Railroad networks cover the whole country

Local people enjoy better transportation with the inauguration of Pyawbwe-Phayangasu railroad.

A passenger train on Kanma-Thayet railroad, a section of Union Railway Network.

I have recently read the news on the opening of Seikpyu-Sinbyugyun railroad section. I felt very happy to see smiling faces of local people. As part of its programme to lay foundations for development of the country, the government is opening rail roads one after another across the country, including border areas and extending its services. It contributes not only to regional development and promoting relations between national races.

Regarding construction of rail roads across the country, before 1988, there were 1976 miles of railroads, 487 stations and 5650 overpasses. Now, there exist 3433 miles of rail roads, 875 stations and 10,908 small and big bridges.

Before 1988, the regions lagged behind in development due to poor transport. After taking bitter lessons from the past, the government has been making endeavors for the benefits of people and the country. So, people are now enjoying the fruits of development.

Cast your ballot in view of a new era

The multiparty democracy general election will be held on 7 November, 2010. It will take place in accord with the state constitution. In deed, we are beginning to walk to the way to multiparty democracy for a change of an era or system.

Candidates from 37 political parties will run for the election. Different parties have different stances, ideas, policies and work programmes. We can see respective parties' stances on every walk of life in their canvassing for votes.

All necessary measures have been taken to ensure that the election is free and fair. Political parties are enjoying the rights to canvass systematically and stand for election. Voters have the right to choose the party and candidate they like. The successful completion of a free and fair election is the democratic right.

A democratic nation will emerge with the democratic rule as desired by the people. We will reach the age of democracy through elections. Each and every voter will cast vote for the success of the election. It is a time when every citizen deserving democracy will have to make a collaborative effort with nationalistic fervor.

The multiparty democracy general election is the beginning of a trip to a democratic nation. It is a democratic right of each citizen. The success of the election is the first priority, and so is the system change.

With these rights and opportunities, all voters are to shoulder national duties by casting their votes and choosing the candidates they like in a correct way.

Six young men killed in shooting in Mexican capital

MEXICO, CITY, 29 Oct—Gunmen killed six young men in a gritty neighbourhood of the Mexican capital Thursday, an official said. The men in their late teens and early 20s were hanging out together on a street when the gunmen arrived, Mexico City Attorney General Miguel Angel Mancera said in an interview with the Televisa network. He said angry words were exchanged, and the gunmen opened fire.

It was the fourth major shooting in Mexico in less than a week. All have occurred in different parts of the country and appear un-related. Mancera said he did not know if drug gangs were involved in the middle-of-the night shooting in Tepito, a working-class neighbourhood just north of Mexico City's colonial centre. Drug dealing is rampant there, but Mancera said there also have been problems with disputes among carjacking gangs.

"It is a complicated zone, a very delicate zone," Mancera said. "We would like to reassure the population that we are going to find those responsible. Mancera said bullet casings of two different calibers 9 mm and 2.23 mm were found at the scene, suggesting there were at least two gunmen. He said police were interviewing relatives and witnesses to determine the background of the victims and a possible motive.

WASHINGTON, 29 Oct—A Pakistani-born US citizen has been charged over a plot to bomb Washington's subway system, it was announced last night. The suspect was arrested after an undercover FBI operation over the past six months, which allegedly caught 34-year-old Farooque Ahmed hand-ing over video of northern Virginia subway stations, suggesting the use of rolling suitcases rather than backpacks to kill as many people as possible and offering to donate money to al-Qaeda's cause overseas.

It emerged last night that the people Ahmed thought were his al-Qaeda superiors were actually FBI agents. The public was never in danger, said the FBI, because its agents were aware of Ahmed's activities and monitored him throughout. Ahmed was arrested on Tuesday and the charges were made public last night. He is accused of attempting to provide material support to a terrorist organisation, collecting information to assist in planning a terrorist attack on a transit facility, and attempting to provide material support to carry out bombings to cause mass casualties.

