Hand down traditional cultural heritage to new generations

All-round preparatory tasks are being undertaken for holding the 18th Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions on a grand scale. Under the leadership and assistance of the State, outstanding artistes will be awarded handsome prizes with the help of contributions made by wellwishers.

At present, Myanmar traditional culture is being affected by alien culture through globalization. As economic relations improve, relationships among the countries and nationals are promoting rapidly. In the global village, cultural traditions and customs of any country can be dominated and destroyed easily.

Thus, all the people of Myanmar are to adore own culture as they are polite people. They are to uplift national prestige and integrity. If they are weak in preservation of traditional culture, the nation and race will disappear immediately.

As part of effort to preserve and uplift the Myanmar traditional culture, the government has been holding the Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions yearly. This year, the competitions will be 18th time of its kind to be held in Nay Pyi Taw. Therefore, respective work committee and subcommittees are making necessary preparations for the competitions.

In the successive eras of Myanmar traditional culture, Myanmar people created poems and verses. Myanmar theatrical drama troupes and marionette troupes presented artistic works of songs and dramas with characters of national culture.

Preservation of national culture is bounden duty for all citizens. Myanmar culture is standing tall among global countries for many years. While taking part in the competitions with presentation of artistic works in innovation, the artistes are to hand down traditional cultural heritage to new generations.

14 dead as Kabul siege ends

KABUL, 14 Sept—Officials raised the death toll in a 19-hour siege in Kabul to 14 Wednesday as the Afghan government announced the violence had come to an end with the killing of two militants.

The attacks started Tuesday but dragged into a second day as armed men remained holed up in a high-rise construction site overlooking the US embassy and the headquarters of the NATO-led International Security Assistance Force (ISAF).

Lieutenant Colonel

Jimmie Cummings, an ISAF spokesman, said: "Nineteen (were) wounded, 11 killed, which includes three children." Cummings told AFP the dead were all civilians.

Interior ministry spokesman Siddiq Siddiqui previously said that three police were also killed, taking the overall toll to 14.

Cummings added: "We also have six (ISAF troops) wounded in action since yesterday."

"Three of them were US which happened during the main engagement off the ISAF compound... the other three were in support during clearing (of the main building.)"

The death toll covered the main attack plus several much smaller related ones which took place elsewhere in Kabul Tuesday.

Siddiqui said the siege, which has raised fresh serious questions about security in Kabul, was now over.

Bus-train crash kills 11, injures 212 in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, 14 Sept—A bus driver gambled and tried to rush across railroad tracks Tuesday despite a barrier, bells and flashing lights, setting off a chain-reaction collision with two trains that killed 11 people and injured hundreds in Argentina's Capital.

The shocking accident, captured on video, came as little surprise to many in Buenos Aires, where 440 people and 165 vehicles were hit by trains last year, causing a total of 269 deaths.

In the latest accident, the bus got halfway across the first track before an oncoming passenger train crushed it against a concrete station platform. The collision forced the train's first two cars off the rails and into another locomotive that was leaving the station in the other direction.

The bus driver was among those killed, and 212 were injured, including about 20 people in critical condition, said Alberto Crescenti, director-general of Argentina's emergency medical system. Nine people died at the scene, police said, and two others in hospitals, according to the city's health ministry.

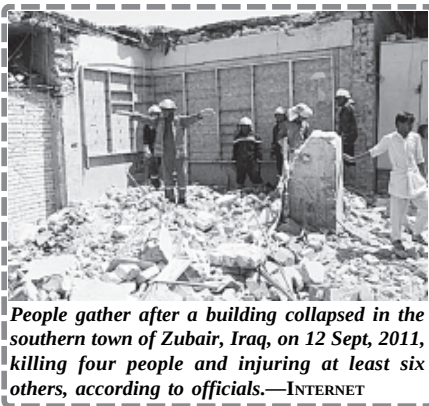

The engineer in the train that hit the bus was trapped in the crumpled metal, and rescuers had to break his leg to get him out. He also broke a hip and his chest was crushed, though he is expected to survive, union leader Omar Maturano told The Associated Press. The other train's engineer was operated on for a foot injury. Maturano blamed "how we are as Argentines, that we immediately lift the barriers and cross despite flashing warning signals."

Driver blamed for Indian train crash, nine dead

NEW DELHI, 14 Sept—Indian railway officials blamed driver error for a late-night collision between two passenger trains that killed nine people and injured more than 80.

Tuesday's crash saw a speeding train ram into a stationary one at a station near Arakkonam, about 55 miles (90 kilometres) from Chennai, in the southern State of Tamil Nadu.

Emergency teams worked Wednesday to clear the crash site, where five coaches were derailed in the impact.

Southern Railway general manager Deepak Krishnan said initial investigations suggested the driver of the moving train, who survived the crash, had ignored speed restrictions and signal lights.

"Normally the previous signal would be danger (red). But apparently the... train driver has not adhered to the signal," Krishnan told the Press Trust of India news agency. India's creaking state-run railway system — still the main form of long-distance travel despite fierce competition from private airlines — carries 18.5 million people every day.—Internet

