PERSPECTIVES

For human resource development

Strong economy and human resource development are necessary for pursuing the national goal of building a peaceful, modern and developed nation. In view of this concept, the government is fulfilling requirements for turning out human resources.

In every region, the government has constructed many new road networks and bridges for smooth transport, which is of great importance for sustainable development of a region. It is also giving effective encouragement to agriculture, livestock breeding, industries and businesses, and constructing infrastructural buildings in the education sector to promote the nation's education standard.

The three-storey main building of University for Computer Studies in Lashio, Shan State (North), was opened on 10 March. Now, Taunggyi, Panglong, Kengtung and Lashio in Shan State Now have an arts and science university, a university for computer studies, and a technological university each. As a result, the youth of national races have an easy access to higher education in their own regions. Students have to work hard to become skilled in their studies since they will have to start work soon after they have got their degrees.

Reliable and responsible human resources are a must for shaping the nation into a modern, developed one. The national goal can be brought to fruition in a short time only with those educated persons well-versed in the subjects concerned with self-discipline, good morality, and a sense of patriotism and nationalistic spirit.

Teachers are the major, initial force in the education sector in bettering the future of the youth. So, they have to fully equip themselves with goodwill and perseverance in teaching and guiding their students in order that the latter will become outstanding in their studies with good behaviors and self-discipline.

Now, the government has established an arts and science university, a university for computer studies, and a technological university each for every 24 development regions to nurture human resources in the technological field. On account of the hard work and brilliant performances of teachers, the number of versatile human resources on whom the State can rely is on the increase in the nation.

People's Desire

- * Oppose those relying on external elements, acting as stooges, holding negative views
- * Oppose those trying to jeopardize stability of the State and progress of the nation
- * Oppose foreign nations interfering in internal affairs of the State
- * Crush all internal and external destructive elements as the common enemy

Ex-MI5 chief says US 'concealed suspect mistreatment'

LONDON, 11 March — The former head of MI5 has claimed US intelligence agencies "concealed" their mistreatment of terror suspects. Baroness Eliza Manningham-Buller said she only discovered alleged 9/11 mastermind Khalid Sheikh Mohammed was waterboarded after retiring in 2007.

In a lecture at the House of Lords, she said the US had been "very keen to conceal from us what was happening". Her comments follow controversy over UK agents' alleged collusion with US counterparts using torture techniques. Last month it emerged that Binyam Mohamed, a British resident formerly held at Guantanamo Bay, had been subjected to "cruel, inhuman and degrading" treatment. Ministers and current MI5 head Jonathan Evans have insisted that there was no collusion by UK security officers. However, questions remain about exactly when they learnt that the US apparently changed its rules on torture after the 9/11 attacks. Lady Manningham-Buller, who headed MI5 between 2002 and 2007, said: "The Americans were very keen that people like us did not discover what they were doing."—Internet

US House rejects pull out from Afghanistan

WASHINGTON, 11 March — US House of Representatives on Wednesday voted overwhelmingly to reject a bill demanding President Barack Obama pull troops out of Afghanistan. The House defeated the bill by a 356-65 vote, introduced by Democratic Representative Dennis Kucinich. 60 liberal Democrats and 5 Republicans supported the bill.

The bill demands Obama to pull all troops out of Afghanistan 30 days after the bill becomes law, or by the end of the year, should he deem the 30-day timeline too much of a risk. Kucinich argued if Congress doesn't act, US troops would "stay in Afghanistan for a very, very long time at great cost to our troops and to our national priorities."

Afghan war is a centrepiece of Obama's foreign policy. He announced the decision to send an additional 30,000 troops to that country last December, and foreign troops there are now in the middle of a major push against Taliban militants in the south. House Majority Leader Steny Hoyer opposed the bill, saying "abandoning Afghanistan just when a new strategy and a new leadership has begun to bear fruit... would be a mistake."—Xinhua

Spanish hostage in Africa freed

BARCELONA, 11 March — A Spanish woman kidnapped in West Africa last year has been freed, the Spanish government says. Alicia Gamez, 39, was "safe and sound... [and] travelling to Barcelona with a family member," Spain's deputy prime minister said. There are unconfirmed reports that an Italian woman reportedly held by the same group has also been released.

Ms Gamez was seized in Mauritania last year and held by a militant group, al-Qaeda in the Islamic Maghreb, in Mali. She and two male Spaniards — all aid workers were snatched from a convoy by armed men on a road between the Mauritanian cities of Nouakchott and Nouadhibou on 29 November.