Russia test launches three missiles

MOSCOW, 29 Oct—Three intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) have been test launched on Thursday, one from the northern Plesetsk launching site, and two from strategic submarines, news agencies reported. Russian strategic forces launched a Topol ICBM at 01:59 pm Moscow time (0759 GMT) in normal mode from Plesetsk launching site in northern Russia. The Topol RS-12M's warhead successfully hit a target in the far eastern Kamchatka peninsula some 20 minutes later. The missile that was launched was manufactured in 1987 and had been on combat duty at the Teikovo missile unit in the Ivanovo region until August 2007. The launch was designed to confirm the missile's performance after extending its service life. The Topol-M missile, with a range of about 11,000 km, was said to be immune to any current and future US missile shield defense. The service life of Topol RS-12M has been extended to 23 years.—Xinhua

Indonesia's Mount Merapi spews volcanic ash again

YOGYAKARTA, 29 Oct—Mount Merapi in Central Java, Indonesia, sent out hot volcanic ash again at 4:40 pm local time on Thursday, indicating it remains dangerous after a major eruption on Tuesday left at least 33 people dead and over 40,000 displaced. "The trajectory of the volcanic material was short, namely 3.5 kilometres from the peak," said Subandriyo, head of the Volcanology Technology Development and Assessment (BPPTK). He predicted it would be followed by emission of lava and urged people to remain alert. Some of the victims died as they fled their house or after being admitted to hospital, said Trisno Heru Nugroho, spokesman of the DR Sardjito Hospital in Yogyakarta. The hot ash left at least 14 others seriously injured, most of them suffer from severe burn in the face and hands, and are being treated in the hospital.

Suspected Yemen Qaeda chief 'surrenders'

ADEN, 29 Oct—A suspected al-Qaeda commander in the southern Yemen province of Abyan has surrendered to the authorities after negotiations conducted by tribal leaders, a security official said on Thursday. "Jamal Ahmed Mairan, leader of al-Qaeda in Loder and Modia (towns) handed himself in on Wednesday after mediation by tribal authorities," the official told AFP, speaking on condition of anonymity.

He said Mairan, whose home town is Modia, is wanted in connection with an attack on intelligence officers in Abyan and a bank hold-up in the spring in Aden, the main southern city. On Monday, 15 suspected al-Qaeda militants surrendered to the governor of Abyan Province in the presence of tribal leaders and their relatives.

Auditors find US Afghan aid contract system chaotic

WASHINGTON, 29 Oct—The first comprehensive audit of US contracts to rebuild Afghanistan found a "confusing labyrinth" of agencies and contractors in a poorly coordinated aid effort, a US audit body said on Wednesday.

The Special Inspector General for Afghanistan Reconstruction, known as SIGAR, found that 17.7 billion US dollars the Pentagon, State Department and US Agency for International Development spent on reconstruction in Afghanistan in 2007-9 went to 7,000 contractors but often with little coordination.

The audit shows that navigating the confusing labyrinth of government contracting is difficult, at best," SIGAR said in a statement accompanying the audit, the first full survey of the aid contractor situation in the nine-year Afghan war. Pentagon, State and USAID "are unable to readily report on how much money they spend on contracting for reconstruction activities in Afghanistan," SIGAR said.

Nintendo sinks into the red for first half

TOKYO, 29 Oct—Nintendo sank to a first-half loss, its first in seven years, as a rising yen and long-delayed release of its 3-D gaming machine set the scene for a weak full-year result. Kyoto-based Nintendo Co, which makes Pokemon and Super Mario video games, said Thursday it posted a 2.01 billion yen ($24.7 million) loss for the six months through September. First-half sales dropped nearly 34 percent to 363.2 billion yen ($4.46 billion).

Nintendo last month shocked the gaming world by announcing its much awaited 3DS, a handheld packed with glasses-free 3-D technology, wouldn't be ready for the year-end shopping season when Nintendo rakes in about two-thirds of its earnings.

The half-year loss is the first for the maker of the Wii home console and DS handheld since 2003. Nintendo did not break down quarterly numbers. It posted a 69.5 billion yen profit for April-September 2009. Nintendo spokesman Yasuhiro Minagawa said the yen's strength against the dollar, which reduces earnings brought back to Japan, drove down first-half sales by 28.1 billion yen ($345 million).

Hyundai Motor announces brisk earnings in Q3

SEOUL, 29 Oct — South Korea's No1 automaker Hyundai Motor Co on Thursday announced its earnings for the third quarter, which rose from a year ago thanks to strong overseas sales. According to the company's regulatory filing, its net profit posted 1.35 trillion won for the third quarter of 2010, up from 979.2 billion won (871 million US dollars) a year ago.

The net profit, however, was a slight decline from the previous quarter, falling 2.6 percent from the second quarter. Hyundai's Q3 sales advanced 9.2 percent to 8.85 trillion won (787.4 billion US dollars) from a year ago, while its operating profit also leapt 28.1 percent to 751.8 billion won (669 million US dollars), the company said in its filing.

