of the Arctic's undiscovered gas.

The report also estimated that the Arctic also contains 3 percent to 4 percent of the world's oil resources remaining to be discovered.

"It would not mean that there would be any kind of a significant shift in global oil balance," said Donald L. Gautier, lead author of the report. "But this is especially significant for the Arctic nations."—Xinhua

Obama touts solar power to break US oil addiction

NELLIS AIR FORCE BASE(Nevada), 29 May — President Barack Obama provided a spending boost to the solar and geothermal energy industries on Wednesday and said increased use of the fuels would make America more secure.

"We know the cost of our oil addiction all too well," Obama said in a speech at Nellis Air Force Base, which is home to the biggest solar electric plant in the Western Hemisphere.

Obama said the federal government would spend 467 million US dollars from the recent 787-billion-US-dollar US economic stimulus package to expand and accelerate the development and use of solar and geothermal energy throughout the United States.

"More than 72,000 solar panels built on part of an old landfill provide 25 per cent of the electricity for the 12,000 people who live and work here at Nellis. That's the equivalent of powering about 13,200 homes during the day," Obama said. The US solar energy industry grew about 9 per cent in 2008, but the recession cut demand for some solar installations.

The US Energy Department in March offered its first loan guarantee, worth 535 million US dollars, to Fremont, California, solar company Solyndra Inc. under a long-delayed advanced clean energy programme created by a 2005 energy law.

Report says Climate change causes 315,000 deaths a year

LONDON, 29 May — Climate change kills about 315,000 people a year through hunger, sickness and weather disasters, and the annual death toll is expected to rise to half a million by 2030, a report said on Friday.

The study, commissioned by the Geneva-based Global Humanitarian Forum (GHF), estimates that climate change seriously affects 325 million people every year, a number that will more than double in 20 years to 10 per cent of the world's population (now about 6.7 billion).

Economic losses due to global warming amount to over 125 billion US dollars annually — more than the flow of aid from rich to poor nations — and are expected to rise to 340 billion US dollars each year by 2030, according to the report.

"Climate change is the greatest emerging humanitarian challenge of our time, causing suffering to hundreds of millions of people worldwide," Kofi Annan, former UN Secretary-General and GHF president, said in a statement.

"The first hit and worst affected are the world's poorest groups, and yet they have done least to cause the problem." The report says developing countries bear more than nine-tenths of the human and economic burden of climate change, while the 50 poorest countries contribute less than 1 per cent of the carbon emissions that are heating up the planet.

Clerk gives robber $40 from own pocket for insulin

A convenience store clerk wouldn't open the register for a robber but gave the man $40 from his own pocket after the robber told him he needed the money for insulin. Police were called Monday night to the E-Z Mart, where the clerk explained that a man he didn't know entered the store and lifted his shirt to display a pistol tucked in his waistband.

The clerk said the man told him, "I hate to do this," and told him he needed $40 from the register.

Canadian governor eats seal heart raw to support hunters

Canada's Governor General Michalle Jean cut out the heart of a seal and ate it raw to show her support for the country's seal hunters.

Jean, the representative of Queen Elizabeth II as Canada's head of state, gutted the seal and swallowed a slice of the mammal's heart late Monday during an official Arctic trip. A EU vote earlier this month banned seal products on grounds that the seal hunt is cruel.

She knelt over the carcass of a freshly slaughtered seal and used a traditional ulu blade to cut through the flesh and slice off some meat. She then asked one of her hosts: "Could I try the heart?"

Jean said it was "absolutely delicious" and tasted "like sushi," according to images broadcast by a television channel.

"And it's very rich in protein," she added.

Laws enacted for State stability and community peace

A Lawyer

Every country promulgates and exercises internal laws for their security and community peace. After 2001, the United States of America, for instance, enacted Patriot Act, which says that if necessary to prioritize with National Security Interest, Civil Liberties of a citizen may be restricted. Similarly, England practises UK Prevention of Terrorism Act (1974), and Singapore and Malaysia, The Internal Security Act.