Six killed in attack on World Vision office in Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, 11 March — Militants have attacked the office of a Western aid agency in north-western Pakistan on Wednesday, killing six people, police and the agency have said. The victims, including two women, were all Pakistani nationals working for World Vision in Mansehra District. The Christian group said it would suspend all operations in the country.

No group has admitted carrying out the attack but militants and specifically the Taliban will be suspected. Earlier in the week, following a bombing in Lahore, the Taliban said they would carry out more attacks across the country as long as US air strikes and Pakistani army operations against them continued in the tribal areas.

World Vision said in a statement that it had not received any threatening letters ahead of the attack. Hundreds of people have been killed in attacks by unmanned drone aircraft in Pakistan's tribal areas since mid-2008. Two suspected US missile strikes near Miranshah in North Waziristan on Wednesday killed at least 12 people, some of them thought to be foreigners, local officials said.

Drone raid 'kills 12' in north-west Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, 11 March — Two missile strikes by US drone aircraft have killed at least 12 suspected militants in north-west Pakistan, security officials say. The attacks took place in the tribal area of North Waziristan. The identities of those killed in the attack, the latest of more than a dozen this year, are not yet known.

North and South Waziristan are known to provide sanctuary for al-Qaeda and Taliban militants, who are often targeted by drones. Locals say the attacks have destroyed many training camps and compounds. They have also killed dozens of local and foreign militants, officials say.

Wednesday's first strike took place at Mizar Madakhel village, some 50km (30 miles) west of Miranshah, the main town in North Waziristan. This was followed by a second attack in the same area. The first attack targeted a vehicle and a compound which were being used by suspected miliitants, killing eight of them, reports say. The second strike targeted two vehicles, which killed another four.

Mahmoud Ahmadinejad attacks US for Afghan 'double game'

KABUL, 11 March — Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad has accused the US of playing a "double game" in Afghanistan after the US used the same term to condemn Iran's role. Mr Ahmadinejad said the US had "created terrorists and now say they are fighting them", as he appeared with Afghan President Hamid Karzai in Kabul.

US Defence Secretary Robert Gates, who is also in Kabul, has accused Iran of giving the Taliban low-level support. Later, Mr Karzai flew to Pakistan for talks with another key neighbour. This is Mr Ahmadinejad's first visit to Afghanistan since both he and Mr Karzai were re-elected last year.

However, in a positive sign, in January 2010 the industrial production index increased by 2.6 percent compared with the previous month.

Germany, France support tougher rules to prevent future crisis in euro zone

BERLIN, 11 March — German Chancellor Angela Merkel said on Wednesday that Germany and France support toughening rules to protect the euro which might include setting up a European Monetary Fund as a last resort.

Speaking after talks with French Prime Minister Francois Fillon in Berlin, Merkel stressed that the current sanctions enshrined in the European Union's stability and growth pact to protect the euro are not enough, and the European Union members must consider sanctions "that have more teeth" to prevent euro zone members from running up huge budget deficits such as the Greek one. —Xinhua

MOSCOW, 11 March—The Russian government has decided to allocate 90 billion rubles (about 3 billion US dollars) to college researchers and a series of reforms from 2010 to 2012 to boost the country's innovation-oriented economy, a senior official said on Wednesday.

Indonesia President calls on Australian businesses to invest

CANBERRA, 11 March—Visiting Indonesian President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono has called on Thursday on Australian entrepreneurs to invest in the Asian country, saying there is a huge potential to boost business links.

"Our economy is not only in good health, it is also in a good position to help restore the health of the global financial system," Dr Yudhoyono told guests at a business forum on Thursday morning. "I see no reason why in the years ahead that partner-

"I hope the entrepreneurs of both countries find ways of complementing each other and strike up partnerships that benefit us all." He also reassured business leaders that his country was in good economic health with a stable democracy. The president said there were a range of sectors in which Australian and Indonesian companies

Ms Johnston, who gave birth to her first son Daniel 33 years ago, says she is addicted to having babies. "For years I thought I'd never be able to have another child and that's all I wanted," she told the Daily Mirror.

Dogs and cats abandoned at Battersea home become photogenic stars of new stamps

BEIJING, 11 March — They didn't exactly smile for the camera. But there was lots of tail wagging, tongue lolling and contented purring when these models got together. Some even managed that classic pose of cocking their head to one side with an earnest gaze.