Hyundai Motor's brisk earnings owed heavily to its robust exports to the global market, such as China and the US, it explained. During the same period,

US targets front companies for Iran shipping line

WASHINGTON, 29 Oct—The United States on Wednesday named five Iranian individuals and three dozen companies that it said were helping Islamic Republic of Iran Shipping Lines in trying to avoid sanctions. US Treasury Department said "front companies" based in Germany, Malta and Cyprus were facilitating Iran's use of its national maritime carrier to advance its illicit programme for developing weapons of mass destruction and for transporting military cargo.

By designating the companies for assisting

Iran, the Treasury Department isolates them from US financial and commercial systems because US citizens are forbidden from dealing with them. In addition, any assets they have that fall within US jurisdiction can be seized.

Among the companies named were 15 shipping companies, each of which was the registered owner of a vessel already on the Treasury's list of designated nationals and blocked persons as well as 11 holding companies that own the shipping companies.

High exposure to BPA linked to low sperm count

CHICAGO, 29 Oct — Chinese factory workers exposed to high levels of the plastics chemical BPA had low sperm counts, according to the first human study to tie it to poor semen quality. The study is the latest to raise health questions about bisphenol-A and comes two weeks after Canada published a final order adding the chemical to its list of toxic substances.

Whether the relatively low sperm counts and other signs of poor semen quality translate to reduced fertility is not known. Study author Dr De-Kun Li, a scientist at the Kaiser Permanente Division of Research in Oakland, Calif, noted that even men with extremely low sperm counts can father children. But Li said finding that BPA may affect sperm is troubling because it echoes studies in animals and follows his previous research in the same men that linked BPA exposure with sexual problems. If BPA exposure can reduce sperm levels, "that can't be good" and means more study is needed to check for other harmful effects, Li said. The study was published online Thursday in the journal Fertility and Sterility. The National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health funded the research. Andrea Gore, a pharmacology and toxicology professor at the University of Texas who was not involved in the research, called it an important but preliminary study.

The results "are at least suggestive of the possibility that BPA may be one of the compounds that are causing some of these changes" in sperm, she said. But Gore said stronger evidence is needed to prove that BPA is indeed the culprit. BPA is used to make resins and strengthen plastics and is found in many consumer products: hard plastic bottles, metal food container linings, dental sealants and eyeglasses. Most Americans' urine contains measurable levels of BPA. Studies in animals have linked the chemical with reproductive problems and cancer. That's led to millions of dollars in new research in people.

Jerusalem hosts first-ever breast cancer race

JERUSALEM, 29 Oct — The holy city is decked out in pink for Israel's first-ever race to support breast cancer awareness and research. Five thousand participants are expected to run the four kilometre (2.5 mile) course Thursday through streets lined with pink banners and past Jerusalem's Old City walls, which have been lit in pink.

Susan G Komen for the Cure, the Dallas-based organization sponsoring the event, organizes similar races in 141 world cities. Founder Nancy Brinker is in Israel for the race. Organizers say breast cancer kills more Israeli women than any other disease.

Tamar Peretz, an oncologist at Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Centre in Jerusalem, says the high rate appears to be connected to environment, lifestyle and to a lesser extent, genetics.

Tiger cub under care of "Human mom" in Sri Lanka

COLOMBO, 29 Oct — Unbelievable .. the new mom refused her bubbly baby. While he was screaming for the very first drop of breast milk that guards him from all bacterial attacks, the mom ignored the newly born and disappeared into her den. The watchful eyes of the locality gave only 10 hours for the mother to neglect him. When they realized she did not want her baby any more, they separated the baby from her. The tiny bundle of joy was lucky to escape death at the hands of his mother.

Today, the six-day-old Bengali tiger cub born in Sri Lanka's one and only zoo Dehiwala Zoological Gardens (DZG) — is in safe hands but struggling to survive without his mother's milk and warmth. Yet to be named, the tiger cub is slowly gaining weight as he is bottle-fed with special milk formula for cat species. Though the baby's health is slowly improving, he needs the round the clock support of the zoo workers to survive for the next three months, which is the risky period for a tiger cub as he lost the precious protein—colostrum— in mother's milk. He is vulnerable to illnesses during this time and needs to develop high immune system to survive. DZG Director General Bhashwara Gunarathna said the maximum care was given to the cub and he was now out of danger. "Every one in the zoo is concerned about the cub and wants to save his life. He is under the care of the best caretaker who has experience of taking care of neglected and abandoned animal babies," Gunarathna said.

Saudi women aim for record pink ribbon

JEDDAH, 29 Oct — In an unprecedented event for women in ultra-conservative Saudi Arabia, women on Thursday were massing at a Jeddah stadium in a bid to form the world's largest-ever human pink ribbon to raise awareness about breast cancer.

