Emergence of Steel Plant (Myingyan) expedites use of steel and iron in building State infrastructures

Industrial development plays a crucial role in national development. So, the government is building sound infrastructures to transform the nation into an industrialized one by enlisting the strengths of natural resources and of the people.

Encouragement is being given to establish industrial regions and zones and to build a lot more factories and workshops. And as a result, import-substitute products are pouring out, and high-tech factories have emerged in industrial regions across the nation. No.4 Steel Plant (Myingyan) of Myanmar Economic Corporation under the Ministry of Defence was opened the other day. Located near Hsakh Village in Myingyan Township, the steel plant will produce over 200,000 tons of steel billets and slabs a year and later, 400,000 to 500,000 tons.

For the nation to develop in all aspects, sector-wise construction tasks are being carried out with added momentum. Cement and steel have become essential materials in building such infrastructures as roads, bridges, dams, factories and educational and health institutions.

More cement factories are being built to fulfill the requirements of construction work. Some already-built cement factories have started operating and there are some more to be opened soon. Likewise, efforts are being made to improve the iron and steel industry. Steel plants in Aunglan, Hmawby, Myingyan and Pinpat regions including Ywama Steel Plant are producing iron and steel.

The newly-opened No.4 Steel Plant (Myingyan) will produce iron billets necessary for other plants. Semi-finished steel products and iron billets had to be imported for steel plants in the past. The emergence of Steel Plant (Myingyan) will surely expedite the use of steel and iron in building State infrastructures such as roads, bridges and dams.

People's Desire

Quarter of British children “have tried hacking”

BEIJING, 22 March—A survey conducted two weeks ago by the Cumbria Constabulary and Tufin Technologies, an international IT security firm, says that about a quarter of Britain's children have tried computer hacking. Of these some 27 percent had targeted Facebook accounts while around 18 percent had attempted to access friends' email accounts. The study of 1,000 children in London and 150 from the northern English county of Cumbria found that 78 percent of respondents acknowledged it was wrong while 53 percent said they felt it was illegal.

“What this survey

starkly highlights is that hacking into personal online accounts, whether e-mail or Facebook, can be child's play if users do not protect their own passwords,” said Stuart Hyde, deputy chief constable of the Cumbria Police and the president of the Society for the Policing of Cyberspace. “It illustrates the importance of keeping your passwords strong, secure, and changing them regularly.”

The hackers were split almost evenly between girls and boys, with girls accounting for about 47 percent. The most common reason cited by respondents was that the activity was fun. But about 21 percent were intent on causing disruption while 19 percent were motivated by profit, believing they could generate income from their enterprises.—Xinhua

Four killed in suicide attack in SW Pakistan's Quetta

ISLAMABAD, 22 March—At least four were killed and about a dozen others were injured on Sunday when a suicide bomber riding on a bicycle hit a police van in Quetta, capital of southwestern Pakistani province of Balochistan. Cambodian Govt accuses UN official of interfering in internal affairs

PHNOM PENH, 22 March—The Cambodian government warned the United Nations Resident Coordinator to stop interfering in the internal affairs of the country or will be expelled, said a statement from the Foreign Ministry seen on Monday.

In a letter to Douglas Broderick, UN resident coordinator on 20 March, Foreign Minister Hor Namhong said that Vijay Nambiar, chief of the Cabinet of the UN Secretary-General told Cambodian permanent representative at the UN in New York on 19 March that “United Nations Headquarters had not instructed the UN country team in Cambodia to make any comment or suggestion to the media on the issue” about the Anti-corruption Law passed by Cambodian National Assembly on 11 March.

The UN country team on 10 March, before the draft law sent to the National Assembly for debating, released a statement saying it “notes with concern that an extra-ordinary session was convened only days after the draft law was shared publicly with parliamentarians,” and asking “sufficient time for Parliamentarians, civil society, donors and the UN to study the law so that if and where deemed necessary, amendments may be proposed for consideration.”

Iran's supreme leader says US fails to act on promise for better ties

TEHERAN, 22 March—Iran's Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei said on Sunday that the United States failed to act on its promise to establish better ties with the Islamic Republic, Iran's satellite channel Press TV reported.

“The new (US) administration and president claimed interest in just and fair relations; they wrote letters and sent messages... saying they are willing to normalize relations with the Islamic Republic, but in practice they did the opposite,” Khamenei said in a New Year address to Iranians in the holy city of Mashhad.