In retrospect, it can be seen that Myanmar society was far from the democratic practices. At present, a constitution that guarantees fundamental rights of citizens, democracy rights and human rights has been approved. In democracy, the minority follows the sentiment of the majority whereas the majority pays respects to the minority so as to realize the peace and development by modernizing the human society. Democracy culture creates unity in the human society and development. In democracy system, it should pay respects to all individuals, and to the dignity of foreign policy. He explained that the Hluttaw was responsible for legislation as main task. It is necessary to review existing laws and the laws to be promulgated through the democracy point of view. The convening Hluttaw is making preparation for amending the old laws. He pointed out that the Hluttaw representatives are responsible for protection of fundamental rights of citizens as main task. With a view to flourishing the democratization process in Myanmar, a plan has been set to observe the International Day of Democracy on 15-9-2011. The UN has set Millennium Development Goals for every nation to practice and adjust democracy, human rights and laws. The Hluttaw emphasized not only the voice of the representatives in the Hluttaw but also voice of political parties that were not in the Hluttaw and voice of the people. People's voice is the voice of Hluttaw, and the Hluttaw is to implement the aspirations of the people. Only Pyidaungsu Hluttaw has rights to submit the bills. There are three types of bills namely budget bill, national planning bill and tax bill. According to the constitution, executive, legislative and judicial powers are shared as much as possible. The Hluttaw has responsibilities not only for legislative task but also for check and balance between judicial and executive tasks. If the government submits the State budget to the Hluttaw, it will be approved after having scrutinized by auditors and experts. After approving it, field trips were made to check whether the budget was spent effectively or not.

He continued his clarification on committees formed at the Hluttaw. The National Races Affairs and Internal Peace Making Committee can give necessary suggestions to the government. The Citizens', Fundamental Rights, Democracy and Human Rights Committee safeguards the responsibility to protect transparency, democracy and human rights with regard to the election. Government's Guarantees, Pledges and Undertakings Vetting Committee is responsible for scrutinizing whether the government solves the queries of the Hluttaw representatives or not. The National Planning, Economic, Monetary and Tax Committee is to scrutiny whether projects and taxation of the government would serve the interests of the people or not. The Education, Health and Culture Committee is responsible to scrutinize the endeavours of the government on the process from the budget proposal to the implementation of the tasks. The Public Complaint and Appeal Committee is responsible to realize the complaints and appeals of the people and solve the problems between the people and the government. The Farmers and Internal and Overseas Workers Committee is to solve rights of farmers and workers.

In meeting with Union Minister for Border Affairs Lt-Gen Thein Htay, Mr Derek Mitchell said the US is trying to improve relations with Myanmar; he wanted to make suggestions on some reforms; regarding national reconciliation, seeking peace and tranquility in political means through talks between political forces and national races was considered to be fundamental; he believed Myanmar is striving for national reconciliation as talks with political forces were seen; Myanmar needs adjusting with international community prioritizing human rights; releasing political prisoners is to be considered deeply; and the world is watching reforms in Myanmar and wants to help realize genuine reforms.

The Union Minister discussed that tackling human rights issues needs uncovering root causes; some cases are not human right abuses, but human right disorder; weaknesses in education, social status, security and the rule of law in remote and lagged border regions with poor transportation are the reasons for human right disorders; regions with less development are designated as special development zones and economic and social infrastructures are developed as well as road transportation with a view to regional development; development comes together with improvement in economic, socioal and education status; that would improve the rule of law and leave no room for human right disorder cases; transportation, agriculture, breeding, education and healthcare works are being carried out for regional development and human resources development of border regions with peace restored with the use of State budget; similarly, erecting houses and schools, and providing healthcare and food are also carried out in cooperation with UN agencies, international government organizations, international non-government organizations; for development and tranquility of Myainggyingyu region of Kayin State, roads were constructed, houses were built, rice and oil were provided, lands were reclaimed for agricultural purposes, small enterprises were established for creating job opportunities for villagers who returned from refugee camps on Thai border with the fund of the State; the government is showing genuine goodwill, keeping peace door open for national race armed groups, for whom the Constitution is still unacceptable, in the interest of the State and national race people; while the mutual agreement with the Kachin national race armed group was almost reached, UNFC, leading all national races armed groups, asked for simultaneous peace as an political inspiration, deteriorating into current situation; But 'Wa' Special Region Group (2) and Mongla Special Region Group (4) had signed initial peace deals; disputes with political forces inside the country who still disapprove the Constitution and holding different views are to be settled; the government is realizing Good Governance and Clean Government; and it is under consideration to seek ways to resolve the issue of holding different opinions in regard to political prisoners.

Mr Derek Mitchell expressed his thanks for the chance to exchange views and said that some facts are to be discussed again as it was the first meeting; developments will be obtained through constant relations; he viewed the situation positive; US would welcome genuine undertakings and positive developments of Myanmar government; and predictability and transparency are expected from the government.

While meeting with Union Minister for Foreign Affairs U Wunna Maung Lwin, Mr Derek Mitchell said that it was the first visit to Myanmar in his new post; he is tasked specifically to deal with US-Myanmar relations, to hold frank and open consultations with Myanmar side and to seek ways to boost bilateral relations; and the US government watched developments in Myanmar closely to improve relations with Myanmar during previous months. The Union Minister said that both sides have common aspiration to improve bilateral relations and continue engagement; the visiting representative is hoped to bring about constructive impact on mutual cooperation; there were positive developments between the two governments after the new government had held office; the meetings with government officials, and stakeholders of respective fields would allow the visiting representative to understand realities and developments in positive ways; in 2012, Myanmar would assume responsibility as coordinator for ASEAN-American Consultation; support and cooperation from US side is expected; in President's 30 May inaugural address to Pyidaungsu Hluttaw, independent, dynamic and non-aligned foreign policy based on the Five Principles of Peaceful Coexistence will continue to be practised; Myanmar would develop amicable relations with all nations and participate in international and regional organizations including the United Nations; the foreign policy is most appropriate one for Myanmar and have been practised for decades.

Mr Derek Mitchell said that the President's inaugural address is interesting; the world is watching how development goals and political objectives will be translated into reality; development would be reacted; 25-mile travel restriction was lifted for Myanmar delegates who would attend this year's United Nations General Assembly; and the US side is to go forward step by step. The Union Minister replied that significant developments in national reconciliation have come about; solid foundation for development and tranquility of the State have been formed; it is targeted to develop a broader and more open democracy society after realizing developments within five months of democracy.