More than 1,000 Saudis and foreign residents — Indonesians, Americans, Filipinas and others — had arrived at the education ministry facility by late afternoon, with organisers confident they would be able to top the previous record of 3,640 in Germany in 2007. The women were flocking into the stadium dressed in the ubiquitous all-black, shroud-like Muslim abaya robe which women are compelled to wear in public in the kingdom.

But inside, as the evening event gained momentum at the start of the Muslim weekend, organisers said they would all don pink ponchos and scarves as they massed together in the shape of the global symbol of breast cancer awareness. Bowing to the Islamic regime's strict rules keeping men and women separated, men were not allowed to view the event.

Sodas, other sugary beverages linked to increased risk of type 2 diabetes

WASHINGTON, 29 Oct — A new study has found that regular consumption of soda and other sugar-sweetened beverages is associated with a clear and consistently greater risk of metabolic syndrome and type 2 diabetes. According to the Harvard School of Public Health (HSPH) researchers, the study provides empirical evidence that intake of sugary beverages should be limited to reduce risk of these conditions.

The study appears online Wednesday in the journal Diabetes Care and will appear in the November print edition. "Many previous studies have examined the relationship between sugar-sweetened beverages and risk of diabetes, and most have found positive associations but our study, which is a pooled analysis of the available studies, provides an overall picture of the magnitude of risk and the consistency of the evidence," said lead author Vasanti Malik, a research fellow in the HSPH Department of Nutrition. — Internet

One can see emergence of new rail roads one after another across the country. The 12-mile-long Pyitawtha-Sittway-Yaychanbyin railroad section and the 22.72-mile-long Kwantaung-Ponnagyun railroad section, which is a part of the 257-mile-long Minbu-An-Sittway railroad, have been opened. Minbu-An-Sittway railroad will link Rakhine State with Magway Region. Upon completion, people from Rakhine State can get easy access to the four corners of the country by train. What's more, there exist railroads between Myitkyina in the northern part of the country and Dawei in the southern part, between Mongnai in the eastern part and Kalay in the western part and to Loikaw in the southeast.

Trains are running to Bagan, Pyay, Mandalay, Shwenyaung, Loikaw, Chauk and Yangon through Nay Pyi Taw. Passengers can travel to the places they want to by trains.

The railroads which are under construction across the country are the 183-mile-long Thayet-Kyunchaung railroad, 98-mile-long Katha-Bhamo railroad, 226 mile-long Mongnai-Kengtung railroad, 95-mile-long Pyawbwe-Natmauk-Kanbya-Magway railroad, 132-mile-long Dawei-Myeik railroad, 245.54-mile-long Yaychanbyin-An-Minbu railroad, 89-mile-long Pathein (Baegayat)-Nyaundon-Yangon (Hlinethaya) railroad, 120-mile-long Pyay (Shwedagar)-Tounggo (Kyaetaw)-Nay Pyi Taw railroad, 48-mile-long Hinthda-Nyaundon railroad and 105-mile-long Nay Pyi Taw-Tatkon-Pinlaung railroad.

The Head of State gives guidance on completion of the aforesaid railroads ahead of target date. Emergence of new railroads one after another generates better transport and swift commodity flow as well as promoting economic, education, health and social status of the people.

With a view to the benefits of the people and the country, the present government is building the railroads across the country with the genuine goodwill and benevolent attitude. In the future, maintenances of already-built railroads are to be carried out whichever party comes to power. Whatever it is, the ruling government continues laying foundation for the development of the new country.

I am satisfied with the discussions I held with you all. Now, I am writing to tell you some notable points for your knowledge.

I think you have heard of it. Multiparty democracy general elections we are all looking forward to will be held on 7 November 2010 (Sunday). The Union Election Commission issued Announcement (89/2010) on 13 August. Now, you all have turned 18. So, you have an opportunity to show your sense of duty by casting votes in the elections. I want you all to be dutiful in the elections because that is the first step to the goal of discipline-flourishing democratic nation.

My girls and boys, here I must admit that the book "The State, Citizens, Politics and Democratic Practice" by Minbedar (Pwintpyu) inspired me to tell you these points. It states an interesting question about five sorts of citizens. The question is "What sort of citizens do you like among the five sorts of citizens? What sort of citizen are you?" The five sorts of citizens are:

- (1) isolate citizen who is not interested in politics, who keeps off politics and whose business is not associated with politics,
- (2) bystander citizen who has a watchful eye to political processes. He studies politics enthusiastically, and is ready to do politics if necessary. However, he observes with folded arms what is happening without taking part
- (3) Participant citizen who takes interest in politics and studies political processes. He is capable of doing politics and participates in politics little by little.
- (4) Activist citizen who not only studies but also actively participates in politics. As for him, politics has priority over his personal affairs.