The Iranian supreme leader also lashed out at the United States for supporting the unrest following Iran's presidential election in June 2009, saying the enemies had plans to start a “civil war” in the country.

“They tried very much to divide the people but they failed... this was a victory for the nation,” Khamenei said. “Eight months after the election, they took the worst possible stance. The (US) president called those rioters and saboteurs ‘civil rights activists,’” he added.

Fast Internet connections "could improve health care"

BEIJING, 22 March — The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has published a national broadband plan containing a 25-page chapter on health care, and calls upon the Department of Health and Human Services to make so-called e-care projects a "top priority." In a move to bring about 100-megabit Internet connections to 100 million US homes by 2020 the FCC wants to make remote medicine a reality.

The FCC wants to see the creation of a health care broadband infrastructure fund to make sure all health care facilities, including rural ones, have adequate connectivity. At the very least, clinics, hospitals and even doctors offices should be encouraged to put health records into a secure database that can be accessed by patients and their authorized care givers, wherever they happen to be located, the report says.

Video-consultation and the ease of passing medical documents over long distances over secure servers could help save lives, the FCC report suggests.—Xinhua

Jordan, EU strike deal to liberalize air transport

AMMAN, 22 March — Jordan and the European Union on Sunday signed a comprehensive aviation agreement to liberalize air transport between the Arab kingdom and all EU member countries.

Jordan's Minister of Transport Alaa Batayneh told reporters that the "Euro-Mediterranean Aviation Agreement" will permit air carriers of both sides to provide air services to, from and through any points in Europe, Jordan and other Mediterranean partners without any restrictions with regard to fares, capacities and frequency.

It also entails realizing legal, technical and economic integration between Jordan and the EU, said Batayneh, who signed the agreement with Patrick Renaud, head of the EU Delegation to Jordan. He said the agreement will help increase trade exchange, investments and economic activities between Jordan and the EU countries.

It will also help increase the number of tourists between the Arab kingdom and the EU countries.

"The agreement will allow progressive implementation of common standards in the field of civil aviation with the aim of reaching the highest levels of safety, security, consumer protection, environment and air transport management," Batayneh said following the signing of the deal.

Congenital cataract main cause of child blindness in Bangladesh

DHAKA, 22 March—A research study has revealed that congenital cataract is the number one reason for child blindness in Bangladesh, dismissing the common assumption that vitamin A deficiency mainly causes the problem, the leading English daily The Independent reported on Monday.

In Bangladesh, the study said about 40,000 children are blind of which 13,000 due to congenital cataract. The study has removed three misconceptions - the usual notion in the country that cataract develops only among old people, congenital blindness is incurable and cataract treatment has to do with older age.

It said some 59 percent of child blindness in Bangladesh is preventable, treatable and curable. Child cataract is treatable by timely intervention, the study said. China to become world's top tourist destination by 2015

SANYA, 22 March—A senior official with the United Nations World Tourism Organization (UNWTO) said Sunday China is expected to become the world's largest tourist destination by 2015. "China, as we predict, is going to become the world's No 1 tourist destination by the year 2015," said Taleb Rifai, secretary general of the UNWTO.

"China is almost there. It is now the world's fourth largest destination when it comes to incoming tourists, and the rates of growth are moving so quickly that we think this is a realistic target," Rifai said. France is currently the country receiving the most international tourists, at 80 million per year, followed by the United States and Spain, both at 60 million a year, while China has about 48 million, he said. "China's tourism economy has moved incredibly in the last ten years. The number of incoming tourists rose from 8 million to 48 million. The potential of the growth is still big because of the size of China," Rifai said.

Hailing the 65th Anniversary Armed Forces Day:Myanmar Tatmadaw formed with reliable, responsible citizensPadaung Than Kywe*

In a land, now known as the Union of Myanmar, a tribe, which came into existence millions of years ago, has developed into more than 100 national ethnic groups such as Kachin, Kayah, Kayin, Chin, Bamar, Mon, Rakhine and Shan, whose common name is Myanmar. As for Myanmar people, that is, in fact, a national pride. In such a long time, national races have been living through thick and thin as a nuclear family.

Due to the preservation of fine traditions, national races evolved into a civilized called "Myanmar" with high national prestige and integrity. Myanmar people are quick and strong, and systematically reactive in times of emergency.