Myanmar has promulgated laws on security in successive periods for community peace. Article (5) of 1947 The Public Order (Preservation) Act manifests the rights to detain desperados for prevention of acts that can harm community peace and security of the State. According to Article 5 (a) of the Act, restrictions can be imposed to detain a person, prohibit him from going to a restricted region in the nation, and hold him to stay a designated place in the fixed period. He can be sentenced to five years' prison term if he fails to follow the restrictions on him.

Then, Emergency Provisions Act was enacted in 1950. Article 5(j) of the Act says "Whoever does anything with any of the following intent; that is to say;- to affect the morality or conduct of the public or a group of people in a way that would undermine the security of the Union or the restoration of law and order;- shall be punished with an imprisonment for a term which shall extend to 7 years."

Furthermore, the Law to Safeguard the State Against the Dangers of Those Desiring to Cause Subversive Acts was enacted under Pyithu Hluttaw Act No. 3 in 1975. It is designed to prevent the infringement of the sovereignty and security of the State against any threat to the peace of the people, and against the threat of those desiring to cause subversive acts causing the destruction of the country, without impeding citizens' fundamental rights.

According to the provisions stated in Article 2 (a), the term "those desiring to cause subversive acts" means those who are to perform or about to perform, or to abet, or to assist in, any act that either directly or indirectly, in any manner, threatens the sovereignty and security of the state or public peace and tranquility.

According to the provision enumerated in Article (7), the Cabinet is authorized to pass an order, as may be necessary, restricting any fundamental right of any person suspected of having committed or believed to be about to commit, any act which endangers the sovereignty and security of the state or public peace and tranquility. Article (8) says that for the implementation of the authorization mentioned under Article 7, the Cabinet may form a Central Board on its behalf.

As the saying that goes "Ignorance of law is no excuse", no one is free from punishment if they have violated the law. In reality, the people by nature want to lead a peaceful life in line with the law. So, each citizen should avoid committing any forms of acts that can harm peace and stability of the State, in recognition of the desire of the great majority of the people.

Section (10) says that The Central Board, in the protection of the State against dangers, has the right to implement the following measures through restrictive order:

- (a) A person against whom action is taken can be detained for a period of not exceeding sixty days at a time, and this can be extended to a period up to one hundred and eighty days.
- (b) A person against whom action is taken can be restricted up to one year.

The foregoing provision does not mention Paragraph (a) or Paragraph (b), so action can be taken against the person under both articles. Arrest of a person under Article 10 (a) and prohibition of a person under Article 10 (b) are not the same. So, the two punishments can be sentenced separately one after another.

Article (13) says the Central Board shall obtain the prior approval of the Cabinet in case it is considered necessary to extend the restrictions mentioned under Article 10 (b). And Article (14) says the Cabinet may grant prior approval to continue the restrictions of rights of a person against whom action is taken for a period not exceeding one year at a time up to a total of five years. Therefore, apart from the terms stipulated in Article 10 (a) and (b), the restrictions can be extended up to a total of five years with the prior approval of the government in accordance with the said law.

Under the provisions, a person against whom action is taken needs to act in accordance with the law. Article (22) says that any person against whom action is taken, who opposes, resists or disobeys any order passed under this law shall be liable to imprisonment for a period of three years up to five years, or a fine of up to five thousand kyats, or to both.

Therefore, every citizen is required to abide by the existing laws strictly for security of their motherland, and stability and peace of the public. Here, it is notable that an existing law promulgated by the government, before it is nullified or amended, remains in force as long as it is not against the State constitution that was approved by the vast majority of the voters in May 2008.

As the saying that goes "Ignorance of law is no excuse", no one is free from punishment if they have violated the law. In reality, the people by nature want to lead a peaceful life in line with the law. So, each citizen should avoid committing any forms of acts that can harm peace and stability of the State, in recognition of the desire of the great majority of the people.