Mr Derek Mitchell discussed that National Human Rights Commission was formed recently in Myanmar; if the commission is mandated to deal with human rights issues in non-partisan position with transparency and accountability, it will support the national reconciliation process. The Union Minister replied that Myanmar National Human Rights Commission is an independent body which would report directly to the President if there is complaint of human rights abuses; Myanmar constantly cooperate with UN Security Council; the Constitution states clearly to protect fundamental rights of the people; promotion and protection of human rights will be carried openly; and the country is striving to realize a democratic society.

Union Minister for Information and for Culture U Kyaw Hsan said in meeting with the special representative and policy coordinator for Myanmar, that the Union government has a desire for promoting Myanmar-US relations; that he hoped that today's discussion would provide applicable means to boost mutual understanding and ties as the special representative was an important personnel for bilateral relations; that the politics of Myanmar is changing not only in form but in essence and as such time, the two parties should hold discussions often to promote mutual understanding; that two nations may hold different views but may also share the same views and that they should cooperate practically in the field of common interests and vest the vow to do so would not work; that he assumed that Washington's policy towards Myanmar should be fairer based on the truth; that US's responses against Myanmar should not be based only on information obtained from anti-government groups but also on truth and objective situations of Myanmar; that US double standard policy of direct engagement and pressures towards Myanmar would not benefit the bilateral relations because pressure begets resistance and it is the law of nature to seek external assistance for resistance having much pressured; that he assumed that US's one-sided economic sanction against Myanmar is the major deterrence towards promotion of bilateral relations and he believed that economic sanction would not lead to fruitful results but practical cooperation can; that with or without US's sanction against Myanmar, the Union government would anyway continue marching towards its goal of democratization, promotion of human rights, national reconsolidation and development; that US would also desire for success of such programmes as the two nations can be said to have the same objective and that such objectives can be achieved in no time if US would be willing to cooperate; that overall conditions of Myanmar had changed notably in comparison with the times of US's adoption of sanction against Myanmar; that he assumed that the sanction would not contribute to

of Myanmar were proved to be real and tangible, not only US but also other nations would support Myanmar; that the bilateral relations would depend on reforms of the aforesaid four points mentioned by the Union minister.

The Union minister replied that ways of pursuing the four-point objectives may differ between the two governments but the Union government is vowed to accomplish those objectives on its own; that discussions are underway to cooperate in the field of common interests for national reconsolidation and those who are centralization are being revoked; that the Amyotha Hluttaw had confirmed labour organization law with a view to emergence of labour union in conformity with the constitution of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar and ILO Convention No (87); that transformation from the policy of giving priority to nation-building and defence in the past to current practical social welfare programmes such as poverty alleviation schemes, increase of pension rates, tax cuts, invitation to those with different beliefs who have gone to abroad to come back, open request for domestic peace, signing agreements with national races armed groups, decision to sign conventions on human rights, formation of independent human rights commission were firm evidences that Myanmar was in the process of democratization; and that Mr Derek Mitchell would also know that the President received Daw Aung San Suu Kyi on 19-8-2011.

Mr Derek Mitchell said that he acknowledged the progress of Myanmar and that Myanmar, in coordination with ILO, could draw labour law in accordance with international norms; that formation of national-level human rights commission was also a positive factor; that he understood that Rome cannot be built in a day and that it takes time to produce tangible results for national interests; that implementation for stability, peace and development of the nation as the President had said, was for interests of Myanmar and its nationalities; that he would like to discuss release of about 2000 prisoners; that patience was needed to build fair bilateral relations through peace talks with national races, and dialogue with Daw Aung San Suu Kyi; that he would like to suggest that national interests should be promoted with same views through continued multilateral discussions, normal discussions for genuine national reconsolidation and he said that he would like to know differences between the recent dialogue with Daw Aung San Suu Kyi and several previous ones and her role in future Myanmar.

The Union Minister replied that common ground could be found in the previous nine dialogues and the recent dialogue could lead to common goal in short time; that the Union government would assist in her steps and vice versa and thus mutual cooperation would eliminate all the major obstacles in the future.

Mr Derek Mitchell then said that he recognized that Hluttaw would pass the labour law soon and would report what he saw and heard on the ground when he was back in Washington; that he hoped that the Union government would find a resolution for formation of labour unions, and national races affairs; that he accepted that actual progress he had seen in Nay Pyi Taw were much different from what he had heard before; that they were taking initial steps and there were some discussions at Congress; and that US would take further steps and he would also try to visit Myanmar regularly.—MNA abroad had been invited to come back; that the Union government had invited national races armed groups to hold peace talks and currently had signed state-level pre-peace agreement with Wa and Mongla groups; that they would hold talks with pacification group to be formed by the Union government and the Union government would make concessions as much as it can without violating the constitution so as to build peace; that remarkable reforms were also under way to promotion of human rights and national development; that instead of watching the reforms, US's practical cooperation would be more appropriate and beneficial.

In response, Mr Derek Mitchell said that they would not only monitor the reforms of Myanmar but also seek means to establish mutually beneficial relations and that US would continue contacts with Myanmar through US Embassy in Myanmar.

Union Minister for Labour and for Social Welfare, Relief and Resettlement U Aung Kyi, in meeting with Mr Derek Mitchell, said that he wished Mr Derek Mitchell would notice that the new government, within five-month period since its assumption of State's responsibility, had made necessary reforms for the interests of the nation and the whole public; that division of three sovereign powers is distinct; that some laws concerned with the Southern California storms cause flooding, fires

LOS ANGELES, 14 Sept— Late summer storms dumped heavy rain, lightning and even hail to parts of Southern California on Tuesday, prompting flash flood warnings in some areas. In the Los Padres National Forest, three US Forest Service firefighters were injured when lightning struck about 50 feet away from where they were standing near the border of Kern and Ventura counties, forest spokes-man Andrew Madsen told the Los Angeles Times.