Throughout the history of the nation, national races have remained harmonious in repulsing alien intrusion. So, it has stood tall as a sovereign state, named "The Union of Myanmar" in the global family.

Every country is to be strong enough to safeguard their independence or sovereignty. So, they are to boost their strength. A weak country may be under influence of other countries with hegemony more or less. So, every country has to enhance their economic, political and national defence strengths.

A country without economic strength is not resistant to any forms of pressure that is not at the level of armed conflict. Economic strength also covers enough reserve funds with which a nation can show significant resilience in times of crises.

In like manner, political strength is necessary for a sovereign country to remain an independent, sovereign one. In addition, every citizen has to put national politics in the fore. They should feel a glow of pride to be citizens of the nation. They have to cherish and value culture, tradition, historical background and conditions of their mother country. Ethnic groups of a nation have to take pride in being citizens of the nation, with a strong sense of self-reliance.

National defence strength is also necessary for a nation. In times of foreign aggression, the entire people have to take part in the conflict in which nations and peoples vie against each other. However, it takes time to an extent to launch national level activities. So, the force that is to confront with alien intruders first is the armed force. Therefore, all countries, large and small, form their own armed forces. All countries, irrespective of area and strength, have to strengthen the capability of their armed forces as possible as they can.

Without armed forces, a nation will surely face unfair treatment of other countries.

Myanmar stood tall with own monarchs, sovereignty, and national prestige for thousands of years. But, it lost national unity for a certain period due to the wedge driven among the people by the colonialists. And it fell under alien subjugation for more than 100 years, which was a painful lesson for the people. British colonialists' invasion of Myanmar in 1824 led to the outbreak of three Anglo-Myanmar wars. After the Third Anglo-Myanmar War, the whole nation came under the yoke of the colonialists, followed by loss of independence and dissolution of Myanmar armed forces.

Hailing the 65th Anniversary Armed Forces Day:Myanmar Tatmadaw formed with reliable, responsible citizensPadaung Than Kywe(from page 8)*

In July 1941, Thirty Comrades underwent military training in Hainan Island, Japan, thus opening for a new chapter of the Myanmar Tatmadaw.

Throughout the period of Myanmar independence struggles, the Tatmadaw has played a leadership role in the national affairs. Since independence or during over 60 years, the Tatmadaw have been mature, confronting and coping with varieties of military and political issues.

The Tatmadaw helped the nation regain independence by revolting against the colonialists. In addition, it warded off the dangers posed by Fascists, put out the blaze of internal armed insurgency, suppressed alien intrusion, and made sacrifices in pursuing the goal of a new society. Today, it is shouldering bounden duties steadfastly in implementing the national objectives.

No organization can be compared with the Tatmadaw in terms of the national leadership role. The Tatmadaw is a driving force for the programmes to build a new nation and ensure national development. It has constantly stood as the sole leading force in the nation. The people regard the Tatmadaw as the national force that is capable of fulfilling all forms of requirements of the nation. The Tatmadaw was formed with the aim of helping regain and constantly guarding the nation in order to perpetuate independence. It implies that the Tatmadaw has been the national force since its birth.

In other words, the Tatmadaw is a strong national force that has been working hard constantly, putting in the fore the welfare of the people, public service, and better future of the entire people. Those who initiated the formation of the Tatmadaw got involved in the independence struggles with all seriousness. They imbued themselves with the strongest sense of patriotism, and sharp views. Therefore, the Tatmadaw was conceived as a patriotic force.

Today's Tatmadaw leaders are also patriotic ones to whom bounden duties have been relayed from one generation to the next. They have preserved fine traditions of the Tatmadaw. As a result of their earnest efforts they made to consolidate national unity, so far, 17 major national race armed groups and many other small groups have returned to the legal fold. Day in, day out, they are implementing the Border Areas Development Project, the 24 Regions Special Development Project and the Five Rural Development Programmes they have adopted for equitable development of all parts of the Union. Now, the whole nation including border areas has seen improvement in the political, social and economic infrastructures along with stability and peace. Due to development, infrastructural buildings are witnessed everywhere across the nation.

The government hand in hand with the people and the Tatmadaw has improved infrastructures for better social-economic status of the people.