- (5) Diehard citizen who devotes his life to political affairs at risk to life, and his concepts and ideas.

As you know, our country will practise genuine and discipline-flourishing multiparty democracy system. Today is in the transitional period to democracy, so the youth should not place trust in instigations. Indeed, politics is the affairs of a nation. In other words, politics means what is happening in the human society, isn't it? And politics is of two types: party politics and national politics. Short and to the point, party politics means activities that are concerning with getting support for one political party in a country. My suggestion in that regard is that after a political party comes to power, it should continue to serve the interest of the people and the nation. So, you should vote for such candidates who are reliable for national interest or who keep the promises they have given since the run-up to elections.

To be able to make correct choices, you have to stay in touch with what is going on in the nation and in the world. Therefore, the people should not ignore politics.

You should not take politics for granted. You should not consider "I'm not qualified enough to stand for election, so whoever comes to power, it doesn't matter". To choose a candidate, you should take into consideration what he has worked for the public and his historical background. As the theme of democracy, the people who are the real owner of sovereignty of the nation have to elect the candidates who will exercise sovereign powers on their behalf. So, you have to choose a candidate and elect him with votes. In addition, that means you take part in electing candidates without wasting the chance of voting.

The people have waited for long to vote. The people of us will soon pass through the gateway to democracy to march to a prosperous democratic nation. The voters (the people) will have to vote for reliable candidates who are capable of exercising sovereign powers on behalf of the public. However, certain internal and external elements are dissuading the people from casting votes, instead of extending a helping hand to the strengthening of democratic foundations. I am sure the people know well that they are trying to disrupt the nation's democratization. So, you need to be aware of their plots. It is known to all that their activities are due to subjective rather than objective conditions. In other words, it is time the entire people opened the gate to democracy, but their intention is that the people become confused and they cannot pass through the entrance to democracy. To tell you a bit more, they are criticizing elections unreasonably.

In a country, stability and peace are essential for development. Now, the people of us abhor the plots to destabilize the nation. In fact, election is the first step to democracy, but they are trying to block the first step. That is based on personality cult, rather than political situations. They are turning a blind eye to the historic events of the nation, objective conditions, and requirements for flourishing of democracy. And they are trying to divert the goal of democracy from its course. Apparently, they are making something dishonest. I am sure that they are resorting to various ways to sow hatred among the people. Here, I would like to tell you a true story. In the time of the Buddha, Vesali in Vijji was prosperous, so, King Ajatasatta wanted to occupy the country. So, the king asked Vassakara Brahmin, his adviser, to enquire about the conditions of the country. After inquiry, the Brahmin came to know that Licchivi princes of Vijji practised the Buddha's seven principles for prosperity and development of a nation, and the citizens remained harmonious with prosperous future. So, the Brahmin addressed formally to the king and suggested that the king sow discord among the people of the country to break up the national unity. And he said that the means of sowing hatred among the people of the targeted country was the only way to win victory. Then, the Brahmin got to Vijji and sowed hatred among the people to undermine national unity, and then King Ajatasatta launched a war against and occupied Vijji.

That is to day: now there are so many people who are like Vassakara Brahmin and are trying to drive a wedge among national people when our country is poised to become a democratic nation. So, you should be constantly vigilant against their schemes, and you should do your bit in the democratization. I want you to try to become crave for political power are the root cause of the collapse of a country. Despite their knowledge of such horrible incidents, anti-government groups are resorting to all possible ways and means to push our country to another war-torn country. It is crystal clear that they are seeking their own interest, rather than our national interest.

So, I would like to urge you to elect reliable candidates by casting votes in the forthcoming election that is the first step to democracy.

The paddy strains local farmers of Kayah State grow commonly are Shwe Yin Aye, Thee Htat Yin, and Hmawby (2). Paddy seeds of quality strains and high-yield strains are sowed and seedlings are nurtured in Ngwedaung paddy plot and Dimawhso Farm. The paddy saplings are distributed to voluntary farmers. Then, produced paddy seeds are distributed to local farmers for agricultural purposes.