"They were knocked off their feet," Madsen said.

The firefighters were disoriented and com-plained of ringing in their ears. One firefighter was held overnight at a hospital for observation and the other two were released, according to a National Weather Service statement.

Flash flood warnings were issued for parts of Los Angeles, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties Tuesday because heavy rainfall exceeded 2 inches per hour in some areas, the weather service said. In Joshua Tree National Park, torrential rains caused widespread flash flooding in the park's Pinto Basin and Cottonwood Spring areas, park spokesman Joe Zarki said.

Union Minister for Border Affairs and for Myanma Industrial Development Lt-Gen Thein Htay replied two questions of two Hluttaw representatives.

U Aung Thein Lin of South Okkalapa Constituency in his question said that it is found that Ministry of Myanmar Industrial Development was constituted in the Union Government, asking that how the ministry will take role in economic development of Myanmar, which industries will be put into service, what kind of benefits will come to Myanmar citizens, and what effect on State-run and private-run industries will be seen. In response, the Union Minister said that the Ministry of Myanmar Industrial Development was formed in order to deal with technology development, capital of industry, energy demand and need for industrial raw material, to bring about national economic development in private and public sectors in accord with market-oriented system practised by the State. The ministry is taking measures for development of technology based industry and knowledge based industry to form three industrial development sectors, namely National Mechanical Industry Complex, National Electronic Industry Complex and National Aviation and Aerospace Industry Complex as particular zones. The main purpose of the ministry is not for Consumer goods Industry but for Capital goods Industry and emergence of national economic development force by building source industry (or) mother industry that can create industries, machines essential for economic development of Myanmar.

Regarding to the Ayeyawady Myitsone hydropower Project, the project is the important energy project for the economic development of the State as it can be able to generate about 18,000 MW. To generate the equal capacity of electricity, it is necessary to build about 20 nuclear reactors. One nuclear reactor costs about US$ 1 billion and it is required to spend about US$20 billion to generate the equal capacity of electricity. Even if we can afford the cost, it would have time and political limitations to build the nuclear reactors. Today, in the world, to shut down nuclear reactors for safety concerns is under consideration.

Hydel power is the renewable energy and the world has welcomed it as it is also a green energy. The hydropower plant would use only about seven per cent of the water of the Ayeyawady River and there is no point to worry over the damage of the river. Systematic assessment was carried out on the project. It is required to draw separate plans to conserve the Ayeyawady River and the plans have already been made. Myanmar has a population of over 60 million, and though they rely on natural resources and agriculture, it is necessary to encourage the development of the industrial sector for the development of the country and for its economic development. As the electricity is a must for building an industrial nation, hydropower projects are being implemented.

Taking economic development lessons from Japan, South Korea and China and considering objective condition of the country, trends of ASEAN member countries and future global industries, procedures and objectives beneficial to next generations and future Myanmar Industrial and technology development have been laid down.

Ministry of Myanmar Industrial Development took a time to adopt Plan of Action by observing hundreds of industries for international objective condition. It is needed to take measures for capital investment, human resource development, construction works by adopting decade plan. As national economic development procedure is a gigantic one, it is required to cooperate and coordinate measures, namely State-owned, private-owned, public-owned, joint venture and foreign investment sectors.

The goal of the Ministry of Myanmar Industrial Development is to build Mother Industry and to encourage the capital goods industry such as factories, production lines and producing machinery so that the State can encourage the private and public industries. Meanwhile, the ministry sets its ultimate goal for socio-economic development of the people by creating job opportunities for Myanmar nationals including engineers, intellectuals and intelligentsia, economic experts, managers, skillful workers and labourers who have made sacrifices and worked in foreign countries so that they can have job opportunities at home and can have opportunities to explore and use the natural resources of the country without relying on foreign countries.

Afterwards, Dr. Khin Maung Swe of Kyaukdaga Constituency asked whether the State had a plan to repair the about eight mile and four furlong long Kyaukdaga-Innpatle Road and one bridge on it which had been damaged by the trucks used for the Yangon-Mandalay Expressway project to carry earth and stones.

The Union minister replied that the road linking a village and a town was constructed in 1962 and it is an all-weather road. A plan has been made to carry out road works on the earth road and to repair the drains on both sides of the road at the cost of K47.5 million : K 7.5 million funded by the Development Affairs Department (Head Office) and K 40 million by Kyaukdaga Township Development Affairs Committee in the 2011-2012 fiscal year. To upgrade the road to the gravel one and to build wooden bridges on it, Kyaukdaga Township DAC would carry out the tasks year by year depending on its funds.

U Ye Tun (a) U Min Tun of Hsipaw constituency asked whether the Ministry of Energy had a plan to ensure transparency of compensation to farmers when responsible personnel and a Chinese company had reached an agreement to pay compensation to farmers for laying pipelines on their fields from Kyaukpyu in Rakhine State to China-Myanmar border in Shan State to carry natural gas and crude oil.

Union Minister for Energy U Than Htay replied to be able to use the land at lease, two pipelines will be laid only on 30 meter wide land and committees for land use and compensation for damage of crops comprise personnel from Ministry of Energy, General Administration Departments, Settlement and Land Records Departments, Myanmar Agriculture Service in respective regions where pipelines were laid, townswelders and representatives from the Chinese company and they are making assessment and working to use the land at least in cooperation with the local people.