And all have the famous Battersea Dogs & Cats Home in London to thank for putting them on the path to a happy ever after. Centuries-old shipwrecks discovered in Baltic Sea

A dozen centuries-old shipwrecks — some of them unusually well-preserved — have been found in the Baltic Sea by a gas company building an underwater pipeline between Russia and Germany, Swedish experts said on Tuesday.

The oldest wreck probably dates back to medieval times and could be up to 800 years old, while the others are likely from the 17th to 19th centuries, said Peter Norman, of Sweden's National Heritage Board.

"They could be interesting, but we have only seen pictures of their exterior. Many of them are considered to be fully intact. They look very well-preserved," Norman told The Associated Press.

Thousands of wrecks from medieval ships to warships sunk during the world wars of the 20th century have been found in the Baltic Sea, which doesn't have the ship worm that destroys wooden wrecks in saltier oceans.

Sweden's most famous discovery, the royal warship Vasa, is housed in a popular museum in Stockholm where visitors can admire the ship's details, down to the flashing teeth of the carved lions that adorn its elaborate exterior. The Vasa was raised from the Stockholm harbor in 1961, 333 years after it sank on its maiden voyage.

Restaurant serves breast-milk cheese

A New York chef said public demand led him to allow diners at his restaurant to sample homemade cheese made from his wife's breast milk.

Klee Brasserie chef Daniel Angerer, who once beat famed cook Bobby Flay on TV's "Iron Chef," said his regular customers became curious after he started blogging about his accomplishments with human-produced cheese, the New York Post reported on Tuesday.

"The phone was ringing off the hook," Angerer said. "So I prepared a little canape of breast-milk cheese with figs and Hungarian pepper."

Lori Mason, the chef's wife, said some customers are reluctant to sample the breast-milk cheese. "I think a lot of the criticism has to do with the combination of sex and cheese, but ... the breast is there to make food," Mason said.

More dinosaur extinction evidence offered

A US scientist says he's found more evidence an asteroid that crashed into the Earth 65 million years ago ended the age of the dinosaurs.

Purdue University Professor Jay Melosh refutes recent alternative hypotheses to the dinosaur extinction.

Melosh is among a panel of 41 experts from Europe, the United States, Mexico, Canada and Japan that evaluated new core samples from ocean and land sites.

"We find that alternative hypotheses are inadequate to explain the abrupt mass extinction and that the Chicxulub impact hypothesis has grown stronger than ever," Melosh said. "The impact hypothesis has been widely accepted by the scientific community, but there has still been some debate, and we continue to examine the evidence."

About 20 years ago an impact crater more than 125 miles wide was discovered in Yucatan, Mexico, and is thought to have caused the mass extinction 65 million years ago. However, some scientists suggest that event occurred 300,000 years earlier and could not have been the cause. Those scientists suggest active volcanoes led to global cooling and acid rainfall that killed the dinosaurs.

The new findings are reported in the journal Science.

"Dead" baby elephant alive in Sydney

BEIJING, 11 March — A miracle baby elephant survived on Wednesday at Taronga Zoo of Australia after it was announced dead in its mother's womb, Sydney's Daily Telegraph reported. Mark Williams, Taronga Zoo spokesman, said the calf is receiving intensive care from its keepers and the veterinary team and is still with its mother, Porntip.

This 100kg-weight, as-yet unnamed calf has earned a nickname "Mr Shuffles." It has already ridden out its first night, which delighted the staffs in Taronga Zoo.

Williams said it was an encouraging sign. "Both he and his mother are well and will be staying in the warm barn today," he said.

"The other elephants, including the zoo's other calf, eight-month old Luk Chai, will be in the exhibit today with access to the barn so they can spend as much time as they wish with the pair," Williams also said. Keepers and vets will continue to monitor the miracle baby elephant's progress.

Deforestation conference to turn plans to action

PARIS, 11 March — French President Nicolas Sarkozy will open a daylong conference on Thursday of some 40 nations to start turning plans into action to save the world's forests and help rein in the noxious gases blamed for climate change. Ministers from countries of the Amazon and Congo river basins and Indonesia — whose massive forests, most at risk, are at the heart of efforts to end deforestation — were among those attending the one-day conference. A follow-up meeting is scheduled for May in Oslo, Norway.

"The forest in danger. Massive planet-wide destruction continues," France's influential environment minister Jean-Louis Borloo said to reporters on Wednesday ahead of the conference. The conference, with closed-door working groups, is looking to translate measures adopted at the UN climate summit in Copenhagen in December into concrete mechanisms — and funds. World Bank representatives and lending nations were also attending the meeting.