Now, the State Constitution has been approved with the support of the great majority of the people. Elections will take place in line with the State Constitution in 2010 in pursuance of the seven-step Road Map. Now, the State Peace and Development Council has promulgated Union Election Commission Law, Political Parties Registration Law, Pyithu Hluttaw Election Law, Amyotha Hluttaw Election Law, and Region or State Hluttaw Election Law, and Rules.

The Tatmadaw is therefore to be on the same page with the people for successful completion of the seven-step Road Map designed to build a peaceful, modern and developed nation, as well as to uphold Our Three Main National Causes at risk to life as the national policy.

It is required of the Tatmadaw to crush with the people internal and external subversive elements disrupting State stability and community peace and to see to the tasks to build a strong, modern and patriotic Tatmadaw in order to safeguard the State's sovereignty and territorial integrity.

Objectives of 65th Anniversary Armed Forces Day

1. To uphold Our Three Main National Causes at risk to life as the national policy
2. To work hard with national people for successful completion of elections due to be held in accordance with the new constitution
3. To crush internal and external subversive elements through the strength and consolidated unity of the people
4. To build a strong, patriotic modern Tatmadaw capable of safeguarding the sovereignty and territorial integrity of the nation

Water crisis brings struggle for survival

CHUXIONG, 22 March—Niu Siwei's sense of unease grows each time he hears his students cough. After eight months with no rain, the village school where he teaches in Nanhua County of Chuxiong, a Yi ethnic prefecture in the southwestern Yunnan Province, has been using water from a local fish pond for cooking.

The feculent water is sterilized with bleach powder, so the meals for the 192 students, aged 7 to 12, always have a strong smell of the chemical. "At the beginning, the cook believed the more bleach powder he used, the safer the water would be," said

Niu. "Once he put 10 grammes in 100 kg of water, almost 10 times the safe amount."

India plane cracker probe begins

NEW DELHI, 22 March—The Indian police have launched an investigation into the recovery of a firecracker in the cargo hold of a commercial airplane on Sunday. The fire cracker wrapped in a newspaper was detected on a Kingfisher airline flight at Trivandrum Airport in southern Kerala state.

The flight with 27 passengers had arrived from Bangalore. Police say the firecracker may have been placed at Bangalore where the luggage was loaded.

The police said they were questioning ground staff and luggage loaders at Trivandrum and Bangalore. Security is usually tight at Indian airports. Many airport officials have described Sunday's incident as a "major security lapse".—Internet

Germany to grant bln-euro loan for A350 development

BERLING, 22 March—The German government is ready to grant a 1.1 billion euro loan to develop the Airbus A350 long-haul passenger aircraft, a senior economics ministry official said on Sunday.

"As far as we are concerned all pre-conditions have been met and the funds are available," said Peter Hintze, parliamentary state secretary at the ministry of economics.

His statement implied that the conditions were in line with World Trade Organization rules.

Hintze said that "final issues" would have to be solved, notably how to divide up work between France and Germany on another project, the A30X, a potential successor to the A320.—Internet

As farmers move from cotton to corn, jobs are lost

LUBBOCK, 22 March—Fields of white cotton once stretched as far as the eye could see across the fertile Mississippi Delta, but now many of those acres are flush with green corn stalks.

US cotton production peaked in 2005 and has been sliding since as farmers switch from growing fiber to food. The reasons are many: Corn prices have been strong, and it's more profitable because it takes less labour to produce. Corn's lower production costs also make it a less risky investment than cotton. Cotton production dropped about 53 percent in the five-state Mid-South region from 2005 through 2008 as farms converted to corn and soybeans. Job losses followed.

Economists estimate for every three jobs needed to produce cotton, only one is needed to grow corn or soybeans. It's difficult to say how many jobs have been lost, but the shift is real, and rural economies are feeling the effect, said

Darren Hudson, director of the Cotton Economics Research Institute at Texas Tech. Some cotton gins have closed. Others have been dismantled and shipped overseas.

"It's sort of a permanent loss in that infrastructure, and it's hard to overcome that if you go back the other direction," Hudson said. "It wasn't the old gins that shut down. It was the new ones because they were leveraged more," with much higher debt.

Lufthansa flight blocked as Japanese group falls ill

BERLIN, 22 March—The take-off of a German flight to Tokyo was delayed after two dozen Japanese tourists on board fell ill with violent stomach cramps, German police said.