Regarding distribution of quality paddy seeds, the manager said, "We grow paddy in 408 acres of model fields yearly with the help of voluntary farmers to produce quality paddy seeds. We achieve huge success in producing quality paddy seeds due to the participation of voluntary farmers and related organizations. So, paddy output is on the increase yearly."

We were accompanied by officials of Kayah State Myanma Agriculture Service on our visit to paddy fields in Kontha, Saungkan and Htiyi villages, about 12 miles from urban areas.

It was very pleasant to view thriving plantations of paddy, corn and pigeon pea on both sides of Loikaw-Aungban Road with greenish mountain ranges in the background.

Pointing to thriving paddy fields, farmer U Moszart of Kontha Village said, "Paddy farming is our family business. These years, we get good harvests, and we have not achieved that success before. That is largely due to the fact that we grow paddy seeds the Myanma Agriculture Service supplies to us."

We also found that paddy fields of Hsinweyin, Shwe Yin Aye, Hsin Shwe Wah and Hmawby (2) strains were all successful in plot No. 116.

Kayah State puts 143,393 acres under crops including monsoon and summer paddy; 40,427 acres beans and pulses; and 36,708 acres under edible oil crops. It also grows vegetables on a large scale. Local farmers are enjoying increased crop yields year by year. As a result, Kayah State has produced surpluses of many crops.

Villagers feast on rare whale shark

MANILA, 29 Oct — Villagers in the Philippines have butchered for food an endangered whale shark that was trapped in a fish pen, stunning officials who vowed to file criminal charges for the slaughter of a rare creature. Environmental officer Job Tagle said he found about a dozen people with knives running away with big basins of meat carved from the whale shark when he reached the village of Bios in the central Philippines on Tuesday. Mr Tagle said only the head of the whale shark — the world's biggest fish species — was left when he and police arrived.

It took at least 10 men to carry the head, which weighed about 200kg, onto a van. It had what looked like several bullet and spear wounds and was later buried, he said.

The owner of the fish pen, located about 500 metres from shore, said the animal was dead when he found it, but police suspect it was killed based on its wounds, Mr Tagle added. An official of the Department of Environment and Natural Resources in Negros Oriental province, Oscar Moncopa, said charges will be filed against the owner. — Internet

FarmVille-playing mum faces life for killing baby

FLORIDA, 29 Oct — A Florida mother charged with shaking her baby to death, after he interrupted a computer game, has pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

Alexandra V Tobias, 22, was arrested after the January death of three-month-old Dylan Lee Edmondson. Angered that the baby was crying while she played FarmVille, a computer game that uses Facebook as its platform, she allegedly started shaking the baby, the Florida Times-Union reported. Tobias told investigators she then laid Dylan on the living room couch and smoked a cigarette to compose herself.

The family dog apparently knocked the baby off the couch, causing him to cry some more, and Tobias shook Dylan again until he stopped breathing.

She told investigators the boy's head "could have" hit the computer while she abused him, according to police reports. Prosecutor Richard Mantei told the Times-Union that Tobias' plea will help the family avoid reliving the tragedy during a jury trial. Florida state guidelines call for 25 to 50 years in prison for a second degree murder charge, but Tobias could face a life sentence, the paper said. — Internet

NEW YORK, 29 Oct—Mother Nature knows how to welcome Keith Richards.

The afternoon is warm and sunny minutes before Richards is to be interviewed at his manager's office in downtown Manhattan, a veritable Keith shrine with posters and pictures on the wall, and a director's chair with his name on it, ready for him to be seated.

At the top of the hour, the clouds darken. The door swings open and the grinning Rolling Stone arrives.

He is 66, his face tanned and lined, his walk slightly bent, an old cowboy gone electric. He's wearing a tan, wide-brimmed hat, black leather jacket, black pants and a loose-hanging white T-shirt. He has on sneakers, turquoise, a distant cousin to blue suede shoes.

Unlike Mick Jagger, Richards has never been knighted. But he can claim honors in the world of letters. Nearly 30 years after Jagger gave up on writing a memoir, alleging he had forgotten everything, Richards has emerged as a best-selling author who seems to have retained it all. "Another feather in my cap," he says with his smoke-ringed laugh, lighting up the first of several Marlboros.

James Cameron to make sequels to "Avatar"

LOS ANGELES, 29 Oct—Academy Award-winning filmmaker James Cameron has agreed to make a pair of sequels to the sci-fi blockbuster "Avatar" next year, after nearly a year of waiting by an expecting public, Fox announced on Wednesday. Morgan Library facelift brings treasures to light

NEW YORK, 29 Oct—A $4.5 million facelift of New York's Morgan Library and Museum has brought out of the shadows and drawn from storage rare Near Eastern, Biblical and early Americana items, some exhibited for the first time.