Furious dog owners in UK fight microchips for 'weapon' pets

LONDON, 11 March — Responsible pet lovers said they would be unfairly penalized by British government plans to crack down on "devil" dogs, The Sun reported on Wednesday. Home Secretary Alan Johnson faced a furious backlash after he unveiled proposals including compulsory insurance and microchip implants for all pooches.

He aimed to target thugs who increasingly use dogs such as rottweilers or illegally-kept pitbulls as weapons in turf wars. There were also several family tragedies, including the death last year of four-year-old John-Paul Massey, mauled by a pitbull at his grandmother's house in Liverpool, northern England.

Vicious animals, or "weapon" dogs, could be made subject to orders under which rogue owners would have to muzzle or neuter them — or face having them confiscated. But law-abiding dog fans said they would have to fork out up to $745 for the insurance, aimed at ensuring compensation was paid to victims of attacks. And the microchips, which would contain owner data and be used for tracking, could cost another $50. Up to eight millions dogs could be affected.—Internet

Alternative energy needs to be proven in next decade

CANBERRA, 11 March — Australia will struggle to reduce its contribution to global greenhouse emissions unless a viable alternative energy source can be developed within the next decade, according to local media on Thursday.

"If we actually don't make the progress on any of those associated technologies in the period 2015 to 2020, then Australia will have a challenge as will the global community in how we make progress in reducing emissions," Martin Ferguson, Resources and Energy Minister told ABC Television later Wednesday.

The federal government is investing in biofuels and carbon capture and storage (CCS) research, but beyond that, it insisted that it does not want to pick winners in the alternative energy sector, the minister said.

latest prototype. The test was successful and since then the team has been perfecting its design and preparing the flying car for commercialization.

The company's CEO says the latest design is much sexier than its predecessors.

Carl Dietrich, Terrafugia CEO, said, "This is a 200,000 dollar vehicle, so you are buying it or you are buying a Lamborghini. So when you have got that choice, why are you buying a Lamborghini if can buy something that looks cool and flies on top of that. I mean it actually flies. It's a flying car."

Dietrich says the company already has plenty of orders. But he thinks the car's potential market is gigantic. In the US alone, he says there are more than 5,000 airports, most of which lack rental car facilities or taxi stands and charge high fees for aircraft storage. He says with a flying car, there is no problem.—Xinhua

Lula says Brazil in good shape

RIO DE JANEIRO, 11 March — Brazilian President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva said on Wednesday that his country is in good shape thanks to eight years of efforts to improve the economy. At the inauguration of a thermal power plant in Cubatao, Sao Paulo state, Lula spoke highly of economic achievements since 2003 when he took office.

"In 2003, Brazil underwent an unprecedented crisis: we were subordinate to the IMF and many Brazilian companies, including the state-owned oil and gas company Petrobras, did not make any investments," he said.—Xinhua

Japan's economic growth revised down for Q4

TOKYO, 11 March — Japan revised its gross domestic product (GDP) figures for the October-December period down by 0.9 percentage points from the previous quarter to 3.8 percent, the Cabinet Office announced on Thursday. The increase in domestic demand was also revised down by 0.2 points to 0.4 percent, while private demand was cut to 0.4 percent from 0.7 percent.

The revision suggests that Japan still has to remain cautious on the economy, despite more optimism on conditions recently. The downward revision comes amid a series of government and Bank of Japan (BOJ) plans to try to keep spending up, and suggests that the effects of various stimulus measures put in place may be starting to wear off.—Xinhua

SEOUL, 11 March — Kia Motors Corp, South Korea's second largest automaker, saw a year-on-year global sales increase of 39.5 percent in February this year, selling a total of 143,267 vehicles, the company said on Thursday.

The sales increase in February was a result of Kia's double-digit year-on-year sales growth in all regions: it gained 128.6 percent in China with 25,435 units sold, 52.7 percent in general markets with 32,578 units sold, 34.4 percent in Europe with 24,992 units sold, 21.6 percent in South Korea with 33,209 units sold, and 11.4 percent in North America with 27,053 units sold, according to the company.

Through the first two months of 2010, China had the highest year-on-year sales spike of 180.9 percent, for a total of 61,339 units sold, while general markets and Europe had increases of 56.7 percent and 42.8 percent, respectively, added the company.—Xinhua

Somali rebels behead two, fighting kills 17

MOGADISHU, 11 March — Fighting between Somali government forces and al Shabaab rebels in the north of Mogadishu on Wednesday killed 17 people and wounded 65, a Somali human rights group and rescue services said.