For permanent land confiscation, owners receive compensatory payment evaluated for five years depending on crop price, per-acre yield or one-plant production rate, damaged acre (or) number of damaged plants and age of trees. For temporary land confiscation, owners receive compensatory payment for one year for seasonal crops and for three years for gardens. Myanmar-China Oil and Natural Gas Pipeline Project has paid compensation of K 1,500,642,383.12 and US$ 550,000 to respective owners. For remaining lands, owners will receive land replacement and will be compensated. The amount of compensatory payment will be different in regard to the class and yield of the land under land compensation rules and regulations.

The operation date is often set definitely between sellers and purchasers or between pipeline company and those who will operate the pipeline and the side who fails to complete the task in the set date has to compensate the other side in contracts of oil and gas transportation and selling through pipelines. It is vital important for both sides to meet the deadline with least disturbances, barriers and difficulties. According to said situations or land and crop compensation rules and regulation, it is systematically designed to prevent loss of public interest and to proceed with the consent of the owners. It is going off well till now. Detailed press statement will be released after consideration of opportune time and situation.

Union Minister for Transport U Nyan Tun Aung answered two questions raised by two Hluttaw Representatives.

It is not needed to transform the airway of Manaung (Samonete) Airport into the one with 4000-foot airway as it is only 36 miles far from Kyaukpyu Airport; and the ministry has a plan to run small aeroplanes at short runways of airfields according to the numbers of passengers, if necessary for development of the border areas, answered the Union Minister.

Unlike the old programme, it is the new one that the nine training schools announce results soon after the trainees have passed the respective schools. Besides, for more job opportunities of seafarers, the ministry holds discussions with shipping companies once a month, including granting the nine schools to launch marine training courses and arranging the questions for the trainees to pass without any difficulties, answered the Union Minister.

Afterwards, in the sector of concentrating the motion submitted by U Thein Swe of An Constituency on 12 September, that it intends to systematically implement river waterways management task for Ayeyawady and Chindwin Rivers, was approved by U Aye of Homalin Constituency, U Win Myint of Pyay Constituency, U Kyaw Win of Kangyidaunt Constituency, U Sai Kyaw Myint of Mongnai Constituency, U Myo Swe of Tanai Constituency because the two rivers need to be maintained as they are the mains of the country.

The water volume was 38 per cent of rain-fall inflow water volume of the whole country, and the remaining water volume 62 per cent; 36 million cubic feet had gone into the air and sunk through the ground. Directorate of Water Resources and Improvement of River Systems was established on 9 April 1999 so as to carry out river management tasks, and it is now working the tasks with totaling 86 vessels and machinery. In 2011-2012 fiscal year, totalling amount will be at estimated cost of K 773.8 million—K 600.1 million for five tasks and K 173.8 million for five tasks for bank erosions. Although there are arrangements like that, there is still need. Therefore, research is being made by collecting informations about conditions of the rivers, dissolving the recent programmes for repairing in Ayeyawady and Chindwin Rivers.

The maintenance for waterway tasks to be enough depth of water in Ayeyawady River is at estimated cost of K 47904.87 million and for Chindwin River, K 18445.82 million. Village Act (5) stated that "The Deputy Commissioner may declare that any local area shall be a village tract and, when necessary, may determine the limits of any village tract."

When 1974 Constitution came into effect, Article 40 stated that "The Council of Ministers may constitute or reconstitute villages, village-tracts, wards, towns and townships within a State or Divisions, as the need arises, in constitution with the People's Councils concerned."

In the time of the State Peace and Development Council, the report have to be presented to the State Peace and Development Council through State/Division PDCs in accord with attitudes of SPDCs concerned, giving reason in detail based on economic, social, management and transport situations when the need to constitute or reconstitute villages, village-tracts, wards and townships arises. When the SPDC gave a green light to reconstitute, state/division General Administration Departments are to construct the case in accord with the procedures and present to General Administration Department (Head Office), the Ministry of Home Affairs and the government.

Section 53 (a) of the State Constitution stated that if there arises a cause to redelinate the territorial boundary of a Region or State, the prior consent of the electorate residing within the township concerned shall be obtained.

Section 54 of the State Constitution stated that when there arises a situation to alter or form the territorial boundary or change the name of a village, village-tract, ward, town, township or district of a Region, State, Self-Administered Division or Self-Administered Zone concerned, the President shall act as necessary, upon the recommendation of the Chief Minister of the Region or State concerned. The Ministry of Home Affairs issues announcement for reconstitution of towns, villages under the decision of the Union Government in accord with the support of the President.

There were tasks to feed them accordingly since then.

K 1 each for cost of meals for inmates was allotted from the expenditure by the State. After 1973, the demand was increased in the demand for cost of meals for inmates due to hiking price of commodities. The State allowed K 1.5 from 1-5-1973 to 31-3-1977, K 2.5 from 1-4-1977 to 14-7-1987, K 5 from 15-7-1989 to 31-3-2004 and K 30 from 1-4-2004 to date.

The rate K 30 per meal is inadequate due to present commodity price. Under the arrangements of respective region and state police forces, foodstuffs are sold at fair price and rice, meat, fish and vegetables produced by police members at special prices for reducing the cost of meals.

After receiving the approval from the President Office, application must be submitted to the Union government office in line with the prescribed rules and (See page 11)

Union Minister for Health Dr Pe Thet Khin replied to the questions raised by three Hluttaw representatives.