Section 21 (c) of the State Constitution of the Union of the Republic of Myanmar says "Every citizen is responsible for public peace and tranquility and prevalence of law and order." Section 387 says "Every citizen, with Union Spirit, has the duty to enhance unity among national races and to ensure public peace and stability." So, every citizen is responsible for ensuring prevalence of peace, stability, and the rule of law, as aspired by the public, and abiding by the law by respecting the responsibilities stated in the constitution.

A government is under a duty to perpetuate the sovereignty and preserve independence of the nation, as well as to restore peace, stability and the rule of law. So, every government has to promulgate necessary laws to carry out the duties, and to take action against the offenders based on the crimes they have committed. That is the most fundamental practice for the rule of law, as well as the normal practice in every state.

In that regard, every citizen is to understand the fact that the government's promulgating the laws and taking action against offenders in accordance with the law are not associated with any forms of discrimination against or in favour of particular persons, but just in the interests of the nation and the people. If the entire people abide by the law in consonance with the motto "Live in framework of law and lead peaceful life", and serve the interest of the nation and the public, every citizen can lead a peaceful life with life security in the framework of the law.

twenty 180 feet and above long bridges are under construction across the nation, he said. In implementing road and bridge construction projects, emphasis is being placed for equitable development of all regions in the entire nation in accord with the goodwill of the Head of State, and priority is being given to completion of the construction works in time in order that local people can enjoy the fruitful results, he added. The minister called for public cooperation in nation building endeavours with the use of development infrastructures contributed by the State.

Then he expressed gratitude to the Head of State who made close supervision in bridge building tasks and the commander and officials, the ministries concerned and local people for their hard work.

Next, a local spoke words of thanks.

Afterwards, Minister Maj-Gen Khin Maung Myint and Minister Maj-Gen Aung Min formally opened the bridge.

The commander unveiled the stone plaque and the commander, the ministers, the deputy ministers and officials sprinkled the scented water on it.

British scientists make H1N1 strain for vaccine

LONDON, 29 May—British scientists have produced a strain of H1N1 flu virus which could be used for large scale production of a vaccine, health authorities said on Thursday.

The virus strain is being made available to the pharmaceutical industry and other flu laboratories, the Health Protection Agency (HPA) said, describing it in a statement as "a crucial step towards large scale production of a vaccine against swine flu".

Some 13,000 people across the world have been confirmed as infected with H1N1 flu — often referred to as swine flu — with at least 50 countries affected. It has killed 95 people, according to officially confirmed figures from the WHO.

Britain has 185 confirmed cases, said the HPA, an independent body whose remit includes the monitoring of infectious diseases.

World even closer to H1N1 pandemic, says WHO chief

GENEVA, 29 May — Currently the world is still not in a full H1N1 pandemic, but it is even closer to a pandemic than last week, World Health Organization (WHO) Director-General Dr Margaret Chan said on Thursday. "Now we are not in phase 6 yet. But we are closer to phase 6 today than we were last week," Chan said, referring to the highest level of the WHO's pandemic alert scale.

Speaking to Xinhua in an interview, Chan said the WHO is following very closely the development of the A/H1N1 flu situation in Europe, in Asia as well as in South America.

"We need to look at whether or not the criteria for phase 6 is met," she said.

Brazil confirms four new cases of A/H1N1 flu

RIO DE JANEIRO, 29 May — Brazil's Health Ministry confirmed on Thursday afternoon four new cases of A/H1N1 flu, lifting the total number of the infection to 14 in the country.

Three of the new patients are from Sao Paulo state in Brazil's southeastern region, while the fourth is from Santa Catarina state in the country's southern region. All four caught the H1N1 flu virus during trips to the United States.

The 14 confirmed cases included six in Sao Paulo, four in Rio de Janeiro, two in Santa Catarina, one in Rio Grande do Sul and one in Minas Gerais.

Eight of the 14 infected patients have already been discharged.

Despite the fact that two of the infected caught the virus in Brazilian territory, the health ministry stressed that there is no reason to state that the H1N1 flu virus is circulating in the country.—Internet

China reports first suspected domestic case of A/H1N1 flu in Guangdong

BEIJING, 29 May — China's Ministry of Health said Friday a new suspected case of A/H1N1 flu in southern Guangdong Province was the first case of domestic infection on the mainland.