Based on a collection amassed by Pierpont Morgan, America's top financier of a century ago the Morgan now houses over 500,000 objects. The core of the museum, the Madison Avenue library, reopens on Saturday after extensive renovation. "This project is the first comprehensive restoration of the building since its construction at the beginning of the last century," said Morgan director William Griswold. "And it has transformed every room." Modeled on Italian Renaissance villa architecture, the historic library was hamstrung, museum officials say, by too little space, uneven lighting and century-old grime.

Comparing before and after renovation photographs, the most stunning transformation is the three-tier East Room library.

NYPD called to Charlie Sheen's hotel

NEW YORK, 29 Oct—Charlie Sheen was hospitalized Tuesday for a psychiatric evaluation after a woman called police to say the star was throwing furniture and yelling in his room at The Plaza, a law enforcement official said.

Police were called to the room at about 2 am and Sheen appeared highly intoxicated, the official said. He was not arrested and went voluntarily. The official was not authorized to speak publicly about the incident and spoke to the AP on condition of anonymity. It's not clear who the woman was in the hotel room with him. Sheen was reportedly in New York on a family vacation.

His publicist Stan Rosenfield said the 45-year-old was expected to be released Wednesday.

"What we are able to determine is that Charlie had an adverse allergic reaction to some medication and was taken to the hospital," he said.

It was the latest in a series of troubles for Sheen, the star of CBS' "Two and a Half Men," who has had problems with alcohol and drugs in the past.

Blatter plays down concerns over Brazil 2014 work

RIO DE JANEIRO, 29 Oct — World football chief Sepp Blatter has played down concerns over delays to renovation work being carried out on the stadiums which will host the 2014 World Cup in Brazil. Work on 12 sites was scheduled to begin in May 2010 but in several cases has been delayed, causing concern the stadia will not be finished by the 31 December, 2012 deadline. FIFA president Blatter gave his full backing to the organizers.

"There are a few problems, just like there were in the early stages for Germany 2006 and South Africa 2010," Blatter told Lance sports daily. "If there were no problems, then we could start staging the matches as of tomorrow!" He added: "For the moment, I'm happy with the progress of the work. I've no doubt it will be a hugely successful World Cup.—Internet

Owen may retire if Man Utd refuse new contract

LONDON, 29 Oct — Michael Owen has hinted he will consider retiring if Manchester United don't offer him a new contract at the end of this season. Owen's current deal expires at the end of the season and the former Liverpool and Real Madrid striker has yet to be offered a new contract.

The 30-year-old has endured an injury-ravaged time with United and is sidelined again at present due to a hamstring problem. He has started just six league games since arriving at Old Trafford last year and with the emergence of young Mexico striker Javier Hernandez this season, Owen knows there is decent chance boss Sir Alex Ferguson will deem him surplus to requirements.

Barnes shoots 63 for lead at Asia Pacific Classic

SELANGOR, 29 Oct — Ricky Barnes shot an 8-under 63 on Thursday to take the lead after the first round of the inaugural Asia Pacific Classic, the first PGA Tour-sanctioned event in Southeast Asia. The 29-year-old American, seeking his first professional victory, had what he called a "stress-free" round sprinkled with eight birdies.

"I got off to a good start by making some good swings and had a 10-foot look at eagle on three which kind of got my round started," Barnes said. Ryan Moore (64) trails by one stroke, while Canadian Open winner Carl Pettersson (65) was two back along with Brian Davis and Charlie Wi. Moore, who arrived in Malaysia on Friday to acclimatize to the time change and humid weather, had seven birdies. He has earned more than $2 million this season on the PGA Tour but has no victories.

Arsenal cruise into League Cup last eight

LONDON, 29 Oct — England winger Theo Walcott scored twice as Arsenal cruised into the quarter-finals of the League Cup on Wednesday with a 4-0 rout of Newcastle at St James Park. Walcott's brace, an own goal from Newcastle reserve keeper Tim Krul and a Nicklas Bendtner strike settled the tie for Arsene Wenger's men, riding high after last weekend's victory over Manchester City. Wenger was left purring over the contribution of Walcott, scoring his first goals since returning from injury sustained on England duty last month.

"Walcott is more composed in front of goal this season. His first touch is better. He is an intelligent boy and because of that he will always improve."