Dr Tin Shwe of Yangon Region Constituency No. 6 asked whether there is a plan to produce Myanmar traditional medicines to cure six common diseases namely TB, malaria, diabetes, diarrhoea, dysentery and hypertension; he said that he has found illegal imported medicines, foodstuffs and juices in the market without permission of the Ministry of Commerce and recommendation and inspection of Food and Drug Administration of the Ministry of Health; and he would like to know how will protect against the dangerous medicines, foodstuff and juices harming the health of people. The Union Minister replied that two pharmaceutical factories of the Traditional Medicine Department under the Ministry of Health is producing traditional medicines for malaria, diabetes, diarrhoea, dysentery and hypertension, and one more traditional medicine is under test to produce TB disease.

Traditional Medicine Department and three Medical Research Departments under the ministry are making collaborative efforts in conducting traditional medicine research for production of medicines to cure six common diseases, and best prospects have been achieved.

The legally imported medicines must be put on registration number on their labels by taking registration in line with the National Drug Law. The Ministry of Health regularly checks registration and quality of the medicines in the market.

Food and Drug Administration Committee of States and Regions inspect the pharmaceutical shops, and if they find illegally imported medicines, action will be taken against the illegal importers and sellers. Announcements on illegal and fake medicines have been inserted into the newspapers as public warning. The ministry regularly checks quality of illegally imported foodstuffs and juices from the market according to the National Food Law. The ministry also inspects illegal medicines and foodstuffs sent by customs departments from the border areas and action is taken against the offenders.

U Khin Maung (a) U Aung Kyaw Oo of Rakhine State Constituency No. 3 said that as there is no modern diagnostic machine for cardiologist and liver specialist and other specialists to check the diseases at Sittway General Hospital, intensive patients receive medical treatment in hospitals of Yangon by spending a large sum of money. He asked whether there is a plan to provide modern diagnostic machine for specialists to Sittway General Hospital. The Union Minister replied that duties are assigned to one medical superintendent, one assistant medical superintendent, four senior specialists (medical education, surgery, child and orthopaedic), five specialists (OG, eye/ear, nose, throat, X-ray and pathology), five assistant surgeons (child, surgery, OG, anesthetic, orthopaedic), 13 assistant surgeons and one dentist at Sittway General Hospital. If it is necessary at work, specialists and assistant surgeons will be appointed in the vacancies.

He added that cardiology department and hepatitis department are only constituted in Yangon People's Hospital and Mandalay People's Hospital and are not included in region/state level hospitals like Sittway People's Hospital and thus currently there is no plan to furnish the hospital with modern equipment that can be used in such departments.

In his response to question of U Hla Soe of Tanintharyi Region Constituency No (9) about "whether there is a plan to upgrade 50-bed Pulaw Township People's Hospital to a 100-bed one, and when it will be upgraded, saying that the hospital was upgraded to 50-bed health care facility on 31, July 2002, following the population growth of the township, the number of patients have increased and the current wards of the hospital cannot cope with increasing number of patients", the Union minister replied that 50-bed township hospital, five 16-bed station hospitals namely Pala Station Hospital, Palauk Station Hospital, Maligyun Station Hospital, Pyinbugyi Station Hospital and Kyaukka Station Hospital, one maternal and child health care centre, one urban health care centre, six rural health centers and 15 sub rural health care centers in the township are providing health care services for the public.

He continued that 5-bed Pulaw Township Hospital is constituted with 74 staff including six doctors, one dentist and 14 nurses; that currently, according to organizational set-up of the hospital, there is no vacancy of doctor, nurse and skilled staff and plans are under way to fill the vacancies of 37 general staff.

Chairman of Bill Committee U Mya Nyein submitted microcredit unions bill of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar ratified and sent by Pyithu Hluttaw to Amyotha Hluttaw along with report of the Bill Committee for consideration of Amyotha Hluttaw. The Hluttaw announced that representing wishing to discuss the bill may register by 20, September 2011.

Next, Secretary of Bill Committee U San Tun submitted bill amending the Pyithu Hluttaw Election Rules ratified and sent by Pyithu Hluttaw to Amyotha Hluttaw along with the report of the Bill Committee for consideration of Amyotha Hluttaw. The Hluttaw announced that representatives wishing to discuss the bill may register by 20, September, 2011.

Hluttaw representatives U Shu Maung, U Tin Maung Win, U Hla Thein, Daw Nan Ni Ni Aye, U Ye Myint, U Sai Win Maung, and U Pe Thauang discussed the proposal submitted by U Aung Nyein of Magway Region Constituency No.2 "urging the Union government to ensure that every level of government staff are working in accord with the law to guarantee the peace and stability and security for the people" that combination of good governance and clean government would lead to success in building modern, developed, democratic nation; that different level of government staff are to place emphasize on emergence of good governance; that the President has articulated his directives and the Union government is already putting it in to practice; and that personnel at different levels are taking initial steps within legal framework.

Deputy Minister for Home Affairs Brig-Gen Kyaw Zan Myint clarified that personnel at different levels are observing the laws, rules and instructions prescribed by the State for the emergence of good governance and clean government as directed by the President; that in doing so, besides basic principles, procedures and ethics that the staff have to follow, separate order and directives are issued and respective ministries are taking measures for strict enforcement of regulations; that the Ministry of Home Affairs have publicly announced in Myanma Alin daily issued on 9, November, 2006 that any one who is not satisfied with services of government staff or finds malpractice of them may complain directly to the ministry to ensure that the public do not suffer losses.

The Union government has enforced code of ethics for staff on government staff, meanwhile, it has also mobilized the staff to follow rules and regulations by discussing, conducting talks and distributing of publications about civil rules and regulations such as "not to oppress the public and not to detain the public unfairly" described in United Nations' declaration.

Complaints and petitions are generally the results of self-experiences and hearing of losses caused by corruption, malpractice, misuse of power, bullying, bribery, etc of some unethical staff; that some complaints and petitions prove the incomplete knowledge about the law of some people and some are intentionally made up to defame the government and personnel and staff.