Shortly before take-off Saturday afternoon, the Airbus A340 carrying some 300 passengers returned to the airport terminal in Berlin after the tourists complained of stomach pains and nausea, said a police statement.

The 23 people stricken by the mystery illness, part of a group of some 80 tourists on an organised trip to Europe, were taken to nearby hospitals.

The victims also complained of vertigo, vomiting and circulation problems, according to doctors, though their lives were not thought to be in danger, said the police statement.

Doctors were still trying to ascertain what had caused the sickness, said police.

The rest of the group, 57 tourists, were taken to hotels and placed under medical supervision as a precaution, even though they showed no symptoms.

The group had just completed a two-day stay in Munich after having visited London.

Fish and chips celebrates 150 years as a British classic

LONDON, 22 March—Whether wrapped in newspaper and eaten with greasy fingers or served on white china with silver cutlery, fish and chips has come a long way since it began 150 years ago.

But the traditional British dish, celebrating a landmark anniversary this year, still boasts pride of place in British culture.

The dish has survived the arrival of McDonalds and the trend for healthy and organic food, and there are now about 10,500 "chippies" across Britain serving up between 250 million and 350 million portions each year.

What began as a cheap working-class meal became a national favourite and is now a culinary classic served at some of Britain's top restaurants.

Armour could form 'force field'

LONDON, 22 March—A new type of armour would use pulses of electrical energy to repel projectiles away from an armoured vehicle, British scientists say.

Researchers at the Defence Science and Technology Laboratory, better known as "Dstl" and located at four sites in England, say it is possible to incorporate material known as supercapacitors into armor that would turn a vehicle into a kind of giant battery, The Daily Telegraph reported.

Dstl is the research and development arm of the Ministry of Defence.

The report said when a threat from an incoming projectile is detected, the energy in the supercapacitor can be rapidly pushed into the metal plating on the outside of the vehicle. That produces a strong electromagnetic field. The researchers say this would produce a momentary "force field" which in theory could repel incoming projectiles. Although the force field would last for only a fraction of a second, correctly timed it could repel a projectile, such as a rocket-propelled grade, the report said.—Internet

"GM Daewoo Auto and Technology has reported that it will recall 58,696 vehicles that it has made and sold in Winstrom, Lacetti Premiere and Damas models due to manufacturing defects," Seoul's ministry of land, transport and maritime affairs said in a statement. The recall will affect 45,957 Winstorm sport-utility vehicles, 12,604 Lacetti Premiere sedans and 135 Damas microvans, the ministry said.—Internet

India launches most luxurious tourist train

MUMBAI, 22 March — India's most luxurious tourist train started its maiden journey from an eastern city on Saturday evening.

The train, which is called "Maharajas Express," launched at Kolkata station at 10:10 pm by Indian Railway Minister Mamata Banerjee, Indian media reported on Saturday evening. For the coming six days and seven nights, the train will stop at six stations before reaching the destination of New Delhi.

It will be a unique pan-Indian tour, and tourists could visit many famous destinations, such as heritage cities and wild forests, where visitors may have the opportunity of a glimpse of tigers, said Banerjee.

The train only carry 88 passengers in 23 well-decorated carriages, which are equipped with individual temperature control systems, environment-friendly toilets, live TV sets, DVD players, internet and direct dial telephones, and all food and drinks are complimentary, according to the report.

There are four categories of carriages—junior suite for 800 US dollars per person per day, deluxe cabin for 900 US dollars, suite for 1400 US dollars and the Presidential Suite for 2500 US dollars.—Xinhua

Clean energy, technology innovation key to sustainable development

BEIJING, 22 March — Exploitation of clean energy and innovation of technology are key to sustainable development as global warming has become a major concern for all countries, entrepreneurs stressed at the CEO summit of China Development Forum 2010 on Saturday.

"One of the main steps to cope with global warming is to exploit clean energy and keep a steady development in the new area," said Cao Peixi, General Manager of China Huaneng Group.

The Chinese state-owned power enterprise has been developing clean and renewable energy such as wind, solar power, water to generate electricity.

Christophe Margerie, CEO of Total Group, also said in his speech that use of green energy should be promoted, saying his company is trying to make the energy cleaner and more environmental protective.

Margerie underlined the importance of technology at the same time. He said the development of technology would not only help the extraction of oil and gas, but also make the utilization of new energy more realizable.