Residents said al Shabaab also beheaded two employees of a telecommunications company in the capital who had been accused by the al-Qaeda-linked militants of spying for the government. Somali militants have fought the government since the start of 2007 and the Western-backed administration has been hemmed into a few blocks of the capital since a rebel offensive last May.

Russia to equip army with new air defence system in 2010

Moscow, 11 March — Russia will supply the newest Pantsir-S1 air defence systems to the army in 2010, Defence Minister Anatoly Serdyukov announced on Wednesday.

Spokeswoman for the Defence Ministry Irina Kovalchuk said Serdyukov inspected several state-owned defence enterprises in the Tula region earlier in the day.

After the working trip, the minister announced that supplies of the Pantsir-S1 air defence system consisting of 12 surface-to-air guided missiles and two 30-millimetre automatic guns "to the army will begin this year," said Kovalchuk. "Currently, ten such systems are being prepared for participation in the Victory Day parade in Red Square," Kovalchuk was quoted as saying by the Itar-Tass news agency. Created by the Tula Instrument-Making Design Bureau, the Pantsir system aims to protect small-scale national and military strategic targets, and is usually considered as effective when countering high-precision weapons.

It can also be used to destroy underwater and surface light- armored targets and manpower. The Pantsir system has already been supplied to the United Arab Emirates, and several supply contracts are being negotiated on, said the Itar-Tass.—Xinhua

'Bali bomber' Dulmatin confirmed dead in Indonesia raid

JAKARTA, 11 March — DNA tests on the body of a man killed in Jakarta prove beyond doubt he is Dulmatin, the last main suspect of the Bali bombings, Indonesian police say. Police Chief Bambang Hendarto Danuri said bomb-making equipment had been found during the raid in the capital. Dulmatin was suspected of planning the 2002 attacks which killed 202 people.

News of Dulmatin's death had been announced earlier by Indonesia's President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono, during talks in Australia. About half of those killed in Bali were Australian, and officials there have praised Indonesia's anti-terror operations.—Internet

Cuba's sugar harvest threatened by rain, organizational problems

HAVANA, 11 March — Organizational problems and rain could jeopardize Cuba's sugar harvest this year, the official daily Granma said on Wednesday. Operational breakdowns of sugar mills and a lack of sugarcane due to the heavy rainfall have become "powerful enemies" of Cuba's sugar harvest, Granma said, citing an article written by agricultural expert Juan Varela.

By the end of February, the sugar mills across Cuba were operating at only 64 percent of their potentials, well below the expectations of 80 percent, the Ministry of Sugar (MINAZ) said. It meant a delay of some 147,900 tons of sugar compared with what had been planned, said the ministry.—Xinhua

Eight reporters kidnapped in Mexican city

MEXICO CITY, 11 March — Eight journalists have been kidnapped in a Mexican border city in a two-week span in a wave of abductions unprecedented in the Western Hemisphere, the Inter-American Press Association said on Wednesday. The press group said only three of the journalists kidnapped between 18 Feb. and 3 March in Reynosa, across the border from McAllen, Texas, have reappeared alive.

It said one died of apparent torture, two were released alive and five remain missing. "The Mexican government must act with urgency and with due force to rescue these journalists alive," said IAPA President Alejandro Aguirre. Aguirre called the abductions "serious and without precedent in the Western Hemisphere." The abductions were apparently carried out by drug gangs in the Gulf coast state of Tamaulipas where Reynosa is located. State prosecutors in Tamaulipas and the federal attorney general's office in Mexico City could not immediately confirm the report.—Internet

Rooney double as Man United crush Milan

LONDON, 11 March — In-form England striker Wayne Rooney scored the opening two goals as Manchester United crushed AC Milan 4-0 to reach the quarterfinals of the Champions League. Park Ji-sung and Darren Fletcher were also on target for the English Premier League champions as United secured a convincing 7-2 aggregate success. All the talk beforehand was of Milan midfielder David Beckham's return to Old Trafford for the first time since United sold him to Real Madrid in 2003.

And the England star was given an emotional reception by the United fans when he came on as a second-half substitute.

Real Madrid crashes out of Champions League

MADRID, 11 March — Real Madrid drew 1-1 at home to Olympic Lyon to crash out of the Champions League on Wednesday night.

It is the sixth consecutive season that the club has failed to get past the first knockout round of Europe's most important competition, but this year's failure is the most painful of all.

Returning President Florentino Perez invested over 250 million Euros in players such as Cristiano Ronaldo and Kaka with the aim of lifting a historic tenth title.