He continued that that the findings of Public Complaint and Petition Committee that says "complaints and petitions are mainly concerned with the cases between government departments and the people" is the conclusion based on the small amount of complaints received in short period; that however, complaints and petitions are the results of the personal weakness of some staff who have failed to observe existing laws, procedures, orders and instructions issued by the State; that each government department is to collaboratively find out and take actions against unethical staff.

Regarding complaints and petitions for disputes between government departments and the public, Institutions safeguarding the law like Union government and ministries share the same feelings with the parties concerned and are scrutinizing complaints and petitions and taking punitive actions against the staff that misuse power; that each individual needs to be able to differentiate right from wrong and should mend his way if he is wrong and has fine national character, which is basic need for emergence of good governance and clean government; that to it is the responsibility of the government and the people for propagation of such fine traditions.

The President has formed 15-member National Human Rights Commission of Myanmar on 5, September, 2001, so as to effectively promote and safeguard fundamental rights of citizens enshrined in the constitution for ensuring peaceful and secure living of the public in legal framework and the Union government is placing emphasis on this issue in accord with the directives of the President.

Based on the assessment of discussions of Hluttaw representatives, the proposal to urge the government was changed into question and discussions and answers about the proposal were recorded as it is distinct that Ministry of Home Affairs and the government are making strenuous efforts for works mentioned in the proposal.

Hluttaw representative Dr Myint Kyi discussed the proposal of U Phone Myint Aung of Yangon Constituency No (3) about "urging the government to assign safety officers for prevention against accidents" which was submitted at yesterday's session, saying that there are already laws and procedures for prevention against accidents, but people encounter accidents just because they fail to follow such laws and procedures in practical as they have only poor understanding about them and that people should try to understand laws and procedures.

The Hluttaw decided to discuss it later as the proposal needs participation of the whole public and cannot be solved by the Home Ministry alone.

The 18th day second regular session of the First Amyotha Hluttaw came to an end at 3.55 pm and the 19th day second regular session continues at 10 am tomorrow.

At today's session, Union ministers answered ten questions raised by Hluttaw representatives, submitted two bills and changed one of two proposals submitted yesterday into question and postponed one proposal.—MNA

Researchers find target for treating smoking, alcoholism

WASHINGTON, 14 Sept — An enzyme that appears to play a role in controlling the brain's response to nicotine and alcohol in mice might be a promising target for a drug that simultaneously would treat nicotine addiction and alcohol abuse in people, US researchers find. Over the course of four weeks, mice genetically engineered to lack the gene for protein kinase C (PKC) epsilon consumed less of a nicotine-containing water solution than normal mice, and were less likely to return to a chamber in which they had been given nicotine.

In contrast, normal mice steadily increased their consumption of nicotine solution while the mice lacking PKC epsilon did not. The study conducted by researchers at the Ernest Gallo Clinic and Research Centre, affiliated with the University of California, San Francisco, appeared Monday in the online edition of the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences. In normal mice, as in humans, nicotine binds to a certain class of nicotinic receptors located on dopamine neurons, which causes dopamine to be released in the brain. Dopamine creates a feeling of enjoyment, and thus prompts a sense of reward. Researchers found that mice lacking PKC epsilon are deficient in these nicotinic receptors. The finding complements earlier research in which researchers found that mice genetically engineered to lack the PKC epsilon enzyme drank less alcohol than normal mice and were disinclined to return to a chamber in which they had been given alcohol. — Xinhua

Drug fear keeps depression patient away from doctor

BEIJING, 14 Sept — A fear of taking antidepressants often results in people's reluctance of going to see the doctor when they are suffering from depression, a study find. The finding was published on Monday in the US journal Annals of Family Medicine.

The researchers from the University of California investigated 1,054 adults on why they wouldn't tell the doctors about their depression symptoms, as well as any possible mental disorder.

Honda to recall 310,773 Pilot vehicles in America

CHICAGO, 14 Sept — Japanese automobile manufacturer Honda announced Monday that due to seat belt concern, it will recall 310,773 Pilot vehicles for the 2009-2011 model years in the United States. Honda said in a statement that the stitching connecting the lap section of the front belt to the outboard anchor webbing may be incomplete or missing due to a manufacturing error, so the seat belts may become disconnected and increase the risk of injury.

However, no injuries or deaths have been reported related to this problem. Honda encourages all owners of affected vehicles to take their vehicles to an authorized dealer for free inspection as soon as they receive notification of this recall. The company will issue the written notification to customers in early October.

Newly-found exoplanet could support life: scientists

BEIJING, 14 Sept — Scientists on Monday announced they have found a planet that could potentially support life. Astronomers identified 1,781 planet "candidates" as they peer at a patch of sky covering more than 156,000 stars, in the constellation Cygnus.

Among these, one planet was found in the "Goldilocks zone" — an area which is neither too hot nor too cold for liquid water, the essential factor for Earth-like life. The planet about 36 light-years away from solar system has 3.6 times the mass of Earth, with an estimated temperature ranging from 30 to 50 Celsius, scientist said.

And its star, dubbed HD85512, can be seen in the southern sky in the constellation Vela. "If we are really, really lucky, this planet could be a habitat" like Earth, said Lisa Kaltenegger of the Max Planck Institute for Astronomy in Heidelberg, Germany. Astronomers have previously discovered 564 confirmed alien planets, with roughly 1,200 additional candidate worlds under investigation, according to NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Colombian oil company discovers new well in Meta

BOGOTA, 14 Sept — The Colombian oil company Ecopetrol Monday announced it had discovered a new oil well in the Cano Sur exploration block in the country's southeastern Meta Province.