Desai could rename Rovers' stadium to boost cash

BLACKBURN, 29 Oct — Blackburn's prospective new Indian owner has admitted that the club's Ewood Park stadium could be renamed to raise funds. Anuradha Desai, chairperson of Venky's — the Indian poultry and pharmaceutical firm on the verge of buying the English Premier League club — is considering marketing plans to increase revenue streams.

She revealed on Thursday that one of the options to bring new cash into the club would be allowing sponsorship of the stadium, but was quick to insist Venky's would respect Blackburn's traditions. "We will do the best by the fans and also by the club and it is very important to continue the traditions of the club," Desai told the Lancashire Telegraph.

"We are going to be good responsible owners and we want to make the club stronger. "There are a lot of marketing plans but nothing is certain yet. One of the things we are considering is sponsorship of Ewood Park but no decision has been made."—Internet

FIFA opens 2-day meeting on scandal-hit World Cup

ZURICH, 29 Oct — FIFA's ruling executive committee started a two-day meeting on Thursday could alter the shape of the scandal-hit 2018 and 2022 World Cup bids. FIFA president Sepp Blatter chaired a meeting that will consider delaying one or both World Cup decisions until more credibility and public confidence has been restored to the process.

Originally, the session was for the executive committee to select a voting procedure for the 2 Dec secret ballot to choose the two hosts. But allegations of bribery and corruption involving FIFA executive committee members Amos Adamu and Reynald Temarii, along with two of the nine bidders, have shaken FIFA's control over the two-year, multimillion dollar global lobbying contest. FIFA vice-president Chung Mong-Joon of South Korea told The Associated Press on Thursday he expected a "constructive and productive" meeting.—Internet

No room for sentiment as old boys down Lyon

PARIS, 29 Oct — Goals by former Lyon stars Mathieu Bodmer and Ludovic Giuly saw Paris Saint Germain come from behind and defeat Lyon 2-1 after extra-time handing them a place in the League Cup quarter-finals on Wednesday.

Defeat comes at the end of a period when Lyon under coach Claude Puel had reacted well to an ultimatum by president Jean-Michel Aulas after a poor start to the league campaign — they have strung together four wins and a draw in the league and are well placed to reach the knockout stages of the Champions League.

Aulas later said that despite going out of the WASHINGTON, 29 Oct — Jim Courier was on Wednesday named as the new captain of the USA's Davis Cup team, the American tennis federation (USTA) announced. Courier, who helped the USA to two Davis Cup titles as a player in 1992 and 1995, replaces 2007-winning captain Patrick McEnroe, who stood down in September after a record ten year tenure in the post.

Courier told the USTA's official website: "It's something that I certainly aspired to. I definitely thought that being the captain would be something that I'd enjoy, and now I get to see if I will." The two-time Australian Open and French Open champion's appointment was warmly received by among others Andy Roddick and Andre Agassi. Roddick tweeted: "Jim Courier new Davis Cup captain.... great choice!"

Russia, Ukraine fail to agree new gas deal

KIEV, 29 Oct — Russia and Ukraine were unable to agree a new gas supply deal sought by the cash-strapped Ukrainian Government on Wednesday, leaving the threat of a new year gas war hanging in the air. In January 2009, a pricing row between Moscow and Kiev resulted in a stoppage of Russian gas flows to Europe for about two weeks, tarnishing Russia's image as a reliable exporter and spurring a European quest for new suppliers.

The two ex-Soviet nations will continue gas talks, senior Russian officials said on a visit to Kiev on Wednesday, indicating Moscow continues to seek control over Ukraine's transit pipelines as a condition of a price discount.

Ukraine depends heavily on imports of Russian gas, governed by a 10-year deal struck in 2009. But Kiev, which transships 80 percent of Russian Gazprom's gas bound for Europe, says the current agreement is unacceptable.

Kayah State achieving bumper harvests of crops

Byline & Photos: Tin Win Lay (Kyimyindine)

On our second-time trip to Kayah State, we noticed that the region had developed a lot. Kayah State does not have much sown acreage of crops, but it has enjoyed food security now. Kayah State has an area of 2,898,921 acres, 175,138 acres of which are arable lands, accounting for only 6.04 per cent of the total area of the state. Kayah State grows 102,400 acres of paddy, 9730 acres of summer paddy and other crops.

Kayah State is constituted with eight townships and 75 village-tracts with a population of over 300,000. Its local people enjoys food security.

Manager U Hla Myint Aung of Kayah

State Myanmar Agriculture Service told the Myanmar Alin, "We aim to help farmers boost their agricultural production. To crease per acre yields of crops, we supply more and more quality strains of crops every year. In addition, we get right up to fields and educate farmers about scientific methods."