Brazilian Confederation of Football issues warning to Adriano

RIO DE JANEIRO, 11 March — The president of the Brazilian Confederation of Football Ricardo Teixeira offered some strong advice for Adriano on Wednesday. Teixeira declared that if the star striker wants to be part of Brazil's national team to travel to South Africa in the 2010 World Cup, he had better get his personal life together. "On the Brazilian national team, one needs to take good care of their physical condition," said Teixeira in reference to Adriano and his drinking problem and his weight.

"Drinking one beer here or there is not a problem. However, it is not ok when a player is drinking a whole case," described the president. Teixeira also warned that he does not want to see the same behavior of Brazil's 2006 World Cup team in this year's Cup in South Africa. In 2006, some of Brazil's players were photographed while inside of clubs and bars during the early hours of the morning. According to Teixeira, this type of behavior will not repeat as the players will be closely monitored.—Xinhua

Paralympic torch relay lights up Vancouver streets

VANCOUVER, 11 March — The Paralympic torch relay arrived in Vancouver on Wednesday for the final leg of its journey before the start of Friday's opening ceremony in the Canadian city.

Unlike the Winter Olympic torch relay that travelled across Canada on a massive 45,000-kilometer journey, the longest in Winter Olympic history, the Paralympic torch relay has been a decidedly more-low key affair, taking 10 days in all and covering 13 communities across the country, mainly in the host Province British Columbia.

About 600 torchbearers are participating nationwide.

In all, the Paralympics, which goes from 12-21 March, features 1,350 athletes, trainers and support staff from 44 countries and regions.

With the venues spread out over the Thunderbird Arena at the University of British Columbia, the Vancouver Olympic Center and the mountain resort of Whistler, located about two hours north-east of Vancouver, the athletes will compete in five events in the wheelchair curling, ice sledge hockey, Alpine skiing and the Nordic skiing encompassing biathlon and cross-country skiing.

Real Madrid's failure leaves Pellegrini exposed

MADRID, 11 March — After spending over 250 million euros to build a second dynasty of 'Galacticos' Real Madrid were expected to lift this season's Champions League trophy in the May 22 final at their Santiago Bernabeu stadium. Referee errors part of football

BERLIN, 11 March — German legend Franz Beckenbauer pleaded on Wednesday for the rules of football to be left as they are, warts and all, because refereeing errors can be part of the sport's charm. Better communications: key to greater development of rural areas

Byline: Myint Maung Soe; Photos: Akar Kyaw

The tranquil hilly village called Gamontaung on eastern part of Nay Pyi Taw Pynmana seen from a distance.

The government pays special attention to the drive for improving the living standard of the people in rural areas by fulfilling the requirements one after another. Apart from ensuring better transport, supplying clean water and opening of libraries in each and every village, better communications in rural areas is being given priority.

At the invitation of U Kyaw Tint, chairman of Nay Pyi Taw Pynmana Township PDC, to attend the ceremony to hand over CDMA telephones to villages in eastern hilly region, we, Myanma Alin news crew, went to Gamontaung village of Mepauk village-tract in the township on 18 February, 2010. Thanks to emergence of Paunglaung Dam project, the road that leading to the village is far better than it was in the past. This road is the artery for people of the hilly region of eastern part of Nay Pyi Taw Pynmana. People once had to go to the downtown Nay Pyi Taw Pynmana on foot from morning to evening. As a result of better transport, they can reach there by car or by motorbikes.

The ceremony reflected that people are enjoying fruitful results of achievement in communication sector along with better transport.

U Kyaw Tint explained to us that a plan to hand over at least one phone to one village-tract emerged thanks to collaborative efforts of Nay Pyi Taw Command and Myanma Posts and Telecommunications.

So far 16 villages included in seven village-tracts in hilly region have been provided with CDMA telephones with a unit price of K 550,000 through the funds for all-round development of Nay Pyi Taw District. Handsets worth K 100,000 each were donated by Nay Pyi Taw Pynmana Township PDC through regional development funds.

Gamontaung village is one of the villages that were provided with CDMA telephones. Arrangements are being made to hand over CDMA telephones to the remaining 21 village-tracts in the township.

The ceremony to donate 40 water pumps to the villages on hills by office of Nay Pyi Taw District Myanma Agriculture Service of ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation was held on the same day. The ceremony aimed to achieving greater development of agriculture in the hilly which has springs in large quantities, thus it is required to use pumps to draw water from the springs.