Ecopetrol said an initial test at the CSE-8 ST exploratory well, located in Meta's town of Puerto Gaitan, resulted in a proven production of 532 barrels of heavy crude oil per day. "Ecopetrol has in the Llanos Orientales Basin seen a great potential in heavy crude oil that is commercially viable for exploitation, and we are very satisfied with the results achieved from this well in its initial tests," said Javier Gutierrez, Ecopetrol's president.

Ecopetrol said the newly discovered well is the most productive among those discovered in Cano Sur so far during 2011. Ecopetrol is the sole owner and operator of the Cano Sur block after signing an exploration contract in 2005 with Colombia's state-controlled National Hydrocarbons Agency.

UNSG's Message on International Day of Democracy

New York, 14 September 2011

This year has been a remarkable one in the history of democracy. Millions of people participated in the dramatic events in the Middle East, North Africa and beyond, and yet more followed with intense interest. Their engagement confirmed that democracy is a universal model yearned for by all peoples and alien to no culture. This year also served as a reminder that democracy cannot be exported or imposed from abroad; it must be generated by the will of the people and nurtured by a strong and active civil society. The world saw the truth of the saying that countries do not become fit for democracy; they become fit through democracy. Young people, above all, brought home this message. They championed the democratic ideal and now face the challenge of working to realize the potential of the transitions they helped to set in motion.

The same truths are borne out by another milestone this year — the 20th anniversary of the massive transformation in Eastern Europe. Many of the region's countries are still in the early stages of their democratic passage. They know the painstaking work involved in building the rule of law, fostering transparency and accountability, and overhauling political and economic systems. They know the setbacks that can disappoint expectations, and the passion needed to keep moving forward. Their experiences provide important lessons.

The United Nations is there to support these efforts. It does more than any other single organization to develop and strengthen democratic institutions and practices around the world. The UN supports free and fair elections, encourages popular participation by civil society, and nurtures dialogue when parties are deadlocked after a disputed vote. It mediates in fragile political situations to prevent conflict, and fosters accountable security institutions after a conflict has ended. It deploys experts to help strengthen the rule of law, develop multi-party structures and build effective, accountable public administration, ombudsman institutions, anti-corruption agencies and gender equality bodies.

In all these endeavours, the UN does not seek to export or promote any particular national or regional model of democracy. It works on the understanding that the democratic ideal is rooted in philosophies and traditions from all parts of the world; that effective democratic governance enhances the quality of life for men and women everywhere; and that democracy provides the foundations for durable peace, security and development.

On this International Day of Democracy, let us redouble our efforts to support all people, in particular the young — the drivers of this year's momentous events — in making democracy a working reality. This Day belongs to them. Let us honour their commitment to a lifelong journey in democracy.

Birth control device cuts cancer risk

CATALONIA, (Spain) 14 Sept.—Intra-uterine devices designed to prevent conception may also protect against cervical cancer, according to a study covering more than 20,000 women that was released on Tuesday.

Introduced in the 1970s, IUDs are today widely used around the world. The T-shaped device, containing either a plastic-and-copper wire or hormones, is placed inside the uterus to prevent pregnancy.

The study, published in the journal The Lancet Oncology, found that women with a history of using IUDs had roughly half the risk of developing cervical cancer compared to women who never used them. Earlier research on IUD found a protection against cancer of the womb lining, but data on cancer of the cervix had been mixed. Xavier Catellsague of L'Hospitalet de Llobregat in Catalonia, Spain and colleagues analysed data from 10 studies on cervical cancer and 16 studies on the prevalence of HPV

Laughter really is the best medicine Health

LONDON, 14 Sept.—A rattling good laugh with friends will help you deal with pain thanks to opiate-like chemicals that flood the brain, according to a British study released on Wednesday. Researchers carried out lab experiments in which volunteers watched either comedy clips from "Mr Bean" or "Friends," or non-humorous items such as golf or wildlife programmes, while their resistance to mild pain was monitored.

Another test was conducted at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival, where the volunteers watched either a stand-up comedy show or a theatrical drama. In lab conditions, the pain came from a deep-frozen wine-cooler sleeve which was slipped onto the arm or from a blood-pressure cuff that was pumped to the threshold of tolerance.

For the Fringe Festival, the volunteers were asked to do a tough

Global stocks fall as euro crisis saps confidence Business

SINGAPORE, 14 Sept.—Asian stocks, US index

markets have been roiled since the end of July by the twin fears of renewed recession in the United States and Europe's protracted debt woes, which have seen Greece, Ireland and Portugal forced to take bailouts and piled bond market pressure on Italy and Spain.

"Some of the European banks may have to recapitalize their balance sheets with government assistance. It's creating a lot of nervousness and uncertainty," said Simon Bonouvrie, portfolio manager at Platypus Asset Management in Sydney.

Oil eased after the International Energy Agency revised down its forecast for growth in consumption due to the struggling global economy.

Underlining the brittle state of confidence in global markets, the dollar rose and the yield on 10-year Japanese government bonds (JGBs) fell below 1 percent as demand for assets perceived as safe havens remained high.

WHO warns of 'alarming rise' in European TB

GENEVA, 14 Sept—The World Health Organization on Wednesday urged Western Europe to be alert against drug-resistant tuberculosis in the wake of an “alarming rise” in the number of cases reported across the region. The WHO hopes its action plan, published Wednesday, will prevent 263,000 cases of multidrug-resistant tuberculosis (MDR-TB) and the more lethal extensively drug-resistant TB (XDR-TB) between 2011 and 2015.

“TB is an old disease that never went away,” said Zsuzsanna Jakab, WHO regional director for Europe.

“Now it is evolving with a vengeance and we have to find new weapons to fight it,” she added, before promising technical support for any member nations who committed to the plan. More than 80,000 new cases of the lung disease are reported each