The patient used to have a close contact with a Chinese-American man who was confirmed Friday as Guangdong's third A/H1N1 flu patient by the Chinese Center for Disease Control and Prevention, the ministry said.

The ministry did not reveal details of the new suspected case. Medical experts warned earlier that China faces a growing risk of domestic spread of the A/H1N1 flu as more cases from abroad were being discovered.—Internet Teach a man to fish or give him a fish?

BEIJING, 29 May — Initially, the concept of CSR (Corporate Social Responsibility) was exclusively associated with economic aspects, such as corporate donations to the poor and disaster relief. Nowadays, however, CSR is endowed with much broader meanings.

An interactive seminar on the topic of CSR was held in Beijing on Wednesday by Cheng Kong Graduate School of Business.

Participants include Subinary Nandy, UNDP Country Director in China, professors and alumni of Cheung Kong Graduate School of Business and entrepreneurs from all fields.

Yu Chen is the Vice President of a Beijing based e-payment service provider, Yeepay.

In Yu Chen's view, CSR is not just about collecting money or philanthropy; it's more about enabling people and empowering them in the long run.

As a relatively small corporation, Yeepay could not afford to donate a lot of money itself.

But by providing a platform, it actually empowers other people to make donations online. Working with Beijing Red Cross last year, Yeepay launched an online donation platform for the Sichuan earthquake relief. Till now, Yeepay has raised more than 18 million RMB from online donations for the disaster area, according to Yu Chen.

There is an old Chinese saying, 'give a man a fish and you feed him for a day. Teach a man to fish and you feed him for a lifetime'.

Bolivian confirms first cases of A/H1N1

LA PAZ, 29 May — Bolivia's Health Ministry on Thursday confirmed the country's first two cases of A/H1N1 flu. Health officials appealed for calmness while promising vigorous measures to control the disease.

According to Health Minister Ramiro Tapia, the two patients arrived in the eastern city of Santa Cruz from New York, the United States, on 24 May and both were tested positive at the National Center for Tropical Diseases.

The patients' samples have been sent to the US Center for Diseases Control (CDC) and the final confirmation will come out on Tuesday.

"Those samples were positive in Bolivia, and immediately the patients received free treatment. We have 20,000 dosages to treat the patients," Tapia said.—Internet

Messi takes the honours in Rome as Ronaldo flops

ROME, 29 May—Lionel Messi was hailed by his coach as the world's best player after he scored Barcelona's second goal in their 2-0 Champions League final victory over Manchester United and ended as the competition's top scorer.

The match in Rome had been hyped as a duel between the world's two best players, Argentine Messi and United's Portuguese winger Cristiano Ronaldo.

Ronaldo was largely ineffective apart from an early flourish and it was Messi who came out on top, scoring his ninth goal of the Champions League campaign and improving his chances of snatching away his rival's FIFA World Player of the Year crown.

"This is the most important win of my life," Messi told reporters. "I am the happiest man alive and I am happy for myself, for my family and for my country."

Barca coach Pep Guardiola said Messi had been superb for the Primera Liga champions all season, helping not only with goals but also with plenty of assists. — Internet

Roddick showing form at French Open tennis

PARIS, 29 May—Andy Roddick was the sole American male survivor out of nine starters in the French Open on Friday but he warned not to expect any miracle on clay out of him.

The former world No.1's 6-2, 6-2, 7-6 (7/2) win over Ivo Minar of the Czech Republic on Thursday put him into the third round at Roland Garros for just the second time in his career—the first being in 2001.

From now on, it was a case of just taking it one match at a time, he said, and not getting too far ahead of himself on what is by far his least favourite surface.—Internet

Chelsea penpix for FA Cup final

LONDON, 29 May—Following is the penpix of Chelsea players ahead of Saturday's FA Cup final against Everton (ages as at May 30).