Many other participants at the summit expressed the same view, calling enterprises to make more innovations in technology, especially in the field of carbon emission cutting.—Xinhua

Israeli-Palestinian proximity talks should lead to direct negotiations, UN chief

JERUSALEM, 22 March — Visiting UN Secretary General Ban Ki-moon on Sunday urged Israel and the Palestinians to launch peace talks, saying the indirect talks between the two sides should lead to direct talks.

"The Quartet has strongly welcomed and supported these proximity talks," said Ban at the joint news conference with Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netan-yahu.

"We believe that these proximity talks should eventually lead to direct negotiations between the two concerned parties, discussing on all the matters, covering security, borders and refugees, and all other issues," added Ban.

Ban's second visit to Israel and the Palestinian territories came days after he joined a meeting of the Middle East Quartet in Moscow on stalled peace talks between the two Middle East foes.

BEIJING, 22 March — The India pavilion will take visitors on a journey through 2,000 years of civilization in a kaleidoscope of landscapes, culture, religion and peoples to reveal a unique blend of tradition and modernity.

"The India pavilion at Expo 2010 will project diversity and duality," said Commissioner General N.K. Sehgal. "India is a country with diverse geography, traditions, culture and languages.

In both its cities and rural areas there is a unique duality of the ancient and modern."

The 4,000-sq-m pavilion will promote the notion of "Cities of Harmony" as its core message.

"Cities where the different elements — social, spatial, economic, infrastructural and technological — are in harmony are 'better cities' that ensure a 'better life'," said Sehgal.

"To reap such harmonic cities we should sow (the seeds) with our cultural, social, scientific, technological and geographical matrix in mind."

The pavilion will consist of two sections: an entry plaza that flows into a main dome, which will exemplify the theme of duality.

Three killed in quake collapse in northern Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, 22 March — A small earthquake struck northern Haiti early Sunday, collapsing an apartment building and killing at least three people, a UN spokesman said.

Residents said the tremor struck Haiti's second-largest city of Cap-Haitien shortly after midnight, collapsing the four-storey building. Some nearby structures were damaged by the collapse but no other quake effects were reported.

Three survivors were pulled out of the rubble and taken to a hospital, UN spokesman Loucius Eugene said. Haitian police, civil protection authorities and UN peacekeepers from Chile and Nepal found the body of another person killed inside.

Cap-Haitien lies along the fault line that produced three moderate earthquakes in nearby Cuba on Saturday.

It was not affected by the 12 Jan earthquake that devastated Port-au-Prince, some 80 miles (130 kilometres) to the south. Witnesses said it had been raining, which could have weakened the ground under the structure.

Man who accidentally lit match on plane faces heat

A man from Maine who struck a match on a US Airways flight to Boston's Logan International Airport is facing some heat — but not over matches. Massachusetts State Police detained 50-year-old Paul Prater of Sanford on Wednesday over an outstanding identity fraud warrant in Canton, Ga. State police spokesman David Procopio said no charges have been brought for the match lighting, which Prater called an accident.

Prater told police the match ignited when he pulled a package from his pocket during the flight from Washington, DC.

Prater pleaded not guilty on Thursday in East Boston District Court to a fugitive charge. He was held on $5,000 bail and ordered to return to Georgia within five days to clear the warrant.

It was unclear if he had hired an attorney.

Smithsonian opens $21m human evolution hall

Hundreds of early human fossils, artifacts and forensically recreated faces of our prehistoric relatives went on display on Wednesday, exploring 6 million years of evolution at the National Museum of Natural History.

The nearly $21 million Hall of Human Origins marks the 100th anniversary of the Smithsonian Institution museum and represents the most comprehensive look at human evolution since its opening.

The massive hall includes rare specimens, including the only original fossil of a Neanderthal skeleton in the United States. Two skulls discovered more than a century ago of a Neanderthal and a Cro-Magnon are on loan from the Musée de l'Homme in Paris.

Curator Rick Potts, who directs the museum's human origins research, said the permanent exhibit represents major changes in scientists' understanding of evolution over recent decades.

"What we've learned is the old icon of the march from the early humans from a primate like creature to an ape like creature to us today is not correct — that our species is part of a diverse family tree of perhaps as many as 20 species or more," he said. "What we also see is we are the only one left."

That makes the story of evolution a survival story, Potts said. The exhibit is the first to examine how climate change motivated adaptations and changes in human ancestors.