Goalkeepers

1-PETR CECHE, Age 27. Cech has suffered several uncharacteristic dips in form this season and has not been formidable last line of defence Chelsea fans have come to expect. However, he produced a superb display in the Champions League semi-final, first leg in Barcelona to keep the Spanish champions at bay and his place is not under threat. 40-HENRIQUE HILARIO, 33. Managed just one appearance this season in the league but an able deputy for Cech if needed.

Defenders

17-JOSE BOSINGWA, 26, Established himself as the club's first choice right back after signing from Porto a year ago. Offers plenty of attacking options with his energy up and down the right flank. Has also proved versatile, having covered on the left from time to time.

26-JOHN TERRY, 28. Chelsea's captain continues to lead by example, throwing himself headlong into the fray week in, week out. Not the quickest defender, but reads the game instinctively and is fearless in the tackle. A goal threat from set pieces although he has not scored as many as normal this season.

33-ALEX, 26. A hulking Brazilian barrier at the back, Alex has proved a valuable asset to the squad with injuries ruling out Ricardo Carvalho for long periods. Has a thunderbolt shot and should retain a starting place for the final.

3-ASHLEY COLE, 28. A fixture at left back for club and country with great pace and ball control.

Has avoided the nagging injuries that afflicted him for the last two seasons and is one of Chelsea's most reliable performers.

2-BRANISLAV IVANOVIC, 25. The Serb has impressed when called upon this season, appearing equally comfortable at centre back or full back. Two headed goals against Liverpool in the away leg of their Champions League quarter-final propelled him into the hearts of the fans.

Midfielders

5-MICHAEL ESSIEN, 26. An imposing and versatile @midfielder, Chelsea badly missed him for most of the season after he suffered a cruciate knee ligament injury while on international duty with Ghana. Since returning he has quickly clicked into gear, scoring a cracker against Barcelona in the Champions League semi-final.

12-JOHN OBI MIKEL, 22. The athletic Nigerian has offered power and pace and an eye for goal since joining Chelsea in controversial circumstances. Naturally likes to play a deeper role in the mould of former holding midfielder Claude Makelele.

8-FRANK LAMPARD, 30. Voted the club's player of the season for the third time recently after another impressive campaign. Always lurking in the spaces behind the forwards, Lampard has an uncanny knack of being in the right place at the right time, scoring many goals from outside the area. His sharp brains also allows him to pick out devastating early passes.

13-MICHAEL BALLACK, 32. The Germany international is an intimidating sight in midfield. Good on the ball and a real menace in the air, Ballack also revels in the physical battles that are likely to develop in the FA Cup final.

15-FLORENT MALOUDA, 28. The winger has flourished this season after a disappointing start to his Chelsea career following his 13.5 million-pound move from Lyon. His form improved markedly after Guus Hiddink took charge and he was outstanding against Arsenal in the semi-final.

20-DECO, 31. An experienced midfield playmaker, the Portugal international arrived in London from Barcelona to join up with former national manager Luiz Felipe Scolari. However, after a bright start he has failed to shine and may look elsewhere next season. Unlikely to start in final.

Forwards:

21-SALOMON KALOU, 23. A versatile striker who is happy playing in a two or three-man attack. Scored in Chelsea's last two league games of the season but is not prolific.

11-DIDIER DROGBA, 31. Often cast as the pantomime villain of English football with his theatrical performances, there is no doubting the Ivory Coast skipper's class. Appeared disinterested early on in the season under Scolari, but is back to his best under Hiddink and remains a terrifying prospect for defenders with his pace, power and his ability on the deck and in the air.

39-NICOLAS ANELKA, 30. The Frenchman has often been described as moody and not being able to play in tandem with another striker, but has proved his critics wrong with an exceptional season. Scored a wonder goal against Sunderland last weekend to win the Premier League Golden Boot award with 19. Has benefited from playing in a central position after being exiled to the flanks under Scolari and Avram Grant.

NC State's Hill is NCAA medalist

TOLEDO (Ohio), 29 May—With just eight holes remaining in the race for medalist at the NCAA Division I men's golf championship, North Carolina State's Matt Hill trailed by two strokes. Instead of panic, it was time to take control.