Part of the exhibit comparing the brain size of early humans is seen inside the David H. Koch Hall of Human Origins at the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History in Washington.

UK library receives book overdue by 45 years

It's common to return a library book late — but not by half a century.

Staff at a British library say they were surprised and puzzled when they received a book that was 45 years overdue through their mailbox.

Alison Lawrie, the principal assistant at Dinnington Library, near northern England's Sheffield, says the Penguin first edition copy of "Quartermass and the Pit" by Nigel Kneale was due back on 15 Oct, 1965. She says the borrower remains a mystery because the library records don't go back that far, and the sender didn't attach a letter or note with the book. Lawrie said on Friday the sender need not worry about a hefty fine.

She says: "If the person who returned the book wants to come forward, we'd love to know the story behind it."

Ljubicic beats Roddick to win Indian Wells title

WASHINGTON, 22 March—Ivan Ljubicic of Croatia beat Andy Roddick 7-6(3), 7-6(5) to win the BNP Paribas Open men's title. Ljubicic won on his fourth match point Sunday, blasting a big serve that Roddick couldn't return. At the age of 31, Ljubicic is the second-oldest winner at Indian Wells behind Jimmy Connors, who was five months older when he won in 1984.

Roddick was trying to become the first American man to win since 2001, but he trailed in both tie-breakers. He had beaten Ljubicic seven times in ten meetings, winning their last meeting at Indian Wells in two tie-breakers in 2007. Jelena Jankovic defeated Caroline Wozniacki 6-2, 6-4 earlier Sunday to win the women's title, the Serbian's first in seven months.—Xinhua

Ethiopian runners win Rome Marathon

ROME, 22 March—Ethiopian runners won the 16th edition of Rome Marathon on Sunday, which registered a record-high participation of over 15,000 runners. The 25-year-old Ethiopian Siraj Gena won the men's race and his compatriot Firehiwot Dado won the women's competition. Gena made the best time of two hours, eight minutes and 39 seconds, surprising the public. He kicked off his shoes and ran barefoot for 500 meters in front of the finish line in homage to Abebe Bikila, winner of Rome Olympics in 1960.

Firehiwot Dado led an Ethiopian sweep of the podium positions in two hours, 25 minutes and 28 seconds. About 15,000 runners from over 83 countries and regions took part in the race, roughly 9,000 from Italy and 6,000 from other countries and regions, mostly from France. About 12,500 men and 2,400 women participated in the competition, while 90,000 took part in the parallel 4-kilometers amateur race.

Jankovic rediscovers past glories with Indian Wells title

INDIAN WELLS, 22 March—Former world number one Jelena Jankovic won her first tournament since last August with a straight sets 6-2 6-4 victory over Caroline Wozniacki in the final of the WTA tournament at Indian Wells. Serbian ace Jankovic has flourished in the Californian desert and dominated Sunday's final to claim a 6-2 6-4 victory, her 12th career title. "It's been a great two weeks for me, really amazing," Jankovic told the official WTA Tour Web site. "I'm so happy and so thrilled that I was able to win this title."

Wozniacki had guaranteed she will attain second spot in the world behind Serena Williams in the new rankings with her semifinal victory over Agnieszka

Radwanska of Poland. But she was unable to maintain that form against Jankovic, who had beaten her on four previous occasions. Jankovic, who last won a title in Cincinnati, survived some early round scares to ease past Samantha Stosur in the semifinals of the Premier tier event.—Internet

Schalke miss top of Bundesliga with 2-2 draw at Hamburg

BERLIN, 22 March—Schalke lost its chance to top the Bundesliga on Sunday as the runners-up were held to a 2-2 draw at Hamburger SV. Bayern Munich lost 2-1 at Eintracht Frankfurt on Saturday and Schalke could have moved a point clear at the top with a win. Ruud van Nistelrooy scored for Hamburg late in the first half but Schalke turned the game around with a goal from Kevin Kuranyi and a penalty converted by Ivan Rakitic during a five-minute spell in the second half.

Substitute Jonathan Pitroipa salvaged a point for Hamburg with an equalizer in the 77th minute, but Hamburg fell to sixth place and out of the two slots for the Europa League next season. Bayer Leverkusen also failed to take advantage of Bayern's defeat as the team went down 3-0 at Borussia Dortmund. With seven games remaining, Bayern lead the standings with 56 points, while Schalke has 55. Leverkusen has 53. Dortmund is fourth on 48 and Werder Bremen has 45 in fifth, moving past Hamburg with a 3-2 win over Bochum on Saturday.—Xinhua

Tiger Woods 'nervous' about reception at Masters

WASHINGTON, 22 March—Tiger Woods says he is wary of the reception he will receive when he returns to action at the Masters after almost five months away from the game. Woods has not played since admitting multiple extra-marital affairs but will resume playing on 8 April at Augusta. Asked about the possible reception, Woods told ESPN: "I don't know, I'm a little nervous. It would be nice to hear a couple of claps here and there."

The disgraced world number one, 34, added he had been "living a lie". The 14-time major champion gave brief interviews to ESPN and the Golf Channel for the first time since his self-imposed exile, telling ESPN: "I was doing a lot of things that hurt a lot of

"But then again, when you face it and you start conquering it and you start living up to it, the strength that I feel now... I've never felt that type of strength." Woods did not discuss details about his affairs but said that "just one is enough and obviously that wasn't the case".—Internet

Messi scores second weekly hat-trick in Barca's win in Zaragoza

MADRID, 22 March—Barcelona striker Leo Messi scored his second La Liga hat-trick in a week and earned a penalty helping his team beat Zaragoza 4-2 away. The Argentinean produced another magnificent performance to keep Barca level on points with Real Madrid, just seven days after scoring three times against Valencia. His performance was remarkable as he had been a doubt for the game with a mouth infection before recovering his place alongside Zlatan Ibrahimovich and Pedro Rodriguez in the Barcelona attack.

Xavi Hernandez was still absent with a calf problem and Seydou Keita replaced him in midfield, while Andres Iniesta and Carles Puyol were on the bench. The good news became even better for Barcelona after just four minutes when Messi scored with a header. The Zaragoza defense gave the ball away far too easily, Pedro crossed from the left and Messi headed home from six yards out. Toure Yaya and Ibrahimovich had chances to double Barcelona's lead, but Ibrahimovich missed a close range header before Zaragoza finally began to get into the game.

Rafael Benitez feels Valencia dived for Man Utd penalty

LONDON, 22 March—Liverpool manager Rafael Benitez felt Manchester United's Antonio Valencia dived to win a penalty that turned the game as the hosts came back to win 2-1. Fernando Torres put Liverpool ahead before Javier Mascherano was ruled to have fouled Valencia and Wayne Rooney fired in a rebound from his spot-kick. "The way he fell down is strange. When you see the replay it is suspicious how he went to the ground," said Benitez.

Ji-Sung Park headed in the winner for United in the 60th minute. The result returned United to the top of the Premier League and damaged Liverpool's hopes of securing fourth place in the table and the final Champions League spot. Benitez believes the penalty was the turning point of the match. "We gave away the penalty too early—but there are doubts about the penalty," stated Benitez.—Internet

Milan miss chance to leapfrog Inter in Serie A

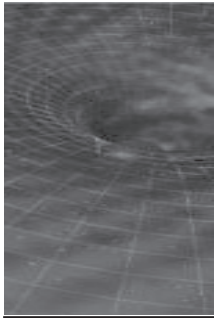

ROME, 22 March—AC Milan missed the chance to leapfrog city rivals Inter at the summit of Serie A after being held to a 1-1 draw by Napoli in the San Siro on Sunday. A victory would have seen Milan go top for the first time this season but it was Napoli who went ahead after 13 minutes through Hugo Campagnaro before Filippo Inzaghi headed the equalizer 13 minutes later. The draw sees Milan stay in second spot, one point behind champions Inter, who were held to a 1-1 draw at Palermo on Saturday.

Third-placed Roma are three points adrift but meet Inter next Saturday in a decisive clash. Milan are bidding for their first Italian championship since 2004, but have lost David Beckham and Supermassive Black Holes: Hinting at the Nature of Dark Matter?

SCIENCE DAILY, 22 March —About 23 percent of the universe is made up of mysterious 'dark matter' — invisible material only detected through its gravitational influence on its surroundings. Now two astronomers based at the National Autonomous University of Mexico (UNAM) have found a hint of the way it behaves near black holes.

Their results appear in a letter in the journal Monthly Notices of the Royal Astronomical Society.