Hill made three birdies down the stretch and then played keepaway with the lead to capture the top individual prize Thursday at Inverness Club. "I'm pretty pumped up, that's for sure, and a little bit relieved at the same time," Hill said after shooting his third consecutive 2-under 69 to finish at 6-under 207.

"He has done great," he told a news conference. "I think he is the best player and we didn't need to win to know he is the best."

United manager Alex Ferguson said Guardiola's decision to move Messi further back into midfield had made it hard for his side to get back into the game after conceding the opening goal in the 10th minute.—Internet

Leonardo to replace Ancelotti at Milan

ROME, 29 May—Brazilian World Cup winner Leonardo is set to take over from Carlo Ancelotti as AC Milan coach next season, according to reports in Friday's Gazzetta dello Sport. The 39-year-old is currently a technical director with the club and played for them for four years from 1997-2001.

The former midfielder was also part of the Brazil squad that beat Italy to win the World Cup in 1994, although he disgraced himself earlier in the tournament by getting sent off against hosts the United States for elbowing Tab Ramos, resulting in a four-game suspension that saw him miss the final.

According to Gazzetta, Ancelotti will take over from Guus Hiddink at Chelsea, a rumour that has been gathering validity over several weeks.

Ancelotti has won the Champions League twice and Serie A once with Milan since taking over in 2001. Leonardo has no previous coaching experience but Barcelona's Pep Guardiola has proved novices can shine after winning an incredible treble in his season in charge of the Catalans.—Internet

Yedashe Township facilitated with newly inaugurated Swa Creek Bridge for better transport

NAY PYI TAW, 29 May—A ceremony to commission Swa Creek Bridge, built by Bridge Construction Special Unit (14) of the Public Works of the Ministry of Construction, was held at the mile post No. 198/2 on Yangon-Toungoo-Mandalay Union Highway in Yedashe Township this morning.

Speaking on the occasion, Chairman of Bago Division Peace and Development Council Commander Brig-Gen Hla Min said that the newly opened Swa Creek Bridge, an important one for Bago Division, is the 226th facility of its kind in the entire nation. The government had constructed Sittoung Bridge (Shwegyin-Madauk), Ayeyawady Bridge (Nawade-Pyay) and Bago River Bridge (Kawa) in Bago Division, he said. Swa Creek Bridge is the 18th major bridge, over 180-foot long, in Bago Division, he added.

The commander noted that the genuine goodwill of the government can be witnessed obviously as the bridge was completed in a short time. The construction of the bridges one after another indicates the goodwill of the government, techniques (See page 8)

Why coral reefs around world collapsing

A coral colony.

SALEM, 29 May—An explosion of knowledge has been made in the last few years about the basic biology of corals, researchers say in a new report, helping to explain why coral reefs around the world are collapsing and what it will take for them to survive a gauntlet of climate change and ocean acidification.

The problems facing coral reefs are still huge, and increasing. They are being pressured by changes in ocean temperature, pollution, overfishing, sedimentation, acidification, oxidative stress and disease, and the synergistic effect of some of these problems may destroy reefs even when one cause by itself would not. Some estimates have suggested 20 percent of the world's coral reefs are already dead and an additional 24 percent are gravely threatened.

Poor attention in kindergarten predicts lower high school test scores

SCIENCE DAILY, 29 May — As thousands of students nationwide prepare to leave high school, a UC Davis study appearing online May 26 in the

New research shows a clear link between attention problems early in school — as early as kindergarten — and lower high school test scores.

June issue of the medical journal Pediatrics shows a clear link between attention problems early in school — as early as kindergarten — and lower high school test scores.

“In our study, a child's inability to pay attention when they start school had the strongest negative effect on how they performed at the end of high school — regardless of their IQ (intelligence quotient),” said lead study author Joshua Breslau, an assistant professor of internal medicine at the UC Davis School of Medicine and a researcher with the UC Davis Center for Reducing Health Disparities.

He said that addressing attention problems early in life could keep some children from entering “a downward spiral of failure.”—Internet
